RITE OF BAPTISM

Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas' church, conducted a service of Holy Baptism on Sunday, when the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dereau, 50 Queen Street, received the names, Larry Eugene.

Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Coward, Picton. Mr. and Mrs. Devereu entertained informally at their home after the ceremony.

Club 40 Holds Meeting, Plans Church Service

The regular meeting was held by Club 40 at the local YMCA on Monday evening. Minutes of previous meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Mabel Moon. A report on membership found ten new members had been added since the last meeting, with the increase also being felt in the intermediate department.

The craft club held by Club 40 in the Centre Street United Church Sunday School room has found it necessary also to apply for extra time with the girls' meeting on Monday evenings each week and the boys on Thursday evenings, with some meetings as high as 125 children attend.

CHURCH SERVICE PLANNED

A church service is also being planned for Sunday, Nov. 25, at 11 o'clock at the United Church for club members and all who are interested. The service will be conducted by Mr. Bruce W. Besley and Mr. Eddie Schamerhorn, with club members also taking part.

It is also hoped by the club that special arrangements will also be made for its Catholic members to attend Mass.

At the conclusion of the business part of the evening, Miss Ackerman, the director, turned the rest of the evening's entertainment over to Mr. Howard Ackerman, who acted as chairman. Roy Wheatley, another member, played several pieces on the electric guitar, which was enjoyed by all.

Barbara Diment was introduced by the chairman and an enjoyable evening followed.

PROGRAM

"A new Bit of Scotland," by Judy McKnight; soft shoe, Gail Juby; ballet, Gail Hendricks; rhythm tap, Iris Lohnes; ballet, Paddy Jenkinson; "Perky Temps, Iris Lohnes, Judy McKnight, Jackie Cook; Irish Jig, Bobby Brant, Wayne Campbell, Francis Rose, Steven Boyle and Patty Whalen; Sailer's Hornpipe, Shirley Chisholm, Penny Stutchman; baton, Susan Blanchard; "Tea for Two", Janice Bonsky,—Bobby Brant; acrobatics, Iris Lohnes; "Lads and Lassies," a beautiful number by the entire group.

The children entered as a group and were personally thanked by the chairman on behalf of the club who gave them rousing applause for such a delightful evening's entertainment with Mr. Ackerman stating that it was quite wonderful for all who had given of their time after spending the day at school. All were then treated to "coke."

The rest of the evening was spent in carols and games of all kinds. At the conclusion refreshments were served by the ladies of the club.

FULL GOSPEL WMC

FRANKFORD. — The WMC of the Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle held its November meeting last Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. Gerald Curry, Mrs. Curry, vice-president, was in charge of the meeting. Prayer was given by Mrs. Jim Conlon.

Mrs. Curry read the Scripture from Romans 10:12-16 and spoke of Mrs. and Mrs. Percy Crews among the Indians in the Northwest Territories.

Miss M. Forbes gave the secretarial report. A letter was read from the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Sorensen from Argentina, S.A. Work was handed in, prayer bulletin was read and a time of prayer was spent.

A business period followed. The meeting was closed by Mrs. Mary Patrick. A time of fellowship was enjoyed.

MARGARET BRINGS RAIN

NAIROBI Kenya (Reuters)—Massai tribesmen living in Amboseli, where Princess Margaret saw big game at close quarters during her East African tour, are saying her visit brought them good luck. The princess told Massiders in Nairobi their country would be blessed with rain. Soon after she returned to England rain began falling.

WEDDINGS

HARRY—WHITE

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in Elizabethville United church, when the Rev. J. S. Trumpour of Canton, united in marriage, Hazel Elaine White, youngest daughter of Mr. Russell M. White of Elizabethville, and the late Mrs. White, to William Douglas Harry of Trenton, No. 3. Standards of bronze and yellow mums, backed with green pine, formed a beautiful background for the ceremony, 'Mums, green pine and white satin ribbon designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Edwin Wilson, cousin of the bride, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Larry Hall, who sang "Through the Years," before the ceremony, and "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of bridal satin. The wide scooped collar set off the tight-fitting bodice of princess style which continues into the flowing lines of the skirt and formed the sweeping train. The fitted sleeves extended into points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of nylon net offset the Juliet cap of pleated bridal satin and she carried a cascade of 'mums and yellow roses.

Miss Marian White, as maid of honor and Miss Evelyn White as bridesmaid, both sisters of the bride, were attired in identical waltz-length gowns of autumn green shot taffeta with matching mitts, shoes and green feather head bands. They carried cascades of bronze 'mums and yellow roses.

Mr. Frank Harry, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and Messrs. Gerald Harry, also brother of the bridegroom, and William White, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's brother, with 35 guests attending. The bride's table was appropriately appointed with a white linen cloth, silver candelabra and the bouquets of the bride and her attendants, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake.

The bride's stepmother received wearing a two-piece bronze dress with matching shoes and dusty rose hat and gloves and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in a black and blue sheath gown, with blue and rose accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip via Detroit, Indianapolis, Lexington and Pittsburg, the bride wore a blue-green dress, shoes and bag of black suede, beige hat and gloves, and corsage of pink and white carnations.

Upon their return, the couple will reside on the third concession of Sidney township at Johnstown.

Previous to the wedding, the bride was honored at a china shower by her friends and neighbors in Brighton, at the home of Mrs. Ben Brown. Also the Young People's Union at Trinity St. Andrew's church, presented her with a Bible.

DEROY—DALEY

White Shasta chrysanthemums adorned the altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, November 3rd at 10.00 a.m., for a lovely late autumn wedding, when Mary Lorraine Daley, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daley, became the bride of Roger Joseph Deroy also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Deroy of Caprcol, Ontario. The Rev. Father Stack officiated.

The wedding music was provided by the Rev. Sister Mary Wilhelmina, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, as he sang, "Ave Maria," and "On Our Wedding Day."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William McKay, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta, fashioned with molded bodice having a Peter Pan collar, and long sheath-like sleeves.

The illy-pointed over the hand. The floor-length bouffant skirt was accented by a ruching of softly folded net over taffeta. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a "Grace Kelly" headdress and she carried a crescent-cascade of red roses, mingled with tulle and adiantum fern.

She was attended by Miss Bernice O'Carroll of Foxboro, as maid of honor, wearing a gown of mauve lace and net over taffeta with molded bodice and bouffant skirt in ballerina length. She wore a matching bandeau and carried a basket of yellow roses and Shasta 'mums. The Misses Elma Brennan of Corbyville, and Margaret Doyle of Belleville, were bridesmaids, attired in lime green and pale yellow lace and net respectively in ballerina length. Both were bandeaux matching their gowns and carried baskets of roses and Shasta 'mums.

Little Shirley Deroy of Caprcol, was flower girl, demure and sweet in a floor-length frock of light blue net over taffeta, with bandeau of pink Sweetheart rosettes, and carrying a tiny basquette of roses and Shasta 'mums.

Mr. Terry Way of Caprcol, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. William Lake and Mr. Robert Beale of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Odd Fellows' Hall, Front Street, which was prettily adorned for the occasion with roses and Shasta 'mums. The bride's mother received wearing navy blue with corsage of red roses, assisted by Mrs. D. O'Carroll of Foxboro, attired in navy blue with red rose corsage.

For the wedding trip to North Bay, Sudbury, Caprcol and Toronto, the bride chose a green knitted suit with black accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Joseph Deroy register, following their marriage in the Church of St. Michael, the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Mary Lorraine Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daley of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Deroy of Caprcol, Ontario. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Belleville.)

Mr. and Mrs. Deroy are residing in Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Caprcol, Desoronto, Foxboro and Corbyville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored at a shower held at the home of Miss Anne Higgsdorne, Picton, and by presentations from the Northern Electric Company, the Stewart-Warner and Simpson-Sears Company. A rehearsal tea was also held at the home of Mrs. M. Doyle, Boswell Street.

POPE GREETS BALLET

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Members of the American ballet theatre now performing at the Rome Opera House saw Pope Pius Wednesday. They were in a general audience in which the Pope received 5,000 persons.

Hat Designers Accused of Copying Design

PARIS (Reuters) — A police officer Wednesday seized three hats each from the shops of leading fashion designers Christian Dior and Jaques Fath at the request of Lad Simco, a designer who accuses them of copying his hat designs.

Simco, who has a small establishment, claims he launched the fashion of top hats for women last year and the idea was later taken up by the big fashion houses.

Accompanied by lawyer Jean-Louis Aubel, Simco called at a police station and asked for the seizure of the six models which he said were "servile copies" of his designs.

French law on copyright in fashion designs allows models to be seized on a simple complaint to the police before any legal action is started.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

HEALTHFUL SLEEP NECESSARY TO BEAUTY

When you are tired, all of you sags, but your face is where fatigue shows most and where it can do the most lasting damage as far as beauty is concerned.

It is a wise woman who learns to buffer herself against all the little tensions and strains that make up the day's load of weariness. She is a nicer person to live with; and, what's more, she hangs on to her youth longer.

Relaxing is something many of you have to learn, but you can learn it and it is worth learning. And when one speaks of relaxing the first thing which comes to mind, of course, is getting a good night's sleep. This is always important, of course, but with hectic pre-holiday schedules ahead, the average woman will probably need more than her usual quota if she is to bear up under the strain.

The amount of sleep required for healthy and beautiful living varies with the individual but, generally speaking, eight hours is considered average. The eight hours you're in bed, however, must really be devoted to sound restful sleep. If you spend half of them re-hashing the day's problems or worrying about those which may face you on the morrow, you might just as well stay up. So learn to put your problems out of your mind as soon as you get into bed. This may sound easier to say than to do, but it really is not—once you get the habit. From personal experience, we've found that when some gnawing little worry keeps us awake, we finally say to ourselves, "Well, there's no use worrying about that tonight. There isn't a thing to do about it now, anyway. Let's worry tomorrow." And, lo and behold, the next morning solutions seem much simpler.

There are other considerations in planning a good night's sleep. Your bed should be a comfortable one and, generally speaking, it will be more comfortable if the mattress is slightly on the hard side. You can't relax properly if your mattress or your pillow sags or is lumpy. Be sure, too, that your sheets and blankets are long enough. Otherwise they restrain feet and legs which can cause cramped muscles.

The temperature of your bedroom is important, too. It's impossible to sleep well, of course, if your room is too hot, but a room that's too cool is equally uncomfortable. Hardy souls who think that sleeping in an icy cold room in winter is fine for their health are only fooling themselves. In the first place, icy cold air irritates the membranes of the nose and is responsible for many head colds. And, in the second place, if you throw your covers off in sleep, you risk muscular colds. Try to strike a happy medium and keep your room at a comfortable temperature.

Loose-fitting sleeping garments are also sleep inducing, so choose pajamas or nighties with care. Try, too, to eliminate as much light and noise from your bedroom as possible. Make a good night's sleep a "must" every night and the results will be evident in your mirror.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. ERASMAN

PLANS FOR WEDDING OF HER SON TO DANISH GIRL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is soon to be married to a wonderful Danish girl, who now lives in this country but whose parents live in Denmark. The wedding is to be here in our church and we are to give the reception afterward in our house. In whose names should the invitations to the ceremony and reception be sent: In our names (groom's parents) or in the names of the bride's parents, even though they will not be able to come here for the wedding? Quite a few invitations can be sent to the church ceremony, but not very many to the reception, since our house is not large. However, the couple would like to have many announcements sent. In whose names should these formal announcements be sent? — R. S.

Since the parents of the bride-to-be will not be able to be at the wedding, the invitations to the ceremony and reception, to be given by you, should be sent in your names. But the formal announcements of the marriage would be sent in the names of the bride's parents . . . these would be sent to their relatives and friends abroad as well as to the list of your and the bride's relatives and friends here whom you were not able to invite to the wedding.

TRINITY W.A.

MADOC — Trinity United W. A. held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. George Fox on Thursday afternoon with a fine attendance.

Mrs. Bronson presided and opened the meeting by reading the poem, "In Flanders Fields".

During the business period, the various reports, minutes and visits were reported. The canvassers for the Supper Fund reported to date $467. It was suggested that a box of fruit and more visits to the shut-ins in the coming season be sent.

The committee reported regarding the speaker service being planned in the church. Plans were made for the bazaar to be held on the 28th. A committee of Mrs. Whylock, Mrs. Dafoe, Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Tanner prepared the history of Trinity W.A. which is to be forwarded to the Presbytery before the New Year.

The worship period was conducted by Mrs. Moore assisted by Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Tanner, who gave a commentary on the Bible Story.

Mrs. Hayden and Miss A. Keene were in charge of the program; assisting were: Mrs. A. Holmes, who read a poem, "How Often"; Mrs. W. McCoy a reading, "An Old Friend With A Warm, Warm Heart"; Miss Keene, "School Days," and "An Anniversary Story of Old Fashion Times".

A Bible game contest closed the program Refreshments and a social hour followed.

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers for 1957, president, Mrs. Percy Bronson; secretary, Mrs. John Storring; treasurer, Mrs. W. McCoy; visiting committee, Mrs. Ken Gordon; parsonage committee, Mrs. R. C. Jackson (1 year); Mrs. J. Storring (2 years); pres. Mrs. Bronson; social committee, Mrs. A. Bailey; Mrs. C. Semi-Christmas Baking

By Mary Moore

The Camp Group of the Big Cup Sisters had their annual bridge-party to raise funds to send young underprivileged girls to camp. They sent 191 girls from our area last summer so believe me I support that kind of effort. Besides I enjoy playing bridge.

One of the homemade cookies served was so good that I tracked down the member who made them and she gave me the recipe. It was a layered square and I detected just the top layer and liked it. Armed with the recipe I made them up and there is a new little goodie for you cookie fiends.

FRUITY SQUARES

One-half cup fresh moist mixed peel (or fresh mixed fruit-cake-fruit — cherries, candied pineapple, peel, etc.) 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, (and another amount) 1-4 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup brown sugar well packed, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup chopped nuts is optional. Pour the 1-4 cup water over the peel, let stand overnight; in morning bring to just below boiling point, stirring. Cool. Mix until crumbly the butter, granulated sugar and 1 cup flour. Pack smoothly into greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 20 to 25 minutes or until just tinged. Sift together the 1-3 cup flour, baking powder, and salt. Gradually beat the brown sugar into the eggs. Add flour mixture and mix well. Mix in vanilla, cooled peel and any liquid and nuts if used. Spread evenly over baked layer. Bake 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Cool in pan. Cut into squares or bars. Dust or roll in icing sugar if desired. I didn't desire. They were too good without it.

You see, I'm working up to Christmas baking, for now I am going to give you a date and nut bread — the superior of which would be hard to find.

P.W. DATE AND NUT BREAD

P.W. stands for prize winning. Four cups cut-up dates, 2 cups broken nuts, 2 cups boiling water, 1-3 cup shortening, 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, 4 cups stirred but not sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons soda, 2-3

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF HE WON'T COME TO YOUR HOUSE, DROP HIM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There's a boy I've known for some time and we've always been good friends. He's asked me for dates three times. I turned down the first two dates because I did not know whether to trust him or not, but I went with him the third time and we just rode around awhile and then parked, but he never said anything out of the way to me.

My parents don't allow me to go with boys unless I bring them to the house, but I don't think if I asked him to come he'd do it.

Should I go on dating him this way, or ask him to come to the house? — A.C.

Dear A.C.:

Don't you know yourself what the answer to your question should be?

If your parents expect you to have your boy friends come to the house—and they should—do you really think I'd tell you to go out on dates without their knowledge?

Any nice boy will want to come to your home and meet your parents, and if you asked this one to do so, and he refused, then he's not the sort of boy you should go out on dates with anyhow.

It's as simple as that.

P.S. If you turned down two dates with a boy you didn't know whether or not you could trust, why did you take a chance the third time?

LATE DATES SHOULD BE VERY FEW FOR THE 15-YEAR-OLD

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

How late do you think a girl of 15 should stay out on a date at night, and are Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights too many to go out in a week? — D.B.

Dear D.B.:

To take the last part of your question first, I don't think any girl of 15 should be out on an evening date on a school night, except for some very unusual occasion. Nor do I think that—again unless it's something very unusual —it's at all a good idea for a girl who must get up and go to school on Monday morning to be out on Sunday evening. Of course if she is invited out, say, for Sunday supper at some friend's house, and comes home real early—by nine o'clock at the latest so she can get to bed early—that could certainly be allowed. But to go out on a regular date and come home at a late hour seems to me very unwise.

As for how late a 15-year-old girl should stay out on any dates, my feeling is that she should be home from an ordinary date by 11 o'clock. On Saturday night dates, if there is something special on, the time might be extended occasionally until midnight if she's home promptly at that time.

In every case, however, a girl's parents should know who she's going with and where, and they should set the time for her to be home. There'she should show that she can be depended on to be there at the hour set.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

UNIONDALE W.I.

The November meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute (West) was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Bush, 4th concession of Sidney, with a large attendance of members and several visitors. Meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. G. Harrington.

Cards were read from Mrs. Rogers of Stirling; the H. Richards family, and Mrs. R. Wagnamaker of the fourth line.

The secretary, Mrs. G. Sirker also read letters from "Save the Children Fund," and from this a box of clothing has been packed and sent to Korea as well as a $25 donation from Uniondale branch. Another letter from Miss Brant dealing with "Children's Aid" was also read.

Mrs. G. Halsall was selected as the member to consult the "Plainfield Home for Retarded Children."

Mrs. G. Bird gave a reading, "Heart and Nerve Tonic"; Mrs. R. Dafoe, a reading of the one tradition of the Royal Family, "Enough Gold for Princess Margaret, a Wedding Ring."

Mrs. Harrington led a touching memorial for the recent passing of a member, Mrs. H. Richards.

This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Grills, "God Calls Home," and a one-minute silence by all present, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

AREA CONVENTION

The report of the Area Convention in Belleville Collegiate was given by delegates Mrs. K. Faul and Mrs. H. Frost.

This being the 30th Belleville Area Convention for Women's Institutes a special paper of their activities from 1926 to the present time was given by Mrs. C. Holmes at the convention banquet. She also (by request) of Mrs. K. Faul, gave this splendid paper at Uniondale Women's Institute meeting for November.

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

WALLBRIDGE — The November meeting of Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Doug Thompson with a good attendance of members and visitors. President, Mrs. H. Phillips, opened the meeting in the usual manner. General business was discussed and "thank you" cards and letters read.

Mrs. S. Nicholson gave her report as delegate to the Area Convention. Mrs. C. Holmes gave a "Review of the Past 30 Years of the Area Convention." This proved interesting to all, especially the older members who can remember the first Area Convention held in Belleville.

District president Mrs. Rogers told of her visit to the Salada Tea Co. which also proved interesting. Mrs. F. Evans read a paper prepared by Mrs. C. Fair on "Cheese."

Everett Phillips favored with a musical number. The hostess and committee served refreshments and a social time was had by all.

were staunch Institute workers, Mrs. M. B. Weese, Mrs. Murphy, Miss Reid and Mrs. R. Nicholson; these ladies all helped with the program by giving short addresses. Mrs. M. Sine gave a short discussion on the convention report. Plans at this meeting were made for a chartered bus to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto.

Refreshments were served by November committee.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Fleming, 4th concession of Sidney, with members bringing a Christmas gift to be donated to the Salvation Army. Lunch committee: Mesdames F. Farmer, G. Bird, G. Russ, M. Sine, W. Henley and G. Pollard.

Meal Planning Important Part For Ground Crews

OTTAWA (CP)—They may not wear uniforms, but wives who plan and prepare meals for their flying husbands are an important part of the RCAF's ground crew.

RCAF officials here say that for aircrew eating at home, wives control their meals help protect both aircrew and aircraft.

It's the wife who can help her husband—and her whole family—develop good eating habits, Wing Cmdr. Margaret Clark, head of the RCAF 's food services branch here, said in an interview.

PROGRAM EXTENDED

Recognizing the important role played by wives, the RCAF has extended its nutrition education program to wives, as well as aircrew themselves, says Wing Cmdr. Clark.

Printed in station magazines or used in lectures, nutrition material compiled by RCAF medical officers, dietitians and nutritionists stresses observance of Canada's food rules.

Developed by the Canadian Council on Nutrition, the rules stress the importance of three meals a day using foods such as milk, fruit, vegetables, cereals breads, meats and fish.

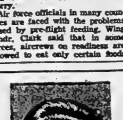
Contained in proper balance, these foods provide necessary fats carbohydrates and proteins, plus accompanying supplies of vitamins, minerals, bulk and water.

On the other hand, missing a meal, particularly breakfast, upsets anyone's diet.

IMPORTANT MEAL

Flight operations officers say breakfast is an important meal for aircrew, particularly crews on "readiness" who may have to fly at any time within a 24- to 96-hour period of duty.

During these pre-flight periods, meals are eaten at station messes, where food service officers are urged to provide nutritional meal choices for aircrew.



At the messes, aircrew can choose foods they know they can digest easily. Foods that don't "agree" add to the problems of men who must adjust to the strains of altitude, pressure, cold, noise and vibration, apprehension and worry.

Air Force officials in many countries are faced with the problems posed by pre-flight feeding. Wing Cmdr. Clark said that in some forces, aircrews on readiness are allowed to eat only certain foods in an attempt to avoid digestive upsets during flights.

The RCAF, however, has left the choice to fliers themselves.

FIELD, B.C. (CP) — Life in a trailer is just like a permanent holiday, says Mrs. Jean Sneddon, whose husband is a mechanic repairing heavy - duty machinery used in building the trans-Canada highway through the Rocking Horse Pass area of the Rocky Mountains.

"The trailer gets messed up pretty fast," says Mrs. Sneddon her accent revealing her Scottish upbringing, "but so does a house. The trailer only takes a few minutes to clean. A house takes all day."

"I like trailer life very much. It's just like being on a holiday all the time."

KEEP TOGETHER

Since the beginning of July, Mrs Sneddon, husband Jim and their two sons, Jimmy, 9, and Norman, 3, have lived in their 35-foot trailer at the Mannix Company construction trailer camp, three miles east of Field. The camp has a population of about 300 persons, living in about 100 trailers.

It doesn't have the luxuries of urban living, but few of the trailer residents complain. Most of the women, like Mrs. Sneddon, say they would rather live in a trailer and be with their husbands than have the comforts of a city home and not see dad for months at a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Sneddon came to Canada from Scotland nine years ago and settled at Fernie, B.C., where they still have a house.

When Mr. Sneddon was transferred to Calgary and then to this Yoho Park job, he and his wife decided to pack the family into the trailer and be together.

MANY COMFORTS

The trailer is much the same as most others in camp, although they vary in size, colors and interior layouts. The Sneddon's trailer has a living room, kitchen and bedroom and electricity and running water from systems provided for the camp. In nearly every case, oil is used for heating and propane gas for cooking.

Some trailers have built - on temporary porches for storage and washing purposes, but most women do their washing outdoors with electric machines, covered when not in use by plastic sheets.

Garbage collection, transportation to and from Field for the 20 school-age children and a general delivery mail service is provided by the construction firm. There are no deliveries, however, of milk, bread or newspapers.

Shopping and entertainment are the major bugbears, for there are but two stores in the district—one three miles away at Field and the other a mile distant at the entrance to Emerald Lake Resort — and the nearest recreation facilities are 60 miles east at Banff.

SOCIAL GATHERINGS

"Somebody has a new baby and we have a shower, or a new neighbor moves and we have a party," said Mrs. Sneddon. "That's our major entertainment. Everybody is friendly and we get together for cooking bees and afternoon teas but if we want to see a movie or something like that, we have to go to Banff or Calgary."

Many of the families do their shopping at Calgary and Banff, purchasing two weeks' supplies at a time. Some have grocery orders shipped out by train.

Mrs. Sneddon takes these things in stride. "The only thing I'm not sure I like about this life," she said, "is the schooling of the children. I don't like them to change schools too often. But then, Mrs. Warder has five children and she says it hasn't hurt them any."

Mrs. Ross Warder lives in a 44-foot trailer a few yards from Mrs. Sneddon. She and her husband, a shovel operator on the highway job, have five school-age children: Gary, 13, Marlene, 12, Kenny, 11, Tommy, 8, and Shirley, 7.

Mr. Warder has been in construction work for 15 years, and after about 10 years in the Dawson Creek area of northeastern British Columbia he and his family have been on the move through Alberta and B.C.

The Warders have been living in trailers for two years.

"We got tired of packing a house full of furniture and looking for new apartments or houses every time we moved," said Mrs. Warder, "so we tried the trailer and it's worked out fine. There's nothing to pack when you move one of these."

The secret? Dawn contains Deodorine, an exclusive new deodorant. With regular and exclusive use, Dawn checks the action of odour-causing skin bacteria for a full 24 hours or longer.

An underarm deodorant is not enough! Dawn bathes away the cause of perspiration odour—keeps you morning-fresh all over. And this is important, because you perspire all over.

Dawn beautifies your skin, too. Dawn cleanses thoroughly, gently. And Deodorine checks the action of the skin bacteria which cause skin blemishes. New Dawn helps keep your complexion satin-smooth, soft, radiant. Dawn is extra mild.

You've never used anything like new Dawn—the bath and beauty soap with a deodorant right in it. Dawn is delicately fragrant, mild and gentle—your whole family will love it. Be sure to try new Dawn right away.

POPULAR OUTFIT

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Dark brown makes a nice alternative to black and is even giving the ever-present navy blue a good run. It is the color of this handsome afternoon dress, the fabric silk barathea. There is a flat round collar on the neckline which is neither high nor low. Four covered buttons are above the yoke line which ties a down and outward curve along the bodice and over the hips terminating in a flat bow in back. The dress is a fine example of the type that can hold its own anywhere nicely during the afternoon into evening. It is moderately flared and has its own stiffening to hold the line.

Club Activities

MELROSE MISSION BAND

The November meeting of Melrose Mission Band was held at the home of Wayne Pascoe on November 13. Janice McFarlane read Psalm 23. Evelyn Demille read the Scripture. Barbara Weese read the minutes of the last meeting. Wayne Pascoe led in prayer. The roll call was read by Barbara Weese. Evelyn Demille read a story called "Fiesta Day". John English read "Tommy and the Professor". Some riddles were read by Wayne Pascoe, Judy Cook tap-danced to "Ain't She Sweet".

The collection amounted to $1.81.

Women's Activities

VICTORIA WA

The November of the Victoria WA was held at the home of Mrs. Hubert Townsend on November 19, with an attendance of 14 members and five visitors. The president, Mrs. Sidney Fox, conducted the meeting.

An inspirational devotional service was in charge of Mrs. William Knox.

There followed a discussion and plans for the turkey supper to be held at the church on the evening of Nov. 28. This was followed by refreshments and a social half hour.

THE FRONT ROAD WA

The president, Mrs. Clinton Brown, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Monteith prepared an inspiring devotional program with "Remembrance" as her theme. The ladies sang "Faith of Our Fathers". Psalm 46 was read by Mrs. Clifford Reid.

A poem "At the Cenotaph", was read. Mrs. Gordon Ray read a story from the Dominion church book and Mrs. Hugh McMullin gave a reading called "God Is In the Dark, Too."

Mrs. Monteith closed the devotional period with a few poems, "We've Got Faith"; "God Is History"; "The Realization of Perfect Peace"; "Faith For the Year" and "Armistice".

A contest was won by Ella Ray.

Business and correspondence was read and discussed.

The secretary, Mrs. Geddes Bradshaw, gave a report on the successful church bazaar that was held the previous week. Approximately $174 was made from the bazaar.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her conveners to round out an enjoyable afternoon.

Science at last has developed Children's Own Tablets for your child's protecting — the strongest by test for use by children.

Stop using harsh laxatives that may irritate the tender walls of your child's intestines, causing cramping, griping, or weak, unnatural bowel action. Children's Own Tablets laxatives are made by no means for children. They work, but they may irritate the delicate membranes in the intestines. Medical science has at last developed Children's Own Tablets — made by the makers of Baby's Own Tablets. One of they are not too strong enough ... not harsh ... as tablet form, pleasant-tasting, easy to take! Relieves upset tummy, too. So try Children's Own Tablets today — made by the makers of Baby's Own Tablets. See if they are not the answer to your child's laxative problem.

Guild Members Give Splendid Performance of 3-Act Comedy

An amusing three-act comedy was presented at the Parks Theatre last night, when the curtain went up on the Belleville Theatre Guild's production of "The White Sheep of the Family." The play will be presented again tonight at 8.30.

This modern comedy centres around the antics of an unusual household, the Winter family, and their just-as-unusual friends. The action of the play passes in their house in Hampstead.

Each family member boasts of a special "skill". The mother, Allen Winter, and her daughter, Pat, are experts at shoplifting, while the father, James, enjoys the art of burglary. The maid is learning the light-fingered trade quickly, thanks to her expert teachers. The other member of the happy family, the son, Peter, has not been heard from in weeks. He is a forger by trade.

When the vicar informs the family that Peter is employed in a bank, all are pleased at the opportunities this position will bring. But their joy is short-lived because Peter pays a visit, bearing the shocking news that he intends to remain a bank clerk and lead the life of an honest citizen. The family plots to "reform" him before he puts a blot against the family history, representing four generations of crooks.

Matters go from bad to worse when Peter reluctantly brings his fiancee, Angela, to meet the family. She turns out to be the daughter of the assistant commissioner of Scotland Yard.

UNEXPECTED CLIMAX

The events that follow lead up to an unexpected climax.

The play, produced by Don Thomas and directed by Jim Alexander, has slow action at the very beginning. However this pace is quickened near the middle of the first act as the plot develops, and runs a fast pace throughout the remainder of the performance. It could be dubbed a comedy-mystery since it contains elements of both.

Betty Barrie, as the comical maid, gave an excellent performance. Syl Quinn was well-cast for his role as James Winter. His light-fingered daughter, Pat, was portrayed ably by Nicky Thomas, while Sadie Rose carried out the part of the mother quite well. Harry Mulhall showed his ability as Sam Jackson, the "fence" for stolen goods.

The part of the absent-minded vicar was well played by Doug Ingle. Lindy McIntosh made a successful Belleville debut as Peter's fiancee, Angela.

Rounding out the cast members were Harold Bankier as the assistant commissioner, and Andy Jensen, as the son, Peter.

Bridge St. United Church W.A. Sponsors Annual Bazaar, Tea

The Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church held its annual tea and bazaar yesterday afternoon at the church. Despite the rainy weather there was a large turnout.

The home cooking table followed a Christmas theme, decorated in red, green and white. At this booth guests made purchases from a wide assortment of meats, breads, jams and jellies, pickles, cakes, cookies and pies.

Potted plants, children's games and books, jewellery and Christmas decorations were among the items for sale at the white elephant booth.

Aprons of all descriptions, including the popular half aprons and a few of the over-all type, were displayed at the apron table.

At the dolls' booth clothing for dolls was the main attraction, with a few dolls also being sold. This table held a large collection of cotton dresses, skirts and knitted caps for dolls.

The country store booth sold straw hats, potted plants, jars of mincemeat and cheese, as well as other food products.

The guest's sweet tooth was satisfied at the candy table where a complete line of sweets was shown.

The main tea table contained a Chinese centrepiece made of a silver sea fan, silver sprays, rose carnations and 'mums, and blue Shasta 'mums. These flowers were sprayed with silver sparkle. Almond leaf sprays completed the decoration. On either side of the centrepiece were misted blue candles held by silver candelabra. The table was covered with a white cutwork lace tablecloth. A silver tea service was placed at either end of the table.

Small tables where the guests were seated contained centrepieces of silver boughs and blue and rose Christmas balls. The silk beneath the stained glass windows in the tea room were similarly decorated.

Mrs. J. G. Demeza was convener of the tea, while Mrs. A. J. Clare and Mrs. H. M. Davis received the guests. Mrs. R. H. Wray and Mrs. E. S. Fairman invited guests into the tea room.

Pouring tea were Mesdames H. Mott, H. C. Selden, Charles Hyde, W. H. Finkle, W. Dallas, George McIntosh, T. C. McMullen, J. B. Leslie, F. S. Deacon, C. W. Burr, R. B. Morden and H. Rollins.

The replenishing committee consisted of Mesdames D. Stanton, F. C. Miller, Erle Denyes, E. C. Adsett, H. B. Fetterley, F. W. Moon, J. Countryman, R. J. Miller, A. O. Drysdale, J. C. Allen and A. S. Robb.

Tea room assistants included Mesdames R. G. Walsh, G. B. Morgan, W. D. LaFrance, H. J. Pake, W. M. Fox, A. E. Miles, E. W. Sutton, R. O. Dulmage, V. J. White, W. G. Anderson and J. R. MacArthur.

Other assistants were Mesdames F. Johnson, C. L. Dodd, J. M. Parrott, R. M. Chaplin, Bruce Cronk, C. L. Mazzey, A. E. May, F. C. McGuire, W. D. Gilbert, W. A. Easton, H. E. McBurney, N. C. Cathers, Charles E. Scott, D. Leslie, T. K. Franklin, A. E. MacKenzie, William McGee, F. R. Wetten, A. Skinner, W. D. Wilson and Charles Bristol.

Cannifton W.A. Bazaar, Tea Most Successful

On Wednesday the ladies of Cannifton United Church held their annual Christmas bazaar.

The Sunday School rooms were festive with their booths done in red and green colors with red and green streamers across the room. The Rev. T. F. Townsend officially declared the bazaar open for business.

Mrs. McCrea and the president, Mrs. D. Brenton, welcomed the guests.

Mrs. A. Holgate was treasurer and Mrs. F. Windsor cashier.

The small shrub and plant booth was pretty with ferns, African violets, cacti, ivy and some vegetables, and was in charge of Mrs. H. Pound and Mrs. Ross Pound.

The fancy work booth offered for sale quilts, crocheted centrepieces, stuffed animals, children's dresses and lovely embroidered pillow cases and homemade bags. This was in charge of Mrs. W. Brenton and Mrs. Billings Steele.

The fish pond was a delight to old and young alike, and on the arrival of the school children was soon sold out. Mrs F. Turnidge and Mrs. T. Holgate acted as game wardens.

The touch-and-take table with its surprise parcels, done up in white paper, did a roaring trade and caused many a good laugh. Mrs. F. Putman and Mrs. Ralph Stewart were the salesladies here.

The home cooking booth was tempting with its delicious pies, cakes, date loaves, tarts and homemade candy; these were soon sold out. Mrs. Thomas Howard and Mrs. H. Brenton were conveners.

The apron booth looked just like a mixed flower garden with aprons of every color and style. This booth had a busy time. Those in charge were Mrs. H. Tweedy, Mrs. A. Boyd and Mrs G. Lywood.

Next came the CGIT girls' booth, done in colors of blue and white; here was offered for sale many pretty Christmas gifts made by the leaders and their girls—such as dolls' wardrobes; small aprons, teddy bears, stuffed animals and homemade candy. Mrs. D. Milton and Mrs. S. Bird were in charge.

Mrs. Roy Pound, president of the WMS had Christmas cards for sale. The money received from the sale of these cards goes toward WMS work.

The tea room looked most inviting, the centre table with its Scotch ecru lace tablecloth, centred with a silver bowl of wine and white colored 'mums, silver candelabra and tall white tapers. At each end were silver tea services; the small tea tables had snowy-white luncheon cloths with a small vase of wine and white 'mums.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. H. Empson and Mrs. O. Roblin, Mrs. McCrea and Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. D. Brenton and Mrs. H. Tweedy. Those serving delicious sandwiches and dainties were: Mrs. R. Putman, Mrs. Wm. Lawson, Mrs. Stanley Bird, Mrs. H. Putman and Mrs. Ross Pound, while those replenishing were: Mrs. G. Brenton and Mrs. Clarence Bird.

Mrs. W. Cole and Mrs. R. McMurter made delicious tea as usual and Mrs. Keller assisted at different times.

It was a most successful bazaar, nicely convened by Mrs. D. Brenton and her assistants.

FRESHMAN SET FIXES

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — The state commissioner of law enforcement said Wednesday a popular freshman has admitted setting "all dormitory fires" at the University of Idaho last month. Three students were killed in one of four fires that broke out within eight days. Commissioner Earle Koehler said "a full confession" was signed by Paul D. Mitrovich, 20, a journalism major.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1956

Worst of Canadian Farm Crisis About Over, Future Brightest Since '52 Says Govt. Economist

With the exception of cereal grain the worst of the Canadian farm crisis is just about over, and the future looks brighter than at any time since 1952.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Ernest Hope, economist of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, in a survey of this year's farm situation.

The number of farm operators has declined, but over-all cash earnings have increased. A mountain of prairie wheat poses a marketing problem for federal government salesmen, but in other segments of the industry demand is overtaking production. Some farm prices are strengthening.

"The farmers' position has improved slightly this year," Dr. Hope said in an interview. "They were in a bad way in the previous four or five years. But the bottom appears to have been reached. The trend now is upward. Times may be a little better in 1957."

Base of the improvement to some extent is the continuing march of Canadian housewives to the grocery store. With breadwinners earning more, housewives tended to buy more food, with a sharper eye on quality.

Retail prices increased. In June at Toronto the price of grade A large eggs rose to 62 cents a dozen from 53 cents a year ago, round steak to 76 cents a pound from 73, pork chops to 68 from 60 cents.

Some housewives complained that all their house money was going into food. They grumbled but continued to buy potatoes and apples when poor weather reduced crops and prices jumped. They bought better cuts of meat at higher prices. Canadian beef production could barely keep pace with consumption.

While many farm markets strengthened, the farm industry appeared to be undergoing change. Fewer Canadians are going into farming. The number of farm operators dropped in June to 331,000 from 374,000 a year previous. It was about the lowest figure in the last half-century.

Farm help was becoming scarce and expensive. The attraction of big city industries was just too much for some farm workers. By August their numbers had dropped to 775,000 from 855,000 in 1955. Farmers had to pay them more. As of May 15, the average farm worker was getting $142 a month with board, up from $133 in the previous year.

But despite the problems of labor and poor weather, farmers will reap an estimated $2,600,000,000 in cash income this year, up $200,000,000 from 1955 and the first increase since the peak of $2,800,000,000 in 1952.

Net income, the amount remaining after farmers pay their bills, also is expected to increase, possibly to about $1,300,000,000 from $1,450,000,000. This would be the second increase since the high of $2,100,000,000 in 1951.

Though prices of a number of products such as beef, pork, eggs, apples and potatoes were strong, the main rise in cash income was among grain producers in the West.

Wheat surpluses were large, but exports increased. In the crop year ended July 31, wheat exports climbed to some 308,000,000 bushels from 252,000,000 in the previous year. Larger marketings and wheat pool participation payments from previous crops added to western income.

Competition for world markets was tough. Farmers produced another big crop this year and it became evident Canada would have record stocks of more than 1,000,000,000 bushels, including the carryover from last year.

Biggest competitor was the U.S. A new cry was heard that the Americans were trying to sew up portions of the world market through unfair means. The U.S. sold part of its wheat overseas for local currencies, but put a rider to the contract forcing buyers to purchase additional fixed amounts of American wheat in dollars in future years. The Canadian government protested this, would prevent Canadians from competing in those frozen markets.

At home the dairy situation brightened. The steady accumulation of surplus butter in government hands has been arrested. Instead of going up the surplus seemed to be going down.

At mid-year the agriculture department said:

"Unless there is an unexpected increase in creamery butter production during the remainder of the year, production and consumption for the year as a whole may be almost in balance."

Officials said a strong market for cheese had meant a diversion of some milk to cheese from butter.

Over the general Canadian scene, the steady growth in population is boosting the food market, but prosperity is changing buying habits.

The average Canadian dropped his consumption of cereals of various kinds to 162 pounds in 1955 from 305 in 1935-39. He reduced his potato consumption to 146 pounds from 193.

But he ate more of the other foods. Per-capita meat consumption rose to 151.5 pounds from 118.3, poultry to 29.7 from 18.4 eggs to 36 dozen from 30.7, milk products to 615 pounds from 52, fruits to 227 from 139, vegetables to 95 from 78.4.

SHANNONVILLE

United Church W.A. Sponsors Successful Bazaar

SHANNONVILLE. — The fall bazaar and tea, under the auspices of the United church Woman's Association, was held in the church hall, Shannonville, on Wednesday afternoon. Multi-colored mums decorated the room.

Mrs. K. R. Vivian, W. A. president, welcomed the guests and in-charge of the tickets at the door was Miss Sara Stickney, treasurer of the WA.

The tea table was prettily appointed with white damask centered by a lovely arrangement of bronze and yellow 'mums, flanked by silver candelabra with tall white candles flickering a cheerful welcome. Presiding at the silver tea services which graced each end of the table, were: Mrs. Edna McFarlane and Mrs. W. D. Robertson.

The little guest tables, assembled in the centre of the room, were covered with snowy white cloths and centred with vases of 'mums.

Serving the daintily arranged plates of sandwiches, cookies, cake, jellies and salads were, Mrs. Cecil Reid, Mrs. Kenneth Juby, Mrs. Gerald Stratton, Mrs. Jim Hinchey and Mrs. Gary Sine.

Replenishing and making tea were, Mrs. C. Gammon, Mrs. Claude Clarke, Mrs. Damon Hinchey, Mrs. Malcolm Little, Mrs. George Osborne and Mrs. Vivian.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

The booths were arranged on each side of the hall and were also covered with white tablecloths. The country store was conversed by Mrs. Charles Wood and Mrs. Robert McFarlane, who sold various kinds of vegetables, fruit, canned goods and many other articles. There was also a fine display of house plants, including chrysanthemums, ferns, cacti, spider plants, African violets of different colors, which soon found ready buyers.

Mrs. Sam Elliott was in charge of the candy table and those with a sweet tooth were able to buy maple creams, chocolate fudge and other tasty confections.

Next in order came the home cooking table which was presided over by Mrs. Charles Kalrl and assisted by Mrs. Russel Wescott. There were many customers for the delicious looking home-baked pies, cakes, date loaves, muffins, tarts, buns, macaroons and several kinds of cookies.

Mrs. Everett Stratton was convener of the fancy work and novelty booth. Here were pillow cases, linen tea towels, bath towels, wash cloths, crocheted doilies, wall plaques, plastic bowls and other articles suitable for Christmas gifts.

Conveners of the apron table were Mrs. Arthur Houston and Mrs. Orval Stratton, who did a flourishing business. There was a nice variety of aprons, in different colors and styles. There were all-over types, half aprons and fancy ones for special occasions, each one pretty and worthy of a place on some Christmas tree.

Mrs. Frank Doxtator and Mrs. Alex Goodfellow sold the surprise packages and were also in charge of the fish-pond. They were soon sold out of the gaily-wrapped parcels. The fish pond attracted the children, who always were successful in landing a fish.

The lovely autumn day and the willing workers made this a successful and delightful bazaar with appreciative thanks going to the president, Mrs. Kenneth Vivian and other officers and members of the Woman's Association.

MADOC JUNCTION

Eggleton M.B. Elects Officers For 1957

MADOC JUNCTION. — The November meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school on Friday afternoon.

John Madill presided over a program, which had been prepared by Shirley Prest and Allen Reide, and opened the meeting with the hymn "Sound the Battle Cry", with Sharon Reide as pianist.

The Scripture lesson, Psalm 13, was read by John Madill.

A song, "Take Time to Pray", was sung by Audrey Stapley, Sharon Reide, Marilyn Stapley, Isabelle Prest and Beverley Stapley, with Annamae Clarke playing the accompaniment.

Allen Reide read a poem, "Tell Him So."

During the business period, it was decided that the December meeting be held one week earlier on the second Friday afternoon, December 14.

Allen Reide read the minutes and gave the roll call showing 33 children and three adults present.

The Mission Band papers "World Friends" were distributed by Shelia Clarke.

Sharon Reide, Annamae Clarke, Sammy Danford and Johnny Madill have handed in the money from the sales of boxes of Christmas cards. Profits on the cards are being used to pay for the new study book and also to purchase 14 yearly subscriptions of the Mission Band paper "World Friends", so that a paper goes to each home.

The election of officers took place, with the following slate of officers for 1957: president, Allen Reide; vice-president, Annamae Clarke; treasurer, Gary Phillips; secretary, Shirley Prest; pianist, Sharon Reide with Annamae Clarke, assistant; program conveners, John Madill and Audrey Stapley; lunch conveners, Marilyn Stapley and Annamae Clarke.

The chapter from the study book "Ke Soon's Grandmother Goes to Church," was presented in story form by the Mission Band leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

Refreshments of cookies and popcorn brought by Grant Reid and Annamae Clarke were served.

IVANHOE

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Holds 'Family Night'

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S., West Huntingdon, observed "Family Night" on Friday evening, when the congregation enjoyed a potluck supper.

Following the supper a program was presented in the church.

Mrs. Harry Benson, W.M.S. president, presided and extended a welcome to all present. The hymn, "Wonderful Love," was sung. Rev. W. H. V. Walker led in prayer. The Scripture, Luke 24: 36-53 was read by Mrs. William Donnan.

The offering was presented by Mrs. John McInroy and Mrs. Harold Thompson and dedicated by Mr. Walker. A duet, "How Great Thou Art," was given by Donna and Sharon Hammond with guitar accompaniment.

The Mission Band sang "Jesus Loves Me," the chorus in the Ibo language as taught by Miss Agnes Gallup, on furlough from Nigeria, West Africa.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Lindsay Sills introduced the guest speaker, Miss Lorna A. Lott, of Stirling. Miss Lott attended Emmaus Bible College in the U.S.A., and spent some time as a student missionary in the Bahamas and Bermuda. She told of her experiences among the inhabitants of the islands, their manners and customs.

Slides were also shown of the beautiful country, the flowers, trees, tropical fruit and vegetation.

Miss Lott said, in part, "It should be a challenge to every church to support their missionaries, not only by giving money, but by their interest and prayers." She concluded her fine missionary address by repeating a poem "Are Your Hands Clean?"

The Hammond sisters sang "Shall I Be Empty Handed?"

On behalf of W.M.S. members, Mrs. Milton Shaw expressed thanks to Miss Lott. The president also added her thanks to the guest speaker, to the Hammond sisters and to all who had contributed to the program.

Lamprey Scars Double Total Of Last Year

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The incidence of lake trout bearing lamprey scars in Lake Superior in 1956 more than doubled last year's total, the International Great Lakes Fishery Commission said Tuesday.

The commission, winding up its annual two-day meeting at its University of Michigan headquarters, reported that the number of lamprey-scarred fish captured in 30 Lake Superior feeder streams totalled 19,000 in 1956 compared with less than 9,000 in 1955.

The commission is a joint American-Canadian group set up to combat the invasion of sea lampreys, a fish-destroying parasitic eel which has badly damaged commercial fishing in the Great Lakes since its invasion of the lakes several years ago.

The records of the rate of increase in the abundance of sea lampreys in Lake Superior emphasizes the need for effective control," the commission said.

NEARLY A MILLION

The group reported it spent $800,000 this year in effort to control the lamprey. It said the completion of a network of barriers at the mouth of feeder streams on Lake Michigan and Lake Huron is expected in 1958. Preliminary plans are under way for similar barriers of lamprey traps on Lake Erie and Ontario.

The commission also indicated it is exploring several ways of combatting encroachment of lampreys. One of these is a direct-current electrical device which will guide the lamprey into a trap where it can be destroyed.

The commission said it had "especially gratifying" results with a new pilot model of this device. The use of chemicals and ultrasonic vibrations also are being explored.

HIT BY 13,000 VOLTS

SALTIMORE (AP) — Oscar Holmes, a 300-pound city worker, was jolted by a 13,000-volt charge of electricity Tuesday. When the 40-year-old worker arrived at hospital, he relaxed in a chair and said, "my left hand stings a little but I feel ok." Some singed hair about his temple was the only sign of the shock.

Will Honor Niemoeller

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Pastor Martin Niemoeller of Germany, who spent eight years in Nazi prisons will receive an honorary doctor of divinity degree here Dec 4. He also will address the special University of Western Ontario convocation.

$60,000 Painting Has Been Returned To Clothes Closet

NEW YORK (AP)—Music publisher Murray Spora of Westbury, N.Y., looking through a closet, came across an old painting that had been handed down by his wife's family.

It was covered with so much varnish one could hardly tell whether it was a landscape or a seascape. He suggested to his wife that they hang it. She said no—it was too dark.

Spora took the 18 by 30-inch painting to the Metropolitan Gallerie in Manhattan for cleaning. Art experts worked on it last week and then pronounced it a classical landscape by Gaspard Poussin, a 17th century French painter.

Some estimates have placed its value at $50,000. Spora, overjoyed took the now - gleaming painting home and told his wife the story. She was pleased—but said it just doesn't match their modern furnishings. The painting has gone back in the closet.

HUNGARIAN AID SWELLS

WASHINGTON (AP)—So many offers to sponsor Hungarian refugees are pouring into the state department that all 5,000 persons to be admitted to the United States under the emergency program may already be assured of jobs. State department officials who reported this "enormous response" said they are checking private welfare agencies co-operating in the project to determine definitely whether the program already has gone over the top.

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Wednesday sought a lucky snatch-and-grab artist who stole $25,000 worth of fur coats from the automobile of a Trois-Rivieres, Que., furrier in a parking lot here Tuesday night.

Wolfie Bronet, parking lot attendant, said he saw the thief pulling up beside the auto belonging to Alpha Laferriere and casually removing the coats from the furrier's car to his own.

Bronet shouted, then pursued the thief's car, keeping pace on foot with the car which was slowed by heavy traffic.

A traffic policeman, Sgt. Armand Roger, heard the outcry but believed Bronet was shouting "car thief," and after checking the fugitive's identification and car registration freed him several blocks away.

RECENT BRIDE

JOHNSTOWN — An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Stickle when Mrs. Stickle was hostess at a linen shower given in honor of her niece, Miss Verna Mikel, of Murray township, whose marriage took place on Saturday.

The bride's mother and sister, along with a number of aunts and cousins attended. The evening was spent in sing-songs, readings and contests with Mrs. Vernon Harry and Mrs. Alf. St. Hilaire receiving favors for the latter.

Mrs. Clifford Calnan gave a reading dedicated to the bride-elect. An address was read by Mrs. Everett Minaker, after which Mrs. Allan Boate made the presentation of a number of gayly wrapped parcels.

After opening the gifts of beautiful towels, pillow cases and tablecloths, Verna thanked all and invited them to visit her in her new home at Irricana, Alberta.

Guests were in attendance from Belleville, Brighton, Carrying Place, Consecon, Foxboro, Mountain View, Trenton and Sidney.

DESERONTO

Council Requests Resignation of Medical Officer

A regular but brief meeting of Deseronto council was held on Monday evening with all members present except A. S. Walker.

There was considerable discussion concerning the work of the Medical Officer of Health. Finally it was moved and passed that the clerk write the M.O.H. and ask him if he would care to submit his resignation.

The council also discussed the possibility of joining the Lake Ontario Development Association, but decided to refer that matter to next year's council.

A letter from Fred Murphy regarding the drainage in front of his property was referred to the streets committee.

According to the report of the finance committee the town has collected over three thousand dollars of back taxes. The financial committee presented a rosy picture of the town's finances.

On recommendation of the police committee, Herbert Clare of Belleville, was engaged to replace the police constable who recently resigned. Mr. Clare is to begin his duties this week.

The Deseronto hockey club requested a grant from the town and were voted $50 toward the maintenance of their team.

Because the next council meeting would fall on December 3, election night, the meeting was postponed until December 4. The council also passed honorariums of $150 for the mayor and chairman of public utilities commission and $100 for members of the commission and council.

A letter of commendation is to be sent to the newly organized Chamber of Commerce. They are also to be offered the full co-operation of the council.

After the motion to adjourn was passed Mayor Scott advised council that it was with regret that he had to inform them that he would not be seeking re-election next year. He stated that he appreciated the co-operation he had received but circumstances prevent him holding office next year.

Councillor Spence, on behalf of council, congratulated the Mayor on his excellent record and stated that the loss would be felt by the town in general.

Among those who journeyed to Toronto to view the Santa Claus parade were Mrs. J. L. Therrien and children and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Stewart and Ronnill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hilard were weekend visitors in Ottawa.

FIRE PREVENTION

Last week the pupils of the new Indian Day School were given their second lecture on fire prevention. This program was instituted at the request of Principal Walton and the Indian Superintendent, D. R. Cantil, and was conducted by the Chief of the Deseronto Fire Department, J. H. McVicker.

This lecture was instruction in the use of smaller fire extinguishers and includes soda and acid, water pump tanks, carbon tetra chloride, dry powder and carbon dioxide extinguishers.

After explanation of the use of the various extinguishers, small fires were started in the playground and a number of the pupils extinguished the fires with the appliances. Even oil and gasoline fires were demonstrated as well as a small paper fire. The pupils were then given the task of preparing an essay on the extinguishers.

At this school there is a total of 91 pupils under the direction of Mr. H. Alton, Mrs. N. Rathburn and Mrs. Leslie Claus.

CAMPBELLFORD

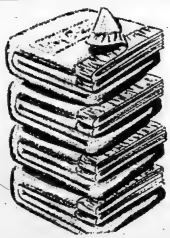
1st, 2nd Girl Guides Instructed In Ceremonials

CAMPBELLFORD — The 1st and 2nd Campbellford Guide Companies met in the basement of St. John's United Church on Monday, with a poor attendance due to illness.

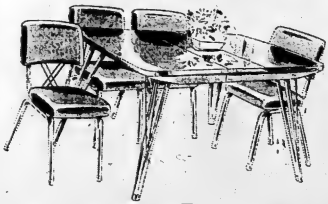
F. W. Collyer (past Captain) instructed the Guides in simple ceremonials. This was an enjoyable lesson.

Mrs. Peter Unitt (Capt.) introduced Mrs. Peter Wilmink to the Guides. Mrs. Wilmink has kindly come forward to help. Now that they have an adequate number of Guides, the 1st Company will meet on Mondays in the basement of St. John's and the 2nd Company in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. They will meet together on the first Monday in each month for music, and the Christmas party will be a combined effort.

Several girls brought books for the Guide library and Jo Anne McDonald brought 50 cents which she had earned toward the World Friendship Fund.



The Scarlet Tanager Patrol, (leader Carolyn Newman), acted out a Guide Law which was correctly guessed to be "A Guide is Loyal."



Captain Unitt thanked Mrs. Collyer for coming to the meeting.

BC Will Send 'Ogopogo' to Cup Parade

TORONTO (CP)—Import regulations have let the gas out of British Columbia's secret bag.

The B.C. contingent took the wraps off its secret Grey Cup parade entry Wednesday to disclose a $20,000 caricature of the "Texas of Canada."

The 16-unit entry is B.C.'s rebuttal to Toronto which last year sent a secret entry to the parade in Vancouver and stole the show with floats lampooning the Ontario capital.

Frank Baker, Vancouver alderman, said plans had been to inflate the long cloth model with helium and have it float above the parade, held down by ropes.

COULDN'T GET GAS

"We had to make a switch at the last minute. We learned that all Helium comes from the United States on quota and had to be ordered six months ahead."

So the model will be filled with huge air-filled weather balloons and men standing inside the monster will work a wooden spine up and down to give the illusion that Ogopogo is swimming.

"We're getting ready for our centennial in 1958 and bragging that everything is bigger and better in B.C.", Ald. Baker said.

Bill Clancy, retiring Lions director, is in charge of selling $10 tickets to Lions supporters. They include rain hats, raincoats and umbrellas inscribed with such slogans as "Me and B.C." and "Love that Balmy Climate," and done in the orange and black colors of the coast team.

More than 100 persons will march in the B.C. portion of the Saturday parade, including a 40-piece B.C. Lions band.

Barons Crush Indians 11-4

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons crushed Springfield Indians 11-4 Wednesday night in an American Hockey League game delayed nearly 2½ hours when the Indians were tied up by transportation difficulties.

It was the Barons' third straight victory, and most of the crowd of 3,500 stayed to the early morning finish.

Right winger Fred Glover scored three goals and had two assists for Cleveland. Jim Moore, Cal Stearns, and John McLellan scored two each, Jackie Gordon and Bill Shwetz getting the others for the Barons. Springfield goals were by Gerry Ehman, Gary Blaine, Buddy Boone and Gord Tottle.

Regina Half Punt King of Western Union

REGINA (CP) — Larry Isbell, the kicking halfback of Saskatchewan Roughriders, monopolized the punting laurels in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this season.

Official statistics for the 16-game WIFU regular schedule released Wednesday night show that the six-foot-one triple threat led all individuals in the best average punt, the most punts blocked, most yards on punts and most punts.

Isbell, who kicks with his left foot and can throw passes and run, had an average punt of 44.2 yards compared with his own WIFU record set in 1954 of 46.3 yards. He made 128 punts and booted the ball an aggregate of 5,657 yards.

U.S. Coaches Ready for Thanksgiving

NEW YORK (AP) — Coaches of such teams as Oregon State, South Carolina and Penn, among others, were looking forward with reasonable hope and expectation to their traditional Thanksgiving Day college football games today.

For these coaches, a victory on the U.S. national holiday could mean the difference between a highly successful and a so-so campaign.

Oregon State had the least to worry about. The Beavers, lacking only the formality of a vote to assure their participation in Pasadena's January 1 Rose Bowl, needed a victory over arch-rival Oregon to clinch their second Pacific Coast Conference championship in the 41-year-history of the league.

South Carolina, shooting for a possible Orange Bowl bid, met Wake Forest. Other pairings were Virginia Tech vs Virginia Military, Penn vs Cornell, Colgate at Brown, Miami (Ohio) at Cincinnati, Maryland at North Carolina State, William and Mary at Richmond, Washington and Lee at Washington, Mo., Colorado A and M at Denver and Idaho at Montana.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

THE BIG PARTY

John North Ringling had better look to his laurels. His "Greatest Show on Earth" stands in danger of being robbed of its glamor and title.

For staid old Hogtown is going to let its tresses down in a cascade of fun, festivity, and frivolity that is intended to make any of its predecessors look like a penny arcade. Hogtown is going to howl this weekend when it stages its Grey Cup Festival in a downtown extravaganza that should make the haughty Royal York and other hostelries rock to their tunnel foundations.

There'll be beauties and bars, bands, ballrooms and ballerinas. There'll be parades, "ponchers" (cops), punch prizes and the press. There'll be dinners, dancing, door prizes and drum majorettes.

It is ballyhooed by the sponsoring Toronto Junior Board of Trade as the "Greatest Grey Cup Festival Canada Has Ever Seen."

The Grey Cup Parade ballyhooed as the greatest since the inception of the event, starts at 9.30 a.m. Saturday from the intersection of the route, and finishes at Queen's Park Front and University Avenue and finishes at Queen's Park at 11.15. You should be able to see it on Yonge Street if you have a friend who has a friend whose friend owns a store and has room on the roof.

There'll be 25 bands, 50 beautiful floats, hundreds of cheer leaders, the Miss Grey Cup contestants, Miss Grey Cup, THE Grey Cup, and all the color that goes with the time from Yorkville and outside points, including Montreal and Edmonton.

Friday morning "A Corps of Greeters" will board incoming trains at outside points to welcome visitors and distribute hundreds of souvenir gifts.

At noon Friday there will be a Festival Luncheon for out-of-town visitors sponsored by the Junior Board of Trade. The ticket-taker will be at the house and can be secured from out-of-town football clubs only.

Ringmaster Buck McCallum rides again and will lead a nationally prominent group of personalities, such as Metro boss Fred Gardiner, Con Smythe, Ted Reeve, Joe Krol, Mayor Nathan Phillips serving up a unique menu from carnival-type booths.

From 9 p.m. Friday to 3 a.m. Saturday, or later if you can get from under the table, the Grey Cup Party will be held on the convention floor of the Royal York. Don't forget to bring your own chandelier, a chesterfield, a dining table or one of the elevators as a souvenir. Everything that isn't nailed down will be shipped to British Columbia for security purposes. You can get your tickets in the lobby.

Mart Kenny and his Western Gentlemen will be on hand as will Benny Louis and the Jack Duffy trio. Hundreds of dollars' worth of door prizes, personalized favors, etc., will be given away as will souvenir dance programs.

If you're still around and all six cylinders purring, the big game starts at Varsity Stadium at 1 p.m. Before the game the bands of the Eskimos and Alouettes will perform and tomorrow will slip Miss Grey Cup the keys to an MGA convertible. At half-time the 60-voice choir of St. Michael's will perform as will 100 drum majorettes and a fifty-piece band.

There will be a civic reception at the Royal York at 6 p.m. but you won't be interested in that unless you're the trainer or a troupe of city aldermen, an official of the CRU or a member of the Grey Cup teams.

Then following the official Grey Cup dinner to which you're not invited, comes the Victory Party. You can toss away the sandals and get back up for a new start. It takes place in the Royal York convention hall and starts at 8.30. You can get a ticket in the lobby if repairs have been made.

There will be two full (in numbers) orchestras, a full-scale bar, a visit by Miss Grey Cup and the Eskimos and Alouettes. There will be door prizes, stomach pumps, interpreters in case you fall for one of those pretty Alouette gals, and free derricks if you or those pretty girls wants to be greased you with an oil well. Any likeness to a Sunday School picnic is not coincidental but depends on what your idea of an SSP is. "It ain't ours."

It won't be the longest Grey Cup celebration in history. Ted Reeve told me several years ago before the Grey Cup became a national craze he helped celebrate a Canadian football championship final and came out of the other in time to decorate the Christmas tree.

If Paul Mercier reads this "Aloft, the Larks." If that western beauty we met at the press club two years ago pertures it "Everything's goin' to be oil right, podner."

Meanwhile, closer at home, the up-and-coming McFarlands are at peak grips with the Doughty Dunlops of Whitby this evening. Go git 'em, gang.

Right Defence and Desire And Als Are in, Says Claire; Stage Set for Big Spectacle

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Alouettes by a hair.

That's the perfection of Frank Clair for Saturday's Grey Cup classic here over the defending champion Edmonton Eskimos, winners over Als in the last two East-West finals.

"If Peahead used the right defence and his boys have the desire to win, they should take it by a hair," the Ottawa Rough said last night.

He was referring, of course, to Doug Walker the Montreal coach who has had two unsuccessful Grey Cup bids against the Eskimos to learn how to cope with coach Frank Ivy's powerful running attack.

ALS HUNGRY

The desire isn't lacking in the Montreal camp, reported Ted Workman, Als' vice-president and one of the early arrivals among football executives in Toronto today of the Canadian Football Council.

They want to win the cup so much they can taste it," Workman said. Als lost to Eskimos 26-25 here in 1954 and 34-19 in Vancouver last year.

Meanwhile, the people who help put on the side-show that makes the Grey Cup quite a big annual carnival went to get things rolling today, two days before the game, by showing off the 12 candidates for the Miss Grey Cup contest.

All nine cities in the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union are represented, along with three Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union entries—Sarnia, Ottawa and Kitchener-Waterloo. The actual judging for the contest will be held Friday behind closed doors by a panel of five judges.

SUPPORTERS EN ROUTE

The noisy, fun-loving Western followers of Eskimos and Alouettes, paranormal, exuberant supporters of the Alouettes are expected here Friday for special trains.

The teams themselves are also expected here Friday. Alouettes will be drilling in Montreal, working on defence, while Eskimos are in Toronto.

The Canadian Football Council will hold its annual meeting Saturday, the question of adopting a standard contract form for all WIFU clubs, one of four clubs.

Chairman Ralph Cooper of Hamilton said both leagues now have different forms and that some Big Four clubs prefer contract forms to others.

EXPECT PROTEST

Word around hotel lobbies is that some members of the council are not happy professional clubs are represented — may question Ottawa's use of Jackie Parker Graham, a converted end from College University.

"I hear they want to protest our use of Graham under the council rule," said James P. McCaffrey Ottawa team manager and Big Four president. He "talked" his own league earlier this season when the subject of Graham was brought up.

Graham was placed on the injured list early in the season but was said to have been recalled after Riders used up their two import replacements under council rules.

Another possible topic of discussion may be a report on the question of an interlocking schedule between the Western and Eastern leagues. However, it is not expected that the entire matter will be debated conclusively until the annual meeting of the council, tentatively scheduled here for Jan. 19.

Campbell Says Ref in Error But Allows Goal

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Wednesday a goal scored by Toronto Maple Leafs in the final seconds of a Nov. 3 game against Detroit should have been allowed.

The goal would have given the Leafs a 2-2 tie with the Red Wings in the game played in Toronto. However, Mr. Campbell said the disallowing of the goal was "an error of judgment" on the part of the referee and under league bylaws no protests against such errors can be entertained.

He made the statement in rejecting a Toronto protest against the action of referee Frank Udvari in disallowing the goal. Mr. Campbell said motion pictures showed the goal was scored a split second before the end of the game.

Bobby Hull Fires Winner For St. Kitts

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers, it seems, nearly always come out on the short end of the count.

Flyers have one victory and one tie to show for 12 games in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series this season.

Wednesday night, Flyers bowed 3-2 to fourth-place St. Catharines Teepees for their sixth straight defeat. In the only other game, Toronto Marlboros downed Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 4-2 to move past Hamilton Cubs into second place.

Ab Barrie Don Cosborn shot St. Catharines into the lead in the record, with Dan Patrick tying the score for Flyers later in the period. Bob Hull fired the winner in the third period.

Teepees outshot Flyers 22-20.

Kingston Takes Over Second Edges Pembroke Kings 5-4

By The Canadian Press

It took a flawless goaltending display by Chatham Maroons Marv Edwards, but Kingston Canadians were finally halted Wednesday night in their march toward the championship of the Western Division of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series.

Edwards, recording his second shutout of the season, turned away Indians 5-0 and ended Stratford's nine-game winning streak.

In other action Stratford Bay Trappers increased their Northern Ontario Hockey Association lead to five points by holding Soo Greyhounds to a 4-4 overtime tie. Sault Ste. Marie moved into second place by downing Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-4.

TWO FOR CONNELLY

Jim Connelly scored two goals for Chatham, with Doug Kilburn, Doug Baldwin and Ted Power connecting for the others.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jerry Cahana, Ken Gribbons, Chuck Scherza and Don Hogan scored for North Bay. Don McLean, Ron Lay, Pete Horeck and Johnny Lumley countered for Soo.

Don Bellringer was the big gun for Kingston, slapping in three goals. Fenzi Brenner and Frank Howarth scored the other Kings-ton counters. Knobby Clarke fired two for Pembroke in the first period, with the Glescbrecht's, Bruce and Jack counting the other goals for Kings.

Brilliant Spectacle Unfolds As Athletes of the World Parade Before 103,000 People

By TED SMITH

MELBOURNE (AP) — The Games of the 16th Olympiad opened today with all the pageantry and color associated with this great international sports event, ending the fears and tensions which had dogged these Games almost from the start.

When the Duke of Edinburgh, standing under a bright Australian sun, pronounced the simple traditional words: "I declare open the Olympic Games of Melbourne celebrating the 16th Olympiad of the modern era," he brought an end to two years of anxiety!

From now until the Olympic flame burning atop a tall tower in the main stadium is extinguished Dec. 8 or 4,938 athletes of 67 countries can concentrate on their efforts to win Olympic medals and—inefficient at best—specialists in the unrecognized struggle for national honors.

From the start the Melbourne Games were beset by unforeseen troubles—inadequate early preparations, international strife that resulted in the withdrawal of several countries. Even the weather seemed opposed as the training period was rounded by rainy, raw conditions.

DREAD COMES TRUE

All this vanished, at least on the surface, as Melbourne celebrated its greatest sports day and the dream of staging the Olympics became a reality.

Although a couple of basketball games Wednesday night followed the tremendous opening ceremony the serious part of the two-weeks competition doesn't get until Friday when the first events in track and field, rowing and fencing begin.

The United States is expected to dominate the track and field events but another close struggle with Russia is expected for unofficial team honors. The Soviet team, largest of all those entered, is expected strong in some sports where the Americans are weak.

The impressive solemnity of the opening ceremony was shattered by the eagerness of some of the competitors for the show as they scrambled to participate in it. But the tension of the occasion was reflected when a number of the marching athletes fainted and had to be given first aid before the ceremony ended. The temperature was a little over 90 degrees in the typical summer.

WANT TO SEE

Many of the teams broke ranks after taking their places in the infield so they could watch the events from in. And they broke again when Ron Clark, young Australian distance runner, decided the brick-red track carrying the Olympic torch which had been kindled on the plains of Olympia in Greece, sits of the ancient Games.

It was a tremendous day for the 103,000 spectators, many of whom had stood in line all the previous night to gain vantage spots in the stadium and then waited more than five hours under the hot sun for the ceremony to begin.

The Duke of Edinburgh, wearing a Royal Navy officer's uniform in a special box adorned with the royal crest, reviewed the colorful parade of athletes as they entered the stadium in their trim, varied uniforms.

First came George Rouhanis, standardbearer for the Greek team. Then some in single file, others in massed platoons, came the teams of 66 other countries.

CHEER HUNGARY

The enthusiastic Aussies had a big cheer for each team—and some especially loud ones for pretty girl flagbearers. But the greatest cheer of all went to the team from strife-torn Hungary, which recently laid aside its political differences with the Russians for non-political sports competition.

The Communist hammer and sickle was conspicuously missing from the Hungarian national flag, borne by the 1952 Olympic hammer-throw champion, Josef Csermak.

The Americans and Russians, whose big teams entered late in the parade, lined up side by side. The Americans applauded their greatest rivals as they took their places on the green infield and the Russians turned to extend greetings.

The Canadian team drew cheers from the crowd as they marched past in their trim blue jackets. As they passed the reviewing stand the men in grey flannels and the women in vivid white contrasted a smart "eyes right" for the Duke.

The Canadians, 11th in the parade, got out their dress uniforms: white nylon dresses with peter pan collars and blue blazers for the girls and blue blazers and grey slacks for the men.

"The boys and girls were up at 7 a.m. polishing their shoes and getting their blazers pressed and were generally pretty excited," said Jim Worrall, spokesman for the Canadian contingent. The Canadians held marching rehearsal in the early morning.

LANDY TAKES OATH

A brilliant spectacle of brightly garbed athletes and massed bands was presented as the Duke pronounced the opening words. Thousands of pigeons were released and circled the sky while the gun salute sounded.

The Olympic torch, sputtering with magnesium flares, was carried to its by Ron Clark, the brilliant young distance runner who failed to make the Australian team.

A massed choir of 2,000 voices sang the Olympic chorus before Australia's premier, Robert Gordon Menzies, John Landy, with his hand on the Australian flag, took the oath on behalf of all the assembled athletes:

"We promise that we will take part in the Olympic Games in loyal competition respecting and abiding by their rules which govern them, and desirous of participating in them in the true spirit of sportsmanship, for the honor of our country and for the glory of sport."

Melbourne, bathed in glorious sunshine after having been beset by dismal weather almost up to the opening, was ready for its greatest day in sports history.

The opening ceremony of the Olympic Games always is a colorful, heart-catching affair, and spectacular and enthusiastic Australians seem to make this a little more impressive than ever before.

More than 250,000 ringed the gaily decorated streets of Melbourne, Wednesday night, and in less than 24 hours before the Games were officially opened the same enthusiasts, mainly young men and girls, had taken up places outside the vast cricket ground which serves as the main Olympic stadium. They were equipped with sleeping bags, blankets, stoves, portable radios and flasks of coffee and tea.

Every seat in the vast stadium was sold long ago and even the standing room was sold out in advance. In fact virtually all the seats for every major Olympic event have been sold in advance. More than $2,000,000 has poured into the box offices, assuring the success of the Games which cost more than $11,000,000 to bring to their opening.

Don Newcombe Happy Over MVP Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's ace pitcher who has been voted the National League's most valuable player in 1956, is as happy about it as if he had beaten New York Yankees in a world series game.

"Next to the letter I received from President Eisenhower, this is the greatest thing that ever happened to me in baseball," big Newk said upon hearing the news.

The righthander was referring to the letter he received from Eisenhower while he was on an exhibition tour in Japan last month, expressing sympathy over his world series failures against the Yankees last season.

"It was a complete surprise," he said. "Robin Roberts of the Phillies won 28 games one year and didn't get the most valuable player award. I figured I didn't have a chance."

Speedboat Row Is Settled

DETROIT (AP) — The final legal row over the Gold Cup speedboat race which ended in circuit court Wednesday, making Miss Thriftaway of Seattle the official winner.

Judge Joseph Moynihan dismissed a suit filed by Horace E. Dodge, owner of Dora My Sweet, who had asked that the race on the Detroit River be declared no contest.

Judge Moynihan ruled that the purpose of the suit had been served when the American Power Boat Association changed its ruling on boats qualifying for the race. All boats now are required to attain a speed of 85 miles an hour to enter the race.

Dodge, heir to an auto fortune, claimed in his suit that he was eliminated by another which qualified under a relaxation of the rules.

Leafs Hold Rangers to Tie With Migay in Star Role

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rudy Migay is known in the hockey trade as a plugger. There is nothing fancy about his work. Migay is regarded as one of the National Hockey League's most competent penalty killers and he demonstrated it Wednesday night by helping Toronto Maple Leafs to a 3-3 deadlock against the Rangers at Toronto before 12,936 fans.

Leafs were trailing 2-1 when Toronto rookie Al MacNeil was given a hooking penalty early in the second period. Migay, a last year man with Leafs, was sent out to break up the Ranger attacks.

He went after Rangers while they were deep in their own zone and outfought three players for the puck. Migay took two shots at New York goaltender Lorne Worsley and finally beat him with a third drive to make it 2-2. It was the fourth goal of the campaign for the 28-year-old centre.

Leafs grabbed a 3-2 edge a little later but Rangers bounced back with a goal by Andy Bathgate. It was the end of the night, to tie the engagement.

Right winger Gerry James and Ron Stewart, a forward converted into a defenceman, got the other Toronto goals. Larry Cahan, a former Leaf, tallied Rangers' other goal.

It was the only game of the night and the fourth straight tie for the Blueshirts, who have not won a game in their last ten starts.

Twelve penalties were handed out, seven to New York. Worsley made 30 stops, 15 in the second period. Ed Chadwick handled 33 drives in the Leaf cage.

Peahead Wants Dry Weather Ivy Craves Medium-Mild Air

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Doug Walker of Montreal Alouettes, never realized success as a football optimists in pro football, found a few reasons for a cautious outlook Wednesday night as his team wormed to break Edmonton's two-year reign as Grey Cup champions.

Walker learned that tackle Jim Stanton, one of the mainstays of the Montreal line, will have to be used sparingly in Saturday's game in Toronto against the Eskimos because of an injured foot.

Stanton injured the foot in the first game of the Big Four final series against Hamilton. He was used little in the final game last Saturday and had to be helped off the field near the end of the contest.

"Right now I don't plan to use him much," said Walker as he guided his players through a workout in a driving rain. The weather, and reports that it rained in Toronto, also had the coach worried.

WANTS IT DRY

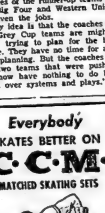
"If it stays wet we'll be under a severe handicap. We can't throw the ball in rain or snow."

Tex outlook for Saturday, however, was for a cloudy day with the temperature around 40 and no rain or snow.

Although Walker himself refused to comment, it was learned that he and other club officials were not too happy about a trip by Jean Beliveau of Montreal Toronto, where he was honored Wednesday as Canada's outstanding football player.

One club official protested that Alouettes should not have been called away while the Alouettes were getting ready for a big game.

Walker applauded the choice of Beliveau by sports writers and radio commentators as the outstanding football player of the season.



"He's a great two-way player. He can do everything asked of a good footballer. He's as great defensively as he is on offence. In fact he'd make a good halfback in the spot that Jackie Simpson now plays him at more positions."

Walker again drilled his defensive squad Wednesday to meet Edmonton's strong ground attack, going over a scouting report brought back from the West by assistant coach Jimmy Dunn.

Walker also declared that he w'l not coach the Eastern team in the all-star game in November because of pressing personal business in the United States. He suggested a coach of the future, the coaches of the runner-up teams in the Big Four and Western Union be given the jobs.

"My idea is that the coaches of the Grey Cup teams are mighty busy, trying to plan for the big battle. They have no time for all-star planning. But the coaches of the two teams that were pushed out now have nothing to do but think over systems and plays."

Edmonton Fans Off for Toronto

EDMONTON, (CP) — Two hundred persons in a 14-car special Canadian National Railway train left Edmonton Wednesday night for Toronto and the Grey Cup game.

The train, with seven sleeping-cars, was to pick up another sleeper at Saskatoon a little later or more at Winnipeg.

Those leaving were Edmonton green and gold colors and Edmonton Eskimo buttons of various shapes and sizes with the slogans: "Love Those Esks, and Let's Go-Three in a Row."

EXTRA FLIGHTS

Trans-Canada Air Lines officials had arranged special flights leaving for Toronto today and two Friday.

Many dissapointed fans were unable to obtain accommodation in Toronto or tickets. The demand for the tickets far exceeded the football Eskimo club officials said the 2,600 tickets allotted Edmonton fans were sold out before noon Wednesday.

Scalpers were quoting prices of tickets at $50 to $75 and more were being sold. Betting was reported not too heavy as many betters were wiring money to the East or giving it to those going to Toronto to take advantage of odds favoring Montreal Alouettes.

Quebec League

TROIS - RIVIERES, Que.- (CP) Goalie Ray Frederick kicked out 33 shots to shut out Trois-Rivieres Reds 1-0 Wednesday night and spark Chicoutimi Sagueneens into first place in the Quebec Hockey League.

The victory, which put the Saguenays one point ahead of Quebec Aces in the league standings, marked a battle between Dino Mascotto of the Lions and John Hanna of Chicoutimi in the second period. Both got major and minor penalties.

Austrian Expert Says Yanks Will Clean up Track Events

MELBOURNE (CP) — One of the world's greatest track and field coaches predicted Wednesday that the United States will make a virtual cleanup in that section of the 1956 Olympic Games and that the slaughter on records will be amazing.

Franz Stampfl of Gay-eared Australian - born physical - education director at the University of Melbourne gave a final look at the entries as the athletes tapered off their training and handicapped the events for The Canadian Press. He confined his handicapping to the men's teams—"I don't know too much about the gals."

He picked United States stars to win 14, seven of them track and four field. His next best rankings were three each for Great Britain and Russia. He forecast all three of Britain's wins in track competition; one in track for Russia and two in field.'

He didn't give Canada a look-in.

CALLS FOUR OTHERS

Four other countries were predicted by Stampfl to take Gold Med..s in field events only—Australia, Hungary, Italy and Poland.

Stampfl has been coaching track and field stars for 20 years. He is the man who coached Dr. Roger Bannister when the famous British runner became the man first to crack the four-minute mile.

The best Stampfl could see for Canada was a sixth-place finish in the 400-metre run for Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C. Canada's relay teams, at 400 and 1,600 metres, were given a bare outside chance to get by the preliminaries and make the finals.

Stampfl predicted flatly that every Olympic record in track and field will be wiped out except the broad jump. He hedged only slightly on the sprints, saying these records may withstand the assault if head winds hold back the runners.

LITTLE HOPE

Against the competition Canadians will have to face, he said the boys from Canada haven't a ghost of a chance to win an Olympic medal.

It will be scarcely a contest for Parry O'Brien of the United States in the shot put, said Stampfl, and the same holds for the American teams in the 400 and 1,600-metre relays.

His call for the 100-metre sprint is Ira Murchison, Thane Baker and Bobby Morrow — all Americans. Andy Stanfield, Baker and Morrow are picked by Stampfl in that order for the 200 - metre sprint, followed by Ardalion Ignatyev of Russia.

In the 400-metre run, it's Lou Jods of the United States, and then Ignatyev, Jim Lea of the U.S., Kevin Gosper of Australia, Voitto Helsten of Finland and Tobacco.

TABORI SECOND

Derek Johnson of Britain is Stampfl's pick in the 800 metres with Arnie Sowell of the U.S. second and Tom Courtney of the U.S. third. Brian Hewson of Britain gets the call over Hungary's Laszlo Tabori in the 1,500-metres and Ron Wood of Britain third.

Stampfl can see no one but the great Chris Chataway of Britain in the 5,000-metre run. He gives second choice to Britain's Gordon Pirie and rates Russia's Vladimir Kuts third.

Kuts gets the nod, however, in the 10,000-metre run, with Pirie second and Dave Stephens of Australia third.

Stampfl's one-two-three American finish in the 110-metre hurdles is Jack Davis, Lee Calhoun and Joel Sanbo. For the 400-metre hurdles: Glen Davis and Eddie Southern of the United States, followed by Jurri Lituyev and Igor Ilin of Russia and David Lean of Australia.

COULD BE CLOSE

"The 440-hurdle event is the one where there appears a definite clash between the United States and Russia," said Stampfl. "It could be a real thriller."

He predicted Sandor Rozsnyoi of Hungary will win the 3,000-metre steeplechase, with Semyon Rshischkin of Russia and Jerry Tobacco of Poland in the next places followed by John Disley and Chris Brasher of Britain.

Stampfl's pick, in this order, for the high jump: Charlie Dumas, Australia; Charlie Dumas, U.S.; Igor Kashkarov, Russia; Bengt Nilsson, Sweden.

"Dumas is the only man to go beyond seven feet but I don't think he can do it this time."

GIVES U.S. BROAD JUMP

Stampfl rates Bob Richards of the United States pole vaulter a teammate James Graham in the pole vault, despite Richards' victory in the 1952 Games. A 40-year-old Italian —Adolfo Consolini — gets the call for the discus throw, then Fortune Gordien and Al Oerter of the United States and Otto Grmusa of Russia.

For the hammer throw: Mikhail Krivonosov, Russia; Harold Connolly, U.S.; Stanislaw Nuenesheu, Russia.

Stampfl picked only his first choice for the decathlon: Rafer Johnson of the United States, and for the hop, step and jump event, Leonid Scherbakov of Russia.

AT THE PARK — Exciting scene from Republic's spectacular Natalma-Trucolor production "Thunder Over Arizona", coming Friday to the Park Theatre, pictures star Kristine Miller and John Compton. Skip Homeier heads the cast of the gripping frontier drama and having its first Belleville showing. On the same program in VistaVision and Technicolor "Strategic Air Command" starring James Stewart and June Allyson.

AT THE BELLE—John Kerr, student at a New England prep school, falls in love with the wife of his housemaster, played by Deborah Kerr in "Tea and Sympathy", M.G.M.'s film version of the long-run Broadway stage success. The stars are repeating the roles in which they scored in the original Robert Anderson play. The picture in Metrocolor, CinemaScope, is one no adult should miss!

AT THE McCARTHY — Relationships start off on the wrong foot between Robert Wagner, a GI private, and Broderick Crawford his commanding officer, in this scene from Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope drama "Between Heaven and Hell". The film also starring Terry Moore, makes its local debut today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Minor Hockey

All squirt and midget teams saw action last night at Memorial Arena in regular scheduled Belleville Minor Hockey Association play.

In the four squirt games the Maple Leafs shaded the Barons 2-1, Canadiens whipped the Browns 8-0, Rangers edged the Red Wings 2-1 while Bruins downed the Black Hawks 3-1.

Teams Two and Four battled to a 2-2 deadlock in a midget game while Team Five downed Team Three 3-1 and Team Three won over Team Six by a 6-3 score.

SQUIRT

Larry Stewart was the hero in the Maple Leaf's 1-0 win over the Barons, scoring the only goal.

B. Hallam and D. Rowbotham each fired one goal in the Rangers' victory while B. Butcher was the Red Wing scorer.

B. Smith starred for the Habs in their one-sided triumph, scoring three goals. David Hurst came through with two goals while the others went to D. Mason, B. Brown and Peter Thorn.

MIDGET

Earle MacDonald and Bernie Boulter each had a goal and assist in Team Five's victory while Green scored the other goal. Aselstine and Brennan received assists. L. Mavety tallied for Team One with B. Clapp assisting.

L. Davis gave Team Four their tie, scoring both goals, while Loveless and Halvorsen gained assists. L. Hull scored once and assisted on the other for Team Two. Buck Ethier got the other goal with D. Rayeroft helping on both. Moe Hunter went on a scoring spree in Team Three's 6-3 win, scoring no less than four goals and assisting on another. Moore and Faulkner also scored while Duggan and Vanalstine had assist. Westfall, Moreau and Langabeer were the Team Six marksmen, Moreau helping on another.

Hotel Gendarmes Will Mother Larks

TORONTO (CP) — Nine husky members of a downtown hotel's security police will run interference for Montreal Alouettes.

Alouettes were expected to check in at the Royal York Hotel today. The hotel is taking no chances that the team's pre-Grey Cup rest will be disturbed by autograph hunters, ticket-seekers and backslappers.

Ats are to sleep in one wing of the hotel and three men will be at each entrance until leave. Hotel employees also will block downfield for the Als when they leave or enter the hotel and will clear a path to tables in the dining room.

Canadian Crew Wins Workout

MELBOURNE (AP)—Canada's eight-oar crew from the University of British Columbia won a 300-metre pre-Olympics workout by three-quarters of a length over an international crew Wednesday.

In other trials at Lake Wendouree Ballarat, where Olympic rowing and canoeing events will be held, the American team and the Russian team each won in 300-metre sprints.

After the trials experts rated Canada and the United States as favorites for the eight-oar Gold Medal.

Beaded Gown on Lovely Body Julie Wilson Enters Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Julie Wilson, her remarkable figure encased in a $2,000 beaded gown, has finally made it to the movies.

It's a wonder she hasn't made it before now. For over a decade her beauty and sultry style have made her a hit on the night club circuit, but the movies strangely passed her by.

"I had just about given up hope" she remarked. "I figured maybe I wasn't right for movies."

What a silly notion. She can sing and she has a lovely face plus a remarkable figure that would have been likened to an hourglass in another era. "I'm just under five feet seven and generally weigh 128 pounds." she explained. "People seem to like me this way —sort of filled out."

TOO MUCH HIPS

When she first made a stab at modelling they took some pictures of me, I took one look at my hips and decided modelling wasn't for me."

Next came the chorus at the Copacabana. She likes to recall that Paul Douglas was appearing there as straight man for Bert Wheeler. She and Douglas are appearing together in This Could Be the Night.

Julie made a hit as a Saloon singer and has been a big draw in clubs from here to London. To further her dramatic career, she has been a replacement for Joan Diener in Kismet and Jana Paige in Pajama Game on Broadway.

Your Horoscope

FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — How you get along with co-workers and folks at home will greatly determine whether you will be happy about the outcome of this day. Enjoy some social function in free time.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You may have to work against odds or face hardships you did not expect. However, you can not only do it but make yourself felt as a stronger, more responsible persons. Let that smile show.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Disposition and general carefulness are important to this day (as to most). Manufacturing and selling useful items, dealing with superiors favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Start peacefully and go through the day determined to achieve as much as you can without misgivings and despite opposition. You can reach new personal heights.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — What you should do must be done without qualms, and in a cheerful way if you would really accomplish and maintain harmony. Even if others run around, you keep your poise; be relaxed inwardly.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Combine common sense, vigor and Virgo's inborn practicality to make this day a highly progressive one. Give and take—both in a smooth manner.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — There are times when the best seems none too good, and when no matter what one does, it seems to backfire the wrong way. Keep going; keep Libra's fine judgment backed by courage, and all will be well.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Some minor matters you may not consider important may be just the things that should be handled most carefully now. Determine everything with a thought to the future. Be encouraged.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This is the sort of day that challenges disposition as well as talents. So make up your mind you won't let little or big things tarnish your best efforts and plans.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — A steady stand and calm disposition will carry you through day's rough spots, especially in the a.m. Don't be one to make up your mind before conditions are thoroughly understood.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Note how others are doing, and whether you can improve your methods. Also work on community and charity activities where possible. Your genially and know-how are needed.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Try to be especially consistent and agreeable since this day has its snags and thin edges. You may be the deciding factor between success and "not quite making it". Have confidence!

YOU BORN TODAY have many varied talents. Among your fine assets are straight thinking, general ability, talent for knowing how to assist people and causes without previous training. A practical person in your daily living, you are, nevertheless, able to transport your thoughts into the realm of mystery and science, and visualize future possibilities. You are endowed with unusual power, purpose, mental ability; can aid children, the infirm and elderly in remarkable ways. Don't let—haste, extremism or driving power get out of hand.

ONTARIO

RESURVEY OF PART OF THE BOUNDARY BETWEEN THE TOWNSHIP OF CARDIFF AND PARADAY, COUNTIES OF HALIBURTON AND HASTINGS

Under the Surveys Act, Chapter 381, R. S. O. 1950.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a survey to re-establish part of the boundary between the Township of Cardiff in the County of Haliburton, and the Township of Faraday in the County of Hastings, together with the re-establishment of certain lots and concessions in the said townships, has been performed by me, Alfred Edward Wilson, Ontario Land Surveyor, and that my said report, plan and field notes with the undersigned are the survey of —

(1) The boundary between the township of Cardiff and Faraday extending northerly from the southerly limit of Lot 1 produced to the road allowance between concessions XIII and XIII in the Township of Cardiff.

(2) The boundary and northwest angle of Concession A, Township of Faraday.

(3) The northwest angle of lot 32 Concession A, Township of Faraday.

(4) The northeast angle of lot 32 concession A and the southeast angle of lot 32, concession XI, Township of Cardiff.

(5) The northeast angle of lot 32 concession XI, Township of Cardiff.

On Monday, December 17th, 1956, at the hour of 10.00 A.M. Eastern Standard Time, I will file in the office of the Surveyor General of Ontario, Toronto, my plan and field notes thereof, with a duplicate of each at the Chief Ranger's Department of Lands and Forests, at Bancroft, Ontario, at which time all affected, thereby will be heard concerning any objection to the survey as performed.

A copy of the surveyor's report, plan and field notes may be seen at the office of the Surveyor General, Toronto, or inspected at the office of Tweed, Ontario, or at the office of the Surveyor General, Department of Lands and Forests, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

F. W. BEATTY,
Surveyor General.

CLARE F. MAPLEDORAM,
Minister of Lands and Forests.

Arnprior Mayor Critical of Bank of Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor R. M. Simpson of Arnprior said today Bank of Canada policy to encourage higher interest rates is driving municipalities into bankruptcy.

He made the statement in presenting the report of the municipal affairs committee to the Eastern Ontario Development Association meeting here.

Finance, he said, is of para mount importance to the cities and towns and while the general public does not realize the seriousness of the situation, "to those of us in the municipal field the prospect is horrifying."

The committee felt that because of municipal difficulties in raising the necessary funds the costs of social benefits should be borne by the federal and provincial governments.

PLANE CRASHES FENCE

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—A Piedmont Airlines DC3 carrying 24 passengers crashed through a guard fence and up against a terminal building at the airport here Wednesday night. Only minor injuries were reported. The co-pilot and four passengers were given emergency treatment and released. The pilot said the brake system failed as the plane taxied into the parking area of the terminal building.

FIRST SIX

By 8:30 p.m. EST four others had joined it, one of them after delayed briefly by minor engine trouble, and another under way.

Two Flying Boxcars of 435 squadron, grounded at Ottawa's Uplands airport by bad weather, were reported still in the nation's capital last night.

FIVE LEAVE DORVAL

MONTREAL (CP)—The first of five RCAF transport planes carrying army administrative personnel to join the United Nations Middle East police force left Montreal's Dorval Airport at 1:30 a.m. today.

The remaining planes took off at two-hourly intervals. The aircraft carried 19 men and baggage of all personnel.

Defence Ministry Campney announced in Ottawa Wednesday night that 400 officers and men would be aboard the five North Stars.

The planes were to land at Capodichino, Italy, near Naples.

SECOND TRIP PLANNED

The defence minister's announcement of a second flight by the same aircraft would carry 400 more army personnel and their new duties at dates to be announced.

The first 126, of whom 16 are officers, are army engineers, signals, army services, medical, dental, ordnance, electrical and mechanical engineers, pay, postal and public relations personnel.

These are the first Canadian Army personnel to head for the Middle East following the cabinet's decision Wednesday to commit up to 2,500 Canadian troops to the UN force.

SOVIETS ROUND CAPE

CAPETOWN (AP) — The first Soviet ship directly around the Cape of Good Hope since the Suez canal reopened Sunday entered Saldanha Bay She is the tanker Dzerjinsk, loaded with 9,000 tons of soya from China for Western Germany.

RAPS CREDIT CURBS

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Tuesday night credit restrictions imposed by the Bank of Canada are hampering construction in Quebec. He has told the Legislative Assembly he hopes the federal government will study the credit situation.

Anglo-Australia Trade Agreement Is Completed

LONDON (CP) — Australia should sell an extra 100,000 tons of wheat and flour to British millers annually as a result of a new trade agreement achieved here after several months of hard bargaining.

Grain experts do not expect the Anglo-Australia deal to cut into Canadian wheat sales to Britain. If anyone suffers, they say, it will be French producers who sell to Britain soft wheat similar to the Australian commodity.

The wheat plan is part of the new trade pact, announced in the Commons in a mid-November by Board of Trade President Peter Thorneycroft. It will run for five years, replacing a pact originally established as part of the 1932 Ottawa preferential tariff arrangements.

GOOD FOR AUSSIES

Generally, Australia gets the best of the deal. It gets a heavy Australian rather than British trade.

In it, Britain expresses her "desire and expectation" to import not less than 150,000 tons of wheat and flour from Australia annually during the next five years. This amounts to between 3 and 4 per cent of the total imports Britain buys. But it hedged after the rebellion became frankly anti-Communist."

Nehru Persists In Recognizing Kadar Regime

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru Tuesday rejected Socialist demands that India withdraw recognition of the Russian-sponsored Hungarian government of Premier Janos Kadar.

He also indicated in Parliament that he believes the Hungarian situation "in its present form" was partly due to Anglo-French military action in Egypt. This action, he said, "made things easier" for the Russians in Hungary.

At the end of the two-day debate the House endorsed the Nehru government's foreign policies by an overwhelming vote.

AMF Atomics Given Contract To Build Reactor

HAMILTON (CP) — Canada's first privately - owned and operated atomic research reactor will soon be designed and built for McMaster University in Hamilton, it was announced here by AMF Atomics (Canada) Limited.

Of a pool-type design, the reactor will be financed jointly by federal government agencies and Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and several Ontario industries.

A sister company of American Machine and Foundry Company, Dalag Stakes, AMF Atomics is an established name in the research laboratory there. The institution will be staffed by Canadians, and will be operating early in 1957.

Hon. George Drew Back in Ottawa Feeling Better

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. George Drew, back at his Ottawa home, said yesterday he is feeling "reasonably well" but indicated that for the immediate future he'll be following doctor's orders to rest and "not pushing my activities."

Mr. Drew, who submitted his resignation as Progressive Conservative leader in mid-September following a long period of physical and nervous fatigue, said in an interview he will not attend next week's special session of Parliament on the Suez crisis.

Mr. Drew returned to Ottawa two days ago from his home at Guelph, where he had been resting following his stay in a Toronto hospital. He had not yet been to his office in the Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Drew was asked whether he has decided yet to run in next year's general election in his constituency of Carlton, west of the City.

He replied that he has no comment on that and has had time to consider the situation.

China Approves Russia's Actions In Hungary

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has given official approval to the Soviet Union's actions in Hungary.

"What the Soviet Union has done in Hungary has no purpose other than to help the cause of communism," an editorial in The People's Daily, official voice of the Chinese Communist party's central committee, said Wednesday.

The editorial was broadcast by Peiping Radio.

It represented a switch from the Chinese position when the Hungarian rebellion began. Then, Peiping praised the rebels in their fight on Stalinist policies in Hungary. But it hedged after the rebellion became frankly anti-Communist."

Gaitskell Wants Common NATO Foreign Policy

PARIS (AP) — Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the British Labor party, has called on leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to adopt a "common foreign policy."

Speaking to members of Parliament from the 15 NATO countries, Gaitskell said NATO had been "completely ineffective" in coping with crises in Hungary and the Middle East.

He termed the revolt in Hungary "one of the most significant things in human history." It had left NATO members unable to do anything except pass resolutions and take up collections for relief.

Referring to the Suez crisis, the labor leader criticized the British and French action in launching an invasion of Egypt without reference to other NATO members.

He also criticized NATO for failure to do anything about the Cyprus dispute which involves Britain, Greece and Turkey, all NATO members.

Kingston Strikers Return to Work

KINGSTON (CP) — Some 140 men went back to work Wednesday, as Kingston Shipyards Ltd. with a new contract, ending a 13-day strike.

Five striking unions of shipyard workers signed an agreement which calls for a seven - cent hourly wage increase for workers earning $1.36 or more and a further five-cent increase next year. Those earning less will get 4½- and three-cent increases.

The unions agreed to forego their request for three weeks' holiday pay after 15 years' employment.

Khrushchev Suffers Setback By Molotov's Rise in Power

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The re-emergence of Vyacheslav Molotov into a more prominent role in Moscow probably means an important realignment of Kremlin factions and forces is taking place, in the continuing power struggle that began with Stalin's death.

It almost certainly indicates that Nikita Khrushchev has suffered a setback in power and position.

The key question is where the Soviet army stands and the probabilities are that Defence Minister Marshal Zhukov has thrown his immense weight against Khrushchev because of army officers' alarm at the danger to Soviet positions in eastern Europe as a result, they consider of Khrushchev's policies.

Information reaching the West through Yugoslavia indicates Suslov last July at a central committee meeting led a successful campaign to defeat Khrushchev on his policy toward President Tito of Yugoslavia.

The way in which Molotov has come back into the limelight makes it seem more likely that for the present at least it is not Molotov who is playing the role of king-maker or king-breaker.

The two new positions which Molotov has acquired in the last two days are important but they are probably not those he would choose as stepping stones to the top position in the Kremlin hierarchy. On the one hand Molotov has apparently the job of Communist party supervision over the Soviet arts. On the other, he has been named minister of state control, a job which can be unimportant or important depending on the man who runs it and his authority. Essentially it's an auditing and inspection organization with some semi-police powers.

MAY BE DEMOTION

(Some U.S. officials in Washington take the view that Molotov's new job represents a demotion rather than a step upward. These officials say the new Molotov post is equivalent in the chief of the government accounting office. They say the new Molotov post is equivalent to the chief of the government accounting office. They said it may mean that Molotov, long recognized as a leader of the tough Stalinist group, is being shelved.)

It would be a mistake to jump to the conclusion that Khrushchev has "had" it. This man is fast on his feet. . .

Molotov's re - emergence into positions of authority is less important for its own significance than as an outward indicator of an inside melee in Moscow. It very likely is the precursor of other important personality changes.

Churchill Says Rebuke of Britain By UN Unwise

WOODFORD, England (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill, in a speech read for him here Wednesday night, said the United Nations had been neither wise nor helpful to Britain in its rebuke to the British government over the Suez Canal crisis.

It was the first public pronouncement on the Middle East situation by the former prime minister, who will be 82 next week.

The speech was read by Lady Churchill at a dinner in her husband's parliamentary constituency. Churchill had been advised to stay at home by his doctors because of a cold.

Churchill's message said:

"The Egyptian action in blocking the Suez Canal is a heavy blow to their own economy as well as a blow to all maritime nations.

"It is not hard to guess at the instigators of an action that can only prolong unrest and start economic distress in the Middle East and all over the world.

"I am a patron of the United Nations association in this country, but I cannot agree that their rebuke to this government was either wise or helpful.

SEEKS TECHNICAL CENTRE

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa district industrialist Wednesday said Ottawa needs a technical school such as Toronto's Ryerson Institute of Technology. J. Clarke McGlashan, operator of a silverware plant at suburban Bell's Corners, told the Eastern Ontario Development Association such a school here would help relieve a shortage of trained labor in the area.

Pledged Immunity, Nagy Missing; Yugoslavs Irate

Former Hungarian Premier Left Yugoslav Embassy

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The government - controlled Budapest radio claimed today that the Budapest Workers' Council had called off its strike after "partial agreement" with the government of Soviet - backed Premier Janos Kadar.

The council called the strike yesterday when Russian troops and Hungarian police kept it from meeting in the Budapest Sports Hall.

The strike call had little effect on the labor situation since a majority of Hungarian workers already were on strike. They are making a last-ditch effort to win concessions from the government in the face of Soviet guns and food and fuel shortages.

The effect of the new back-to-work call remained to be seen. The "partial agreement" mentioned in the broadcast listed none of the strikers' main demands. They include withdrawal of all Russian troops and the return to power of Imre Nagy, a nationalist Communist who became premier briefly after the bloody anti-Soviet revolt started.

CALLED PREVIOUSLY

Once before the workers' leaders called off the original strike. The weekend walkout is a sit-down.

Budapest Radio said the government had acknowledged the workers' council as a "corporated body" for negotiating purposes. Kadar also promised to suggest to his cabinet that the workers' elect factory directors "from a number of aspirants."

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Yugoslavia today called on the Hungarian government to explain why ex-Premier Imre Nagy who left the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest under a promise of safety Thursday night had failed to return to his home.

The Yugoslav statement was the first indication that Nagy had not returned safely to his former post home. He had been sheltered in the Yugoslav Embassy since Nov. 4.

President Tito's government had announced earlier today that Nagy had left the embassy, together with other Hungarian politicians and their families, after Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-sponsored government had promised Yugoslavia they would not be arrested.

The Yugoslav statement said Nagy and his party left the Yugoslav Embassy Thursday night "in a manner but which was placed at their disposal for reaching their homes" by the Hungarian authorities.

It added: "According to information received by the Yugoslav government, Imre Nagy and others not yet reached their homes."

Yugoslavia's foreign ministry summoned Hungarian Charge d'affaires J. Koti and told him categorically to demand that the Hungarian government to ensure the "full implementation" of the declaration reached by the two governments.

RELATIONS THREATENED

If Nagy and others with him were not guaranteed their safety, Yugoslavia would consider it a flagrant violation of the already friendly relations between the two countries as well as the generally recognized norms of international law, the statement said.

Nagy and his party left the embassy at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, according to the earlier announcement here. They remained in Nagy's short - lived government, left the party's ranks and Thursday named Zoltan Vas, appointed head of the committee for public supply of the city of Budapest, as successor, former Communist mayor of Budapest and a member of ministry of propaganda and culture in the former Nagy government.

The Yugoslav government said the Kadar regime promised safety to the persons granted asylum in the Yugoslav Embassy after the Tito government sought a settlement of the issue "in the course of the friendly relations between two neighboring countries."

It said Hungary agreed Wednesday in a written guarantee that Nagy and others would be evacuated because of their former activity" in which Nagy and others who were sheltered in the Yugoslav Embassy.

Butler, Macmillan Relieve Tension Of Back-Benchers

LONDON (Reuters) — The Conservative party leadership is believed to have succeeded in lowering the tension among members of Parliament over the Middle East crisis.

Two senior cabinet ministers spoke Thursday night to a private meeting of Conservative backbenchers who have been deeply divided over conditions which should govern Britain's withdrawal of troops from Egypt.

Seventy-plus has had it that the ministers — R. A. Butler, Lord Privy Seal, and Harold Macmillan —hold difficult opinions on how the withdrawal should be done.

But according to well informed sources, the two ministers left the majority of government back-benchers with the impression that the cabinet is solidly united on the course to be followed.

The big speech at Thursday night's private meeting was said to have been made by Macmillan, Chancellor of the Exchequer and generally considered to be a leading exporter of the line Eden has been throughout the Middle East crisis.

MENTIONS CHALLENGE

Macmillan is reported to have raised his arguments above the immediate level of the crisis to the challenge presented to the West by the Communist infiltration in the Middle East.

The speech was seen as a warning to party "rightwingers"—who are demanding the withdrawal from Egypt without the most categorical safeguards—not to push their case too far.

Today's Chuckle

Voice on the phone: "Are you the game warden?"

Game Warden: "Yes, I am.

Voice: "Thank goodness, I have the right man. Hurry right over, please give me some suggestions for a child's birthday party."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) —Synopsis: Wintry has taken a firm grip on Canada's Arctic air mass and all of the province this morning with early a.m. temperatures ranging from 10 below in the north country to between 15 and 20 above in the lower lakes regions. In most areas the weather will remain fine for the next two days, although it is expected that snow will continue to penetrate the Lake Huron and eastern Georgian Bay regions today.

UN RESOLUTIONS MAY IMPEDE SUEZ SOLUTION

Asian-African Group To Demand Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) United Nations efforts proceeded for speedy action in expanding the UN Middle East force and clearing the blocked Suez Canal were forced today with two resolutions which could stall progress.

It was understood three and possibly four resolutions would be put before the General assembly when it takes up discussion of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's report.

Two United States resolutions would praise the work done so far by Hammarskjold and authorize him to get on with the job. These are expected to be passed without hold-ups but action on either phase of the Middle East crisis.

However, India and other Asian-African countries have come up with a resolution which would demand the immediate withdrawal of British, French and Israeli forces from Egypt. A British member group drafted and signed the resolution during a 45-minute private meeting Thursday night.

COULD EXTEND DEBATE

Many delegates feel this resolution would lead to endless and bitter debate and thus hold up approval of the UN force's existence. But the U.S. proposals be taken up first on the agenda. Hammarskjold would be free to go ahead with negotiations on operation of the canal, if cleared.

A second resolution reported under consideration by the Asian-African group would insist that British and French withdrawal "coincide" with the withdrawal of Egyptian troops from the Suez Canal area.

It was reported the group is willing to put over to a later date discussion of the withdrawal problem, but insisting on immediate action on the withdrawal proposal.

Diplomats said the U.S. decision to withdraw its support behind the Asian-African resolution calling for immediate withdrawal, Chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. is reported to have decided to back the resolution after conferring with President Eisenhower in Washington.

Maybe St. Nick Is Down In Florida

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three little girls sat down the other day and wrote three little letters.

They put all three notes into one envelope, wrote their address on the back, and addressed the letter to Santa Claus, Texas.

Thursday the letter came back. Stamped across the envelope was: "Returned for better direction."

Gen. Gruenther Says Middle East Crisis Has Strained NATO Alliance

OTTAWA (CP) — The Middle East crisis has created a strain among the Western allies but its effects are not yet serious, says General Alfred Gruenther.

But the retiring commander of NATO forces in Europe adds that it could have a serious effect "if allowed to continue for any length of time."

"It would be a tragedy if the West's unity were allowed to crumble at this time," the United States officer told a press conference here Thursday as he bade farewell to the president of the American Red Cross.

"My feeling is that it has not crumbled significantly," he said. "But whatever strain there is should be corrected."

Gen. Gruenther met reporters after a session with the cabinet in which he reported on the European situation as it stood on his departure from Paris Wednesday.

Gen. Gruenther told the newspaper men he believes that the West at the moment could not afford to let Canada losing over to an aggressor but could defeat him in a global war involving no clear weapons.

"Our long-range air attack would not be stopped," he said.

Even with the use of the intercontinental guided missile, unless it could destroy the West's retaliatory air force it would continue to be subjected to "very severe attack."

But in any case the intercontinental missile was still several years away.

Meanwhile, NATO forces would be able to defend all of Europe when the German manpower contribution became adequate, possibly in 1959, though that was just a rough estimate.

At the moment, NATO had lost the forces both of unity could be maintained among the alliance members they could carry war-time "deficiency" in the fact that they would take some time to get a group of many nations moving against a single aggressor, Gen. Gruenther said there is.

But he added NATO hopes to learn a lesson from the Middle East crisis and already is making staff studies to see how any necessary action can be stepped up in speed.

Snow Blankets Three States With Drifts up to 7 Feet Deep

CHICAGO (AP)—A biting wind of subarctic severity and hampering with slippery surfaces and poor visibility three arteries remaining open.

In Michigan's Upper Peninsula, it was down to 4 below at Sault St. Marie. Snow there ranged from 2 to 5 inches, the latter at Grand Marais.

Well to the east of the snow storm area, Boston had a difficult sort of a freak storm. A violent rainstorm knocked out utility service in 45,000 homes, toppled chimneys and broke down trees. Damage from gusts ranging up to 62 m.p.h. was estimated in the tens of millions of dollars.

Hundreds of motorists were trapped by the sudden Lake Erie storm, which began as many persons were en route to family Thanksgiving Day dinners.

Farmers, motel and hotel operators, restaurants — and many householders — opened their doors to the stranded and fed and sheltered them. There was no report of casualties although the temperature dipped below the 20-decree mark early today.

Americans, Czechs, Russians Win Olympic Gold Medals

MELBOURNE (CP) — Three gold medal winners were decided in the opening events of the 1956 Olympics track and field program today—one each going to the United States, Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Canada did not figure in the medal ceremonies, but did herself proud as Ken Money of Fernie, Que., picked up points by placing fifth in the high jump, and Stan Levinson of Toronto returned to the finals berth in the 100 metres.

Ans at Ballarat, 70 miles west of the Olympic city, the record opened University of British Columbia crew scored a convincing five-length victory over Germany, with Australia third, in a time that was 6.0 second short of a 6:0 Olympic record.

Meanwhile, NATO forces would be able to defend all of Europe when the German manpower contribution became adequate, possibly in 1959, though that was just a rough estimate.

At the moment, NATO had lost the forces both of unity could be maintained among the alliance members they could carry war-time "deficiency" in the fact that they would take some time to get a group of many nations moving against a single aggressor, Gen. Gruenther said there is.

But he added NATO hopes to learn a lesson from the Middle East crisis and already is making staff studies to see how any necessary action can be stepped up in speed.

The 10,000 metres was labelled as a Kuts-Pirie battle, and it was that until the blonde-haired Russian got a way from the Aussie Britton with three laps to go in the 25-lap event. Kuts then proceeded to lead of about 50 yards, and Pirie gradually tried and lagged 62 m.p.h was estimated in the gusts.

The big thrill for the Canadian crowd at the stadium was Money's jumping. His leap of six feet, 7¼ inches was well over the winning performance of Duncan McNaughton of Vancouver in the 1952 games. McNaughton's mark was six feet 5¼.

Juvenile Wounded

CARLETON PLACE, Ont. (CP) Police said that one of three juveniles who broke into a service station here early Thursday was wounded when the station owner fired three rifle shots into the darkened building. They were later captured.

The boys were identified as having escaped from the training school at Alfred, Ont. One of the three, a 15-year-old, was taken to hospital with a minor flesh wound in his hip.

WINTER SLASHES ACROSS CANADA MONTH EARLY

26 Inches of Snow Dumped in Some Areas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Old man winter, scurrying on state a month before his official cue, Thursday night slashed central and eastern sections of Canada and the United States with storms that dumped up to 26 inches of snow on some communities and drove ocean shipping to the safety of harbor.

The west coast also got its share of foul weather in virtually all six, sea and land traffic shuddered to a stop under blankets of fog. Two planes due to carry Grey Cup fans to Toronto for the football classic were cancelled but officials say a ray of sunshine—they'd be in Varsity Stadium in time for Saturday's kickoff.

Erie, Pa., a city of 130,000, was virtually paralyzed as a storm packed with heavy snow blew off Lake Erie. The main storm has been about Erie's shore 75 miles into Ohio, east into New York and about 20 miles south into Pennsylvania. Many small towns were isolated and main highways closed. Some snow drifts up to seven feet high.

Some Northern Ontario communities, from city centre to city limits, received from one to two feet of snow, southern areas only a light dusting.

SALES LASH COAST

Meanwhile a southerly gale raved down the Atlantic coast, flinging sea debris and sand over Lakers and freighters entering Halifax harbor anchored to ride out the storm rather than risk reaching their berths.

Winds reached gale of 75 miles an hour at Sydney, N.S., and more than 2 inches of rain fell on Sable Island, N.S.

A violent rainstorm knocked out power to 3,000 homes in Boston and winds up to 62 miles an hour toppled chimneys and trees. Damage there was estimated in the millions of dollars.

A big freighter sailing ship was driven toward a rocky shore in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and a fishing vessel was reported overdue at Canso, N.S. The 15,000-ton Greek freighter Stamped a boo.ine off the Quebec Gulf shore, but three members of Halifax Rescue Tug Foundation and many of the vessel was at the mercy of the wind until the crew received help from others to keep the ship clear of rocks.

'Hot' Snow From Store Blaze

FLINT, Mich. (CP) — While snow blanketed this city, firemen here found themselves battling "hot" snow Thursday while fighting a fire that annoyed $59,000 worth of Christmas toys and decorations.

Several hundred cans of artificial snow blew up as they became hot and showered them with intermittent bursts of powdery flakes. No one was injured.

Cup Lockinvars Come From West Toronto Ready For Gay Invaders

TORONTO (CP)—The bush and bounce of Grey Cup festival was expected to strike this staid old city today as the first major outbreak of pre-game gaiety for the 1956 Canadian football final.

Thousands of westerners are arrivals were the participating teams, the defending Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos and their challengers, the Montreal Alouettes from Montreal.

Next to them were the celebrants, from east and West, who will turn the town upside down before the game is over. Nearly 7,000 are expected from the Montreal area, another 1,500 from Edmonton and hundreds more from other western and eastern centres.

Thursday night only a few private pre-game celebrations took place.

The quiet was in contrast to the Thursday night rowdyism in Vancouver in 1955, but no one blamed the heavy snow for dampening the spirits here.

There were some explanations for the difference between Vancouver—the first city west of Ontario to stage the Canadian grid finals—and Toronto. Some say the event has become a regular occurrence.

Perhaps most important, Vancouver was new to the Grey Cup festivities and the natives wanted to see what it was all about. They, along with early arrivals, jammed downtown streets and every cup focal point to have a look. The whole town got into the act.

With Toronto, that stuff is old hat, and the natives don't come into the town to join in when the pot is brewing.

Edmonton organizers planned a mammoth show in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel for tonight and Grey Cup party, at which Miss Grey Cup, will be chosen from among 13 contestants, was scheduled for tonight. Also on tonight is the reception to honor the outstanding player in Canadian football; Hal Patterson of Montreal, the outstanding Canadian player, Normie Kwong of Edmonton and the outstanding lineman, Kaye Vaughn of Ottawa Roughriders.

Three Nominated For Mayoralty, 21 For Council

Public School Board, PUC Member Acclaimed

A three-way fight for the mayoralty loomed as a possibility for the December 3rd municipal elections in Belleville following nomination meeting held at the city hall this morning.

Nominated for the mayor's office were Mayor Jane Forrester, Alderman Effie McCabe and Ex-Mayor John Both.

Twenty-one were nominated for aldermen with seven to be elected.

W. Harry Rollins was the only one nominated for the office of public utilities commissioner and he will be returned to office by acclamation.

Neither will there be an election for public school trustees with only one man nominated for each separate school.

And virtually the same situation existed for separate school trustee with all nominees except in one ward receiving acclamation. Only in Ward Three were three two nominations.

The nomination meeting was a quiet one with only a couple of dozen citizens on hand in the council chamber when city clerk Mrs. Anne Haggerty opened nominations at eleven o'clock. As the meeting opened there was a flurry of nominations; at the half way mark there was a lull in proceedings and then a few nominations trickled in under the wire.

MUST QUALIFY SATURDAY NIGHT

First nominated for the office of mayor was Alderman Effie McCabe. Then Mayor Forrester's name was entered and finally that of Ex-Mayor John Both.

Aspirants for the various public offices have until nine o'clock Saturday evening to qualify.

All of this year's aldermen whose term expires in December were nominated. These are Alderman H. J. Clarke, Enos David, Ralph L. Graham, Leslie Digby, Frame, Gerald B. Hyde, Effie McCabe and Percy McGuire. It is not known whether all will seek re-election.

Aspirants for the various public seats will be given an opportunity the final night of qualifying at an election meeting scheduled for the Collegiate Auditorium next Thursday evening. On Wednesday evening candidates will be heard at a public meeting election gathering to be held at the Quinte Secretarial Debating Club on South Front Street.

TO BUILD CITY

MONTREAL (CP) — A new "ultra-modern" city to accommodate 35,000 persons will be built soon on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite suburban Verdun, it was announced Thursday. A statement said the centre will be built by Canada Development Corporation, a Montreal real estate firm, which has purchased all but two per cent of the 2,500 acres contained in the site. The area is expected to start in the spring.

Now He'll Receive a Buffalo Bill

McLEAN, Va. (AP)—Manning Gasch and his family were just sitting down to Thanksgiving dinner Thursday when a truck stopped in front of their home.

"Where do you want the buffalo?" asked a rod policeman C. M. Stull, who accompanied the truck driver. The astonished Gasch examined the tag on the untamed buffalo bull. It had been shipped from Wichita wildlife refuge in Lawton, Okla., and it was clearly addressed to him.

Train Plunges Into River, 104 Perish

BOMBAY (AP) — A passenger express train rocketed off an embankment weakened by flood waters in south India today and reports from the scene said 104 persons were killed and 200 hurt. Officials said the final death toll in the accident, 191 miles south of Madras, might pass 150.

Railroad officials said at least nine coaches and the engine plunged into the river. The express was en route from Madras to the south Indian port of Tuticorin.

FALL KILLS MINERS

MUERZZUSCHLAG, Austria (AP)—Four Austrian workers fell about 500 feet to their death Thursday while riding in a cable car near Hoenigsberg in the province of Styria. The cable leading the cable car snapped, sending it hurtling to the ground, engaged in repair work, fell into a ravine.

Police Inspectors Say Accused Was Likely Suspect in Theft

Two Ontario Provincial Police inspectors yesterday testified that the trial of Charles Lockwood that because he was "head over heels in debt" when he left Ottawa, was enough conclusions that he was a likely suspect in the disappearance of $8,500 U.S. currency from the Marmora post office on August 15. Lockwood was arrested on August 29 and charged with theft from the mails and possession of the money.

The trial went into its third day this morning.

Inspectors Robert Wannell and Vern Whitely said that shortly after the money disappeared Lockwood opened a bank account in Peterborough with $83. In January Can Pelton. He also made a $70. payment on his car, $30. of which was in U.S. money. On the night the money packet mysteriously disappeared Lockwood attended an Amerstation. The bill was later turned in to police by him on instructions of his lawyer.

Transient Youths Given 6 Months For Car Thefts

Appearing for sentence today on three charges of car theft, two transient youths, Roy Thompson and William Tripple, both 17, were given six months definite and three months indeterminate by Magistrate T. V. Wills.

Neither of the youths has a permanent address, one of the boys recently having been released from a foster home and having since been endeavoring to locate relatives.

In passing sentence Magistrate Wills said he was discounting the fact that neither had homes but at the same time said their offences were too serious for suspended sentences to be given.

He hoped the youths would be sent to Brantford where they would be given the opportunity of learning trades which would be of benefit on their release.

The youths stole cars at Kingston, Gananoque and then at Belleville where they were apprehended a week ago as result of police investigating a stalled car.

Burns, Shock Fatal to Farmer

BEAMSVILLE (CP)—A young Beamsville farmer died of burns and shock early today after jumping into the second storey of his blazing barn.

Bruce Tinlin had been working with his father in the four-storey barn in preparation for the arrival of 8,000 chicks today. Firemen said they believe the fire may have been caused by a defect in the heating system.

Tinlin's clothes were afire when he tried to escape. He was found dead near the barn. Mrs. Tinlin jumped to safety and was unhurt.

Survivors include three young children.

Sentenced to Hang

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP)—Gordon Buck, 28, Thursday was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 19 for the murder of his five-year-old stepdaughter, Heather Mabel Rinderer who was strangled and beaten to death.

Pathologist Dr. F. P. Scarfe testified that the girl died from multiple face and jaw fractures and strangulation.

He said she had been criminally assaulted shortly before her death and may have been assaulted a month before her death about Sept. 8.

Stirling Store Entered, Robbed

Effecting entry by smashing a glass out of the front door, thieves early Thursday morning made off with a quantity of clothing valued at over $100 from R. A. Patterson's Gents' Furnishing Store at Stirling.

Mrs. R. L. Hatton who lives in an apartment over an adjoining store, heard the sound of breaking glass at about 4 o'clock and raising a window saw a car being driven away and notified police.

Mr. Patterson was unable to estimate the amount of merchandise taken but said shirts, socks and possibly suits are missing.

Five youths and young men have been arrested and further arrests are expected.

Police believe the same gang has been involved in other break-ins in Belleville and vicinity. The arrests were made by provincial and city police co-operating under the direction of Inspector J. Clair Hayes.

BAN U. S. CATTLE

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Australian government has banned importation of cattle from the United States, Health Minister Donald Cameron announced today. He said that for some time imports of American cattle had been restricted for four months of the year between February and May because of "blue tongue" infection in sheep in the United States. Recent research indicated the disease might be present in cattle the whole year round.

Judge Reduces Original Fine

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Robert Forsyth Thursday dismissed an appeal brought by a 50-year-old Toronto woman convicted last month of driving while her ability was impaired by a "tranquilizing drug." But he reduced her original sentence.

Judge Forsyth fined Mrs. Dorothy McDougall $50 and costs or 10 days. He termed the earlier sentence of $100 and costs "excessive."

Evidence given at the trial indicated Mrs. McDougall had taken 20 tablets of a tranquilling drug in the hours before the June 15 auto accident that led to her conviction.

A doctor testified the drug could be purchased without prescription, "gives the user the effect of not caring about anything."

Defence counsel Edward Horlick said he appealed on the grounds Mrs. McDougall had not realized the effect the drug could have.

Lebanese Nip Revolt in Bud

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fast action by Lebanese military forces apparently has nipped a politically inspired plot to stir up trouble in the country.

There has been no wave of political unrest and distorted reports from Syria depicting Lebanon as a military camp swept by riots and violence, but this is untrue. There have been a few "violent anti-Nasser demonstrations" as reported from Damascus.

Lebanon's government headed by President Camille Chamoun has been under strong but unsuccessful pressure to break off relations with Britain and France, as Syria and Egypt did following the British-French invasion.

WINTER SLASHES

The fishing boat James and Thomas was reported overdue at Canso and fear grew for Capt. Earl Munro and his twomand crew.

On the west coast, a deep-sea freighter and a coastal passenger vessel smashed into piers as they tried to berth in Boundshrouded Vancouver harbor.

STATE OF EMERGENCY

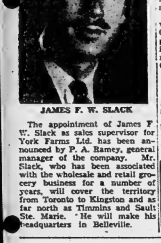
At Erie, Pa., practically all industries were closed down. Radio stations broadcast weather information throughout the night, a double shift of firemen was mounted at all stations and the Red Cross was called out to add stranded motorists.

Mayor Arthur Gardner today declared a state of emergency and asked Governor George M. Leader for national guard aid to ease the weather bureau forecast more snow for the community of 130,000.

There was no public transportation within the city, closed to all eateries, including routes 5 and 20 which connect Buffalo and Cleveland, were plugged tight by the deep snow.

Mayor Gardner called a meeting of all emergency and relief units in the city to discuss the the situation. He put out a general call for all citizens to join in helping to clear streets.

Fairview, a community 10 miles west of Erie, was isolated. The local hotels with 36 rooms, took in nearly 250 persons overnight.



Heavy snowfall in Ontario was reported in Kapuskasing and Cochrane, where 15 inches was reported. Timmins had six to eight inches and up to five inches was recorded in the Lake Huron-Georgian Bay area.

SETTLE AIR DISPUTE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Thursday night announced settlement of the Eastern Air Lines labor dispute 45 minutes before a scheduled strike. Officials said the walkout has been cancelled.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers, heifers and yearlings were steady this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were actively 50 cents a hundredweight higher. Bulls were steady. Calves were steady; base were $21 a hundredweight higher, choice lambs were steady with lower grades sharply lower.

Receipts of cattle were some 600 head more than last week and 800 head more than the same week in 1955. Hogs were down, receipts were 367 head less at 871 head. Western calves were comparable to last week at 741 head. The westerns were mostly replacements.

Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were two car loads as compared with six car loads last week. There were no exports to the U.S. An estimated 2,800 cattle will be unsold at the close, mostly replacements. The dressed beef trade is reported as lacking last week's action.

Feature of the week was the active demand for an unusually heavy volume of cows.

Prices

Choice steers were mostly $21, sales to $21.50 and one straight load at $21.75; good steers $19.50-20.50; medium $16-19; common $12-15; good heifers mostly $18; medium $13-$16; common $11-13 Choice steer and heifers $19-$21; choice dry-fed yearlings $23-24, steer to $24.50; good fed yearlings $22-23, medium $17-21; good cows $11, sales to $11.50; medium 9.50-10.50; common 8.50-9.50; canner and cutter cows $7-8.50; common and medium light bulls down to $8.

Replacement cattle: This class met a seasonal demand with most producers apparently filled up. The demand was for common and medium grades with common $12-14; medium $16; good stockers and stock calves up to $18.50; good stock heifers $12-14.

Calves: Veal calves were steady on a plain quality offering. Heavy fat calves were slow and hard to sell. Good vealers $22-26, choice to a top of $29; edium $16-22; common $10-15. Calves sold mostly for slaughter $19-12.50.

Hogs: Hogs sold at the highest price since July, 1954. Grade A $32 a hundredweight, sows $29.50, sales to $31; steg $15 a hundredweight drawed.

Sheep and lambs: Choice ewes and wethers were steady at $21.50 a hundredweight, cull down to $10; lambs were discounted $1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs were discounted as much as $3 a hundredweight, feeder lambs were $15; sheep $3-9 a hundredweight according to quality.

Winchell Will Receive $75,000 In Severance Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily Mirror said Thursday night that columnist Walter Winchell's Friday night television show will not be picked up at the end of the columnist's current six-week contract. The newspaper said Winchell will receive nearly $75,000 in severance pay.

The Mirror quoted Winchell as saying he had been notified by the cigaret company which controls the 8:30-9 p.m. period Friday nights that it is giving up that time. The alternate sponsor told Winchell it could not afford the high cost of the show in return for the good socialled rating of a sponsor.

The Mirror said Winchell's agency has received numerous offers and the columnist now is considering them.

Accused Guilty Of Manslaughter Given 4 Years

COCHRANE (CP)—Walter Pahkala, 50 - year - old roominghouse owner, Thursday was found guilty of manslaughter, but not guilty of murder in the death of the war man with whom he was living. He was sentenced to four years in prison.

Defence counsel Greg. T. Evans did not call any witnesses during the trial but in his address to the jury Thursday suggested one of the crown witnesses, one of four persons in the house the night Toini Kaaria, 41, was killed, may have shot her and hidden the gun.

He said only Pahkala, Miss Kaelin, Niili Kaaria and Paaka Paakkas were in the house June 21 and it had been shown all had been drinking for some days prior to the shooting.

While it was proved Pahkala could not have left the house at the shooting, no gun was found in the house, and the only gun found which could have been used in the slaying was one discovered in a vacant lot 100 yards away.

DEFENCE SUGGESTIONS

"I suggest that the only persons who left the house that night was Kaarin. I suggest that Kaaria was the person who took the gun away and if Kaarin did take the gun away, then he was the person who shot and killed Toini Kolin," Mr. Evans said.

Kaaria and Karkaas said they were upstairs when they heard shots fired and went down to find Pahkala in the kitchen with the woman's body.

The crown contended Pahkala reluctantly involved a desire to do away with the woman, possessed a gun like that used to kill her and had told police they would never find the gun that killed her.

SEGREGATIONIST CLEARED

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—Segregationist John Kasper was acquitted Tuesday of charges of soliciting and inciting a riot. An all-male jury freed the 29-year-old Washington, D.C., native. Anderson County Criminal Court Judge Robert L. Taylor directed the verdict after hearing testimony for about 45 minutes. The charges arose from Kasper's activities last August in trying to halt racial integration at Clinton High School.

Youth Attacks Elvis Presley

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Police broke up a fight between Elvis Presley and a 19-year-old youth in a plush downtown bar early today. Nobody was hurt.

Officers jailed the 19-year-old, Lewis Ballint of Toledo, on a charge of creating a disturbance in the Shalimar Room of the Commodore Perry Hotel.

"This guy walks up to me," said Presley, "and says 'You — — —,' my wife carries a picture of you in her wallet, but doesn't carry one of me. Let's step outside." The entertainer said Ballint lunged at him and the fight started.

As the officers arrested Ballint, six teenaged girls, who had been watching from the lobby doorway, rushed in and volunteered their names as witnesses.

Presley said he wasn't going to press charges.

BUS PROBLEM CONCERNS EVERYBODY

Many Belleville residents will be concerned about the difficult situation facing the Rawson Bus Lines. Those who are not interested should be, for an adequate, efficient bus service can be among the most valuable assets of any city.

It should surprise no one that the Rawson Lines are facing financial difficulties. The wonder is that these difficulties did not develop earlier, are not now more acute. The same factors which affect the local firm, the increased costs of operation and the decline in dependence on buses as a means of transportation, have been felt in cities throughout this province.

The man who would claim that he could offer an immediate, guaranteed and completely satisfactory solution would be either a genius or a fool. The problem is too complex to be easily solved or to permit of snap decisions without adequate research.

Nevertheless, that does not mean that the average citizen can afford to shrug off the problem as none of his business, or that suggestions by individuals may not assist in the difficult task of working out a solution.

The first thing that needs to be done, it seems to us, is for citizens to come to some agreement as to the general approach which should be made to the problem. There are several ways of looking at a bus service.

It can be considered to be in the same class as a television set, a refrigerator or a radio. If we want a TV set, we buy it if we can afford it. If we can't afford it, we do without it.

The other extreme is to regard a bus service as an essential service, as important to the community as schools or sewers, as a type of public utility. If we view it in this light, we pay the price and pare expenditures somewhere else.

We would like to suggest that one way to look at the bus service involves a compromise between these two attitudes. It is not so essential as education or sanitation, but is much too important to a community to be considered a luxury.

In other words we should be satisfied with the type of bus service which we can afford, but should be prepared to make some sacrifice for it.

We might start by recognizing that the problem cannot be met by a policy of raising fares until revenue meets expenses, because many find that a fare increase beyond a certain level actually decreases, rather than increases, net revenue.

We might also recognize that if everyone expects a bus to run by his door every fifteen minutes costs are going to be prohibitive.

This suggests a combination of increasing fares and curtailing services. We should not deceive ourselves that we can solve the problem merely by lopping off unprofitable routes. That would greatly decrease the service's value to the community. The system should be considered as a whole. But at the same time, Belleville residents ought perhaps to realize that they have been receiving a type of service much better than that offered in a number of cities. They should be prepared to walk an extra block or so to catch a bus, and to accept a half-hour interval between buses, if a comprehensive study of the situation indicates that such changes would permit us to retain the service. A half loaf is better than no bread, and a half-hour bus schedule is worth many times no bus service at all.

All factors should be considered in an effort to make the bus service profitable for the present operator. There is no reason whatever to expect any other private firm to enter the field unless the service should be experienced present operator find it impossible to make the system pay.

There are two alternatives to a privately operated service, neither of them pleasant to contemplate. One is a publicly-owned service. There are efficient public-owned enterprises—the Hydro is a shining example—but the hazards facing such a public transportation system would be a tremendously high. There would be almost irresistible pressure to operate uneconomic routes. The second alternative is to let the city pay a subsidy to a private operator. Several Ontario cities are doing this. They are not happy with the situation. "In some instances the size of the subsidy is determined by the size of the private firm's deficit, removing the incentive for the company to cut costs. Payment of subsidies would also expose the system to unreasonable demands.

Some other thing, though, would be the City of Belleville could, and should, do immediately. It can release the Rawson Bus Lines from its agreement to pay the city $1,200 a year for its franchise. No other bus company is paying an Ontario city a cent for its franchise. The franchise is not worth $1,200 a year—if it were the bus company would not be in financial difficulties. The city does not need a cent of revenue from the bus company—it should be overjoyed if this essential service is provided without cost to the municipal budget.

BEING GOOD

Well, it's started; plainly they,
For reason long well understood,
Are doing what in every way
All parents know as "being good."
They've ceased to race the home abouts,
With willingness they now obey,
No longer do we hear them shout.
It's getting on to Christmas Day.

I find my slippers by my chair,
The paper left for me to read,
I'm asked with a most gracious air
If there is anything I need.
No arguments at bedtime rise;
I merely have to let them know
It's time to shut those sleepy eyes
And promptly off to bed they go.

There come to table clean of hands,
And in their places upwards sit.
At table we may chatter, and
They never interrupt a bit.
No more that second piece of pie
They beg from mother or from dad.
They're showing, when they really try,
How good the little ones can be.

The noise they used to make is stilled,
No loud voiced arguments arise,
The home with laughter gay is filled;
Even the youngest seldom cries.
At table silence they maintain,
They speak politely, as they should;
The Christmas season's here again
And they have started "being good."

Need More Big Cities

Montreal Gazette

Twenty to thirty thousand people would form quite a group. Yet the latest figures show that Canada is losing such a group of native-born Canadians every year to the United States. As a result, there are now more than a million native-born Canadians living south of the border.

In fact the rate of loss has increased since 1950. Between the end of the Second World War and 1950, the number of Canadian-born persons who have left States was running about 30,000 a year. But now, at the very time when the Canadian boom may be at its height, Canada is losing 40,000 to 50,000 people, year by year.

For can the loss to Canada be estimated only in the number who have gone to the United States. For they have left Canada have established homes in the United States and often brought up their families as American citizens. Canada not only loses them, but loses most of their offspring also. The figures for the Canadian-born population of the United States do not, of course, include the American-born children of these Canadians.

Undoubtedly a certain amount of coming and going between countries is desirable for both countries. But what we now have is not an interchange, but a want of balance. It is rather like our unbalanced trade over the border. Canada is the loser.

Why do Canadians leave their country? Much of the answer—if the answer lies in the desire for greater opportunity and higher income—that this would scarcely be true in Canada at the present time, when development is rapid. But Canada would seem to suffer from that lack of vision which held to develop large urban centres, or a sufficient number of them, to give the full scope to the initiative that the attraction seems to offer.

This is even in an analysis of the statistics. The Canadian-born population of the United States is overwhelmingly urban. Nearly four-fifths are living in urban centres. Well over one half have moved to the four highly-industrialized states of Massachusetts, Michigan, New York and California.

* * *

This means that the Canadians who crossed the border were not attracted to the sparsely populated states. They were drawn to those very parts of the United States where opportunity was heaviest. Evidently they were convinced that there lay the best opportunities for employment and for advancement.

This is further borne out by an analysis of the occupations of the Canadian-born population of the United States. It is made up of those in professional, technical and managerial occupations, and by craftsmen of various types.

From these facts the conclusion may be drawn that it is population that draws population. This trend may also be seen within Canada, where the population has been shifting more and more to-ward the cities. If Canada is to hold her own population, it will not be enough to have so-called developments working with raw materials and natural resources. It will also be necessary to develop the secondary industries, to process these natural resources in whole or in part. For it is around manufacturing that population grows, and it is in urban centres that population is drawn.

* * *

Nor is this true only of those who seek the widest opportunity in business and finance. The large urban centres broaden opportunities in every field, whether in the arts, the sciences, the professions. Whether one is interested in surgery or painting, law or the theatre, it is the larger cities that open up the fuller prospects. The losses Canada has experienced in the emigration to the native-born to the southward may have fluctuated. But, it seems that the open spaces of this country, however rich in natural resources, will never check this loss until bigger cities, and more of them, provide greater opportunities for which Canadians are now seeking in the urban centres below the border.

Paint Teeth With Fluoride

Calgary Herald

The Calgary public school board has endorsed a proposal for voluntary fluoride applications to the teeth of children enrolled in the city's 39 public schools.

The treatment, which will consist of four applications being "painted" on to the children's teeth, is being carried out by the city's health department at a cost of $3.50 per child, a sum which will barely cover the expenses involved.

The topical fluoridation — the medical term for the external application of fluorine — has proved itself effective in reducing about 25 per cent of anticipated tooth decay among children of an age to benefit by the treatment. Fluoridation of a city's water supply has been shown by scientific tests and research to reduce the tooth decay of children of an age to benefit by fluoridation by as much as 60 per cent in Canada and the United States and by different parts of Canada and the United States to a figure ranging closer to 60 per cent, or nearly twice as good.

It is the point which must not be forgotten when, as no doubt will be the case, opponents of fluoridation attempt to convince the general public that there is no need to fluoridate water because dental treatment can be obtained through the schools. Basically, the difference in the two procedures is that fluoridated water begins to become effective through the slow but formative stages and before they progress through the cavity. The "painting" of the teeth merely leaves them a semi-protective coating, which is not nearly so effective.

Actually, there is no guarantee or even assurance, that either the health department or the school board will continue to make the treatments available in future years. This year's program, under which it is hoped that between 1,500 and 2,000 children will be treated, is merely intended as a means of demonstrating the benefits of fluorine in the prevention of tooth decay.

Atomic Power Problems

Halifax Chronicle - Herald

The danger of "atomic shipwreck" published by a United States scientist brings to light a whole range of new problems in connection with atomic power.

In theory, propulsion by atomic power, with its strength and convenience and its silence, promises great things. And all would presumably be well while the atomic plant was running normally. But, as Dr. Fayram has observed, what of the situation when accidents occur? Has either the Stockholm or the Andrea Doria been equipped with an atomic power-plant, he asserts, some hundreds of passengers would have been trapped with no more than a scare would have suffered from radiation effects. And had a ship such as the Arctic been thus equipped, the sinking would have resulted in the spilling of six reactors.

These are grave considerations. And they become more grave when the vision of atomic power is extended from ships to aircraft, automobiles and aircraft, as supposedly eventually it will be. A fatal accident—or a near miss—at the moment is sufficiently bad. What if the accident were to result in the release of radiation on a busy highroad or an airfield?

And even beyond that is the ominous pall of fear that the atomic bomb explosion has cast over the whole subject. Fear is certainly not entirely rational. But if cars are to be automatically powered, then even the normal mere repairs, involving penetration of the power unit, are to be forbidden, major operation not to be undertaken except under strict conditions of safety.

It is curious how such ordinary details as these can bring about in the glowing vision of easy, convenient and unlimited power. The simple reason is that realization of widespread atomic power is still so remote that it is all but does not yet become a matter of concern. Which merely adds point to the fact that a revolution as drastic as that with which atomic energy faces us today, cannot be achieved without being are going to be necessary, in addition to technical planning, before the new power is available, either with profit or with safety or convenience, to any great number of users.

How He Picked Baby's Name

Cooper's Weekly

The Smiths had a very special new son for whom they wanted a very special name—not the common Tom, Dick or Harry. One day the proud papa happened to pass a building with large garage-like type doors, one of which was closed. A word "Nozmo" was printed on the door.

Now there was a distinctive name for their son. They told his wife about it and she liked it. They agreed on Nozmo for the first name. A few days later the man passed the building again. The opposite door was closed this time and on it in large letters was the word "King."

Nozmo King Smith sounded fine. The next Sunday the couple had the baby christened with that name. On the way home from church they met a friend to show his wife where he had found such a distinctive name. Both doors were closed this time. To his chagrin, the man discovered that it was painted his baby No Smoking Smith.

TODAY'S TALK

JESSE STUART, TEACHER

Many years ago Christopher Morley was having luncheon with Ike Sherman, the antiquarian book dealer. He said: "Here is a book that you must get and read. It is by a new author, Jesse Stuart, and the name is "Taps for Private Tussie". That started the career of Jesse Stuart. I bought every book of his that I could locate, some dozen or so, and read them, or would try to.

Stuart wrote one book that is a classic in its way—"The Thread That Runs So True"—the story of his own life, his struggles and his adventures in getting an education. He became famous because of the success he made teaching in a run down school, transforming it into one of the best in all Kentucky. But he kept publishing his books—all excellent—his "Taps for Private Tussie" selling over a million copies.

I met Stuart once and we had hours of fun talking books. He is a superb regional writer, and Kentucky should be very proud of him. He went from school to college, and has spent most of his years teaching in his country, but now he has returned, after nearly twenty years absence to teach at the same school where the McKell High School in Greenup County, Kentucky—the school of his youth.

Why did Jesse Stuart return to teach? Was it because he found accept the job of Principal when he knew he could devote most of his excellent poet and fiction writer? It was just because he loved to teach young people. He has many more people—and a greater percentage than formerly—are falling into the clutches of the law, and this teacher—American

Shinplasters Are Mourned

Ottawa Journal

A generation has grown which is unaware of the crisp pleasure of a shinplaster. Mr. Harris Turner, a columnist in the Western Producer, Saskatoon, has therefore undertaken and suggests that the Federal Government should put the small 25-cent bank notes back in circulation. The Government abandoned shinplasters in 1934.

"I remember that people liked to say 'shinplaster,' as it was a more romantic and curiosity-arousing lavor than 'two-bit' or a 'quarter,'" the writer writes.

When a miserly uncle handed a shinplaster to an expectant nephew on a Saturday or at Christmas, time it made him feel that he was engaging in a more dignified business than charity than if only a silver coin was involved.

Why the name "shinplaster" should have been so universally adopted people is a mystery to those who remember it. But that is a small point. Mr. Turner thinks people are constantly bothered by the difficulty of handling silver for parking payments or to enter contests and he looks on the 25-cent note as a boon the Bank of Canada could give the people of Canada.

We look out at the well-lit-tarian walls of the bank across the street and we realize how unlikely it is that the financial institution would ever begin procuring anything so antiquated as shinplasters. They sound now almost as uncouth as spittoons.

Personal Health Talks

Namby-Pambies Need More Time

Back in the twenties, when Tony was a boy, there were numerous queries, Grampa said, concerning "food combinations." Many cooks, and customers of that era followed a diet fad which was marketed by a flotation who regarded the combination of protein and starch, for example, as incompatible or in effect "poisonous." It never occurred to the master salesman or his innocent customers that the Cycle ator combined protein and starch in the staff of life — wheat.

Certain food combinations are more appetizing than others are probably more digestible, as bread and milk or meat and potato or a hot dog and a roll go well together, but meat and milk do not. There is a physiological reason for this. The gastric juice secreted in the stomach at the taste of meat is similar to that secreted at the taste of bread; but the meat juice and the milk juice dissimilar in character. Something like red, white, and blue. Red and white go well together, so do blue and brown, but red and blue. That is, not in my experience, nor do you think?

Calcium and vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, go well together, in fact one without the other is never quite effective in physiology, in prevention, or in therapeutics, that is, the prevention or treatment of disease.

This does not necessarily mean that every meal, morsel, or dose of calcium must include enough vitamin D to insure good assimilation and utilization of the calcium. It is only a good daily ration or even a larger ration once twice week will suffice, as a rule, but it is simpler to take calcium and D combined if the purpose is to correct calcium deficiency. In most instances this is the purpose, for the ordinary diet of Americans is constantly lacking in calcium.

No matter whether you choose to regard calcium as medicine or what ails you or as food to satisfy the body's daily requirement, the best of calcium are the same:

1. It is essential for ossification of bone—or, in plain man's say, to build strong bones and teeth.

2. It is necessary for clotting of blood.

3. It diminishes permeability of body tissues to serum or water—coagulens, edema, dropsical swelling, and the like.

4. Necessary for adequate contraction of heart muscle. (Improves function of heart muscle.)

5. Maintains tone of skeletal muscle and nerve firmness.

6. Regulates excitability of nerve fibres and nerve centres — "steadies" the nerves.

Three glasses (1½ pints) of milk per day would supply enough calcium to keep an adult in fine fettle, though probably not enough for a growing child. Milk, by the way, contains more calcium (lime) than does water does. Three glasses of milk would supply about 12 grains of calcium.

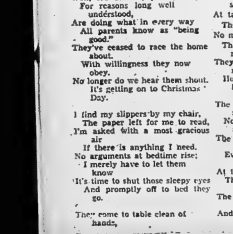
THE PACK SACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Cooking is an art, and therefore incomparable with the artist. Painting is a pretty generally accepted notion in our world these days that one can go to school and become an artist. However, at art colleges, all you can learn about art, are the instruments and materials of which art are employed. You can not only go to art school and not be an artist, you can graduate from a conservatory of music and not be an artist: what is worse, you can spend your entire life painting pictures, making statuary, playing the piano or devoting yourself to the love of the arts, and still not be an artist. All you can do is call yourself an artist, in the way that many we one a n a l l themselves cooks.

I don't suppose they have been to cooking college. But they have been schooled in the art, either by their mothers or friends. They read the cook books. They study recipes, or get them from neighbors. Many of them, poor souls, work hard and earnestly at their task and many a student studies and practices religiously the art of singing, but alas, has no voice.

To be a good cook, you have to be born with the artist in your soul, as that talent which differentiates a tree painter from a mere copyist or dauber. Yet that definition of cook and artist is indefinable. After sixty years and more of cooking, and through life three times a day in many homes, in countless restaurants and in fifteen countries, I have met few artists. The majority of mankind is fed by mechanics rather than by artists. Food, in the main, in all countries and at all levels of society, is prepared the way we do it in Belleville: mutton chops in a pan, a bricklayer mixes his mortar or a bookmaith hangs his metal into shape.



I realize that never in the history of mankind have there been so many people who have the time to cook, and since there had to be more artists, there were more artists, but more artists were born.

Today, loaded with equipment, we have mechanical cooks.

Maybe no more artists are being born, in cookery that is.

Prodigal Who Would Not Return

By ROY L. SMITH

Thousands of sermons have been preached on the subject of the prodigal son the very considerable majority of which very probably heaped condemnation upon the silly young man who had deserted a good home,a doting father, and a comfortable life. And, it must be confessed the young man did not display much in the way of good judgment until the day he came to himself. But it might be just a bit interesting to interview some of the young prodigals who never returned home.

THOUGHT HE COULD BEAT IT

Then there was that cocky and who stubbornly refused to go back to his father's house in spite of the fact that he was reduced to the necessity of feeding hogs, because he was very sure he had a "system" by which he could "break the bank," recoup his losses, and eventually become a big-shot in the racket. He had experienced nothing worse than a bad run of luck. If he could get someone to stake him, he might be able to stage a come-back. He had no sense of value, where money or morals were concerned, and he had no sense of shame when it came to living off of unearned money. Why should he go home as long as he could put up a front and live off other people?

ALL HYPOCRITES ANTHOW

Then there was that cocky and contemptuous young prodigal who sneered at the idea of going home, for did he not know that they were all hypocrites back home, anyhow?

He knew full well what kind of a person his elder brother was. They had never gotten along very well. He had always been victimized by the oldest son of the father, and the old father was getting pretty old and was easily fooled. If he had not been blind, he would have known that the eldest son was a crook and a snob. They were all alike.

WENT TO A PSYCHIATRIST

One of the young prodigals, quite sure that his misfortune was the result of the fact that he did not know "the secret," decided he would go to some good psychiatrist and learn from him "how to make friends and influence people." He was perfectly sure that it was all a mere matter of manipulating your thinking. Integrity did not matter. You can always think yourself out of every difficulty if you know the technique.

Being unwilling to admit to himself that he was feeding hogs, or that he was really hungry, he consulted someone who could offer him a slogan which he could repeat every time he found himself in a jam. Besides, it was a bit dull and stuffy back home. Nothing ever happened in the old man's house that appealed to a young sophisticate.

HE CAME TO HIMSELF

The high virtue of the young prodigal who went home lay in the fact that there was enough manhood left in him to enable him to tell the truth to himself. When he came to himself, he saw himself for exactly what he was.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 20: "The Prodigal Son," Luke 15:11-32.

Having seen himself in his true proportions, he had the courage to tell himself the truth. It took a rare quality of fortitude to admit to himself that he was perishing with hunger. It would have been so much easier to blame "the system," and become a communist or a social radical.

The great moment in the story comes when the young man said, "I will arise." He went home on his own power, and that proved that there was enough left in him to enable him to begin rebuilding.

Fall garden cleaning is as important as the Spring variety. Debris, dead or unwanted plants and prunings are best removed now, not only to have the garden looking spic and span but also to minimize insects and diseases taking over in spring. The familiar "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" holds very true for gardens.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Weddings

DONOVAN—REMEY

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, adorned with pink and white 'mums was the setting for the marriage of Vera Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Remey, Bath, to John Gerard Donovan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Donovan, Belleville. The Rev. Peter Murphy performed the ceremony.

Organ music was supplied by Sister Mary Wilhelmine and the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke of Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of nylon net and lace over satin fashioned with a fitted lace bodice having a stand-up collar and long lily-pointed sleeves. The full length veil of tulle illusion was caught to a crown of seed pearls and bugle beads. She carried a bouquet of red roses with nylon tulle and sprays of mignonette.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Raymond Plews as matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of pink crystalette with matching bolero and headdress and carrying a bouquet of pink roses and white 'mums.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Gray, sister of the bride, and Miss Rachel Richards, both of Belleville. They were dressed in nylon net over taffeta marquisettes, headdresses and carried nosegays of pink roses and white 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Raymond Plews and the ushers were Mr. William Doyle and Mr. Robert Schrieder.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road. The bride's table was lovely with its white damask centred by a three-tier wedding cake and bouquets of multi-colored flowers.

The bride's mother received, gowned in turquoise silk with black accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a grey wool dress with black accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Donovan left for New York City and other eastern points. The bride wore a brown dress of rayon and acetate crystalette with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Toronto, Arnprior, Stirling, Trenton and Belleville.

Club Activities

ENERGETIC CLUB

The regular meeting of the Energetic Club of Hollowell Street United Church was held in the church parlors on Friday evening. The meeting opened with the singing of several old hymns by the group.

"Brotherhood", was the theme for the devotional. Pat Ross read the Scripture and the meditation was taken by Ken Parks. Ron Jones led in prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Win Parks, and the business period held the family Christmas party on December 5.

Rikk Brookema and John De Vries favoured with several accordion selections which were greatly enjoyed.

Miss Leonore Wilkes gave an interesting travelogue and showed slides taken of her trip to England and the continent this past summer.

Refreshments were served by Irma and Ron Jones and their group.

Last Wednesday morning, a coffee party was held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Ellis in honor of Mrs. Leighton Smith, president of Xi Alpha Chapter. She was presented with a lovely gift and all members wish her and her husband, good luck and happiness in their new home in Port Hope.

Xi Alpha Chapter Beta Sigma Phi Plans Events

The regular meeting of the Xi Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Stewart Marysville, with Mrs. Lloyd Sheppard, presiding, in the absence of the president, Mrs. D. Black.

Prior to the business meeting, an impressive pledge ritual ceremony was held during which Mrs. Robert Farquharson Jr., was initiated and accepted as a chapter member.

The president welcomed Mrs. J. L. Freeman (nee Margaret Crozier) a former member who has returned to Belleville.

Minutes were read by Mrs. Jack Volkman and treasurer's report given by Mrs. Robert Boyce.

Mrs. Jack Johlin outlined plans for the Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Lennox next month.

Final plans were also made for the Ritual of Jewel dinner being held at Trenton on November 26. Refreshments were served by

Fiesta Sparkling, Colorful

Even though the "Melancholy Days are Here," with their drenching rains and gale-propelled winds, the 'weaker sex' showed a stout heart Wednesday night and evening by attending the exceptionally fine 'Fashion Fiesta' sponsored by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary at the Masonic Temple, where original holiday and resort wear, including the new, soft-as-silk leather jackets; luxurious furs, and gorgeous gowns were displayed in a delighted assembly.

The proceedings included Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, guest president; Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, president; Mrs. W. H. Ketchen, 1st vice-president, and Mrs. John E. Buchan, provincial president.

The auditorium for this spectacular occasion, was transformed from its stately pristine appearance into something gay and festive with its multi-colored Christmas trees, all silvered decorations of Yuletide evergreens, and the two white standards of lovely snow - white chrysanthemums which semi-lined the steps to the reception ramp along which the various models, with charming mien, displayed in eager eyes, what was new for milady of fashion and what was not so new, but which was fast losing its gracious quaintness of the days that are no more.

HOLIDAY WEAR

For holiday wear, a French wool crepe in pewter grey was one with its Grecian waistline outlined in matching handmade lace, and as was later observed in several of the gowns displayed, the waistline varied from the torso effect, to several notches above the normal. For the cruise, a pencil slim skirt with sheathed hem was beautifully cut, and was adaptable for both summer and cooler climates. A pale blue leather jacket with knit sleeves was selected for shopping and for casual wear, as was the full-length coat of the gown worn at said color.

Wool, as well as other fine materials held a spotlight in tender wardrobe, one of these was fine jersey in antique gold with its Grecian waistline and full skirt. Another wool dress that was eye-catching was of ginger brandy shade, a tonal red.

A Dior blue antelope crepe—which is known having a wool-like consistency—was also sotly draped; this material is soon to women allergic to genuine wool, as it has all the softness, but none of the irritabilities. To those who are not allergic to natural wool, Dior colors there in cerne de menthe shade, with basket-weave "Slim Jim" coat, was ideal for town and shopping period.

Among the silks one by Miyako Homan, in a Swiss cloth of pure silk in mint julep shade which showed a continuity of collar given the Scripture and the meditation et and fetching sheath-like skirt.

ENERVATING COLORS

Other colors that were on the whole bright and enervating, with tones of geranium red, prussian blue and darkly vivid, champagne; beige, grey, and some white; with one amethyst purple holding its own. Hats, too, either matched the outfit, or were a pleasing contrast, and were both headhugging and of the new, wide-effect, with fur trim or closely nestling feather contour.

Bags were large and voluminous.

Shoes and handbags matched, and were for the most part, dark in color, though there is good in the fall season, and white for evening, with silver and gold for dancing and cocktail parties.

The dress lengths were about mid-calf for street wear; for formal, the long graceful sweep with its attendant dignity was much in vogue.

LUXURIOUS FURS

The furs were luxurious and lovely in style and detail. Among those modelled were the old favorites, the grey and black-dyed Persian lamb, in shortie and full length, with gracefully full backs and straight fronts lending the fashionable slim line, so desirable. Other furs included the Canadian mink, the Canadian muskrat; Chinese mink, grey squirrel, Canadian beaver and the gleaming seal skin, shimmering and lovely. Stolen were a favorite.

Afternoon gowns included a lovely beige lace over satin with full back, and bow-buckle, having the molded hipline. Another gown of exceptional design was the Harem gown with pouff skirt. Gowns of pure chiffon, and also bengaline faille were modelled; one chiffon of imperial blue had the bodice encrusted with iridescent sequins. Sequins also were used on hats, and bags for evening, as was gleaming jewellery. An Elizabethan blue sheath dress, featured a jewel trim, was simply cut in front with sweeping panels in the back. A gown of French peau de soie was classic in symmetry and sported a crinoline.

GRECIAN IMPACT

Not to leave out the Yuletide season and its festivities, was a lovely creation in Victory red, with long skirt and flowing panels for the low-cut bodice back, this demonstrated the Grecian impact.

For the dance was the dress in yellow silk chiffon in ballerina length, with tight-fitting bodice having a bateau top of silk chantung. Another outstanding: gown was of silver cloth tone with Guipure lace outlined in gleaming silver thread, having a

As a finale to the fine display a gown of cobweb silver lace over white satin formed the bodice which extended into a deep V over the black velvet skirt, at front and back. This was also of floor-length, graceful and alluring.

The commentator, Mrs. Robert Tuer, is to be commended for her fine commentaries noting the highlights of each costume displayed.

MODELS

The models included Mrs. E. Buchanan, Mrs. S. K. Bakay, Mrs. E. G. Porter, Mrs. D. R. Bass, Mrs. L. B. Cook, Mrs. W. R. Doyle, Mrs. W. E. Jones and Mrs. R. M. Snowe.

Those comprising the fashion show committee included: Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith, convener; Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, Mrs. Ben E. Burley, advisory; Miss Ivy Dickens, Mrs. Gilbert Scott, Mrs. E. Guss Porter, Mrs. E. Buchanan, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Fooger, Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. Robert Tanner and Mrs. R. M. Snowe.

Appreciation was extended to Mr. F. Beeby of the Northern Electric, and Mrs. Beeby who had charge of the P.A. system; to Richard's Electric for the stage lights; to Mr. L. F. Burfoot; to Mr. K. C. Smith and Son, and Mrs. Walker Hardware for their timely assistance, and to the exhibitors; J. A. McNabb Limited, coats, dresses; J. S. Barber and Sons, for floral arrangements; Ronald Reed, jeweller, for costume jewellery and wrist watches; McIntosh Bros. Limited, hand bags, gloves and scarves; Ashley Furs, coats, capes, stoles; Leslie Shoes, shoes; Laurence Drug Store, cosmetics; Edwood's Hair Dressing Studio, hair styling; Woodley Furriers, millinery, and to Schwabs for the attractive Christmas decorations, and to the various donors.

At the conclusion of the style show itself the models took a curtain call after which Mrs. Richard's Electric presented Miss Cara Butler to the audience.

Following this, Mrs. Smith, on behalf of Mr. A. Mazer, of Avon Jewellers, and McIntosh Bros., each model was presented with a gift from each.

The commentator, Mrs. R. Tanner and Mrs. Eva Doolittle, each with a bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums by courtesy of Barber and Sons. The president was assisted in the presentations by Mrs. K. Smith, convener.

Mrs. Lennox Smith also extended appreciation to Mr. K. Shulman for his kindly assistance.

BACK TO WORK

PARIS (Reuters) — Actress Ingrid Bergman, who left the American Hospital here Wednesday following an appendicitis operation, will resume rehearsals for the play Tea and SynPathy shortly, a theatre official said today. It opens Dec. 1.

Pr. Wales School Sponsors Children's Fair

Prince of Wales school was a buzz of activity on Wednesday evening as the annual Children's Fair, held by the Home and School Association got under way. The children eagerly dashed from one classroom to another where many attractive booths were set up. They were also entertained by films conveyed by Mrs. Slack.

Mrs. Cooke, with the help of Mrs. Roulet, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Lake conveyed the tea room, where weary parents were enticed to enjoy tea and cookies while their small fry romped.

The Fish pond, convened by Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Dickens, was kept busy until the last fish was hooked. Hot dogs, soft drinks, candy and pop corn were all available to satisfy any appetite.

Mrs. Sproule, Mrs. H. Clark and Mrs. McCoy convened the hot dogs, and Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. McMullin, the soft drinks, and Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Nobes, the candy.

Pop corn was made and sold by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Weagant.

There were many interesting while elephants convened by Mrs. McKim and Mrs. Durrant.

Home cooking, convened by Mrs. Hutt, Mrs. Burley, Mrs. T. Clark and Mrs. Moore, displayed many delicious items of home baking.

Mrs. Nightingale and her pupils held a side show in her classroom. Here were fat men, fat women, strong men, two headed girls and many other curious specimens.

Rob Bisnid of Boush Appliances and J. Sproule, intrigued the gentlemen anglers with their spinning rod and bait casting contests.

Mr. P. Murray won the prize for hitting the ball set up as a target.

Bean bag throw was won by Doug Rose and Bill Burley.

Mrs. H. Elvins was treasurer for the evening.

The Home and School executive sincerely thanks all those who helped in any way to make the fair a success.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS SHOULD BE VERY USEFUL

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Since Christmas is only a short time away, and many engagements will undoubtedly be announced, then, I think the problem I have is a common one.

I've been going with my future fiance for four years, two of which he spent in the army. We've been planning to marry for all about, but we have never yet made any definite statement of this to our parents. However, since we've been going together so long they just take it for granted that we're getting engaged this Christmas and that I'll be given an engagement ring at that time.

I've often heard that when a boy and a girl become engaged, they go to each other's parents and ask their permission. I'd very much like to do this, just for formality's sake, but I'm at a loss for our parents, but how does one go about it? Since both our families know of our plans, even though we haven't come right out and told them that we want to announce our engagement at Christmas, it seems a little silly. But maybe they still expect it.

Anyway, can you give me some advice on the matter and let me know what should be done? —S.I.

Dear S.I.:

It doesn't seem to me you need worry much about the formalities.

Since you and he are both of parents are fully aware of your plans, I should think all that was needed would be just to tell them informally that you would like to have your engagement announced at holiday time.

If your boy friend wants to go through the formality of asking your father's permission to marry you, there is certainly no reason why he shouldn't. But I quite agree with you that under the circumstances, this would be pretty silly. Moreover, the old formality of asking for a girl's hand is rather outmoded, anyhow.

What I'd suggest in regard to this particular angle is that your young man take an opportunity to have a nice little talk with your father, at a time when they can be by themselves, and simply say that he hopes your father is happy over the engagement and that he'll try to be not only the best possible husband, but a good son-in-law as well. He might also ask your father if he has any suggestions for him along these lines. An informal man-to-man talk of this sort would be much more appropriate than anything else.

As for yourself, you could, if you wanted to, have the same sort of informal little talk with your prospective mother-in-law.

If you're going to announce your engagement at a little party, you'll of course be planning it with your mother, and she will be sending a little notice to your local newspaper about it.

There are a number of helpful books on the subject of engagements and weddings which you should be able to find in your local library.

DON'T BE A SILLY GIRL!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 16 years old and there's a boy, 18, I've known for nearly three years who has always meant something special to me. I've been out on several dates with him, and he's the only boy I'm really interested in. When I go out with other boys, I'm always wishing it was him.

It's been about six weeks, now, since I've been with him and I keep wondering if I'll ever get to go out with him again. It seems to me that if he didn't like something of me, he wouldn't bother to see me at all.

How can I let him know he means more to me than any other boy and that I probably think more of him than any other girl does? And do you think it would make any difference to him?

— Miss J.

Dear Miss J.:

Wouldn't you be the silly girl to let this boy know that he's the only boy you care anything about? And how do you know he isn't the only girl who is "that way" about him?

You ask me if I think it would make any difference to this fellow if he knew how you were swooning over him, and I think it would. The difference would be that, instead of taking you out for a date occasionally, he wouldn't want to take you out at all. Boys may be flattered to hear that certain girls are stuck on them, but it doesn't make them want to give those girls a big rush. What it does do, is to make them afraid to see the girls, lest they get the idea the boys are as crazy about them as they are about the boys.

Frankly, it seems to me you're wasting a lot of good time and emotion on a boy who doesn't reciprocate. For if he were as interested in you, as you are in him, he'd certainly have taken you out on more than "several dates" in the "nearly three years" you've known him.

All I can do is to repeat the advice I gave every other girl who writes me this same sort of letter, and that is, to go out with all the boys you can and really enjoy yourself, instead of wishing your date were someone else. For the quickest way to get any particular boy to notice you, is to let him see that you're already noticed by a lot of other boys.

BEAUTY

CORRECTIVE TREATMENT ERASES LINES AND PUFFINESS

Illustrated by King Features Syndicate

Cream "laugh lines" lavishly, massage with fingertips in an upward and outward motion to lessen their depth.

Since women put so many lines, puffs and puckers into their faces through neglect and carelessness, it is only fit that they spend a little time trying to erase the damage—especially if they've lived to seen the light and are willing to couple good resolutions for the future with their remorse.

And how lucky they—we!—are to have such lavish help from the cosmetic industries. They have made it their business to learn about every little wrinkle.

If you patronize a beauty salon that values its reputation highly, you can depend on emerging from your facial with the sag lines scarcely visible (except to an old school chum) and with any incipient puffiness pleasantly in check. However, if you haven't the time or money for indulgence in salon treatments, there's a beguiling array of leaflets, booklets and charts carefully worked out by outstanding manufacturers of cosmetics for home use which you can procure at practically any drug or department store.

All of them indicate by arrows or other symbols the trouble spots and the direction your corrective measures should take so that you can tackle your own lines and puffs. But you know them all too well—those puffy areas about the eyes, frown lines across the forehead creping of the throat and deep, alas, too deep "laugh lines."

For frown lines across the forehead, begin the creaming at one side of the forehead near your hair-protecting bandeau and color above the eyebrow. With fingertips, press; lift; press then lift again. Repeat this stroking at least six times across the forehead—each movement taking place less than an inch apart until you have reached the opposite side of the forehead.

In working on the throatline, begin at the base, move up to the angle of the chin, then outward. When that job is finished, work just inside the oval of the face. Begin down at the chin and press-and-lift all the way up to include any wrinkles fanning from the eyes. Pay special attention to the "laugh lines" running from the corner of the mouth to the nose.

The effect of this pressing and lifting as you cream is a gentle but thorough stimulation to the circulation which minimizes facial lines and puffiness in the face.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: "GIVE US GRACE TO LISTEN WELL"

Have you the grace to listen well? Do you give your undivided attention to what the other person is saying? Do you really show that you are really interested in what the person is saying, or do you give the unattractive impression that you are eager for the other person to finish so that you can begin to talk? Or do you perhaps have that preoccupied expression in your eyes or on your face, that preoccupied expression that shows only too plainly that you are busy thinking of something more interesting or important to you than what the person is saying?

Check up on yourself and honestly study just what kind of listener you are . . . not only when you are with one person, but when you are with a group.

WHO SHOULD GIVE THIS BRIDE AWAY?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father died several years ago, and last year my mother married a very fine man whom we have all grown to like very much. She is to be married in February, and I would like to have my uncle (my father's brother) give me in marriage. To me this seems the right idea, because we have always been devoted friends, and I think he should be the one to take my father's place. But my mother thinks my stepfather should be given this privilege. Which one do you think it should be? — Bride-to-be

I agree with you that your father's brother, because of his close relationship to your father and because you are so devoted to him, would naturally best take your father's place. And I think your stepfather would understand your feelings about giving this honor to your uncle.

"POTS AND PANS" SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a shower for a friend of mine, a nearby neighbor. It is going to be a kitchen shower, but the bride-to-be had already received most of her kitchen linen, and also small utensils, but looks quite nice. Attending the shower will be only very close friends, relatives and neighbors. Would it be proper to specify pots and pans on the invitation? If so, how could this be worded? — M.L.

It would be very sensible and practical to specify pots and pans on the invitations, and just as proper as writing Kitchen Shower. Indeed, since the bride-to-be has received her kitchen linens and some small utensils, it is a most nice idea to call your shower a Pots-and-Pans Shower. This is to be such an intimate shower, with, I judge, so comparatively few guests, that I imagine they will confer with one another in order to avoid duplication of gifts . . . and that's a helpful idea, too.

HOW TO SHOW APPRECIATION FOR HER FIRST SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married quite soon, and I have been told that several of my girl friends are planning to give me a shower. Actually I must confess that I've never been to a shower, and one idea particularly bothers me, as I think about it. When the many gifts are given to me, should I open them at once and thank the givers? Or is the proper thing for me to thank the givers, not open the gifts but take them home and, as soon as possible afterward, write thank-you notes for the gifts? — E.L.

These girls who bring you shower gifts will want you to open the gay packages at once . . . that's the most festive feature of a shower! So, as each gift is presented to you, say your most gracious "Thank you" at once, then open the gift, and enthusiastically comment on it, especially on certain features. Try to say "just the right" things that will make the giver feel rewarded for the thought and time and expense she has put into the gift. And, since this is your first shower, a warning, please: Don't appear so eager to see what the next gift is, that your thanks for the gift in hand seem too-hurried and therefore inadequate. As soon as possible after the shower, do write a thank-you note for every shower gift . . . this will also show that you are a mannerly and appreciative guest of honor!

NEWS OF SECRET MARRIAGE MUST NOW BE TOLD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We eloped several months ago, and we told our families that we had been married. Now it's a "must" that our marriage be announced. However, if we now hurry and send announcements of our marriage, we're wondering if some people might doubt that we have been married all these months. What to do? — B.W.

When you send formal announcements of your marriage, they will have on them the date (month, day, year) when the ceremony was performed and the place (city, state) where it was performed. Wouldn't this be enough for the doubters?

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I am sure that this is not an unusual complaint. I cannot make an angel food cake. When I had a rangette and a hand beater my angel foods were very good. Now I have a new electric range with a large oven and an electric hand mixer and these cakes are a failure. . . . I believe that the recipe (in the book which came with the stove) calls for too many cups of two cups. The large oven does not cook an angel or sponge cake properly. This problem is serious in our family for my husband and two older girls insist on home baking, from bread to cake and cookies. . . . I am sure many women find it hard to plan meals that are suitable for two adults and small children. Our three are 3, 2 and 6 months and all like to eat, the same food as Mummy and Daddy. Thanking you Mrs. Ross M. C.

ANSWER:

I can't believe that the fault lies in the size of the oven. I've seen the best angel food cakes baked in huge bakery ovens. Let us take the recipe and the method first.

"BEST YET" ANGEL FOOD

One and one-quarter cups egg whites which have been out of refrigerator at least 2 hours, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon almond flavoring, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted cake flour, 1 1-2 cups sifted sugar. To the sifted measured flour add 1-2 cup of the sifted measured sugar and sift them together four times. Measure onto a very large platter the egg whites, salt, cream of tartar and flavorings. Beat with a flat wire whip until whites are stiff enough to hold up in soft peaks, but still shiny looking. Sprinkle over the top of them the remaining sugar. In four additions, beating with wire whip about 25 strokes or until sugar is blended, for each addition. Then sift about 1-4 of the flour-sugar mixture over the whites at a time, using a folding motion—giving each 1-4 addition about 15 complete fold-over strokes using the wire whip. After last addition give it 10 to 20 extra strokes to be sure all flour is incorporated. Pour into 10-inch ungreased tube pan (which has never held angel or sponge cake) and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 30 to 35 minutes. Let cool. Then inverted for 1 hour, then coax out of pan with finger tips. If, after you try this method, your trouble is not cured, write to me again telling me what is wrong with the cake.

You are to be congratulated to have succeeded in training the children to like the food you and your husband eat. Keep it up. Of course the 6-month old should not be tried beyond her powers for adult food, a far too coarse for her little stomach. What we did when Marianne and Pete were little was have a real special meal once a week without the children. I fed them before we ate, made them comfy in their chairs with some special game, and then we had such things as French artichokes, Chili con Carne, Swedish Meat-balls, Sparribs, Shrimp Creole, Avocado—or whatever I wanted to try on us. If they showed interest they were given a taste—thus they learned to like everything.

ALICE TAYLOR LINDSAY M.B.

WELLINGTON — The Alice Taylor Lindsay Mission Band met recently at the home of Mrs. Ed. Laver, who, with Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Pettingell, were in charge.

Eight members and six visitors were present. Betty Laver gave the treasurer's report. Collection was received by Connie Allison and Scripture read byNancy MacDonald. Mrs. Laver read a short story and the study book.

Treats were passed by Carol Allison, Connie Allison and Nancy Wight. Treats for the next meeting Nov. 23, will be brought by Gloria Tuttle and Carolyn Pettingell.

Members are reminded to bring lankies. Don't forget the Mission Band Fancy Fair at 2 p.m. Saturday, November 24th at Mr. Harvey's barber shop. There will be a domestic table, fancy work, candy and a rummage table.

Y. P. U.

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Potts, David and Shirley, Mount Pleasant, entertained Rawdon circuit Young People's Union, Thursday evening.

Burnard Beckett read Luke 6: 12-17, and Miss Ruth Linn read the meditation. All sang "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross," and Miss Margaret Dracup offered prayer.

Miss Yvonne King contributed a piano solo and Miss Marilyn McConnell a vocal solo with Miss Betty McConnell as pianist.

Selections were read by Raeburn Scott and Roger Smith. Miss Janet Tompkins rendered a piano solo.

Mr. Craig Watson was in charge of recreation.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Heath and Bonnie, on Thursday evening, 29th.

The Mount Pleasant girls served refreshments and the meeting closed with "The Friendship Circle".

Women's Institute

PINE GROVE W.I.

The November meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Bloor with an attendance of 14 members and six children. The president, Mrs. B. Mitts, presided and opened the meeting in the usual way.

Business was discussed and the boy, who cares for the "Memorial-Plot" at the schoolyard, was paid for his work; also the First Aid Kit which was replenished, was paid for.

The report highlights by the delegate, Mrs. Bleecker, assisted by Mrs. Dixon of Belleville Area Convention, were given.

The ladies, who visited Pine Grove Extension Service course on "Home Nursing" reported an interesting and worthwhile time.

The district president visited the branch that day and gave a report of her trip to Ottawa and a report on Salada tea and how tea is grown and cared for. She mentioned China as the first country to raise tea and in 1510 Holland began growing it and in 1851 in Pakistan. Tea can also be procured in Ceylon.

Mrs. D. Smith gave a talk on "Burns", as the topic was "Health".

She said, "if a child gets burned, he usually gets panicky over it as older ones know how badly it can hurt, and quite often mother becomes panicky as well."

The talk was most appropriate as there are a lot of young children in the community and a mother cannot always follow the little child that runs about.

She advised mothers to get a tube of "Pan Jel" because mothers can get burned too. If the burn appears deeper than a shallow water blister, take the child to the doctor, and tell him what first aid measures you have been using. If you do not have Pan Jel use pure vanilla not an imitation.

After this talk the president closed the meeting and the hostess served refreshments.

Child Collects 100 Toys for Greek Orphans

OTTAWA (CP)—One of Santa's helpers got around early this year.

Eight - year - old Jamie Gregg started early in October to help send Christmas toys to orphans in Greece. For many children there those will be the first toys they've ever had.

Jamie, a grade three student in one of Ottawa's west end schools, read of the Unitarian Service Committee's appeal for toys in a local newspaper.

"Our teacher told us to read the paper for news about the world," Jamie said in an interview at USC headquarters here.

He clipped the story and added it to his classroom's bulletin board.

Then, the brown-haired youngsters with a ready smile and a spattering of freckles decided to do some toy collecting himself.

"He did it on his own, and it wasn't work because he really enjoyed it," said his mother, Mrs. J. E. Gregg.

Altogether, Jamie collected more than 100 toys. Some 1,500 toys collected here and in Toronto will reach Greece through the USC, for distribution at Christmas.

For Jamie—who didn't expect to hear any more about his work—special thanks came from the USC. His work won him a collector's badge from his cub pack, the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade made him its youngest honorary member and Ottawa newspapers printed stories and pictures.

And Jamie, who intends to collect Christmas toys annually from now on, received a gift for himself.

It was a fat package of stamps for his collection, gleaned from Dr Hitchmanova's mail which daily brings letters from children helped by USC projects in 11 countries throughout Europe and Asia.

REJECT RAILWAY IDEA

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control refused Wednesday to consider a request from the Railway Association of Canada that daylight saving time be extended to the last Saturday in October in future. It now ends on the last Saturday night in September.

Women's Activities

W. M. S. AUXILIARY

WELLINGTON—Mrs. A. Poulter was hostess for the W. M. S. afternoon Auxiliary on Tuesday. She also acted as pianist opening the meeting with quiet music.

Mrs. Hamel was in the chair. After the usual introduction members and guests were welcomed.

Mrs. Hicks called the roll and read the minutes. The books read were recorded. Mrs. Crook gave the treasurer's report for September. Offering was received by Norah Hamel and dedicated by the president.

Mrs. Ross reported for Christian Stewardship in the absence of Mrs. Walt.

Duracleaning

For economy and convenience . . . have your upholstery and floor coverings Duracleaned by experts, right in your home. Watch the colour come back with these gentlemen, beautify your furnishings.

Duracleaning removes your fabric from because it is modern, safe cleaning process actually extracts insect and chemicals which so often harm the dyes or fabric. Longer life too, because there is no wear, no brushing of threads caused by machine scrubbing.

This efficient, economical service is recommended by America's leading furniture and department stores.

What Makes Duraclean "Different"

Embedded dirt and grit are first removed by "deep suction." Many cleaning methods leave enough dirt-laden soap in your rugs and upholstery to cause "mantrac" or "rapid resoiling." Duracleaning avoids this.

The mild aerated Duraclean foam loosens and absorbs sticky soil and stains, holding this grime in suspension above the surface until removed.

No inconvenience! Duracleaned fabrics are dry in one to two hours. Special ingredients prevent mould, mildew. Rug pile assumes used appearance. Colors revive. Your fabrics are left clean, fresh, enlivened . . . your home is more beautiful to live with.

No upset—if you wish, you may at the same time have your floor cleaning, upholstery cleaning or Let's Dry-Proof. Two hour Let's Dry-Proof application makes fabrics and carpet brother. Also protects against stains. The second one is better than anything but effective mark solution yourself. Then you'll have Dry-Proof of independent dampness dampness.

We Sincerely Say:

DON'T BUY ENERJETS

Unless—

- YOU REALLY LACK VITALITY
- YOU ARE UNDER A STRAIN
- YOU NEED TO BUILD UP RESISTANCE AFTER AN ILLNESS

Because

Enerjets contain exceptionally high quantities of vitamins, minerals, liver and iron — that's why they cost $5.95 for a 30-day treatment — that's why we say ENERJETS are only for those who really need them, not for those who are new in the best of health.

Fast Action With Enerjets

The Enerjets box is like a calendar. It contains 30 squares. Each square holds your daily dose. Ten days from now, when you reach square 10 in the Enerjets box, you won't have to be told how much better you look and feel. You'll notice your appetite improves . . . your body feels rested, alert ready for action. ENERJETS are building you up helping you feel better than you have in years.

When You Reach Square 30

You should experience new vigor, a buoyant feeling of well-being, the happy companionship of your family life.

Your $5.95 is Protected

We have such confidence in the Enerjets formula that we say "You are protected" because if you are not so pleased that you want to tell others about them, then just do this — mail back the empty carton with your name and address to The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co. Ltd., Oakville, Ontario. We will refund your full purchase price plus postage. That is how confident we are that ENERJETS will help you.

Extra For The One You Love

After your 30-day ENERJET course you will feel so much better you will want someone you care for to start on ENERJETS too. Send the lid of the ENERJETS box with name and address to The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co. Ltd., Oakville, Ontario. We will forward a 10-day supply to you or the person you name with your compliments and best wishes for their good health. Only after you have taken your ENERJETS will you realize what a wonderful way this is to help a member of your family, or a friend.

French Pilots Tell Reporter About 'Patrols'

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Limited details of the presence of French pilots and planes in Israel during the Sinai offensive were allowed to pass the Israeli censorship Wednesday night:

French pilots, who flew here with an unknown number of Mystere jet fighters before the start of the Sinai offensive, personally told me they had been flying "patrols".

An Israeli official communique — the only mention of French pilots hitherto allowed to pass the censors—limited itself to denying that French pilots had flown in the Sinai campaign.

Evidence here of reported participation of the French in the Sinai campaign is based entirely on second-hand reports. I personally never saw any such action nor met any reliable independent observer who did.

DENY COLLUSION

The Israelis Thursday also officially denied any suggestion of "collusion" between Israel and any other nation in the Sinai offensive, but in fact they could not did not deny that French airmen were in fact present in Israel during the lightning Sinai war.

Officials here have persistently refused to confirm the presence of the French. in one case a correspondent who produced a note book with names of pilots names was described as "a liar."

French pilots and French planes were first seen by this correspondent at an airfield somewhere in Israel. I saw the planes a few days later the French markings had been removed and the Star of David painted on. During the time I was on the airfield I did not, however, see any French pilots actually taking off.

After the Sinai campaign Israeli air force officers gave a "victory party" in a Tel Aviv hotel. It was attended by the Israeli chief of staff, Gen. Moshe Dayan, and French air force officers were also present.

SPOKE TO PILOTS

I spoke to one lieutenant who said he had been flying air patrols along the Syrian and Jordan frontiers and had also helped to provide an "air umbrella" over Tel Aviv in case of Egyptian bombing.

Another French officer then started to give me details of another action. He was restrained by an Israeli who told him: "Be careful."

...A few days after this all French airmen vanished from sight — at least from the reporters—and an absolute ban on any mention of their presence was imposed by the Israeli government.

Laborite Says U.S. Cracked British Code

LONDON (Reuters) — A Labor members of Parliament claimed Tuesday the United States knows the full story behind the Middle East conflict because U. S. Air Force cracked top-secret codes used by Britain, France and Israel.

In the House of Commons next Tuesday, MP George Wigg will ask the government what steps are being taken to re-establish "the integrity of ciphers and codes used by the foreign office and armed forces, which have recently been broken."

Wigg, who hinted in the House of Commons last week that there was collusion between Britain and Israel before the Israeli attack, said Thursday the codes were broken by the air research and development command of the U.S. Air Force, and that the Americans also cracked the French and Israeli codes.

He believed it was done just before the Israel attack on Egypt late last month.

THEY KNEW ALL

He added: "I have no doubt they broke the French and British codes and they knew exactly what Eden and his cronies were up to, including the use of French Mystere planes."

He claimed the French knew in advance about Israeli operations and supported them, and that Britain was an accessory "before and after the fact."

"We have guilty knowledge. But our people are not crooks. They did not start out to be crooks—they are under the influence."

The government has previously denied all charges of collusion.

Bevanites Gain In Vote for 'Shadow Cabinet'

Top results appeared to better Bevan's chances of becoming foreign secretary should Labor return to power in Britain.

The 59 year-old leftist was re-elected to the parliamentary committee, or "shadow cabinet," polling more votes than any candidate except Harold Wilson, long considered one of his followers, and Alfred Robens, a Labor foreign affairs expert.

Members of the committee will round form the government if Labor were to win a general election.

Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell, often challenged by Bevan for leadership, was not a candidate. He heads the committee by virtue of his office.

You can't go ALL-OUT IF you Feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backaches, headaches, dizziness, "tired-out" feeling, hurried feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

Finance Minister Harris Likely to Keep Close Watch Over Inflationary Tendencies

Inflation can spell many things to many persons. It may bring despair to elderly folks living on small fixed incomes. It can bring unrest to workers and new spirals to prices.

The experts agree that inflation has slipped into the Canadian economy this year, but most consider it more of a shadowy menace than a thundering giant.

It is a slow-moving form of inflation, they said. But the threat of economic harm was there. And despite efforts to pin it down, it appears likely, the experts also said, that inflation would continue to creep through the economy in 1957.

That means the federal government's fight against inflation will continue; that Finance Minister Harris will likely aim for another large surplus in his 1957-58 budget; that interest rates will remain high and that there will be continual close federal watch over the volume of loans made by the banks, stock exchanges, sales-financing houses and others.

PRICES INCREASE

The inflation of 1956 has appeared on several fronts. Wholesale and retail prices increased. Prices climbed in the scramble for some items as raw materials. The competition for credit stiffened, and interest rates reached a new high. Federal monetary and fiscal machinery moved in to fight the swell.

By mid-1956, living costs climbed to a record. The consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, rose to 118.5 in June, cracking the previous high of 118.2 set in December, 1951.

Wholesale prices kept rising. The wholesale index, based on 1935-39 equalling 100, increased to a record 227 by mid-August. It was the 10th monthly rise since the 220 posted in October, 1955.

Earnings more than kept pace with the price rise and so workers found that had a little more purchasing power than a year ago.

On the average, labor earnings increased by about 10 per cent, wholesale and retail prices by about three per cent.

HITS FIXED INCOMES

But for those on fixed incomes the thousands of widows, retired pensioners and others, the price trends could prove disheartening.

Food prices rose along with the cost of shelter, medical and hospital care and transportation costs. One farm authority said it appeared food prices might rise still higher. In some farm production lines, consumption was getting ahead of production.

While earnings increased, Canadians appeared to be getting deeper into debt. By June 30, however buying on instalment plans and other pay - later schemes pushed the total consumer debt to a record $2,302,000,00, an increase of $340,000,000 over June, 1955.

Heavier consumer purchases undoubtedly caused some of the 1956 price rise but the main root was the big Canadian construction programme, the planned record $8,000,000,000 in capital investment outlays. The program got so big, officials said, that it was more than Canadians could handle.

CONSTRUCTION BOOM

There just were not enough building materials to go around. Builders competed for available supplies and prices jumped. American steel was scarce and a strike in the U.S. made it even tougher to get.

Mills moved quickly to expand production to meet the heavier demand. And so in 1957 there will be more steel, cement and other materials to feed the construction program. Builders couldn't get enough materials or workers to complete all their 1956 projects, so there will be a big carryover into 1957.

Trade Minister Howe has estimated that the program in 1957 will be as big as this year's, or even bigger. Unemployment is at a six-year low and there are more jobs than workers.

The economy is volatile and some unforeseen development can change the picture. But economists still heavily dependent upon exports for a large percentage of their prosperity, look for the export horizons look bright. There is no likelihood, they say, of any sharp drop in exports.

While the threat of inflation remains, the supply of money must be kept tight. There are other reasons why the government will continue to restrain credit expansion. The plan is to prolong the boom, to attempt to iron out the peaks and depressions, to prevent Canadians from getting into a boom-and-bust complex.

BUDGET SURPLUS

Mr. Harris undoubtedly will again budget for a surplus. He aimed at a surplus of $113,000,000 for 1956-57. But because of the economy's spectacular growth and the prices rises, it may actually reach more than $200,000,000.

His tax cuts, if any, may be kept small in line with the government policy to tighten up on the country's money supply.

It's a good bet, too, that the Bank of Canada's interest rate on loans to chartered banks and other financial houses will remain high. It was boosted to a record 3½ per cent in October, a sixth increase from the low of 1½ per cent in August, 1955.

Those moves influenced rises in general interest rates. The new basic interest rate of chartered banks moved up to 5½ per cent from 4½ and there was talk of a further increase.

Reassessment Of Metro Setup Being Considered

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario has approved a suggestion that the time has come to review the form of government which incorporates Toronto and 12 adjacent municipalities under Metropolitan Toronto.

A conference is to be held within the next few days at the suggestion of W. J. Stewart, Conservative member of the legislature for Toronto Parkdale and a former mayor of Toronto, that the time has come for a reassessment of the Metro setup. Mr. Frost said the proposal is "right on the beam."

Calling the Metropolitan system, whereby the municipalities share certain costs and services, a "highly successful experiment," Mr. Frost said suggestions for improvement are always welcome.

DOESN'T FAVOR

He said he recognizes that there is valid criticism of the system of representation and the relationship between the overall government and the municipalities, but amalgamation is not the answer.

"I don't think it would be wise to have a superimposition of government with the local municipalities."

At present, the heads of the 12 adjacent municipalities, two seniors for Toronto controllers and nine junior aldermen sit on the council.

Reeve W. B. Lewis of suburban Etobicoke, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for York - Humber, said Thursday night he favors a complete study of the Metro government by a committee composed of the Toronto and York members of the legislature.

A change in representation would be one of the primary considerations because, Mr. Lewis said, it is impossible for the head of any Toronto area to function efficiently on both the Metro and local level. He is one of the members of the Metropolitan council formed in 1953.

Despite Deficit of Imports Over Exports Economy Shows Highest Levels in Years

Never before has there been so much talk and so much controversy in Canada over the influx of investment from other nations, in particular the United States.

The debate has raged in the corner store and in Parliament. The talk in some quarters was that Canadians are victims of their own prosperity. A new consciousness of things Canadian, a new awareness of the U.S.-Canada border, seemed evident.

Canadians reasserted the great self confidence in their country's future; they planned and tackled the biggest business expansion in history. But investors in the United States and other countries also sensed the growing importance of Canada.

The factories of Canada were not big enough to turn out all of the bricks and mortar, the timber and other things needed. Canadian pocketbooks were not fat enough to support all the costs of the multi-billion-dollar expansion.

TRADE DEFICIT

And so more than ever they had to look beyond the capital and supplies.

In commodity trade alone, the over-all Canadian deficit—excess of imports over exports—was expected to reach roughly $1,000,000,000 in 1956, more than double the $406,000,000 of 1955.

Federal economists estimate that exports for the year will total about $4400,000,000 to a record $4,700,000,000. But imports are expected to shoot ahead to about $1,000,000,000 to a peak of $5,700,000,000.

And when all other trade is considered — tourist travel, shipping charges and the flow of the dividends—the deficit is expected to climb to about $1,700,000,000. Or more, perhaps double last year's $700,000,000.

STRONG CANADIAN DOLLAR

In other years, a deficit of this uncommon size might have forced the government to take hold of foreign exchange restrictions, but the strange value of the Canadian dollar showed no signs of weakening. The main reason: the flow of foreign capital, principally from the U.S., was more than sufficient to cover the deficit.

With some minor exceptions, the Canadian dollar has remained at a premium. It showed itself to be one of the world's strongest currencies, if not the strongest. The other major support for the loonie was of foreign capital. Some experts said the premium resulted because there was a surplus of American capital in Canada.

Behind against over the current strength of the dollar was official uneasiness over the growth of Canada's foreign debt, boosted by the trade deficit and capital imports.

It appeared that by the end of 1956 Canada's net foreign debt would rise to about $9,000,000,000, an increase of about $5,000,000,000 in the last six years. The bureau of statistics noted that as Canada's foreign debt grew, so would foreign claims against Canada's future earnings.

HUGE EXPANSION

Canadian savings were high but not high enough to finance all of the huge capital investment program, estimated at between $7,-000,000,000 and $8,000,000. Canadians were reported to have financed about 75 per cent of it out of their own pockets. The rest came from outside, mainly the U.S.

What irks some Canadians is that American capital is flowing into the dynamic segments of industry, such as mining and oil. Stocks of some American-controlled companies were sold to Canadian investors. Canadian investment dealers and others said it was time these were sold to Canadians, to give Canadians a chance for greater participation in industries operating in this country.

In public hearings before the Royal Commission on Canada's economic prospects, witnesses drew attention the extent of American control over essential industries.

A prominent industrialist protesting aluminum taxes however that if Canada made it tough on foreign companies operating in this country they might set up operations elsewhere.

PROCESS AT HOME

Hon. George Drew, then Progressive Conservative leader, said it was good that foreign capital ventured but that steps should be taken to encourage Canadian industry to process more of Canada's raw materials at home, to provide more jobs for Canadians. His supporters warned that if the Liberal government continued to encourage greater foreign participation in Canada development, Canada might ultimately become dominated by the U.S. politically and economically.

In April, just before his retirement, U.S. ambassador R. Douglas Stuart made a public defence of American capital in Canada.

In a speech at Vancouver, he cautioned Canadians against an "overdeveloped nationalist feeling." He maintained there is nothing sinister about the large flow of American investment in Canada and indirectly criticized Mr. Drew.

Opposition spokesmen in Parliament said the ambassador had made an unwarranted intrusion on Canadian affairs. Later at Chicago Trade Minister Howe said Mr. Stuart did a splendid job for his country. He had qualities of mind and spirit to deal successfully with difficult American-Canadian problems.

But Mr. Howe also had some criticism of how American corporations operate in Canada. He emphasized that American capital is still welcomed in Canada but appealed to Americans to open up more of their branch operations in Canada to Canadian investors.

He urged also that they select more of their top executives for branch plants from among Canadian technicians that they allow Canadians' knowledge to handle export orders; and that financial statements be published so that all could see how much profit was being made in Canada and where the profits were going.

FREEZEUP UNDER WAY

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Campney said Thursday night the voluntary system of recruiting has proved sound, sensible and successful in meeting Canada's defence commitments.

Voluntary recruiting enabled a "truly professional force," a trend evident in the United States and Britain, Canada had been in the forefront of this development.

Mr. Campney told the Defence Medical Association that in these days of crisis, conscripts called up for a year or two of service would only tie up a large percentage of the armed forces' effective strength in trainees or trainers "leaving too few trained and ready for operational duties."

Today there were 177,000 service men and civilians serving full-time in the defence effort, 100,000 more than at the outbreak of the Korean War and 105,000 more or than in 1939. The regular forces numbered more than 117,000, some 80,000 with training—many with battle experience in Korea—who had left the forces since 1950; 80,-000 in the Canada Reserve Corps; 210,000 in civil defence and 90,000 in cadet organizations.

"Here I might clear up a common misunder s t a n d i n g," Mr. Campney said, "Under the National Defence Act some ceiling must be set for the regular forces. But the ceiling—120,000—is not a target as some persons seem to think. The government's objective is, within the ceiling, to recruit sufficient service men to meet all our military commitments. That we have been able to do."

Recruiting was not the problem some seemed to think. For the last two years Canada's armed forces had kept within one per cent of an average strength of 117,-000 men — "a remarkably stable picture."

The statements were included in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Jumper Wins First Points For Canada

MELBOURNE (CP) — Ken Money of Ferris, Ont., earned Canada's first two points of the 16th Olympic Games today by finishing fifth in the men's high jump.

The Northern Ontario boy, a fourth-year student at the University of Toronto, was among 22 qualifiers in the high jump field of 32.

Two Australians, Charles Porter and Colin Ridgeway, and two Russians, Igor Kashkarov and Vladimir Sitkine, were among those bettering the qualifying height, along with Peter Wells of Great Britain.

HIS BEST JUMP

Money, 21, cleared 6 feet, 7¾ inches for the best jump of his career. But he failed at 6 feet, 9¼ inches and dropped out while the other four continued to battle for the title.

The 6-foot Money missed would have broken the Olympic record of 6 feet, 8½ inches.

Money, 22 or 22 who qualified for the final round earlier in the day, was one related question among his last jump that he drew roars of laughter from the crowd as he executed a neat back flip followed by a somersault.

Money's co-e Jack Parrington and Dick Harding of Toronto, who ran fifth and third respectively in their preliminary heats in the 100 metres—and failed to qualify..

Track, Field Records Smashed In Olympic Opening Events

MELBOURNE (CP) — The pre-high jump, Money cleared the bar dicted onslaught on track and field records at the 1956 Olympic Games was launched with a vengeance today and in all three finals—staged before a roaring crowd of 100,000 persons — the marks took one beating after another.

Vladimir Kuts, sinewy Russian naval officer, the Ukrainian, drew the greatest ovation when he won the 10,000-metre race in record time to Russia the first gold medal ever won by that country in track and field.

Charlie Dumas, 19-year-old Los Angeles collegian, gave the United States its first gold medal by winning the high jump with a record leap—no mat but took 90 hours to decide from the start of the earlier qualifying round.

DETHRONES NINA

In all three big events not only the winner but the second and third place finishers broke the Olympic records. The mark in the women's discus was also shattered four times before the Czech girl established her superiority.

Ken Money of Ferris, Ont., 21-year-old student in biochemistry at the University of Toronto, gave Canada a tiny share of the glory in the first day of track and field competition by placing fifth in the high jump.

Against record-shattering marks made by Dumas, Chilla Porter of Australia and Igor Kashkarov of Russia, the Northern Ontario boy had to leap his highest any Canadian has ever done in the Olympic at six feet, 7¾ inches but was still two and 3¾ inches short of Dumas' record.

ONE INCH SHORT

Los Angeles youngster soared over the bar at six feet, 11¼ inches—one inch short of his own world mark. The winning height broke the old Olympic mark of six feet, 8¼ inches made there by Walt Davis of the United States at the 1932 Games.

Dumas, who did a dramatic duel with Porter, unheralded Australian who cleared six feet, 10½ inches, Kashkarov failed at this height and had to settle for third place. Stig Petersson of Sweden beat out Money for fourth.

Money failed at six feet, nine inches, but has performance of 6-7¾ were more than 2¾ inches better than the winning mark made back in 1932 by Duncan McNaughton of Vancouver. McNaughton earned Canada a gold medal with his leap.

Money was the only Canadian to reach a final today and his fifth place was good for 20 points in the unofficial tabulation of points received by competing nations.

Stan Levenson, 19-year-old Toronto track boy who has been competing for three years, advanced to Saturday's semi-finals in the 800 metres after he had won his first-round heat in 10.8 seconds, beating Helmut Hoffacker of Germany, and placed third in a second-round heat.

Bob Harding and Jack Parrington, both of Toronto, failed to qualify in first-round heats. Harding was third—one place off the qualifying spot—and Parrington fifth.

Jackie M a c D o n a l d, pretty blonde Toronto school teacher who specializes in the shot put, took a whirl at the discus throw and was eliminated in the morning qualifying round. Her best toss was 137 feet, 9½ inches—almost five feet short of the necessary qualifying distance.

The United States sprinters showed clearly why they are favored to grab gold medals. Bobby Morrow, college boy from San Benito, Texas, and Ira Murchison of the U.S. Army from Cuero each tied the Olympic record of 10.3 seconds in winning their 100-metre heats. Thane Baker of Elkhart, Kans., was another heat winner.

CHEERED MIGHTILY

Kuts, winning time of 28 min. 30.4 seconds in the 10,000 metres—six miles and 226 yards—was well below the old record of 29:17 set in 1952 at Helsinki by Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek.

The fair-haired Russian was cheered mightily as he finished his last lap. He waved his hand to the crowd and then settled down the straightaway, grimacing and his face contorted in anguish as he—a reincarnation of those of Zatopek four years ago.

In the early stages it looked as if the race would be between Pirie and Kuts. The Englishman kept with the Russian until they were four laps from the finish, then were another about a few steps at that place. But when Kuts turned it on Pirie, Zatopek and Alan Lawrance of Australia swept past Pirie, who collapsed and third place, also breaking the old record, and finally wound up in eighth place.

The Czech girl had survived to the last six, with a third-round throw bettering Nina Ponomareva, the reigning champion, and Irina Beglakova, silver winner.

Miss Fikotova, then came through with her record-breaking throw of 53.69 metres, or 176 feet 1½ inches. Miss Beglakova improved to second place and Nina had to take third. The Russian girls could not beat the old record of 51.42 metres —168 feet, 8¼ inches made by Nina in 1954.

Earlene Brown of Los Angeles placed fourth and Helma Beck of Stades, Allaine Elkins of Russia was fifth and Isabel Avellan of Argentina sixth.

United Church W.A. Sponsors Fall Bazaar, Tea

FRANKFORD — Rose, Lowery Hall was the centre of attraction on the afternoon of Nov. 14 when the annual fall tea and bazaar was held under the auspices of the Frankford United Church W.A. The hall was attractively decorated for the Yuletide season. The evergreen boughs highlighted the windows, centred with frosted candy canes, poinsettia and frosted figures of Santa Claus. The stage was also adorned with evergreen boughs and Christmas decorations.

The receptionists for the afternoon were Mrs. Frank Rabel, president of the W.A. and Mrs. C. E. Clarke. Mrs. G. Monkgomery, treasurer, received the tickets.

The long tea table at one end of the hall, with its white linen cloth, was centred with a lovely bouquet of red mums flanked by tri-branched silver candelabra. Gleaming silver tea services completed the arrangement.

Those who served tea at the small tea tables were: Mrs. W. Morrow, Mrs. C. Kemp, Mrs. J. Mainally, Mrs. Jas. Brown, Mrs. L. Reid, Mrs. H. J. Madill, Mrs. G. Carlisle, Mrs. L. Woodcox, Mrs. J. Whitmore, Mrs. H. Caldwell and Mrs. B. Servos. Mrs. Ada Bush made tea and those who replenished the plates with delicious cakes and sandwiches were: Mrs. R. Moran, Mrs. Grills, Mrs. J. Morris, Mrs. B. Silckle, Mrs. P. Bonisteel, Mrs. H. W. Rose and Mrs. R. Rowe.

POURING TEA

Pouring tea for the afternoon were: Mrs. H. C. Beach of Belawa U.C.; Mrs. L. Macaulay from Frankford CWL; Mrs. A. E. Caskey from Frankford Anglican Guild; Mrs. J. Bleecker, Mrs. F. Charlesworth and Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel.

The ever-popular home cooking booth was convened by Mrs. Ada Patrick, assisted by Mrs. Grace Frost and Mrs. W. Pollard. They were kept busy arranging and selling the delicious pies, cakes, cookies, tarts, shortbreads, muffins and bread.

The candy booth was convened by Mrs. Fred Charlesworth and was tempting with its cellophane bags of maple creams, divinity fudge and various other candy.

The apron booth with its dainty aprons made from cottons, checks and organdy in the ever-popular half styles, all-over styles and heavy duty styles, was a drawing card. This was convened by Mrs. S. Osterhout and Mrs. E. Galnsforth.

Convening the fancy work booth was Mrs. A. Stickle, assisted by Mrs. W. Scott and Mrs. Fenn. This booth consisted of knitted and crochet items, tea towels, face cloths, dish cloths, pot holders, pillow cases, fancy hankies and tablecloths.

HOME PRODUCE

The home produce booth was well stocked with jams, jellies, preserves, pickles, plants and vegetables and was convened by Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. C. Hannah.

The postal sale booth which consisted of 35-cent surprise packages, was convened by Mrs. C. Kellar.

The children's table proved to be most popular for the younger set and consisted of dolls, doll clothes and various toys and was convened by Mrs. D. Acton.

Special thanks are extended to those who participated to help make the bazaar and tea most attractive and successful.

MINTO

Young Couple Feted With Fine Gifts

MINTO — Springbrook Orange hall was filled to capacity on Friday evening when a shower was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Broadworth, newlyweds.

The Rev. G. Teskey, of Ivanhoe, acted as chairman, extending congratulations and best wishes to the young couple.

Community singing was enjoyed with Miss Carol Sine at the piano. Solos were rendered by Lorne Teskey, Keith Vanhorne and Miss Caroline Vanhorne; Miss Carol Sine played an accordion solo; readings were given by Miss Edna Tanner and Mrs. Everett Sine.

A mock wedding was then staged by the young people of Salem church which created much enjoyment. Doug and Joyce were then asked to take seats on the platform and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner read the address, and the bride and groom were presented with a cabinet of silver and a set of dishes from the Minto community, and a canister set from the chartered gang, as well as several other gifts from friends.

The bride and groom thanked everyone for their kindness and gifts and invited all to visit them in their new home at Bancroft.

Rawdon

RAWDON—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nelson, Leslie and Colin, attended a reception last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Turpin, Bloomfield, in honor of the newlyweds, William John Catherton and Lillian Barbara Maitland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Maitland, West Lake, who were married that afternoon at Picton United church parsonage by the Rev. F. J. Whitely, B.A., B.D.

Following the reception, Jack and Lily left for a brief honeymoon at the home of the groom's uncle, Bancroft. At an early date they will take up residence on the bridegroom's farm, 5th concession of Rawdon.

Previous to the wedding, Lily was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. West and Jock was given a presentation party on behalf of the staff of the canning factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pyear, Mrs. Helen Neal and Mr. Arthur Brown, attended the funeral of Mrs. Charles Frederick, at the Thompson Funeral Home, Belleville, on Friday.

Mr. Robert Tresear and son, John, arrived home on Saturday from a hunting trip in the north.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bedford spent a couple of days in Sidney with their grandchildren while Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Striker attended the Royal Winter Fair.

Mrs. Wesley Steinhauer was hostess to Carmel WA on Thursday. Mrs. E. Grills presided over the business. Mrs. Archie Bailey and her committee of Mrs. Arthur Couch and Mrs. Jack Armstrong arranged the program on "Peace".

Mrs. John Mulheron gave the special address on that theme. The group also held a short WA memorial service for a deceased member, Mrs. Frank Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen were supper guests on Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Demorest and family, Marmora.

Born—At the Sine Maternity Home, Harold, Ontario, on Saturday, November 17th, 1956, to Mr. and Mrs. Otiis (Red) Richardson, Frankford, R.R. 3, in the River Valley district, a daughter, "Jean Shirley".

Born,— To Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fox, Springbrook, a daughter, "Gloria Dianne", a sister for Darlene, Vicky and Bobby.

Miss Evelyn Bailey, Peterborough, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clancy, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Bailey. She attended Laurel Rebekah birthday party on Tuesday evening and Laurel tea and bazaar on Thursday.

Several Rawdonians spent Saturday in Toronto and attended the Santa Claus parade.

Mrs. Clarence Dunham visited at Picton, last week.

Mrs. Merle Spencer recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, Wellman's.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery left by train on Saturday for Toronto to join those who were going by plane on Sunday from Malton airport to Nassau in the Bahamas, as guests of the John Deere Plow Company of Hamilton, Ont.

The Bahamas is a British colony with governor, executive and legislative council and house of assembly. Among the many products are pineapples, tomatoes, citrus fruits, bananas, lumber, salt and handcraft products.

Nassau is the capital and is situated on the island of New Providence.

The Bahama Islands are noted for their fine tourist resorts. History states that Christopher Columbus made his first landing in the New World on San Salvador, one of the islands of the Bahamas. There coral islands extend in a chain 600 miles in length from near the coast of Florida to Haiti.

Mr. and Mrs. Monigomery will arrive back at Malton airport on November 25th.

Mr. Jim McDonnell attended the funeral of his cousin, Mrs. Charles Frederick in Belleville on Friday afternoon and interment in Victoria Cemetery, Tweed.

Members of Dunham and Fordyce Women's Institute in Quebec province, dressed in the national costumes of the various ACWW countries and presented two ACWW film strips. A birthday cake, lettered in gold, with 25 blue candles, paid tribute to the Associated Country Women of the World, and outlined what they are striving to accomplish.

W.I. EUCHRES

River Valley Women's Institute sponsored the first of three euchre parties to be held in November at the school house on Friday evening. There were seven tables in play and visitors were in attendance from Frankford and Marsh Hill. The prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs Ed. Heasman and were as follows: Ladies' high, Miss Florence Hearns, Frankford; low, Ed Heasman (playing as a lady.) Men's high, Ernest Carlisle; low, Douglas Kane.

Refreshments were served by the conveners, Mrs. Ed Heasman, Mrs. John Kane and their assistants. The next parties will be held on the evenings of November 23rd and 30th.

Mrs. R. E. Gould, Stirling R.R. 4, has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital and is slowly recovering from her recent accident.

Mr. Charles Barnard is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. A. Wynn has accepted a position as cheesemaker near Napanee.

Mrs. Ina Free, Stirling R.R. 4, attended the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Fred Porter at Thomasburg United Church on Monday of last week. Mrs. Free had spent three weeks with her sister previous to her death on Friday evening, November 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrow, Barrie, visited Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadwen and children, Dundonald, visited relatives in the village, Sunday.

Mrs. Louis Rodgers, president West Hastings District Women's Institute, paid an official visit last week to Chatterton W.I. and Wallbridge W.I. At both meetings she gave a graphic picture of the "Afternoon Tea" in Toronto, sponsored by The Salada Tea Company. Their slogan is "Tea Fit for a Queen" and most of the tea now comes from Ceylon.

In the early twenties tea bags were first offered to the Canadian public, and at that time tea came from Pakistan. It is a thrilling sight to enjoy a trip through the Salada Tea factory. Mrs. Rodgers gave a resume of the various prizes and other highlights of the afternoon. The Invitation to the tea was sent out by Mrs. Gordon McPhatter, at that time provincial W.I. president.

Messrs. Ernest Broadworth, Ernest Carlisle, Guy Bradshaw, Walter Warren and R. Jeffs accompanied District Deputy Grand Master Charlie Carter to Campbellford for a special installation service.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hagerman and Mrs. Louis Rodgers spent a few days in Stratford with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wrenich. They also visited Mr. T. J. McCaw, who was seriously ill in Hamilton hospital.

Deseronto

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cochrane were: Mr. and Mrs. Allan Martin and Jenny, also Mrs. Doug Lyon and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L'Esprance, of Trenton, were Sunday callers with Mrs. Charles Beyette.

Mrs. Jenny Clark, Donald and Ronald attended the funeral of their aunt, the late Mrs. Ward Valleau, of Gananoque.

Mr. Ian McNamara spent a few days with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. Eldon Hearnes of Bancroft, spent the weekend with his family.

DR. CHASE'S PARADOL

It's that new V8 in the '57 Chevrolet.
It's as quiet as a contented cat and as smooth as cream . . . and it's cat-quick in response when you call for action!

No household tabby sitting in a sunny window ever purred more softly than Chevy's new V8 engine. It's so kitten-quiet and cream-smooth that you can scarcely even tell when it's idling.

But when you nudge the accelerator, you know it's there, all right! It pours out the kind of velvety action that helps you be a surer, safer driver. Its right-now response keeps you out of highway emergencies. It overpowers steep hills with such ease they seem like level landscape.

This new Chevrolet V8 is available in a wide selection of high-compression horsepowers ranging up to 245!* With 283 cubic inches of displacement, this beautifully designed V8 is a new, bigger and better edition of the engines that have put Chevrolet at the top of the performance ladder. It's sassy, sure—but as tame to your touch as a purring pussycat.

Come try the smoothest V8 you ever put a toe to, and all the good things that go with it. Like new Turboglide — the first and only triple-turbine automatic drive (an extra-cost option). And Chevy's own special sweet and solid way of going. *270-h.p. version also available at extra cost. Also Ramjet fuel injection engines with up to 283 h.p.

Sweet, smooth and sassy! The Bel Air Sport Coupe. Body by Fisher, of course, with all that name in extra finesses of construction, materials and details.

COMEBACK KIDS

The McFarlands have shown signs in their last outing or two of being victims of an early-period virus. Then they give evidence of hardy, recuperative powers.

That was never demonstrated so clearly as last night at Whitby when to all appearances the McFarland ship was sinking fatally at the stern after a salvo of five guns had been fired by the Dunlops' heavy artillery.

All right, figure it out. The score read 5-0 late in the first period. It read 8-6 with three minutes to go in the third. That meant the recuperative powers of the Maces had a difference of eight goals to one in two periods of play.

You cannot ignore the fact that the Maces are a hard-fighting comeback team. That has been proven. It has also been proven they are slow starters. They definitely are no experts yet at clearing the puck from their own goal zone. That will come.

Outside of that the McFarlands showed the doughty Dunlops that they are and will be a power to be reckoned with in the senior "A" race. There was no "chicken" hockey about the battle last night. Bep Guidolin's "rookies" unshackled their spurs after laying a few first-period eggs, they settled down to hatch goal-chicks of their own. Wait until they are at full strength.

Now for Cornwall, tonight.

JUNIOR HOCKEY

Several fans have written this department deploring the fact that the Belleville Junior "B" club, organized this season after a lapse of a few years, was given only four nights playing time in Memorial Arena.

This was learned, it seems, through a telecast from Kingston where a coach and manager of one of the junior "B" league clubs was interviewed.

It was stated, so we are informed, that the reason for the home-and-home games of the league was due to the fact that the Belleville team could get only four nights' playing time in their own arena.

As one fan wrote: "I'm sure this is not very encouraging to the men who will be living their time and energy in this venture, not only to represent this city but to give the boys who have gone beyond juvenile age the chance to play hockey and thus develop senior players for the future. It's ridiculous."

The fan, as were the others, was quite right in his criticism but Manager Mel Richards of the Belleville Lamberts, cleared the situation up today.

"It must have been a misinterpretation or something," he said. "The reason Belleville was given four nights, in fact we have six—was that was all the league called for. Members decided to play a home and home game series and next. He will miss the game, too.

four nights were all that was necessary. There was no point in getting more since we could not use them. I have six nights allocated to the juniors and am saving two in case we get in the playoffs. In fact," Mel added, "some of the clubs in the league wanted to know if they could play some of their home games here, but I told them it was out of the question."

"I do not know where the Kingston coach got the idea that Belleville could get four nights only. As I said before, the league at a meeting decided on home-and-home games and that necessitated four nights only."

"The arena commission is not to blame, nor is the management of Memorial Arena. We received the number of nights demanded by the schedule, and that is all that could be done about it," Richards said. "There is definitely no truth in the statement that the league was held to home-and-home games because Belleville could not get more than four nights on their home ice. It is held to home-and-home series was decided before the Belleville delegation arrived at the meeting. We agreed, and secured the number of nights necessary for the schedule, plus two extra for playoffs," he added.

"They are full of spirit and fight, and should give an excellent account of themselves in the new league," Richards said. "They are not world-beaters nor do I expect them to win the group title this season, but you can say they will be no disgrace to Belleville. They are young, all Belleville boys and have a fine knowledge of the game. There are some stars in the making, boys who should make the senior ranks within a few years."

Men like Richards, Speedy St. Louis, the coach, and others behind the junior "B" movement are to be highly commended on their initiative in reviving this calibre of hockey in Belleville. It not only provides a "feed-box" for future senior clubs but it bridges a precipice that faced young players when they reached the end of the juvenile hockey trail. It was merely a jumping-off spot from hockey—and no place on which to land.

And hockey fandom in the city should see to it that these youngsters get their share of support mornally and at the box office. They are the seniors of the future, "crawling before they can walk." They play a fine brand of hockey and in their first time out made a fine impression on outside fans. They should be worthy hockey ambassadors of Belleville. And as such deserve some pats on the back, financial and otherwise. They play RMC in their first home appearance next Tuesday night.

West Prefers Soft Ground While Als Want Hard Field; Cloudy Cold Weather on Tap

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes join Edmonton Eskimos in Toronto today for their third consecutive Grey Cup final, confident that Saturday will be their day.

Douglas (Peahead) Walker's football wizards were due in here from Grey Cup city about noon, injected with all the lore—a lot of it defensive—that the Peahead has to offer save for a few final reminders.

Walker put the Als through another secret workout Thursday, again stressing that to beat the Eskimos, Montreal will have to outdo them at their own game—possession football.

"When you get two clubs with as much scoring potential as Alouettes and Edmonton, the team which has the ball most often is likely to win. That's why we've got to hang onto it. Fumbles are going to hurt both clubs and I've been preaching that all week. We simply can't afford to give them anything."

SUPPORTERS LEAVE

The club will hold another workout in Toronto afternoon after lunching on steak aboard the plane to save time.

More than 4,000 Alouette supporters will be around for the game in the Eskimos will be seeking their third straight. Plenty by plane, train and car, they left Montreal overnight and today.

CFRB and CNR officials reported they have added 15 sections to their regular trains today. TCA has three extra flights scheduled and expects to carry more than 1,000 passengers to Toronto on 24 flights during the day.

WILL BE UNDER WRAPS

In Toronto, the team will retire to its hotel quarters, guarded from well-wishers and the curious.

They want a dry field. They think they can do the rest, although the club did no talking Thursday night. But from the sidelines, numerous Montrealers were quick to peck their men over the Westerners.

"I don't think they will let me down again," said Mayor Jean Drapeau, who had to cancel his scheduled ride to Toronto with the club because of urgent civic business. He will miss the game, too.

STATON ON LIMP

Marathon swimmer Marilyn Bell, now a student at McGill University, was in hospital Thursday night this year "but hoping. Last year I picked them to win and they lost."

The status of big Jim Staton, a two-time defensive all-star tackle, remained doubtful. Staton, with a broken toe, is expected to see limited action.

If Staton is unable to play, Walker said two Billy Bishops and Tee Collier at the tackle spots but is expected to make more use of Fred Riley, 265-pound native of Galt, who has played well this season.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Injury-free after three days of drilling at the University of Western Ontario, Edmonton Eskimos today headed for Toronto by chartered plane to meet the Montreal Alouettes in the annual Grey Cup classic Saturday.

The champs of the Western Interprovincial Football Union held a light morning workout on the snowy and partly-frozen stadium field, before moving toward Varsity Stadium to take on the Eastern hitleholder Alouettes whom they have beaten two years in a row for the Canadian pro crown.

Esks coach Frank (Pop) Ivy said he was still worried about the probable weather in Toronto. He wants fairly soft ground for running plays, while the Als apparently are hoping for a hard field for the benefit of passer Sam Etcheverry.

Ivy said Saturday's weather in Toronto may decide his choice for quarterback, London's Don Getty or import Jackie Parker, who was moved to halfback in the WIFU finals to replace Earl Lindley, laid up in Edmonton with a shoulder injury.

NOT TOP RUNNER

The 22-year-old sophomore Getty, a former University of Western Ontario star, is a cool signal caller and a smart ball handler, but isn't rated a top runner or hard ground on option plays. He threw four touchdown passes against Saskatchewan Roughriders in the last game of the WIFU finals.

But the consensus here is that Ivy will start Getty at quarter-if that happens he will be the first Canadian to handle the signals in a Grey Cup game in about 10 years. He has been calling most of the plays in the local workouts.

Pop Ivy has taken little chance on incidental injury to his 22 men —28 will dress for the game—since there flew here Monday night. There has been no scrimmaging.

Ivy said Thursday night: "We have no broken bones, no charley horses, no colds and I haven't heard of any sore throats or stomach complaints. As far as general health is concerned, we are ready to go."

NO PREDICTIONS

Neither Oklahoman Ivy nor any of the players are making public predictions about the game.

The Als are talking up confidence that this must be the Eastern year to take the Grey Cup but Eskimos are playing it mum. Ivy himself says it will be a "tougher job" this time because the Als are stronger in the line and their backfield is better.

Outside of late complications, the Edmonton starting lineup on Saturday will be Getty at quarter, im-gets Jackie Parker and Johnny Miles in the halfback spots, with import Johnny Bright and Calgary's Normie Kwong or ex-University of Toronto star Bob Kimoff as fullbacks.

"Heard me boo, I guess. Gave me last may my $2 and told me never to bet on one of his mounts again!"

They'll Do It Every Time

Actors in Big Grid Drama Arrive in Toronto Theatre

TORONTO (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos and Montreal Alouettes, the only factors missing from Toronto on Grey Cup preparations, were due in by air today.

Time of the Eskimos' arrival from London was kept as closely guarded as their pre-game practices, with coach Frank (Pop) Ivy apparently fearful some of his unfavorite might suffer more damage from well-intentioned supporters than from Alouette in Saturday's East-West football classic.

Montreal planes were to arrive at noon. The downtown hotel where Als are staying laid on a nine-man force to protect its athletic guests from autograph hunters.

MAY HAVE SNOW

Everything else was running according to form, with the weather and Western visitors playing their standard parts. Weather was the villain Thursday, and promised to be in a similar role tonight.

Snow flurried briefly Thursday afternoon and groundcrews at Varsity Stadium scurried out with the Canadian Rugby Union's $12,000 tarpaulin to prevent a repeat of the wallow in which 1950's Grey Cup contest was played. The snow let up in the early evening, but began again for a while after dark.

Nervously casting an eye at a Belleville Canadian visitor from the northern Prairies, the westerners expressed sunny skies and temperatures hovering around the freezing point for today, but warned another storm to fall tonight.

He scheduffally stuck with a long-range prediction of cloudy, cold weather on the big day which, with the field protected by the tarp, may provide hard, fast ground underfoot.

MAY HELP ALS

Ivy said such a field would favor the passing game over his running attack. Montreal coach Doug (Peahead) Walker was silent.

With the Eskimos and Westerners beginning to arrive hotel owners looked on anxiously to their lobbies as the groundskeepers to their field and hastily began storing away or hulling down all moveable objects.

At a closed-door meeting Thursday the Canadian Football Council looked past the Grey Cup to East and West.

Hamilton's Ralph Cooper said new draft-rules should prevent a repeat of the confusion this year over two Queen's players.

NOT ON LIST

The two, Gary Schreiber and Jim Stewart, graduated last spring but were left off the college's draft-eligible list when they decided to return for post-graduate work.

During the summer Schreiber was lured into Ottawa Rough Riders' camp and signed just before the season began. He became one of the club's better backfielders.

Stewart did return and led the Senior Intercollegiate league in scoring, but just as the season ended it was announced he had been put on Alouettes' negotiation list.

To guard against a recurrence of players left off a draft list will be ineligible for one year, Cooper said.

ASK FOR NAMES

D. Wes Brown of Ottawa, secretary of the council's Eastern branch, was appointed to write to the six colleges which field senior teams and ask for the names of players graduating this year.

The colleges are McGill University, Queen's, University of Western Ontario, McMaster University, the University of Toronto and the University of British Columbia.

The contract change calls for a standard contract form for all sanctioned football clubs. Previously nine professional clubs, the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the Big Four Football Union each had forms of their own except for post-graduate clubs.

Though the CFC turned down the possibility of an interlocking schedule next year it decided to reappoint the sub - committee studying the set-up at a general meeting in Winnipeg Jan. 19.

McFarlands Stage Sensational Comeback To Tie Whitby Dunlops 8-8

Down Five Goals in First They Roar Back With Eight; Meet Cornwall Here Tonight

WHITBY (Staff) — It was not a win but certainly it was a moral victory. With only fifteen minutes gone in the first period and five goals in arrears. The Belleville McFarlands did an about face, started to dig and wound up with an 8-8 overtime draw against the Whitby Dunlops in the Tire Town Thursday night. At one time in the contest the McFarlands were looking a two-goal lead with only four minutes to play but Bus Gagnon scored the last best goal of the night to send the game into overtime. By the draw the McFarlands moved back into tie for second place in the loop.

A large number of local fans made the long trek to Whitby and they were down in the mouth early in the first frame but Paul Payette revived their courage with two markers and the end to bring the score to five to two. In the second stanza the McFarlands outskated their rivals three to one and in the last frame by a three to two margin.

After the disastrous opening and it was not the fault of any one member of the squad because the whole team simply fell to pieces and could do nothing right but at once the complexion of the game changed as the team pulled itself to end of the pastime the McFarlands, outshot, outplayed and outhustled the stanched Dunlops and they were well deflated when the final siren sounded. The game showed a high degree of intestinal fortitude. They took their beating, hustled in the corners and when they had an opportunity to dent the Whitby nets made no mistake.

Bep Guidolin was forced to purple his lines due to the injury of R. Laroucbe, R. Hilaire and Willie Menard, who are on the injured list but the rest of the squad took up the slack, skated themselves into exhaustion and battled the Dunlops every foot of the way. The fans from this city whooped it up when they had the two-goal lead but the tieals is only so strong and the relentless pressure exerted by the Dunlops caused a couple of cracks in the armor and at that the Dunlops were lucky to tie it up because the tieing goal was not cleanly obtained as it hit the post before twirling into the twine.

BATTLE TREMENDOUS ODDS

The assault against tremendous odds were by Payette, M. Menard and Gordon Bell with able helpers from every member of the team. When the combination plays started clicking there was no stopping the surge. The boys appeared to be slightly at sea on the small ice surface and due to the lightness of arriving did not get properly warmed up. Once they figured the angles of the rink they were perfect and up their passes they were on their own and the Dunlops fought the rest of the way trying to save face with their rabid fans.

It is often that a visiting team takes home two stars from a game but that was the case when Bell and Paul Payette were the first two chosen with Samolenko getting the nod for the Dunlops. In the first frame Bell looked a little shaky and was given but slight protection but after the deluge he was as steady as a rock and on more than one occasion held the team together. Up front Payette was the spearhead backed by a solid defence and he collected two goals and the same number of assists. Johnny (on the spot)-Murdichi helped himself to a goal and two assists while Menard Marshall hit the hemp twice. Lucien Gilbert had a goal and two assists and played an excellent game while Johnny Whalen had one and one with Keith McDonald getting his usual marker and assisting on another. Bobby Jones was also in on the killing with a fine assist when the going was rough.

George Samolenko carried the mail for the Dunlops with two goals and the same number of assists, while Bonello also had two goals. The others were secured by Charlie Burns, McBeth, Bobby Attersley and Bus Gagnon. The defence was quite prominent in the assist column with Harry Sinden getting two and one each by Ted O'Connor and McBeth. There were thirteen penalties handed out by Dalton MacArthur with the McFarlands drawing seven and the Dunlops six and all were for minor offences. The boys stuck strictly to their knitting and gave the 1200-odd fans who looked on probably one of the most thrilling games they've seen this winter.

A win tonight over the Cornwall Chevvies will put the McFarlands all alone in second place.

The line-ups:

Just How Bad Can They Get

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist youth newspaper Komomolskaya Pravda Thursday chided soccer Christian Athletic Paris causing two blank Sundays in the Olympic Games program at Melbourne.

Noting the absence of contests on Nov. 18 and 25, from the published Olympics program, the Communist paper explained to its readers the International Olympics Committee banned Sunday events since "pious citizens" of the Paris Games in 1900 refused to perform on Sunday because of religious objections.

Bower Scores Second Blank

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Johnny Bower of Providences Reds Thursday night became the first goalie in the American Hockey League to get his second shutout as he blanked Rochester Americans for a 2-0 victory.

The win lifted the Reds into second place, one point behind Hershey Bears who played a 2-2 overtime tie at home with last-place Springfield Indians. In the other game, Cleveland Barons defeated Buffalo 3-1 and drew into a third-place tie with the Bisons.

At Providence, Camille Henry, league scoring leader in the AHL last season with 50 goals, got his eighth of the current season. Ray Ross got the other Providence goal.

At Hershey, Springfield scorers were Gerry Ehman, Bob Saboura and Maurice Collins while Hershey goalgetters were Willie Marshall, with two, and Floyd Smith.

Bruins' Win String Snapped As They Lose to Blues 4-3; Leafs Lucky to Tie Wings 2-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The power teams in the National Hockey League got kicked around a bit Thursday night.

First li was the leading Boston Bruins, who saw their nine-game unbeaten streak terminated. The fifth-spot New York Rangers beat the Bruins 4-3 at Boston.

Detroit Red Wings, running the Bruins a close second, had victory within their grasp but settled for a tie against Toronto Maple Leafs. Leafs scored with 75 seconds left in the game to force the 2-2 deadlock.

Then there was the case of Montreal Canadiens. The third-place Habs took a bit clobbering from the tail-end Black Hawks at Chicago.

Hawks have picked up five points in the last five days. They have won two games and tied one of their last three. That's as well as they did in their first 15 outings.

At Boston, a crowd of 13,909 saw Rangers' first victory since Oct. 24. They had tied their last three engagements.

Winger Danny Lewicki scored two goals to lead Rangers. Andy Hebenton and Dave Creighton got the others. Fleming Mackell fired two goals for Boston. Lel Labine was the other marksman.

At Detroit, Leafs' gamble before 13,055 customers paid off. Goaltender Ed Chadwick was benched and Harry Cullen went in as the sixth skater. He scored on a gangling attack at 18:45.

Billy Dea provided Detroit with a second-period goal but Marc Reaume knotted it later in the session. Then Lorne Ferguson scored on a breakaway early in the final period to send Wings ahead again.

At Chicago, Hawks picked up their first win of the season over Montreal by running up a 3-0 count before the Habs were able to score.

Big Four Commissioner Levies Fines Against Ti-Cat Brass

TORONTO (CP)—Judge Allan Fraser, whose duties and powers as the Big Four Football League commissioner were clarified, more than two months ago, has levied his first fines.

The suits by mannered juvenile court judge from Ottawa nicked Hamilton Tiger-Cats' club secretary for $500 and coach Jim Trimble for $100.

He said that after an investigation, of an official report by referee-in-chief Sergeant Watson he found Trimble guilty of directing abusive language at the five officials who referred last Saturday's final playoff game between Ticats and Montreal Alouettes in Montreal.

Commissioner Fraser announced Thursday to a group of newspaper men that he found Ticats' president and managing director, Jake Gaudaur, accompanied Trimble when the latter walked into the referees' dressing room at McGill Stadium to direct "abusive language at the officials."

He said Gaudaur made no attempt to dissuade Trimble from taking the action he did, refused to leave the room when ordered to do so and directed smears of his own to the officials. He added that in his opinion Gaudaur was not a fit person to be associated with football.

He had no power to fine club executives but could impose suspension against a club. Since the Ticats club is a unit he had not repudiated Gaudaur's action, he had decided to fine the club.

Ten fines are levied so far in the first of the kind in Big Four history.

Gaudaur's first reaction to the judge's announcement Thursday night was that he has no power to levy fines against a club.

"We'll disregard it (the club fine)," Gaudaur said.

"Do you mean you won't pay it?" he was asked.

"I said we'll disregard it," he shot back. "We're not worried."

Trimble could not be reached for comment. He was believed to be out of the city.

Judge Fraser asked the league executive last September to be told what his duties and powers were. A few weeks later Big Four president James P. McCaffrey of Ottawa announced after a league meeting that commissioner Fraser was empowered to levy fines and suspensions against players, officials, coaches and clubs for conduct detrimental to football.

The commissioner said there were two complaints against the goals in an official report filed to him by Wilson on behalf of the five officials at the controversial eltes playoff game Hamilton lost the game 48-41 and the two-game total-point series 89-82.

He said the first involved abusive language Trimble shot at head linesman Ray Boucher of Ottawa who had called a penalty against Ticats.

"Commissioner Fraser said Trimble later in the game was consigned to Boucher and that he had taken into consideration the fact that the incident had occurred in the heat of the game.

The second complaint was Trimble's action of going to the referees' room with Gaudaur. That action, plus statements Trimble gave the press in Hamilton, the judge said, should not have been considered part of the game.

He said Trimble was quoted as saying that the Hamilton defeat "was due to officials, and his team."

Judge Fraser said that he had never seen so much criticism of football referees as he has this season. The use of deragatory remarks about game officials had been prohibited in a directive sent to all clubs in the league by Wilson with the approval of the league executive.

WIN REPLAY

LONDON (CP)—New Brighton beat Stockport 4-3 after 2 2 Thursday in a Football Association Cup first-round replay. New Brighton will play Derby County in the second round.

What Canada Did

what canada did at olympics fri-day

Men's high jump

Ken Mooney, Ferris, Ont., fifth in final.

Women's discus

Rowing

University of British Columbia, won preliminary heat in fours without Cox, qualified.

University of British Columbia, finished second in preliminary heat of eights, qualified.

100-metres

Stan Levenson, Toronto, won first-round preliminary heat, finished third in second-round heat, qualified for semi-final.

PRESSED HARD

The close three-way finish in the eights pressed a crowd of some 5,000 watching the rowing competition on Lake Wendouree, Ballarat Thursday. Canada was right behind the leading Australians all the way, with the Yanks eight pressing hard in the last 500 metres of the 2,000-metre course.

The coxswain of Canada, Japanese-Canadian from Vancouver, urging his eight, the UBC rowers kept a margin of about half a length over the Yanks and at the finish, Britain wound up fourth, about two lengths behind Canada.

"They'll still be in the finals," Goes said after the race. "Their first 30 metres was the best I've rowed, but they'll make it in the repechage."

The loss was especially disappointing as all the other American entries won their heats in the opening rounds today, and were looking for Yale to win for the U.S. the eight title for the eighth straight Olympics.

YALE WINNERS

The fours crew had a big win in over Germany in winning their heat, crossing the line with a five-length margin after rowing through the first half of the course. They needed the win to make the finals, as only first-placers in the fours without coxswain on are, as opposed to first and second finishers in the eights.

The UBC fours crew's time of 6:36.6 was the best in any of the heats in their grouping. In the other heats, Britain won a heat with the winning Australian mark of 6:33.8.

FOURS MEET DEFEAT

Also going into the eights semifinals with Canada and Australia are Czechoslovakia, the European champions, and the United States of Russia. The USC fours meet the Detroit Boat Club of the UNESNN Russia and Italy.

The Americans remain the dominant figures in the rowing despite their loss in the eights. By qualifying six out of seven entries in Olympic rowing competition in the wake of today's showing by two University of British Columbia crews.

The UBC oarsmen stunned the highly touted Yale crew from the United States by leaving them in third place in the opening heat of the eights event with a driving finish only five feet behind the winning Australian crew.

Thus the Canadian eight qualified for the semifinal round sending the Americans into the repechages—a round which gives the opening losers a second chance. Earlier another UBC crew won its heat in the fours without coxswain event to advance to the semi-finals in that grouping.

Canada Is Strong Contender For Olympic Rowing Honors

St. Mikes, Barrie Junior Winners

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two Toronto entries in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series are waging a hot battle for runner-up honors. As of now, it's a dead heat.

St. Michael's College Majors Thursday night bounded from fourth to a second-place tie with their hometown rivals — Toronto Marlboros — by defeating Hamilton Cubs 6-4.

At Hamilton 2,150 fans saw Bob Boucher and veteran ace Gino Cattarinich each score two goals for Majors. Gino Ubriaco and Lou Angotti had singles. Brian Smith, just returned from a 10-day layoff because a knee injury, scored two goals for Cubs. Murray Oliver and Ray Preston had one each.

At Peterborough, Jack Kane was a one-man show for Barrie as he connected for two goals and added an assist. Gary Edwards Tremble later in the game with two goals.

Olympics Standing

MELBOURNE (CP)—Germany led the point standing today after completion of the first six days of the 1956 Olympics, with all of its 41½ points gained in the equestrian phase of the competition which was held in Stockholm earlier this year.

Russia was the big winner at the first day's competition here, however, taking 31½ points for a second-place standing at 31½ by clipping her Stockholm points.

Sweden is classified unofficial because only individual victories are recognized in Olympic records but it has become customary to award a country 10 points for a first place, the next five scoring 5-4-3-2-1 respectively. Halfpoints result from ties.

The standing after 10 events:

1. Germany 41½
2. Russia 31½
3. Sweden 26
4. United States 25½
5. Britain 23½
6. Italy 16
7. Australia 11
8. Czechoslovakia 10
9. Finland 9½
10. Canada 6
11. Switzerland 5
12. Hungary 4
13. Argentina 3
14. Korea 2
15. France 4
16. Iran 4
17. Japan 2
18. Bulgaria 2
19. Poland 2
20. Spain 1

CURRENT ELIMINATED

MELBOURNE (CP) — Derek Ibbotson of Yorkshire, England won his heat in the Olympic 800-metre run in 1:50.8, best time by any heat winner.

Nanette Fabray Will Appear In High Button Shoes on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Nanette who bowed out as Sid Caesar's Fabray, who is as intelligent as she is attractive, was talking the other day about transposing entertainment from one medium to another.

Specifically she was talking about High Button Shoes, in which she appeared on Broadway. Saturday she will appear in the NBC-color TV adaptation of that musical with Hal March and Don Ameche.

"Doing a Broadway show for television is a problem," she said, "How are you going to maintain the scope of a big show in the warm, intimate medium of the TV camera?

"In 'High Button Shoes it seems to me that this problem has been solved beautifully."

Miss Fabray was not simply boning up for a role in which she will appear. She has an enthusiasm for television that is rare among even those who have been as successful in the medium as she has been.

Miss Fabray, the comedienne

The American player made the two spades with a great deal of help from partner. The bid was started with the very wrong opening lead of club queen from south.

When queen and jack is in direct sequence in the suit or in a broken sequence with the nine, lead of queen is correct. But it is certainly wrong when it does not head such a sequence. South must have had such a choice of leads was a difficult one. But if he is going to lead a club the proper lead is from such holding is the club four; the fourth from the highest.

The European champ in south must have known this and acted accordingly. And when a bridge player who knows what he is doing sometimes weakens the team. He did here.

His partner in north made the brilliant play of overtaking the queen with king to return his remaining club. It would have been brilliant and correct if south had not fooled him.

As it was, this play gifted an extra club trick to declarer; just enough to make the contract. In room two a different lead by south defeated the same kind of a two spade contract.

A player afraid to look rubish with judgment may look much more foolish.

'Jackie Parker' Predicts Win For Alouettes

"I believe the Montrealers are at least six points better," said Parker, "I've followed the team closely this year and it seems to me that their line has improved over last year and for this season they'll win. . . .

This was school teacher J. N. Parker of Montreal speaking about the Grey Cup game Saturday. He is no relation to Edmonton's Jackie Parker who has been the nemesis of the Als in two straight Grey Cup encounters.

Eskimo Fans Frolic in Peg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three hundred Eskimo fans staged a one-hour frolic here Thursday night as the Grey Cup Special passed on its way from Edmonton to Toronto and the big game Saturday.

Two hundred of the braver souls formed a conga line and performed a snake dance through the CNR station rotunda, out on to Main Street and then for three blocks up Broadway in downtown Winnipeg.

Traffic, already slowed down by slippery streets, ground to a halt as the line moved by.

The 37 Eskimo cheerleaders went through their loudest yells before several hundred Winnipeg fans and then handed out special Eskimo chocolate bars. The fans were dressed in their yellow and green costumes but as a concession to the near-zero temperature, they wore long brown stockings.

The Special left Winnipeg 17 minutes late to allow a few stragglers time to board. Two more sleepers were added and some 30 Winnipeg fans joined those from Edmonton.

Oregon State Held to Tie

NEW YORK (AP) — Oregon State was held to an embarrassing but uncostly tie in its final warmup for the Rose Bowl and three Carolina prolonged its Orange Bowl hopes Thursday in a pair of Thanksgiving Day football games.

Despite a 14-14 tie with traditional rival Oregon, Oregon State finished its Pacific Coast Conference season with a 6-1-1 record, good enough for its first conference championship in 15 years. South Carolina, one of three teams still in the running to represent the Atlantic Coast Conference in Miami's Orange Bowl, disposed of Wake Forest 13-0 to make its league record 5-2. Clemson leads the conference with a 5-0-1 mark.

TIGHTEN CHOU SECURITY

PINOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Red China's Premier Chou En-lai arrived here today for a six-day goodwill visit. Tight security arrangements covering Chou's arrival emphasized the jittery view taken of the visit of the Communist Chinese leader to this little Indochinese kingdom. Cambodian authorities put the leaders of four of the five top Chinese groups here under house detention for the duration of Chou's visit.

Packers Twist Lions' Tail

DETROIT (AP) — Tobin Rote one of the old pros of the National Football League who has a habit of saying each year that "this is my last season," has convinced Detroit Lions that a lot of other people, too—that retirement may be quite a few seasons away.

Rote, a 29 - year - old Green Bay Packer quarterback completed 11 passes for 166 yards in a fourquarter explosion Thursday that overcame the stunned Lions 24-20.

Two of the passes were for touchdowns, one to Fred Cone and the other to Bill Howton, the league's top pass receiver. Rote climaxed the scoring spree with a 2-yard touchdown on a two-yard sneak as 54,087 chilled spectators looked on.

Rote's performance dropped Detroit into second place in the western division behind Chicago Bears who have won only once against seven victories.

The Big Seven

Oliver Hardy, Felled by Stroke, Still Clings Doggedly to Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Oliver Hardy, felled by a stroke Sept. 14, still clings doggedly to life. And if the wishes of his fans can help him, he'll make it back to recovery.

It dropped by Hardy's modest home to check on his condition. Mrs. Hardy, a small, attractive woman, told me the once-rotund comic is much the same as when he left the hospital last month. His right side is paralyzed. He is unable to speak. He requires nurses 24 hours a day.

"His spirits seemed to improve when we brought him home," she reported, "But he seems to get frustrated by his inability to do things. He will sit and look at a newspaper for a long time and appear to get irritated because he can't absorb it.

Mrs. Hardy said her husband finds encouragement in the flood of letter that has poured in since his illness. She has made a couple of boxes of messages from all over the world. Here are some of them:

Auckland, New Zealand—"I do hope that you will soon recover and once more enjoy life. You have, with your good pal Stan, made many happy hours for millions of people the world over.

Jaslo, Spain—"In the name of all our children — who have enjoyed so much all those lovely pictures with your old friend Stan Laurel—I am sending our very best wishes and good luck."

Dublin, Ireland — "Kindly let him know that one spot of real laughs watching him on the screen in the school-days days wishes him God's blessing for a speedy and lasting delivery."

Hundreds of other letters express the same wishes. A whole class of school children in Moreton, Conn., for example, fashioned their own get-well cards.

The other big fan future is still in doubt. But that doesn't stop Mrs. Hardy—and Ollie's fans all over the world—from hoping he'll recover.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Nov. 24, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Venus' auspicious rays favor personal matters, artistic professions, entertainment, wholesome hobbies, travel, sports. Other aspects stress caution and no restlessness. Be sensible.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — An amenable period — one in which you can, should, make personal advancement. If time permits, improve a hobby or talent. Attend to social duties, urgent chores.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may have to be more patient than usual now but it will be advantageous. Much contentment is possible if you are your cheery, helpful self. Do necessary tasks.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Advice to Taurus holds here now. Necessary duties need not be bothersome; do them quickly, cheerfully, then enjoy some pleasant diversion. Be with young folks, too. Don't forget family interests.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Follow prearranged plans but do not force issues. Your Sun and other planets' vibrations stress patience, fairness and adherence to innate fine principles. Don't seek the unreasonable.

August 24 to September 24 (Virgo) — Vigorous sports, healthful hobbies favored. But use moderation and sensible caution in all things.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A good day — particularly if you allocate work so as to avoid rush, strain. Take orders in stride. The truly great are humble about taking advice. News may be helpful; study it.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A day for sturdy action, good planning, travel, healthy pastimes, entertainment. Be with family, good friends, too; do not be needlessly anxious. Catch up with correspondence, reading.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Mild rays for finances, making quick profits, but there are happy influences ahead for a good Sunday. Follow through with your program but not at the expense of health, happiness.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Matters pertaining to the sea, shipping, manufacturing, handling liquids, chemicals and the like, also confidential interests highly sponsored. Sensible caution urged in all things.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Rays are not entirely auspicious for extensive operations. In any endeavor use tact. Familiar matters, daily duties, healthy (perhaps outdoor?) fun favored. Read, rest, enjoy your family.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Your Neptune and Venus in fine positions today. You should be encouraged. Be happy, ambitious as you work and play. At the same time, don't overdo or be reckless.

Items today are usually guided by your capability and wise judgment; can progress in without complaint.

big or small undertakings, are splendid at organizing, guiding others in important missions, enterprises. You make skilled musicians, actors; may have literary ability. You can succeed in any field if you are your enterprising and consistently ambitious self. Guard against injuring health by trying to burn the candle at both ends. Curb any tendency to overindulge pleasures or spend beyond your income. Don't have an over-confident attitude. Listen to others' suggestions. Birthdate: Laurence Sterne, English humorist.

Officials Draft Legislation To Aid Sub-Marginal Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal legislation is being drafted which would tap the treasury for huge new outlays to aid sub-marginal farmers by extending benefits of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation to all parts of Canada.

Informants said the legislation may be completed in time for the next regular session of Parliament expected to open in mid-January.

If drafted, the legislation would commit the federal administration to split with the provinces costs of approved soil conservation and irrigation projects, reclamation of land for farm use and resettlement of farmers operating sub-marginal properties.

At the same time federal attention is being given to means of aiding more sub-marginal operators in Eastern Canada to get out of agriculture altogether and into more profitable industry.

AWAIT REPORT

No specific proposals are being mapped out as yet on this latter point. Officials are waiting the report of the Gordon economic commission. The commission, preparing a quarter-century economic forecast, is expected to give the government an interim report by the year-end.

Experts estimate that of some 600,000 farms in Eastern Canada, perhaps about one-quarter are sub-marginal, each yielding less than $1,200 a year. Some are mainly for commercial sale.

Of some 139,000 Ontario farms, perhaps one-fifth are sub - marginal. Considered in the same category are about one-third of the 184,000 farms in Quebec and the 19,000 in Prince Edward Island, about one-half of the 23,000 in Nova Scotia and 36,000 in New Brunswick; and about three-quarters of the 8,300 in Newfoundland.

The need for getting some of these Eastern Canada non - commercial operators out of agriculture was emphasized by Prime Minister St. Laurent in a speech before the Catholic social life conference in Montreal last Tuesday.

"I am convinced," he said, "that much of the land in Eastern Canada that hard-working Canadians are trying to use as farms should go back to forest and water conservation uses and those attempting to live on them resettled in more rewarding surroundings."

MIGHT AFFECT VALUES

Federal soil experts said they would not like to say specifically which areas in Eastern Canada are considered sub-marginal. The resulting publicity might affect land values and make it difficult for farmers to dispose of their properties.

Almost every county in Eastern Canada—with the exception of Southwestern Ontario—contained some sub - marginal land, they said. The heaviest concentrations appeared in Northern Ontario and Eastern Ontario, in the Laurentian and Gaspe sections of Quebec and most of the Maritimes.

Far years opposition parties have urged the government to extend federal aid under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to other segments of the country.

So far about $100,000,000 in federal funds have gone into PFRA work. More projects are under way. One is the drainage of some 30,000 acres near The Pas, Man. It may provide land for some 400 farmers.

Money danced a jig and turned somersaults in the infield after the last out was made and in an interview later said: "Boy, I'm the happiest guy in the world tonight.

"I haven't been jumping for five days because I considered I was at my peak. I always jump best in competition and I picked a swell time to go my highest."

The day started off badly for the Canadians as Jacklin Machold of Toronto, competing in the qualifying trials in the women's discus, fell three feet short of the qualifying distance. Now she'll be concentrating on her specialty — the shot put.

The sprinters took over in the afternoon, Jack Purrington of Toronto, first Canadian to compete, finished fifth and last in his heat in the 100-metre sprint. Levinson won his heat in 10.3 seconds to qualify for the semi-final round and Toronto's Dick Harding finished third to miss a qualifying spot in his heat.

Levenson followed up with another 10.3 in the second round, finishing third, to enter the semi-final.

Doug Clement of Vancouver, next Canadian to show, finished far back in eighth place in his 800-metre heat and failed to qualify.

WELLINGTON

W.I. Reports $403,20 Received For Blind

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held in the town hall Tuesday evening. The hall looked very nice with lovely bouquets of mums and African violets placed around. The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. Ralph Ellis in the chair, and welcomed the members and about 30 members of the Bedersville W.I. (who were guests at the meeting.)

Mrs. Whitney, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting. These were approved. Mrs. Harris moved that all bills be paid, seconded by Mrs. Ogilvy. Thank-you cards were read from Mrs. C. Wannamaker, Mrs. Violet Marvin and Mrs. Flora Durant for gifts and cards received.

It was decided to send fruit and flowers to two sick members.

Mrs. Ogilvy reported on the gift of a lovely nylon scarf and pair of gloves, which the ways and means committee purchased and sent to Mrs. Flora Durant, who went to Ouver, B.C.

Mrs. Jackson reported on the canvassing for the Institute for the blind. The canvassers in Wellington (members of the W.W.I.) collected $261.20, and the Board of Trade, which collected just outside the village $97, and the Hillier Women's Institute, $45, which made a grand total of $403.20. Mrs. Jackson wishes to thank all who helped her in any way with the canvassing.

Mrs. H. Dick and Mrs. F. Harris gave a short report on the Arca Convention which was held in Belleville. It was also decided that drivers to the convention be paid as usual.

Mrs. C. H. Greer has kindly donated a rug to the W.I. on which tickets will later be sold.

It was decided to hold the annual potluck supper and exchange of gifts (which are to be 50 cents, no more, no less), at the December meeting. A supper in the town hall for the champions of the Pee-wee baseball team, will be catered by the W.I. on December 7th.

APPRECIATION VOICED

Mrs. and Miss Audra Brickman, of nersville W.I., spoke a few words in appreciation of being invited to the W.W.I.

The meeting was then turned over to the hostesses, Mrs. M. Palmer and Mrs. O. Bovay, who presented the following program: A sing-song, "The More We Get Together," by all present; current events, by Mrs. Beatrice Smith; poem of the month, Mrs. Laura Wright; a beautiful piano selection played by Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Rorabeck of R.W.I., was enjoyed by all; a reading by Mrs. M. Wallbridge, R.W.I.

Miss Colleen Yandt gave some of her tap dancing, accompanied by Mrs. Jack McNeil at the piano. This brought the program to an end.

A vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Peck of the R.W.I. for the invitation to their members to joint the W.W.I. and their meeting.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee, consisting of sandwiches, pickles, cakes, ice cream and tea.

During the refreshment period tickets were sold on a needle-point picture which had been made and donated by Mrs. F. Harris, with Mrs. M. Wallbridge being the winner.

Mrs. Kenneth Wood, a visitor, Miss Audra Brickman of Red-R.W.I., held the lucky plates, so each received a pretty African violet donated by Mrs. W. Callow.

Yugoslavs Charge Russian Police Kidnapped Nagy

Few Believe Official Tale He Asked to Go to Romania

VIENNA (AP)—Promised safety by the puppet Hungarian regime, former Premier Imre Nagy left his refuge in Budapest's Yugoslav Embassy two days ago and apparently fell into the hands of Russian security police.

The action threatened to bring another explosion inside revolt-shattered Hungary and send repercussions through the Communist bloc.

Yugoslavia's official press charged Nagy and 31 companions were kidnapped in betrayal of a promise to let them return safely to their homes.

The official Budapest radio and the Soviet news agency Tass said Nagy and his followers went of their own free will to neighboring Romania—a tightly locked Soviet satellite many Hungarians feared could be the next stop to Siberia.

Nagy, a life - long Communist once imprisoned for advocating a Titoist course for Hungary, came to power again in the anti-Communist revolution that erupted last month and swept the country.

He brought other political parties into the government, announced the Moscow - sponsored Warsaw mutual defense pact—declaimed Hungary's neutrality between East and West and called on the United Nations to guarantee the nation's independence.

NAGY BULLETIN

Then reinforced Soviet tank divisions struck throughout Hungary. Nagy, during and after installing Soviet puppet Janos Kadar as premier, Nagy and many of his followers took sanctuary in the Yugoslav Embassy.

Nagy's return to power and withdrawal of Russian forces from Hungary were the main demands of workers who have refused to work since the Soviet attack. In recent days Kadar told workers' delegations he would welcome Nagy in his government.

In Belgrade, Yugoslavia said the Hungarian government had agreed in writing to guarantee Nagy's safe return home. He and his followers left the embassy Thursday.

A Soviet officer jumped on the bus in front of the embassy. A car with Soviet security officials pulled in from the side and another to its side. The two cars escorted the bus to Soviet headquarters.

YUGOSLAVS PROTEST

Budapest Radio said Nagy and his party had "expressed a desire to live in another people's democracy" and had gone to Romania.

The explanation was believed by few.

SWELLING TAX RECEIPTS FATTEN BUDGET SURPLUS

Nearly Four Times Size It Was a Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Steadily swelling tax collections have fattened the federal government's budgetary surplus to nearly four times the size it was a year ago.

Finance Minister Harris reported Friday that a $68,211,000 surplus in October raised the total in the first seven months of the current fiscal year to $311,032,000, a year earlier the seven-month surplus stood at $91,325,000.

Although government bills tend to build up toward the end of the year on March 31, increasingly heavy revenues have led to speculation the year-end surplus may be $300,000,000 or more. Last spring Mr. Harris budgeted for a surplus of $112,000,000. In the 1955-56 year he had a $1,700,000 deficit.

REVENUES HIGHER

Revenues in October climbed to $436,985,000, an increase of almost $80,000,000 from $357,290,000 a year ago. Seven-month revenues totalled $2,966,196,000 compared with $2,654,871,000 from $2,253,687,000.

The month's increase in income-tax revenue, $50,009,000 rise in expenditures, which totalled $368,-774,000 during October. The total for seven months was $2,654,164,000 compared with $2,343,360,000 a year earlier.

OTTAWA (CP)—The first special session of Parliament since the 1950 railway strike and the Korean War opens Monday to vote funds for Canadian participation in the United Nations police force in the Middle East.

The session is expected to last 10 days, also will be asked to vote $200,000 for Hungarian refugee relief, The Canadian Red Cross will receive $100,000 and a similar amount will go to the UN Refugee Fund.

The date of the session was announced last Tuesday by Prime Minister St. Laurent after the cabinet passed an order-in-council committing up to 2,560 Canadian troops to the UN police force.

The last special session in 1950 passed emergency legislation to end the railway strike and voted funds for Canada's Korean forces. That session lasted 16 sitting days from Aug. 29 to Sept. 15.

The last regular session—third of the 22nd Parliament — proceeded Aug. 14 after sitting 108 days, three short of the 1902 record.

A Parliament meets to discuss Canadian participation in the police force, it still is not clear days by Egypt."

whether all the troops committed ever will reach Egypt. Bulk of the contingent, the 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles, still is in Halifax waiting for the aircraft carrier Magnificent to receive orders to sail.

However, some 700 army and RCAF personnel are en route to or have reached Naples, Italy, along with planes of RCAF Transport Squadron 435, assigned to help fly the UN police force to Egypt.

The government originally had planned to send dispatch but Britain, taken of the QOR immediately aboard the Magnificent. But this plan was changed after Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UN police force operations chief, asked that priority be given to provision of an RCAF twin-sport squadron and army advance party.

There were reports that Egypt was opposed to Canadian troops, members of the police force. However, External Affairs Minister Pearson said in New York that the sending of the transport squadron would not affect the eventual shipment of the battalion. He said he hopes his statement "will remove the impression that Canada has been turned

34 ARE KILLED AS N.Y.-BOUND AIRLINER CRASHES

Falls in Flames On French Village

PARIS (AP) — A New York-bound Italian airliner fell in flames on a French village today, killing 34 of the 36 persons aboard the craft.

The 2 lucky persons aboard the plane, a man and a woman, were in hospital in critical condition.

The four-engine DC-6B had just taken off from Paris' Orly airfield, its first stop on the flight to New York. It carried a full load of fuel.

Seconds after it left the ground it burst into flames and crashed in a field on the outskirts of the village of Paray Vieille Poste, about two miles beyond the airport runway.

The airliner first crashed a two-story residence. Then it plunged in some into a meadow.

The plane was equipped with the latest navigational aids.

[illegible] said the pilot had radioed the control tower at Orly that he was returning to the airport because of engine trouble.

...I. MacKinnon ...pecial Speaker ...t Film Council

It was reported that sixteen projectionists had been trained at the training program held recently by Mr. C. A. Faulkner. The Council will sponsor a similar course the first week of April for its annual 'Film Festival.' Realizing that the December meeting could conflict with the holiday season, council decided to submit the regular meeting until January.

Mr. C. L. Hyde introduced the guest speaker for the evening, J. I. MacKinnon, provincial director for the City of Belleville and Hastings County. Mr. MacKinnon, a former 60-20 basketball star, outlined the work of the Ontario Juvenile and Family Court. Miss Hazel Thompson thanked the speaker for a most interesting address.

As a final part of the program was shown a sound film entitled 'Omar The Sleepy Hunter,' was viewed. This film was based on the old Exhibit.

Following adjournment tea and coffee were served.

...Bay Nearly ...Frozen Over

Old Jack Frost's icy fingers stretched almost completely across the Bay of Quinte last night as unofficial temperatures readings dropped to near zero.

The chilling reading at the Belleville pump house on the Front Road was nine degrees above the zero level recorded on the factory market said that away from the temporary influence of the bay the mercury went close to zero.

This morning only a narrow stretch of water was seen in the bay as ice stretches out from both shores.

Hon. W. A. Goodfellow Opens New 17-Room High School

TRENTON, (Special.) — The Hon. William A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Ontario can see the population of Trenton doubled in 10 years as a result of the great boom in industrial expansion taking place in Ontario today.

The Minister who lives in Northumberland county north of Brighton, in opening the new 17-roomed Trenton High school here last night predicted that every year would need a high school with 35 rooms by 1966. "Because Ontario grows at a uniform and dented rate in its history there is an increase between 60,000 and 70,000 high school students each year," he said. School children are a great potential, he added, but they are also a great responsibility of the taxpayers who every year receive an education to make their way in the world. Education is Ontario's greatest problem for the next two decades, according to economists who are supposed to know, the Minister noted.

Mr. Goodfellow felt the people owned the school teacher a special debt of gratitude for what they to the record of high school principal George Spencer who has served 23 years as principal of the high school in Trenton. He drew attention to the life of service of Miss Hazel Farley had devoted to teaching. The Minister pointed out Mr. Gordon Ellis, a member of a pioneer family in the district, had been made an honorary member of the Canadian Legion because she made outstanding contributions to former Trenton high school students serving in the armed forces overseas (from 1700,000) II.

Noting that the Trenton High school was the result of joint cooperation between the Dept. of Educational Defence, Dept. of Education and the Town of Trenton, Mr. Goodfellow said that was nothing so important in the world today than for people to work together.

MONUMENT TO BOARD

The Minister said he considered the new high school was a monument to former Chairman of the Board of Education Grant Rathbun and board members who helped make the project a reality.

In his remarks introducing the Minister of Agriculture, Frank Followell, M.P., of Belleville, said Mr. Goodfellow would go down in history as the minister who had done more than any past Minister of Welfare. He pictured the minister as a great humanitarian, who had dedicated his life to the service of the people. He spoke of the outstanding harmony that existed between Provincial and Federal governments while Mr. Goodfellow acted as the Welfare Minister. While he paid tribute to Principal Spencer and his staff, Mr. Followell—congratulated the citizens of Trenton on having such a fine new "palatial emporium" to be named the place.

R. H. Coon, the architect of the school, was of the opinion Trenton had obtained a completely

Grey-Hooded Bandit Robs Service Station

TRENTON. (Special.)— A lone bandit wearing a grey hood and carrying a sawed-off 22 calibre rifle held up Steve Lukashuk's service station at the west end of Brighton last night and ordered the proprietor at the point of a gun to hand over $100 from the till.

Then he walked outside and disappeared in the darkness behind the station. As he was going out the door he turned and in soft words said "Thank you" to the frightened garageman.

Lukashuk said that the bandit obeyed commands of the gun-toting hold-up man.

Provincial police from the whole district arrived on the scene soon after the hold-up was reported and searched until the small hours of the morning.

The bandit, a stout burly man was dressed in high rubber boots, dungarees, a pale grey hood and coat slung over his shoulders. He wore a mask and one of the men in the car reported a hair line of red black when he pulled off the hood as he ran along in front of the doors, making good his escape.

utilitarian building but not an extravagant one. "It is a great privilege to see a school from the ground floor of your imagination become a reality,"—he remarked. "The cost per cubic foot of the new school is $16 has as low a rate per pupil as any built in the province," he said, adding as an afterthought, probably at the expense of the accountants present.

MAYOR EXTENDS GREETING

Extending greetings of the citizens of Trenton Mayor Ross Burtt said the school was the joint members of the school board who thought of the project, planned it, erected it and completed it. He said town councillors deserved a credit for assisting with the addition of the auditorium to the original plan.

G. C. A. Ashman of R.C.A.F. Station Trenton brought a message from the Minister of National Defence unable to be present because of other pressing business.

The prayer of dedication was offered by the Rev. G. J. Mitchell, B.A., president of the Trenton Ministerial Association.

Dr. J. E. Richmond, Chairman of the Board of Education, welcomed the distinguished guests and conveyed greetings to them from the school board.

Principal W. G. Spencer accepted the school from the Minister of Agriculture in moving a vote of thanks. Afterwards he introduced Mr. Hubbs, Trenton's

The school choir was directed by Doris Garrison.

Senator W. A. Fraser, a pioneer guest, was called elsewhere after the program got under way.

Mayor Ross Burtt Back in Office By Acclamation

TRENTON (Special) — Mayor Ross Burtt was returned to office by acclamation last night when Joe Gould, the other candidate nominated declined to qualify. The deadline for qualifications was 9 p.m. Friday.

Hydro Commissioner A. E. Atkinson also received an acclamation. Seven candidates for council qualified to contest six seats while five candidates decided to stand for the position on the Board of Education.

Child Killed Near Trenton, Ran Into Car

TRENTON. (Special.) — Six-year-old Roy Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dunn, R.R. 3, Trenton, lost his life yesterday when he ran into the path of a car driven by a neighbor Billy Walker on his way home from working at No. 6 Repair Depot RCAF.

The boy on his way home from school was picking up a few nuts when Jack Steele, who thought he looked cold. He alighted from the car to give him his overcoat from the Repair Depot Road, and ran behind it to avoid the highway. His mother at the window as usual awaiting her son's arrival saw him hit. Running to the mother he died instantly. She told police he never looked to see if any traffic was coming.

Police said there would be no inquest.

Seven Arrested Held for Series Of Break-ins

What was described as a major cleanup in crime has been effected in Belleville and area with the arrest of seven youths and young men.

Arrested and charged with breaking and entering are Terry Greer, Larry Rushlow, Rodney Sharpe, Howard Dean, Wilbur Bowerman, Gary Lewis, all of Belleville, and Cornelius B. Hulsker of Trenton. Taken into custody are in their late teens or early twenties.

Inspector J. Clair Mayes of the Belleville Police Department said that more arrests were expected. He said that investigation into the breakins had been spearheaded by city police with the co-operation of provincial police.

Three of the arrested youths live with their parents in the city will appear in city magistrate's court on Tuesday, while the others will appear in county court.

Market Small Due Cold Snap

Fancy delicious apples selling at 85c a basket were a feature of today's market which was open for the season in the brick weather. Spies sold at $3.50 a hamper and Blues at $3.25.

Some other prices were eggs (large) 56c, potatoes 75c a peck and $2.75 a bushel, capons 60c, fowl 45c, turnips $1.50 a bushel, and honey $1 per four lbs.

Dairy Wagon Struck by Car

Milk prices are up, but milk went down on Sidney Street this morning as a Reid's Dairy wagon was demolished by a passing car.

The horse was slightly injured in the mixup but stuck to his guns and did not run, although the bottles were scattered over the street.

Driver of the milk wagon, Victor Warwick, had stopped his wagon to make a delivery and while he was away, a car driven by James Wilfred Rose, R. R. 7, crashed into the rear. There was about $200 damage each to the car and to the milk wagon, according to Police Constable Cook who investigated.

Helen B. Anderson Beloved Poetess Of P.E. County Dies at Her Home

Prince Edward County's poet laureate is dead.

Mrs. Helen B. Anderson, well-known poetess, writer and school teacher passed away November 22 at her residence in Wellington. She was in her 82nd year.

Born in Gilead a mile or so north of Wellington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blakely, Mrs. Anderson attended the little red schoolhouse in that district, later teaching in the school where she received her education.

She taught her first class at Victoria in Ameliasburg. At that time she received the magnificent sum of $275 per annum. "But," she commented, "board cost only $1.50 a week in those days."

The highest salary she ever received in her years of teaching in the district was $400.

After teaching a year at Victoria, Mrs. Anderson received a teaching appointment at Salem, three years there and she went to teach at Scoharie, a short distance north of Bloomfield.

After completing a season there she attended as a teacher were spent within three townships of Prince Edward County, Ameliasburg, Hallowell and Hillier.

She had watched with pride through the years the successes of former of her pupils. There were ministers, doctors, dentists, druggists and farmers. Others went west to cvek their fortunes.

A teacher, Mrs. Anderson once said, is also a learner. He or she must learn patience and perseverance. They ultimately pave the way to success.

WELL KNOWN WRITER

Mrs. Anderson was a well-known poetess and writer. She had had several of her books published in metropolitan as well as provincial dailies and weeklies and in the sunset of her life still maintained her writing duties. She was a contributor to The Ontario Intelligencer for many years as well as district papers.

She married William Henry Anderson, a well known farmer in the Melrose district, who passed away 24 years ago. Eventually, the poetess gave up teaching due to ill-health and spent many years on her farm home before moving to Wellington some years ago.

She was predeceased by two brothers, Robert and Frank Blakely, and two sisters, Libby Aimie (Mrs. Edward Young of Hillier Morton) and Mrs. Thomas (Till) Wilson, and two nieces, Beatrice, sister, Susan Blakely of Wellington, and three nieces, Marjorie and Helen Anderson, Hillier, Arthur of Belleville, and Mrs. Lenore White of Trenton.

The funeral will be held on Sunday at 2 p.m. from the Ainsworth Funeral Home to Hillier cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. A. Poulter of Wellington.

Bearers will be: William and Fred Morton, Harry Carley, William Davern, George Dorland and Charles Bailey.

Obituary

FORD C. HAWKINS

INGERSOLL — The late Ford C. Hawkins of 127 Ann Street, whose death occurred in Alexandra Hospital on Tuesday, in his 73rd year, was one of the best known residents of the town. Although his passing was a shock to his many friends here and throughout Oxford, he had been in failing health during the past year, being confined to bed the past two days.

He was born in West Huntingdon, Hastings County, and spent some of his earlier years at Glen Miller, Ontario County, where he was engaged in farming for a period of four years before coming to Ingersoll, where he was a cattle buyer for the United Grain Growers of Winnipeg, Man.

He came to Ingersoll to reside in 1924, and became widely known throughout the district as a cattle buyer. He was also in business connections throughout Oxford County, including a store at Ingersoll, known as "Hawkins' Meats, which is operated by three of his sons, for the last two years ago. He was a member of Trinity United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Minnie Bonisteel, four sons, George, Douglas, William of Ingersoll, Thurman, of Woodstock; five daughters, Mrs. George Telfer (Thelma), of Belleville, London; Mrs. George Jackson (Marian), Leamington; Mrs. Alex Wardell (Mary), Ingersoll, and Joyce, London; three sisters, Mrs. B. Stinson, Belleville; Mrs. W. C. Switzer, Cornine, Sask; Mrs. W. S. Fawell, Port Hope; 20 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Friends may be received at the Walker and Clifton Funeral Home, 88 King Street West, Ingersoll, on Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Harry Bowles, minister of Trinity United Church officiating. Interment was in the family plot in the Harris Street Cemetery.

Defence Calls No Witnesses In Trial of Chas. Lockwood

Crown prosecutor Alec Hall, of Oshawa, and defence counsel Arthur Fair, of Peterborough, yesterday concluded their cases at the trial of former Marmora police chief Charles Lockwood, 39, in the S. Lane, of Picton, adjourned the trial until Monday morning, when the Crown and defence counsel will address the bench and jury.

The defence counsel did not call any witnesses, nor did he put the accused in the witness box.

Lockwood is charged with stealing $8,500 in U.S. currency from the Marmora police safe on August 15, and with having stolen money in his possession from August 29 to September 6. He was arrested on August 29 by O. P. P. Corporal Douglas Lewis, of Madoc.

A 21-year-old inmate of Guelph reformatory yesterday repeated testimony given at the preliminary hearing. Emery Lavoie, serving nine months for false pretenses, said that on August 29 Lockwood offered him $40 if he'd be a witness for him. The witness said Lockwood told him to say he was drunk while the two were walking in the Hastings county jail yard.

"He said I could be a perfect witness for him if I would say I saw him in the restaurant at Marmora between 12.30 and 1 p.m. when he was not notified Lawvie.

CHARGES CHANGING MONEY

Thomas Paranuk, pool room operator at Marmora, answered questions by Crown Prosecutor Hall. He said he had "never given Lockwood American money in exchange Canadian money for him," by saying, "No. Not one dollar."

Paranuk told O.P.P. Inspectors Vern Whiteley and Robert Wanless that he had given Lockwood in $10 bills which Corporal Sears had found in the accused's safe contained at the village pool room, liquor store and restaurant.

"Do you change money in your pool room?" Mr. Fair asked Mr. Paranuk.

"Sometimes I might get a one or a five, but I never got a ten dollar bill," he replied.

"Will you agree with me that there are a lot of Americans in the district?"

"Yes, but they do not come into my pool room," he said.

"Did you or did you not have a suitcase full of American money in your bed?"

Mr. Paranuk agreed that there had been a suitcase containing the sum of U.S. currency "in my wife's room, not mine." He said he had given the money to Lockwood on June 25 and had received $10 bills in exchange. He was on investigation in Butler.

IN LOCKWOOD

Charles Cronkwright, rural mail carrier at the Marmora post office testified that he had seen the police chief on August 15, "outside the post office at about 20 minutes to one. I asked him for a safety check on my car. I did not see anyone else around. The check didn't take over five minutes."

Stanley Paige, a postal employee at Ainsworth, who was vacationing in the village on August 15, told the court he had seen the car of the key "standing in the corridor of the Memorial Building" at about 2 p.m. The key fitted the police station and Lockwood's apartment are in that building.

O.P.P. Corporal Douglas Sears and Constable Tom Lummiss testified that after escorting Lockwood to jail on August 29 he kept the accused "innocence and explained, "There's one — — — — in Marmora who can put the finger on you. He'll be in jail if he really wants to."

A previous witness had said Lockwood told him of the alleged theft shortly after midnight on August 16. Fair had established that his client did not tell the police of the alleged theft until informed by a postal investigator on August 17.

Fair testified that Lockwood had told him, "The keys I took from Lavoie I got for the purpose of getting a blanket from the fire hall."

Ainsworth Paige, caretaker of the village buildings, told the court that Lockwood said that he loaned the accused his key ring the fire hall so he could recharge a fire extinguisher he had in his car. A key to the pool office was on the ring.

Corporal Sears told the court that on August 29 he had found an unopened can of pyrene in Lockwood's office and two charged fire extinguishers. Another charged extinguisher was found in the trunk of Lockwood's car.

Jane Forrester, Seven Aldermanic Nominees, Qualify

With the deadline for qualifications set for nine o'clock tonight, only eight prospective candidates for municipal office in Belleville had qualified at 10 o'clock this morning.

There was still only one qualification for the office of mayor, that of Mayor Jane Forrester, while seven candidates had qualified to run for aldermanic offices. Qualified aldermanic candidates this morning were Ralph L. Graham, Gerald B. Hyde, Douglas Moxam, Donald J. Whalen, Mrs. Effie McCabe, Frank S. Huson, and Frank V. Grandame.

In yesterday's run down of the various nominees, the occupations of two of the aldermanic nominees was listed incorrectly. Donald J. Whalen should have been listed as a real estate agent, while Leslie Digby should have been listed as sales engineer.

Committee Will Study Aspects Of Annexation

With the city of Belleville proposing annexation of Thurlow township on the east of the city, Thurlow township ratepayers living in the S. S. No. 4 Ameliasburgh area have formed an investigating committee to take up their interests in annexation.

Approximately 75 ratepayers in that school section met at the school Thursday evening and appointed a six-man committee, who will investigate and report on the matter as it might affect them and also on the possibility of forming a ratepayers' association.

The committee will investigate all aspects of annexation as they may affect them financially and how schools and other services may be affected.

Stu Martin, Woodland Acres, acted as chairman for the meeting. The school section was broken into six areas with a representative from each area appointed to the investigating committee. Committee members are George Logan, Stu Martin, John Parrott, Paul Brunette, Lloyd Monticell and G. Fraser. Future meetings will be advertised in the coming events of the Ontario Intelligencer.

THE MARK OF A REALLY SMART PERSON

The mark of a really smart person is not necessarily a college diploma or a Phi Beta Kappa key. It might be simply a record of good judgment on certain occasions.

To "know-ledge all" would be wonderful — if we humans could absorb that much knowledge in a lifetime. Next best is to seek and accept the advice of experts, particularly your Doctor.

Visit him frequently. Follow his directions carefully. Bring your prescriptions to us to be filled, and take the medicine he prescribes regularly.

Such cooperation is the best course possible for preservation of your health, and it marks you as a really smart person.

JESUS SAVIOR, PILOT ME

Jesus, Savior, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea;
Unknown waves before me roll,
Hiding rock and treacherous shoal:
Chart and compass came from Thee:
Jesus, Savior, pilot me.

As a mother stills her child,
Thou canst hush the ocean wild;
Boisterous waves obey Thy will
When Thou say'st to them, "Be still!"
Wondrous sovereign of the sea,
Jesus, Savior, pilot me.

When at last I near the shore,
And the fearful breakers roar
'Twixt me and the peaceful rest,
Then, while leaning on Thy breast,
May I hear Thee say to me,
"Fear not, I will pilot thee."

When the Rev. Edward Hopper wanted to picture Christ, the Saviour, for the seamen in his New York church for sailors, some years ago, he wrote a beautiful hymn of the sea which has been popular ever since, not only with sailors but with Christians in every land.

The hymn was written in 1871 while Mr. Hopper was serving as minister of the Church of Sea and Land in New York harbor where thousands of sailors, coming and going through the great American port, paused each year for worship. Mr. Hopper knew that he could best reach these men by talking to them in their own language, so he pictured Jesus as the Divine Pilot, guiding men and women through the perils of life's stormy sea.

"Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me" first appeared anonymously in The Sailor's Magazine. Then, several hymn books discovered and used it. But not until 1880, nine years after its composition, did the public learn the name of the author. The Seaman's Friend Society was holding an anniversary celebration in the Broadway Tabernacle in New York and someone asked Mr. Hopper to write an appropriate hymn for the occasion. He offered his famous hymn of the sea.

Mr. Hopper, a native of New York, was educated for the ministry. After serving churches in several other places, he came back to New York in 1870 to begin his pastorate among the seamen. He continued his splendid ministry until his death, in 1888.

Despite some while he was sitting in a study chair writing some verses on "Heaven". He went out to meet his Pilot to be fed prayed that he might in that glorious island stanza:

"When at last I near the shore,
And the fearful breakers roar
'Twixt me and the peaceful rest,
Then, while leaning on Thy breast,
May I hear Thee say to me,
'Fear not, I will pilot thee'."

A Lift for Living

The Quality of Self-Assurance

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

When we say of a person, "He is very sure of himself," are we paying a compliment or making a criticism? I have asked this question of several friends, and the answer almost invariably is, "That depends."

Yes, it does depend on the degree and quality of the self-assurance. It may make us think of what John Galsworthy called a "cockeyed cocksureness" which distorts the vision and weakens the judgment. Or we think of those bumptuous self-assured persons who break into a company of conversation and forfeit the respect of the more reserved and thoughtful.

When I think of self-assurance somehow there comes to mind the colorful figure of Benvenuto Cellini, the most eminent goldsmith of the Italian Renaissance and one of the most important sculptors. He was ready in action and resolute in will. He made his own tools, he designed his own works and executed them with his own hands, hammering and carving, modeling and casting. Yet with all his brilliant versatility, Cellini pushed his self-reliance to such self-conceit that his character was condemned by those who admired his works.

Too much self-assurance takes away the attractiveness of recognized talent. It hinders progress from good to better. And it may also keep men from God's help. In the treatment of bad habits like that of drunkenness, the victim must often be brought to the point where he no longer thinks he can manage himself and therefore puts his trust in a Higher Power.

Yet on the other hand self-confidence and self-reliance are regarded as virtues. Emerson wrote that "self-trust is the first secret of success." How far then is self-assurance a virtue to be encouraged? Where does its danger start?

Let us turn for light to the advice given by one whose wisdom has helped to shape our Christian culture more than any save that of Our Lord Himself. In his letter to the Romans, chapter 12 verse 3, the Apostle Paul writes: "By the grace given to me I bid everyone among you not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think with sober judgment each according to the measure of faith which God has assigned him."

Paul was painfully aware of his own limitations. At one time he confessed, "I do not do the good I want, but the evil that I do not want is what I do." But he so surrendered his will to Christ and committed himself to the work of the Lord that he felt a surge of new power. Then he cried, "I can do all things in him who strengthens me."

Or recall the case of David when he came to the town of Ziklag and found it had been devastated by his enemies. His troops were so disheartened they talked of stoning David. Then the record is, "But David encouraged himself in the Lord." What does that mean? It must mean David became aware of God's presence and that he felt if God be for him it did not matter who was against him.

David drew from God an assurance akin to that which Lincoln received when he was so bitterly attacked by critics in the North as well as in the South. Lincoln's favorite Scripture was the Thirty-seventh Psalm. Can we not almost see the anxious lines of his face change to a calm firmness as he read: "Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. Commit thy way unto the Lord trust also in Him; and He shall bring it to pass."

Are any of us so self-reliant we are not affected by what others think of us? Most of us tend to lose our self-assurance when we are ridiculed or rejected. Suppose you are a member of Parliament. You cast your vote on an issue. Then telegrams begin to pour in attacking you for the stand you took. Will these attacks undermine your self-confidence? They most certainly will if your self-assurance is fed by what people think. Self-reliance is not self-sustaining.

How would we like to live in a land like the Soviet Union where the rulers look up to no Divine Power? We saw how power poisoned the mind of the godless dictator Stalin. Does it not give us a sense of assurance to have leaders who acknowledge a Higher Power as the source of their strength?

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

BALANCE

Nature always provides for any extremes in a bird's makeup, so that perfect balance is achieved. The peculiarity is invariably, somehow connected with the search for food. Whether the bird has long or short legs, long or short tail, a heavy or a light body, nature has arranged that some other feature off-sets the seeming excess or deficiency.

Long legs are essential to the great blue heron that secures its meals of small fish, frogs and such like by wading out from the shore. And so, in order to reach down into the water, the bird was given a long neck and a long bill. In flight the neck is drawn in, and equilibrium made exact by the short tail being supplemented by legs which stretch out behind.

Ducks have short legs, placed far back on their bodies to increase their skill in swimming and diving. This position of the legs is, however, bad for walking, giving them a waddling gait. But they really do not need to walk. Because their food is found mostly under water, whether it be animal or vegetable matter. When in danger, they rely on fast flight, fast swimming, or submerging for a speedy get-away. Their soft, dense plumage is necessarily, waterproof. When flying, their short tails are balanced by short necks.

A turkey vulture has been given a wing surface that is large for the bird's weight. It can float suspended in the air, or mount higher and higher by making use of currents of warm air while watching out for carrion that may be lying far below. For this, exceedingly keen eyesight has been given. Eating only decaying flesh, the vulture requires no powerful claws for seizing or biding prey, therefore its feet are weak and chicken-like.

The goshawk has a heavier body in comparison to the wing surface. With short, rounded wings that can be maintained through branches and a long tail, it is suited to take its prey by quick attack from just above the tree tops rather than roaring high in the open. Its strong beak and talons are designed for securing live prey.

Owls require a noiseless flight because they are nocturnal predators which catch their victims by swooping down upon them. For this they have been supplied with soft feathers that cling together in such a way that no spaces are left between through which air currents flow with a rushing noise. Because owls have, unlike other birds, forward pointing eyes, they have been endowed with extraordinary necks that can twist around in every part that we cannot see the movement.

UNINFORMATIVE TOURIST BOOKLET

Last week The Ontario Intelligencer reported that the Lake Ontario Development Association was preparing to mail 10,000 copies of a new tourist booklet.

We have now received a copy of this booklet. We find it disappointing.

It is perhaps only fair to state immediately that this opinion of the booklet's value is likely to be challenged rigorously by many.

The Kingston Whig-Standard thinks so highly of it that it is urging that the Eastern Ontario Development Association act promptly to publish a similar booklet covering that area.

"The brochure, which is attractively printed in three colors, tells of what vacation facilities are offered in the Crowe-Tweed-Addington and Land O' Lakes areas," the Tallhurton Highlander, Hastings County, the Kawarthas, Lake Ontario and the Isle of Quinte," says the Whig-Standard. "Maps and sketches are provided to show the prospective tourist where he will go and what for. The sports and natural advantages of the areas are briefly noted and, at the end of the booklet, there is information showing the cost of various kinds of accommodation."

All this is true, but our opinion of the booklet remains low because we do not believe that the booklet has adequately covered any of the various points noted. It leaves the job half done. The maps and sketches are inadequate, the notes on the sports and natural advantages are much too brief to be helpful and the information on various kinds of accommodation is not in any sense specific.

The brochure contains 39 excellent photographs which will prove to anyone interested that the six holiday districts mentioned contain lakes where one may swim, fish, sail, canoe or motorboat; that these districts have roads, towns, stores, beaches and many other things that one can find in a drive in summer or ski in winter.

All these are interesting facts but they are facts which are also true of vast areas of the entire continent.

The advertising does not help much.

"It is impossible to put into words the vacation possibilities that await you here — so why not plan to discover them yourself?" is the concluding sentence of the dozen-page pamphlet.

It is an honest sentence. One may be pardoned, however, for wondering whether it is the "selling" sentence and for wondering why, if the task of telling about the vacation possibilities of the area was an impossible one, it was attempted at all.

There is a list of information which may be helpful to prospective visitors—"modern motels with luxury appointments and ranging in price from $3 to $10 per day," "select hotels-rooms available from $2 per day," "average housekeeping cottage rental is $4 a day," "cabins with meals available by the week at an average of $6 a day," "lodges—the general rate is around $3 a day." Aside from main cities, towns, villages and townships, there is no information as to exactly where these accommodations can be found.

There is no information as to how to these criticisms. It may be argued that greater detail would have involved greater expense." The answer is that the additional expense would have been money well spent, enhancing the chances of the district reaping dividends from its investment in the booklet. The other defence may be that the Lake Ontario Development Association exists to serve the whole area and not part of it, and that the booklet could not have placed greater stress on the advantages of any one of the six vacation areas without unfairly jeopardizing the claims of the other areas pleading for the booklet's recipient. Our answer is that it should have been possible to give greater detail of the attractions of all the districts without being unfair to other areas in the district and that if this contention is held to be false, then the Association would be well advised to leave the work of attracting tourists to the individual communities themselves.

Many of these communities will supplement the Association's effort. Perhaps the booklets which they will produce are the "further information" which the brochure says can be obtained by writing to: "The Manager, Lake Ontario Development Association, 255 George St., Box 353, Peterborough, Canada." But the Association's function is to sell the area. It will not create confidence that specific information can be obtained in this manner, because there is so little specific information in the booklet itself.

BULLS-EYE!

Many readers will recall—we think they were reminded about the incident on this page a few days ago—the manner in which Sir Winston Churchill, while prime ministers answered a question in the House of Commons. Members of the House are not permitted to call their esteemed colleagues liars. So, whenever Sir Winston believed that a member was lying, he would say in a careless manner, he would say that the member in question "was guilty of terminological inexactitude."

The phrase got the point across without breaking a rule. Now, however, we think we have discovered a better champion. He is Harold Weir of the Vancouver Sun. There are rules of good taste, as well as parliamentary rules, and it was a rule of the former type which Mr. Weir found blocking his expression of his dislike for anonymous letters and the people who write them. So he came up with this sparkling example of terminological exactitude.

"Moreover, wild horses couldn't draw out of me the opinion that the bumpkin who writes an anonymous letter is either too stupid to know his own name or too unfortunate in the manner of his birth to have one."

MAN'S UTMOST

On him the spotlight never stayed,
He lived and died unknown to fame,
And yet a happy home he made.
The role of neighbor well he played
And as a father did the same.

He trudged to work from day to day,
On time he turned the time-clock key,

He carried home his weekly pay,
Not much he ever had to say—
In truth a silent man was he.

He dropped the working tools of life
And left for realms to start anew,
And facing freed from strain and strife
He left behind a sorrowing wife—
What more than that can mortals do?

Technique of Terror

Montreal Gazette

Evidence continues to arrive in that Russia is seeking Hungarian patriots and taking them out of the country. And yet the Soviet government continues to deny it. Why should these denials be made?

The explanation may be interested. By making these deportations, and at the same time denying that they are being made, Russia may be achieving two ends at the same time. It may be able to admit them to the world that it is resorting to such revolting methods. But at the same time it may be spreading terror in Hungary by intensifying the mood of uncertainty.

* * *

The technique of terror is likely to be thoroughly understood by those who know little about it, and who know it. It is much seem to them that if you intend to terrorize a population, then as many cases as possible should come to know what you are doing.

But this is far too simple an approach, and one that discloses the amateur. The professional terrorist does not proceed in this way. He tries to get the maximum effect, ought to be done with an air of mystery. This is the way that Russia is now doing in secret. But it should be done with as much mystery to let rumor run wild.

* * *

The logic of terror has undergone an interesting analysis in The New York Times, by a reporter who has been in the Soviet condition for years in the satellite states.

As this analysis concludes, it would never do to terrorize in a straightforward way. One could openly just who has been relegated to the deep cellars of the basement, and to define just why they were selected, and to disclose just it was that has been done to them—all this would minimize terror, not enlarge it.

Far better it is to move furtive-

Letter To the Editor

Drop in Cereal Demand Worries Producers

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

A story in the news columns points out that: "The average Canadian dropped his consumption of cereal foods of various kinds by 162 pounds in 1935 from 208 in 1933-39 . . ." Also, that "He reduced his potato consumption to 160 pounds from 181."

I would like a little more light on this carbohydrate intake in those prosperous years—and, incidentally, how does the staff of life and his kid brother 'Spud' — respectively 393 and 308 pounds?

Unfortunately for the bread winning police of the growers of these two vital commodities, as the living standards in a given country improve, the first thing to go is the average consumer to, in the vernacular, 'fill up on the higher priced protein and, such concentrates as meat, dairy products, fruit and fish, and leave the necessities to get along at the pinch-penny level.

According to the statistical people on Parliament Hill, for some reason or other, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, North American on either side of the border are at the foot of the global class as heavy consumers of bread and are greatly impressed to learn that the average Canadian can put away in a year his ration upon, bread and potatoes for 89 per cent of his daily calories — as compared with the average American for Canada and Britain at 80 per cent, foods estimated to be about 21 per cent.

My understanding is that when a Belleville housewife spends her 'Bread Dollar', only 15 cents reaches the wheat farmer? That which was enough and when the mixed millions in the towns and cities of North America indulge the yen to eat less and less cereals and potatoes, as the take-home pay grows more and more, it makes me wonder if there isn't trouble ahead, when today's cereal plenty vanishes before unfriendly weather?

Truth About Hungary

New York Times

The Communist propaganda apparatus has embarked upon a most extensive task. Its purpose is to justify the brutal repression of the Hungarian revolution by the Soviet Union. The line that is being spread is the notion that the Hungarian revolution was headed from the start and from all practical purposes by the "Fascists," a group of "revolutionary Socialist Generals" headed by James Burnham formed a government and appealed to the Soviet Army to do its "Fascist" dirty work.

The facts are far different. There are worth recapitulating before passage of time makes the record dim and even the sinister intentions for the Soviet myth makers. The facts are these. The Hungarian revolution was the work of the overwhelming majority of the people of Hungary, guided by elected embodiment by more than a decade of Communist suppression. The first shooting in Budapest came from Communist guns, which had scattered a demonstration of students and workers demonstrating in the city's square. Soviet troops were first called in by Erno Gero, who—note well—is now Communists now admit. They were withdrawn from Budapest after their brutalities and the overwhelming slaughter of homeless civilians. Then a genuinely secret police proved ineffective in putting down the revolt. It was then that, after the Soviet withdrew by Communists that the Hungarian people voted their wishes around the overt police regime ally by lynching the murderers. The Nagy Government, on Saturday, Nov. 3, proclaimed itself to be a union of all democratic elements, including democratic Socialists and peasant representatives. It was a government which was pledged to create workers' control of industries for farmers, restoration of national independence and free elections. There was no hypothetical ground if or about the mass movement behind it. The government was drowned in blood by Soviet troops who moved in under the cover of hero treachery, after the Soviet Union representatives had lied as to the conditions.

This is the truth about the Hungarian revolution. We should never forget its key facts, particularly the devotion of Hungarian to liberty and the treachery shown by the Soviet Union.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

A Real Doctor Is a Rare Jewel

A Newark reader gives an excellent description of that vanishing institution, the family physician:

Dear Dr. Brady: We have a family doctor that we think is the best. We regard him as one of the family. Our children love him. He not only takes care of our physical ailments, but we feel free to go to him with our personal problems. Words can't describe the love we have for him.

If he feels we need special attention, we wouldn't go to any one unless our doctor recommends him. We find that we pay the specialist less than other people do who go directly to the specialist. So we know our doctor doesn't get anything from the specialist, either.

I could go on and on telling you the wonders of this man, but you would have to know him to appreciate his greatness. He is never unapproachable. Not very cold winter night he came at 1 a. m. to see Mother. I had a cup of hot coffee, but he couldn't wait—he had other visits to make.

We pray all the time that God will give him health and strength to carry on his wonderful work. I am sure many families depend on him as we do.

This beloved physician is Dr. ——. He is really a dedicated man. We thank God every day that we know him.

Sincerely,
Mrs. ——

I, too, wish I knew this doctor and his medical neighbors or colleagues. I would be unkind to him and them a questionnaire, privately and confidentially, dealing with the ways of physicians and the present state of medical ethics in the Newark area. You see, I hear about Newark physicians only what their patients tell me, and it seems to be human nature when speaking to a present physician about an absent one to belittle the absent one or at any rate to dismiss him with faint praise.

It may be that other readers have family physicians in whom they have the kind of confidence the correspondent has in hers. I know there are plenty of real doctors who merit such confidence, but unfortunately most people today like to patronize the trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers. The suckers think that merchants of medicine have greater knowledge or skill in "sections" of a correspondent without his or her written permission. / After all I'm not the abandoned character that M.A.A. would like the world to think I am.

By GREGORY CLARK

About this time of year, all across Canada, peace is descending on the wilds: the hunters have come to, or near, the end of their open season; only the hardiest trappers in a few favoured regions are still facing the weather in pursuit of their game. What an open business it must be for a wild creature to encounter life. For the twenty-two months of the year, they dwell in security. Not mere security—for those that come in contact with the curious two-legged monster with all his mechanical powers of engine on land and water and sky find him aggressively and coldly enterprising gifts. Beside the wild thing to come near, pointing a gun, and then, with "no malice" to behold the beauty of the children of the wild.

Then, almost warning, suddenly all is changed. In an instant, every marsh blares with tumult. Through the autumn woods, the twolegged monster, so lately kind and coldly enterprising, starts lightning in his hands. Gone are the gentle, peaceful days, and in popcorn, apples, peanuts: and when a deer sees a man, it is death he beholds.

For weeks on end, the ruthless reversal holds true. The harmless men of last winter, spring and summer has turned into a hiding, pursuing implacable Nemesis. All over the wilderness, from the Arctic poore marshes down through the province's muskegs, the deer's hardwood hills, the partridges' gullies, the ducks' ponds and lee shores, every wild creature behinds, flies, hish, flares side in unison with the new conditions.

Then, in an instant as inexplicable to the creature mind as the instant of its change, it is over. September, it ends. Not a shot is heard. Out of the wilderness troop the hundreds of thousands of hunters, giving it back its silence and its peace.

I do not suppose the wild creatures have any understanding of mysteries. To them, life itself is without explanation.

But they are strange to be a wild creature, now that peace has settled on the wilderness, and to listen to the emptiness.

WE ARE ALL PHILOSOPHERS

Here is a good definition of philosophy and philosophers; "Philosophy is a study which enables people to be happy or unhappy more intelligently"; and "A philosopher is one who does not worry over his bread is buttered on because he eats both sides alternately."

You remember the man in one of Mollere's plays who was so surprised and delighted when he discovered that all his life he had been speaking prose. Many people would be amazed to learn that they have a definite philosophy of life. But they do not be so much surprised to discover that the basic convictions are by which your lives and actions are controlled.

We are all philosophers whether we know it or not.

He Stooped To Be Beaten

By W. L. Clark in The Windsor Star

Adlai E. Stevenson must be asking himself how he would have made out, if he had kept his campaign for President of the United States on the high level of 1952. Although beaten then, the Democratic candidate came out of the election with a good reputation.

This time, Mr. Stevenson got down in the "political infighting." Some even thought he stooped to conquer.

It was poor strategy and didn't pay off. The last few days found Mr. Stevenson running from one issue to another, trying to make hay from any straw.

The answer will never be given, but Mr. Stevenson must be wondering what he listened to those who persuaded him to change his approach to people.

Nominations

HUNTINGDON TOWNSHIP

Almost an entire new council for the township of Huntingdon is expected following Friday's nominations with the 1956 reeve stating he will retire from municipal life and at least two councillors stepping up to contest the reeveship.

Nominated for reeve at yesterday's meeting were Elmer Wood, 1956 Hastings county warden; Alfred Herrington, M. R. English, Elmer Wilson and Lloyd McAuley. The last three named men will definitely stand for reeve.

Nominated for council were: Kenneth Thompson, Kenneth Holland, Goldie McInroy, Albert Bailey, Russell Sills, Earl McMaster and Elmer Wilson. If is believed the council will be Kenneth Thompson, Kenneth Holland, Goldie McInroy and Russell Sills.

PICTON

Despite a recurrent heart attack which has confined him to Kingston General Hospital, Mayor Harvey McFarland was re-elected mayor of Picton for the fifth time by acclamation.

Nominated for reeve were Woodrow Bladen and Carman Scott.

MADOC VILLAGE

Nominations for village council, school trustees, public utilities commission, and reeve were held in Madoc last night.

Councillors Percy Derry, Kenneth West, Dorian Stewart, and Tom Burnside, received acclamation.

Thomas H. Rupert was nominated as chairman of the Hydro Commission.

Reeve Murray Smith received acclamation.

TWEED

At Tweed village, Reeve T. C. Graham received acclamation, while it was expected also that council would be returned without an election.

Marmora village will have a new reeve in the person of William Shannon, who received acclamation for the reeveship when Reeve Ritchie Wells retired after a four-year term. The new reeve has been a council member for four years, serving on the finance and legal committee.

MARMORA

Nominated for Marmora village council were Jack Reynolds and Earl Heath, both members of this year's council, and Alex Fraser, Grenville Meadejohn, Charles Campion and Robert Sweet. Three are to be elected.

MARMORA TOWNSHIP

All of Marmora township council received acclamation with Reeve Irwin McCoy, and councillors George Fox, John Wilkes, Gordon Jones and William Doyle being returned to office.

DESERONTO

At the town of Deseronto Reeve Thos. Scott has retired from office with yesterday's nomination seeing Mr. Scott, Dr. D. C. McVicker and John W. Spence named as candidates for the office. Nomination for the reeveship were Dr. D. C. McVicker, B. J. Twiddy, John W. Spence and Mrs. Margaret Cole.

There were 12 nominations for council with six positions being open: Arnold Walker, Percy Knight, H. H. Stubbe, Gerald Lott, Mrs. T. L. McCullough, Oscar Fitchett, George Knight, W. O'Brien, Herbert Howard, Burt Twiddy, John Neal and John W. Spence.

Nominations for board of education with three to be elected were Canon S. H. Coleman, Chas. Cole, Mrs. M. J. Stubbs, Mrs. Margaret Bender and Mrs. Peter Thielman. For public Utilities Commission with one to be elected: S. Wessman and Percy Knight.

Nominations in several of the northern townships were also held yesterday but at press time there was no report as to the results.

The Face on the Stamp

Plant Wizard of California

By NICHOLAS MIKA

One day, about eighty years ago, a young well-tanned man stepped from the train in Santa Rosa, California. He had a couple of dollars in his pocket and under his arm a box in which were ten potatoes. These ten potatoes represented not only all his earthly possessions but had a value of more than two million dollars. And do you know why? Because most of the potatoes grown by American farmers today originated from those ten. The new variety of potatoes that this young man had grown from one little seed pod not only conquered the the world market but made his name famous for all times.

He was called the plant wizard, a magician who could create trees and flowers the way he wanted them to be, change their color and qualities, make fruits larger and sweeter and let nuts grow as big as oranges. When he once produced an apple that had one sweet and one sour half, people began to whisper that he had a pact with the devil, for nobody had ever dared to twist and defy the laws of nature.

Well, that he was a strange character, might be true. Everyone he could barely walk he pestered around in the garden and his eyes and only ambition was to grow new kinds of plants, fruits and trees that would make the world more pleasant and life more enjoyable. Have you ever heard that he transformed yellow flowers into red ones? And that he made black, berries grow white and transported a lily admired a tree that bore such a tremendous crop that every twenty thousand plums had to be picked from this one tree to save its branches and the rest of it still plentiful crop. When someone asked him one day on how many different things he was experimenting, he said: "Oh, on about six thousand at the moment."

He was convinced that man could guide the creative process of nature and this God had intended him to be useful on this earth. He was a kind and friendly man. But if people took up his time for no particular reason, he was quite annoyed. All throughout his adult life he used to work never less than fourteen hours a day. Time to him was too precious to be wasted. And that was the main reason why he went from Lancaster, Massachusetts, where he was born, to sunny California. There the climate made it possible for him to grow three generations of plants in one single year compared to one at home. The most three times as many fascinating experiments and a considerably shorter waiting period for his results.

MECHANICALLY INCLINED

A tinsmith, he had an extraordinary talent for mechanics. He disliked wanted him to follow this line in spite of having left a profession. But the boy only used his talent to invent a small steam engine for a toy boat, sell it for the first best man who was interested and save the money for his greatest ambition: to do nothing else but raising trees and flowers and create wondrous plants.

The astonishing magic he performed in his garden did not escape the attention of his neighbors. He would help saw the operation first-hand plant over fifty thousand specimens, through a cloud of curious eyes.

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A six-car train pulled into the railway station at Port Said Wednesday morning. Aboard were 220 Norwegians, the first of the United Nations emergency force to enter the British-occupied sector of the Suez Canal zone. The UN force was starting its job.

Their reception by the Egyptians was frenzied. A crowd of 10,000 milled about. Agitators shouted "Nasser! Nasser!" and held aloft pictures of the Egyptian dictator. To the British and French troops trying to maintain order they cried: "Down with war criminals!"

The first job for the UN troops was to be joint patrols with the allied troops.

AT THE UN

UN Secretary-General Hammarskjold flew back to New York from an on-the-spot assessment of the Middle East crisis. In his first report, Hammarskjold said: the Anglo-French forces should leave, and the UN force take over. Then the UN troops would pull out of the canal zone.

In London, the British government had discussed with Hammarskjold formula. R. A. Butler, acting prime minister, said certain conditions must be met before the British and French forces leave Egypt. One of these was that the UN force must be in a position to restore and keep free navigation through the canal.

EDEN BREAKDOWN

Since the Soviet ultimatum was delivered to Egypt more than three weeks ago, Prime Minister Eden has been under severe strain. This week his health broke down, and he left for a three-week rest in Jamaica. R. A. Butler took over direction of affairs.

Although British public opinion has come round to Eden's support the possibility of British withdrawal from the UN demand that Israel withdraw her conquests in the Sinai Peninsula has not raised the prospect of a revolt in the Conservative party. British newspapers saw a political crisis building up.

CANADA'S ROLE

Canada's contribution to the UN force remained a subject of speculation. The 1st Battalion of Canada's Queen Rifles was already aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent at Halifax, ready to sail for the Mediterranean.

There was some postponing this indefinitely. Instead, communications were on the ahead. RCAF transport planes were flying the Canadian headquarters personnel to the UN command area in Italy.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced in Parliament will meet in special session Monday to vote funds for the extension of Canada's contribution to the UN force.

DEPORTATIONS CENSORED

The UN General Assembly adjourned between the Middle East and Hungary. Wednesday it passed a resolution demanding an end to the mass deportation of Hungarians to nationalists to Soviet Prison camps.

The Hungarian economy continued paralyzed by strikes. Nasty thousand refugees poured over the frontier into Austria. The first batches of refugees reached Canada and the United States. Both countries have eased immigration restrictions to ensure speedy admittance.

DOCK STRIKE

The United States had a dock strike on its hands. Sixth thousand longshoremen on the east and Gulf coasts struck in support of contract demands. Passengers arriving or sailing aboard the Liners at New York handled their own baggage. No freight moved. Losses in the first week were estimated at $120,000,000.

MOLOTOV SHIFTED

Vyacheslav Molotov, for so many years the voice of Soviet foreign policy, was put on the shelf by the Khrushchev-Bulganin government. This week he got a new job—minister of state control.

This gives him wide auditing powers over Soviet government operations. There were differences of opinion as to whether this meant Molotov was moving up again. Most thought it wasn't much of a step up.

Weddings

WESTLEY—ROBINSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Trinity United church parsonage, Madoc, on Saturday, November 17th, when Rev. J. F. Jane united in marriage Shirley Elizabeth Alma Robinson of Barnet, Ontario to Ross Alexander Westley of Baneroft.

The bride wore a becoming and knitted wool suit with matching accessories and corsage of baby roses.

Mrs. Stanley Robinson, sister-in-law of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a blue knitted wool suit with matching accessories and corsage of baby roses.

After a short honeymoon, the young couple will take up residence in Baneroft, Ontario.

Contact Club Hears Talk on O.S.D. Teaching

Mr. Joseph G. Demeza of the School for the Deaf, was the guest speaker at the Contact Club, Christ church, on Monday evening.

Catherine Rosier introduced Mr. Demeza and mentioned his training and wide experiences, prior to 1953, when Mr. Demeza was made superintendent of the school for the Deaf.

The club is sponsored by the provincial government and so rules and regulations are the same as the public schools.

The slides and the lecture were most interesting and enlightening to all present. The main aim of the school is to train the children to be self-supporting and to take their place in life, side by side with people who can hear and speak, with self confidence to which they are entitled. A tremendous amount of credit and thanks go to the staff of the 529 of whom are specially trained teachers, who make this possible.

MODERN VOCAL ORGANS

The children took words merely because they haven't heard and therefore no process of familiarizing and polishing the vocal organs, which make speech, have never been developed. The methods, amount of time, and patience required to teach words to the deaf student were fascinating and rather remarkable.

Feeling of vibrations, blowing of feathers and pinwheels in pronouncing letters, simple and complicated means, all play their part in teaching.

Birthday parties and socials are most important to the student. First as a form of entertainment of course, and second another means of teaching words of objects.

To the senior girls, parties are an exercise in cooking and preparing meals, so useful for the future.

The boys are taught woodcraft, welding and machinery, while the girls learn home economics, typing and business, sewing and beauty courses.

The evening was indeed interesting and enlightening and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Dorothy McCormick thanked Mr. Demeza for his revealing talk, and felt that in future one would understand the happy children more fully.

Hostesses for the evening were, Eileen Smith, Marjory Bunnett, Marjory Giles, Barbara Sweet, Catherine Rouleau and Phyllis Fung.

FILM, NOT DIVORCE

ROME (AP)—Film actress Ava Gardner will go to Mexico soon to make a new film. A film industry source in close touch with the star said there was "absolutely no basis" for reports published in some papers that the beautiful actress was making the Mexican trip to divorce Frank Sinatra, whom she has been separated several years.

Neighboring W.A.'s Attend St. Thomas' W.A. Meeting

There was a large attendance at St. Thomas' parish house of WA members and friends from Bancroft, Actinolite, Madoc, Stirling, Foxboro, Picton and Carrying Place. also Christ church, St. Margaret's and St. Thomas in Belleville, to hear an illustrated lecture by Miss Hassel on her work in the Yukon, as far north as Whitehorse, and on Herschel Island in Alaska, showing beautiful slides of many places along the Alaska Highway.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. B. Feather, president of St. Thomas' W.A.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker was introduced by Canon A. S. McConnell.

Miss Hassel is one of the outstanding women of the day. Coming to Canada from England 26 years ago, she has devoted her whole life to the evangelistic work of the church, starting with one tent, in which she lived, carried her literature and taught the children in the lonely places of the north. Many times she took her pack on her back and walked miles to bring hope and companionship to families isolated from outside contact. The children have been enrolled and receive their Sunday school lessons by post until her next visit.

These devoted workers travel the roads through the summer. In the winter, Miss Hassel speaks in various places and so helps to raise funds.

Mrs. E. Hickey of Christ church W.A. thanked the speaker for her inspiring address.

The meeting was closed by Canon McConnell.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

In August of this year, the diplomatic corps at Ottawa was stimulated by a new and fresh member. Inona appointed a woman for the first time at the office of the High Commissioner for India. We thought readers would be interested in a daughter of India who has been chosen to fill such an important post in our, capital city. T & T passes on to you her remarkable record of achievement; a record which is more astonishing when one realizes that she is thirty-three years old.

Mrs. Kamala Shastri, M.A., LL.B., I.F.S., was born at Meerut on August 21, 1923. When she was twenty-three, she passed her Master of Arts degree in English in first division standing first at the University of Lucknow. She pursued a distinguished career. The Masters degree in English Literature on the novels of Virginia Wolfe entitled "A Study in Sensibility." In 1945, she graduated from London University with a Bachelor of Law receiving her LL. B. From 1945 to 1948 she studied international relations at the London School of Economics. Besides her studies at the London School of Economics she acted as a lecturer at Evening Classes at the University of Delhi; she served in the Constituent Assembly from 1946-1948; she was private secretary to the Finance Commissioner for India in London from Oct. 1948 to July 1952. After completing her work in London, she became, in order, Under Secretary to the Government of India in the Ministry of External Affairs from 1952 to 1954, then second secretary at the High Commission of India in Bonn, West Germany, 1955 in 1956, and now her Canadian appointment.

Mrs. Kamala Shastri is married to the Director, Office of the Secretary-General, United Nations, New York. In her spare time, and from the above this seems impossible, she is interested in writing, reading, music and Indian classical dancing.

T & T thanks the Information Office of India for our account of a remarkable woman who had come into our midst from India, to grace the diplomatic corps at Ottawa. We wish her well in Canada and hope she finds happiness and great opportunities amongst us.

Our weekend thought is simple and prosaic:

"O daughter, dear," her mother said, "this blanket round you fold,
This such a dreadful night abroad you will catch your death of cold."

And later,

Young ladies, think of this fair girl and always dress aright.

* * *

We hope that all the young and not so young, ladies will "blanket round them fold" this wintry afternoon at the Canadian sport spectacle, the Grey Cup game in Toronto. East meets West in this annual tournament today so may the better team win. Last year the Grey Cup game was played on Nov. 26 and we happened to write then "The unity of Canada is a healthy thing, like good sportsmanship, and we hope that in time East will meet West for the Grey Cup from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

"Something old, something new, something symbolic — Ye Olde Grey Mug, new as Canada, old as the Olympics and symbolic of unity."

This day, one year later, the Olympic games have been opened in Melbourne, Australia, by the Duke of Edinburgh, and the first junior team from the Canadian Atlantic has challenged us in the football world. This day, one year later, unity in the world has been shattered and unity in Canada was never more vital and in this we can learn from the home of the 1956 Olympic games, Australia.

* * *

Having been put to bed for a few days with a bout of 'flu, we have had a bit of time to think of various things, including the weather. It was raining on Wednesday, remember, and, recalling that the Women's Hospital Auxiliary Fashion Show was taking place, we were hoping that all the interested women felt as we were feeling about going places on a rainy day. So many of us say "Oh it's raining. I don't think I'll go."

Maybe it was the 'flu bug, but we thought to ourself that we should say rather, "Well, it's raining, isn't it wonderful there is something exciting to do." From all reports, a wonderful crowd of women must have felt the same way. A fine day looks after itself, doesn't it, but a rainy day needs some help.

Many thoughts ran through our mind such as our good fortune in the face of the misfortune of Hungary; the hypocrisy of the Commonwealth being damned by murderers; the illness of Sir Anthony Eden; the Christmas examinations at our collegiates and what they mean to the students; whether there was enough bread or milk in the house; the impatience at a transient bout of 'flu; and very often the illness that we have ours as a family and how we must defend them in the face of crafty destroyers.

St. Michael's Cubs, Scouts L.A. Elects Officers

The first meeting this season of the Ladies' Auxiliary, 3rd. St. Michael's Cubs and Scouts, Belleville, was held recently at the home of Mrs. G. W. Woolford, Dundas St. East.

A large number of the members were present and held the election of officers for the year 1956-57.

Business on hand was discussed and the meeting adjourned followed by tasty refreshments served by the hostesses.

Everyone Tries to Win Something for Nothing

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Las Vegas, Nev.—There is on display at a gambling hall in this city's downtown section $1,000,000 in cash.

It is an appropriate symbol for Las Vegas. Like a million lightyears, it is incomprehensible and therefore meaningless as money. It is more of a monument to the city's tongue-in-cheek attitude toward money.

Here the human compulsion to acquire wealth has finally reached its ultimate illogical conclusion: Money is no longer a means toward an end but an end in itself. Most gamblers gamble not to get enough money to buy something, but so they'll have enough to gamble and win more.

We don't whether anyone can visit Las Vegas and ever feel the same about money again. There are reputed to be professional gamblers here, drawn into part ownership of some of the hotels as protection against destitution, who will win or lose as much as $25,000 in one night, every night.

As no one needs to be reminded, that is more than the average man earns in several years, and most people will debate with themselves whether to spend $5 more for a pair of shoes or $2 more for dinner on any given occasion.

PRUDENCE FORGOTTEN

But here a moratorium seems to have been declared on the use of prudence. Eye visitors, caught up in the electric excitement of the dice tables and the fantastic concept of making money without working for it, can resist dropping a few silver dollars on the pass line or eight-the-hard-way in hopes of being granted the miracle of something for nothing.

This is not Monte Carlo or the rich man's paradise we expected. There are surprisingly few Cadillacs in the hotel parking lots and mink stoles in the casinos, and the lady who comes dressed the way is likely to sit at the roulette table next to a shoegirl in slacks. The same people who worry about the cost of the dinner and the sheer think not at all about risking $50 a night on a delightful dream.

In fact a mathematical fact that even $1 allowed to ride on 12 straight passes will bring almost $5,000? And an initial $5 would bring $25,000, and $10 to start could make your independent for life in a matter of minutes.

Here money, rather than truth, "is all ye know on earth and all ye need to know."

Is there really a system, a way to beat it all and to off? Well, it's possible to win if you're lucky, and there is such a thing as luck if you follow the professionals, who occasionally make killings by playing their hunches and their own and other players' streaks.

WINNERS NEVER SATISFIED

But the reason the casinos never go broke is not that the losers lose much, but that the winners are never satisfied. A few take their bundles and come back next year, but most hang around until they become losers.

The professionals are the first to admit there is no system. While there are a few plays on the dice table that are out-and-out sucker bets, the odds are always with the house, even on the easier rolls, and when you do win it's a little less than the percentages actually entitle you to anyway.

Which is why they do it. Why are the hotels and casinos always packed, regardless of season.

For one thing, there's the hope that springs eternal in the human breast and the incurable American optimism that sends people out on daily hunts in search of a good time wherever and whenever they go.

More about Las Vegas next week.

Women's Institute

MADOC W. I.

MADOC— The November meeting of Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. K. Nicol. Roll call was a display of aprons with many lovely patterns and styles being shown.

Mrs. W. Forestell reported on the area convention held in Belleville. The theme of the convention was "As Our Vision Today, Our Achievements Tomorrow". There were 64 senior branches, five junior Institutes represented.

Plans are being made to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the beginning of Women's Institutes. Canada is the mother of the Associated Country Women of the World, with the world's first Institute at Stoney Creek, being organized by Adelaide Hoodless on February 19, 1897.

At present there are 30 countries with members in the ACWW.

Mrs. A. Herrington reported on the 2nd day of the conventions.

Mrs. A. Empey gave the motto, "Be prepared to do Nations live in the Homes of its People." She pointed out that discipline and religion are the main issues in the home to make a nation strong.

Mrs. Merrimond a paper on education showed much thought in preparation. She spoke on the lives of some of the great promoters of education.

Mrs. Moore gave a reading, "Who said Small Towns were Quiet?"

Mrs. Kernohan read a paper on Citizenship, mentioning that good citizenship depended on a combination of the education received in the home, churches, schools, a walks which suitably concluded an enjoyable evening.

A donning party has been planned for next Wednesday night, November 28, the net proceeds of which will be turned over to the Community Chest Drive.

So-Ed Club Holds Enjoyable Dancing Party

The So-Ed Club of the Belleville YMCA held a dancing party at the Campbell St. YMCA on Wednesday evening to conclude the fall 1956 session of So-Ed.

The program began at 8.30 with various Paul Jones and "tag dances' and a game of pass the life saver, which is played by teams with each member holding a toothpick in the mouth—the game is to pass the life saver from toothpick to toothpick through the entire team in the shortest possible time. The winning team received a prize of life savers.

President Bert Hiles presented the So-Ed executive for the spring 1957 session to the group and thanked the retiring committee members for their efforts in presenting the session just completed. The refreshment committee were specially mentioned and thanked for their splendid work during the past session.

The remainder of the evening was a program dance consisting of two foxtrots, two jive numbers, two waltzes, two rhumbas and samba, jest and a polka. There was also a spot dance and an elimination dance. The spot dance was won by Mary Ellis and Owen Myers, and the elimination dance was won by Reta Christie and Ted Nash. The program ended at midnight with a waltz which suitably concluded an enjoyable evening.

St. Catherine Spinsters Patron

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Nov. 25 — This afternoon in Paris there will be a great parade of unmarried women, most of them around 25 years old, in honor of their patron, St. Catherine of Alexandria. The real point of the parade is to give eligible men a chance to see that not all the nice girls are married.

Not one single fact about either Catherine's life or her death has been authentically established, but there is a wealth of legend about her. The story is that she lived in the fourth century, that she was the daughter of an aristocratic family, and she was a great scholar and a great beauty. In the course of her studies she learned about Christianity, and was intellectually interested in it, but her academic point of view changed to a complete conversion and surrender when she was visited by a vision of the Blessed Virgin holding her Child.

From that time on, both her beauty and her scholarship got her into trouble. She heard the Emperor Maxentius was beginning a cruel persecution of the Christians, and she walked boldly up to the imperial personage and told him what he thought of such action.

What she thought of such action, he tried to argue with her, but she was much too smart for him. He called in 50 of his top scholars to defend the pagan gods, but even they were no match for Catherine. She converted them, and the Emperor ordered them all burned.

Here is where her beauty saved her—for a worse fate. She was not burned with her 50 converts because the Emperor wanted her as his consort—he already had a wife. Naturally she declined this doubtful honor and the Emperor, enraged but still not willing to give up hope and put her to death, had her beaten.

The crowning insult put upon his imperial majesty was that Catherine proceeded to convert his wife and 200 of the best soldiers. Maxentius ordered them all killed. The 200 soldiers were quickly dispatched, but for Catherine the Emperor devised a special, slow and agonizing death on a spiked wheel. It is from this legend that we get the name "Catherine wheel" for that popular item of fireworks.

St. Catherine's patronage of unmarried women is responsible for the bit of doggerel known as the Maiden's Prayer:

St. Catherine, St. Catherine.
O lend me thine aid.
And grant that I never
May die an old maid.
A husband, St. Catherine
A good one, St. Catherine
But any one better than
No one, St. Catherine.
A husband, St. Catherine
Rich, St. Catherine
Handsome, St. Catherine
Kind St. Catherine
Soon! St. Catherine.

She is also the patron of Christian philosophers, women students, wheelwrights, and millers.

FEAST OF LIGHTS

Thursday, Nov. 29 — Twenty-one centuries ago a little band of Jewish soldiers fought and won the first recorded battle for religious liberty. They resisted and overcame the mighty Syrian hordes, who if victorious would have wiped out Judaism both as a faith and as a way of life.

But this war, which is called the Maccabean War because the Jews were led by Judas Maccabeus, did far more than rescue one religion from extinction. The English historian, Cecil Roth, said, "The Maccabean War determined the future of civilization. It decided that western civilization should have a Jewish-Christian ethic."

It is, therefore, a victory of world-wide importance that the Jews celebrate with their eight-day Feast of Lights, called Hanukkah, which begins today. At first there was some hesitation among the rabbis about allowing Hanukkah to become a religious festival, for it is not permissible for Jews to associate human bloodshed and worship. For this reason there are no military references in the symbolism of this festival.

For eight days each year, beginning on the 25th day of the month of Kislev, Jews give thanks for and draw inspiration from the great event which meant the survival of Judaism, rather than from the fighting or the bloodshed that went involved.

On each of the eight days they light candles, one the first day, two the second, and so on. A special nine-branch candelabrum, called a Menorah, is used, the ninth place being provided for an extra candle from which the others are lighted. The special significance of the candle ceremony is that it recalls the rekindling of the lights in the Temple when the holy place was purified and cleansed after the Maccabean warriors had captured it from the Syrians.

On a deeper level the meaning of Hanukkah relates not only to one historic incident but rather to the ever-recurring story of the survival of Judaism.

Time after time the faith of the Jews has been in jeopardy, but always it has met and overcome the hostile forces. Through all their wanderings on the earth, and through all the persecutions inflicted on them, Jews have had to fight against the danger of actual physical destruction. Today the threat is more subtle, but no less real, for now they must be on the alert against the loss or dilution of assimilation of their faith into a more friendly, but non-Jewish culture.

So Hanukkah has a modern as well as an ancient application as a festival of survival, a symbol of the way the Jews maintain the integrity of their faith in the face of both physical force and alien influences.

American Jews, especially, make much of this winter festival, perhaps because American Christians at the same time of year are making so much of Christmas. In fact, the customs of Hanukkah are not unlike the customs of Christmas. The giving of gifts, the lighting of candles, the decorating of the home—all these fit in well with the general atmosphere of the season of the year, but they also preserve their distinctly Jewish flavor. Traditional Hanukkah decorations are the six-pointed "Star of David"—and blue and white crepe paper. Blue and white are the Jewish colors. Hanukkah gifts are wrapped in these colors. Special symbols of the festival are the elephant, because of the trained elephants used by the Syrian armies, and the hammer, in commemoration of the Jewish leader Judas Maccabeus, who was called "Judas the Hammerer."

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DO YOU NEED SOMEONE TO TELL YOU TO STOP DOING WRONG?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm in my junior year in high school and am very much in love with a boy who is also in the 11th or 12th year. My parents don't like this boy and have forbidden me to see him, as the only way I get to see him is at school and at events we both go to.

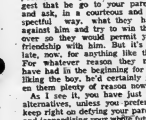
We want to get married, but we have no security at all. I've had intimate relations with this boy and I don't regret it at all, because I love him and I know he loves me. I don't want to hurt my parents, but I want to spend the rest of my life with him, so please tell me what I can do. — J.C.

Dear J.C.:

Your statement that you wouldn't want to hurt your parents and your other statement that you've had intimate relations with this boy and don't regret it hardly hang together, do they? If you keep on the way you're going, you are very likely to find your self one of these days, in a situation that will not only hurt your parents but will hurt you even more. Have you given any thought to this possibility?

Am I to understand that you and this boy want to get married while you're still in high school? What you say gives me that impression.

Altogether in view of your general attitude, it seems to me a waste of time for anyone to "tell you what to do," because you've already done, and apparently intend to continue doing what you please, and I have no confidence that you'd stop doing it just because I told you to.



If you were the right kind of boy, and if you'd been conducting yourselves as you should, I'd suggest that he go to your parents and ask, in a courteous and respectful way, what they have against him and try to win them over so they would permit your friendship with him. But it's too late, now, for anything like that. For whatever reason they may have had in the beginning for not liking the boy, he'd certainly give them plenty of reason now.

As I see it, you have just two alternatives, unless you prefer to keep right on defying your parents and jeopardizing your whole future.

One of these alternatives would be to stop seeing this boy at all.

The other would be for the two of you to go together to your parents, tell them the true story of what has been going on and see what you can all work out together. If you decide on the latter, I'd suggest that, before taking the step, both of you go to your pastor or priest and ask for help in how to approach your parents.

Why not admit to yourselves that you're in desperate need of help in straightening out your lives and have the character to seek that help?

MONOGRAMMED TREASURES TO USE, NOT JUST TO "SHOW"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just inherited some very handsome china from a beloved aunt of mine. There are a dozen beautiful dinner plates, a dozen dessert plates, and ten cups and saucers, all of the same pattern, and all having her monogram on them in gold script. The initials of this monogram are not at all like mine. Would it be correct for me to use these china pieces, marked as they are with her initials, with my own china, or should I just "show" them as decorative pieces in a china cabinet? — M.B.

My suggestion is that you use these handsome treasures whenever the occasion is appropriate, with happiness that they are yours and with special pride that the monogram is the monogram of your beloved aunt. It's entirely correct for you to use these items with your own pieces. You'll find, I'm quite sure, that these treasures will be "conversation pieces"!

HOME ADDRESS ON INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please answer this question, to settle a family discussion we are having: When engraved invitations are to be sent to a Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary dinner to be held in a Club, should the address of the host and hostess be included on the invitations, so that the replies may be sent to their home address instead of to the Club?
—C.K.

Yes.

BRIDE TO SEND CORSAGE TO ORGANIST, HER FRIEND

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The organist of our church is a very dear and close friend of mine. She is to play at our wedding, and my mother is going to send her a check (enclosed in a thank-you note) for the amount of her customary professional fee for this service. Of course we are inviting her to the reception. Should I send her a corsage in addition to the check and the reception?
— Nancy W.

Yes. Please do. This is a charming gesture, and under these circumstances of close friendship, quite customary.

PROMOTE HUBBY'S SUCCESS WITH AN OFFICE GROOMING KIT

A little extra gloss on his shoes before lunch could mean the difference between a better job or a "turn down."

Maybe a man's grooming habits don't strictly come under the heading of "beauty," but any beauty-conscious woman will realize that, both in the business and social world, her husband's appearance is as important as her own—maybe even more important in some respects.

Any devoted wife sees to it that before her husband has left for the office in the morning his bath has been accompanied by the nicest big towels he has, his favorite soap and brushes and all the other grooming aids he needs. She has seen to it that he doesn't run out of shaving soap, after-shave lotion, hair tonic, etc. In fact, he leaves the house looking like a real glamour boy. But what happens about mid-day, when he may have an important luncheon engagement? And what about the unexpected cocktail or dinner date after five? So much business is conducted over luncheon, cocktail and dinner tables these days that a man never knows from what direction his real opportunity may beckon. But, if he is a looking like the well-advertised "man of distinction," it may not beckon at all. So why not help him to prepare for the unexpected?

It's really a simple matter. A small box that will fit into his desk drawer will hold all the necessities for the quick "spruce-up" that will save him embarrassment under any circumstances. Oh, yes, maybe he'll rebel at first and ask if you think he's a "sissy." But with a little diplomacy you can start him on a mid-day or afternoon grooming course and he'll get to love it.

You can start simply. Into this kit put a box of facial tissues (tell him they'll come in handy when he has a cold), a cylinder of dental floss (to prevent the annoyance of food articles in teeth after lunch), soap and a towel (so he won't have to use the harsh ones supplied by the average office). Once he's accustomed to these small items, add some cologne, a comb, a nail file, nail brush and a shoe whiter. Little by little, of course. You'll be surprised how quickly he'll come to depend on these little items; begin to take pride in "freshening up" before lunch and "after five." And the habit of all-day grooming could well prove a real stepping-stone to his success!

P.S. Of course, if all the girls in the office begin taking a second look, that's your problem. But if you're as smart as we think you are, you can handle that one easily.

QUESTION:

. . . late last winter or early spring you printed a recipe for cookies which you said were new to you. You made a cookie dough and rolled (I think) and put a maraschino cherry inside of each and baked. I lost the recipe and would sure like to have it if not too much trouble. . . do you have a recipe for small green tomatoes pickled whole? . . . they are called "Polish Pickles"—Jean B. H.

ANSWER:

Your description fits
CHERRY DROPS

One and one-quarter cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder (1 teaspoon double-acting), 1-2 teaspoon each salt and soda, 1-4 cup shortening or butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup finely chopped pecans and dates, 1-2 cup chopped maraschino cherries plus quartered cherries for tops. Sift together the flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream the shortening well and cream the sugar into it. Beat in the eggs and add the milk and vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredients. Add the nuts and fruits. Shape into balls between palms, using 1 tablespoon dough for each cookie. Roll in crushed cornflakes (2 1-3 cups approx.) place on greased cookie sheet. Top each cookie with 1-4 of a maraschino cherry. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

My recipe for the type of pickle you describe is called
DILL TOMATOES

Two quarts small green tomatoes, 2 cloves of garlic, 2 celery stalks, 1-2 green pepper, 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups water, 1-4 cup salt, 1 bunch dill. Wash small green tomatoes and pack in sterile jar. Add garlic clove and the celery and green pepper chopped. Place dill on top of jar. Combine water, vinegar, and salt and boil five minutes. Pour this boiling hot liquid over the tomatoes and seal. Ready, to serve in six weeks.

QUESTION

Thank you very much for the recipe book and the sweet and sour recipe. I would like to ask you again. I clipped a recipe. . . for scones which I lost . . . I remember it had 1-2 cup currants in it. . . am enclosing a recipe for soup. . . economical and can be eaten in two different variations.

HOMEMADE SOUP

(Courtesy Mrs. R. A. H.)

Combine 30c worth lean brisket (about 1 1-2 lbs.), 4 quarts water, 1-3 cup barley, 1-2 cup navy beans, 1 teaspoon salt. Boil slowly two hours. Then add 1 lb. grated carrots, 1 small grated turnip, 6 grated potatoes. Cook for about 3-4 hour. Excellent soup. On the second day I add 2 cups stewed tomatoes and dumplings. . . the children really like it.—Mrs. R. A. H.

ANSWER:

Thank you. I'm sure our economy-minded and epicurean readers will like it too.

SCONES

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup shortening, 1-2 cup milk, 1 egg, 1-2 cup currants or raisins. Sift together dry ingredients, cut in shortening finely, stir in beaten egg and milk, then currants. Roll out to 1-4 or 1-2 inch thickness on floured board. Cut into 3 or 6-inch rounds, score into quarters deeply. Brush tops with milk and egg. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 12 to 15 minutes. May be cut into triangles and baked.

STIRLING

Awards, Certificates, Diplomas Presented at Commencement

STIRLING — On Wednesday evening Stirling theatre was filled to capacity for the annual high school commencement.

Principal John L. Good, B.A., welcomed the large audience and said he had been more years to continue his duties before retirement. He paid tribute to staff and pupils for their excellent year of work.

Mr. J.-B. Belshaw, who is Stirling's representative to Centre Hastings high school district board and who has served three years in education, spoke briefly and assisted the principal in distributing the various awards.

Grade XIII, Alger shield, Joan Campbell; Grade XII, Morton shield, Betty Drew (who was unable to be present); Grade XI, Bastedo shield, Eleanor Stapley; Grade X, Wright shield, Barbara Woodbeck; Grade IX, Duffin shield, Mildred Morton.

Centre Hastings high school district scholarships and prizes for high standing as provided by the Area Board are:

Grade XIII Scholarship, value $20; Joan Campbell; Grade XII Scholarships, first, value $15, Betty Drew; second, value $10, Vera Coombes; Grade XI Scholarship, first, value $15, Eleanor Stapley; second, value $10, John Copeland; Grade X Scholarships, first, value $10, Barbara Woodbeck; second, value $5, Ross Cotten; Grade IX Scholarship, first, value $10, Mildred Morton; second, value $5, Yvonne King.

Proficiency prizes, $2 each, were awarded in Grade XII as follows:

Agricultural Science (R. E. Fox) Jim Hubel; English (Dr. Wm. Cornett) Tom Bridges; French (G. B. Noble) Betty Drew; Geography (R. M. Marbry) Ray Conegliо; Geometry (Dr. R. W. Vandervoort) Vera Coombes; Home Economics (Mrs. C. Pryor) Ruth Morgan; Latin (H. H. Tompkins) Janet Anne Good; Modern History (W. H. Donnan) June Free; Shop (E. D. Ketcheson) Ronald Woodbeck.

In Grade XI proficiency prizes were awarded the following:

Agricultural Science (A. O. Dalrymple) John Sager; Algebra (Dr. E. A. Carleton) Malcolm Reid; Chemistry and Med History, (R. L. Hatton) Joan Barron; English, (W. G. West) Lalia-belle Mathews; French, (Mrs. G. Bailey) Sally Coombes; Home Economics (Mrs. J. L. Good) Mary Ellen Long; Latin, (Miss W. Hay) Grace Clarke; Shop, (J. L. Good) Aleck Stickle.

Grade X Proficiency Prizes were awarded to:

Science, (K. P. Mayhew) Melville Patterson; English, (E. C. Hay-Ellis) Grace Heasman; French, (H. C. Bird) Joanne Reid; Sewing Jean Abrams; Home Economics, (Miss M. Swaine) Jean Abrams; Latin (J. S. Whitelaw) Sally Fox; Mathematics, (W. Wright) Donna Dodds; Shop, (J. B. Belshaw) Charlie Nix; Social Studies, (C. E. Macklin) Elliott Martin.

Grade IX Proficiency prizes to —Science, N. A. Caragura—Raeburn Scott; English, R. A. Patterson, Edward Mayhew; French W. T. Elliott—Janice Coombes; Home Economics, Bateman's Ladies' Wear—Dawn Hubel; Mathematics, McIntosh and Wells — Reginald McCurdy; Music, C. H. Vance—Sandra West; Shop, J. J. Doran—Burnard Beckett; Social Studies, Stirling Motor Sales—Douglas Faires.

At this point, the Grade IX Music Class under the direction of Mrs A. Nickle, rendered a Swing-a-long song, and an Italian folk song with Harold Series as pianist.

Later, they sang, "O Holy Night", by Adolphe Adam, with Beverly McIsaac as pianist, and "Life is a Beautiful Song", from "Green Cheese" with Bernice McCurdy as pianist.

INTERMEDIATE CERTIFICATES

Two boys, Clifford Holton and Maurice Wood, are now serving in the Navy.

John Butcher is now in South Africa. He received his certificate in September before he went with his parents abroad.

DIPLOMAS AWARDED

Graduation diplomas are awarded at the completion of Grade XII and were awarded as follows—Deane Asselline, Joyce Bailey, Tom Bridges, Donna Carlisle, Yeva Coombes, Shirley Cooney, Shirley Devolin, Betty Drew, Jean Eggleton, Mary Lou Faires, June Free, Janet Anne Good, Jim Hubel, Marjorie Ketcheson, Bill McKeown, Ruth Morgan, Carl Pitman, Diane Preston, Dorothy Richardson, Martin Secker, Donna Stapley, Joyce Tyrrer, Allan Wells, Ronald Woodbeck, June Wright.

The Honor graduation diplomas are awarded to students completing 8 papers, one of which is English at the completion of grade XIII. These were given to Joan Campbell and William McKeown.

The Hon. J. R. Cooke Scholarship for Stirling high school. Best 8 papers in upper school value $30 was given to Joan Campbell, who is now attending Normal School in Peterborough.

The Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, as assistance to a deserving student, value $75 was awarded Joyce Tyrrer.

VOLLEYBALL TEAM

The Stirling high school volleyball team was then grouped on the platform. They were: Ruth Morgan, captain, June Free, Grace Clarke, Mary Lou Faires, Janet Anne Good, Marilyn Reid, Yeva Coombes, Marjorie Ketcheson, Sally Coombes, Carol Fargey, Patsy Donohoe, Pauline McCurdy with Mrs. C. Pryor as coach.

This group was the Centre Hastings secondary school association volleyball champions for 1956. The games were arranged by Mrs. Helen Brady, B.A., of Marmora high school. She presented the captain with the trophy.

This group also was presented with another trophy by a representative from the Quinte Secondary School, Belleville, as they were the Bay of Quinte District COSSA Volleyball champions, senior B, at the jamboree held in Belleville.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

Joan Campbell, daughter of Mrs. James Campbell and the late Mr. Campbell, said when she began her high school career she never dreamed of being the valedictrian to the group of young people who will soon be taking their places in today's world.

Mr. Good spoke of the ten staff members and said he was well pleased. The staff is as follows:

J. L. Good, B.A., principal, Mathematics; Mrs. Gordon Bailey, B.A., French; N. A. Caragata, B.Ed., Science, Agriculture; J. J. Doran, shop; Miss Winnifred Hay, B.A., Latin, English, Ancient History; E. C. Hay-Ellis, M.A., English, History, Social Studies; R. M. Marbry, B.A., Science, Social Studies, Guidance, Physical Education; Miss Anne B. Nickle, B.A., music; Mrs. Claude Pryor, B.A., English, Mathematics; Social Studies, Physical Education; Miss Muriel Swaine, B. Sc. (H.E.C.), Home Economics.

GUEST SPEAKER

Professor D. Ralph Campbell, B.A., Toronto, and B.A. Oxford, England, professor and Head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, was the guest speaker and was introduced by Principal Good.

Nineteen years ago Ralph Campbell gave the valedictory address at the S.H.S. commencement. There was three feet of snow but the theatre was packed. Mr. Good said it was a privilege and an honor to introduce Ralph. He graduated in 1937 with 11 firsts and two seconds and then began life on the farm. During World War II he served the air-force as a pilot and received the D.F.C. and Bar overseas for his courage and bravery. He then entered Queen's University, Kingston, where he was awarded his B.A. and the Rhodes Scholarship He now is a professor at O.A.C., Guelph.

Ralph said it was a great honor to be invited to be guest speaker at the commencement and he was delighted to come. He chose as his theme "Our Changing World." He told of the various paid jobs that are available to young people today and urged that they specialize in their chosen field.

OWE RESPONSIBILITY

"Students must realize that they have some responsibility in the world, and that other folk are dependent on their efforts. He pictured Guelph, where the first home was built 130 years ago, and said in those days the farms were self sufficient, but today it is far different. Opportunities are improving daily with the growth of large industries."

He described the tremendous power of large institutions, and the labor unions, and urged the young people to assume some of the responsibility of the world. He also outlined the various courses with the government and stressed the need of serving at home, using the franchise and accepting responsibility.

There are numerous problems to be solved and he warned the students to continue their education after they complete their studies at high school.

In conclusion he left three items of wisdom for the students to benefit by after they leave the school room and begin work outside. "Take time to read, either a magazine, or a good book, and thus improve along the way; accept responsibility, be a good leader, a good follower, both are most necessary in this world of ours. Think out your own problems, learn to do your own individual thinking, have a mind of your own.

"In following these ideas you will have a happy, successful life and above all practise goodwill, for that should be your highest aim and will assure you a worthwhile career."

The principal expressed gracious thanks for the message.

STIRLING

St. John's L.G. Tea, Bazaar Successful Event

STIRLING — On Tuesday, St. John's Ladies' Guild, under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Burton Woodbeck, held its annual tea and bazaar with a large number of ladies from the village and surrounding area in attendance.

It was a lovely autumn Indian Summer day with the smoky hills in the distance and folks were delighted to be away from home in such grand weather.

The church hall was a bower of beauty and was decorated by the local AYPA group under the leadership of Ros Woodbeck, and they are to be congratulated on completing such a fine arrangement. The decorations were in Christmas effect with red and green streamers from ceiling to central table. There were evergreens, Christmas lights and a large Santa Claus illumination which presented a cheery atmosphere.

Mrs. Burton Woodbeck received the guests and Mrs. Everett Cooke was in charge of the finances at the door.

The Rev. H. C. Secker, pastor of St. John's Anglican Church, opened the bazaar with prayer.

The long central table was arranged in a most tasty Christmas effect with silver services and delabra and those who poured were: Mrs. C. Secker, Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, Mrs. A. Packman and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher. Those who served were: Mrs. Frank Harding, Mrs. Bruce Murray, Mrs. George Bracken and Mrs. Robert Burgess. The assistants were: Mrs. Joe Whitehead, Mrs. Jack Green, Mrs. Ed. Salisbury, Mrs. Stella Leonard, Mrs. Bullmer Belshaw and Mrs. Edgar Morrow.

Delectable sandwiches, relishes and wee cookies were served.

The various booths were well filled with wares and aprons buyers soon purchased the numerous articles.

Home cooking was in charge of Mrs. Hiram Rodges and Mrs. F. McGee; fancy work and aprons, Mrs. Melville Tanner and Mrs. Thomas Tanner; towels, Mrs. E. A. Morrow and Mrs. H. L. Parrott; homemade candy, Mrs. F. G. Hoskings and Mrs. Ernest Gifford.

The tea and bazaar was the most successful of any held in recent years, and the Anglican ladies were appreciative to all those who had in any way contributed to the success of the event.

Garden Notes

Cold-Frame Speeds Early Planting

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Manufacturers of plastics suggest the use of plastic film in place of glass for small greenhouses and cold-frames. In a very small lean-to greenhouse, or pit house where the angle of the roof is sharp enough to shed snow and rain this may be practical. But, with the sheets are strong enough they do stretch under a load of wet snow. Wire reinforced plastics will be much more practical and longer lasting.

A very simple cold-frame offers a lot of protection for semi-hardy plants. It should be constructed, if possible, on the south side of the house, garage, or a fence. A thick shrubbery border also offers some protection to the cold-frame. The transparent roof should slope toward the south to make use of all the heat of the sun possible.

The frame may be made of lumber on hand, which you can treat with wood preservative. Creosote is toxic and should not be used near plants. A frame three feet by six feet will accommodate a fair number of plants since they can stand crowding during the winter, when the purpose is only to keep the plants alive in a dormant state. The back should be eight to twelve inches higher than the front, and the sides should be banked with soil to keep out the wind, and to keep in the heat of the sun.

NEED GOOD DRAINAGE

Choose a well drained place for the cold-frame, or lay field tile under it to insure good drainage. The floor of the frame may be the natural level of the soil, or dug out to a depth of six to eight inches.

The frame for the glass or plastic roof should be painted each year to preserve the wood. A grass green color will help the frame to blend in with its surroundings and give a more pleasing effect. The top may be fastened on with hinges or hooks and eyes on all four sides which will enable you to remove the whole top when the weather warms up in the spring. Top may be stored in garage, or basement for summer to prevent drying out, and breakage by glass or plastic.

The blooming season of plants may be extended as much as 60 days by starting seed early in a cold frame, and maturing late of plants to bloom indoors. It is an ideal place to store potted bulbs for late winter blooms, and semi-hardy plants such as hybrid delphiniums, pansies, violets and some types of chrysanthemums, then too you can store cuttings, and potted alpine plants until the ground is ready for spring planting.

Keep the top and sides clear of snow. A collapse under a heavy snowfall may flood the floor of the cold-frame with disastrous results.

PROVIDE HUMUS

The soil in the cold-frame should contain considerable humus such as chopped leaves, peat moss, or sawdust. Do not allow the soil to become too dry. Watering should always be done in the morning to allow moisture to drain down away from the plant roots before night. Lift a corner of the frame, for a little ventilation. This is necessary even on cold days. Steam on the under-surface of the glass indicates danger. It may be the forerunner of the gardeners worst enemy damping-off, always test the top on the side away from the wind.

In many sections hardy annuals are planted at this time. Such toughies as cornflower (batchelor's buttons) annual larkspur, nicotiana, Chinese pinks, poppy, sweet alyssum and many others. You can prepare the soil inside a wooden frame made from two by fours, or old planks. The frame offers some slight protection, and prevents washing out of seeds. A friend of mine keeps an old bed spring to put over this frame. She tells me it discourages children and dogs from running over the plants, and it supports a glass sash at one end. Under the spring and this sash she places seed flat in the early spring. It is surprising the number of healthy seedlings she has on hand for bedding out when the spring weather really settles. She also uses it to protect lily and iris seedlings which take years to grow. Here too she plants in June the seed for next year's biennials, campanulas, foxgloves, lupines and sweet William.

Frost Will Make Deal for 'Ransom' Hat

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario says he is "perfectly willing to make a deal" to ransom his hat, taken from his office Thursday by two University of Toronto students.

Premier Frost good-naturedly: "This is a serious matter. I'm not like my wife—she has a hat for every occasion. Besides this one I've been wearing I only have a homburg and a red top and a plug hat I bought when George VI toured Canada in 1939."

The premier's good hat was "filched" by John Grevy and Ian Macdonald, staff members of The Varsity, the university's student newspaper. The move was part of a nation-wide plot to have the hats of all 10 provincial premiers on display at the annual meeting of the Canadian University Press here after Christmas.

The premier who has known "all the pranks" of several weeks, said he "didn't expect them to take me by surprise like this," Macdonald was the first out of the Parliament Buildings.

Madoc

MADOC — Visitors at the parsonage during the week were: Mrs. W. Rich, mother of Mrs. Lane and Mr. Roy Rich, her brother of Oakwood.

The Rev. Gordon Porter, supt. of Home Missions in Montreal, Ottawa and the east half of the Bay of Quinte Conference, was a guest of the Rev. V. F. Lane and Mrs. Lane during the week.

Mrs. Frank Baalim was in Lorne Park, during the past week where she attended the annual commencement of Lorne Park College, held in the auditorium on Saturday evening, Nov. 17. A banquet was given in honor of the graduating class of '56 with Miss Jean Baalim, her daughter, being present to receive her honor matriculation diploma and general proficiency scholarship in Upper School.

13 Nationale Members Support Conservatives

OTTAWA (CP)—Thirteen Union Nationale members of the Quebec legislature who have gone on record as supporting the federal Progressive Conservative party will attend the Conservative leadership convention here next month as voting delegates.

William Rowe, the party's national director, said Thursday they are eligible under rules which applied at the last party convention in 1948.

The rule says that any member of a provincial legislature who supports the federal Conservative party is eligible as an ex-officio delegate.

Mr. Rowe said, however, that they must write asking to be given credentials and stating they are willing to support the policies of the federal party. The 13 had done that, and it was possible that more Union Nationale members of the Quebec legislature would do the same.

Meanwhile, it was learned Thursday there is a possibility that a new chairman for the convention will be chosen as Leon Balcer, president of the Young National Association, has declared himself as a candidate for the party leadership.

COLD HITS BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Temperatures hit 19 degrees in southeast England overnight in the first blast of winter. Fog and frozen electrical points delayed train service in parts of London during the morning. In Paris, the temperature dropped to 23 degrees and the first icy spell of winter hit northern France.

PICTON

Acclamations Appear to Be General Rule in Rural Areas

PICTON — Acclamations appear to be the general rule in rural areas of Prince Edward County. However, two keen contests are in the offing in Hallowell township. Deputy Reeve Bruce Hyatt and a former warden, D. O. Reynolds, are contesting the reeveship. County Warden Clifford Wilson retires as reeve. Given an acclamation as deputy reeve is Gordon Parks Jr. In Hillier township, reeve Murney Parks retired and there is a contest for the reeveship between Councillor Ken Wood and an exwarden, John Taylor. As only three councillors were nominated for four seats, a second nomination is required.

Though several were nominated, Reeve Calvin Hughes is expected to receive an acclamation in the South Marysburg.

Athol township also had an acclamation with Reeve Melvin McCornick, Jack Hagerty and Keith Brummell are new council-lors succeeding Raymond Goodwin and Sam Armstrong.

Reeve Leland Doxsee was returned in Sophiasburg, with the same council except Elbere Carson who resigned and who is succeeded by Frank Kotchapaw.

Meetings were reported very quiet with few contentious issues.

Following are the nominations:

AMELIASBURG TOWNSHIP

Reeve—Melvin Pulver.

NICE WIN

Grey Cup or no Grey Cup, the tip of this column's hat goes to the McFarlands' fine showing over a tough week of senior "A" hockey. "Bep's Buddies," as the farmer column ist from Picton dubs them, came through handsomely with two victories and a tie against three of the toughest teams in the league. They whipped Pembroke 6-4, roared back to tie the Doughty Dunnies from Blairville 8-8 in an overtime "do," and capped the week's performance with a fine win over the Cornwall Chevrolets last night.

And with no intention of braggadocio the McFarlands are not at full strength. Willie Menard is sitting out with a hurt knee; St. Hilaire is nursing a cut tendon and Real Larouche is on a liquid diet (soup that is) with a double jaw fracture.

However, talking with Coach Bep Guidolin in the dressing room prior to the game last night, Bep said that both Willie and St. Hilaire were ready but he would rather have them rest a week to make sure. They will be in action next Friday against the Kingston CKLC's. And we do not know of a better club against which they can vent their figurative spleen.

There was nothing wrong with the game last night. It was clean, in fact one of the cleanest games we've seen this season. The press box "experts" picked Paul Payette as the player of the week and contrary to the publish address announcement Gordie Bell was chosen as the player of the night.

However, these awards are restricted to the Macs only, but if we had an overall choice we would have selected Gerry Devanney as the outstanding star of both clubs.

In an odd fashion, one you probably won't see again this season, there was no scoring in the first and third periods. Both teams played outstanding defensive hockey with lods. Both teams played consistently good hockey. It was clean, hard checks and the referee had more or less of an easy time. Again the Macs refused to be tempted into penalties and they should be commended for staying on the ice for that is where goals are scored.

PRO WRESTLING

Ted Steadman, manager of the Trenton Community Centre feeling that wrestling fans of the district should get the best available, has arranged for a topflight card at the RCAF South Station next Wednesday night.

The fireboys and their many friends, a lot of them from this city, will see the universal favorite Whipper Billy Watson, mainbouting a fine card with none other than that cruelty Nip from Nippon, Mr. Hito, in the opposite corner. "Trix should be one for the book. City rassle-fans need no introduction.

Nor do they have to be told about the popular Brunetti Brothers and the villainous Gallagher Bhoys from New Jersey, who have split their twains to join in single combat. "Disc" tangles with Joe Brunetti while Mike takes on brother Guy. That should be as good as the main bout since if history repeats itself brotherly love might start an unscheduled foursome that could steal the show.

Remember, it's next Wednesday night at the RCAF South Station and you will be guaranteed an enjoyable evening.

They Put the Larks to Win Under a 7-5 Odds Blanket; Who Won? You Know Now

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, burdened with the bitter memory that the country's greatest passing offence doesn't necessarily win football games, met the baffling Edmonton Eskimos for the Grey Cup today.

Once again it was a question of whether the Als, twice beaten by Edmonton in Canada's football spectacle, could shackle Eskimos' with an aerial attack behind the uncering arm of quarterback Sam Etcheverry; or whether the split-T Eskimos, capable of galloping any team to death with their magic ball-handling, could let Alouettes run wild in the air but cause enough damage along the ground to take their third straight cup victory.

The betting, around 7-to-5 odds hours before the 1 p.m. EST kickoff, said the Als would win. But the bettors were in 1954 and '55, when Montreal was defeated 26-25 by Eskimos here and 34-19 by the same Esks in Vancouver last year.

COLD BUT DRY

Cloudy, cold weather — accompanied by the nine-anchour winds — was the forecast for the 21,000-odd fans expected to crowd into Varsity Stadium for the 30th renewal of the classic.

The outlook was for a dry, fast field, protected from a light snowfall by the Canadian Rugby Union's $12,000 tarpaulin. The tarp was rolled up shortly before game time.

Long before the kickoff, thousands of Grey Cup addicts continued their celebrations in downtown hotel lobbies and taverns, ready to go whacky as soon as the teams trotted on to the field.

A victory for Eskimos would make them the fourth team in history to capture the cup three times in a row. Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union won the trophy, donated by Earl Grey in 1909, in 1945-46-47 with all-Canadian teams.

COLLEGES DID IT TOO

University of Toronto and Queen's University of Kingston, two intercollegiate clubs, also accomplished the feat, the Toronto college team from 1909 to 1911, before the Metals challenged in 1921, and Queen's from 1922 to 1924.

Hugh on the local list of unknowns was whether coach Frank (Pop) Ivy would ride as quarterback with sensational Don Getty, a 22-year-old graduate from the University of Western Ontario in London. Getty, an excellent split-T man, led Eskimos to victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the final series of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

First - string quarter Jackie Parker, the wizard from Mississippi State who generated Esks' two successive cup victories over the Als, was to go into a halfback position if Getty was placed at quarter. Parker moved to half after backfielder Earl Lindley was injured and benched from the Western final and Grey Cup.

Parker, whose 85-yard run on a glimpy leg in the dying minutes gave Eskimos their win in the 1954 final, is doubly dangerous when used as a halfback. Always present is the threat of a Parker pass or some of those weird and wunderful fake handoffs or pitch out.

The last time a Canadian player started at quarterback in a Grey Cup was nine years ago, when Fred Doty led Toronto Argonauts to a 10-9 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1947.

It was in 1945 that a Canadian quarter last started for a western club in the big engagement. Nate Shore was the field general for Winnipeg. Argos also had Doty calling signals that year and defeated Bombers 35-6.

TEAMS HIDDEN

Alouettes flew from Montreal and worked out briefly at Maple Leaf Stadium. Then they were bustled into a guarded wing of a downtown hotel—safe from all the whoop-de-doo and boisterous fans.

Eskimos, who practised all week behind barred gates at Western University's campus, bedded down at a hotel in suburban Scarborough.

Injuries could be a deciding factor in the game. Eskimos were without Lindley, a rugged, two-way performer, while Alouettes could count only on minimum mileage from tackle Jim Seton. He was hobbling Friday with a broken toe.

Although the battle shaped up as an aerial attack versus an infantry offensive, it didn't mean Eskimos couldn't pass efficiently, nor Alouettes run effectively.

Getty is a better-than-average passer. He's good on short tosses, occasionally throws long. With such stars as Parker and half Rollie Miles on the receiving end, Esks could run up plenty of yardage through the air.

However, Esks, who lost five of their 16 games during the regular WIFU schedule, mainly are a running team—usually relying on the belly or ride series. Their crushing ground thrusts are spearheaded by Jimmie Kwong and Johnny Bright. Ivy's strategy was to control the ball; because the other team can't score if you have it.

THE OTHER SIDE

Now the Als.

This is the club with the devastating pass attack. To go along arm: the Montrealers have star receiver in Hal Patterson, named Canada's outstanding player of 1955, Red O'Quinn, Jerry Pal and Bob Jonas. The Als are noted for their offensive blocking and pass protection.

They depend on fullback Pat Abbruzzi, 26-year-old import from Watrres, Rhode Island, for an effective ground attack. Abbruzzi, with 20 touchdowns for 120 points, led the Big Four scorers and ground gainers this season.

The experts gave Eskimos the edge defensively. Alouettes were vulnerable on defence against Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four final series. They had trouble stopping Jackie Parker's passing attack and Eskimos may exploit the weakness.

NOT KNOW TO ALS

On the other hand, Alouettes were accustomed to the split-T offensive. They worked against it when they met Ottawa Rough Riders in Big Four games. They beat Riders in five of six games.

Eskimos know all about Etcheverry's passing ability. They saw a lot of it last year when Sam completed 20 of 39 passes for a fantastic record of 508 yards.

Despite the display, Als lost decisively. This prompted many football veterans to say passes no longer can be won by forward passing alone.

Alouettes, obviously, don't believe them.

Blue Bombers Gal Won Title, Car

TORONTO (CP) — Miss Winnipeg Blue Bomber — 20-year-old Mary Ann Johnson the Miss Grey Cup contest Friday night and a fire engine red European sports car.

The blue-eyed, petite blonde science student from the University of Manitoba was declared the winner after almost day - long judging by a panel of five judges. She won the title over 12 other beauties representing football cities in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, the Big Four and the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior series.

Carre Nash, 17, raven-haired Miss Hamilton Tiger-Cats, was second and won a fur coat. Third was Patricia Lauer, 18, Miss Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, who was presented with a set of luggage.

The smiling beauty queen from Winnipeg took the announcement with a great show of happiness, then blushing her face in her bouquet, then waving happily at a crowd of about 1,500 Grey Cup revellers assembled in a hotel ball room.

What can I say," said the new Miss Grey Cup. "I'm so happy — so very happy. Thank you for everything. Toronto is a wonderful city."

The five-foot, four-inch, 118-pound blue eyed student gave her measurements as 34-32-35.

PLANTE MAY RETURN

Plante, who leads the National Hockey League in shutouts so far this season with four, has been out with a severe case of bronchial asthma. He has played only 10 of the Canadiens' 19 games.

He worked out Friday with Montreal Royals Quebec League farm club, and is expected to take over from Gerry McNeil tonight if there is no recober. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, out for an elbow operation, may also be back.

Plans Party For Eskimos

MONTREAL (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos may not have planned a Grey Cup celebration in Montreal for tonight, a night club manager says, but some one may be planning one for them.

Jack Sar, part-owner of the Bellevue Casino, said Friday night Eskimo supporter Bob Kashower of Edmonton has made reservations for a party of 40.

Kashower is the man who chartered a plane in 1954 after the first Edmonton conquest of Montreal Alouettes and flew a party, including 14 team members, here for a victory celebration.

Coach Pop Ivy of the Eskimos Friday denied a previous report that the team had a victory dinner lined up at the Montreal club.

An Edmonton spokesman said he didn't know how it all started.

"Ivy doesn't like this for a number of reasons," he said. "For one thing it isn't the policy of the team to count its chickens before they are hatched."

He said Lashower didn't mention "the number of players scheduled to arrive at the party."

"I, as a football fan, realize that Mr. Ivy is not given to counting unhatched chickens but that doesn't necessarily apply to the rabid fans from the West."

Anyway, he's lined up a chorus of 12 lovelies and additional entertainment and a special staff.

Looks Like Rough Weekend For Lowly Maple Leafs

It's going to be a rough weekend for Toronto Maple Leafs.

Not only do they tackle the powerful Boston National Hockey League leaders twice in a row but they'll be lacking one of their more talented rookies for both battles.

Barry Cullen went to hospital in Toronto Friday for treatment of a charley horse. Hap Day, Leafs' general manager, wouldn't even venture a guess as to how long Cullen will be out of action.

Cullen suffered the damage to his right leg in a collision with Red Wing Lorne Ferguson in Detroit Thursday night. He survived the pain long enough to score the tying goal in a six-man gang attack but the twitches caught up with him later.

Leafs, now in fourth place with 16 points, could use that kind of scoring determination this weekend. They meet the league-leading Boston Bruins in Toronto tonight and in Beantown Sunday night.

NEED HAB HELP

While the Leafs can't afford any losses, even a double win would not necessarily advance their position in the standings unless Montreal Canadiens dropped at least one of their two games.

The Canadiens, in third place and three points up on the Leafs, have a home-and-home encounter with New York Rangers, who are in fifth spot and two behind Toronto. The Rangers travel to Montreal for tonight's game and are hosts to the Canadiens in New York Sunday.

Red Wings and Black Hawks round out the other weekend action, playing in Detroit tonight and Chicago Sunday.

TAKE POLO LEAD

TORONTO (CP) — McGill University Redmen trounced University of Toronto 20-9 Friday night in the first game of a two-game total point series for the Intercollegiate Senior Water Polo championship. The final game is scheduled for Montreal Dec. 1.

ORTEGA BEATS DEMARCO

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaspar Ortega, a 4-to-1 underdog from Mexicali, Mexico, fenced in Tony DeMarco in the early rounds and matched the ex-welter champ punch for punch down the stretch in a surprise split decision in a 10-round match Friday night. DeMarco weighed 145½, Ortega 147½.

Ortega's corner crew staged a wild celebration that usually goes with a title victory after the ring announcer announced he had upset the chunky Boston slugger. Referee Al Berl voted 6-3-1 for Ortega and judge Jack Gordon 5-4-1 for Ortega but judge Frank Forbes scored it in favor of DeMarco 6-4.

McFarlands Sweep Into Second Place With Fine 3-2 Victory Over Cornwall

Bep Guidolin Scores Winner In Goal-Scoring 2nd Period; Goalies Play Star Role

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The McFarlands and the Cornwall Chevrolets demonstrated to 1800 fans in Memorial Arena last night senior "A" hockey as "she should be played." The Macs emerged with an outstanding week's record of two wins and a tie when they edged the Chevs 3-2 in a clean, hard-checking battle here.

The victory gave the Macs undisputed possession of second place in the loop standing and they earned it the hard way. They whipped Pembroke 6-4, and roared from behind to hold the doughty Whitby Dunlops 8-8 in an overtime fray. They never looked better than last night when they slipped by the Chevvies for their second victory of the week.

It was clean, fast and furious hockey with both teams playing the puck rather than the man. Referee Bill Balmer of Toronto, handed out but eight penalties with the teams splitting the sentences.

All the scoring was done in the second period. Cornwall grabbed the lead on what appeared to be a goal when a whistle sounded in the crowd and quick - thinking Moe Savard shoved the puck past a surprised Gordie Bell in the Macs' nets in 27 seconds.

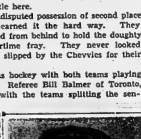
A minute later the Macs had it all tied up, went one up at the seven minute mark only to have the count tied two minutes later. Bep Guidolin came up with what proved to be the winner four minutes later and the scoring stopped there.

The third period was scoreless, a record for the league, but the driving Macs took no chances. They played fine offensive hockey and in the latter minutes of the period took the play to the Chevies. A last-minute penalty to Joe Lepine of the Chevies reduced their offensive power, and their chances to knot the count.

It was a battle of the goalies with both Gordie Bell of the Macs and Gerry Devaney of the Chevies filling out in fast Devaney was the star of the night. Bell's brilliancy in the clutches was overshadowed by Devaney's individual ability when three Macs' forwards raced in on him on breakaways only to have the canny Cornwallonite outguess them.

The first Cornwall goal came after a scoreless first period and it looked fluky. It seemed at least to us in the press box that a whistle blew somewhere in the crowd. The Macs more or less halted, especially Gordie Bell and Moe Savard flipped the puck into the net.

Six minutes later Maurice Benoit who played a whale of a game all night flipped the puck at Paul Payette, Paul broke into the clear and with a beautiful effort beat Devaney cleanly with the tying marker.



A minute later Johnny Whalen got the gate and the Chevies pounced on the pressure, Real Savard rifling as a power play with Mort Whalen and Moe Savard. It was a backhand shot from a difficult angle.

Then Bep Guidolin on a brilliant goalmouth passing play with Floyd Crawford slashed the puck past Devaney from close-in to score the winning goal. Whalen again got the gate near period end.

The Macs forged to the attack again in the third period and statistics show the Chevies had but one shot on Bell in the first twelve minutes of play. Devaney was especially brilliant in this period as the Macs with victory in their grasp pulled no punches.

Minnie Menard and Moe Savard got into a pushing battle here. Both were thumbed for two minutes but no damage was done.

The Chevies battled desperately for the tying marker but the Macs' defence headed by Floyd Crawford and "Bouncing Bernie" Goode, plus a superlative effort by Gordie Bell held them off. In fact the Macs were on the offensive when the gong sounded.

GOOD LUCK MESSAGE

EDMONTON (CP) — A 25-foot long telegram from Edmonton fans was to be sent to the Eskimos today for delivery just before they met Montreal Alouettes in the Grey Cup game.

The telegram carries signatures of some 2,000 Edmonton football fans urging the Eskimos to win the Grey Cup for the third consecutive year. A telegraph company operator needed about two hours to send the message.

Honor Men Who Nursed Grey Cup Game

TORONTO (CP) — Coaches and executives relived the early days of Canadian football Friday night and paid tribute to the men who nursed the Grey Cup game from relative obscurity to the national spectacle it has become.

Five men who were instrumental in the growth of football were honored amid recollections of days when the best Grey Cup tickets sold for $1 each and the annual East - West playoff was Ken Montgomery, president of the Canadian Rugby union, presidented plaques in honor of Hamilton (Laddie) Cassels, John T. Thompson, Clair Warner, Art Chapman and the late Very Rev. William J. Stanton.

Father Stanton's plaque was accepted by one of his former students, Dr. Edward Nagel of Calgary. Father Stanton, who was killed in an automobile accident in 1937, coached teams at the University of Ottawa which were among the best in Canada between 1907 and 1910.

RECALLS PAST GAMES

The awards were presented following reminiscences by radio commentator John Fisher of the days when the few fans who turned out to watch the Grey Cup game in Toronto's Varsity Stadium ran up and down over empty seats to keep warm.

Cassels was honored because of his play during the 1913-14 seasons with the University of Toronto and his coaching in 1920 that helped bring the Blues a Dominion title. Cassels later became president of the CRU.

Thompson, who played 14 years with Calgary teams, later became president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union and vice-president of Calgary Stampeders. Warner, who had a nine-year career with Regina Roughriders and later became a team executive, also is a past president of the WIFU.

HELD HIGH POSTS

Chipman was president of Winnipeg Blue Bombers from 1942 to 1948, became president of the WIFU in 1949 and president of the CRU in 1952.

U.S. Sweeps Into Big Lead With Fine Olympic Display

MELBOURNE (CP)—Canada's Olympic contenders — along with those from most of the other competing countries — were eclipsed by the tremendous American showing in today's events at the 1956 Games.

The United States, in one of its finest hours of Olympic competition, took a commanding lead over Russia in the unofficial point total by sweeping to victory in every final track and field event of the day except the 50-kilometre walk, won by a New Zealander.

Passing the Russians, Germans and Swedes in the points table, the Americans reached a total of 100 with only the middleweight event in the weightlifting and the team foils in fencing still to be decided on Saturday's program.

Russia held second place with 80 points.

3 RECORDS BROKEN

Three Olympic records were shattered and another was tied during the day, to the delight of another capacity crowd of 100,000 that jammed the huge Melbourne Stadium throughout a hot, windy afternoon.

Hal Connolly, 220-pound Bostonian toppled the favored Russians in the hammer throw with a heave of 207 feet 3¼ inches that broke the Olympic record of 197 feet 11½ inches set by Jozsef Csermak of Hungary in 1952. All six finalists, including Csermak himself, broke the old mark.

The Olympic record in the 400-metre hurdles was broken both by Glenn Davis, who set the world record of 49.5 seconds in the U.S. trials, and Eddie Southern of Dallas, Tex. Davis, 19-year-old Ohio State sophomore, led a 1-2-3 U.S. sweep in the hurdles with a winning time of 50.1—the same time in which Southern broke the old mark of 50.8 in the semi-finals. Southern, who finished second in the final, equalled the 50.5 mark set in 1952 by Charlie Moore of the U.S.

The third record-broken was in the women's 100-metre sprint preliminary round. Betty Cuthbert of Australia won her qualifying heat in 11.4 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the 11.5 set by

France Scores Major Upset Over Russia

By JACK SULLIVAN

MELBOURNE (CP) — France deals Canada's slim Olympic basketball chances a severe blow today with a 76-57 major upset of Russia in the qualifying round of the 1956 games.

The Russians had decisively defeated the Canadian entry in the opening game of the tournament, and Canada is scheduled to meet France Monday night in the last Canadian chance to go into the second round.

Canada defeated Singapore 85-28 earlier in the day for a 1-1 record, but didn't look too good in doing it. The much taller Canadians built up a 51-30 half-time lead and should have won by at least 50 points, but their shooting was decidedly spotty.

The French victory today—their second—sent them into the next round, leaving the Russians needing a win over Singapore Monday to continue. France can afford to lose to Canada and still move forward.

WON 100 METRES

Another record fell meanwhile in the weightlifting division when Russia's Igor Rybak lifted a total of 627½ pounds in the lightweight competitio n.

Alvin Norrens made it 5-3 in the third, then McMaster, Frank Mahovlich and Louis Cyr's pair finished off Barrie's hopes.

GAME IN RIGHT PLACE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of British Columbia Lions are glad the Grey Cup game is in Toronto this year.

"We'd have to use radar if it was at Empire Stadium," Lions' vice-president Dick Lane said Friday as the West Coast city remained wrapped in thick fog for the second consecutive day.

Bears Favored Over Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—The high-soaring Chicago Bears are seven-point favorites to de eat New York Giants in Sunday's big game which will go a long way toward deciding the conference titleholders in the National Football League.

which boosted them into first place in the Western Conference. A giant setback and a Chicago Cardinal victory over Pittsburgh would produce a deadlock for first place in the Eastern Division.

The streaking Washington Redskins take on Cleveland Browns in another important game. The Skins are three-point favorites off their successive triumphs over the Browns, Cards, Detroit and the Giants.

Rounding out the five-game program, San Francisco will be at Philadelphia and Los Angeles at Baltimore.

ORFU Pushing Its Way Back Into Cup Scene

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Rugby Football Union, once a power in Canadian football is pushing its way back into the Grey Cup scene after an absence of two years and attempting to retain some of its former prestige.

Armed with a four-page outline of an ambitious program for 1957, the ORFU Friday invited the Big Four Union to breakfast, then announced it will challenge next fall for the Grey Cup and proposed a two-year trial of an interlocking schedule between the two leagues.

To make its challenge stronger, the ORFU said that next year it will carry the maximum number of United States import players as allowed under Canadian Rugby Union rules. This year, when the ORFU allowed four imports on each of four teams, the CRU limit was 12.

When Len Taylor of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, ORFU champions, released the proposals to the press, he said the Big Four representatives — including president Jim McCaffrey who came on behalf of Ottawa Rough Riders—gave the ideas a reasonable reception, promised to study them and appoint a committee to meet in three weeks with the ORFU.

ORFU IS NEEDED

"We realize that anything that can be done to help the ORFU stay in business should be done," said McCaffrey when asked if the proposals had merit. "We need the ORFU in Canada and it is the duty of the Big Four to try to help that league."

The ORFU won the Grey Cup championship seven times between 1909 and 1941, when Hamilton Flying Wildcats were the last ORFU cup winners. But the league began to fade out with the advent in 1948 of high-priced, high-powered clubs in the Big Four and the Western International Football Union.

In 1955, the ORFU—which previously had played the Big Four or WIFU champions in cup semi-finals—agreed not to challenge. The league said it agreed under strong pressure from the CRU and while the ORFU sat out again in 1956, its officials were planning ways and means to come back in force in 1957.

THEIR PROPOSALS

This is what they proposed Friday:

To challenge for the Grey Cup in the 1957 playoffs with semi-final competition between the Big Four and ORFU champions; a two-year trial of an interlocking schedule, under which for example, an ORFU team would play at Montreal and Ottawa and at home against Ottawa and Toronto the first year, then reverse that procedure the second year; and to increase stadium capacities and the number of high-calibre American players.

The league said it would increase stadium capacity to 10,000 in London, Kitchener and Sarnia and the Toronto club would play its games in 26,000-seat Varsity Stadium. Ways and means of meeting the increased cost of operation of a higher-calibre team would be found and the public interest brought to ORFU centres by the moves would bring more revenue at the gate.

ASKS RIGHT TO PLAY

"The Ontario Union is not asking for charity," the statement said, "merely its acknowledged right to play football. It is our belief that the return of the ORFU to the Grey Cup playoffs cannot be anything but a major boost for all football."

Ike Commins, president of the ORFU; Maurice Chilton, first vice-president, Spike Kearns, second vice-president, and a representative from each of the league's four teams met with the Big Four representatives, who included Ted Workman and Lee Dandurand of Montreal Alouettes and Frank Clair of Toronto Argonauts. Hamilton Tiger-Cats were not represented at the meeting, but their officials have been advised of the proposals and are studying them.

Minor Hockey

Goalies were at their best this morning in the peewee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association when no less than four shutouts were scored in as many games.

The Rangers blanked the Maple Leafs 3-0. Black Hawks shaded the Red Wings 1-0, Canadiens stopped the Barons 5-0 while the Bruins completed the sweep with 3-0 blanking of the Browns.

Allan Stott, Ron Carrigan and Ross Woodcock each tallied once for the Rangers victory.

In the Bruins victory, Bobby Ridley potted two goals with the other going to Peter Emmerson.

FOUNDED FIRM

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean-Baptiste Baillargeon, 78, a pioneer of motor transport in Canada, died here Friday. He was founder-president of the express transport firm of J. B. Baillargeon Lee., with agencies extending across the country.

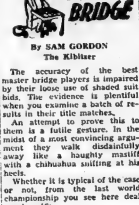
Jackie Cooper Proving Child Actor Can Make Good as Adult

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I got to be 25 and I was scared. My mother had died and I had left my father when I was young. When I discovered there were seven younger than me in the business, I lost all confidence. I had always been the youngest of anyone I worked with."

This was the testimony of Jackie Cooper on the problems of the child star. He has found more fame as an adult than have most performers who found fame early. But it hasn't been without a struggle.



When Jackie returned from military service, he found little demand for his services in Hollywood. He wanted to stay in the acting business, but realized he needed to know more about it. As a youngster, he had just relied naturally. As an adult, he had to do more than that.

"So I packed up and went to New York," he said. "Five nine years, I worked in the theatre and then TV. Luckily I had saved some money when I was a kid, because I averaged about $150 a week in those nine years.

"But they were a good investment. I learned my business, and I think I'm equipped to handle the future now."

Jackie is now the star of The People's Choice, which is enjoying its second year on NBC-TV. This season he is also directing, and that's part of his plan for the future.

Jackie has long been preparing for the switch to directing. He directed plays in summer theatres and also did some shows for CBS. Whether as a director, actor or producer, he's out to disprove the notion that child stars can't make a go of it in later years.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The accuracy of the best master bridge players is impaired by their loose use of shaded suit bids. The evidence is plentiful when you examine a batch of results in their title matches.

An attempt to prove futile to them is a futile gesture. In the midst of a most convincing argument a talk dissolves disdainfully away like a haughty mastiff with a chihuahua sniffing at his heels.

Whether it is typical of the case or not, from the last world championship you see here dealt number 16:

NORTH
♥ K 8 2

WEST
♠ 6 5 3
♥ 5
♦ K 9 5 4 2
♣ K Q 8

EAST
♠ J 9 2
♥ Q 7 4
♦ 10 6
♣ 6 5 4 2

SOUTH
♠ K Q 10 2
♥ A J 10 9
♣ 8 5

West is dealer and, of course, passes. North has stuff enough to open the bidding unless he is the rankest kind of a beginner. Thus, the question is only what kind of an opening bid it should be.

The north spade suit is not truly bulging, but it is fair to start in hearts. And with only four high card no-trump tricks, a hand should not open the bidding with one no-trump.

Since it should not pass in the company of good and practical players, a convention should be used; a signal that a sound partner may take as a warning of the type of hand it promises.

Such a convention is an opening bid of one club. This gives the opener a safe and easy chance to bid again, if necessary, no matter what kind of a destructive response he may get from partner.

If this convention is abused or misread, as it frequently is, the fault is not with the signal. The fault is with the players who use it wrong, or with their partner anticipates its purpose.

The best name for it is the exploratory club bid. It gives a pair of low-round opportunity to explore their possibilities. It is used with a borderline hand with otherwise sound values.

Now, you may like to know how the champions handled this deal. You will read that next.

GIVES SUPPORT

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth said Friday she is "delighted" by the response to Hungarian relief drives in Britain. She gave her support to an appeal launched by London University, of which she is chancellor. Meanwhile, the government announced it will waive the limit of 2,500 Hungarian refugees which it had originally agreed to accept in the country. No new limit was set.

Teeps Sign New Player

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Friday night announced the signing of defenceman Viger Gendron, who played with Hamilton last year and Toronto St. Michael's the year before.

Gendron, a defenceman, brings the Teeps' rearguard strength to six, one more than the club usually carries, and there is a possibility a man may be released to one of the club's affiliated Junior B teams.

FIRST IN 330

SARNIA (CP)—This city had its first traffic fatality in 330 days Friday night when Frederick Chester, 70, was killed by a car as he crossed an intersection.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, Nov. 26, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Venus, Jupiter and Neptune in excellent aspects today. A day of display of artistry, elegance, skill and common sense. Finances favored but do know what you are doing.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your advantageous, stimulating day. Familiar work can progress. New, valuable improvements, progressive methods and implements can help advance all interests.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — This can be a full, generous day for all who think and work along unselfish lines, who put the good of the majority before personal gain. Earnest effort will bring solid results.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon's position advises not to think of personal matters wholly but to pitch in on propositions for the general good. It's a progressive period and you can have fresh opportunities to achieve.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun is going into a fine aspect tomorrow. Plans made well today should add to benefits now and later. Heed advice to Gemini; be purposeful in objectives.

August 24 to September 23 — Virgo) — A splendid time for familiar matters. Interests pertaining to the general public, for domestic relations. Promote broad undertakings (to aid industry, trade, etc.) Go forward with faith.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Happy doings, a bright outlook for you who do your best and don't worry about little recognition. Matters of public need, government interests favored. Work for quality, true benefits.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Mars' position here warns against ill temper, obstinacy, sticks. Much good can be obtained by you clever people if you get a prompt start and don't dally along the way. Plan a wise schedule.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Most likely you can double your output, now, increase gains, advantages. Both young and old are favored for personal benefits, fresh opportunities for advancement. Artistic skill encouraged.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Don't permit failure or the shortcomings of others to interfere with your progress or good intentions. You can make this day productive in whatever you are doing. Trades, professions favored.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — A responsive day if you apply your talents and abilities sincerely. The only warning concerns your personal attitude. Your willingness to take restrictions with the advantages will help. You can make the day pay.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — How you apply yourself and how you choose the things to start with are important to success. A good day for finances, business generally. Those of you who work with skill and efficiency will gain.

You born today have distinction, a likeable and magnetic personality and variety in talents. You are energetic, must guard against carrying things to extremes. You are frank, enterprising, honorable; usually steady in application. Your industriousness can bring you real advancement and success and you have the impetus and ability to achieve. Be true to your fine talents and cultivate them daily. Good prospects ahead. You are sympathetic; don't be imposed upon by the wrong type.

Forrester, Both Will Battle For City Mayoralty

11 Candidates Seek Seven Seats on Aldermanic Board

Well, Anyway His Timing Was Perfect

A last-minute qualification by last year's mayor who signed the necessary papers at city hall a few minutes before nine o'clock Saturday night killed prospects of an acclamation for the chief magistrate's office and made the mayoralty contest for the December 3rd election a fight between incumbent Mayor Jane Forrester and ex-Mayor Jack Bolth.

Only a minute before the nine o'clock deadline Mr. Bolth qualified as candidate for the mayor's office which he relinquished to Mrs. Forrester a year ago and assured a fight for the mayoralty.

Eleven prospective aldermen will contest the election with seven to be elected for a two-year term. Whatever board there will be at least three new aldermen sitting in council in 1957 with three of this year's roster calling it a day.

Alderman H. J. Clarke, dean of Belleville city council, and member for well over a decade, failed to qualify, as did Enos David, member for the past two years, and Bryson Reid.

Also in the aldermanic field will be Robertson Collins, Leslie Digby, Frank Huson, Ex-Alderman Douglas Moxam, Mel Richards, Donald J. Whalen and Mrs. Theo Wheeler.

With only one nominee for the public utility post Mr. W. Harry Rollins is returned to that office by acclamation, while with the exception of one ward, acclamations are also the order of the day for public and separate school boards.

For the Foster Ward seat on the Separate School Board supporters of this school will choose between Gordon Cooney and W. R. Doyle.

Some Hungarian Strikers Promise To Resume Work

VIENNA (AP) — Some Hungarian workers are reported to have promised to return to their machines today to help lift their revolt-battered country from economic chaos.

Success of the back-to-work movement was a paramount test of the Soviet-imposed regime of Premier Janos Kadar. Widespread dissatisfaction with Kadar's explanation of the disappearance of former Premier Imre Nagy cast doubt on its effectiveness.

The Budapest central workers' council, which has been negotiating with Kadar, hinted at the prospect of further strikes if the government fails to meet its demands. The council ordered Budapest workers to return to their jobs but scheduled further negotiations with Kadar on the council's demand that Nagy be returned to power.

Strikes and slowdowns have paralyzed Hungary since the start of the anti-Communist rebellion Oct. 23.

Nagy, a life-long Communist who came to power in the October anti-Communist rebellion and tried to sever ties with Moscow, left refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy Thursday after Kadar promised he would be allowed to return safely to his home.

Yugoslavia charged that Soviet secret police then kidnapped Nagy and 31 of his followers. Kadar insisted to the workers' council that the former premier had asked to leave Hungary for Romania and that his departure "does not mean exile."

WON'T TRY NAGY

"The government will not prosecute Nagy, although he made serious mistakes," Kadar said in a recording broadcast by Budapest radio.

Kadar promised to accede to the workers' demands after order is restored.

"Let's defeat the counter revolution even with the help of the Soviets. Restore order, start normal life, and only this is done, the government will start negotiations with the workers about the withdrawal of Russian troops," the premier said.

The government radio station broadcast this reply from one workers' council: "We are willing to get work started because we know this is in the interest of the country."

PLAN JET AIRLINER

BERLIN (AP) — The East Berlin newspaper Der Morgen reports development of a four-jet airliner. It will go into production in East Germany before 1960.

Today's Chuckle

Mess Sergeant: "Can you dress a chicken?"

Soldier: "Not on what the Army pays me."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A blanket of cold covers Ontario this morning and snow or snowflurries are being reported in most districts. The snow has been most intense in those regions adjacent to Lakes Ontario and Erie where overnight accumulations have been about two inches. Elsewhere only a trace has fallen. Flurries will continue through northern Ontario today and the eastern districts may expect another trace or three. Elsewhere through Northern Ontario snowfalls will be quite light and during the day some skies are expected to turn sunny.

FIVE CONVICTS ESCAPE, OTHERS REFUSE FREEDOM

Sixth Break From Regina Jail in Year

REGINA (CP) — One hundred and forty prisoners chose to remain in the Regina jail last night as five of their fellows overpowered the guards and temporarily offered them the keys to freedom from the Regina jail.

All six guards on duty were gagged and bound in turn by the little group, who gained control of the prison and threatened to lead a general breakout.

Within hours of their escape two of the convicts were recaptured, but three, including the suspected ringleader, were still at large today.

It was the sixth break from the jail in the last 12 months and the second in a week.

Officials attributed the jail's policy of emphasizing rehabilitation, psychological treatment and training of inmates for trades as a major reason for the majority's refusal to join the escapees.

'HUMANIZING' FACTOR

R. Whitmore, deputy special welfare minister of Saskatchewan, said:

"These things happen once in a while even with the greatest precautions. But I think our 'humanizing' policy had a lot to do with preventing this break from including the prisoners."

He said a preliminary investigation showed there had been no dereliction of duty by the guards.

Roadblocks were set up throughout the province as police hurried every possible clue for the missing.

Still at large are the suspected ringleader, Eaneas Bird, 25, an American, formerly of Calgary; Julius Smith, 19, of Cougar, Sask., who made an unsuccessful break from Regina jail earlier this year; and Donald Mountenay, 20, of Regina.

Reed is serving a year for morals offences. Smith is in for breaking and entering and for his previous escape attempt, and Mountenay is doing a year for auto theft.

Eighteen-year-old Edward Sievers of Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., gave himself up to police outside a city restaurant within two hours of the 7:30 p.m. break. He was serving 18 months for breaking and entering.

About 3 a.m. Sunday, Bruno Link, 22, of Moosomin, Sask., was picked up by police while walking just west of the city limits. He, too, had been convicted to a year for breaking and entering.

Kiltie Pirate Wants Scotland Home of Free

LONDON (Reuters) — The British Broadcasting Corporation had the bonnie problem today of finding a pirate in kilts.

The pirate seized a BBC television studio, a milk truck driver. The scene was covered with three inches of snow, hiding all signs of struggle.

Examining revealed six deep bruises on the back of his skull, bruises on the arms and rips in her clothing. Three women have had been torn off and one shoe was missing.

No identification was found on the body.

Troops Confined to Cheerless Camp Pose Major Morale Problem for UN

ABU SUWEIR, Egypt (CP) — A major morale problem will face commanders of the United Nations Emergency Force within a few days.

Troops that have arrived at the Abu Suweir staging camp have been confined to the cheerless camp surroundings and not permitted out of the camp gates.

Some of the troops have been here for more than a week. Snow and the restrictions—lack of entertainment and a ban on fraternization with Egyptian soldiers and civilians—is beginning to get on their nerves. Fraying tempers of their future plans also is causing considerable soul-searching.

Plans are under way to start some international athletic contests, to organize an international orchestra and present some stage entertainment, but the only concrete development so far has been inter-squad soccer contests on a dirt football field.

In the rush to get the troops here, such vital modern-day army aids as motion pictures, sports equipment and even mail delivery were forgotten. Already grumbles over their "prisoner" role are being heard among the troops.

UNEF occupies quarters across the street from Egypt army units. A small grocery store on the Egyptian side is doing a brisk drink and candy bars is out of bounds to the international policemen.

Camp life with its major allies again the United States voted for the proposal, Australia and New Zealand voted with Britain, France and Israel against it. Canada abstained.

The second resolution was introduced by Canada along with the U.S., Colombia, India, Norway and Yugoslavia. It was adopted 65 to 0 with the nine Soviet-bloc countries abstaining. It approved Hammarskjold's arrangements with Egypt for deploying a UN emergency force in that

Toronto Warms up Slowly, Then Blows Top on Grey Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Things took a little time warming up, but sedate Toronto eventually went Grey Cup wholey.

The lid blew off Saturday night as thousands of football addicts, many from Western Canada and Quebec, roamed hotel lobbies and nightspots, singing, dancing and shouting as they put the finishing touches on Grey Cup celebrations. While not nearly of unmanageable, the whole affair was a howling success by the standards of demure Toronto. In fact, it was one of the best blowouts here since the demonstrations went blithe in 1948.

An hour after Edmonton Eskimos smashed Montreal Alouettes 50-27 for their third straight victory in the country's football spectacle, crowds were whooping it up or drowning their sorrows, depending on which side of the fence they were sitting.

The Royal York Hotel was the scene of the revelry. Official functions were packed. People shouted and cheered. Parties went full blast until 2 a.m. Sunday as revelers with symbols, horns and drums danced from party to party.

There was color everywhere in the green and gold of Edmonton and the red and white of Montreal. There were streamers and ribbons and coat decorations. Torontonians joined in the fun, quickly allying themselves with East or West.

By dawn Sunday there were few signs of the wild demonstrations. Furniture that was moved from the Royal York lobby late last week was back in place Sunday.

Toronto was its cold Conservative again.

UN Is Maintaining Pressure For Withdrawal of Troops

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) — The UN General Assembly kept up pressure today on Britain, France and Israel to pull out all of their troops they still have in Egypt.

The Assembly scheduled a meeting to hear delegations explain their votes on two resolutions it adopted Saturday calling for withdrawal of troops and clearance of the Suez Canal.

The withdrawal resolution, introduced by 20 Asian and African countries, passed 63 to 5 with 10 abstentions. It called on Britain, France and Israel to get their troops out of Egypt "forthwith." It asked Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to relay the demand urgently and report back "without delay."

Splitting with its major allies again the United States voted for the proposal. Australia and New Zealand voted with Britain, France and Israel against it. Canada abstained.

The second resolution was introduced by Canada along with the U.S., Colombia, India, Norway and Yugoslavia. It was adopted 65 to 0 with the nine Soviet-bloc countries abstaining. It approved Hammarskjold's arrangements with Egypt for deploying a UN emergency force in that

SPECIAL SESSION TO DEAL QUICKLY WITH TWO ISSUES

Pomp and Color Missing at Opening

OTTAWA (CP)—The tense Middle East situation and relief to Hungary will be swiftly taken up at the special session of Parliament opening today.

The pomp and color usually associated with the opening of Parliament were set aside in the interests of expediting discussion of Canadian participation in the United Nations police force in the Middle East and a contribution of $200,000 for Hungarian relief.

Governor-General Massey was to be driven to the Parliament Buildings from Government House in a black limousine instead of a horse-drawn carriage. He was to wear morning dress instead of a black silk uniform and white plumed hat. No special guard of honor was planned.

Mr. Massey was to proceed at 2:30 p.m. to the Senate chamber and there read the speech from the throne in English and in French. The speech of about 150 words proposed approval of funds for a $20,000 Canadian contribution to the Middle East police force and a gift of $100,000 to the UN Refugee Fund and one of $100 000 to the Canadian Red Cross.

WILL PAY TRIBUTE

When the Commons meets after the Senate session it is expected that last about half an hour, party leaders will pay tribute to Commons members who have died since the last session. They were Sybil Bennett (PC—Grenville-Dundas) and Ross (L—Hamilton East).

Prime Minister St. Laurent then may propose that the Commons extend its sitting hours by 15 minutes each afternoon in an effort to expedite proceedings.

If such a proposal were accepted, the House would sit from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. A Saturday sitting also may also be proposed.

It was understood that opposition parties in the House would have no objection to morning sittings.

Most observers in the capital expect the session to last about a week in sitting days. The last special session, in 1950, called to deal with the defence program, lasted a year and to vote funds for Canada's Korean forces from Aug. 29 to Sept. 15—16 sitting days.

Farmer Minus On Purebred Jersey Heifer

TOMPKINS, Sask. (CP)—A Montana hunter after the elusive Montana hunter after the elusive deer with a rifle was decapitated when he bagged an animal in his front seat. He died in hours after arriving in Southern Cross hospital.

He hurried to nearby Eastend Saturday to report his kill to game wardens. They sent him packing—back to a Tompkins farmer who the previous day purchased a Jersey heifer.

Heavy Storm Ties Up Traffic In Bay Of Quinte Region

15-Inch Snowfall Closes Several Schools in District

Winter struck with suddenness at this part of Eastern Ontario Sunday night blanketing the city and district under fifteen inches of snow.

In freakish mood the storm swept across the city diagonally from the southeast, catching Prince Edward in its stride and veering to the west to fringe Kingston. That city, it was reported, had but a three-inch fall.

Picton and Wellington were hit hard with sixteen inches of snow registered at nine o'clock during the morning.

Travellers from Deseronto reported the town "plugged" under twelve inches of snow with many people unable to reach the highway to get to their work in other places.

Trenton dug itself out from eight inches of snow with traffic allowed to be walk.

Communities to the north caught the fringe of the storm with Tweed, Madoc and Marmora reporting snow but not as heavy as in the southern districts.

STORM NOT EXPECTED

The storm caught the city with its snowshoes off. Early morning workers plowed through thirteen inches of snow at six o'clock with motor vehicles either stuck or slithering and plowing through the slippery mass.

Traffic was slowed to a crawl and in some parts of the city stopped, as heavy transports tried to buck the storm. The lower bridge was tied up for some time with a traffic jam while the Highland Avenue hill was the scene of trucks and transports trying to battle the gradient.

It was estimated that fifteen inches had fallen on the level in the city at nine o'clock and continued to fall until noon.

Pedestrians struggled through the snow, not a few coming to grief through the treacherous footing. No serious accidents were reported in early hours.

It was reported that a number of schools in the outlying areas were closed because of blocked roads.

Many out-of-city workers were late at their jobs and some never arrived. Many motor car owners were forced to leave their "transportation" in the garage as the snow plugged driveways and entrances.

SCHOOL BUSES DELAYED

An early morning story that got the rounds that the Belleville Collegiate Institute was denied its nine o'clock by school officials. Buses carrying BCI students today from Deseronto were delayed but arrived one by one at intermittent periods.

Picton and Wellington had a forerunner taste of the storm on Sunday, two inches covering the Prince Edward communities and districts.

Included among many people who were late for important appointments today was Mayor Jane Forrester caused by the heavy snowstorm, was Judge W. B. Lane of Picton.

Her worship is to be somewhat slowed by the snow, Judge Lane left Picton at seven o'clock early in order to be on time for the Charles Lockward trial over which he is presiding.

Despite this precaution, Judge Lane apparently underestimated the effect of the storm arriving at 1:30 a.m., for the case which was supposed to open at 10:30 this morning.

One jurryman is still unreported and it is presumed he has been detained en route.

Later it was reported that several schools in rural areas had been closed some until noon. These included Holy Rosary in the city and No. 4 Camiftton. Others closed for the day were No. 28 Tyendinaga, Shannonville, No. 3 Ameliasburg, Northport and Centenary.

LIMITED IN AREA

The storm, it appears, spent its force, in the area between Cobourg and Deseronto. Travellers reported that the snow was not little or no snow in the Port Hope district and west.

Traffic on Highway No. 2 was slowed to a minimum between these points but no reports reported to be in the ditch between Belleville and Trenton and east of the Trenton and Kingston.

The storm eased off during the afternoon and snow started to fall again towards noon. The weather man says more flurries in the evening with the weather mostly cloudy Tuesday.

Flight to Egypt 'No Sweat at All' Says Group Captain on First Trip

NAPLES (CP) — Two RCAF transport planes flew to Egypt Sunday with supplies for the United Nations Middle East police force.

No Canadian personnel were on board their flights. Canadian soldiers were flown to Egypt Sunday night by Swissair on the first of 12 chartered flights for the UN.

Group Captain Charles Morrison of Winnipeg, one of those on the first flight to Egypt, said it was "no sweat at all."

"It was fine and good," said pilot Buzz Meyer of North Bay, Ont., pilot of the first plane.

The trip took 13 hours flying time with a 30-minute turn-around at Abu Suweir airport. Canadian aircraft had to cross the Egyptian coastline at a specific point declared by Egypt so they would not be fired on. They were allowed to fly there or over Egypt only in daylight.

Canadian crews were briefed in the one hangar allotted to the No. 435 squadron and then went to bed to their aircraft on the darkened Capodichino Airfield near here. PO Joe Pelletier of Flin Flon, Man., was the other pilot on the trip.

When they landed in Egypt, they were asked for their passports and immediately taken to customs officials.

United Nations officials have asked the squadron for maximum effort in the next eight days. Some crews expected to have to fly a second trip, with only six hours rest and the ground crews were working around the clock to keep the planes airworthy, snatching sleep and food when they could.

A major project was accomplished Sunday when the squadron got its first telephone transport vehicle en route from Canada's air division headquarters at Metz, France.

More tools also have arrived, but they still need spare parts.

Canadian planes took over the ferrying task from Swissair, an airline earlier given the job by the United Nations, a day earlier than scheduled.

NEWPORT PAGNELL, England

(Reuters) — The 4,000 residents of this market town in south-central England wondered today who the elderly man was who suddenly presented them with £40,000 ($112,000) during the weekend.

The unknown benefactor walked into the local council offices and asked if the town clerk would be willing to accept a batch of banknotes worth the £40,000. He then produced the documents and turned them over.

He said that as the first order of business he wanted the town to build itself a swimming pool.

TEDDINGTON, England (Reuters) — A plane marking the secret wartime headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was unveiled here today by his one-time deputy, marshal of the Royal Air Force Lord Tedder.

Batawa Girl, 5, Has Hip Injured In Car Accident

A five-year-old Batawa girl suffered a possible broken hip and other members of the family received a shaking up early Sunday morning as their car went out of control on the 4th concession hill in Sidney township near Frankford and crashed into a tree.

In Trenton Memorial Hospital is Jane Anne Whalen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whalen of Batawa. Mrs. Whalen suffered a cut on the head and knee abrasions, while Mr. Whalen and two other children were shaken up.

The family had been visiting in Foxboro Saturday night and were on their way home when the brakes of their car failed on the 4th concession hill. The car went out of control down the steep hill and crashed into a tree.

Occupants of the front seat of the car were slammed against the instrument panel when the vehicle crashed into the tree. Damage of about $450 was done to the front of the car.

The family was using the 4th concession road instead of the Frankford - Foxboro road because of bridge repairs on the river bridge at Frankford.

Dr. D. McMullen of Frankford attended the injured and then ordered the five-year old girl to hospital at Trenton. Provincial Constable G. M. Robertson investigated.

Thirteen Hunters Bag Two Moose And Six Deer

Six deer and two moose was the total bag of a group of 15 Belleville and district hunters who camped in the North Hastings area near Maynooth.

NOTED SOPRANO TO GIVE RECITAL

MISS SARAH FLEMING

Although only in her early twenties, Miss Sarah Fleming, soprano, has reached professional stature with the New York critics. This versatile young artist will be heard on Tuesday at the opening concert of the local Community Concert Association.

Besides her recital engagements, many under distinguished auspices, Miss Fleming has sung demanding operatic roles with the New York City Opera Co., has appeared as soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, and with leading orchestra societies. To add further laurels to her musical versatility, she appeared last summer at the Shakespearean Festival in Stratford, Connecticut, where she displayed exceptional ability as an actress in "The Abduction from the Seraglio."

In 1954, Miss Fleming was the first recipient of the Rodgers and Hammerstein award for "outstanding vocal achievement" at the Juilliard School of Music, where she received her Bachelor of Music degree.

SOVIETS UP BERLIN FORCE

BERLIN (Reuters) — The West Berlin mass-circulation newspaper Bz says two Soviet airborne divisions landed at an airfield southeast of Berlin Wednesday. The report, which could not be confirmed from any other official or unofficial source, said they were the first batch of Soviet troop reinforcements expected to arrive in East Germany before the end of the month.

Surviving are two sons, Robert of Surrey, England, and John Scott Webster of Deseronto; three daughters, Mrs. Claude Herndon, Toronto; Mrs. Jack Gardiner of Elma and Mrs. Clayton Tierney of Toronto; and 11 grandchildren.

WCTU Hears Highlight of Convention

"Highlights of the World's Convention," held in Germany last June, was the subject of the guest speaker, Mrs. George Pinder of Napanee, at the November meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Fifty-two counties were represented at this world gathering of delegates, drawn together in a common cause of temperance and alcohol education.

The hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God," followed the Lord's Prayer, repeated in native tongue, opened the convention. "International Night" presented the delegates in national costume. Each country report abounded in educational items of international interest.

In the business of the president the chair was filled by Mrs. R. G. Coulter, who introduced the come to all. Mrs. A. H. Fisher led in the opening prayer.

For the devotional period Mrs. Fisher introduced Mrs. F. Adsel, who brought an inspirational message, based on John 4: 5-11, "The Well is Deep." Her talk was taken from a devotional book, "You Are Important," by Rev. Ben Hill. Mrs. Adsel's "Five Total Abstinence" was presented by Miss M. Clasie.

Moderation is hard to define. What is moderate for one may be dangerous for another. The weight and temperament of the drinker makes a difference, also whether the liquor is taken with or without food. Another factor is the frequency that is moderate? No, because alcoholic beverages affect the ability to do skilled work and to judge accurately. Self criticism, will power, become confused. Liquor is habit forming and the desire for it increases.

No regular drinker wants to believe he could become an alcoholic, but a recent survey of eight years of moderate drinking by women and 15 by men turns many moderate drinkers into hopeless alcoholics.

There is no "alcoholic type of drinker." Science has discovered no test. Robert J. Gibbons, M.A., research assistant of the Alcoholism Research Foundation of Toronto, discovered that the average alcoholic in this province is not the skid-row derelict, or chronic court appearance, but the sort of fellow who might very well live down a block from anyone.

The "average alcoholic" in Ontario, is a man somewhere between 35 and 45 years old, married with two or three children, maintaining his home by a skilled or semi-skilled job.

The latest figures released by the Ontario Alcoholism Research Foundation at Toronto, are in Canada today 182,000 alcoholics. In Ontario there were 57,000 alcoholics in 1951 and now there are 76,000. The prevalence of alcoholism is now about seven per cent of the total adult drinking population, and treatment is available for only a small part of those suffering from alcoholism.

What is the secret of the success of Alcoholics Anonymous? The main step of the 12 is confidence in a Higher Power. One is ready to strengthen and help. That is God's grace. "Living a day at a time," with grace "just for today."

People should frankly recognize that the moderate drinker, by using the product of the liquor traffic, is supporting the most vicious traffic-in-death, in common use in modern society. Alcohol is a great killer, as well as making thousands of valuable human beings physical and mental wrecks.

TORONTO

Most Edmonton and Montreal players remained in Toronto over Saturday night. They went to the official and unofficial receptions or held parties of their own. A few Edmonton players went to Montreal Saturday night as guests of an Eskimo fan. They returned here Sunday in time to leave for home with the rest of the team.

An estimated 250,000 persons lined the streets in sunny but cold weather Saturday to watch the mile-long Grey Cup parade, led by Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary.

British Columbia's floats drew the loudest applause. There were plenty of cheers, though, for the more than 50 entries in the parade, the 20 bands and for the scores of pretty girls, shivering but smiling, in their authentic costumes.

An Ottawa display had a huge dollar bill with a sign saying "We make it." The next float had a tremendous income tax returns carry and its sign said: "We take it."

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of Edmonton was introduced during the gathering by Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto, said Eskimos were "very happy to win the game and then paid tribute to Alouettes. He said the Als "are a great football team."

Montreal coach Doug Walker was not at the reception. Leo Dandurand of the Als said: "Coach Walker is one man that is outstanding in Canadian football history."

The victory party and dance, open to the public, followed the reception. That's when everything broke loose.

But the end was in sight. It came a few hours later.

60,000 Dockers Return to Work By Court Order

NEW YORK (AP) — Brigades of longshoremen—60,000 of them —left posts from Maine to Texas—went back to work today, loosening the trip of a nine-day strike. Ships and cargo piled up during the period, started moving.

The order of court-imposing order issued Saturday ended the walkout for a temporary "cooling off" period.

The strike started Nov. 15 in a contract dispute between the International Longshoremens' Association and the New York Shipping Association. The employers' group represents 170 shipping and stevedoring firms.

COST IN MILLIONS

The walkout tied up more than 200 ships in east and Gulf Coast ports and cost the U.S. economy an estimated $200,000,000 a day.

The government injunction is for a 60-day period. The government is expected to press for extension of the order for the full 80-day "cooling off" period provided in the Taft-Hartley law.

Main issue has been the union's demand for a single Atlantic and Gulf Coast contract with the shipping firms. Separate pacts have been on a port-by-port basis.

country to supervise the cease-fire and the troop withdrawals. It also authorized him to negotiate contracts to clear the Suez Canal, now blocked by ships and bridges wrecked during the military operations.

The Assembly's withdrawal demand was its fourth in three weeks, all approved by overwhelming votes. So far, Israel says she has pulled about 6,000 troops out of Egypt. Britain sailed a battalion of 928 infantrymen from Port Said and the French claim they have withdrawn a third of their forces.

To date the only UN troops in the Port Said area are 180 Norwegians. More than 1,000 others from various nations including Canada are in barracks behind the Egyptian lines.

With the Assembly's go-ahead for the canal clearance project, Hammarskjold pledged unstinted effort to get the job done "speedily and effectively." He announced appointment of Lt.-Gen. Rasmus Rasmussen of Denmark as Service from the chapel to St. Andrew's United Church at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, November 28th, at 2 p.m.

Canada's First UN Troops Now On Egyptian Soil

ABU SUWEIR, Egypt (CP)—Canada's first United Nations troops arrived in Egypt Saturday and set up camp tonight in a temporary Egyptian barracks adjoining the Swedes. Less than 24 hours later RCAF planes began flying the Suez airlift.

Twenty Canadian soldiers, first of 1,000 battle soldiers, stepped off a Swissair transport plane shortly after noon into the unseasonable November heat and were welcomed to this Egyptian air force base by the UN camp commander, Maj.-G. W. Edgerstad of Sweden.

The Canadians joined a growing UN emergency force which now includes seven countries and is expected to reach 6,000 or more men. They grew convoked nine officers and 11 men carrying full kit, rifles and revolvers. They will clear the way for the main Canadian contingent which is expected to begin arriving this week.

One could have called it Canadian Day at Abu Suweir Saturday. First came a three-man RCAF inspection party from Air Force headquarters and finally a visit by UNEF commander, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada.

GET FRIENDLY GREETING

The first batch of Canadian troops, 20 in all, were assigned soldiers, received a friendly greeting from Brig.-Gen. Amin Hermy, Egyptian liaison officer to the UN.

They sweated profusely while they stood at the airstrip in the hot sun and as soon as they reached their barracks off came their battledress.

WO Cliff Andera of Toronto, who said he felt he was with UNEF, said: "It's nice to be south for the winter." He felt more secure, he said, now he had been here and is looking forward to the experience.

Sgt. Maj. Jack Brien of Ottawa said "It's going to be a good experience." Sgt. Maj. Cpl. Dan Curie of Reserve Mines, N.S., said he felt "just fine" about being in Egypt.

The Canadians had their first meal with the Swedes and were quartered in a one-storey bard blocks. They will draw rations with the Swedes until the full headquarters contingent arrives.

The RCAF air inspection team looked over he landing facilities at the airport. They returned to the main staging area at Capodichino, near Naples. A dozen RCAF Flying Boxcars will be used on the airlift to Abu Suweir.

Frost Despatches Agent General To Aid Refugees

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario Sunday announced that Major J. S. P. Armstrong, Ontario's agent general in London, is flying to Vienna to study the situation among homeless Hungarian refugees.

He will report to Mr. Frost and the cabinet on how best they can act to get the refugees to Ontario.

"A major problem seems available of transport aircraft," the premier said. "We are also considering the use of ships, which would require no airlift anyway to French or British ports."

Nearly 60,000 refugees are reported to have poured out of Hungary into Austria.

Veteran Nurse Was Well Known in City

The passing of Miss Jessie Hay, which occurred at the Belleville General Hospital Monday morning, has brought deep feelings of regret to the persons in this city.

Her lifetime was spent in the city and by her fine qualities of character and friendly disposition she had attracted and retained many intimate friendships.

She was a life time member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and always took an interest in all its activities, was also a member of Montreal General Hospital and rendered valuable services as a nurse in this community.

The late Miss Hay was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hay of Belleville.

Surviving her are two brothers, Joseph Hay of Toronto and Robert Hay of West Vancouver, B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hay have been in the city for the past month due to Miss Hay's illness.

IN MEMORIAM

NEWELL — In loving memory of a dear husband and daughter, Patricia Ann Newell, who passed away November 26, 1954.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for mortal ear,
Too far for hands to clasp,
Too far for thought to reach,
Sweet is the memory dear
And who's empty absent, is just as dear.
—Fondly remembered by Mother and Dad, sister Carmel and brothers Jack, Bill and Pauline.

Czech Airliner Crashes and 23 On Board Killed

GRISSEN, Germany (CP) —A Russian-built Czech airliner carrying ten members of a Red Chinese economic mission returning to Peiping and six Czechoslovak hockey players crashed in flames and exploded on the German-Swiss border Saturday night. All 23 passengers and the crew were killed.

Swiss officials said they were investigating "all possible causes" for the crash, but that there was no indication thus far to suggest sabotage.

It was the second major aviation disaster within 24 hours. Early Saturday, an Italian DC-6B with $2,500,000 crashed after taking off from Orly Field in Paris, killing 23 of the 35 persons aboard. Among survivors were Nicodemo Finamore, and his wife Concetta, both employed by the Italian Air Lines at Shannon, Ireland. Both were badly burned.

The Czech plane was a twin-engine Soviet, Ilyushin. It carried 16 passengers and a five-man Czech crew. The passengers included the Peiping group returning from a tour of Latin America, six members of the Czech hockey team of Ostrava, Czechoslovakia, and a couple of Bolivian nationality.

Election Meeting Will Be Held Thursday Night

Belleville's voting population will have the opportunity of hearing the candidates for election speak Thursday evening. This public meeting, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will take place at Queen Alexandra School at 7.30 p.m.

In past years the meeting has been held at the Collegiate Auditorium, but owing to other arrangements it was not possible to secure it this year.

The sponsoring group is hoping there will be a large turnout of voters.

Many Municipal Elections Are Slated in County

PICTON — Next Monday will see municipal elections in the town of Picton, the village of Bloomfield and in Hallowell and Hillier townships.

Picton gave another acclamation to Mayor H. J. McFarland, who is ill in Kingston General hospital, his being the only name proposed. Acclaimed as deputy reeve is Councillor Ern Ward, who succeeds Sam Greville who retired. The town has a contest for the township between the present reeve Woodrow Blakely and Carman Scott. The utilities commissioner job is contested by H. G. Blakely and William Henley, Sr. Six councillors are to be elected from seven candidates, these being Miss Merle Pearsell, Nesbitt McKibbon, H. E. Colliver, Randolph Clapp, Andrew Jarvis, Robert Hill, Bernard Hopkins.

In Hillier township, a former County Warden, Jack Taylor is contesting the township with Councillor Kenneth Wood. Councillors by acclamation are Berl Cannons, Gordon Lloyd, Ross Farwell and Andrew Knight.

Hallowell township has its first reeveship contest in seven years, Deputy Reeve Ralph Allan and former reeve Dwight O. Reynolds are seeking to succeed County Warden Clifford Wilson, who is retiring. Hallowell also has a contest for councillors, three to be elected from John May, Harold Farwell, Gerald Goode, Del Huff, John Fox. Deputy Reeve elect Gordon Parks was given an acclamation.

Other councils given acclamations were:—

AMELIASBURGH TOWNSHIP —Reeve, Melvin Pulver; Deputy reeve, Clifford Smith; Councillors, Steve Dempsey, Harmon Montgomery, Gerald Redner.

SOPHIASBURGH TOWNSHIP —Reeve, Leland Doxsee; councillors, Louis Garrison, Lorne Young, William Orsborne, Donald Ketchabaw.

The village of Bloomfield has a contest for the reeveship between Arthur Moore and J. Donald Hunter. Councillors, by acclamation, are, Henry Leavens, George Pike, William Dunning, Earl Smith.

The village of Wellington returned Reeve Clare Platt along with councillors Jack Ogilvy, Frank Brimley, Jr., Wilbert Kingston, Jack McNeil.

Calvin Hughes was returned as reeve of North Marysburgh township with councillors Kenneth Hicks, Fred Carter, Wilfred Kennington, Iva K. Emorey.

FIRST TASTE OF WINTER

The town and district received its first real taste of winter on Saturday when, late in the afternoon, the ground was covered with snow, in a matter of minutes the streets and roads were like ice. Though many cars slid into ditches, or had to be abandoned on the roadside overnight, there were no serious accidents. Sanding crews were out promptly but it was not until late at night that most roads were sanded. The Bridge street hill in town was one of the slippiest spots and for nearly an hour no cars could navigate it. There was a long lineup at the foot of the hill. Sanding was again necessary Sunday night.

Farmers welcome the snow as a protective covering for crops as the temperature has fallen to 10 and 15 degrees several nights.

Five-Year-Old Prays for Snow, She Got It

When five-year-old Debbie Bowerman, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bowerman, 54 Crestview Ave., went to bed last night she added to her prayer "Please send snow up to my waist."

"Debbie," she cried, "your prayer has been answered."

Debbie looked out the window.

It had.

Northern Electric Hockey League

Northern Electric Interdepartment hockey league action over the weekend saw Indians down the Hornets 6-3 while Flyers and Barons fought to a 3-3 deadlock.

In the high-scoring tie, Taylor sparked the Flyers with six goals, the best scoring performance of the season. Smith tallied twice while Reeves also scored. Taylor added to his point total by assisting on each other pair as did Smith while Little helped on one.

Philp led the Barons with three goals and one assist while Martin also netted the other three. Day had two goals and one helper with E. Barrett scoring once and assisting on three.

Doug Jones spearheaded the Indians' victory with three goals and one assist. Mayrow added two goals with Bedard getting the other. Locke and Soule earned assists.

J. Semark, D. Semark and Wardlaugh were the Hornet marksmen while Tuck and Wardlaugh had assists. Hornet goalie Claude Carr was hit in the eye by a shot and suffered painful injuries requiring medical attention. He was cut both in the eyelid and below the eye, requiring a number of stitches.

Murder Charge Laid

BRANTFORD (CP) — Police Sunday charged Stanley Gibson, 42, with murder after his wife was said to die on Saturday night on the Six Nations Indian reserve, near here.

Police said Gibson's wife, Flora, 38, was shot at close range after an argument. They said seven of the couple's nine children witnessed the shooting.

Gibson was arrested at his home shortly after. He worked in Toronto, N.Y., was married and returned to the reserve on weekends.

Hearing Opens In Hit-Run Case

The preliminary hearing of Angus Thompson, 18-year-old Crookston youth, charged in the hit-and-run death of Herman Woodcock, 84, of Bancroft, last October, commenced this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills, at the Hastings county court house.

Thompson is charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and also with careless driving.

Only three witnesses were called this morning by Crown Attorney John A. Pringle, with the hearing expected to last most of the day. Called to testify were: Dr. Alex. N. Rots, pathologist at the Belleville General Hospital; OPP Corporal Reginald Rackham, and Provincial Constable Kenneth Williamson.

Mr. Woodcox was fatally injured north of Halloway on the Madoc-Foxboro county road as he stopped his car on the edge of the highway while on his way to visit his daughter at Madoc Jct. His body was carried some distance on the car and was found in the ditch.

The car involved in the accident failed to remain at the scene. Angus Thompson was arrested and charged by provincial police following receipt of a telephone call from the boy's father.

Bandits Steal Furs Valued At $400,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Three booted men tied up a night watchman Sunday night and made off with furs valued at $400,000, police said today. It was believed the largest fur robbery in the city's history.

FIGURES WITH PICTURES

There is nothing so logical as arithmetic, until an accountant starts juggling the figures.

Because they are always trying to balance that which is frequently far out of balance, accountants have a habit of deporting figures from their natural habitat to the utmost limits of the summary of assets and liabilities. One needs a guidebook to recognize the outlanders in their strange garb.

This has not made annual statements popular reading for laymen, except a select class who find them a stimulating change from crossword puzzles.

One suspects that this result is not an altogether unwelcome one in some quarters, but these cases do not include such institutions as the Bank of Montreal, which want their annual reports read and understood.

For the past dozen years the Bank of Montreal, where accountants and auditors might have been supposed to be firmly entrenched, has presented its annual statement in what it terms "popular form." This year, though, its advertisement carries the process one step further.

A simple statement of facts is made eye-catching by the use of numerous little pictures at appropriate places. The idea appears elsewhere in this edition.

This technique is not new. Many years ago Edgar Guest wrote a poem about the value of a smile when serving customers in a store. Some retail organization thought so well of the message that it obtained permission to reproduce the poem—and illustrated it with a series of small pictures of exactly the same type as those employed by the Bank of Montreal report of «bank. The Bank of Montreal is to be congratulated on its success in achieving what, only a few short years ago, would have been considered impossible — an annual statement which is not only easily understood, but which the layman finds pleasant to read it but by the layman if he wishes to read it but which also is illustrated in a manner which greatly enhances its chances of being read.

AMERICANS ARE IMAGINATIVE EATERS

One of our most vivid impressions of comparative living in Canada and the United States is appreciation of the superior artistry and imagination of Americans in matters pertaining to food.

The American is one of the world's greatest gourmets. Good food is an important ritual with him, often a major part of the good life. His relentless search for the "right" dish is a full time profession here. He has both the vitality to consume and the purse to demand and get the utmost in quantity, quality, variety and presentation.

We are assured of this estimate by the memory of one of these gastronomic masterpieces which lingers lovingly on.

It happened near New York State. The name of the town has been forgotten years ago but the thought of a blueberry pie relished at that rather commonplace restaurant, never!

To call this temptation, which belied the old adage that anticipation is greater than realization, a piece of pie would be profane.

The chef who poured those luscious blueberries into a deep cream dish and crowned it all with flaky brown pastry, was obviously inspired with the thought that man is either too good for this world or not good enough for the next.

Ever since that memorable event our life has been just one long search to find a similarly inspired Canadian chef only to learn that the latter are limited in their use of canned icing even in the height of the blueberry season. Their sole object is to get the two crusts as close together as possible. Slightly more imaginative are the Americans. Canadian chefs believe man should get his just desserts and are making certain of that fate with their blueberry pies.

Monotony dulls appetites and is generally evil when being the best in Canada. While they have always offered good solid fare such as can be enjoyed every day of the week at home, now are they beginning to tempt the palate with rarities so deliciously different that the wife's pleas for an invitation to eat out are occasionally crowned with success.

Attempting to delight and satisfy American tourists with our cuisine we will be well advised to remember we are catering to people who want the best food and want it in clean premises, producing anything less than the best we are fooling nobody but ourselves.

Now just in case you may be under the illusion that we are overrunning our Canadian hotels and restaurants with connoisseurs of food, let us quote the Buffalo Evening News:

"European gourmets who have made a habit of looking down their supercilious noses at the United States as a "meal-and-potatoes" nation may well be driven to drown their sorrows in bicarbonate of soda after what happened at the International Cooking Olympics in Frankfurt, Germany, a few days ago. Competing against Europe's finest chefs from ten countries, the American team, cooking and serving samples from a basic American cuisine, was awarded the gold cup for excellence in this world series of the cookstove."

JUST FOLKS

SICK MAN

When people ask me how I feel,
I wonder if they really care.
Would they be glad should I reveal
The aches and pains I have to bear?

I say: "O.K." and let it go,
That's all they have the time to know.

A long discussion of disease
I'm sure my friend has time to hear.
The whining patients never please;
A friend dislikes complaints to get.
He'd rather talk in accents sad
About the illness he has had.

Whatever is my source of pain,
His aunt has had it, I am sure.
The doctors worked for months in vain
Until at last they found a cure.
He runs the family histories through
And ends: "They were worse off than you."

About myself I want to tell,
But not a word am I allowed.
On my case no one wants to dwell,
Though of my miseries I'm proud.
There's something worse, they always add,
That years ago their grandpa had.

Dead as a Dodo

Milwaukee Journal

To say that some creature is "as dead as the dodo" is to say that it and its kind have disappeared from the world, for it was the sad fate of this big, ugly, flightless bird to have its name become synonymous with extinction.

Today there is not even a stuffed specimen of the dodo above ground, although a few life size reconstructions may be seen in museums—modelled from early paintings of captive specimens and the few skeletons remaining—principally of its native home, the island of Mauritius in the Indian ocean.

Things were quite different for the dodo when the Portuguese discovered Mauritius in 1505. They found the island devoid of human inhabitants but well stocked with strange birds which they called dodos, meaning simpletons.

The birds are larger than swans," wrote van Neck, "with huge heads half covered with skin as with a hood—and the longer they are cooked the tougher and more tasteless they become."

Van Neck carried a dodo with him on his return to Holland, and several paintings still in existence were made of this fantastic fowl, in 1638, another dodo was brought to Europe where it was placed on exhibition. On its death it was stuffed and added to the royal cabinet museum: after a hundred years, it became so moth eaten that it was thrown away, only the head and one foot being preserved.

The question is often asked "How did it happen that dodos were found only in the island of Mauritius?"

The brilliant Rachel Carson, author of "The Sea Around Us" has expressed the opinion that dodos owe their existence to the origin of the dodo. Writes Miss Carson:

"Long before there were men, a small, pigeonlike bird found its way to the island of Mauritius. In the processes of change, this bird lost the power of flight, developed sturdier, heavier legs and grew larger until it reached the size of a modern turkey. Such was the origin of the fabulous dodo which did not long survive the advent of man on the island."

But, regardless of why this peculiar bird existed, the dodo is reflected to pigeons) changed to exist only on one tiny, 713 square mile island, and that island's surface, the significant fact to bird lovers, and cause conservationists of every land in part of Miss Carson's last sentence: "Did not long survive the advent of man in Mauritius."

Not a dodo could be found there when the Dutch first landed on the island. By 1758, none of the dodos existed in view of the former existence of this unique bird.

The Dutch sailors were not solely responsible for the extinction of the dodo. Before the birds reproduced slowly, laying only one large white egg each season. The sailors started the decline of the dodo; the visits of other ships and the introduction of hogs by settlers completed their destruction.

Thus the end saga of the dodo, a story repeated in its broad outlines in our own country for six different birds in only a little more than a century.

* * *

The great auk, a goose size flightless bird, ranging in numbers to Florida, was the first to go. The last one was killed in 1844; only a few preserved specimens now, remain in our museums.

The Labrador duck was the next to disappear; hunted for its flesh, eggs and feathers, the last one died about 1878.

In the fall of 1931, the last bird here, a close relative of our prairie chicken died on Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts despite the most persistent efforts to save it.

The Carolina parquet, a bird which used to range into the Canadian prairies, vanished in 1912, and, a few years later, the Eskimo curlew, a bird whose chief slaughter by "market hunters" approached that of the wild pigeon, became extinct.

Perhaps the most regretted of our extinct birds was the wild pigeon or passenger pigeon. This, the most numerous of all our wild game birds declined rapidly after 1850, and the last one died in Cincinnati in 1914.

* * *

It is fruitless, of course, to pine over the passing of the dodo and the six American species mentioned. But their disappearance should arouse every thoughtful person to try to save other fine birds from a like fate, for the beauty of wild fowl, for sport and the greater prairie chicken for another—two of our choicest game birds.

Also on the vanishing list are the ivory billed woodpecker and the California condor. Of these, the ivory billed woodpecker is practically extinct; and there are only a few pairs of California condors left and only 26 whooping cranes were reported still alive in 1935.

* * *

It is comforting to note that although some species—the fish of major and prairie provinces, are two examples — have continued to dwindle in numbers and range, others, once alarmingly scarce, responded amazingly to protection.

In 1935 there were only 73 trumpeter swans left; by 1932, they had increased to 571. Even more dramatic has been the increase of the eastern and other white herons. They were near extermination at the turn of the century. However, shooting bans and preservation of their breeding grounds have allowed them to increase by thousands and spread over much of the United States.

The major problem in saving any vanishing species is to preserve its natural habitats. Federal and state governments have established many such wild life refuges, and the National Audubon society has founded more than two million acres of bird sanctuaries.

May the day soon come when we will be able to say: No wild creature is now in danger of becoming as dead as the dodo.

Long Walk For Nurses

Watertown Times

Some statistically-minded individual, who delights in compiling and presenting unusual information—such as the fact the average life of an overcoat is eight and a half months, whereas a scalp hair lives to the ripe old age of six years—has now come up with a statistic on walking.

Nurses (or she) relates that the average United States housewife walks six miles a day in her home and another huge ten miles daily.

A terrific argument could be started with one more effort like that.

The housewives would immediately assert that theirs is a much longer day and, naturally, they must certainly tread more than six miles through and around the house in performing daily tasks. We can already hear one woman who would say "Why, I walk further than that just picking up after my husband and children."

The nurses would most emphatically challenge any claim by the housewives to be the walking champion of the day. They would point to doctors' appointments and home conveniences which have helped lighten a housewife's load. And then they would stress how, as servants to the sick, they are the ones who bear the brunt of the bells, red lights and other summoning devices used by patients.

We do not want to get into this argument. After all, didn't the census bureau just report that females now outnumber males by about 1,200,000? Our candidate for the daily walking title would be the man who commutes by bus or train without the aid of one of the U.S. postal department's new bicycles.

Salad Eaters Defended

Cape Breton Post

What this country needs is a campaign to teach people to produce a civilized salad. Canadian cooking is solid and substantial so far as it goes, and it does not neglect the basic need of meat and potatoes. Whatever some clever housewife may contribute in the way of variety in the arts of cuisine seldom reach a restaurant table where the menu is of a reptilious monotony.

Ask for a tossed green salad in any ordinary Canadian restaurant and you put the staff in a dither. Consternation succeeds surprise and then comes indignation, and then the conclusion that the customer is an eccentric who ought not be respected. Next he gets in what the management finally decides he may be allowed—which includes a hardboiled egg and the least pallide green on the farm. A hardboiled egg does not belong in a green salad, but you can't make a restaurant cook believe it.

All you need for a tossed green salad is whatever green is available in lettuce, radish, onions, cucumber, green pepper, celery, and whatever else is handy that will be fresh, crisp, chopped together in a lavish manner of tossing and mixing with a wooden fork and sprinkled with French dressing.

It cannot be done kindly or correctly so long as restaurant proprietors regard the request for a tossed green salad as an expression of eccentricity, and the determination to be contrary when fulfilled constitutes penance for sins committed long ago.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

If It Can't Be Cured Need It Be Endured?

Take piles, for instance. A good many nostrums, both genuine and of prescribed have purported to be pile cures, but the only way piles can be cured is by destroying them, by surgery, by chemical obliteration (injection treatment, applicable to internal piles only) or, in some cases, by electrocoagulation.

I like surgery. Although I haven't had much experience as a patient, I'm bound to say that all of my major and minor operations have been successful, so if that isn't the right word for it, then certainly not at all unpleasant.

If I had internal cancer, I'm pretty sure I'd nix any proposal to go to. It'd say, like the Pennsylvania Dutchman whose doctor prescribed a diet for lazy worm infestation: "Never mind, never mind, I can eat more."

But if I had piles, the most eloquent operator driving the most elegant car couldn't lure me to the operating room. Injection (ambulant, office) treatment would be my choice. It is painless, as effective as cutting or cauterizing, does not require hospitalization, and does not interfere with one's ordinary activities.

In my opinion, ambulant (which means the patient is not walking about or continues at his regular occupation) or injection treatment would be the method of choice for most, cases of piles but for two reasons: (1) The patient, as a rule, doesn't understand what it is all about, so when the ever-ready operator assures with great authority that the injection treatment was tried, found ineffective, and discarded long ago, or (3) that such treatment is "dangerous," the patient submits without further hesitation to the atrocity.

Actually the main drawback that keeps some rectal surgeons inflicting this medieval torture on victims of piles is that the operators lack the skill which is essential in the injection treatment. They might acquire sufficient skill if they were not told conceited to seek instruction in the technique by a medical colleague who is said to "specialize" in the operation. And many readers, describing their experiences, have given the details and the operators in terms which even I can't quote here.

THE PACKSACK

I am writing this item in a hunting camp far in the north woods, and my companions are doctors, surgeons, businessmen and three newspapermen. At night back in the hunting lodge, we sit in a circle around the luncheon camp fire, or forenoon we are traveling from one place to place by boat, the businessmen and the newspapermen have always a few shop talks. One days of holiday in the bush, not once have the doctors talked shop. Indeed, not a word have they uttered that would indicate their profession. Two of them are, I know, surgeons whose names are known possibly all over the world if we are physicians of equal standing.

Most interestedly and energetically, they join in the discussions of business or of newspaper topics. Their interest in these matters appear to be lively and genuine. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PATIENCE

One of the greatest possessions that any of us can have is patience, unadulterated Patience. Often it takes great courage and resolution. When things indeed looked dark in the United States, Lincoln admonished his country-men to "Be calm, calmly and well upon the whole subject." Meaning we must keep our head, and realize that "nothing valuable can be lost by taking time."

Captain Smith of the steamer Alexandria completes this season his 52nd. year as navigator on the Bay of Quinte and the St. Lawrence River.

That player will "keep his head" and be patient when he gets a bad shot, he will conquer himself very often and enjoy golf much as well.

It is a nation we must be patient in the face of other nations who would destroy us if they could, and be the ones who have freedom and its precious benefits. We need a super-abundance of zeal with patience to rebuke those who think only of their own greed and power.

COMPLETE SECURITY

One of the great missionaries of all time was Adoniram Judson Rowland during the war was one of the latest of these. The Golden Shore, by Courtney Anderson, is a quotation from the last prayer of this noble regarding their little son Edward.

The child cried out in his sleep one night and his mother found it necessary to awaken him. She heard him cry out as if in distress. "Oh," said he, "I was a few minutes later he called out "but in a tone much softer, and I stepped to the door. . . In a few minutes he again repeated

"Oh, Dod," but in a tone so confident that I stepped softly forward to go back to my room and leave him to his Great Protector. . . . When I went in, I found him on his knees fast asleep. He never left down the Belleville and asking 'Dod to take care of him.'"

"Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings" No wonder Christ used the figure of simple childlike trust as the basis of so many of His teachings. Theologians often deal with the perplexity of religious problems and the wonder of God's ways, but the child takes the love and care of God for granted and goes to sleep in peace and confidence.

The rediscovered designs of sets and cells are softer than those of today. The main difference between the and softer than those worn today. The main difference between the director of the film recently explained, was because they were filmed on cells like the glass slides of sets, while the designs used before 1745 and feels that these tartans are as near to the original as possible.

The main difficulty in their quest was getting examples of genuine 45 tartans. Following the Proscription Act of 1746 a man's life could be forfeit if he possessed a piece. Naturally, little tartan was made and many old sets were lost. However, the firm did track down a few pieces, one measuring barely 24 inches square, being insured for £2,000.

Lost Tartans Discovered

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Several fearful and wonderful tartans have been woven for speci- gent, fine, but 30 forgotten or lost tartans have been discovered by an Edinburgh firm after several years of intensive research. The tartans were all last worn before the '45 Rebellion, which was followed by a ban on wearing them, popularity not finally returning with the revival of romantic and nostalgic revival of the 19th Century. They are now being made into a new range of hand woven tartans by the firm.

Respect for Law First Step In Traffic Accident Prevention

Note: Traffic accidents caused 3,000 deaths, 75,000 injuries and $75,000,000 property damage in Canada last year. If the toll follows the rising trend of the past, the carnage will mount every year. What are we doing and what more can be done to meet the challenge of the nation's number one man-made killer? This question is being directed to some citizens of Belleville best qualified by experience and training to comment on a subject which affects more and more people.

Ronald W. Cass, a prominent Belleville lawyer, was the first expert consulted on this problem.

In replying to the question, "Do you believe anything further can be done to reduce the number of traffic accidents?" Mr. Cass indicated that if all drivers and pedestrians and other persons obeyed the law as it is laid down, the number of accidents would be negligible.

"Obviously it is necessary to have everyone obey the law as it now is and a great deal could be gained if persons who are unfamiliar with the law took the trouble to learn and address it," he said.

As far as speed is concerned, he is rather of the opinion that exceeding or remaining within the speed limit is not the most important factor in causing accidents. Accidents are actually caused by failure to drive at a reasonable speed, that is, by driving at a greater speed or in some cases at a less speed than is reasonable in the circumstances. For instance, a speed of 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone may be much too fast in circumstances of limited visibility or very heavy traffic or slippery highway where there is a sharp turn which is not engineered for a 50-mile-an-hour vehicle. A speed of 30 miles an hour on a through highway where traffic generally desires to travel faster is unreasonable and may cause accidents. A speed of 60 miles an hour on a four lane highway with good visibility ahead and behind and very little traffic is probably not at all dangerous, although it may be in excess of the speed limit.

Mr. Cass believes the case of the drinking driver presents a very great problem. As yet, the Legislature has not seen fit to completely prohibit driving so far as a person who has been drinking is concerned and such prohibition would, of course, be a great hardship in view of the social lives which many people lead these days.

"The difficulty is to keep off the highways the fellow who has had too much to drink and doesn't realize it. I would have more wisdom than the Legislative committee and other bodies who have studied the subject if I had the answer to that. The device used to date is that of deterrent, there being criminal penalties against those who are found guilty of driving while intoxicated or impaired by the use of alcoholic beverages. The fact that such penalties exist and that other persons have been penalized may well deter some from commission of the offence."

So far as this method of reducing the number of drunk drivers on the highways is concerned, it is similar to the treatment of careless drivers," Mr. Cass observed.

It may very well be that some sort of movement should be got under way so that at any parties or functions or at any bars where liquor or beer may be served, there should be someone charged with the responsibility of checking all those who have been present who intended to drive, such a person, of course, to be capable of forming a correct opinion as to the ability to drive. For instance, it is not unusual to find that a person charged with drunk driving has spent the evening in a hotel beverage room and has gone directly from there to his car and later been picked up by the police and charged with drunk driving.

When considering penalties one must consider the positive value, the deterrent value and the exemplary value of the penalty.

To some people the paying of a fine may be a minor matter and the suspension of licence, particularly where the livelihood is involved, a very, very serious matter. To some people a few days or a few months in prison may not be a serious matter. So far as punishment and deterrence is concerned, each case is an individual case and must be pretty well treated as such. So far as example is concerned, certainly the general public must know that failure to obey the law will result in suitable punishment and it often seems that the public generally is rather unaware of the penalty.

For instance, most people who are charged with drunk driving are not by any means aware of the rather serious consequences, aside from the term of imprisonment which must be imposed on conviction of that offence. It could not do any harm to give considerable publicity to the very serious results of, say, drunk driving.

Mr. Cass noted the difficulty of preventive work. Recently, very valuable and efficient measures have been taken in the checking of the condition and equipment of motor vehicles and in the checking of driver training and abilities. A great deal more may be done along those lines.

Aside from those preventive measures, however, and the obtaining of highways capable of carrying the present high-powered cars at the speeds for which the cars were designed, other measures used to date are deterrent only. At the present time many of our cars are overpowered for the highways and traffic streams in which they drive and there are still drivers and vehicles which probably should not be on the road."

The prevention of highway accidents presents a problem similar to the methods which are so well known in connection with the prevention of industrial accidents. Every possible safeguard to the premises and mechanical equipment and the clothing of the worker must be made and every worker must be aware of the dangers of carelessness.

So far as our highways are concerned, every precaution should be taken to make the vehicles and the highways safe and to make every driver as careful as possible.

More driver education might be useful in that awareness on the part of motor vehicle operators of the consequences of carelessness might also assist.

"If every person who drove from Belleville to Toronto on highway 2, knew of the fatalities that have taken place in the past on that stretch of road due to carelessness, I venture to say that persons driving that stretch of road would take a great deal more care in their driving than they sometimes do," Mr. Cass emphasized.

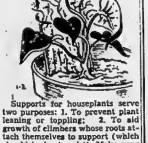
General Council H-S Assoc. Plans Pot-Luck Supper

The regular meeting of the Central Council of the Home and School Associations of Belleville and district was held at the Cornby Public Library on Monday.

Mrs. Charles Powell, president, expressed her appreciation to 18 members of the associations who attended the Regional Conference at Lindsay last month and to those who supplied cars for transportation.

Plans were discussed to have a potluck supper for the January meeting of the council. A committee was formed to attend to the details.

Although the skate sales were not held on the same day at each school as last year each association reported that sales were satisfactory.



A letter was read from the Belleville Recreation Committee, requesting a donation from the Home and School Associations to help-the Minor Hockey League. The associations had been contacted before the council meeting and each have voted to send its donation to the Recreation director.

A letter from Mr. Lorne McDougall re the accident insurance plan now in force in the public schools and at Point Anne. There are approximately 2,041 single and family plan policies and so far there have been eight claims for payment for accidents. The Home and School Associations of Picton are also sponsoring this plan in the public schools there.

Several other plans were discussed before the meeting was brought to a close.

Gamma Mu Welcomes New Members

A regular meeting of Gamma Mu chapter Beta Sigma Phi, was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. D. Mallory, 14 Montgomery Blvd.

Special guests were the members of Bella Alpha chapter of Trenton who took part in an impressive candlelight pledge ritual. Mrs. Joan Alexander, Mrs. B. Bishop, Mrs. W. J. McCormick and Mrs. W. L. Turner were installed and welcomed into the chapter in the official ceremony conducted by the president, Mrs. R. J. Murphy and assisted by Mrs. W. O. Cochrane and Mrs. J. C. McDonald.

An induction of replacement officers followed when Mrs. D. Boyce accepted the office of treasurer from Mrs. W. O. Cochrane and Miss Margaret Peart, the office of corresponding secretary from Mrs. G. A. Murray.

During the short business meeting that followed Mrs. C. E. James distributed articles to be sewn by the members for the pediatries ward of Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. R. S. Murphy outlined plans for a Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. J. L. Acton.

After the adjournment of the meeting, Mrs. W. O. Cochrane introduced the speaker, Mrs. J. A. Pringle, whose topic was "Her Crowning Glory". It included an historical account of hair styles and was illustrated by pamphlets of modern day styles and letters of advice from various beauticians. Mrs. Pringle introduced Mrs. Theo Wheeler who gave a talk on hair and also modelled a few of her own creations.

Both speakers were thanked by Mrs. D. Mallory.

While refreshments were being served by the hostess, and Mrs. W. O. Cochrane, co-hostess, Mrs. G. A. Murray was presented with a gift as a expression of best wishes and also sadness in her leaving Belleville to live in Kingston.

WEDDINGS

THOMPSON—LOTT

Tall standards of ferns and white and yellow chrysanthemums adorned Plainfield United church, for the wedding of Doreen Muriel Lott, Halloway, R.R. 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott, and Guy Wilbur Thompson of Thomasburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thompson. The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, officiated.

Mrs. Margaret Goodfellow, A.T.C.M. of Codrington, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Carl Green of Belleville, who sang "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ross Lott, the bride was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over net and taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice with bolero of matching lace, having long sleeves ending in "v" points over the hand. The skirt was accented by a tapered peplum at the back. She wore a shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion held by a cloche style headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of red Talisman roses and dainty white mums.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Joyce Lott as bridesmaid, as maid of honor, attired in a floor-length gown of shrimp organza over taffeta, with draped bodice, and skirt of unpressed pleats. Her headdress was of shrimp-colored feathers, and she carried a nosegay of white mums encircled by yellow roses.

Miss Phyllis Kleinsteuber of Tweed, as bridesmaid, was gowned identically to the maid of honor with matching feather headdress, and carrying a nosegay of similar flowers.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Mary Lynn Miles of Belleville, and Miss Heather Jane Empson of Roslin, were attired alike in mint green taffeta fashioned in floor-length, with matching mitts and headdresses. They carried nosegays of yellow roses, encircled with white mums.

Mr. Lorne Thompson of Treenton, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Ronald Adams of Thomasburg; Claude Thompson, Brighton and Allan Lott, Halloway, were ushers.

The reception was held in Plainfield Community Hall, where the bride's mother receiving Caribbean blue wool, with long torso and flared skirt, white accessories, and corsage of pink roses received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in navy blue crepe in two-piece style, with matching accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was appropriately appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a floral cluster of white 'mums, African violets, and ivy leaves.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City, and other eastern points, the bride chose a sheath style in dress of knitted tweed and matching jacket, with shrimp and black accessories, and corsage of shrimp colored Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a shower given by neighboring friends with Mrs. Wm. Elliott as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Sills as co-hostess.

MELYNK—RUSSELL

Before an altar adorned with tall white lighted candles and white standards of pink and white chrysanthemums, a lovely candlelight wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 17, at 4.00 p.m. in Vladimer Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church, Windsor, Ontario, by the reverend Father Kernitsky, when Nancy Ann Russell of Windsor, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Russell of Frankford, Ontario, became the bride of Alec Melynk of Windsor, son of Mr. Michael (Anna) Melynk, of Estevan, Sask., and the late Mr. Michael Melynk.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Hugh W. Russell, the bride was attractively attired in a sheath gown of white lace over white satin featuring short sleeves banded with white fur. She wore a small white feather hat, white satin pumps and wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Miss Peggy Rivard of Windsor, attended the bride as brides-maid, gowned in beige lace over beige satin with fitted bodice, and full skirt. She wore a green feathered hat, and gloves and a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Robert Tarasuk of Windsor.

Following the ceremony a Ukrainian reception was held for 90 guests at the Dominion House, Windsor, where a buffet luncheon was served, followed by dancing.

The bride's mother received, attired in pink faille with bolero, pink feathered hat and black accessories, and corsage of pink and white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. John Rynard of Windsor, who wore black lace over pink satin gown with hat accessories, and corsage of pink and white carnations.

For travelling to the States, the bride chose a dark grey dress with black fur jacket, light mauve accessories, and corsage of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Melynk are making their home at 286 Pitt Street, Windsor, Ontario.

Guests were present from Detroit, River Canard and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by a linen shower given by the staff employees of the Sterling Drug Co., Ltd., of which the bride is a member. She will also be honored at a reception held by the bride's parents in December.

The Empire silhouette is very much in evidence in this sweater ed dress. It is a simple sheath of black velveteen with a high V front neckline that dips a bit lower in back. The cover-up sweater is replete with fashion points. It is of white bulky knit orlon and is banded with white grosgrain ribbon. It has a tied tab at the bottom which terminates right below the bustline dipping a bit in back.

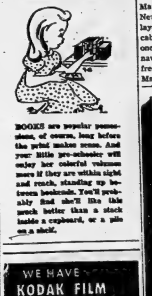
GILEAD FRIENDSHIP GUILD

The Gilead Friendship Guild met last Wednesday, at the schoolhouse with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. George Clare. Hymns were sung. The Scripture was read by Mr. Duane Martin and prayer by Mr. Earl Rons. Thank-you letters from the Leavens and McCullough families were read. Business was discussed.

Mr. George Clare sang a solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Mr. Ralph Swan and Mr. George Clare sang a duet.

Mr. Ralph Swan gave a reading on the life of the "Rev. Peter Kelly". Several other reading were given by the men and boys.



Games were played after which refreshments were served.

HOW to get a Friendly Loan at NIAGARA FINANCE

Drop in to see your friendly Niagara Loan advisor. He'll make it easy for you to get the Friendly Loan that suits you best. Here are important facts for you about Niagara Loans.

Who can get a Niagara Friendly Loan?—Anyone with a reputation for honesty and the ability to repay.

How quickly can I get money?—Sometimes in 20 minutes; within 24 hours for most loans.

How long can I take to repay?—In the table below, there are just a few of many plans. They will give you some idea of time periods allowed for different amounts . . . from 4 to 24 months. And for all people who have uneven income during the year, such as farmers and schoolteachers, special payment schedules may be arranged on loans above $500.

Are all loan charges the same?—Up to $500 generally, yes; but remember, at Niagara, you get life insurance at no extra cost.

Above $500, the larger the amount and the longer the time—the lower the rate. Compare . . . often you'll "buy" more money at less cost at Niagara.

Is Life Insurance on loans worthwhile?—Yes, here is a real family peace-of-mind feature. At no extra cost to you, loans of $1500 or less, are life-insured. Be sure you get this protection when you borrow.

Does a friend have to "back" any loan?—No, seldom do borrowers prefer an endorsed loan. And bankable security, of course is not needed.

How many ways of borrowing are there?—You can use any of these four Niagara loan plans. 1. On cars, trucks, etc.; only owner signs. 2. Husband-and-wife, on furnishings. 3. On business equipment. 4. On farm stock and equipment.

Can I have a private interview?—Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous, and friendly.

Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are: to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business; for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

BE YOUR OWN FAIRY GODMOTHER

No magic wand to transform you into a "glamour girl" by Christmas? Make your own "beauty breaks" and you won't need one.

Extra Cinderella chores during the holiday season—getting your home in order for the festivities, battling the department store throngs while Christmas shopping, additional KP duties, and the like—are conducive to "housemaid's knee," aching feet, broken fingernails, and a generally fagged out you. And with no fairy godmother to wave the magic wand and suddenly transform you into a radiant beauty, you'll benefit from planning your activities this holiday season to include "beauty breaks" throughout each day. A few minutes attending to personal grooming will pay off in big dividends, so when ball time arrives you can wave your own magic wand, and look and feel your most scintillating, vibrant you.

For instance, those "glass slippers" will make you grimace with pain unless you pay special attention to your feet after a bout of shopping or tryst with the vacuum cleaner. After considerable standing or walking, treat yourself to a soothing foot bath. For sheer relaxation, just sit with your feet in a basin or tub of lukewarm sudsy water and let them soak until you can feel the difference. Then scrub each foot with a stiff brush or thick terry washcloth to stimulate circulation, then with alternately hot and cold water, and dry well. You may follow this "treatment" by a massage with hand cream and a light dusting of powder.

While you're working at home, baking, house cleaning, and the like, take a break in the middle of the day to give yourself a facial. Not only will this enhance the loveliness of your complexion, but it will relax your muscles, make you feel refreshed for a long session of energetic activity. First work up a good lather on your face, using a soft complexion brush or which washcloth, rinse well with hot water, lather again, this time massaging the soap into your skin with your fingers. Then rinse with alternately hot and cold water, finishing with cold, and pat dry. This treatment is especially important during the holiday season when rich foods are apt to play havoc with complexions.

At the end of the day treat yourself to a really relaxing bath. Just sit in a tub of tepid water to to soak out all of your homemaker complaints. You may want to give your hair its proverbial one hundred strokes, pluck your eyebrows, or attend to other beauty essentials while you're bathing. Then give yourself a thorough scrub—paying special attention to your back, elbows, and neck—those parts of your body which will be exposed when wearing decollete gowns. Rinse off under the shower, dry yourself well, and finish off with a pat of dusting powder.

Then, plan to spend one hour a day attending to special grooming needs. You might take care of your wardrobe one day, shampoo your hair another, manicure a third day, and so on.

There's an old adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," which is well worth heeding during the busy holiday season. Rather than wear yourself our completely, invest in a few worthwhile home cleaning gadgets such as foam rubber kneeling pads, long-handled brushes, lightweight aluminum ladders, large glove-type foam rubber sponges, and cleaning carts on wheels—to mention just a few of the time and step saving devices available.

Follow this schedule throughout the year, but especially during the holiday season, and you won't want to rush from the gala events at the close of midnight—you'll be so busy receiving compliments and having fun because you'll look and feel your best.

Slim Distinction

By ALICE ALDEN

It is amazing how much striking detail a good designer can include in one slim sliver of a suit. A prime example we give you this suit from the talented hand of California's Edith Small. English twist is the fabric for this very slender job and she has treated the jacket to an unobtrusive group of gold buttons above the single self-button closing. The trimming is really clever. What looks like striped lacing and bows on one side of the jacket is really applique so well done that it blends perfectly into the background. Good on its own, fine as a background for furs and perfect, because it is not bulky under furs later.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"OH COME, AL YE" . . . TO A CAROL-SINGING PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our family—my husband and I and our four teen-age children—are planning this year to have a Carol-singing party on the afternoon before Christmas. We've never done this before, but this year it seems to us especially fitting. We want it to be a gathering of families, grown-ups and children. Will you help us, please, by giving us some of your advice? and

1. We're wondering if it would be proper to write the invitations on Christmas cards. Yes or no?

2. What to serve at this 3:30 to 5:30 Sing-Party? Must I serve sandwiches (which would be such a chore on this busy day)?

3. I'd like to give a little favor to each one, something easy-to-do and very inexpensive. Could you make some suggestions for this, Mrs. Beeckman?

A delightful plan . . . and most inspiring for Christmas of this year!

1. Yes, charmingly proper for you to use this year are the invitations on Christmas cards. Here's a good idea, I think: Why not buy Christmas cards carrying the words and music of a well-loved carol? This year I've seen quite a fine variety of these, some illustrated with colorful choral groups gathered under a light, or robed choristers at church services singing the carols. Most popular of these cards is the one with the words and music of "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful" ("Adeste Fidelis," the world's first Christmas carol).

2. Feature Christmas cookies, pretty and festive, and cut in shapes symbolic of Christmas (perhaps little trees, stars, wreaths, and so forth). Not at all necessary to serve sandwiches. Be sure to provide a good supply of the Christmas cookies, some for eating "on location," and some for take-home, always welcome to all ages! Coffee and or tea for grown-ups, milk for the youngsters. Or, simpler, a fruit punch for all.

3. For each guest I suggest you have the small inexpensive paper booklet that includes the words of the Carols, sometimes music, too. When the guests have the beloved words right in front of them, they will sing the Carols with lusty zest and confident gusto! Then these booklets can be the favors. Or you might have a little Christmas box for each guest or, even easier, a Christmas-decorated paper napkin containing several Christmas cookies. Or a small pert corsage or boutonniere of holly or mistletoe or other Christmas green, gay and lyric with one or two tiny bells!

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE NOT READY TO MARRY ANYONE YET

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Is it wrong to marry someone you don't love?

For almost a year now I've been dating a fellow who is five years older than myself. I'm 22. He's a wonderful guy, has ambitions and is willing to work hard for them. He has all the essential qualities that would make any girl proud to be his wife. We have many common interests and get along very well together. There's only one flaw in our romance—I don't love him.

You see, about three years ago I fell in love and I feel that I still love this other fellow very much. But this other boy friend has no ambition. He gets-up-and-go. He said he loved me and says he still does. I haven't been seeing him, but he gets word to me whenever possible. With a good woman to change him, he could possibly make a good husband. I'm afraid that when I was going with him I didn't try too hard, and it seems to me, anyhow, that if he really wanted to change, he'd have done so during these past three years.

I don't know why I still love him, but I do. I try not to think of him, because the other man has asked me to marry him and I want in accept. My mother says I shouldn't marry a man I don't love, but should I marry one whom I'll probably have to take care of?

Please help me, because I really don't know what to do. — G.W.

Dear G.W.:

Your mother is absolutely right. Moreover, I feel pretty sure you know that she is. But you hesitate to turn down a good man you don't love for an irresponsible one you think you do love. So you're badly confused.

Well, it may clear away some of your confusion if you will just stop thinking about your own feelings for awhile and consider the feelings of this worthy man who wants to marry you.

Do you think it would be fair to him to marry him without loving him? Do you think he'd ever trust you to marry him if you didn't love him?

You haven't said so directly, but I get the impression from what you do say that you think the whole question as to whether or not to marry him is one for you alone to decide. That's where you're very wrong. It's his concern too. I also get the impression that if you decided to marry him, you'd probably do so without informing him that you didn't love him. That would be even more wrong.

What I'd advise you to do is to be very honest with this man. You might say that you've been inclined to marry him, in spite of not loving him, and that, because of this strong inclination, it might be that you have greater feeling for him than you realize. You should ask him if he loves you enough to wait for a definite answer until your confusion clears away.

If he agrees, then go back to looking at the question from your own point of view, and think what it would be like to be the wife of a man who didn't love you enough to want to take the trouble to make himself into a mature, responsible husband. How long do you suppose you'd continue to love this fellow if he just sat around and let you, as you put it, take care of him?

You never made a truer statement than when you say that if this man really wanted a change he would have done so in three years. And let me add to that the fact—and the warning—that countless fine women have married men with the idea of changing them, only to find out to their sorrow that they could do nothing of the sort; that nobody can change a person but himself.

What it all adds up to is just this:

At the presence time you're in no state of mind to marry anyone. Be honest with him, and then be honest with yourself in your thinking and the answer to your problem will definitely come to you.

And I somehow have a feeling you're going to realize, perhaps much sooner than you may think, that you never really loved this first young man at all, but were simply infatuated with some superficial but appealing quality of personality he had.

Pork Is Good Buy in December

By Mary Moore

This is the time of year when pork prices go down if they ever do. I bought a medium-sized loin of pork with the intention of roasting it and serving it for dinner for Pete and Danny and me, and then using the remainder for pork chop suey (see below), the following day. The first meal everything went as planned. The second meal? No leftovers. Those two boys ate the whole roast less one chop-sized slice for me. Just a pair of red-blooded Canadian Dagashleers. If I had had any leftover that is the way I would have made

PORK CHOP SUEY

One and one-half lbs. lean pork (this may be cooked or raw or veal may be used instead of pork), 2 tablespoons shortening, 2 cups diagonally sliced celery, 2 cups chopped onion, 3-4 cup liquid from canned bean sprouts, 1 can bean sprouts (2 1-4 cups), 1-2 lb. mushrooms, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons water, 3 tablespoons soy sauce. Cut meat into bite-size strips. Brown it in large frying-pan with the shortening, celery, onion and mushrooms, adding a little more shortening if needed—brown gently for about five minutes. Add the bean sprout liquid and 1 cup water, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Now add sprouts and salt. Make a flour paste of the flour, 2 tablespoons water and soy sauce and stir gently into mixture until thick, then stir gently five minutes. Serve on hot fluffy rice.

In this family we have gone all out recently for smoked sausages and late last Sunday morning, after later 9:45 Sunday school I made a brunch type of meal for my two boys who were home for the weekend.

SAUSAGE AND FRENCH TOAST GRILL

I used smoked sausages but regular pork sausages are fine too. Start them frying slowly while you make the French toast. Make sandwiches of white or whole wheat bread using apple butter or brick cinnamon-flavored applesauce as a spread between the slices. Cut each two-slice sandwich in half and dip in a mixture of beaten egg and milk. I use 2 eggs and 1 teaspoon sugar to each 1 cup milk. Allow sandwiches to soak up egg mixture, then carefully transfer them to a large frying-pan in which butter has melted and saute until golden on both sides. Serve with fried or baked sausages. This is good with additional apple butter or cinnamon - flavored applesauce. While it makes an especially good breakfast it is a good supper dish too.

A new trick is to heat wieners in the oven using a can of condensed vegetable or tomato or cream of mushroom or celery soup, undiluted, which is quite haste and serve them. They are then served between or with toast. Remember too that the popular trick of slitting wieners lengthwise and filling of cheese in the slot and grilling them. Sliced dills go well with all of these tricks with the easy and economical wiener.

Louisville Has Been Building Toward Acceptance of Negro As Equal for Eighteen Years

Editor's note: While many southerners in the United States have talked of gradual integration as a solution to the race relation problem, the people of Louisville, Ky., have been practising it. This is the story of how Louisville has been building toward acceptance of the Negro as an equal for 18 years.

By BEM PRICE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Everybody, it seems was surprised by the peaceful integration of the public schools here this fall except Louisvillians.

Louisville and surrounding Jefferson County went about integrating its white and Negro schools against a background of racial violence over the same issue in Clay and Sturgis, Ky., Clinton, Tenn., and Mansfield and Texarkana, Tex.

But long ago two strong newspapers, some extraordinary mayors and a rare set of civic leaders, white and Negro had foreseen the current racial crisis and had acted to anticipate it.

STILL NOT COMPLETE

This is not to say that the process of integration is complete here. There still is segregation in the theatres, hotels and restaurants, though the barriers are breaking in the last two.

Until the mid-1930s Louisville was a placid town, proud of its blooded horses, beautiful women and bourbon whisky. It was a town in which about 26 per cent of the population was native born. Then two things happened. The Ohio River flooded, and Mark Foster Ethridge came to town.

After the disastrous 1937 flood Louisville seemed to take on a new and more aggressive look. The necessity for co-operation in rebuilding the city bred a strong sense of civic duty which still flourishes.

Ethridge, a native of Meridian, Miss., now publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, arrived in 1936. He brought with him, as he said in an interview, "a strong pro-civil rights bias inherited from my father."

Ethridge recalls that he wrote his first Louisville editorial on the need to help the Negro in 1937.

Today a great many prominent citizens in Louisville ascribe to Ethridge the major role in creating a climate of opinion which could lead to the gradual integration of the Negro into Louisville's civic life.

WAR HAD EFFECT

The Second World War had another effect. As white youths went into the armed services their places in the labor market were filled by Negroes.

About this time Wilson Wyatt was elected mayor. Wyatt not only saw the necessity for post-war planning, but he also foresaw the crisis which would rise later in connection with the Negro.

While other cities were in the mumbling stage, Wyatt in late 1942 had a commission at work planning for Louisville's future. He appointed 60 Negroes to help with the planning.

Wyatt took another far reaching step in 1943 when he appointed a Negro to the public library's board of trustees.

These two actions by Wyatt, coupled with the fact that public transportation in Louisville had not been segregated, marked the beginning of the breakthrough on the color front in Louisville.

Even before these appointments, however, two able men, one white and one Negro, had met in the state legislature and developed a mutual respect.

The Negro was Charles W. Anderson Jr. The white man was Charles Rowland Fearsley. An affable, restless lawyer, sometimes called eccentric, Fearsley was to become mayor of Louisville.

Anderson was elected to the legislature in 1935 — the first Negro Republican elected from Louisville. When he journeyed to Frankfort to take his legislative seat, Fearsley was the only one who would sit beside him.

As mayors go, Fearsley was totally unorthodox.

Supported by the two newspapers, Fearsley pursued a deliberate policy of desegregation. During his administration the main public library, public golf courses and the graduate schools of the University of Louisville were opened to Negroes. A Negro undergraduate school, part of the university, remained for the time being, however.

From Wyatt down through the present mayor, Andrew Broaddus, progress toward total desegregation has been steady.

When the supreme court struck down compulsory public school segregation, Louisville's city fathers promptly announced they accepted the decision as the law of the land.

The real test of whether the county was ready for integration came when the summer schools were integrated last summer. There wasn't a peep out of anybody, at least none worth noting.

As things now stand, only 20 of the city's 73 public schools serve one race, and that is chiefly because the surrounding neighborhoods are either exclusively white or Negro.

Doria-Stockholm Claims May Take 5 Years to Settle

NEW YORK (AP)—It may take five years to settle the $55,000,000 claims growing out of the Andrea Doria-Stockholm collision off Nantucket last July 25.

The case has all sorts of ramifications. Basically, it is a question of which ship was responsible for the collision which sank the Andrea Doria and took 50 lives. Or were both ships—or neither one—responsible?

That will be decided in the federal court for the southern district of New York. Both the Italian and Swedish American Steamship Lines agreed to be sued here as a matter of convenience.

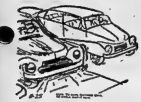
But then this question arises: which law applies—United States, Italian, Swedish or international?

Pre-trial hearings began Sept. 19. They are expected to continue until Christmas. Most of the lawyers involved believe the court will apply international law as expressed in the Brussels Convention of 1924, of which both the Italian and Swedish companies are signatories.

If so, the liability will be apportioned according to the degree of responsibility for the collision as found by the court. If U.S. law holds, and if both lines are found partially guilty, they must share damages equally.

The Italian Line is suing the Swedish Line for $25,000,000 for the loss of the Andrea Doria. The Swedish Line counter claims for $2,000,000. Half of that is to cover the cost of repairs and the other half is for business lost during the repairs.

The Italian Line has collected in full the $19,000,000 for which the Andrea Doria was insured. The Swelish Line has received 21,000,000 in insurance, covering the Stockholm's damage. The insurance companies will be repaid out of any damages awarded to either or both lines.



Suits by shippers for loss of cargos, amounting to $2,000,000, fall under the "carriage of goods by sea" act, which says, in effect, you ship your merchandise by sea at your own risk.

If the court finds the Andrea Doria solely responsible, the shippers can collect nothing. But if the Stockholm is found fully or partially guilty, then those who shipped goods on the Andrea Doria may collect in full or in part from the Swedish Line. There was no loss to Stockholm shippers.

Baggage losses present another problem, which lawyers say probably will go to the Supreme Court of the United States for decision. Although it is illegal for a ship company to limit its responsibility on baggage, the "small print" on the Andrea Doria passenger ticket set a value of $200 on total baggage of each passenger.

A person could declare his baggage for more than $200 and pay a surcharge—much the same as overweight baggage on an airplane—but most people never read the "small print" before going on a sea voyage.

Your Car

Rock 'n' Roll Not for Engines

By EUGENE MILMOE

Ordinarily the word "idle" suggests inactivity, but when it's applied to many car engines it holds a directly opposite meaning. At idle speed these engines seem to rock, shake and roll instead of running smoothly and quietly. Sometimes there's also a strong tendency toward stalling.

Rough idle is a fairly common complaint. In a great number of cases it's caused by too rich a fuel mixture and traced to faulty carburetor and or choke operation, even a clogged air cleaner. But there are many other possible causes, too.

For example, a smart mechanic will check for such things as air leakage at the carburetor or manifold, troublesome ignition points or spark plugs, a sticking distributor breaker arm, dirty connections, etc. Occasionally he may find a leaky or sluggish valve condition is to blame when idle roughness seems to only cure.

* * *

C.O. writes: "Can I skip cleaning and flushing if I use an inhibitor in a cooling system that seems to be heavy with rust? An old pencil truck I bought has this problem."

(A) An inhibitor will prevent rust formation but it will not eliminate rust already caking the system.

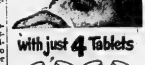
* * *

From E.B.: "I've driven 46,000 miles in my 1950 model which now is apparently afflicted with spark plug trouble. I've had it looked over by various garages in several cities, and after they clean and regap the plugs the car will run OK for a few hundred miles. Once I had all new plugs installed and the results were the same—the car ran well for the usual few hundred miles, then began to buck and miss all over again."

(A) Finding out why the plugs become oil or carbon fouled is the first step toward cure. Leaky pistons rings could be the cause. Or it may only be the fuel mixture is too rich. If the plugs are of the wrong heat range, i.e., too cold for your driving needs, they will encourage early fouling.

* * *

J.F.C. writes: "I have a 1949 car with 40,000 miles on it. When it started using oil, I had new piston rings installed, but it never stopped using oil. In fact, it seems to be even worse. I also notice when driving that it has a very smoky exhaust. What is wrong, now?"



(A) When only new rings are installed in an older engine, more oil may be drawn into the combustion chambers and burned off because of increased manifold vacuum.

* * *

H.C. asks: "Missing is the problem with my 1955 model. It misses while gaining top speed and also when running at high speeds. To correct this, I've had: carburetor cleaned and adjusted; points, plugs, fuel, pump, distributor cap and plug wires replaced; distributor machine checked; primary and secondary circuits tested and manifold gaskets inspected. A new coil was tried, too, but didn't help. Please publish your idea of the cause of the trouble."

(A) Has any garage suggested the possibility of sticking valves? It's not an uncommon cause but it's sometimes overlooked. Have them check also for a restricted exhaust system.

Sponsors Spending Millions On Iron-Ore Development Near Schefferville, Quebec

SCHEFFERVILLE, Que. (CP)—Life in this mining town, centre of the $250,000,000 iron-ore development on the Ungava-Labrador border, is not much different from that in any modern community.

The town is the northern terminus of the 356-mile railway that carries the region's mineral wealth to the St. Lawrence Gulf port of Sept-Iles where it is shipped to Contrecoeur near Montreal, for trans - shipment to the United States and Europe.

Development of the vast iron-ore deposits by the American-controlled Iron Ore Company of Canada has sparked the town's growth from a campsite a few years ago into a prosperous community, boasted to some 2,500 persons in the summer mining season.

2,500 IN WINTER

Newfoundlanders and Quebec North Shore residents form the bulk of seasonal mine workers who come for the summer, work hard and accumulate enough money to go home for the winter. But the score of permanent workers — technicians, geologists, engineers, accountants and specialized workers and their families who form the winter population of 2,500— come from many parts of Canada, Europe and the United States.

Some have decided to settle here. They believe the iron ore deposits is only the springboard for greater things. Others plan to save their money and leave for warmer and more civilized areas.

Bernard Firlotte of Gogama, Ont., where he mined nickel for years, left wife and family behind in 1951 to work on the construction of the railway.

"My ambition was to accumulate $20,000 and leave," he said. "I've got close to that now, but I don't think of leaving any more.

Firlotte helped to build the railway, lived in tents winter and summer, shot caribou for fresh meat. Two years later, when the first train pulled into Schefferville, he obtained a job at the mines as pit foreman. Now his family is here. The marriage of his daughter Bernadette was the first in a new Roman Catholic church built here by IOCC.

Laurent Leonard and his wife of Montreal are a young couple living here. They like the $90 monthly rent for their modern two-storey home, go bowling, play bridge, attend movies but can't get used to the isolation. Some day, they say, they'll return to civilization.

STORE IN CELLAR

Eddie Lemoureux, accountant with IOCC at first, now operates a general store in a cellar. As revenues grow so does the framework of the future store he is building to compete with large mail-order houses which ship their wares at no extra cost. He plans to stay.

William H. Durrell, executive vice-president of Hollinger-Hanna Ltd. which manages the development for IOCC, said his company's pioneers for the modern planning of Schefferville has from time to time caused raised eyebrows among IOCC directors but "they have never turned us down."

To date $5,000,000 has been spent building the town. It will take as much again before the job is finished, before the roads are paved, a $3,000,000 recreation centre built and before grass grows on every lawn. The grass-growing experiment alone is costing several thousand dollars.

These things make the difference between living and mere existence," Mr. Durrell said.

Flowers are large and healthy. There is no fresh milk but the children drink powdered milk. They drink the canned or powdered variety. Single men and girls live in company-operated staff houses at a cost of $30 monthly for room and board. The food is good and there is plenty f it.

The town has a fleet of 10 taxis and several residents have automobiles. There are some 200 miles of unpaved roads in the area. There is no Quebec government liquor store either here or at Sept-Iles and bootleggers are reported to be active. Residents who want liquor at cheaper prices must order it by mail from Quebec City.

Mr. Durrell has spent a lifetime building big projects in Canada. He saw the first tree cut at Goose Bay, Labrador, where he managed the construction of the base there and miraculously survived the explosion of an aircraft that left him scarred but still lithe and nimble.

His experience in the bush have convinced him that a minimum of comfort for personnel is vital if a development such as IOCC's is to be a success.

Throughout the construction stage he travelled constantly by air between Montreal, where IOCC's headquarters are located, Sept-Iles and Knob Lake.

In 1953, Durrell suffered a heart attack and was succeeded in the post of general manager of the project by his assistant Jack McManus, a tough southerner with plenty of experience in mining engineering who can withstand the cold damp climate better than the average Canadian.

Mr. Durrell, although he has been asked by physicians to take things easy, is almost as busy as ever. Human relations problems are his specialty.

He feels strongly about the fact that Schefferville residents did not have the right to vote in the last provincial election.

45 Die in Heavy Weekend Accident Toll

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were 45 accidental deaths in Canada during the weekend, almost twice as many as the previous weekend, when 23 persons died violently.

At usual most of the fatalities —35—were due to traffic accidents.

A Canadian Press survey, from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday shows Quebec at the head of the list with 15 fatalities, including 14 traffic deaths, tops in both departments.

Ontario had 10 traffic deaths and three shootings. There were five fatalities in Nova Scotia, five in British Columbia, three in Alberta, two in Manitoba and one each in New Brunswick and Saskatchewan.

ONTARIO DEATHS

Traffic:

Frederick Chester, 70, Sarnia, killed Friday when struck by a car at an intersection;

David Brett, 9, York township, fatally injured when knocked down by a car on his way home from school Friday;

Cpl. Edwin Lake, 26, RCA, fatally injured when his car crashed into a tree near Picton Friday night;

Arthur Cook, 33, Ottawa, who died after his car crashed into a tree near Fort Erie Saturday night;

Mr. and Mrs. Erminio Franceschini, Sudbury, both killed when their car was struck by a transport truck near Palermo Saturday;

Stewart Kerstdam, 70, fatally injured when his car hit a bus near Oakville, Saturday;

Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Moran, both 64, of New York State, fatally injured Saturday near London when their car went off Highway 22 and crashed into a tree;

Harry Whittaker, 25, Oshawa, fatally injured Saturday when his car crashed into the rear of a truck on Highway 401, near Whitby.

Shootings:

Mrs. Lucille Kruger and Raymond Soucy, found dead Saturday from bullet wounds in a yard at Fort Frances.

Mrs. Laura Gibson, 30, shot to death on Six Nations Indian Reserve at Brantford Sunday.

Egyptian Officials Taking Reprisals Against British, French, Canadians and Jews

The following dispatch is by a former Canadian Press staff writer now in the Middle East. It was filed from Rome, before he left for a visit to the Canadians with the UN Middle East Force at Abu Suweir.

By DONALD GORDON

ROME (CP)—Egyptian government officials are taking vicious reprisals against British, French, Canadian and Jewish nationals in large-scale property seizures and deportations.

Individual Egyptians are joining in the program with isolated attacks on Europeans, looting of abandoned homes and scattered nighttime shootings.

Details of the reprisals, pieced together from eyewitness accounts and interviews with refugees, were smuggled out of Egypt to Rome aboard a chartered Canadian Embassy aircraft.

Forty-eight thousand Jews, living in Egypt — including 5,000 Egyptian — born, 20,000 stateless and 10,000 Egyptian citizens—are on three-day notice to vacate the country. All their property has been seized.

An additional 500 Jews, among the wealthiest in the country, are held incommunicado in the former Jewish school in Cairo. These include the father-in-law of former French Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

IN CLOSE ARREST

Pre-dive arrangements for their deportation, the refugees are being held under close arrest in their homes or in penal camps. The chief rabbi so far has been left free.

Similar steps are being taken against British, French and Australian nationals, some of them residents of the country for 30 years. These include an estimated 14,000 British passport holders. Seized shops and businesses now are being operated by the state or handed over to Egyptian businessmen. The same is being done with industrial plants valued at more than $15,000,000.

The result in Cairo and other centres is long queues of desperate foreigners seeking means of evacuation and long lists of newspaper ads offering sale of goods at sacrifice prices to obtain passage money.

The handful of commercial aircraft leaving the country are jammed to capacity. All have months-long waiting lists.

TORONTO WOMAN LEAVES

Elizabeth Rumsley, 27, of Toronto, a United Church missionary was among four Canadians fleeing the country in the special embassy plane. One of 50 missionaries working in the Egyptian General Mission, she said all were forced to leave, abandoning their possessions and carrying only clothes and a few Egyptian pounds for expense money.

"They walked in and seized our hospital last week," said Miss Rumsley. "No one was hurt but we are worried about several British missionaries left behind due to their age.

"They took everything. We were ordered to leave at once because Egypt no longer is a land for Christians, especially British and French.

"So far they are treating Canadians fairly well but we have seen some violent scenes with citizens of other nations."

SOME CANUCKS STAY

Canadian Embassy officials at Cairo said 30 of the 70 Canadians in the country have been flown out with the balance electing to remain. It is understood Canada will act as representative of Australia and other Commonwealth countries.

Egyptian government officials are continuing strong efforts to muzzle the foreign press. All correspondents are accompanied by a guide at all times. Copy is tightly censored, with extra parts added praising Egypt wherever possible.

Censorship has also been applied to United Nations troop convoys with several government officers openly boasting that the United Nations is being reduced to an auxiliary arm of Egyptian control of the Middle East.

FORCED TO STRIP

LONDON (AP)—A Daily Mail correspondent asserted today British women leaving Egypt have been forced to strip in the presence of Egyptian men.

"In the party which left Egypt with me were British women—old and young," wrote Julian de Kasel, who arrived from Cairo Sunday.

"They were made to strip completely in a little uncurtained room. Grinning Egyptians kept peering in at them through the windows. The women were then subjected to a humiliating personal search.

"All Britons had to leave behind them the accumulation of years of residence in Egypt—furniture, cars, jewelry which they could not prove they had brought in with them, clothing, cameras.

"Just a Second"

"That was fine except for just one thing Arthur, you forgot to wipe your feet!"

Belleville Shades Picton In Badminton

The Belleville Garrison Badminton club shaded a Picton team by 11 matches to 10 on the latter's home courts.

Belleville showed a slight edge at men's doubles establishing a 3-2 lead which was extended to 7 to 3 when local women players outscored their Picton rivals 4-1 at ladies' doubles.

Picton flashed much stronger form at mixed doubles winning 7 out of 11 matches and only failing to overtake Belleville by a single match on the grand total.

The match, which was played in one of the finest badminton halls in Eastern Ontario, was followed by refreshments and greatly enjoyed by players and spectators.

Marlies Shade Teepees 3-2; Beat Biltmores

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros won the Memorial Cup last year as the best junior hockey team in Canada. This season, Turk Broda's Marlies have found pickings quite a lot leaner.

But they may have, as they say, broken the ice during the weekend, winning two games in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series, including one from the almost unbeatable Guelph Biltmores.

Marlboros dumped Blitz 5 - 1 Sunday in the first game of a doubleheader at Toronto, after shading St. Catharines Teepees 3-2 in a Saturday game at St. Catharines.

In the second game of the Sunday twin bill, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors whipped Teepees 7-1 to regain a second-place tie with Marlboros.

The loss ended Biltmores' unbeaten streak at eight games and was the first defeat taken by Guelph since they lost 6-0 to Teepees Nov. 3.

After Bill Sweeney shot Guelph into a 1-0 lead in the second period, Ken Girard came back to tie the count just before the period ended.

In the third, Bill Kennedy connected for Toronto when his blueline shot took a crazy hop and bounced over netminder Barry Smith's stick at 17.01. Wally Boyer added the third Marlboros goal 48 seconds later.

MAHOVITCH GETS TWO

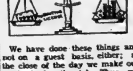
Outshot 30-28 in the free-wheeling second game, Majors got a two-goal gift from Frank Mahovich and single markers from Bob Boucher, Jack McMaster, Bob McKnight, Darryl Sly and Gino Ubriaco.

Former St. Michael's star Viger Gendron, who joined St. Catharines Saturday, shot the lone goal for Teepees, in the first period.

At St. Catharines Saturday, Girard scored on a breakaway-verly in the third period to give Marlboros the win. Bob Nevin and Bill Kennedy fired the other goals for Marlboros while Bob Hull and Don Grosso were the St. Catharines marksmen.

Solunar Notes

What Price Game Licences?



By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT,
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

How many folks, we wonder, have gone to fish hatcheries or game farms and there indulged themselves in their favorite outdoor pastimes? Also, how many have paid the bill at the end of the day, said bill being calculated according to the number of fish caught or the number of birds killed?

How many have done these things as compared with the number of fishermen and hunters who have not? What is the percentage?

At a commercial fishing area, operated on a profit basis as any legitimate business must be, the fish that you catch must be charged for according to their actual value, the cost of rearing them to catchable size plus a reasonable profit. Fish vary in size and weight, so the charge is made usually on the price-per-pound basis.

At a commercial game farm, the birds—pheasants and ducks, for the most part—average pretty much the same size so they are charged for on a unit basis—so much per bird.

We have done these things and not on a guest basis, either; at the close of the day we make out a check for the lot. Thus, we know from first-hand experience what fish and game actually are worth in cold cash.

AT BARGAIN PRICE

For this very reason, it never fails to astonish us when we hear the furor and turmoil that is raised by the fishermen and hunters when such a thing as a moderate raise in the price of a licence is suggested. The only bargain which in any way compares with the fishing or hunting licence is the three-cent postage stamp.

Of course, not very many devotees of the outdoor sports figure the value of the daily bag in terms of dollars and cents. Should they do so, exclusive of the many intangibles incidental to those sports, then the monetary-minded certainly would dispose of fishing and hunting gear and patronize, exclusively, the fish markets and the butcher shops.

However, for the purpose in hand, consider the price of your licence in terms of the value of the fish at going rates. One fair catch of trout more than pays for your fishing licence; one cock pheasant, two or three rabbits, three or four quail, etc., bring back to you the cost of your hunting licence. From then on you are working on velvet.

And the actual value of one deer—well, that takes care of your licence bill for the next eight or ten years, depending on his weight and where you happen to get him.

There are several things that a fisherman and a hunter should remember when licence fees are discussed. First off, conservation agencies need money with which to operate. No longer do these agencies confine their activities to the mere stocking of fish and game in our waters, woods and fields. Fish and game management is a complex business as it is done today. It costs money to finance such things as research, land improvement and acquisition, lake and stream improvement, cover management and adequate law enforcement, just to name a few.

Another thing—public interest in the outdoor sports is increasing each year. This is reflected, of course, in the annual increase in licence sales and the output of U.S. Federal migratory bird stamps. It takes a vast amount of territory and an unbelievable supply of fish and game to keep more than twenty-five million people happy in the outdoors.

Naturally, to provide adequate sport for that many people requires money, plenty of money. Cut down on that money supply and, automatically, you cut down your own chances for sport each time you go out with rod or gun.

Our conservation commissions today are composed of specialists, men who are trained in their jobs. They don't indulge in the luxury of guess work. They know what these things cost and their financial requests are not exorbitant.

If you want good fishing and good shooting—and every sportsman does—go along with your commission and give them hard-working boys your support. Surely the equivalent of a week's supply of cigarettes with, maybe, a movie or two thrown in, won't make a serious dent in the annual budget.

Buick Super 4-door Riviera

Everything's New including the View

in each '57 Buick—SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER, ROADMASTER

WHEN we tell you the 1957 Buick is new, we're not kidding.

Because we don't mean just new this or new that. We mean new everything.

We mean everything you can't see, as well as everything you can.

And even the "seeing" is new from both the front seat and the rear seat—for the new, wider, rakishly angled panoramic windshield with its 200 more square inches of glass area widens the forward view of all passengers.

Take other examples.

Its styling is new. Never before have you seen a Buick like this one—sleek and stunning, and low as a cat-crouch.

Its engine is new—and you'll know that the first time you crack the whip.

Never has any Buick boasted so big, so powerful, so obedient an engine as the purring V8 engine that gingers every '57 Buick.

For now with Buick's new record horsepower, there's a new advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow that's so instant in action, so vividly responsive, so smooth and flexible and full-torque throughout the entire "Drive" range—the need for "Low" is virtually eliminated.*

But there's even more than all this to the newness of every '57 Buick—SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER and ROADMASTER.

There's a completely new chassis that gives the car the lowest centre of gravity in Buick history—for a steadier, safer ride. And a new kind of ball-joint suspension for surer handling, safer cornering, and a wonderful new levelized braking.

There are safety features galore—new safety-padded instrument panel, new dip-centre safety steering wheel, new controls recessed out of harm's way—even an ingenious new Safety-Minder* that lets you know when you reach the miles-per-hour you've preset for yourself.

Of course, the only way to get the whole new wonderful story is to take the wheel of one of these lower, roomier-than-ever '57 Buicks and let this magnificent big new car do its own talking.

And that's something we'll be most happy to arrange first chance you get. Come in today.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Minder standard on Roadmaster, optional other Series.*

In the Dressing Rooms

By JOEL MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Alouettes sat glumly in their dressing room Saturday and blamed their own poor play for their third straight Grey Cup defeat at the hands of the Edmonton Eskimos.

Coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker summed it up for his players as they trudged in off the field stripped off their uniforms and flied silently into showers.

"We played a terrible game—that's all," said Walker. "We played one of our worst games of the year."

He said he felt Edmonton got the breaks and took advantage of every one in running up a 50-27 score.

NO ALIBIS

"Our fumbles really hurt us," he said. "You can't fumble against a team like Edmonton and get away with it. But there can't be any alibis. We were outplayed and that's about all there is to it."

The Montreal coach, who had three Big Four championships to his credit but was still looking for his first Grey Cup in five years with the Alouettes, said he didn't think this year's Edmonton team was any stronger than last year's Eskimos, who beat Montreal 34-19 for the cup in Vancouver.

"They may be just about as strong but they're certainly no stronger," he said. "Our poor play helped them run up a score."

Team captain Herb Trawick, the only remaining member of the original 1946 Alouettes and a star with Montreal's Grey Cup team in 1949, thought the Eskimos weren't nearly as good as they were last year.

"But we played awful ball," he added.

UNBELIEVABLE

Team president Leo Dandurand joined Walker in the dressing room and sat beside him, shaking his head sadly.

"It's hard to believe," he said. "Beaten three years in a row by the same team."

The Montreal players, who were game, were visibly upset by their play.

Juan Sheridan, a veteran defensive guard, pulled off his sweater and sat slumped on a bench muttering: "I just can't believe it."

YELLS AT LINE

Sheridan kept up a constant chatter during his spells on the bench while Montreal was on the attack, calling on his teammates to "get in there and beat those guys." With five minutes left to play and Montreal hopelessly behind, he lapsed into silence.

Walker paced up and down in front of the bench during all the game, saying little and letting quarterback Sam Etcheverry call all the plays. Once, when Edmonton had intercepted a pass by Etcheverry, he called his attacking line to task.

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A skinny kid with blood on his gloves went almost unnoticed in the dressing room Saturday after quarterbacking Edmonton Eskimos all the way to a 50-27 Grey Cup victory over Montreal Alouettes.

"It's wonderful, terrific," said Don Getty, 22-year-old graduate of the University of Western Ontario in London. He was the first Canadian to start at quarterback in a Grey Cup game in nine years.

"The line was tremendous. Did you see that Mike Kmech? Only a year up from Junior B. He played the whole second half."

Across the room a quartet of sweaty Eskis harmonized on a ditty which went: "Farewell you Alouettes . . . you'll win the championship another time."

REVEALS RECIPE

Frank (Pop) Ivy, speaking into microphones, spelled out the victory formula: "Send in Bobby Miles and Jackie Parker around the ends: a little something new."

Moe Liberman, president of the team which had just beaten Alouettes for th cup for the third straight year—a Western record—held the football-filled suit mug and smiled into flashbulbs. He was flanked by fullback Normie Kwong, the China Clipper, and Jackie Parker, Jackie still wore skin-tight gloves taped to his wrists as did Getty, Bright and other backfielders.

Tongue in cheek, the Texas centre replied:

"I diagnosed the play perfectly, then I hailed through and batted down the ball. Actually, I fell over and found the ball under me, but you should hear the way I'm going to tell it to the press."

FEELS NO PAIN

Mike Volcan, blood coagulated on the bridge of his nose from a cleat cut, said he had no idea who stepped on his face.

"You don't even feel it, long as you're winning."

Carol Parker of Knoxville, Tenn. who watched most of the first half seated on his son Jackie's spare helmet alongside the Edmonton bench, was hoarse from screaming "what a team—what a team."

It wasn't the lucky team which took the 1954 Grey Cup with a miracle run by Parker and exploded in the dressing room later; nor was it the hungry ball club which crushed Alouettes again in 1955 and loudly celebrated the proving of their strength.

It was a tired, businesslike ball club which expected to win and did.

Grey Cup Talk Of Melbourne

MELBOURNE (CP)—The result of the Grey Cup game was the chief talk of Canadian athletes at Olympic Village and most of them were flabbergasted at Edmonton Eskimos' margin of victory in the 50-27 defeat of Montreal Alouettes.

The result of Canada's annual football classic and other details were posted on the Canadian headquarters bulletin board in the village by The Canadian Press.

Athletes from Western Canada immediately said they knew the Eskies would win.

HAILS PARKER

"There's nobody like Jackie Parker," said little Maureen Revet, sprinter from Regina. "The East should know by now that the only way to beat Edmonton is to call off Parker's legs."

Hal Radford of Montreal, one of the top brass among Canada's team officials and naturally a staunch supporter of the Alouettes, was saddened, to say the least.

"The details are really gruesome," wailed Radford.

Whitby Dunlops Beaten Twice By Pembroke 9-5, Chevies 3-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops have gone virtually unchecked since the regular schedule opened in the Eastern Division of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series.

Defeated only three times in their first 13 games and leading the pack by a healthy five points, Dunlops finally came down to earth during the weekend: They were beaten in two games by the cellar-dwellers of the cellar.

Saturday, Pembroke Lumber Kings treated home fans to a powerful scoring show, whipping Dunlops 9-5. And Sunday, Cornwall Chevies turned the tables 3-2 on the Whitby club. In another Saturday game, Kingston CKLC's downed Cornwall 3-2.

In the Western Division of the OHA series league-leading Stratford Indians managed only a tie in two interlocking games with teams of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, but that one point preserved their one-point lead over Chatham Maroons, who lost 6-4 to Owen Sound Mercurys.

Stratford tied Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 3-3 Saturday, then surprisingly dropped a 5-1 count to Sault Ste. Marie Indians Sunday.

Windsor Bulldogs won 10-1 and 5-3 in a home-and-home set with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

In NOHA action, the leading North Bay Trappers again moved five points ahead by downing runner-up Sudbury Wolves 6-2.

Finally, in the Porcupine Mines Senior League, goalie Frank Kobe of South Porcupine Porkies gained the first shutout of the year in blanking runner-up Timmins Flyers 4-0. The leading Porkies have a three-point cushion.

QUARTET GETS DOUBLES

At Pembroke Saturday four players fired two goals each for Kings. They were Bert Giesebrecht, Jim Maxwell, Ken Campbell and Charlie Marshall. Ray Simoneau shot Pembroke's ninth.

Scoring for Whitby were Frank Boccito, Bob Attersley, Charlie Burns, Gordie Myles and Harry Sloden.

Veteran Rosario Joannette paced Chevies with two goals at Cornwall Sunday, Rheal St. Jean adding one. Sandy Air and Attersley shot the Whitby markers.

At Kingston Saturday, Marcy White shot two for CKLC's and Loudry connected once. Henri and Rheal Savard found the mark for Cornwall.

Bobby Brown and Joe Klukay had two goals each for Windsor Saturday. Sleaver getting the other. Don Pope, Harry Pauluk and Gerry Theberge scored for Dutchmen.

Sunday at Windsor, however, Frankie Baltgate personally assured the road scoring goals. Two each were counted by Chez Wurzeal and Bobby Brown. Lou Bendo and Pat Kelly added singles. Keagy Laufman fired the lone Kitchener goal.

At North Bay, Trappers spotted Wolves a first-period goal by Billy Dea, but bounced back. Art Stratton, Gerry Cabana, Frank Arnet, Stan Maxwell, Fwd. George and Chuck Scherza shared North Bay goals. Nick Tomiuk had the other marker for Sudbury.

Stratford had to come from behind three times before tying the Hounds at Sault Ste. Marie Saturday, John Bailey shot two goals for Hounds. Marcel Clements one. Mickey Rolb had a double for Stratford and Tex McPherson added one.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sunday the NOHA club got off to a fast start, leading 4-0 after two periods.

Canadian Crews Talk 'Medal' As They Ready for Tough Race

BALLARAT, Australia (CP) — There was gold medal talk in the Canadian Olympic rowing camp tonight as University of British Columbia oarsmen prepared for a down-to-the-wire struggle in Tuesday's finals (starting at 2:30 a.m. EST).

The two UBC crews stood out Sunday in winning both their semi-final events, in the eights and the fours without coxswain, and the favored American crews were as far as to concede that a real battle might be in the offing.

Clifford (Tip) Gore, chairman of the United States Olympic Rowing Committee, told reporters: "The real final "should be a real battle between the U.S. and Canada, and I think we have a good chance to take that one."

Speaking of the eights, he said that while the decision probably would lie between the U.S. and the powerful Australian crew, "there is a possibility that the costly effort in the semi-final might mean a victory for either Canada or Sweden in the finals."

ALMOST DEAD HEAT

The effort he referred to was the neck-and-neck battle between the Australians and the Yale crew today which ended in a virtual dead heat with the Americans in front by a nose.

"It might have been wiser if Yale had eased up at the finish," he said, "as both Australia and the U. S. were six or more lengths ahead of Russia and both were certain of qualifying."

The American official didn't mention the fact that the UBC eights crew had finished ahead of Yale in the preliminary round, sending the U. S. entry back into the repechage event—a second-chance competition which the Americans won Sunday to earn another chance at the semi-final.

WON SEMI-FINAL

The Canadian eight - oar shell won the semi-final heat today with comparative ease, stroking over the 2,000-metre course on Lake Wendouree here in six minutes, 57 seconds. Second-place Sweden's time was 7:08.4.

The Yale crew was timed at 6:53.1 and the Australians at 6:53.6 in their event, and while the times were slower than in the first round, they were considered a remarkably good in view of a headwind which reached 18 miles an hour at times.

The UBC fours without cox also showed even better than the eights in beating second - place France by a dozen lengths. The crew of Don Arnold, Walter d'Hondt, Lorne Loomer and Arnie MacKinnon opened up a big margin from the start and was going away. The Russians and Poland were third and fourth.

Canada's winning time was 7:07.7 over France's 7:20.4. In the other semi-final the Detroit Boat Club crew had a 7:20.7 with second-place time limited at 8:10.2 to make up the other two finals contenders.

ALL OVER

They wrote something in the Canadian football archives on Saturday as the western Loshlavaes galloped back to the oil fields of Edmonton with their third Grey Cup tucked under their collective belts.

They left good old Hogtown with a tremendous hangover. Montreal with memories of a third loss in a row and Yorktown's lunkeepers with their pokes full of dust.

After all, it was not so much of an upset despite the pregame odds that set the Larks 7-5 favorites. The Eskies made history on their cup hat trick and demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that they were by far the better club.

Led by Jackie Parker and Johnny Allbright, they blasted the Larks' weak defence tactics despite the fact it was alleged the Als had the proper defence for the Eskys' serial and ground offensives.

In fact the Eskimos showed the strongest team going both ways in the previous two years of successful attempts to grab the coveted cup. The Larks teed up by prom ballyhoo from the east and other points, collapsed like a sagged tent in the second half and the guys from the oilfields showed their complete mastery in the final chukker.

The scoring thunder of the Eskimos was never more clearly demonstrated in Jackie Parker's three touchdown efforts with the pass and run, while Johnny Allbright slammed out two major scores. Joe Monza kicked a field goal and converted four times.

The Alouette attacks were dismantled by four Eskimo interceptions and the guys from the west used a baffling assortment of running plays with quarterback, and a Canadian, Don Getty in the here role. Getty completed only seven passes to pile up more points than any team has scored in a Grey Cup contest.

And so another chapter of Grey Cup activities passes into history. It was one of another series that marks this epic as one of Canada's greatest sports spectacles.

TWIN DEFEATS

The biggest thing in senior "A" hockey in the Eastern week of the weeds was the double defeat handed the powerful leaguebeating Whitby Dunlops. The Blairmen were given a fancy hockey lesson by the Lumber Kings in Penbroke by a 9-3 score while Sunday the Cornwall Cherries shifted into high gear and defeated them 3-2.

In the general standing shake-up the Dunnies were stymied Hawks were ahead twice in Detroit Saturday but Larry Ferguson deflected one past Al Rollins at the 18:28 mark in the first period for the win.

After a scoreless first period Elmer Vasko, a rookie defenceman, got his first NHL goal, an 85-footer that bounced off Glenn Hall's glove. Winger John Bucyk got his first of the year five minutes later. In the third rearguard Gus Mortson put Hawks ahead again, but Marcel Pronovost tied the count at the 13-minute mark and Ferguson's goal, his sixth, ended Black Hawk chances.

Sunday the Hawks threw 45 shots at Hall compared to the 34 Rollins was required to deal with, but Wings took a 3-1 lead in the first on goals by rookie Billy Dea, Gordie Howe and Earl (Dutch) Reibel, answered only by Ed Litzenberger's ninth goal of the year.

It was 3-2 at the end of the second as rookie defenceman Ron Ingram got his first in the NHL, then with five minutes to go Detroit failed to clear and Mickoski tied it on a pass from Glen Skov.

WAS DISAPPOINTING

Montreal's big win Saturday was actually a disappointment for 14,204 fans and goalie Jacques Plante. Plante was returning to action after two weeks' absence and until 19:25 of the third period, he and the crowd thought it would have a shutout to add to his league-leading string of four, but Denny Lewicki scored from close in.

Defenceman Tom Johnson got two of Canadiens' goals. Others were from Claude Provost, Henri Richard, Bernie Geoffrion and Jean Beliveau, leading the NHL with 25 points.

In the Gardens Sunday it was Ranger goalie Gump Worsley who starred, kicking out 39 shots while Plante had only 17 to deal with. Dean Prentice put New York ahead in the second period, but Moose's goal, his 11th and the best in the league, saved Montreal.

Wings Defeat, Tie Chicago Canadians Ditto N.Y. Rangers Beliveau Takes Points Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins—the enigma of the young National Hockey League season — are still unexplained, but the Bruins' success shows no signs of ceasing.

During the weekend their crew of NHL castoffs took 3-2 and 3-1 wins over the slumping Toronto Maple Leafs to keep two points ahead of Detroit Red Wings in the NHL standings. They were the only club to manage double victories over the weekend.

Second-place Red Wings, who have 26 points and two games in hand, took on the last-place Chicago Black Hawks. They edged the Hawks 3-2 in Detroit Saturday but could do no better than a 3-3 draw in Chicago Sunday.

Montreal Canadiens, in third place with 22 points, swamped the hilltopper New York Rangers 6-1 in Montreal Saturday but only Deckie Moore's last-minute goal gave them a 1-1 tie Sunday in Madison Square Garden.

CAME FROM BEHIND

In Toronto Saturday Leafs went two-up on goals by Tod Sloan and George Armstrong. Then Fleming Mackell, who ex-Leaf, scored to make it 2-1 and winger Bheal Cloutier's goal in the third tied and winning goals, his ninth and 10th of the season, Terrible Ted Lindsay, ousted from Detroit last year.

On Sunday Gerry James put the Leafs ahead 1-0 in the first period, but Johnny Pierson, playing his ninth season with Bruins, tied it in the second and minutes later made it 2-1.

Defenceman Doug Mohns, a converted forward, finished things off in the dying minutes of the game by shooting into an open net after Leafs replaced goalie Ed Chadwick by an extra forward, for the second successive game.

Saturday Leafs had selected forward Armstrong when he twisted his right knee. He will be out for several weeks.

AHEAD, BUT—

The luckless Chicago Black Hawks were ahead twice in Detroit Saturday but Larry Ferguson deflected one past Al Rollins at the 18:28 mark in the first period for the win.

After a scoreless first period Elmer Vasko, a rookie defenceman, got his first NHL goal, an 85-footer that bounced off Glenn Hall's glove. Iowa Finishes Great Season Whip Irish 48-8

NEW YORK (AP)—Iowa completed its finest season in 35 years with a Rose Bowl trip its reward as Oklahoma and Tennessee remained unbeaten and untied as the United States college football season Saturday moved into its final turn. Only a scattering of big games remain.

Iowa walloped Notre Dame 48-8, completing its schedule with an 8-1 record. The Big Ten conference then put its formal stamp of approval on the New Year's Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., with Iowa going against Oregon State.

Oklahoma crushed Nebraska 54-6 for its 39th straight win to tie the all-time college record set by Washington in 1908-14 while Tennessee defeated Kentucky 20-7, Georgia Tech, which only lost was to Tennessee, coaled off Florida 28-0.

Both Tennessee and Tech virtually are assured of major bowl bids and could end up in a rematch in the Sugar Bowl, Texas Christian nailed down the host Cotton Bowl berth by downing Rice 20-17.

Michigan rolled over Ohio State 19-0 and thereby enabled Iowa to clinch the Western Conference title.

Yale made its 73rd meeting with Harvard a memorable one by capturing the first official Ivy League championship with a 42-14 victory.

CHECKING THE TEMPERATURE

Just as a doctor uses a thermometer to learn the condition of his patient, you can read a car's temperature gauge to diagnose certain faults.

Drive the car for a short while in traffic and note the engine temperature. If too hot, it is a sign of a slipping fan belt, incorrect thermostat — or kinked or rotten radiator hose. These troubles are easily remedied, but if the overheating stems from a stopped up radiator it is somewhat more expensive to correct.

Minor faults such as these might be allowed to pass on many used car lots — but not at Pinder's. Thorough inspection and overhaul correct the hidden defects that might escape detection — just as they correct the major troubles that are easily seen.

Eskimos Win Third Grey Cup In Row; Crush Alouettes Under 50-27 Score

Eskys' Bone-Crushing Tackles Great Running and Blocking Swept Through Lark Defence

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, a hard-hitting football team with an imaginative coach and a Canadian quarterback who mixed his plays well, have once more triumphed in the Canadian grid final over a weak-tackling crew of Montreal Alouettes, whose touted passing offensive was no match for the Eskimo defence.

Eskimos won their third successive Grey Cup championship at Varsity Stadium Saturday afternoon by trouncing Alouettes 50-27 and the score was a close indication of the play as the Eskimos of Frank Ivy made this the most convincing all-around triumph of their three straight over Montreal.

The Alouettes just couldn't stand up under the bone-crushing tackling of the Eskimos, who also gave their offensive ball carriers great running room with accurate and solid blocking. The record 448 yards rushing run up by the Eskis is ample proof of the effectiveness of Ivy's versatile split-T attack.

The game, although not as exciting as the 1954 final won 26-25 by Edmonton or the 1955 game won 34-19 by Edmonton despite the record passing of quarterback Sam Etcheverry of Alouettes, produced several records and many outstanding performances.

MATCHES STREAK

It made Eskimos the fourth team in Cup history to win the championship three times in a row equalling the feats of the University of Toronto in 1909-10-11, Queen's University, 1922-23-24 and Toronto Argonauts, 1945-46-47.

The formula of coach Pop Ivy, whose unbeaten football planning has won Eskimos the Grey Cup for each of the years he has been in Canadian football, took the championship West for the seventh time since 1950.

Important in that formula Saturday was Don Getty, 22-year-old from London, Ont., who became the Canadian to start at quarterback in a Grey Cup game since 1947 when Fred Doc Hanford Argos. With cool efficiency that installed confidence in the rest of his teammates, Getty called a tremendous offensive game.

Jackie Parker, who moved to the halfback slot when Getty took over the pivot, scored three touchdowns and a single to break a one-game cup scoring record first set in 1913. He ran up a rushing total of 129 yards and played great defensive football to become perhaps the most outstanding player in the game.

Eskimos had eight completions in 17 attempts. Getty completed all eight on 15 heaves for 102 yards. Parker and Rollie Miles each attempted one. Johnny Bright caught three passes for 60 yards; Parker got two for 27 yards. Getty and Parker each had one pass intercepted.

BRIGHT RUNS FOR 106

Bright, fullback who has been a major cog in all three Edmonton touchdown drives, ran up 106 yards rushing in 34 carries to lead the ground gainers. Miles, a brilliant defensive player, got 71 yards in 10 carries from offensive half, while he played for three quarters.

Fullback Normie Kwong, who picked up 125 yards on 20 carries in last year's final, was not worked too much Saturday. He lugged the ball 17 times for 53 yards.

On the other side of the line, fullback Pat Abruzzi, leading scorer and ground-gainer in the Big Four Football Union this season, was the big Montreal rusher. He went for 79 yards in 13 carries for an average of 6.5. Halfback Bob Jamieson recorded a total of 90 yards on seven thrusts. He averaged 11.1 yards.

Four Alouettes, Hal Patterson, chosen this year as the outstanding player in Canadian football, made spectacular catches of Etcheverry forwards, led the Montreal scoring and turned in a fine defensive game.

Patterson's performance, however, was not enough and only for the opening minutes did Alouettes hold an upper hand. The Montrealers led 7-6 after the first quarter 16-13 at the half, 30-27 at the second and 30-19 early in the third after trailing 19-14 at halftime. In the third quarter Eskimos ran up a 37-30 margin.

Shuffle-footed Parker, whose 85-yard run gave Eskimos their 1954 Cup victory and a quarter that was masterminded of Kaka' 1955 triumph also added to single to his three touchdowns Saturday.

GETTY GETS TWO

Getty, understudy to Parker through 1955 and until the second game of the Western final this season, had his winning performance with two plunges for Eskimos and a touchdown pass to Parker.

Bright also got two touchdowns, as he did a year ago. End Joe Mobra kicked four converts in six attempts and booted a 25-yard field goal. Moore didn't get a chance at the convert try on the single touchdown by Parker because no football was available. The crowd had taken the one from the field and the man with the football supply disappeared.

Patterson scored two Alouette touchdowns, one on a forward pass from Etcheverry, the other on an end run. Etcheverry also plunged for a touchdown as did fullback Pat Abruzzi. Bill Bewley kicked three converts.

SHATTERS RECORD

Parker's scoring total of 19 points surpassed the one-game record of 15 points first set in 1913 by Ross Craig of Hamilton and equalled by Lionel Conacher of Toronto Argonauts in 1921 and by Red Storey of Argos in 1938. The value of the touchdown was increased to six points from five this year, but even with a five point touchdown Parker would have broken the mark.

The Tennessee native now has 24 points in three Cup games, just six points less than Joe Krol, who in seven years with Hamilton and Toronto clubs ran up 30 points.

Patterson and Bright, with their 13 points Saturday, moved into a fourth-place tie in the all-time scoring with 22 points each, one less than Pep Leadley of Hamilton.

As a team, the Eskimos had the major hand in 11 tournament and several cup game records. Their 448 yards rushing was eight more than the previous mark they set last year. With Alouettes 191, the two-team total of 639 in one game also passed the 566-yard record set by the same teams in 1955.

MOST TOUCHDOWNS

The 11 touchdowns, seven of them scored by Eskimos, surpassed by two the previous one-game mark set in 1923 when Queen's University walloped Regina 54-0. That game also had held the highest number of points scored in a game until Saturday, when Esks and Alouettes together got 77.

Saturday the Eskimos were masters in every respect. Unlike last year when Etcheverry was able to complete 30 of 39 passes for a record 366 yards in a losing cause, Eskimos this time hamstring the great duffer.

He got only 15 completions in 28 tries for 232 yards and when the Edmonton line, led by Frank Anderson, Roger Nelson and Reed Henderson, continually rushed in on him, he had to hurry and had four attempts intercepted. Many times he was thrown for yardage losses before he could get the ball away.

On the ground, the Als got 191 yards, most of which came in the first half before the vicious tackling of Eskimos had taken effect. In the second half, with their backfielders battered into weakness, Als had to go on passes that didn't click.

MIXED 'EM UP

Eskimos, who three times during Western play this year scored 50 points or more, had an excellent offensive. Ivy threw the Alouettes a fair passing attack and a wide-open split-T ground game in which a three-way lateral play around the end was a major yardage maker.

Getty pitched out to Parker and Parker pitched further out to Miles on the play, which several times went for gains of 10 to 15 yards. It was a seldom-used formation during the Western season.

It was obvious in the first few minutes that Etcheverry would have trouble getting his passes away successfully. Anderson and Bill Walker threw the Riffe for losses of 10 and 15 yards during the opening five minutes.

With Abbruzzi and Bob James carrying through and around the middle, Parker Ala were rolling well and when Bruce Coulter intercepted a Parker forward attempt at the Edmonton 45 they moved in five ground plays to Patterson's nine-yard touch down run.

ESKS START

Eskimos ground control game then began to take hold. It took them 11 plays from their 43 to score with Bright crashing off tackle behind Nelson's blocking to get the touchdown.

Miles and Steve Mendryk combined for a 28-yard return on an Etcheverry punt to set the stage for another Edmonton touchdown drive. Bright gained 24 yards on a quick-opening over-centre play and after a punt exchange, Eskimos marched 30 yards in five plays to set up Getty's touchdown plunge from a yard out.

The Riffe then found some passing room and with pitches to James for 14 yards and to Abbruzzi for 24, be moved to the Edmonton 37 from where he threw to Patterson, who made a spectacular catch for a touchdown.

A few plays later, Etcheverry again put fear into Western hearts when he hit Bob Pascal with a 15-yard throw to the Edmonton 30, but Pascal fumbled and Oscar Kruger of Eskimos recovered.

TRADE INTERCEPTIONS

Bruce Coulter intercepted a Getty forward attempt on the Montreal 17 late in the quarter to stop an Eskimo drive but linebacker Ted Tully got the ball right back for Edmonton, intercepting Etcheverry's throw on the first play and running back 11 yards to the Montreal 34. Parker was wide on an attempted field goal from the 25-yard line.

From the Montreal six-yard line at the 40, but Will Rowekamp was called for interference and Als were out of danger. Not for long, however. A Getty-to-Miles-to-Parker pitchout went for 21 yards. A Getty-to-Miles forward through the line for 16 to set up Getty's 10-yard pass to Parker at the goal line for a touchdown with three seconds left to the half.

One of the few breaks in the game went to Alouettes in the third quarter opened. On the first running play after the kickoff, Bright fumbled and Don Hutcheson recovered for Als at the Edmonton 16. On the fifth play, Etcheverry went over centre to score and give Als a 20-19 lead.

Parker punties from the Montreal 40 to the deadline for a single a few minutes later to tie the score and when Joey Pal tried to take a Parlor punt on the run and fumbled, Mike Kmetz, an Eskimo rookie, recovered at the Montreal 15. Bright was rushed for three yards, Bright went off tackle for 16 and a touchdown.

BOOTS FIELD GOAL

Miles intercepted an Etcheverry pass on the first play and ran 21 yards to the Montreal 45. Esks moved to the 18 before Bright dropped and Mobra kicked a field goal.

Another interception, this time by Don Hutcheson, set up Als after it went through Pal's fingers started Eskimos on a 63-yard downfield march stopped by Getty's one-yard plunge to score.

The second kickoff fell behind lineman Herb Trawick and bounced back to Eskimos centre Don Barry at the Montreal 31. After a punt exchange, Edmonton got the ball on the 39-yard line and with a 22-yard Getty-to-Bright forward, moved in three plays to the Als' 25 where Parker leaped over.

A few plays later the Eskimos drove Alouettes back to their own eight-yard line, from where Etcheverry passed to James for 30 yards, to Red O'Quinn for 22 to Patterson for 13 and to James for 8 to set up Abruzzi's two-yard plunge to score.

In the dying minutes, Etcheverry attempted a third-down forward that was knocked down and Eskimos came over at the Montreal 24. Getty passed to Parker for 16 yards and Parker raced around end for a touchdown on what proved the last play of the game.

Parker punted 12 times for an average of 32.8 yards a kick. Eskimos end Bill Walker kicked twice for an average of 31.5. Etcheverry kicked 11 times, averaging 37 yards.

Eskimos made 23 first downs, 34 with their crushing ground offensive. Als had 26 first downs, 13 rushing.

Revenue from the game, estimated at around $363,000, is expected to be a record. The previous mark was $294,682.

An attendance record of 27,425 fans for Varsity Stadium was also set. The previous high for Varsity was the 27,391 turnout in 1952. However, this was far below the 30,417 attendance figure at Vancouver's Empire Stadium last year.

EASTERN DIVISION TOP TEN

Belleville's Minnie Menard fired four goals and earned two assists over the past week to climb into a point tie with Whitby's Bob Attersley for the league leadership at 28 points each. Playing-coach Gagnon trails the pair by a scant one point while Jean-Paul Payette of Belleville, had four goals and five assists to take over the next spot with 22 points.

Menard leads all goal-scorers with a total of 16 while Attersley's 17 assists leads Payette by one in that department. Maurice Benoit of Belleville, is the loop's badman with 63 minutes served. Gillis Boisvert still tops the league goalies with a 3.42 average, but the Ottawa custodian's mark increased nine percentage points.

Minor Hockey

Maple Leafs, Browns, Canadiens and Black Hawks each picked up two points in the bantam section of the Belleville-Minor Hockey Association on Saturday morning by gaining victories.

The Leafs defeated the Rangers 3-1. P. Armstrong tallied twice for the Leafs with J. Lewis getting the odd goal. Mulloy assisted on all three while Archer helped on one. T. Bowers scored for the Rangers with Barrett assisting.

Canadiens shut out the Barons 2-0 for their victory. Burley and D. Fitzgerald each fired one goal, both unassisted.

Muirhead sparked the Browns to a 6-1 triumph over the Bruins. He tallied twice with the other goals going to Paul and Butcher. Hessing earned one helper. Maund was the lone Bruin marksman with D. Rose assisting.

Simmons, Lyle Adams, R. Jones and J. Jarratt scored for the Black Hawks as they downed the Red Wings 4-2. G. Chase, Peoples, Adams, K. Rushlow, Brooks and J. Wilson each earned an assist. B. Duggan and Scott scored the Wing goals while Pointer had one assist.

Highlight of Cup Classic

TORONTO (CP) — Ted Workman, vice-president of Montreal Alouettes, smiled wistfully as the Grey Cup was carried past him on the sidelines near the Edmonton Eskimos' bench and said:

"There she is — and there she goes."

Harry McBrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, presented the cup to Edmonton president Moe Leiberman and team captain Normie Kwong at least a full minute before the end of the game.

Best loser's quote — from a torqued Alouette supporter five minutes before the end with the score 44-20 for Edmonton:

"Okay, I concede—love those Eskis."

Edmonton Mayor William Hawrelak performed the honorary kickoff chore with a 30-yard boot. The ball was held in a tee.

Governor - General Massey sat in a 35-yard line box with CFRU reporter Ken Montgomery of Edmonton. Before the game, he shook hands with the team captains—Normie Kwong and Jackie Parker of Edmonton and Herb Trawick, Sam Etcheverry, Tom Hugo and Juan Sheridan of Alouettes.

Coach Walker disappeared after the game. He was called on to speak at the civic reception but couldn't be found. Most players from both teams attended the buffet.

Mayor Nathan Phillips got his teams mixed up in a speech to the reception guests. "I want to congratulate the winners — the Alouettes," he said. A big cheer went up from the crowd, but the mayor recovered quickly and smilingly added: "I've always said it doesn't matter who wins, it's the game that counts."

Attractive Juanita Etcheverry, wife of the Alouette quarterback Sam Etcheverry, took the defeat as hard as any of the players. She cried openly when the Alouettes fell hopelessly behind.

The downtown hotel lobbies were crowded after the game that no Edmonton supporter was heard to quip: "Even Normie Kwong couldn't get through here."

You have to be a football player to get any kind of reaction from folks in Toronto on Grey Cup day. Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League arrived at Union Station, shouldered through hundreds of boisterous football addicts and were ignored by everybody.

Residents in the area around Varsity Stadium had a good view of the game from their upper-storey windows and also made money. They rented parking spaces for cars on their front lawns and in their driveways.

Both Chicoutimi and Montreal won by shutouts in Quebec Hockey League action Sunday, the Saguenens blanking Shawinigan Falls 4-0 and the Royals defeating Trois-Rivieres 3-0.

Chicoutimi's victory widened to three points the club's lead over the second-place Quebec Aces, who were idle. Montreal's win broke a third-place tie with the Lions.

Norwegian Star Hurls Javelin Longest Distance in History; Canadian Crews Reach Finals

MELBOURNE (CP)—The longest javelin throw in history highlighted a brilliant afternoon in track and field at the Olympic Games today while University of British Columbia crews were putting on impressive performances 70 miles away to win two berths for Canada in the Olympic rowing finals.

Egil Danielsen of Norway turned in the first world record track and field performance of the 1956 Games when he won the gold medal in the javelin throw with a tremendous heave of 281 feet, 2½ inches. The mighty throw wiped out the world mark of 274 feet, 52 inches set by Janusz Sidlo of Poland earlier this year, as well as the modest Olympic record of 262 feet 7¼ inch set by Cy Young of the United States.

Meanwhile, on Lake Wendouree, 70 miles to the west of the stadium, the UBC crews came through in the semi-final events for eights and fours without exception to carry Canada's colors into the finals.

OUTCLASS FRANCE

The fours crew outclassed France and the other two contenders with a 12-length victory over the French shell, leading all the way. The eights also had little trouble in their semi-final, coming in well ahead of second-place Sweden.

The finals will pit the eights crew once more against the Yale oarsmen from the U.S., the pre-tournament favorites who finished behind the Canadians in the preliminaries. The other finalists are Australia and Sweden.

In the fours final, the Canadians come up against another American crew from the Detroit Boat Club, along with Italy and France. And the talk in the UBC camp today was high on the prospect of two Canadian gold medals.

PICK UP POINTS

At the stadium, the Americans continued to pick up points toward the unofficial but unprecedented over-all team championship. Their victories today put them still further ahead of the second-place athletes from the Soviet Union.

American record fell when Bert Bob Richards, the pole-vaulting parson from California, won the Olympic title for the second straight time. His winning jump was an even 15 feet, 13½ inches which tied his own 1952 mark, and after clinching the gold medal he cleared 14 feet 11¾ inches for the record. But he failed in an attempt to become the first to clear 15 feet in Olympic competition.

The big crowd of 100,000 at the Melbourne Cricket Ground got their first chance to cheer a 1956 Australian gold medal winner when Betty Cuthbert won the women's 100-metre final. The fleet Australian miss tied the official record of 11.5 seconds set in 1932 by her fellow countrywoman Marjorie Jackson. Actually, Miss Cuthbert had broken this record Saturday in the preliminary heats with a time of 11.4, but this record has not yet become official.

The 800-metre men's final provided the thrilling finish of the day when Tom Courtney of the U.S. won by a stride over Britain's Derek Johnson in a driving final sprint with Norway's Audun Boysco right on their heels. The first four finishers broke the Olympic record of 1:49.2 and the fifth man tied it. Courtney's winning time was 1:47.7.

Bruce Kirby of Montreal made the best showing for Canada in the day's other aquatic events, finishing fifth among 26 competitors in the 14-foot dinghy class on the first day of Olympic yachting competition.

Other Canadian yachtsmen didn't fare as well, as Tomahawk, skipped by Dave Howard of Port Arthur with his brother Clifford and Donald Tytler of Toronto as crew, finished seventh of 15 competitors in elapsed time in the Dragon class. A protest later moved them up to sixth.

Mahana of Vancouver, with Eugene Fennell and George Parsons, was 11th and last in the Star class.

The Beaver, sailed by Dr. Archie Cameron and W. G. Thomas of Montreal, came to grief in the Sharpie class event as a 30-mile-an-hour gust overturned it and two others.

Canadians didn't share in the track and field glory as Stan Levenseen of Toronto withdrew from the 200 metres with a pinched leg muscle and Joe Foreman and Jack Farrington, also from Toronto, failed to qualify. Doug Kyle of Vancouver ran out in the 5,000 metres preliminaries.

Jerry Gratton of Montreal, a hope in the weightlifting on his second-place showing in 1952, lost out today with an overweight disqualification in the middle-weight division. Boxer Ralph Hosack of Asolin of Montreal also suffered elimination.

Manchester U. Spurs Tie 2-2

LONDON (AP) — Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur, the two big fifties of English League soccer, fought a 2-2 tie in the highlight match of Saturday's program.

A crowd of 57,324, including players from the Yugoslavia national side and Hungary's Red Banner squad, turned out. The league-leading United team came from behind to knot the score two minutes before the end of the game.

The tie kept Manchester on top of the First Division with 28 points to 26 for second-place Tottenham.

Leeds United climbed into third second-tall rally against Arsenal to gain a 3-3 tie after being three goals down at halftime. Centre forward John Charles, who slammed in two goals, led the Leeds revival. Leeds is third in the first division with 23 points.

In the second division, Stoke City defeated Bristol 2-1 and took over first place on goal average from Leicester, both have 26 points. Leicester lost 2-1 to West Ham United despite a hard-pressing attack.

Giants, Bears Battle to Tie

The Bears now are 7-1-1.

The Cards had a much easier time of it in beating Pittsburgh 38-27. The victory left them at 6-3 while the Giants head the Eastern halt of the circuit with a 6-2-1 record.

In the other games, Washington Redskins defeated ground New York by winning their fifth in a row 20-17 over Cleveland Browns, Baltimore Colts shellacked Los Angeles Rams 56-21 and San Francisco tied Philadelphia 10-10.

AT THE PARK — Joan Taylor and Adele Jergens starring with Richard Denning in "Girls in Prison" . . . a story of 1,000 caged love-starved women. "Girls in Prison" an American-International Picture is now showing at the Park Theatre. On the same program "Hot Rod Girl", starring Lori Nelson, John Smith and Chuck Connors. Both shockers are having their first city showings.

Olympics Standing

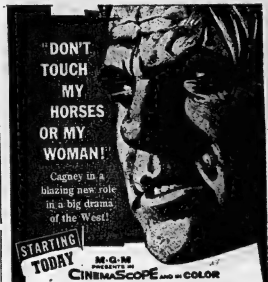
MELBOURNE (CP)—A continuing string of surprises in weightlifting and track-and-field events today moved the United States far into the lead in the unofficial Olympic point standings.

The standings, unofficial because Olympic records recognize only individual performances; are determined by awarding points on a 10-5-4-3-2-1- basis to the first six in each final event.

With tonight's events still to come, here was the standing among the 67 competing countries:

1. United States 157
2. Russia 97
3. Germany 52½
4. Sweden 42
5. Italy 36
6. Britain 33½
7. Australia 33
8. Poland 21
9. Norway 14
10. Hungary 13
11. Korea, Czechoslovakia 11
12. New Zealand 10
14. France, Iran 9
16. Denmark 7
17. Canada and Japan 6
19. Switzerland, Argentina 5
21. Finland, Trinidad, Greece 4
24. Bulgario, Nigeria 2
26. Spain, South Africa, Yugoslavia 1

START 10-PINS



WINDSOR (CP)—The first 56 of 82 provincial 10-pin teams scheduled to take part in the first annual 10-pin bowling tournament bowled Saturday and Sunday.

The tournament, being run this weekend and next, will see each team bowl three strings. Alex Thompson of Port Colborne has the high single of the play so far with a 244.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, November 27, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — One of the most benefic and generous planetary days imaginable. Hard work, labor, trades, undertakings of vast scope, professions, science, the art are under vigorous good aspects. Forward!

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Fine rays for enterprising and ambitious (but reasonable) folks to make progress in their own work and in allied activities. New projects also favored. Push firmly ahead whether in trade or profession.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Enthusiasm and imagination should be high, and you can be in the swim of things — profitably. However, don't be reckless; stop to think how, what you should undertake, first. Wise planning pays.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon strongly favors personal achievement, gains in home, family interests, in matters pertaining to the sea, in culinary or decorations. A grand day in which to advance honorably.

July 24 to August 23 — (Leo) — Your stars' splendid positions indicate that, if you make your talents, capability and time count smartly, you can have a productive, progressive day all the way.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Mercury's fine aspect suggests that you speed ahead in your own interests, in activities that can bring new goals, outside objectives of value. You should be mentally keen, vitally alive.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Sound matters; government and private interests, manufacturing and dealing in commodities needed urgently now and later, and issues pertaining to public welfare strongly encouraged.

October 24 to November 23 — (Scorpio) — A highly promising day for hard work, road building, railroading, engineering, handling machinery, tools, electronics, most branches of science. Students, new inventions also favored.

November 23 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter's position could indicate to go carefully, slowly in finances. Don't expand beyond reason. But, on the whole, the day encourages all-out effort to succeed honorably.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Saturn suspicious-ly situated; most encouraging for your interests and activities, for sports, teaching, research; dealing in metals, jewelry.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — The unusual and unique as well as the familiar and well established under new fine influences. A day for wise experimenting, for changing to newer and more efficient methods and equipment.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — While sensible caution is stressed in making delicious as well as marital and confidential matters, the influences are friendly and you should make good progress.

You born today are versatile, active, like to be usefully occupied and are eager to attain. You are frank, outspoken, impulsive, generous; willing to aid where you can. Your industriousness brings opportunities your way. Make sound use of worthwhile opportunities and let your versatility add to their value. You are the worker, diligent, intelligent, usually reasonable; fine assets that make for quick advancement and lasting success. Don't be too impulsive in action, or allow yourself to be imposed upon through your sympathetic nature.

SPECIAL SESSION

PROCEDURE UNCERTAIN

Exact procedure to be followed in the debate on the government's proposals was to be known until after the Commons meets sometime after 3 p.m. However, it is understood the House first will debate the throne speech and then deal with legislation to provide the funds for the police force and Hungarian relief.

Two Liberals who have been attending the UN General Assembly meetings in New York will move and second the address in reply to the speech from the throne. They are Gerard Legace (L—Hinsouki), mover, and Anton B. Weselak (L—Springfield), seconder.

If the throne speech is debated first, Hon. W. Earl Rowe, acting leader of the Opposition, will launch the Conservative case against the government on Tuesday. He will be followed by Prime Minister St. Laurent, CCF leader Coldwell and Social Credit leader Solon Low.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, Defence Minister Campney and John Diefenbaker, Opposition foreign affairs critic, are expected to be early speakers in the debate.

Mr. Pearson returned to Ottawa Sunday from the UN meeting. He had been attending meetings of the UN General Assembly. He said he expects the Canadian position on the Middle East issue will be outlined by the government. Mr. Pearson would speak later, particularly in connection with events at the UN.

When met by reporters at Uplands airport, the minister said he was reserving comment on the Middle East for the House debate. However, he did express satisfaction at the movements of the UN police force into Egypt.

"The United Nations police force is moving ahead with an amazing speed considering the problems involved in the organization of the force and considering that all this started from scratch with no precedent," he said.

Mr. Pearson said he expects to be in Ottawa for the duration of the session unless an "emergency" should arise at the General Assembly.

DECIDE STRATEGIES

Strategy of the various parties in the debate was to be decided at caucuses this morning.

The Senate's role in the special session will be confined to formalities. The upper house usually has little or nothing to say on money bills.

Special travelling expenses likely will be granted to members of the Commons and the Senate to cover their costs in travelling to Ottawa for the special session. However, they will receive no extra pay since their annual $8,000 indemnity is paid on a monthly basis. In addition to the indemnity, they receive annually a $2,000 tax-free allowance for expenses.

Canada Ousted By France In Basketball

MELBOURNE (CP) — France eliminated Canada from the championship round of Olympic basketball tournament today by defeating the Canadians 72-62. The subdued French already had advanced and clinched a semi-final berth.

The Canadians were still in the picture at halftime, trailing only by eight points, But the smoothworking French team, upset victors over Russia earlier in the preliminary round, robin play, pulled away steadily towards the end of the game.

It was an agonizing night defeat at the hands of the Russians that pushed Canada to the brink of elimination from championship play. The Canadians defeated winless Singapore in their only other start.

The unbeaten record of the French stamped them as one of the few teams likely to put up a battle against the heavily favored United States entry, which set an Olympic scoring record today in drubbing the Philippines 121-53. The Islanders previously unbeaten, also advance to the semifinals.

Russia also gained a semi-final berth by beating Singapore 91-42. The other semi-finalists are Uruguay, Brazil, Chile and Bulgaria MORE

Lost Ball at Wrong Time Say Al Fans

MONTREAL (CP) — "They should have lost the ball at the beginning of the game, not at the end."

That was the rueful reaction here Saturday as Montreal Alouettes went down to their third straight defeat at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup football clash in Toronto.

Noting on television that the football apparently vanished after Eskimo received a final touchdown in defeating Alouettes 50-27, Mayor Jean Drapeau quipped: "It's no surprise a smile and humorous comment.

"Perhaps the ball should have disappeared at the beginning of the game," he added.

The mayor is an ardent football fan and watched the game on television at city hall where he was held by pressure of work from attending the crucial game.

In more serious vein, he commented that the game may have proved one or two things.

"It may be that the best team on the ground is better than the best team in the air."

Montreal fans—fiercely loyal to the Alouettes—stopped away from their television sets after the game in sore disappointment, but with determined views about next year.

Edmonton Beams Quietly as Victory News Hits City

EDMONTON (CP) — Like the proud father of a third child, this city quietly beamed at Edmonton Eskimos' third consecutive Grey Cup victory over Montreal Alouettes.

For 24 hours Saturday, the streets normally congested with weekend shoppers, were practically deserted. In almost every home and public place, Edmontonians were glued to radio sets, listening to the broadcast of the game from Toronto.

Then the final score was announced—Edmonton 50, Montreal 27—and suddenly the streets were crowded with cars and people. But there were no spontaneous street celebrations. Little of the blaring horns, happy shouting and demonstrations that marked last year's 34-13 Eskimo victory or the 1954 26-25 1954 win, both over the same Alouettes.

SMILES, BACKSLAPPING

Instead there were smiles on practically every face — smiles, grins, handshakes and the occasional backslapping as friends and acquaintances met.

Said a pretty brunette: "It's wonderful all right. But the biggest thrill for me was that a Canadian, Don Getty, quarterbacked the team. That's good for football."

Added a newsstand clerk: "When Edmonton gets a winner, it's really a winner. Gosh knows how many more Grey Cups the Eskimos will win."

A convertible car, decorated with the green and gold colors of the team, roared up and down the city's main thoroughfare—Jasper Avenue—with its horn blaring, bringing answering honks from the drivers of other vehicles. In the convertible's back seat a young man tooted amateurishly on a bugle.

EXTRA EDITION

Corsages and ribbons of green and gold appeared on many coats. The Edmonton Journal published a free eight-page extra edition which hit the streets after the game.

Private parties were held throughout the city Saturday night. In many cases they wound up with the group watching films of the game on television at 1:30 a.m. NST Sunday.

The chief of a police officer on the beat immediately after the game that "this town will really let its hair down tonight" failed to materialize.

Police officials said today that the 26 arrests on various liquor infractions was below average for a Saturday night.

Open Sea Route Will Speed UN Buildup in Egypt

PORT SAID, Egypt (CP) — A British-French decision to let UN police force units enter the Suez Canal Zone by sea as well as by air promised today to speed the buildup of the Middle East peace patrol. But there still was no agreement on plans to replace the occupying forces with UN troops.

The decision to throw open Port Said to ships bringing in additional UN units was made at the request of Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the police force. He conferred here with British and French officers during a four-hour flying trip from Cairo.

Thus far the troops have been flown in by Swiss airliners and RCAF transports from the crowded staging base at Capodichino, near Naples, Italy. They have been landing in small units at Abu Sueir near Ismailia on the Egyptian side of the cease-fire line.

The first seaborne units will be 700 Yugoslav troops, expected to land here Thursday. They will land from three Yugoslav ships.

NO ALLIED CAMPSITE

Lt.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, commander of the British-French force, told correspondents the Yugoslavs would not remain in the northern third of the Canal Zone held by the British and French, but would cross the cease-fire line to the Egyptian side. The bulk of the UN force is standing by on that side, at Abu Sueir, awaiting arrangements for them to take over from the British and French.

Stockwell said Burns indicated he would attend later conferences here to discuss the UN buildup.

The British general said a role for the UN troops in Port Said—now only 130 Norwegians who came by train from Abu Sueir—was discussed with Burns.

"We are examining how possibly to give them a little area of the town which they would be responsible for," Stockwell said.

He added that a plan to have the UN troops join British and French soldiers in patrols has been abandoned. This apparently was in keeping with efforts by allied and UN leaders to avoid any appearance of fraternization among the troops which might compromise the UN troops' neutral role.

Big Row Coming In UN Over Cost Of Clearing Suez

Russia Spearheads Demand Britain, France, Israel Pay

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) A big row is shaping up in the United Nations General Assembly over who will foot the bill for clearing the Suez Canal.

Russia is spearheading a drive to have the assembly declare that Britain, France and Israel should pay the salvage costs, and seemed to be winning support from Asian and Latin American delegations.

Others thought the cost should be covered by the owners and users of the 103-mile waterway.

The General Assembly Monday approved, over Soviet bloc objections, a $10,000,000 grant to pay initial costs of the emergency police force in Egypt. Russia had insisted that Britain, France and Israel should pay these extra dues.

The 79-nation assembly, voting 74 to 9 with 13 abstentions, authorized Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold to draw up to $10,000,000 from the UN working capital fund for the expenses of the force. Canada voted with the majority.

MUST DECIDE

The assembly must decide later this week how it is to be repaid to the capital fund. Hammarskjold had proposed that the cost be shared by all UN members on annual budget. Later he revised the proposal to put the assessment to the assembly's financial committee.

Egypt rejected an offer by Britain and France to help in the Suez clearance until general debris work got start until all British and French troops were out of Egypt. The British admiralty went ahead, however, and announced this week it had cleared a channel 140 feet wide for the northern 11 miles of the canal controlled by British and French forces. The admiralty said they would have it widened to 180 feet — sufficient to pass big ships — within a week.

Latin - American and Asian delegates formed the bulk of the opposition to getting any percentage of the canal salvage costs. It has been estimated that upwards of $40,000,000 will be required to clear the 47 ships and other wrecks reported sunk in the waterway.

SEE INDIAN INSISTENCE

Observers expect India's V. K. Krishna Menon will be the first to be passed on to Britain, France and Israel. He is the assembly's burns the actual cost. In a lengthy speech to the assembly Monday night, he said he contended that the UN should not have to pay.

"If the United Nations is going to indemnify the aggressors, it will encourage the aggressor," he declared.

August H. Linde, Swiss observer at the UN, told Hammarskjold his government had decided to pay the $35,000 share of Swiss UN police units from Naples to Egypt in Swissair planes even though neutral Switzerland is not a UN member. Swiss sources said this was Switzerland's "contribution to the cause of peace in the Middle East."

Soviet Envoy Would Not Stay To Hear Tribute

OTTAWA (CP)—Soviet Ambassador Dmitri S. Chuvahin made a hurried exit from the diplomatic gallery in the Senate Monday in a minute's absence was observed for Hungarian freedom fighters who fell before Russian forces.

The bespectacled ambassador, well-groomed in morning attire, was among members of Ottawa's diplomatic corps who attended the Senate ceremonies opening the special session of Parliament on Canada's contribution to the UN Middle East police force and to Hungarian relief.

When the ceremonies were over and the Senate got down to business, Senator A. K. Hugessen (L—Quebec), acting government leader, proposed that the Senate stand in a minute of silent prayer for Hungarians who paid with their lives "against a tool and brutal tyranny" in Hungary.

Even as the senator proposed this, Mr. Chuvahin was making his way toward the door from his second-row gallery seat.

Other members of the diplomatic corps, including Egyptian Ambassador Hussein el Khatib, remained and joined in the minute's silence.

Prime Minister Hopes Drew Will Soon Be Back

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday repeated his expression of hope that Hon. George Drew, retiring Conservative leader, can assume his seat in the House soon.

Speaking at the opening of the special session of Parliament, Mr. St. Laurent said he had been saddened at the news that ill health had forced Mr. Drew to submit his resignation as party leader.

He said he hopes it will be only a temporary interruption in Mr. Drew's public services "and that circumstances will be such that he will have many more years with us he can enjoy the rest he has contributed in the past, to the advancement of public affairs in this country."

Mr. St. Laurent made the statement as he and other party leaders in the Commons who followed him, referred to Mr. Drew's absence. They also paid tribute to two Conservative members who died since the last session of Parliament: Tom Ross, Liberal member for Hamilton East, and Sibiel Bennett, Conservative member for Halton.

REEVES NEW COURSE

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The national president of the Canadian Restaurant Association said Monday it is time that universities in this country established degree courses in hotel and restaurant management, similar to courses available in several United States colleges. R.S. Sheppard of Aylmer said in an interview the association has taken preliminary steps to interest universities, but definite action may not come immediately.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The storm which brought severe weather to Ontario over the week-end is dying over Western Quebec but heavy precipitation is occurring took place overnight allowing temperatures to fall rapidly with several points reporting close to 20 below zero. A new storm developing north of Lake Winnipeg will move to southern Illinois by Wednesday morning spreading cloud and snow into Northern Ontario late today and Southern Ontario early Wednesday.

B.C. UNIVERSITY OARSMEN WIN OLYMPIC MEDALS

Four Triumphs Easily, Eight Second to Yale

BALLARAT, Australia (CP)—Stalwart crews from the University of British Columbia today gave Canada her finest hour in Olympic rowing history—a gold medal in the fours without coxswain and a silver medal in the eights.

For a few breath-taking minutes there was hope that Canada would sweep to a double triumph, but the gallant UBC eight finally had to settle for second behind a crew who came virtually out of the Olympic discard to snatch a thrilling victory by nearly a length over the Canadians.

The victory of the fours was less sensational only to the extent of the ease with which the UBC boys swept to a five-length victory over the United States crew from the Detroit Boat Club.

ROUNDED OUT DAY

The Yale victory in the eights rounded out the day in which Canada set a new standard, richer than their third gold medal. That list did not include the fifth place of Doug Whitehead, Ottawa, in pre-trial heats of the single sculls and Jack Kelly, Jr., of Philadelphia, making his Olympic debut, in the 10,000 metres. Kelly, who had to take third place behind Stuart Mackenzie of Australia.

The Americans won both the fours and eights without coxswains—and the Russians scored a double victory—gold and silver in single and double sculls.

Italy's four-oared crew with coxswain won the closing race of the day.

It was the UBC gold medal boat were Archie MacKinnon Lorne Loomer, W.A.L. (Bill) Hood and Bruce Arnold.

The Canadians rowed smoothly over the 2,000 metre course to take the lead from France until about the three-mile mark. The Frenchmen gave way to the Americans, who in turn were overtaken by the Canadians.

The UBC boys stepped up their stroke and from there on it was just about as they pleased.

The other crews were battling it out. The Americans had moved ahead of France, and 550 metres from the end the Frenchmen took to challenge the Americans but the latter held on for third place. Italy was last.

CANUCKS' FINISH

The four crew immediately began pulling for the UBC eight, who rowed in the final heat of the day in a heart-breaker when they lost, but it was a marvelous effort to take the Yale men.

SET EARLY PACE

Australia set a sizzling early pace and it seemed impossible for any crew to catch Yale. The Americans and Canadians hung on in a terrific struggle. The Americans were in front at the 1,000-metre mark. They never surrendered the lead after that.

With 400 metres to go the Yale and Canadian crews were level at 36. Canada was fast overtaking Australia. The Americans raised their beat to 38 and then to 40.

PLACE HOPE OF FREEDOM IN U.N.

Govt. Relaxes Immigration Policy for Hungarian Refugees

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government, increasing its Hungarian relief program to $1,000,000, has also relaxed its immigration regulations to permit a stream of refugees to enter Canada from beleaguered Hungary.

Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed to Monday's opening session of the special parliamentary session that Canada will make available $1,000,000 — instead of the originally-planned $200,000—to alleviate the suffering Hungarian freedom fighters underwent at the hands of Soviet guns and tanks.

A total of $200,000 will be made available immediately — $100,000 through the United Nations. The other $800,000 will be distributed at the discretion of the government after it satisfies itself the money will actually go to help the Hungarian people and not for pro-Communist propaganda purposes.

The Commons also got from Immigration Minister Pickersgill assurance that he has issued orders that all unnecessary red tape be cut in admitting Hungarian refugees to Canada.

He said the government has chartered all available Trans-Pacific Airlines planes for an air-Pacific Airlines planes for an airlift. It has reserved all available space on the liner Arosa Star—enough for between 200 and 400 persons leaving Bremerhaven.

Germans peat accident

Senior immigration official has been sent to Vienna with blanket authority to see to it that there is no stoppage in the flow of Hungarian refugees to Canada. The government agreed to vary immigration norms to refugees' camps in Austria, but Austrian authorities advised against this for the time being.

Mr. Pickersgill said he would receive any who can receive in any way, out issue for reception at the border. Transportation is not the problem. The real problem is to get refugees out of camps to these people when they arrive."

He felt many might find jobs.

Dan Vincasovic of CCF speakers, soon said the first of an estimated 20 Hungarian refugees are expected to arrive by C. 3. Sunday direct flights from Amsterdam by Transcontinental Air Services. He said he would be glad to meet them personally.

Mr. Pickersgill told the Commons the world trip by several refugees across Canada. TCA flights would be made direct to Vancouver.

He admitted concern about some refugees who might be problems to themselves and to the government for years. The government alone could not make them happier or better off.

"We can do our part and the help we can get if this thing is to be a real success and a credit to Canada."

Hungarian Puppet Premier Steps up Attack on Nagy

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Hungary's Soviet - controlled government has stepped up its propaganda attack on ex-Premier Imre Nagy, apparently in a new attempt to discredit anti-Soviet workers demanding Nagy's return to power.

Premier Janos Kadar made a strong personal attack on the ex-premier, admitting that he is in exile in Romania and linking him with "counter-revolutionaries." Kadar said now are making "impossible demands" on the Hungarian government.

Kadar conceded that Hungary's economy still is crippled and chaotic because of strikes and passive resistance. He said work started shortly after the Soviet suppression of the country but we cannot say that production is normal. There are still local and very damaging strikes."

Reports from Budapest said there was a general trend toward resumption of work but that many factories were still idle. This was attributed to unrepaired machinery in some cases and to passive resistance by workers in others.

The Budapest workers' council was promoting the back-to-work movement, but at the same time it still insisted that the Communist government must meet popular demands for the withdrawal of Russian troops and the return of Nagy.

Three Sittings Daily of House Will Be Held

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons agreed Monday to hold morning, afternoon and evening sittings every day except Sunday while the emergency session of Parliament debates the Middle East crisis.

The motion, proposed by Prime Minister St. Laurent, caused some minor wrangling, ruffling the usually thin prevailed in the House opening.

Mr. St. Laurent originally proposed that most routine business be suspended during the debate. He was sure the public wanted Parliament to devote as much time as possible to the crisis.

However, Hon. Earl Rowe, acting leader of the Opposition, suggested that what Mr. St. Laurent was proposing was a "rather drastic step." The House should be given notice of the motion.

Mr. St. Laurent had spoken about the public wanting Parliament to get on with the job, but there are many Canadians, said Mr. Rowe, who believe Parliament should have met two weeks ago.

As a result of the prime minister's motion, the Commons will sit daily from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. This speed-up of proceedings normally is the privilege of the end of a long regular session and is unusual for the start of one.

BURNS PREPARES TO MOVE TROOPS FROM THEIR CAMP

Headquarters Shift To Qantara Planned

CAIRO (AP)—The commander of the UN police force made plans today to shift his headquarters close to the cease-fire line and to move his troops from their camp in the Gaza strip in the Suez Canal zone.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian commander of UNEF (UN emergency force), said he has no immediate plans to move any more troops into Port Said, seat of the British-French occupation, or to leave the northern 27 miles of the Suez Canal Zone.

So far only 190 Norwegians have been stationed in Port Said and they are not to leave their control duties from the British and French. The rest of the force is camped at Abu Suweir, behind the Egyptian lines.

Burns held a press conference he plans to move his headquarters to Qantara "in the relatively near future" from Cairo to Qantara, Qantara is 25 miles south of Port Said and 20 miles by road to cease-fire line at El Cap.

TO TAKE OVER CAMPS

The general said arrangements were being made for the police to take over the camps in the Gaza strip from the Israelis. Burns said he had been told by Israeli officials that they have been bringing home battalions with more than 1,000 men each. It will take two to be used as a transit camp for battalion troops moving out of the area, he said. More Canadians arrived Monday, increasing total in the area.

The Royal Canadian Air force has been forming UNEF men from their camps at Port Said and from chartered planes of Swissair and Trans-World Airlines. The pool of 1,119 planes included 122 Indian paratroopers and 12,000 pounds of mail.

British headquarters in Port Said announced that clearing operations in the southern portion of the Suez Canal had freed the first of 12 ships trapped in the waterway since the beginning of hostilities early in November.

The 19,500-ton British ship Harpagus was dug out and the British officials said six and possibly 10 more ships farther south will be cleared out of the Egyptian left them still past the ceasefire zone. The Harpagus was to leave here for the Red Sea channel the British have cleared to their side of the canal. At El Cap, a 180-foot channel will be cleared for all the ships to be escorted within a week.

DENIES EXPULSION

The Egyptian government denied that 13,000 British nationals have been expelled from Egypt. In part, would be expelled from Egypt, Information officials said 155 were Jewish, while others included British, French, Italians and Yugoslavs.

OTTAWA (CP)—In the sharpest Commons split over foreign affairs in years, the Progressive Conservative opposition has condemned the government's course in the Suez crisis.

Hon. Earl Rowe, acting Opposition leader, Monday said the government had repudiated Britain for taking armed action in Egypt to turn over the canal to Israel and the Middle East from Soviet domination.

He said in the Commons that Canada is contributing troops to a United Nations police force which Egypt's President Nasser plans to use as a means of forcing British and French troops from the UN then "allowed Nasser to turn over the police force, the troops should not leave Canada."

Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that Canada had not condemned British and French intervention.

EXPRESSED REGRET

He said Canada had expressed regret at the Anglo-French action but believed they had taken the step under what they considered the circumstances. Canada would have been remiss in not supporting the UN Security Council action as a shield to obscure "the horrible international crimes" it was committing in Hungary.

Mr. St. Laurent declared the UN, not Nasser, will control the composition of the police force, where it will be stationed and how long it will stay.

CCF leader Coldwell said he could only regret that the British action. It had forfeited the moral leadership which Britain had built up in the world. The United Kingdom had been provoked, but it should have taken the matter to the UN first.

Social Credit leader Low, in apparent support of the Conservative position, said Canada should have given moral backing to France and Britain. Instead, Canada had rebuked them, put herself on Russia's side in the UN and followed a "foolish United States policy."

The four leaders put forward policy statements but Parliament speedily got down to business in the first day of a special session called to approve contributions for Canada's commitment to the UN Middle East force and to vote the $1,500,000 for relief of Hungarian refugees.

Governor - General Massey opened the session in a Senate ceremony, reading the throne speech from which out those two aims. He also announced the government made clear the Canadian commitment to the UN force will be "substantially less than the $1,775,000,000 defence budget approved earlier this year."

The session opened by Liberal members Gerard Legare of Brandon, Man., and Ross Macdonald of Springfield, Man., who moved and seconded traditional motion of approval of the throne speech.

'Sentimental Gentleman of Swing,' Tommy Dorsey Chokes in His Sleep

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Band leader Tommy Dorsey choked to death in his sleep, a medical examiner says.

Dr. C. Stanley Kamp said the 51-year-old bespectacled "sentimental gentleman of swing" vomited in his sleep and choked to death on food particles. Dr. Kamp said he found the famous trombonist at about 2 a.m. Monday.

Dorsey's wife, Jane Jeanie, who was using him for divorce, was in the house when he died, as were two of their children, but it was 12 hours later before the death was discovered.

His booking agent, Vincent Carbone, got no answer to a telephone call in the afternoon. Dorsey had spoken about the public wanting Parliament to get on with the job, but there are many Canadians, said Mr. Rowe, who believe Parliament should have met two weeks ago.

As a result of the prime minister's motion, the Commons will sit daily from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. This speed-up of proceedings normally is the privilege of the end of a long regular session and is unusual for the start of one.

known. He ate a heavy Italian meal with his wife and mother-in-law in their home in Greenwich before going to his basement den. Mrs. Tim Burns, his personal manager, said Dorsey was last reported to be at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore that he was developing an ulcer.

A note Dorsey left added to the mystery when police opened the door to enter the case. Finally the text of the note was disclosed by police.

In the note Barzie said Dorsey had a habit of leaving notes written by the dozens Dorsey thanked his wife for the dinner and added: "I love you Jane." Barzie is his sixyear-old daughter.

His second marriage was to actress Pat Dane. His third wife, Janie, sued for divorce last month, charging intolerable cruelty.

Dorsey was an Irish Catholic, but as a twice divorced person he cannot be buried in the church. Services will be held Thursday in a New York funeral home. He will be buried beside his father in Pennsylvania.

Rising Tide of Anti-U.S. Sentiment Noted Among British Conservatives

LONDON (Reuters)—Sharp criticism of United States policy in the Middle East is voiced in Britain's press today while two newspapers report a rising tide of anti-American feeling among Conservative members of Parliament.

The Times joins other newspaper critics of American handling of the Suez crisis in saying the United States world leaders "condemn the United States to aware of the immediate danger that Russian influence may increase in Egypt and Syria.

Diplomatic correspondents of The News Chronicle and The Daily Express report that there is a growing sentiment among Conservatives in the House of Commons.

The Express correspondents say there are signs the Conservatives "will eventually swallow the pill of the Suez withdrawal though they still want sugar-coating — some guarantee about the United Nations forces."

The Times says Britain must bring down the government to put Mr. Hugh Gaitskell (the Labor party leader) in power. "We are already looking for fresh scapegoats and some are pushing President Eisenhower for the dock."

The Daily Express political correspondent says Conservative members embittered "by the belief that officials of the United States Embassy in London have been briefing Socialist members of Parliament to bolster up charges of collusion between Britain, France and Israel at the outset of the Egypt crisis."

Some newspapers prominently display reports that Field Marshal of the Royal Air Force Sir John Slessor to "dampen down anti-American feeling throughout this country" because a united West will be the only hope of a sensible policy.

Today's Times' editorial comments: "Surely it is time for President Eisenhower to show some awareness that there is other work to be—done in the Middle East beside ensuring the withdrawal of British and French troops from Port Said."

The Times says President Eisenhower may be waiting, before assessing broader policies, to have his talks with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Believe Woman Accident Victim, Not Murdered

BRAMPTON (CP) — Police say an unidentified woman found dying on a side road five miles southwest of here Monday probably was the victim of an accident in which the driver did not stop.

After an autopsy they said the possibility of deliberate murder has not been ruled out, but the accident theory is most likely.

First reports indicated the woman, found unclothed at the side of the dead-end road, was beaten and left to die. The autopsy revealed she had been struck from behind by a car.

She suffered a ruptured spleen, fractured pelvis and punctured lungs. Police say their only clue to her identity is a laundry mark taken from her shirt.

She was described as 35, 5 feet old, five feet four inches tall, 110 pounds, with dark brown hair and poor teeth. She was wearing a brown overcoat, red sweater, blue plaid skirt and brown, high-heeled shoes. Her slip was found a short distance away.

Only One Convict Still at Large

REGINA (CP) — One of five convicts who broke out of Regina jail Saturday night after attempting to lead a mass break was still at large Monday.

The others, including the suspected ringleader, Dennis Reed, a 29-year-old American formerly of Calgary, have been reapprehended. One was serving one year for a morals offence.

Police were still searching for Donald Mountenay, 20, of Regina, who had been sentenced to a year for car theft.

Former Chief Chas. Lockwood Given 4 Years

Charles Lockwood, 34, former police chief at Marmora, was sentenced to four years in penitentiary yesterday by Judge W. S. Lane, of Picton, after he was found guilty by a 12-man jury of theft of $8,500 from a mail bag at Marmora post office on August 15.

The jury deliberated for one hour before returning its verdict.

A second charge, possession of stolen money, was to be considered by the jury as an alternative in the event they found Lockwood guilty of the first count.

The ex-chief sat beside his counsel, Arthur Fair, of Peterborough, and paled noticeably as Judge Lane passed sentence.

Lockwood was arrested on August 29 by O.P.P. Corporal Douglas Sears, of Madoc, after O. P. P. Criminal Investigations Branch inspectors Vern Walmsley and Robert Wannell checked into his alibi.

He told them that on the afternoon of August 15 he found $270 in U.S. currency scattered along the Marmora — Deloro sideroad. Nine days later, the chief told police, he found $5,000 in American bills near the spot he had made the first find. After discovering the booty the chief said he returned to his Marmora office, placed the money in his filing cabinet, walked the street in an attempt to figure out what to do with his find, returned to his office and hid it in a secret compartment in his desk. However, Mrs. Bernell said he had waited for Lockwood in the office all afternoon and was rather amazed when he did not see the chief enter and put the money in the desk.

Another witness said Lockwood was doing business with him in Peterborough that afternoon.

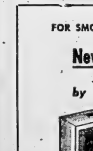
DID NOT REVEAL PRESENCE

Lockwood did not reveal the presence of the $5,000 money in his desk because he "wanted to take the credit" for unearthing the case.

Crown prosecutor Alec Hall, of Oshawa, referring to the ex-chief's alibi, said, "school boys make up better stories than that."

Mr. Fair said, "There's not one little bit of evidence that he himself stole the money. He was in possession of it, but he was lawfully in possession of it."

Judge Lane said, "The accused definitely had a right to put aspects this money, if the possession was in his line of duty as a police official."



Mr. Reynolds, however, will continue to operate in the used car business under the Belleville Motor Car Company Limited trade name, and will continue for the present from the Coleman Used Car lot. The business office is now located at 17 Victoria Avenue.

Mr. Reynolds stated that the staff formerly employed by his dealership is continuing with the new owners.

Snow-Clearing Job Well in Hand Says Engineer

Following Sunday night's 15-inch snowfall public works department has a king-sized job in clearing city streets, but city engineer Charles Mott reported the job well in hand this morning.

Two snow loader units were removed from Front Street with 14 trucks being kept busy. This morning the snow loader was out of commission for a short time due to temporary breakdown, but was operating again before the noon hour.

In addition to the snow loader two front end loaders were operating on the market square.

Mr. Mott noted that all city streets were pretty well plowed this morning, the same also being true of the sidewalks with four jeep-operated sidewalk plows operating since yesterday morning.

Bridge Street will be the next artery to get the snow removal treatment, it was stated.

Rotarians Hear History of Motor Car Outlined

"The speed limit for cars was 10 miles per hour in 1903, was said Mr. F. L. Jones, district representative of the Ontario Motor League, in an address to a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at Hotel Quinte yesterday.

In tracing the history of motor car development in Canada, the speaker outlined some problems of motorists and efforts to overcome them by the organization he represents.

"All over the country the motorist was met with general antagonism to these new-fangled gadgets which went churning along the roads, fouling the air with their fumes and spreading terror and destruction in their path. Setting out for a Sunday jaunt he was beset with apprehension. What if the motor broke down? And if it did he could scare a horse into running away and scaring a number of people? The driver met it always on the defensive. If he drove at more than eight miles an hour he was fined for speeding.

"If he was forced to stop for repairs, he was obstructing traffic. If he blew his horn, he was desecrating the Sabbath, but if he did not blow it, was due warning of his approach, he was charged with negligence. Recounted Mr. Jones in his picture of motoring of that day.

Thus it developed that motorists began to band together for self-protection. Going for a Sunday run with a group of several automobiles was a different matter from a single car. It produced a spirit of companionship, provided help in case of trouble and a more solid front to the insults and not infrequent threats of violence by the anti-automotive populace. As more automobiles appeared on the road, and the motoring fraternity grew, local clubs were formed where the members could exchange information and compare notes on their experience.

LEAGUE FORMED IN 1907

Clubs to advance the interests of motorists began to spring up in Toronto, Hamilton and Kingston, but since an inter-city trip was an adventure not to be undertaken lightly little was done in forming an association until it was found that the Ontario Legislature was contemplating a bill which would set the speed limit at eight miles per hour.

The motorists took each member of the legislature for a spin in a car just to prove that 10 m.p.h. was not too fast. Result: The adventurous Queen's Parkers set to work and succeeded in raising the limit to this new figure encouraged formation of the Ontario Motor League in 1907. This was followed by similar organization in each province and eventually the parent body, the Canadian Automobile Association.

Some of the association's early work consisted of erection of black and yellow direction signs and arranging for improvement of highways.

Nominations into the present. Mr. Jones expressed the viewpoint of his league in advising against the introduction of toll roads.

"Based on study of toll roads in the U.S., it would have proved far from a bonanza, often operating in the red. Despite bulk equipment to an additional gasoline tax of 2c to 4c per gallon and more, this is proving insufficient to meet the increased cost of maintenance and operation. Where any parallel route is available, traffic has tended to use the toll-free route."

"The attitude of the O.M.L., the speaker continued, has been that before any further financial burden is placed on the motorists for the use of certain roads, careful consideration should be given to experience with toll-roads in the United States."

The suggestion that toll-roads would free money for funds for the building and upkeep of free roads has proved fallacious in view of the necessity of subsidizing toll roads in many areas. Also any plan to circumvent some of the present free ways into toll ways could only be accomplished at astronomical costs and would lead to complete bedlam in the sections now most heavily populated.

TOURIST TRADE IMPORTANT

Mr. Jones said that the promotion of tourist travel in Canada is one of the most important services of the O.M.L. Through its direct affiliation with the Automobile Association of America, the Royal Automobile Club in England and official organizations in most other countries, inter-change of information and publicity is made possible. Arrangements are made for providing of all documents to cover a motor trip abroad including the shipping of a car when desired.

Touching on the O.M.L.'s investigation into the cause of accidents, the speaker said: "Speed, although not necessarily the full cause of accidents has been found to be a contributing factor in almost 80 per cent. It is, therefore, to protect the motorist from himself that efforts are being put on speeders. One hears a lot of talk about speed traps and such, but I feel convinced that the one who feels the loudest after being fabled for speeding through some village, is the one who would yell blue murder if a car drove at 50 m.p.h. down his own streets when his kids were out playing."

In conclusion, Mr. Jones commented that the week of December first has been declared Highway Safety Week in Canada and the U.S. We should all join in noting not only this week, but every week, a Highway Safety Week."

The speaker was introduced by E. Gurnett and thanked by H. H. Tanner.

Neal, to St. Paul's Anglican church, where service was conducted by the Rev. R. Fleming. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes and the church was filled to capacity by the many relatives and friends in attendance.

Interment took place in Marmora cemetery.

The deceased, were, Roy Solmes, Jack Solmes, Earl Lucas, Glen Derry, John Norman, Ernie Davidson.

Three Youths Given Remand

Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning remanded three youths on charges of breaking and entering and theft. They are alleged to have been involved in a series of break-ins throughout the city and district.

City police and O.P.P. rounded up seven suspects last week in connection with the thefts.

Appearing this morning, Rodney Sharpe and Larry Rushlow were remanded in custody to next Monday, when their trial will get underway.

Both magistrate set bail at $2,-000 property.

Another youth, a Trenton Ordnance Corps Artillery school at Picton, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and theft of goods. He was found guilty and placed on suspended sentence for one year. He was defended by Dave Lyon, a student of Kenneth G. M. Boss.

A resident of Toronto for the past fifty years, who is visited "The Friendly City" got a real look this morning when he faced magistrate Wills charged with being drunk in a public place for the third time since his arrival.

He was given the option of paying a $100 fine or spending three months in the house on the hill. He decided to enrich the court coffers.

Judgment to Be Given Dec. 6 On Fatal Accident Charges

Following an all-day hearing in county magistrate's court Monday, judgment was reserved until December 6th last evening by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on charges of careless driving and of leaving the scene of an accident against Angus Thompson, 18, of Crookston.

The Thompson youth was charged by provincial police following the death of Herman Woodcox, 54, of Bancroft, on the Madoc-Foxboro road last June 30th.

Fourteen witnesses were called: by Crown Attorney John A. Pringle, while Defence Counsel Ronald W. Cass, placed the accused on the stand and also called the boy's mother, Mrs. Douglas Thompson.

Harry Downer, Crookston, an eye witness to the accident in which Mr. Woodcox was killed, told the court he was driving north on the Madoc — Foxboro county road on the night of October 5th, when about a mile north of Halliday he saw a southbound car stopped and a man standing at about the far ahead of his car.

The car which had struck the man had not stopped.

Provincial police told of going to the Thomson home at Crookston following receipt of a phone call from the Thompson home with information indicating that a Thompson youth might have been involved in the accident.

Called in his own defence, Angus Thompson told the court that on his way to Belleville on the night of October 5th he had been involved in a minor accident near the city.

He had called his father, who had come to the city and replaced the headlight broken in the accident. He said he had then turned around and started back home to Crookston, being followed by his father.

On the way home after he had passed Halloway, the youth said he had seen the lights of two cars ahead, one of which left the road.

"I saw I had room, so I went between the cars," he said.

He said he had heard a slight bang as he went between the cars, but he still thought it had been the rear bumper of one of the cars which his vehicle had touched.

He said he had slowed down and when he saw no one get out of the cars he had shifted into second and went on home.

He had seen no man standing on the road and was not aware at any time that anyone had been killed.

The witness said he had been afraid about his father's attitude following the first accident but at no time did he have any intention of trying to escape liability.

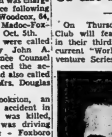
Under cross examination by Crown Attorney Pringle, the witness admitted that he had been convicted "once or twice" of speeding.

"Was there any reason why when you heard the bang that you could not have gone back?" asked the Crown, referring to the Halloway accident.

AFRAID OF FATHER

"I was afraid of my dad," replied the witness.

"Do you think you should have called the police?"



"I had full intentions to when my father came home," was the reply.

Dr. Peter Ceclon, chemist with the Attorney General's Department laboratory, said that pieces of two samples of headlight glass forwarded to him by provincial police had matched. He said there was "no doubt" about the piece matching.

Provincial Constable K. Williamson said that the glass samples had been taken from the headlight of the Thompson car while the other had been found at the scene of the accident.

Travelogue Will Feature 'Charm Of the South'

On Thursday the Kiwanis Club will feature Thayer Soule in their third travelogue of the current "World Travel and Adventure Series."

THAYER SOULE

Mr. Soule's films will portray the beauty of Williamsburg, Va., at cherry blossom time and Mt. Vernon as well as lovely colonial Williamsburg.

The enchanting gardens of Charleston, S.C., will present visions of a hundred years ago. The ballads of Stephen Foster will be recalled by views of the Swanee River. The trip by stern wheeler down the Mississippi to gay New Orleans will also be featured.

Thayer Soule will be remembered by travelogue patrons from his absolutely last season of "Cairo to Baghdad."

Suggest Revision Of Tobacco Body

OTTAWA (CP)—The restrictive trade practices commission, in a 2-to-1 decision, has turned down a suggested the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Association be allowed to form a co-operative to ease the rigidity of its control over the industry.

The association, through its membership of all tobacco buyers and most of the growers, is working under arrangements which contemplate the actual trading on the market to all except association members, the commission said.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market suffered its sharpest morning setback in nearly three weeks as all sections moved lower today in light trading.

Industrials led the decline with an index-loss of almost two points. Base metals and western oils lost 1½ points while golds dipped to a new low for 1955 or 1956.

Declines among industrials ranged from fractions to two points. Pembina lost two while International Paper was off 1½ and Trans Mountain a point.

Scurry-Rainbow advanced 35 cents and Dome Explorations (Western) let even among western oils but Triad lost 25 cents.

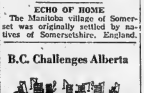
Canadian Dollar In Terms of U.S. Currency Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency rose to $1.04⅛ late Monday, slightly above the high market set about a week ago and just under the four-year high of $1.04 1-32 in the fall of 1952.



Traders said the strength of the Canadian dollar resulted largely from two factors. They are the large financing in recent weeks of public and private Canadian borrowers in the U.S. money markets and the inflow of funds into Canada from European sources because of the Suez and eastern European situations.

The Canadian dollar for the most part has been selling at a premium in terms of the U.S. dollar during the last four years.

Grand Old Couple Celebrates 70th Wedding Anniversary

TRENTON (Special) — Members of the family, relatives and a host of friends gathered at their home on Saturday for the 70th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Adams, Lome Avenue, Trenton.

Trenton's grand old couple celebrated quietly although many guests called on them throughout the day. They received numerous presents and congratulatory cards.

A beautifully decorated cake for the occasion graced the centre of the room in the apartment and staff of Morrison L. Mochr, Bishop of Ottawa where their son Alfred works. A son George Adams of Woodlot and a daughter Mrs. Helen Perry of Trenton were present along with a grandchild Vaughan Adams of Woodlot and great-grandchildren Gary, Dennis, Linda and Gail Adams, the children of Pilot Officer and Mrs. Vaughan Adams of Woodlot.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams were both born in the Woodlot district. They were married on November 24, 1886, by the Rev. George Bartley. Now Mrs. Adams is 89 and Mr. Adams 90. Both are remarkably active although Mrs. Adams is confined to her bed.

Mrs. Adams is the youngest and only surviving member of a family of sixteen born to Warren Scott and Samantha Comstock. The Comstock home where Samantha's parents lived is now known as the Callahan farm at Wooler. Mrs. Adams has several surviving nieces and nephews.

Mr. Adams was the only son of William Adams and Christina Fairord. He has a half sister Florella living in the U. S. A., the only remaining surviving member of his family.

Residents of Trenton for 37 years they have lived on Lome Avenue since moving into town from the country.

Six children were born to them. Two who were married and now deceased, George of Woodlot, Alfred Osgood, Chaplain of Christ Church Bayfield and one great-great grandchild.

Mr. Adams has been a familiar figure on the Trenton market for many years, driving the horse and rig all friends and usually making new ones.

Group of Senior U.S. Officers Visits Trenton

TRENTON, (Special.) — Major General E. H. Underhill, vice commander and chief of staff of the U.S. Army Airforce air training command, with a group of senior U.S.A. staff officers, arrived in Trenton by air this morning from Scott Airforce Base in Illinois.

The distinguished visitors were met at the station by Air Vice Marshal J. B. Byrne; Air Commodore J. B. Harvey; Group Captain R. A. Ashman and Wing Commander R. E. Porter of Training Command Headquarters; also Wing Commander C. H. Mussels, acting C.O. of Station Trenton.

Major General Underhill inspected a guard of honor and then he and his party proceeded to the station conference room for briefing on RCAF Training Command operations. The Major General and his staff arrived in a Convair aircraft after being held up a day near Detroit by rain of yesterday's heavy rainfall. They will leave Trenton later today.

Foremen, Guests To Hear Minister Of Public Works

Tonight, at the YMCA, the Honorable Robert Winters, Minister of Public Works, will address the monthly meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club. His topic will be "Industrial Development."

An invitation to attend the meeting was extended to Mayor Jane Forrester, and members of parliament Hance Rollins and W. E. Sandercock.

Mr. Winters was named Minister of Public Works in 1953. A Canadian Privy Councillor since 1948, he first entered political life in 1945 when he successfully contested the seat in his home constituency of Queens-Lunenberg, in Nwa Scotia. In 1948 he was appointed Minister of Reconstruction and Supply, and from 1950 to 1953 held the portfolio of Minister of Resources and Development.

An electrical engineer by profession; Mr. Winters was born in Lunenberg, N.S., on August 18, 1910. He was educated in public schools there and in 1931 obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree at Mount Allison University in Saekville, N.B. He later attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he received his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in the communications branch of electrical engineering.

During World War II, Mr. Winters saw service overseas in Europe. He joined the technical directorate of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps in 1942, transferring to the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers when that corps was formed. He returned to civilian life in 1945 with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

In 1938 Mr. Winters married Eleanor Dixon of Montreal. They have two children, Margury 10, and Henry, 8.

As Minister of Public Works, Mr. Winters is responsible for the federal government's share in the construction of the Trans-Canada Highway. He is also responsible for the construction and maintenance of federal public buildings, for the building and upkeep of public wharves, breakwaters, protection works and other harbor installations, in addition to dredging operations in navigation channels.

Mr. Winters reports to parliament for the administration of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a responsibility which was transferred with him when he moved from the portfolio of Minister of Resources and Development to his present portfolio.

Also in attendance at the meeting will be Ed Ryan, first vice-president of the Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs.

Supplies Flown To Hungarians

MONTREAL (CP) — Commercial airlines have flown almost 2½ tons of supplies to "freedom fighters" in Hungary from Montreal in the last three days, the Montreal division of the Canadian Hungarian Relief Fund announced Monday night.

The shipments, flown to Vienna, included 1344 pounds of clothing, 595 pounds of medical supplies and 440 pounds of soap.

Police Probing Death of Man Near Oakville

OAKVILLE (CP) — Police today are investigating the death of Sam Onyschuk, 54, of Toronto whose body was found in a pool of blood beside his son's smashed burned farmhouse 10 miles north of here Monday night.

His son, Walter, 32, was released by police early today after questioning.

The body was found by firemen after hired hand James Newman had awakened in a barn to find a fire burning in the stairwell of the farmhouse.

Firemen found the kitchen disarranged with furniture wrecked and strewn about, indicating a struggle. Outside they found Onyschuk's body lying face-down in snow, with wounds in the back of the head. He had $135 in his wallet.

An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of death.

A SIGNICANT OPINION

"There is not one shred of proof that off-color comic books or salacious literature are causes of juvenile delinquency where there is good home environment," declares Daniel Coughlan, Ontario director of probation services.

This opinion may arouse a storm of protest. It should not. Mr. Coughlan was not defending off-color comic books or salacious literature. He was stressing the supreme importance of a good home environment. His opinion, far from disturbing any of us, ought to prove comforting to the thousands of parents who, while doing their best to guide their sons and daughters, are disturbed over the inevitability of their exposure to some of the filth which floods the country.

There may be some who will be surprised at Mr. Coughlan's opinion. We see no reason to be so. Filth is not new, although the extent to which it has been turned into a commercial product, instead of being peddled in outhouses and shacks, may be a comparatively recent development. Not all people who are exposed to filth become filthy. Not all people who are exposed to good literature become good. If they did, the world's best-seller would have eliminated most of the filth, graft, greed, crime and corruption about which so many complain.

Reading a salacious book does not make a good child evil, any more than reading the Bible automatically makes an evil man good. Example is still the world's best teacher, and the home is the place where the lessons of example are most easily taught. The school comes a very close second. These are the places where children spend the greater proportion of their days. Children are all exposed to much the same examples in school. It therefore follows that it is from the home that children most often will determine their own attitude towards life.

We do not know exactly what Mr. Coughlan would call a good home environment. We may be sure, however, that love would be one essential. There may, however, be some attributes which would surprise some of us. It would not be amazing if he listed an adequate income as one requirement, poverty beings with it many burdens. A recent study shows that children of families with low incomes have higher police records than children from middle-income families. We might be surprised to learn, though, that wealth can be a handicap. Children from families with incomes over $10,000 also have higher police records than those from middle-income families.

IN PRAISE OF RUTS

An affirmative answer is not necessarily cause for concern.

There are ruts and ruts. Some bog down in mud holes and some guide one safely over a road which would otherwise be impassable.

We all have our ruts, some deep, some shallow, some of habit and some of circumstance. There are good habits, happy circumstances, as well as bad habits and distressing circumstances.

Whether a rut, all our days would be unfamiliar. Life might be an adventure, but it might also be uneventful. For there are ruts which, paradoxically, bring us at regular intervals to peaks.

All of us, in our day-to-day rounds, have tasks which we dislike. But we also have pleasures which we anticipate eagerly, enjoy thoroughly and remember pleasantly.

Payday is the most familiar peak, towards which we are led, once a week, once a fortnight or once a month as the case may be, and not one of us would like to lose the rut which brings us steadily towards this peak.

But there are other peaks reached by ruts, little peaks like a weekly TV show, a bridge or weekly poker club meeting, Friday night's hockey game, Saturday's hunting, Sunday's church service and drive through the country with the family. Monday may be garbage night, a point on our weekly rut which we dislike, but Tuesday there is a service club meeting, or bowling, or a poker session. And so; as day follows day, we have something to look forward to and we are pleasantly through the week, round the circle of the months, down the avenue of the years. Not an adventurous way of life, perhaps, but a contented one and so long as our ruts are not so deep that we lose sight of the world outside of them they can be our pathways to happiness.

'SNO USE

While man and his machines ground to a sickening halt in Monday's snows, the children's imagination switched into high gear and raced through the drifts.

Debbie Bowerman, whose joy in answered prayer was reported in yesterday's Ontario Intelligencer, was not the only one in Belleville who greeted the morning with shrieks of delight.

We are afraid that few of the older citizens of the district were able to share this enthusiasm, or even to summon up an adult attitude of resignation.

There is something about the first snow of winter which not only seems to find snow-clearing squads and drivers unprepared, but which shortens tempers.

As for pedestrians, most of them started out sore-headed and many of them ended their jaunts with their aches in another part of their anatomy.

For the children, it was a day exciting as that which Alice spent in Wonderland; for their parents it was a case of malice in blunderland.

LAWSUIT

Time was we won or lost the game,
For simple were the rules of sport.
But things today are not the same;
The contest must be tried in court.

Both sides must have sharp lawyers there,
And months go by at rapid pace,
They'll argue till the judge grows tired
To learn who really won the race.

Once simple rules must be obeyed,
And always clear was their intent,
But now we need a lawyer's aid
To find precisely what they meant.

We knew the victors every one
Before we'd even left the place.
Now slowly months and weeks drag on
Before we learn who won the race.

Reduce Holes In Doughnuts

London Times

The world is so full of a number of things — and people — that it makes, on occasions, as much for satisfaction as the sparrows in their nests. The Holmes brothers, with records of shooting behind them, were dab hands when it came to spotting a man's occupation from his appearance, but even their combined talents could hardly decide that the quiet, bespectacled-looking citizen walking along on the other side of the road was dedicated to the task of making the holes in doughnuts smaller. The keenest eye for the vagrant bosses of the trousers, those notorious betrayers of secrets, at the callouses, or lack of them, on the hands at the bowler hat and the general bearing and deportment, would fail to detect in the latter a devoted worker at the task of making doughnut operative, a man apart indeed from the manufacturers who, to the extent to which it has, according to report, been decreed in order that eaters may not be choked by the unwelcome lump, have made the doughnut smaller. The keenest way back in '26, kept the doughnuts large in the years of depression and managed to go on making a thoroughly good thing that doughnut holes are to be smaller. They used to be ¾ of an inch in diameter, then half an inch, and this revolutionary step, which has caused consternation in the manufacture of doughnuts, has been decreed in order that eaters may not be choked by the lump and a "better grip on it when they dip it in their tea is surely the only justee"—in coffee".

Well, that is as it may be, but if the holes are to be made smaller, some one has to make them smaller, and that is where the craftsman who would baffle not only the ponies of "What's My Line?" but the entire detective forces of fact and fiction coeins in. Meanwhile, the conservative lover of his own family greasy, sugar-sprinkled article which both young and old, dormitory feasts need not feel too dismayed. The new look in doughnuts is not going to extend to the essential ingredients of the hole, the doughnutness of the doughnut will remain. And—who knows?—he may live to bless the passing of the hole that reduced those holes from ¾ to ¾ of an inch.

Rail Linette Wins Favor

Ottawa Journal

A hardy annual at meetings of the Commons Railway Committee is the complaint that people of ordinary income cannot afford the meals on trains. A dinner costing $3., even with half price for children, can frighten a family travelling on its own resources. Nothing in our hearing, has received more praise in recent railroad development than the cheerful, cheap, low-cost, simplified meals are provided in the new coaches, for a person of means, or the man with an expense account, may continue to relish all the delicacies, variety and parade of shining cutlery in the dining car, but the average traveller finds the dinette system adequate. Mr. Donald Gordon, the CNR president, was told a Winnipeg audience of continued study in this interesting direction.

"We are questioning the justification of kitchens on dining cars, since they are relatively very expensive to operate and maintain and they take up valuable space demands on limited space. There are many possible alternatives to the traditional dining car, such as the use of pre-cooked meals to automatic vending machines, and of course there is room for several different kinds of meal service, depending on the varied requirements of each particular passenger run. . .

"If I had to sum up our objectives in one sentence I would say that we are trying to introduce into the passenger business the same concern, smart but functional and low-cost service that the supermarket has been able to provide in the retail food business, not forgetting that there is a place for a personalized service."

Even Mr. Gordon must feel that this is a tall order, not easily satisfied although battalions of research workers labor to make trains please all manner of men. But their efforts should be applauded. If the impression gets abroad that railways are only for the well-to-do they might as well throw in their hand and surrender passenger business to buses and airplanes. But there are few handsomer sights than a railway fighting for business and despite his troubles we await the outcome of Mr. Gordon's endeavors with confidence.

Goings-On In Heaven

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Heavens above! What's going on up there? Or haven't you been watching? Well, a lot of other folks have, including Jim Pickering, assistant astronomer at the Hayden Planetarium, New York. He says that the proximity of the planets Jupiter and Venus — plus ideal atmospheric conditions — has been producing an eye-catching sight every night for a week or so.

"It has caused quite a lot of excitement," he says. And well it might. Imagine Jupiter and Venus getting together like that in the sky, with a full view of all the neighbors, including those of us here on earth! No wonder there has been such a boom in the sale of telescopes and binoculars. And the show is going to get better in, the next few days. Venus will appear to pass close to Jupiter (whatever does the hussy think she's up to?) and then the two planets will be the envy of the old moon will form a triangle.

A fine situation that is going to be. We thought that the man in the moon was on hand for that sort of thing; but it just shows how little we know, eh? Tell it by Jupiter, the whole business is astonishing.

But one thing about it is clear. That is why we've been having such much more weather of late. Jupiter Pluvius has been too busy with his celestial philandering to pay attention to his job and providing showers, though one would have thought he had branched out to arrange some sort of cloud-cover for these scandalous goings-on.

Meanwhile, one of the minor planets has taken a powder on us. The effect on minor planets is bound to be bad when grown-up major planets set such a example. The minor planet is one called Leodamia, and it is now cruising toward Mars at a most unseemly rate. Astronomers estimate that it will come within 4,000,000 miles of Mars next September, and that, you must admit, is much too close. During the next ten years Leodamia will make three quite close passages with Mars, according to the forecasters, who are not, however, give us much hint as to just what the attraction is between the pair. This whole celestial imbroglio will bear watching, say we.

Bow and Arrow For Big Game

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

A few days ago, a Port Arthur man, using a bow and arrow as the weapon of his hunt, made an outright kill of a 150 pound deer at Blind Creek, about 100 miles north of the city.

Some time previously a Kaministiquia man brought in two bear cubs bears with the same kind of weapon. An Indian chief, who has been credited with a similar feat near Kashabowie. No doubt there have been many other such killings elsewhere in the province, to say nothing of the Ontario woman man who came from a golf course brought down a Canada goose with bow and arrow.

It is apparent that there is growing popularity for the bow and arrow in hunting big game. Perhaps it is only natural that it should be in the development of some controversy.

Evidence of this is seen in certain protests that have appeared in print, lured on the claim that the arrow is a less humane weapon and that it merely wounds the unfortunate animal which then is left to suffer or die in the woods.

From what the News-Chronicle can gather from the discussions with game men generally, there is little if anything to substantiate this belief. In considering the comparative merits of the weapon it must be remembered that a rifle shot is not always fatal to the target. There are numerous cases many that are shot get away wounded to suffer or suffer and die.

Nor is the arrow as propelled by a capable archer less penetrating than the heavy bullet. In a demonstration before members of the Thunder Bay Rifle and Revolver Club some time ago an arrow was shot from a 50-pound hunting bow by a capable archer into a sand bag had considerable more penetration than a .30-30 bullet, which is standard for game.

The writer, who has how justified it is this newspaper cannot say, thinks the sportsman in most instances more skilled and accurate with their weapons than the average hunter. Their advance training is held to be more complete before they venture go into the woods with little experience or training. Sometimes they use weapons altogether too light for the purpose of big game hunting, the .22 for instance. It is a situation which the fish and game association is seeking to correct through its educational efforts.

Gun hunters have no objection to the archers using their art in big game hunting. They concede that it is a method calling for skill, patience and endurance and that the successful ones have a right to their rewards.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP GOING

In my youth, I recall, there were few people who "retired" from business. In the first place, few people lived to see the years of the very end of life. They lived, they worked, they died. There was no many Savings Banks that they had to be used, and people still had to work to become familiar visitors to these Savings Banks. And so it was then thrift conscious the Government has added a small amount in old-age pensions, and it is now the main road—and keep going!

Nobody and happy to the very end of our earthly journey. It is time for the Government to make us all save and contribute to our own benefit long before we have earned our social security that comes later.

One reason why people live longer today than fifty years ago is that they have better working conditions, and have learned better nutrition habits in their eating, plus more time in the open air. Thanks to the automobile for also introducing us to things about our own land that we never knew before.

All this has helped us to spurn idleness and lack of purpose in our later years. We have had the leisure to read and learn and to waste our lives in unprofitable loafing! I remember as a boy reading of Montaigne's autobiography where he spoke of his "old age" as fifty! We have to give this lady of ours a good "break" by encouraging it to rest and relax, and to keep a cheerful front at all times.

One of my favorite poems is that one by Tennyson called "Ulysses". Especially that inspiring last line that reads: "To strive, to seek, to find and not to yield." He wrote those words after emerging from the darkness of sorrow into the light of hope.

National Cat Week Marked

Brantford Expositor

"Pigs is Pigs" is an ancient assertion. Also, eats is eats.

This, in our more cultivated and cultural moments, is an allusion to the south, is National Cat Week. We hasten to state that we commend such an institution fervently, since we have enjoyed the privilege of reading quite a few cats design to know us.

But the occasion serves to recall the wise remark of a noted American writer Mr. Carl Van Vechten who knew well whereof he wrote. It seems to us to apply with singular appropriateness to the present and international situation.

"Cats" said Mr. Van Vechten, "seldom make mistakes and they never make the same mistake twice. How stupid a cat must be considered being who is constantly repeating the same errors!"

How stupid indeed!

Prevention of Pyorrhea

(Part 2)

By the time the physical degeneration of the masticating structures—gums, teeth, mucous membrane, tooth sockets, muscles, jaw bones has advanced far enough to impair the victim's ability to eat and enjoy coarse or hard foods, he or she is caught in a vicious circle. For such foods are generally the best sources of the vitamins which are most essential for good nutrition. So the more the poor soul restricts his everyday diet to namby-pamby foods which can be gulped without chewing, the severer his nutritional deficiency becomes. Nutritional deficiency from childhood through the years up to the present is the chief cause of the physical degeneration of the masticating structures which is commonly known as pyorrhea.

In the first part of this talk about pyorrhea I said pyorrhea is not a disease. In dozens of pieces about insidious and chronic joint disability I have said rheumatism is not a disease. I have stated here repeatedly the honest conclusion reached by the national Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation and published in the Foundation's Bulletin May 31, '54:

"The principle shortcoming of modern drug therapy" (of so called arthritis) "is that while the results are more dramatic and immediate, the disagreeable effect medication is discontinued. The various drugs in use today relieve pain but shows them they are alter the natural course of the disease or prevent vitiligo."

(We must exercise the Foundation for pointing to failure in dentistry while developing or chronic joint disability "disease" and arthritis.)

It is childish to believe there is a remedy or cure for any chronic ailmatis or pyorrhea, if one could find only find a physician or a dentist who provided it for customers who have the price.

In my Rheumatic file, however, the first three testimonials—never take a testimonial seriously, I warn you—are like this:

"Given your calcium and vitamin D ration two years and my so-called arthritis is a thing of the past."

"Can't thank you enough . . . unable to move around without pain until I used it."

"Aches and pains stay away as long as I follow the high calcium diet and supplement my diet . . ."

"For the first time in years unconscious of my aching knees."

"My joints used to ache so that housework was a real problem. Now I can get down on hands and knees"—Imagine a 1956 housewife still doing that! I thought my only characters in movies did so.)

In my Pyorrhea file I find no testimonials, only an elaborate nine-page dissertation on the various stages of the disease by a D. M. D. (Doctor of Dental Medicine). And I have noted repeatedly that periodontist means a specialist on disease around the tooth.

Dr. S. Talbot, M.D., submitted in the report of Eugene Talbot, M. D., D. Sc., published in A-MM 4-12-'10, on the use of the solution"named after him—Talbot's Solution—official in the N. F. as Glycerite of Iodine and Phenol.

And that's all I have to say about Pyorrhea, except that it is strong medicine, and Talbot suggested that the dentist apply it, and not that the tooth parent or patient how to apply it. Use the same procedure I recommend against the rheumatic is equally effective, I believe, against pyorrhea, but extra strength of fresh fruit, fresh fruit juice or vitamin C, and extra rations of vitamin A.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Recently there was a revival on TV of the Wizard of Oz, a wonderful motion picture that was once seventeen years old and these days especially sensational because it was in color.

For one hour to watch the TV were several young people in their teens and who had not seen the film originally seventeen years ago. When they were all youngsters of five or eight to twelve. It was perfectly fascinating to watch the reactions of these adolescent viewers. And despite the fact that the TV set was black and white, and not even the original glory of the picture in color so just, it was obvious that the full memory of their childish experience of it came flooding back. I heard twenty year olds exclaiming and crying out in such glee as you seldom hear from them in the presence of contemporary

And this movies can do.

It may be, of course, that the film is a classic and not merely a sensation in its time. It may be a classic also as a movie, for the quality of the book on which it is founded was and is a classic.

One thing the certain is classic; the re-awakening in total recall of the fond memories of childhood.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE APPEAL OF STRONG CONVICTIONS

Previous to the first World War, German culture was highly respected, most admirable. No group of people had arisen in modern life who had so much accurate knowledge of the Germans in so many important fields.

But the war started a profound deterioration throughout the whole German nation. Schools came under the control of dictatorship and teachers specialized in spreading propaganda rather than in disseminating the truth. The result was a profound decline in the intellectual stature of one of the greatest nations of modern times.

In the meantime there created, Nazism flourished. The old landmarks of certainty were removed, both by the intellectual leaders of imperial Germany and by the mistaken and disillusioned leaders who followed them. Hitler arrived, voice announced a definite program, people were ready to follow, even though that definite program involved the destruction of freedom and a reversion to many barbaric practices People gathered about Hitler and his colleagues who seemed to offer a man who believed something, offering to lend a vision which had lost most of its strong convictions.

This, of course, was all of the devil. But it illustrated the danger of creating a vacuum and the appeal of strong, definite convictions.

Much of our present-day religion suffers from an absence of strong conviction. When we build on the eternal verities we meet a crying need in men's souls. Beware of vacuum.

Advance Poll Opens Thursday At Q.V. School

Railroaders, members of the armed services and other citizens whose employment will take them out of the city on election day, December 3rd, will have the opportunity of casting their ballots at the Advance Poll to be held at Queen Victoria public school.

City Clerk Mrs. A. M. Haggerty notes that the Advance Poll will b: open November 29, 30, and December 1st, from nine in the morning until six in the afternoon.

Previously only railroaders and members of the armed services were entitled to vote at the Advance Poll but regulations have been changed to include all whose occupations will take them away from the city on election day.

CP Freight Agent James C. Allen Moves to Oshawa

Freight and depot ticket agent at the C.P.R. station in Belleville for the past 13½ years, Mr. J. C. Allen, has been transferred to Oshawa in the same capacity with duties to commence December 1st.

With 44 years of railway service behind him, Mr. Allen recalls entering the service at Tichborne where he acted as assistant ticket agent before proceeding overseas with the 22nd Battery of the Canadian Field Artillery.

On his discharge from the armed forces after three-and-a-half years of service in World War I, he resumed his railway career as station operator. He was transferred to Shannonville as operator and has worked as relief freight agent all over the province.

Mr. Allen came to Belleville from Chatham back in 1942. With Mrs. Allen he will take up residence in Oshawa, where he will take over his new duties on Saturday.

Heavy Snowfall Ties up Traffic

TRENTON (Special) — A traffic tie-up more than two miles long, people unable to get to work because of the deep snow, cars stuck on almost every street in town resulted from the heavy snowfall in the Trenton district last night.

The Met section at the Trenton Air Station reported 12½ inches of snow fell in the Trenton and Belleville districts throughout the night until 8.00 a.m. this morning. Snow flurries will continue today and tonight according to the forecaster but the accumulation is not expected to increase since above freezing temperatures will cause some melting.

Attendance at the local schools was not off as much as expected. At Dufferin public school only nine per cent of the pupils were unable to make morning classes.

Juniors Defeat Napanee 14-3 In Exhibition

Belleville Lambert Juniors outscored the opposition in every period last night and wound up with a 14-3 victory over Napanee Legion Junior "D" crew in an exhibition tilt in Napanee.

St. Louis' crew jumped into a 6-0 lead in the initial period and were never in trouble. They made it 11-1 by the end of the second and outscored the Nape 3-2 in the final twenty minutes.

Eleven of the Belleville squad figured in the scoring with Ab Wright leading the parade. Wright had a terrific night and gained seven points on three goals and four assists. Linemates Jackie Gill and Garry Bowbotham each potted two goals with Gill adding a pair of assists.

Bill Foster and Gord St. Louis followed closely with a brace of goals and one assist each while their linemate, Leo St. Denis, had one goal and two assists. Chuck Bowbotham also wrapped home one goal and earned assists on another pair. George Ferguson tallied the odd goal with assists going to Howard Skelly, Reynolds and Art Culliden.

Kennedy topped the Napanee squad, scoring one goal and helping on the other pair. Griffin and Gillott also scored, Gibson had two assists and Card one.

Referees Bill Moore and Ken Linton dished out 17 minor penalties in the rough contest with the Lamberts drawing nine.

The Lamberts play host to the Royal Military College of Kingston in a regular scheduled OHA Junior "B" game tonight. The contest gets under way at 8.00 p.m. in Memorial Arena.

I Am Offering Myself As Your Mayor . . .

For the year 1957, solely at the request of and in response to so many citizens who have been disturbed by the increase of ten percent in our municipal taxes this year and the prospect of an even greater increase in the coming year under the leadership of the incumbent mayor.

The year of 1956 is one that will be fraught with decisions.

I am submitting myself to you — the voters of Belleville — for a return to economical, sound and proven conduct and control of your city affairs and expenditures.

VOTE JACK BOTH for Mayor

For The Welfare of Belleville
RE-ELECT
JANE FORRESTER
MAYOR

Twice before you have given me your overwhelming confidence and trust — for that I am deeply grateful. In return I have endeavored by every means possible to fulfill that trust — to represent you at all times with honesty — with sincerity — with the ultimate good of our city at heart.

This year you have had honest leadership. This year there has been a wholesome atmosphere in our city. This year there has been cooperation and diligence on the part of the majority to recognize problems and to seek a sensible solution to them. This year there has been dignity in council.

This year we have had no lawsuits. The repair and maintenance of our streets and services has progressed in an orderly manner. The morale of our employees has been good and at all times council has received their utmost cooperation. Not only employees and council but the appointed members of the various boards and commissions which play such an important part in making Belleville a city of which we can be proud have cooperated and joined together toward the common aim of doing all in their power to fulfill their responsibilities.

This year you have had positive action and representation by your Mayor. This year you have received information from every available source and at every opportunity. This year you have had an honest acceptance of duty and obligations. This year you have had a mayor who has spent many hundreds of hours not only on your city business but representing you at the innumerable functions which are expected of this high office.

I promised you that I would be present at the City Hall for two hours every day four days a week, that promise has been kept. Actually, I have spent a minimum of four hours a day, five days a week at the City Hall — from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. — day in day out — week in week out. When I have been absent from this constant routine — it has been to represent you out of town on very necessary city business. In addition there have been many mornings spent at the city hall or at meetings in other parts of the city regarding your city business. Evenings have been consumed representing you at various functions or attending meetings of vital importance to our city.

Most of the boards and commissions have their meetings in the evenings. Your mayor is an ex-officio member of all these. I considered my presence at these meetings as part of my obligation to become informed to serve you honestly. Not even Saturdays or Sundays have seen any let up in my efforts on your behalf. Time and again I have been called upon to represent you over weekends. There have been additional hours of time spent in investigating the various problems before us — in seeking information — in making certain that the decision arrived at was a wholly informed decision not just a shiftless grasping at a straw. I will have no part of taking the easiest way out. I regard the honor you bestowed upon me as a challenge to be dealt with, with honor — not with haphazard decisions or offhand, halfway measures or inattention to detail.

Over the years, whenever and however I have served I have never found the choice between going backwards or going forward, a difficult one. The bulk of the work this year has been planning in its largest sense. The groundwork has been laid for a greater Belleville. These major planning works will be the heritage of '57 council. Whether our efforts will be successful and whether they shall lead along that path of building a better Belleville is up to those who will be elected on Dec. 3rd.

It is a time for enterprise —enthusiasm and experience. If you take a look at the accomplishments of the administration and another look at what remains to be done, I feel sure you will agree that this is no time to retrogress. This is no time to substitute what in the past has been tried and found wanting for what in the present you can trust and rely upon at all times to serve you with honesty — with sincerity of purpose — with devotion to duty — with vision.

We must take the bull by the horns. Belleville must go forward — not backward. The answer lies with you. I must confess that I want to sincerely and devotedly assist in continuing the job. In order to do so I need something from you — your help.

In the last analysis, the decision is yours. I am convinced all right thinking citizens want the best for their city. They want to unite for progress They want to pass on to the future a heritage unimpaired.

During the coming week it is my hope you will carefully weigh the information placed before you during the past year — that you will reach an informed decision — and that on Dec. 3rd — convinced that you have had honest administration this year. You will re-elect Jane Forrester as your mayor and representative.

CHIC CHOICE

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

DEPICTED is a short evening dress that would seem to be destined for a long and busy night life. It is of ruby red velvet, which sets it right for the season. The neckline is squared off with narrow shoulder straps. And the frock is molded through the bodice, the skirt billowing out from released seams. At the neck, the seams break into pleats at either side. A small self bow-tie defines the waist in front and there is no break in the waistline in back. So here you have it, colorful fabric, expertly handled, unadorned, which makes for fashion at its best.

WEDDINGS

SCARLET—FOX

Baskets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the chancel of Cooper United church, Cooper, Ontario, on Saturday, November 10, at 2.30 p.m., for a pretty wedding, when the Rev. J. F. Lane, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. E. V. C. Lewis of Queensboro, united in marriage, Carol Myra Fox of Bellleville, daughter of Mrs. Delos Fox of Cooper, and the late Mr. Fox to Boyd Keith Scarlet of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Scarlet of Kinmount.

Mr. John Druif of Marmora, soloist, assisted by Mrs. Fred Bailey, at the organ, sang before the ceremony "Because," and during the signing of the register "Through the Years."

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, the bride was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of white nylon chiffon over taffeta with fitted bodice having a "V" shaped neckline outlined with embroidered Swiss braid and sequins. The bouffant skirt was worn over a four-tiered hoop. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a lace headdress dotted with sequins and she carried a cascade of red roses and white 'mums.

Miss Iva Thompson of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a waltz-length gown of bronze crystalette , with matching feathered headdress and carrying a bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Mrs. Bob Marner of Bellevile, and Mrs. John Druif, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids, gowned alike in green crystalette, with matching feathered headdresses. They carried bouquets of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Mr. Harvey Young of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Ted Fox of Cooper, and John Robinson of Fenelon Falls, were ushers.

The reception was held at Cooper Town Hall, where the bride's mother received, gowned in coco color with brown accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in navy and white with navy and winter-white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums. The bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles, and the bridal bouquets.

Following the reception the young couple left for Windsor and Detroit, the bride travelling in a light brown tweed suit with brown and tangerine accessories, and corsage of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Scarlet are residing at 31 North Front Street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Shelburne, Cookeville, Scarboro, Kinmount and Belleville.

The bride was the honored guest at two showers previous to her marriage, one held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Thompson, Belleville, and the other at the home of Mrs. Art Parks of Cooper.

COON—CHRETIEN

The marriage of Miss Margaret Jean Chretien to Flying Officer William Huson Coon, RCAF, was solemnized on Saturday, at Our Lady of Assumption Roman Catholic church, Otonabee, by the Rev. E. Welsh, rector.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Chretien of Indian River, and was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by her twin sister, Miss Olive Chretien.

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Huson E. Coon of Peterborough, and he was attended by Mr. James Swanston.

Wedding music was by Mrs. George Carey and she rendered "Ave Maria", "Panis Angelicus," "On This Day" and other hymns.

The bride chose a gown of white lace with very large puff sleeves and very full skirt. Her shoulder veil of tulle was gathered to a tiara of mother of pearl leaves and she wore long, fingerless gloves and carried a white prayer book and bouquet of white 'mums.

Pale pink lace fashioned the maid of honor's gown and it was banded with paler pink satin. She wore a wide picture hat in pale pink, white gloves and also carried white 'mums.

Mrs. Chretien wore for her daughter's wedding a gown of black crepe with gathered jersey panels and a picture hat in pink with black feathers. She wore long pink gloves and black accessories and her corsage was pink roses. Mrs. Coon dressed in a periwinkle blue sheath and wore a matching blue hat, black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Leaving to spend a honeymoon in the Laurentians, the bride wore a red wool sheath, a black cashmere coat with white mink collar, black hat and accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

Flying Officer Coon and his bride will live in Belleville.

Parisian Accent

By TRACY ADRIAN

From Jacques Griffe's latest French collection comes this delightful dance frock designed for happy evenings during the fall and winter season.

The dress is a short version with a full skirt of black silk net embroidered with gathered imported Valenciennes lace in a swirling pattern. A fitted torso bodice of black velvet gives intriguing contrast to the impressive skirt.

FEW BOY SCOUT COUNTS OF CANADA

at the 1955 Jamboree had a chance to see the great dams and smelters that make Canada a world supplier of aluminum.

But some did see a Canadian use of the light metal: outdoor cooking with aluminum foil. One Canadian troop showed how they used this handy material for doing potatoes, steaks and other foods over the camp fire; how they kept food fresh in summer heat by protecting it with aluminum. If this missionary work carries the idea back to distant lands, Canada may have to turn out still more aluminum foil—even though last year her output, if laid in a 12-inch strip, would reach 382,000 miles.

WINTER HAND CARE FOR THE OFFICE WORKER

The hands of typewriter pounders take quite a beating but proper care can undo the ravages of carbon paper, ribbon, etc.

Old man Winter is tough on hands. The cold and the cutting winds cause the skin to redden and roughen, the cuticle to be more than usually troublesome, and nails to snap and crack. So what can you do? — Plenty!

In the first place, wear your gloves outdoors instead of carrying them. It's amazing how many girls we see these days walking along the street carrying their gloves instead of using them for the purpose for which they were designed.

If you are a while collar girl, you probably do your washing up in a lavatory equipped with those glass globes of liquid soap. Sometimes these soaps are really very good. But some of them seem to have the incredible effect of removing the hide without removing the dirt.

Why not add a dime soap container and an inexpensive bar of mild soap for your hands to your office beauty kit? And,if you do a great deal of work with carbon paper, you might try one of the more penetrating hand cleansers. Consult the cosmetics department adviser in your favorite large store about them and ask her to recommend one for you. Or, buy yourself a small tin of almond meal to run into your hands along with the soap lather; or buy a borax cleanser.

When the latter is used, apply it gently. Do not scrub off your own 'skin' And, after thorough rinsing and drying, treat your hand to some good lotion, preferably one containing lanolin.

You will find it much easier to deal with the cuticle if you will make a habit of gently pushing it back from the nail with the towel each time you dry your hand. It takes but an extra minute.

Water temperature certainly has an effect on your hand. Try well to wash them in very hot or very cold water. Wash them in tepid water.

At night, when you take your tub, give a few seconds to your hands. Go over the nails with your little brush; and, while your hands are warm and relaxed, even though wet, place one over the other and massage deeply both in the palm and across the back of the hand; then, still gently, pull each finger, beginning at the base, with finger of the other hand curled around it and let them slide from base to tip. That is a good hand exercise for anyone, but especially for typewriter pounders.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

CAN A DECEIVED WIFE TRUST HER HUSBAND AGAIN?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Do you think it's possible for a wife ever to trust her husband again after he's been unfaithful to her?

I never suspected my husband was going out with another woman until he told me himself, saying he was very sorry and ashamed and that it would never happen again.

I love my husband very much and would be heartbroken if our marriage broke up, but it's so hard for me to get back the trust I once had in him that I'm afraid we may drift apart.

Can you help me? — Mrs. K.F.

Dear Mrs. K.F.: You'd be more than human if you could at once trust your husband fully again. But I believe that, eventually, you'll find yourself able to do so if both of you sincerely try to bring it about.

My advice is that you behave as though you have complete confidence in your husband. This is not only the one way in which you can begin to make a happy home again, but it's also the only way in which your faith can build itself up once more. If you act as though the thing in which you wish to believe — your husband's faithfulness — were actually a fact, you'll go far toward making it so. For it's much more difficult for a husband, or anyone else, to let down a person who trusts him than it is to try and deceive one who is constantly suspicious that he'll do just that.

Your husband was honest enough to confess what he had done. That being the case, he must have, not only real love for you, but a sense of integrity that finally showed it was strong enough to win out over weakness.

So I feel sure you have good reason to hope and believe that if you practice confidence, your marriage will in time adjust itself so that you can be happy together again.

HISTORIC CASTLE

Windsor Castle, royal residence 2 miles from London, was started by William the Conqueror in the 11th century.

Potato Weather

By Mary Moore

Years ago, one very cold winter when we had a coal furnace I often used to bake big potatoes on the ledge around the fire pot.

At that time Pete had a paper route—I think he was eleven—and he used to love to come into the warm house at dinner time and have me send him to the basement to bring the potatoes up. He would try to warm his cold hands on them—but they were so hot it was a dancey business and sometimes he'd drop them and they would burst open, all over the stairway.

But they were so flaky and good I sometimes wish for the good old coal furnace days, again.

But actually a piping hot oven will produce the same flaky mealy centre in your baked potatoes for your family.

If your family eats the potato skin, potatoes are one of the most economical and nourishing budget foods you can provide for them right now. They are an "energy" food and contain two of the B vitamins,thiamine and riboflavin—plus Vitamin C and Iron. A veritable treasure house of nutrients.

PROPERLY BAKED POTATOES

Scrub eating clean large uniform potatoes. Grease skin slightly. Bake at 475 deg. Fahr. for about 60 minutes, turning once. Just before serving slit top and pinch to puff them up and fill alot with butter.

POTATO PANCAKES

Perfect to serve with pot roast and vegetables. Two cups grated raw potatoes, 1-4 cup milk, 1 egg, beaten, 1 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains of pepper, 1 tablespoon diced onion (optional). Add potatoes to milk and let stand for five minutes. Drain off milk. Blend egg, flour, and seasonings and add to potatoes. Drop by tablespoons into hot ground frying pan. Brown on both sides. Serves four.

POTATO DUMPLINGS

One cup flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoons fat, 2-3 cups mashed potatoes, about 1-2 cup milk. Sift the dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Cut in fat. Add mashed potatoes. Pour milk into the centre of flour mixture. Stir until mixture leaves the sides of the bowl. Roll out to 1-2 inch thickness. Cut dough with biscuit cutter. Place dumplings on top of simmering stew, cover and cook for 12 minutes. Serve at once.

FRANCONIA POTATOES

Parboil potatoes, remove jackets. Place in the roast pan beside beef or pork roast. Bake in stove oven 325 deg. Fahr. till tender and brown, about 40 minutes. Turn potatoes over in the fat several times during the cooking.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

CIGARET COURTESY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Please settle our discussion. "A" says that a man should light his own cigaret first, to avoid subjecting his companion to the sulphur fumes from a match. "B" says that matches today have practically no "fume," couldn't possibly bother anyone, and that a man should courteously light his companion's cigaret first. Who is right? — A and B

"B" is right.

HERE'S A THOUGHTFUL NEPHEW

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My nephew, my sister's son, is to be married soon, a large, formal church wedding. He and I have always been great friends. He knows that for quite a few years I have belonged to a group of women who play bridge together, do charity work together, give parties for one another, and so forth. So last evening he asked me if I would like to invite this group of friends to the church wedding. (Not, of course, to the reception, which is to be rather small, only families, close relatives, intimate friends of the two families.) Of course, he knows I love to do this, but I hesitate to, as they do not know the bride, and several do not even know my nephew, and I wouldn't want them to even think of having to give a wedding present. What to do? — E.K.

My suggestion is that you give your nephew a list of the names and addresses of this group of friends and ask him if he will give it to the bride-to-be or her mother so that direct invitations may be sent. (These would, of course, not be invitations to the reception.) These invitations would not at all suggest any obligation to send a wedding present. However, since you are troubled about this, it would-be wise for you to assure these friends about this.

Ricardo Montalban Aided By Kindness En Route From Egypt

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The one thing that impressed me most about the whole terrible experience was the kindness of people — Egyptian, English, Belgian, Sudanese — they all went out of their way to help me. It made me realize how much kindness there is in the world."

This was Ricardo Montalban speaking of being caught in the middle of the war in Egypt. The Mexico-born actor had been living in Cairo and filming Son of the Sheik in the nearby desert for a week when fighting broke out.

"I had just come in from a day's shooting and was taking a shower at my hotel when a siren started blaring and all the lights went off," he recounted at his Beverly Hills home.

GIVES UP

After a few more days of filming, it was apparent the company couldn't continue. Montalban was advised to leave the country. But how?

He was befriended by four Belgians who were en route to the Sudan to be picked up by an airline for which they worked. They had the actor to accompany them to the train.

Their car was stalled in traffic in the middle of a bridge. A plane was overhead and it was believed the bridge was a target.

The plane was shot down. As the car inched across the bridge, Montalban saw a man being clubbed to death by a mob.

NO EXIT VISA

At the depot his new - found friends bought him a ticket southward.

When he arrived in Aswan, he was surprised to learn that he had no exit visa.

He faced a long back to Cairo, but a kind official let him go on the boat trip to Sudan. He would have to take his chances on an entry permit there.

The rest of the week of the steamer until an Egyptian army officer gave him a bed his child had been using. The officer slept with his two children.

The rest of the Sudan was aided by a dozen Sudanese fellow passengers who stuck by Montalban until he got a visa.

FLIES TO LONDON

His flight on the Belgian plane was problematical, since Belgian nationals had to be taken first. However, an English businessman offered to take him on a private plane. The actor had no money, but his credit was accepted.

After stopping for evacuees in North Africa—"which was Cairo all over again"—he got back to London. Now he's here with his wife and children — and still shaking.

Y Basketball

Led by the sharp shooting and excellent defensive play of Captain Steve Wilson the Honest Johns won their first game in the "Y" Junior Basketball House League, defeating the league leading Hillbillys 34 to 12. The Honest Johns checked all through the game, controlling the ball both on defensive and offensive.

High scorers were S. Wilson 16; B. Deagan 10; J. Fisher 8.

Good checking and defensive play kept the score down in the second game in the Nightriders defeated the Little Hound Dogs 34 to 11. Both teams fought hard and the score remained fairly even throughout the game with eight fouls handed out to the Nightriders. The Hound Dogs failed to take advantage of the foul shots and the Nightriders came through with their third victory in this league.

First Game

Honest Johns (34)—Capt. S. Wilson 16; N. Kinkaid; J. Fisher 8; B. Deagan 10; R. Bailey.

Hillbillys (12)—Capt. B. Blaker 6; B. Avery; M. Murphy; R. Smith; D. Lawrence.

Second Game

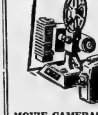
Nightriders (14)—Capt. D. Skinner 8; Blakely 4; D. Vance 2; J. Pickering; A. Hichon.

Little Hound Dogs (11)—Capt. J. Peoples 3; J. Clapp 4; C. Rendell; L. Campbell 4; L. Doxsee; D. Sickle.

Referees—T. Batchelor and Jim Heffernan.

Marlies Trim Petes 5-2

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Second-place Toronto Marlboros Monday night defeated tail-end Peterborough Petes 5-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game before 1,650 fans.



Toronto led 3-0 at the end of the first period and 3-2 going into the third. Marlboros drew five of the 10 penalties of the game.

Ken Girard scored twice for Marlboros, defenceman Harry Neale, Gord Haughton and Doug Richter getting the others. Ralph Mason and Guy Black scored for the losers.

LIBERACE ROBBED

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Liberace's home in nearby Sherman Oaks was ransacked by burglars who took an undetermined amount of clothing and jewelry. The burglary in the wavy-haired pianist's home was discovered Thursday by a maid. Liberace is currently appearing in Las Vegas and no one was home at the time, police said.

Bulldogs Top Points Parade

TORONTO (CP) — Second-place Windsor Bulldogs continued to monopolize the top three positions in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring race in games played through Sunday, official statistics released Monday showed.

Bob Brown picked up four goals and three assists through the week to move into a first-place tie with teammate Ron Murphy. Each now has nine goals and 12 assists for 21 points.

Gord Haidy holds third place with six goals and 12 assists, while Kitchener's Lou Jankowski has five goals and 12 assists in fourth.

Marv Edwards of Chatham Maroons has allowed 39 goals during 15 games for the Maroons, good for a 2.6 average. He's followed by Bob Dale of Stratford with 3.43 and Don Head of Windsor with 3.91.

Wins American Cross Country Run

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)— Walter McNew, a local sophomore from the University of Texas, put on a blazing finish Monday to win the annual U.S. National collegiate cross-country run in the time of 19:55.7.

McNew turned on the steam to sprint the last half mile of the four-mile course despite the 37-degree temperature and three inches of snow that made footing treacherous.

The winner overhauled favored Henry Kennedy of Michigan State previously unbeaten this season. Kennedy finished third and Jim Beatty of North Carolina was second.

Kennedy, rated probably one of the best distance runners in North America, probably would be on the Olympic Games except for his continued background.

A native of Glasgow, he later lived in Toronto but now spends almost all his time in the U.S. He is not an American citizen so he could not represent the U.S. at the Games and he hasn't lived in Canada long enough to meet Olympic requirements there.

Work of Musical Directors Widely Ignored by Critics

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — George Bassman has a mild and legimate complaint. Why, he wonders, is the television work of men like George Bassman so widely ignored? After talking with him, you wonder too.

Bassman is the musical director for Producers' Showcase (NBC TV). That means he is both a composer and conductor as well as general arbiter on all matters musical involving all Showcase productions.

Many people are unaware that a major live television show has specially composed live music as background or dramatically spotted in the proceedings. Much of this music does not issue from a phonograph; it's not just any old music. It's special music.

"The author is well aware of the composer's role in the play," says Bassman. "There are often specific indications where the author wants music to bring his scene to a climax, to heighten a mood, and certainly to set a mood. A full orchestra of 70 men is often employed to do this, but rarely, if ever, have the critics noticed it. They notice the camera work, the lighting, the directing and acting—but never the music."

Bilts' Players Top Juniors

TORONTO (CP) — Linemates Ed Shack and Bill Sweeney of the front-running Guelph Biltmores maintained their hold on the two top positions in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race during the last week, but a couple of new faces crept nearer the top.

Shack, tied with Sweeney last week, moved into the lead with eight goals and 15 assists for 23 points, league statistics showed Monday night. Sweeney has 12 goals and 10 assists for 22 points.

Moving into third place was winter Bob McKnight of Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, who picked up a goal and five assists through the week for a total of six goals and 14 assists. Teammate Bob Boucher made the most impressive climb, coming from well back in the pack to place fourth with 13 goals and six assists.

Len Broderick of Toronto Marboros leads the league's goalkeepers with an average of 28 goals against in 12 games for a 2.33 average.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wed. Nov. 28, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Ask for assistance where reasonable, but also tend personally to those things that are especially your job. Maintain a steady pace in all activities. Day has advantages.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — People and situations will brighten, respond to an eager, enthusiastic you. If you start with misgivings or doubts you will find, actually, obstacles. Watch those "little" details.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Speed is fine if you are careful and don't overlook vital small matters or contingencies. Make time for study and analysis as well as action.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Be mindful of your remarks, how you make them, and their substance; also how you take others' words. Often misunderstandings occur needlessly. Aim for harmony, but maintain principles.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — With consistent effort and alertness in attitude, you genial folks should make satisfying progress today. A good period to concentrate on health matters.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Business executives, office workers, mechanics, teachers, doctors, lawyers; aim to strengthen your principles. Have ambition and the will to go out and try for what you want.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — "You cannot keep a good man down" might well have been said originally about a Libran. Today show your spunk and fortitude in difficult chores, everyday affairs. You can help others, too.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Study all situations short time because you get to the and conditions carefully now. heart of things promptly. You are Make no snap judgments and work always interested in truth and for the good of all. straight - thinking — this, of November 23 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — Be careful how much you take on today. You may be tempted to do too much. A little with contentments is, and makes, great gain.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Many advances in the scientific, military, economic and religious fields, possible now. You should be eager to learn more and to be in on whatever world-while activities are about.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — You can make appreciable gains today by starting cautiously, but not hesitantly, and by heeding your own intuition and know-how. Have more confidence in your ability and work.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Note where there are flaws and quickly try to eliminate them. Harmony is important, but defense of principles is more so. Act when you should, deliberating carefully first. But do act.

You born today have many varied talents and tendencies; can achieve in an able manner in a course, if you are living on the higher plane. We never stand still; we go forward or backward; Sagittarius feels this instinctively. Once you achieve system, coordination and concentration, you can reach unlimited heights. Literature, sports, philosophy could be your fields. Don't let pride or fastidiousness get out of hand. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. II. Carver, Sports Editor

WELL, WELL!

Reputations, apparently, do not mean a thing in this Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League. The Whitby Dunlops, selected by Ontario Senior "A" and other "experts" to win the league title in more or less of a romp are meeting with some stiff opposition by some of the clubs over which they were expected to ride roughshod.

The twin defeats over the weekend at the hands of the Pembroke Lumber Kings and the Cornwall Chevies must have caused eyebrow-raising in Blairville. They definitely give notice that this senior "A" woods is a deep one and there will be some stiff battles before the playoff teams emerge into the schedule-free pastime.

Kingston, an in-and-out squad, to say the least, are furnishing surprises around the circuit, too. Beaten easily one night they resurge with an explosion of power that on more than one occasion has swept them to victory over clubs seemingly more powerful than they.

Friday night the Limestone Laddybucks tangle with the Belleville McFarlands for the first time in Memorial Arena. The game will be the second clash of the season between the clubs with the Macs whipping the Douglasmen 7-4 in the first fray down Kingston way. There probably will be a sell-out house for the Friday game for these squads always come up with a colorful, rugged display. It is expected that Willie Menard and Rene St. Hilaire will be recovered from injuries and will get into the line-up.

Meanwhile the Macs are finding their scoring eyes and some of them are gradually surging upwards into the top ten point-getters of the league.

At the moment Minnie Menard is in second place after sharing top spot with Bob Attersley of Whitby, with the latter gaining a point by scoring one of the goals against Cornwall in the Dunlops' defeat of the Dunlops. However, Minnie is still tops in the puck-dunking department with sixteen counters to his credit. He has rated ten assists.

Jean Paul Payette is in fourth spot with six goals and sixteen assists. He is topped only in the latter department by Attersley with 17. Bep Guidolin, who with Minnie Menard and Payette round out the top scoring line of the McFarlands has three goals and eleven assists, but it should be recalled the Mars' coach has only been playing in a forward position for the past few games. The line has a collective total of twenty-five goals and thirty-seven assists, not bad in any man's league.

Minnie and Paul top the McFarlands individual scoring race with Lucien Gilbert in third slot with eight goals and nine assists. Bep comes next, then Johnny Muretich with two and nine for eleven points. Maurice Benoit rounds out the double-figure "getters" with four goals and six helpers. Benoit, incidentally, is the "hard man" of the league and team with 62 minutes in the hoosegow.

The McFarlands rate high, too, in the league scoring records. They have scored 65 goals in thirteen games, almost an average of five, while Cornwall had 89 to its credit for 15 games, two of these those one-sided 12-5 and 10-1 affairs, for 15 games. The Limestone crew has whipped lories against Kingston. The Limestone crew has whipped home 59 goals for 11 games while Cornwall has tallied 56 for 17 games. Pembroke has 61 goals to its credit for 16 games played. In the goals against column the McFarlands show less than any other club with the exception of Ottawa, but it should be remembered the Macs have played two or more games less than the other clubs with the exception of Kingston which has played one more.

JUNIORS TONIGHT

Tonight in Memorial Arena, Mel Richards' Belleville Lamberts junior "B" squad parades its wares for the first time before a home town crowd. The Lamberts' teammates time before a home town crowd. The Lamberts' teammates won their first outing against the Royal Military College cadets of Kingston by a 4-3 count and the two teams clash first time in a revival of the classification in the district.

They are playing a good brand of the game and some support in the pews would be doubly welcome. They are all "home-brews" and Manager Richards believes he has stars in the making in the beardless ranks. How about getting out and giving the boys a hand.

Peahead Offers To Resign Says Report

MONTREAL (CP) — Russ Taylor, sportscaster for Montreal radio station CFCF, said today coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker offered Sunday to resign as coach of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football league, but the resignation was refused.

The offer, said Taylor in a broadcast, was made in the wake of Alouettes' third successive defeat by Edmonton in the annual Grey Cup classic. Walker, Alouette coach since 1952, led the club into the Grey Cup each of the last three years but has missed a win. Saturday his club was defeated 50-27.

Defeat United States Crew In Fours Without Coxswain Eights Edged by Yale Rowers

MELBOURNE (CP) — A University of British Columbia crew today won Canada's first gold medal in Olympic rowing competition as track records continued to fall at the 1956 Games.

The UBC fours without coxswain event to victory over the Detroit Boat Club of the United States in the finals of that event on Lake Wendouree, 38 miles west of this Olympic city, and another UBC crew almost made it in the "big eights," feature event of the rowing finals that closed out today.

The victory brought Canada its first gold medal of the current Games.

The UBC eights almost made it two gold medals for the day as they were beaten by less than a length by the highly touted Yale crew from the U.S. that had been smarting for revenge since the Canadians finished ahead of them in the preliminary round.

The showing on the water made up for the bulk dished out to Canadian athletes have put on so far in the other Olympic events. Except for only track entry of the day, Dorothy Knoll of Calgary, failing to make the qualifying distance in the preliminaries of the women's 80-metre hurdles, Canada's Marion, the army sergeant from Stellarton, N.S., lost a close decision to Henry Loubscher of South Africa in the light welterweight division for boxers in the fifth straight Olympic ring defeat.

WIN HOOP CONSOLATION

The basketball squad, however, won its first game of the consolation tournament following the elimination from the medal round in the pre-Olympic competition, beating South Korea 74-61.

Today's big track events followed the 1956 pattern in several Olympic events with more broken world records and a couple of world marks to be added to the list. Those on Olympic record performance to win every final event on the track and field program.

Bobby Morrow, 21 - year - old Texas sprinter, who earned the "fastest man" in the circuit since Jesse Owens set the mark in the 100 metres in 1936 Morrow, who won the 100 metres Saturday in the 1956 record of 10.5, the National American Negro runner, in taking the 200 metres today. American stars took second and third places in the 200 for the third U.S. finish of the current Games.

The Australian girls equalled the world record of 10.8 seconds, set by Russia's G. Ermolaeva in 1955, in today's preliminaries of the women's 80-metre hurdles. Shirley Strickland and Norma Thrower also beat Miss Strickland's own Olympic mark of 10.9.

HOME CROWD CHEERS

Another crowd close to the 100,000 mark cheered the home girls' performances. The crowd had been host to less than half of the 110,000-spectator capacity during the opening events in cloudy, chill weather, but began filling the big stadium as the sun came out in the afternoon.

The other American sweep of the day came in the men's discus, won by Al Oerter of the University of Kansas with a record-breaking throw of 181 feet 11 inches that beat out the world record-holder, Fortune Gordien of Brentwood, Ore., who had to settle for second. Des Koch of the U.S. was third.

Another Olympic record fell in the men's hop, step and jump when Brazil's Ademar Ferreira do Silva with a leap of 53 feet, 7½ inches to break his own 1952 mark. The 1952 record also was broken by second-place Villa-lainor Einarsson of Iceland.

Poland's Elzbieta Krzesinska spoiled her own world record of 20 feet 9½ inches and set an Olympic mark when she won the women's broad jump. She made her mark over the world record, but fell back and nullified the effort.

The day was marked by one big individual disappointment. Jack Kelly, Jr., of Philadelphia, making his third try to win the single sculls title his father won in 1920, ran a poor third behind Russia's Viktor Ivanov and Stuart Mackenzie of Australia. The six-times winner of the Canadian singles title probably won't be competing in the 1960 Games.

Canada's gold medals picked up today by the U.S. against two for Russia lengthened the American lead in the unofficial team standing to more than 100 points. The U.S. now has won 16 gold medals — six for fours, three for single sculls, four for the big rivals from the Soviet Union.

Vault Parson Will Retire

MELBOURNE (AP) — Rev. Bob Richards of California, who has cleared 15 feet more times than any other pole vaulter, said Monday his victory in the Olympics signalled the end of his competitive career.

Richards, who won a gold medal with his Olympic record leap of 14 feet 11½ inches, called his latest success in his specialty "my finest triumph."

"I am getting old," said the 30-year-old preacher, "and I have my church work to do. Also, I must get home and start playing with my wife and three children."

He plans to compete in the Olympic decathlon this weekend, take part in a big meet in Sydney, Dec. 5 and then call it quits.

Ounces Cost Canadian His Olympic Chances

MELBOURNE (CP) — Canada's chances of almost certain points in the Olympics weightlifting competition were lost Monday by a slim two ounces.

Gerry Gratton of Montreal was that much overweight for the light-heavy division and was disqualified.

"It is the first time in my 12 years of weightlifting career that I have been overweight," said the downhearted Gratton in an interview.

"I am always six to eight pounds overweight in training and have no trouble taking off easily. I tried everything possible this time and just couldn't make it."

WON IN '52

Gratton won a silver medal for Canada at the 1952 Games in Helsinki, competing then in the middleweight division. He won Empire Games champion in the same division in 1950 and light-heavyweight champion in the Empire Games of 1954, and is by far one of Canada's outstanding men in the weightlifting sport.

Ken Farmer of Montreal, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, when informed of Gratton's disqualification, said: "It's one of those unfortunate things. He has always been a great competitor and still is.

"I knew he was overweight a couple of days ago but wasn't worried because he has always made it."

Charlie Walker of Montreal, manager of the weightlifting team said he is sure Gratton would have won a medal for Canada.

"That's the way the wheel of fortune goes," said president Farmer . . . It's a real bad break for him and for Canada."

'Eskimos Day' in Edmonton Sees City Honor Champions

EDMONTON (CP) — It's "Eskimo Day" today as Edmonton honors the three-in-a-row Grey Cup champions.

A parade, "more of a reception" was to highlight festivities as the Alberta capital welcomed the football team that won the Canadian championship for the third consecutive year by defeating Montreal Alouettes 50-27 at Toronto Saturday.

An estimated crowd of 50,000 persons was expected to line the parade route through downtown Edmonton and in the evening a banquet will be given by the city of Edmonton to players and their wives, club officials, and civic, provincial and federal government representatives.

Esks arrived home early Monday morning before most of their fans were out of bed but about 100 persons were at the airport to cheer the champions.

FOUR MISSING

The fans, who have been saving their cheers since Saturday, will miss four players who went directly from Toronto to their homes in the United States. They were halfback Jackie Parker, fullback Johnny Bright and guard Art Walker.

"I have only one regret about this game," said Parker before leaving home. "My wife has been ill in Knoxville and I've got to hurry home and see her.

"I won't be able to return to Edmonton with the team but my heart will be there all the same. I think we've got the best team and the best fans, too."

In the parade Esks were to ride aboard gaily-decorated floats, with about eight players to each float. Four bands were to take part in the parade.

CARRIES CUP HOME

Also in the parade will be Miss Edmonton Eskimo — 19-year-old Jane Mackie — with whom the Grey Cup was returned to Edmonton from Toronto.

An escort was to be provided by a platoon of red-coated RCMP constables and a detachment from the city police force. School children were to be let out at 2:30 p.m. so they could go to the parade.

Official cars were to carry police and government officials as well as members of the football club executive. Premier Manning of Alberta and Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton were to be among the dignitaries. Mayor Hawrelak also will be chairman at the evening banquet.

National Hockey League Is Breaking Records For Most Goals Scored

Beliveau Regains Top Rung Over Wings' Ted Lindsay; Gordie Howe Hugging Third

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal and Detroit players dominate the scoring race in the National Hockey League but Boston Bruins still are winning the most games since leading the league.

The—whole circuit is scoring more goals than for several seasons.

That's the picture sketched by NHL statistics for last week, in which Jean Beliveau of Montreal regained the scoring lead after breaking a tie with Ted Lindsay of Detroit and the Bruins maintained a one-game lead over the Red Wings.

It was a high-scoring week with 69 goals—an average of 7.7 a game—and it raised the season's average to 3.3 per game, most prolific at this date since 1951.

JEAN ONE UP

Beliveau took a point lead over Lindsay with a goal and two assists for 25 points. Lindsay got two assists while Gordie Howe of Detroit stuck to third spot with a goal and an assist for 23 points.

Norm Ullman, another Wing, was credited with three assists and fourth spot at 19 points. Canadiens' Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Bert Olmstead and Doug Harvey are bunched at 18 points.

Dickie Moore of Montreal added a goal to take over the marksmanship lead with 11. Harvey added three assists for a total of 17, best in the league.

The Bruins maintained their hot pace with two wins in three games, for a total of 28 points. Detroit, with two games in hand, had a win and two ties and have 26 points, while Montreal is stranded with a win, a tie and a loss for 22 points.

Toronto got only one point but clung to fourth place, a point ahead of New York which has 18 points and recorded two ties and a loss.

Chicago gained three points for a total of 11 in last place.

Lou Fontinato, Ranger defenceman, added just two minutes to his penalty record but still leads the league with a total of 53 minutes.

Eastern Scribes Unanimous In Giving Eskimos Credit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eastern sportswriters are nearly unanimous in giving Edmonton Eskimos full credit for the 50-27 Grey Cup victory over Montreal were the better team.

Montreal writers may have been a bit reluctant to admit it, and have searched a bit more diligently for obvious mistakes on Edmonton "breaks" but they too were quick to call Edmonton "a wonderful club."

There were some comments Monday forecasting a need for complete rethinking in the East.

Here is what the writers had to say:

Elmer Ferguson, Montreal Herald: ". . . The superb play of the westerners put such pressure on the eastern linebackers in the second half of what was to then a completely even battle that the Alouette machine cracked, bogged down and floundered. . . . This Jackie Parker is something very slightly less than magnificent. . . . He gave a tremendous display of power and speed."

Dink Carroll, Montreal Gazette: "If Sam Etcheverry had a bad day there was a reason for it—12 of them in fact. . . . It's apparent now that most of us in the east have underrated the Eskimos. They are a wonderful ball club with fine balance."

Bas O'Meara, Montreal Star: ". . . The Edmonton Eskimos gave a great display. . . . The versatile Jackie Parker was close . . . to being wonderful. . . . The line was something to rave over. . . . Als didn't give up. . . . Had they managed to evade three bad errors they might have made the score closer. . . . But . . . on that day they had met their masters."

Bert Sonkere, Montreal Le Devoir: ". . . This year there are no excuses. . . . By Saturday's performance Parker certainly approaches Hal Patterson as a player. . . . Parker may not be as good a long pass receiver but he's probably better in every other way."

Ivan Miller, Hamilton Spectator: ". . . There appeared to be little doubt that Hamilton Tiger-Cats would have given Eskimos much more opposition. . . . Don Getty, an amazing figure, certainly made us eat humble pie."

Jim Hunt, Toronto Star: ". . . The East, long a power in the Canadian game woke up and began to realize those storms coming out of the West must be right. They do play better football in Western Canada. . . . The East doesn't play enough tough football."

Bob Frewin, Toronto Telegram: ". . . The East must forsake offensive emphasis and return to the very basis of football. . . On what was shown on Saturday that Grey Cup may be in the West for a long time."

Ted Reeve, Toronto Telegram: ". . . The speediest Alouettes were covered in a manner that has never been accomplished before. . . . They (Eskimos) are all over the premises at once."

Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal: ". . . What Edmonton might have proved, among other things, was . . . that physically speaking, they play a tougher game in the Western Conference. And perhaps the Big Four from top to bottom will have to think about that. . . ."

. . . The rumor is that Alouettes will clean house . . . starting from the top and going all the way down. They may need something like that to get their fans back next year."

Presented With Russel Trophy Hal Patterson

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal Patterson, star Montreal Alouettes end, Monday night was presented with the Jeff Russel Trophy as the player best combining sportsmanship with top-calibre play in the Big Four Football League this season.

Patterson received the trophy at the annual awards dinner of the Sportsmen's Association of Montreal. The trophy winner is selected by the league's governors and game officials.

Also honored at the banquet were Jackie Parker, of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League; Myer Insky, a past president of the Canadian Rugby Union; Moe Herscovitch, former football star and Olympic boxer; Doug O'Connor, 1955 world bobsledding champion; and Frank Dilin, registrar of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

Weightlifting

The YMCA Lifting Club sponsored a Belleville district meet on Saturday night to find the strongest men in each bodyweight class. Joe Cox outclassed all lifters and himself while staying within the lightweight division. Joe helped to prove the fact, that to be a good lifter as well as in any other athletic sport that good health and clean living are a must.

This is what the YMCA Lifting Club is trying to accomplish with all health minded men and boys are willingly introduced and coached with enthusiasm. So far the success achieved with these boys shows they have the right idea and it promises to continue.

As lifting is still young in this area competition was confined to the "Y" Club and Apollo Club from Boswell Street, with totals as follows:

123-lb. class—Jack Healy, Inc.; Jim Hopkins, 290 lbs.

132-lb. class—Rusty Garvin (Apollo) 34 lbs.; Bill McMurter (YMCA), 460 lbs.

165-lb. class—Ron Smith (Apollo) 395 lbs.; Art Quibell (YMCA) 495 lbs.; Barry Ray (YMCA) 545 lbs.

Big Tex Coulter, Lark Tackle Announces Grid Retirement

MONTREAL (CP)—Tex Coulter, the giant import tackle who played a major role in helping Montreal Alouettes become the power of the Big Four Football League, has announced his retirement.

Coulter, 32-year-old former all-American and New York Giant lineman, phoned club officials Monday to say he will not be back with the Als next season. The 265-pound tackle from Dallas, Tex., said he may remain in Montreal, however.

Coulter came to Montreal in 1953, after the Alouettes had finished a dismal last the previous year, winning only two of their 12 games. He helped spark them to a first-place tie in 1953 but Hamilton beat them out in the playoffs.

In 1954, 1955 and 1956 the Als went all the way to the Eastern title, with Coulter playing a major role.

Coulter was twice chosen as an all-American when he played for Army. He starred for six years with New York of the National Football League before joining the Alouettes? He was chosen to the Big Four offensive and defensive teams in the 1954 and 1955.

Coulter, a cartoonist and sports writer in the off-season, said he is considering two job offers in Montreal and may stay here.

Meanwhile, the club put an end to rumors that coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker will not be back next season.

"Coach Walker has never considered resigning," said Leo Dandurand, the club president. "He has two more years to go on his contract and he has already started rebuilding for 1957."

That was a reference to the claiming of Ron Stewart, starry halfback with Queen's University in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League. Stewart, league scoring champion, was placed on Als' negotiating list. If he signs he is expected to get a bit of speed to the Alouette backfield.

Oregon State Meets Iowa In Rose Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Oregon State College Beavers Monday were unanimously selected as the Pacific Coast Conference team to meet Iowa of the Big Ten in the Pasadena Rose Bowl football game Jan. 1.

Oregon State finished with a 6-1-1 record in the PCC. The next three teams, Southern California and UCLA tied at 5-2 and Washington next at 4-4, were ineligible for the PCC championship or the Rose Bowl because of conference sanctions for improper financial aid to athletes.

The Big Ten confirmed selection of the Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday night. It will be their first trip to the Rose Bowl.

The Hawkeyes finished their season last Saturday with a resounding 48-8 win over Notre Dame. Iowa had a 5-1 record in the Big Ten and an 8-1 over-all record.

Could Produce 4-Minute Milers Says U.S. Coach

MELBOURNE (AP) — One of the world's most successful track coaches estimated Monday that with sympathy and good conditions he could produce two or three four-minute milers from present United States runners.

"The United States has never produced a four-minute miler," said Fr. Jr. Stampfl. "But there's absolutely no good reason why the United States can't succeed as Britain, Hungary and Australia have done."

"I could produce two or three in eight to 10 months," said the man who coached British four-minute milers Dr. Roger Bannister, Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson.

Stampfl, an Australian - born Briton, worked closely with Dr Bannister for six months before the original four-minute mile was made in May of 1954.

Packer Star May Play In Canada

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Tobin Rote of Green Bay Packers, regarded as one of the finest all-round quarterbacks in the National Football League, said Monday he hasn't decided whether to retire after this season, but "the odds are pretty good that I won't."

Rote also said that even if he did retire from NFL football he might play for a Canadian team if he got a good enough offer.

"There have been several rumors lately that Rote, a 28-year-old veteran of seven pro football seasons, planned to retire. The rumors cropped up again Monday as the NFL draft meeting in Philadelphia, when the Packers picked the best bonus choice star quarterback Paul Hornung of Notre Dame.

Asked whether retirement from the Packers would mean he would be through with football entirely, Rote replied:

"I couldn't answer that. If some Canadian team came through with an offer I couldn't pass up, I'd probably play."

FOR THE GIFTS YOU GIVE WITH PRIDE

LET YOUR JEWELER BE YOUR GUIDE

Your quality jeweler is a family friend. When you want to buy jewelry, watches, gems or silverware, he offers you the best in advice and merchandise. Because they are the best, you are satisfied.

A traditional confidence in the family jeweler develops from customers' knowledge that he is an expert in a very specialized field. Actually, today's quality jeweler possesses a professional heritage dating back thousands of years.

This section is devoted to the quality jeweler – providing you, the reader, with a more intimate knowledge of his importance when you seek quality merchandise.

Remember: "For the gifts you give with pride, let your jeweler be your guide."

Watches Made To Suit Every One in Family

There's a watch at your local jeweler's for every member of the family — in a range of prices to conform with every budget.

For Mother and the older daughter there are timepieces for the wrist, the lapel, neckline, pocket or purse — and even the cuff. They come in white and yellow gold, platinum, steel, plastic and leather. And they have white, black, gold and enameled dials, and scores of different types of bands and bracelets.

For Father and the older son there are watches for the wrist and pocket, in gold, steel, plastic and leather. Many are made with radium dials, for easy night-reading; many are self-winding, some with power gauges; others are fitted as chronographs, calendars and moon-phase recorders.

For both the family's teen-and-tween-agers are wrist models to resist shock and water, some with radium dials and sweep second hands, others with semi-precious stones on the case or the dial. For the girl there are other attractive steel-and-leather watches for the purse or pocket, and pinups for the dress.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

In introducing the wrist watch many years ago Swiss designers and manufacturers not only set a new trend in both men's and women's watches, but utilized all the knowledge of their 300-year-old craft to provide a timepiece for every person, for every occasion, at a cost accessible to every income. All of the Swiss watches at the quality jewelry store contain 17-jewel movements, jeweled-levers, and mechanisms that have met rigid Swiss specifications and tests.

While one season may find a certain type of case more popular than another, there are always wide selections at your favorite jewelry store. Round, square, rectangular cases; single and double cord woven bands, thin or wide leather bands — in all colors. Snake bracelets in various designs, and rigid "slip-on" types.

For women this year there are chronographs and self-winding watches for the wrist — models once made only for men. Calendars and moon-phase types, too. Some for business, others dressed up for that special occasion.

MANY TYPES

For the man there is a combination dress-and-utility type of Swiss watch — a gold case, for appearance, a stainless steel back for added wrist protection. Many models have shock — and water-resistant movements, and some are automatics.

Your jeweler suggests that, whatever you may want or think you might like in watches, he can provide it for any member of the family.

Diamond Jewelry Need Not Be Expensive

The diamond's tradition of glamor—its rarity, hardness, sparkle, and the skill necessary to perfect it—have made men and women forget that they can buy interesting diamond-set jewelry for far less than one hundred dollars, according to the Jewelry Industry Council.

In fact, gold lockets, pendants, or earrings set with small diamonds can still be found for as little as twenty-five dollars.

Rings set with a single precious stone surrounded by diamonds, a bracelet or a watch with a few diamonds set in it, a gold star-pin with a diamond centre, are some of the many attractive pieces which are available for one hundred dollars or less in virtually any jewelry store in Canada.

Marie Antoinette Shared Jewels

Marie Antoinette, at the height of her power and beauty, loved to decorate herself with jewels. The most interesting of these are those she gave as keepsakes in less-happy times. To her devoted friend, the Princess de Lamballe, she presented a necklace of carved ivory beads with a beautiful design of fleur-de-lis in gold pique work, joined together by a fine gold chain, and a ring which she sent from the Tuileries, containing a lock of her once-bright hair, by that time "bleached by sorrow." Among the queen's other jewels, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, were the most famous of the sapphires in history and some wonderful pearls which afterwards were bought for the American wife of the eighth Duke of Marlborough.

The Newest and Best in Emblem Rings

BELLEVILLE JEWELLERS' ASSOCIATION

Gleaming silver that's worth its weight in beauty and usefulness for years to come. Highlighted by the Jewelry Industry Council are, in upper left, an open-work basket and handsome banana leaf tray. At right, a versatile bon-bon dish with delicate floral decoration on the rim, a silver-topped marmalade jar and sugar, creamer and tray set in a simple fluted design. At lower left, cigaret urn, perforated spoon and handy cake server.

The Brooch-Palette of Color

The brooch has been likened to an artist's canvas, so varied are the colorful gems and designs that are used to adorn its relatively broad surface. This useful as well as ornamental bit of jewelery, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, stems from antiquity when it was used much as a safety pin is used today. Indeed it is the forerunner of that useful object, the safety pin of today. It is interesting to observe that the equisite brooches of today owe much of their beauty to the craftsmanship of the Greeks, who practised their arts more than 3,000 years ago.

Because of the fine craftsmanship in a Swiss watch, steel that could be bought at $5 a pound is worth up to $50,000 after it is made into mainsprings.

The tiny mechanism in a fine Swiss watch exerts very little power, yet it has a potential mileage of 90,000 miles in 25 years, ticking at the rate of five times a second or 157,680,000 times a year.

In Belleville's Leading Jeweller

A Jeweller cannot last in a business that is based on half truth. For many years now Paul Mercier has revered the truth . . . true values, true craftsmanship and true advertising. This attitude has fostered the consumer trust that is the foundation of livelihood. It is this same truth and trust which have brought the same families to Mercier's year after year. Truth cultivates trust.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever. Its loveliness increases." Things of beauty so essential to the success of men and women in their various walks of life are seen in their attire. They realize that good taste is a priceless asset and good taste means buying the right things. Taste is exemplified in the many beautiful and useful articles that you will find at Paul Mercier's.

Then too, Paul Mercier has surrounded himself with a staff that is as competent as it is courteous. A thorough knowledge of the many beautiful things available in the store and the happy faculty of making the buying public feel at home are but a few of their assets.

To complete the full cycle of service to the public, Paul Mercier's has a staff of master craftsmen. Here are jewelery mechanics in the true sense of the word. Here are the people whose delicate fingers can diagnose and restore to the full glow of former perfection the watches and jewellery which have felt the fingers of time or by chance or accident become in need of expert assistance.

These people, too, are master engravers. Here in Paul Mercier's, while you wait, their sensitive fingers manipulate the delicate tools that create masterpieces of the engraving art. Truly they bring to life things of beauty that "are a joy forever."

Evidence of the high esteem in which their workmanship is held by one of the foremost industries of the country, is seen in the fact that these men are the official timepiece inspectors and adjusters for the Canadian National Railways.

Here, then, in Paul Mercier's Jewellery Store, one which holds a proud position in the ranks of the jewellery industry, and high esteem in the minds of the buying public can be found expert service and an outstanding variety of jewellery that mark Paul Mercier's as one who carries the welfare and satisfaction of a large clientele more at heart than he does the monetary advantages of business.

Your Jeweller Is Your Friend

Across from you at the quality jewelry store counter is a merchant of merchants.

Like all merchants, he sells goods. But down to the last item it's a special kind of goods. Precious goods—like diamonds, watches, jewelry, silverware and rare items.

Many of his transactions are with individuals making long-term investments for themselves. But more frequently his merchandise is bought as gifts for very special occasions. In either case the merchandise must live on and on, to keep individuals, or families, relatives, sweethearts and friends happy and proud of ownership.

To meet this important goal these precious goods must wear and work well, right through the years. Behind the important merchandise are important manufacturers, but first behind you as a customer is the merchant himself—your jeweller.

On his word and counsel rest your satisfaction, and pride. His suggestions and his goods must be correct—because integrity itself is more than just a small part of his stock.

A quality jeweller is this important—"For the gifts you'll give with pride, let the jeweller be your [illegible]

Make Frequent Use of Your Silverware

The longer evenings of Autumn, and early Winter inspire homemakers with thoughts of informal entertaining. The gracious hostess on these occasions makes good use of her silverware for all too often, we keep our silverware put away for so-called state occasions, which is indeed a mistake.

For one thing, silver increases in beauty with ordinary use, and for another even more important reason, we owe our friends and families as much of the touch of gracious living as we do the stranger in our midst.

The progressiveness of the silverware industry has made it possible for almost every family to own and enjoy beautiful silver. The young woman of today frequently begins her married life with as much silver as her mother acquired years after her marriage.

One thing that today's bride can be thankful for is the fact that she no longer has to be coy about letting her friends know what type of silverware she would like when they are choosing her wedding gifts. The sensible bride-to-be goes to her jeweller, studies the patterns he offers and makes her choice. Then, when friends and relatives visit the jeweller's to choose a gift of silverware for her, her jeweller can tell them the pattern she selected, and silver gift-giving becomes much easier. This serves to lessen duplication of gifts and makes for a well-matched set of silver for the new home.

Because our modern silversmiths have established patterns which can be duplicated for almost indefinite time to come, the bride has the assurance that she may add to her collection as her needs for additional silver increase throughout years to come.

Charm Bracelet Will Gain in Significance

One of the most important of all gift-giving occasions is coming up soon and it is suggested that you give some thought to starting a charm bracelet for someone this holiday season. A simple gold link chain and a single charm make a gift that will grow with significance and sentimental value as the years go on and one, incidentally, which will provide you with plenty of gift ideas for the future.

Bracelet charms are available in sterling silver as well as in karat gold, and many of the gold ones are set with tiny pearls, and often with diamonds and colored stones to add sparkle and color. The variety is either silver or gold is almost endless. You can fill her bracelet with a series of symbolic charms, or with a collection of one kind of charm: a jingling chain of miniature dogs, for instance, or a fleet of tiny boats, from a steamer to a row boat with dipping oars. Make it a bracelet to complement her interests and activities — a golf bag, a dressmaker's dummy, a diminutive typewriter with keys that push down — or one to help her remember the happy details of her courtship — a picnic basket, a champagne bottle, a tiny heart set with a ruby.

For every occasion that you want a charm, you'll find several from which to choose at your jeweller's, the Council tells us, whether you are highlighting your own Canadian love story or holidaying in the States.

RESTLESS RUBIES

A news item on a day in 1911 reported that the Mexican liner Merida had collided with the Admiral Farragut in Chesapeake Bay and had sunk in 28 feet of water. What everyone didn't know was that when the Merida went down she took with her a fortune in rubies. According to the Jewelry Industry Council, they were the collection that formerly had belonged to Princess Charlotte of Belgium and their history is indeed strange. They were stolen from Charlotte by revolutionaries when her husband, the Archduke of Austria, whom Napoleon had placed upon throne of Mexico, was executed. A later revolution caused the new owners to flee the country with the rubies with the result recorded above. As far as is publicly known, one of the world's most famous collections of rubies is still lying at the bottom of Chesapeake Bay.

Sterling silver pays a pretty compliment and adds gleaming beauty to a lady's dressing table. Shown by the Jewelry Industry Council, a 6-piece sterling dresser set which includes mirror, brush, sterling-backed comb, magnifying mirror, nail file and powder jar with silver top, all in a graceful, lace-like pattern with panel for initialing. Also shown, a cultured pearl cluster ring that makes fashion news because of its important size, and delicate wrist watch with 14-karat gold case. (Dresser set by Saart; ring by Shiman; watch by Cyma.)

Greeks and Romans Liked Rings

The past few years have witnessed a growing popularity among men for colored-stone rings upon which are carved engravings or monograms. Few, however, are aware that these rings were popular with the Greeks and later the Romans. According to the Jewelry Industry Council, these people, with their vivid imagination and their artistic skill in sculpture, drew upon their vast store of mythology to carve historical episodes and scenes within the compass of these small gems. Certain carvings were supposed to have endowed particular stones with virtues upon which the wearer might draw. They chose for their medium the hardest of gems, among them being jasper, sardonyx, carnelian and sapphire. These splendid examples of exquisite carving may be seen, and studied today in many of our museums. Considerable pleasure may be derived just from observing the striking colors of these beautiful stones.

Silver for the Home Brightens Christmas Season for Everyone

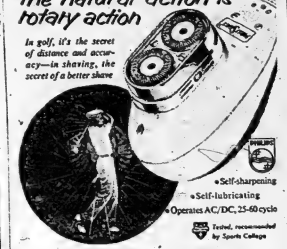
When tradition and celebration brighten every home at Christmas time, the Jewelry Industry Council suggests you think of silver for the special people on your list.

Your jeweler's gleaming array of sterling and plated silver is designed to fit varying tastes and budgets alike, and few gifts express your thoughtfulness so well.

Your favorite hostess is sure to be delighted with a graceful compote which she can put to use for candy and nuts or fashion into a centerpiece for holiday parties, or an expanding silver trivet to protect her table-top from hot dishes.

Virtually any piece of hollowware, be it large or small, will find multiple uses in her home. A glamorous aid to entertaining is a silver chafing dish with its own heating unit or a covered casserole lined with an ovenproof glass dish.

Gifts of silver will be especially welcomed by brides-to-be or young married couples, for chances are they're still accumulating table silver. There could be no more thoughtful Christmas remembrance than silver flatware in their chosen pattern; a few pieces, a complete place setting or a continuation setting — which includes the demi-tasse spoon, iced beverage spoon, cocktail fork and dessert spoon.



Check your gift list for couples in their fifth, sixteenth or twenty-fifth year of marriage, for they're entitled by tradition to gifts of silver. The Council suggests silver gifts for the home in every price range: tea and coffee sets, bowls, candlesticks, bread trays, sugar and creamer sets, serving dishes, salt and pepper shakers, vases, cigaret boxes, ash trays, gravy boats, platters and pitchers.

Jewelry's Part In Civilization

Jewels played an important part in all the ancient civilizations, and particularly in those of the East where they brought infinite color and brilliance to enhance the beauty of the women. The gold jewelery and precious stones brought by the Queen of Sheba on her visit to Solomon, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, defied description by the writers of the time. Cleopatra's magnificent jewels included the world's then finest diamonds and emeralds from her own mines. The auburn-haired Egyptian also favored the topaz, the warm tints of which were said to remind her of honey. Among her pearls was a priceless gem she was reputed to have dissolved in her love drink to Anthony, and worthy of note was her amethyst ring, which she believed to have magical powers.

Age Cannot Tarnish

In the year 1900 a group of archaeologists opened the tomb of the Egyptian queen, Zer, who died 8,000 years ago. Among the treasures that met their eyes, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, were four bracelets of cast-gold and turquoise. They had adorned the arm of the dead queen down through the centuries and yet they were as clear and bright as on the day they were placed in the tomb. Today, they are included among the world's oldest existing pieces of wrought-gold jewelry.

Quick Help on Christmas Gifts

To help you erase those last-minute question marks on your Christmas list, the Jewelry Industry Council has highlighted by key age groups—children, young men and women, oldsters and infants, too—the wide variety of gifts displayed at your jewelry store this Christmas.

The council tells us, for example, that infants and very young children are not too young for a gift of silver, to use now and enjoy in future years. A silver milk cup or porringer, for instance, will have multiple uses for a lifetime. Among the silver choices for children in this age group are gifts that some day will be proud heirlooms: engraved silver rattles, teething rings with tinkling silver bells, a bent handle spoon or place setting scaled to little hands.

Your jeweller's taste and trained fashion judgment make him a dependable guide in the selection of jewelry for women. He will tell you, for instance, that bracelets are again foremost in the fashion picture, with gleaming gold chains or jewel-studded bangs complementing long dark gloves and deep cuffs turned back above the wrist. A pair of earrings is sure to please, for every woman appreciates their subtle flattery. Another gift idea for brightening the holiday season is an evening bag fitted with sparkling jeweled cosmetic accessories.

FOR THE MEN

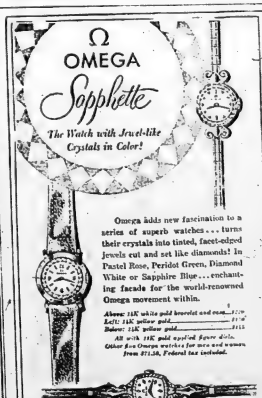
With a complete jewelry wardrobe for men in mind, the council suggests a pair of cuff links with matching tie clip and belt buckle, thoughtfully personalized with initials. For the man who smokes: a neat, flat cigaret case for evening or daytime use, pocket lighter, holder or attractive box to hold a fresh supply of cigarets for home, study or office. For the man who travels: a fitted travelling case or a compact travelling clock with wake-up alarm.

For a young man between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one, a fine watch or handsome ring is a gift that will give him pleasure not only as a warm symbol of affection at Christmas, but also as a possession of enduring significance. If he is about to enter the service, the council suggests a sterling silver identification bracelet or a pen and pencil set of gold or silver, marked with his name or initials.

Sterling table silver need not be limited to brides. In fact, it is particularly appropriate for girls in this age group, many of whom are planning their homes and gradually accumulating their table silver. Whether you choose a single piece of silver flatware in their favorite pattern or a complete place setting, it will be a cherished lifetime possession. Something in silver that she can put to use on Christmas morning is a picture frame, in snapshot size or larger.

For her first piece of precious jewelry, you might choose a lovely birthstone ring or a small bar pin set with diamonds. An attractive watch band, tailored or in a dressier bracelet design, is sure to receive an appreciative welcome.

FOR TEENAGERS



Younger sisters, from thirteen to seventeen, are just as pleased with a gift of jewelry—an enameled or jeweled locket, perhaps, or charm bracelet. Like their older sisters, they too might be starting to accumulate place settings in silver. Also included on the Council's list are dressing table accessories, either in silver or enamel with silver trim, and monogrammed compacts.

A brand-new tie clip to go with the Christmas tie is sure to please boys in this age group. Don't forget a pair of matching cuff links when you start gift-wrapping. A silver-backed pocket comb and file, neatly cased in leather, are flattery and encouragement all in the same package. The young boy on your list will beam with pride over a silver or gold pocket knife, personalized with his own initials.

For boys from six to twelve, appropriate Christmas gifts include birthstone rings, identification bracelets, pen and pencil sets, rosaries and medals and military sets. Any little girl would be delighted with a few real pearls to start a necklace, a silver or gold hair clip for party occasions or a charm bracelet.

ODDITIES IN RINGS

The history of rings includes every conceivable type of ring, but among the most fascinating is the snake ring, that Queen Victoria received from Prince Albert. According to the Jewelry Industry Council, it was a gold snake composed of fourteen hinged joints, twelve of them set with one diamond to each joint; the inside was enamelled in black and white, and the head joint passed through a loo in the tail.

Decoration Today, Gems Began Use in World as Charms, Clasps

Jewels which today are merely decorative started life as being either practical or magical.

Only such jewels as rings and bracelets appear to be only decorative in origin. One type, like clasps and brooches of all kinds, probably derive from the elaboration of practical objects.

Another type, such as pendants, stem from the primitive practice of wearing animal teeth, shells and stones around the neck with magical intent.

The barbarian tradition of jewellery came to an end with the Middle Ages and jewellery began to take its place as one of the industrial arts.

Most characteristic ornament of mediaeval jewellery was the brooch — usually round or heart or wreath shape. Another was the religious pendant type of jewel enamelled with religious subjects.

In the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries jewellery became more a part of dress. It was fashioned into belts, hairnets and sewn into clothing. Personal mottoes were often inscribed on jewels.

By the sixteenth century ceremonial dresses were often completely covered with jewels. At the same time a new class of artists in metal, came into being bringing an increased skill in the cutting and display of gems.

The new developments in engraving helped to publicize new designs and there was more standardization of patterns throughout Europe.

But in the wake of the Reformation the religious symbolism of jewel design came to an end except in Italy and Spain and a new class of portrait jewellery came out.

There were more changes in the seventeenth century. Jewels were no longer works of art with an idea to past over and became more personal ornaments. They were more beautiful but had no deep significance.

Style for the eighteenth century was to wear earrings and brooch, necklace or clasp, and ring and sometimes shoulder brooches and buckles to match. They were set with diamonds alone or in combination with rubies, topazes sapphires or emeralds.

Changes of fortune after the French Revolution brought changes in jewellery. For everyday wear the court and poorer persons contented themselves with semi-precious stones.

By 1851 with wealth rapidly increasing some of the jewellery made was the most brilliant ever produced.

The most precious stones were used in silver and gold settings. The fashion of wearing long strings of pearls in the evening was revived; large bracelets, mainly made of diamonds on a background of enamel and gold were worn, so were diadems curved to the shape of the head.

By the 1870's a new class of purchasers were visiting Europe from the Americas. They were willing to pay large sums for stones of exceptional size and quality.

Valuable stones were mounted and worn as rings, bragelets, earrings, hairpins, feathers or pendants.

The early twentieth century brought reaction against the monotony and lack of imagination in jewellery prevalent since 1870.

The novelty came from the choice of material and the value of the stones employed was of less importance than their appropriateness to the scheme.

At the same time, however, a large section of the public favored another group of jewellers who turned back to the old styles in their best periods.

Small diamonds were used together and in contrast with larger stones and platinum began to be used extensively for settings. But as the new settings reduced the diamond to its proper size, jewellers had to use larger diamonds than in old settings which had made it appear larger than life.

This made jewels more costly and more brilliant.

Most popular ring was the diamond which achieved its eminence because, being indestructible it was regarded as the best suited for engagement rings. It was usually a solitaire weighing from one to ten carats or a single stone surrounded by one or two rows of smaller diamonds.

Strings of pearls ousted diamonds for wear at the neck and pearls were also worn in bracelets and chains. And the demand for pearls in turn brought the popularity of emeralds.

Jewellers went to India for their pearls and "discovered" the emerald which until then had been worn almost exclusively in Indian jewellery. Engraved emeralds of all shapes became a factor in the stone market of Europe.

Change of hairstyle after 1914 brought more jewellery changes. Diamond slides arrived; diamond bandeaux were worn flat on the forehead and tiaras were reserved for court functions.

Short sleeves made the bracelet the most popular jewel — usually from half an inch to over two inches in width.

Use of the wrist watch, vanity and cigaret case became universal.

But the dominant note of modern jewellery was the intensive use of colored stones, their cutting and design.

Watch-Owners' 'Do's and Don'ts'

Because your watch is made of precious metals and contains a very delicate and important mechanism, it is actually a fine piece of jewellery and should be treated as such.

Handled properly, a good timepiece will serve indefinitely, but like all mechanisms containing many parts it needs examination, cleaning and oiling and any adjustments found necessary to keep it in factory-precision running order.

In suggesting a few simple "do's" and "dont's" to keep your watch in tip-top shape, the Watchmakers of Switzerland stress the importance of taking it only to a skilled watchmaker who has the proper tools and parts, and knows how to use them.

They recommend that a wrist watch be cleaned and oiled at least once a year, and a pocket watch at least every two years. A thorough cleaning removes dust and other tiny particles, as well as congealed or soiled oil. Fresh oil, applied in the proper places, protects moving parts against friction and aids each part in providing accurate time.

In winding a watch, the owner should apply a steady thumb and finger movement, hailing just as the tension seems greater. At this point the mainspring is fully powered — the power being kept intact by a tiny clutch gear which can break under too much pressure. To set a watch, pull the stem out gently, set the hands and replace with the same care.

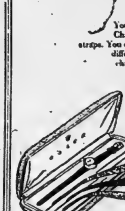
A mainspring breaks usually under sudden impact — by dropping on the floor or by striking a table or hard surfaces. A little extra care can prevent this damage.

The Swiss also suggest:

Wind your watch once a day, preferably in the morning.

Don't tinker with a watch if it stops or becomes inaccurate.

For Remembrance



The present revival in the wearing of gold lockets strikes a sentimental note in many and a touch of nostalgia in others. For the locket seems always to be identified with war times and other emotional crises. According to the Jewelry Industry Council, the old-fashioned heart-shaped locket stays with us because sentiment remains the same as always. For within its covers is the picture of a loved one, not for the world to see, but just the wearer. An exception was Queen Victoria, who after the death of Albert, wore a miniature of him in an open locket.

Modern Swiss timepieces for either men's or women's wear. Both are self-winding, and the stem has been completely eliminated in the round model.

Daintier, Dressier Watches Displayed In New and Unexpected Colors

NEW YORK — The latest watch fashions are full of surprises. During the Christmas seasons you'll see watches in new, unexpected colors; watches with "animated" color patterns swirling on the dial; watches with detachable covers converting cleverly into matching clips, and petite diamond watches that are self-winding, water and shock-resistant.

Daintier, dressier and more colorful timepieces are on hand for the coming months, according to a fashion preview presented by the watchmakers of Switzerland. Ideal complements to fall shades are dials of leaf green, poppy red, powder blue, orange, jonquil yellow, navy and sophisticated black. Several of these brightly tinted dials feature a novel idea; two colored disks superimposed on the dial rotate as the watch ticks, forming a graceful, fluid design.

Even straps have blossomed forth in bolder hues—fire engine red, cerise, rust and burgundy, among others. Interchangeable colored straps are winning wider favor, with a new twist introduced that allows straps to be switched in less than a jiffy to match costumes. They merely slip through a slot in the back of the watch.

Swiss stylists and craftsmen have combined beauty and utility more closely. Women's self-winding watches — heretofore mostly confined to sports and daytime wear, appear widely as chic evening models. And, for the lily subdued, set exciting, is a petite round dial in black, contrasting dramatically with a slender, while gold mesh bracelet. An first time, automatic and shock-resistant movements are cased in water-resistant, diamond and platinum watches that are fabulous creations. Also, women's calendar watches have been adapted to stylish small square cases. Purse and belt watches have been given new versatility; they convert into night stand timepieces merely by flipping an easel on the back.

The vogue for dressier watches has brought gold bracelet models back into the limelight. Stylesetters in this group are bracelets of gold disks. Delightfully different is one consisting of a circle of gold Indian-head coins, the watch hidden under one of the coins.

Both yellow and pink gold have been woven into a variety of interesting bracelet designs — fleur de lis, bows with diamonds and rubies alternating, armor link, interwoven braid, gooseneck link and wide mesh.

LAPEL WATCHES

The freshness and originality of the Swiss finds expression in several lapel watches which take unexpected shapes — a seashell, bumble bee, flower basket and even a walnut. Intriguing is a pin-up watch sunk into a glass ball. Its crystal magnifies the dial for easy timetelling. A magnifying glass back enlarges the tiny movement, so you can see what makes it tick. Another pin-up is an exquisite replica of a Venetian sedan chair. A fingertip touch on one of its tiny arms opens the latticed door and the watch flips out on a hinge.

For formal wear, there are watches to suit every taste. Sleek-other striking after-dark model has a white gold square case with diamonds around its edge and a single row of them twinkling on its incredibly narrow band.

Gold is spun in a leafy pattern as delicate as a spider's web over a concealed watch that is unique. It can be worn as a bracelet, or its cover detached and converted into a clip with the watch worn separately.

Very new-looking for cocktail or theatre wear is a gold disk bracelet watch, its mother of pearl dial circled with cultured pearls. Smaller pearls rim each disk. A deep-toned enameled ship design on the dial and a burgundy strap combine to make a smart watch for the office. Horseshoes in gold and green enamel add appeal to a pointed-crystal watch with a black suede band, ideal for travel.

REAL EYE-CATCHER

Teen timepieces reflect the swing to brighter colors. Red, white and blue enamel dress up a bangle bracelet watch that is a real eye-catcher. Another bangle model has a wrist-hugging reptile covered bracelet, available in several colors.

The dressy look is accented heavily in men's watches. Handsome and rugged is a large black-dialed model, rimmed in gold with gold numerals and hands. Its black cobra band is edged with gold. Brightly enameled fishes, boats and nage lend a mural effect to many men's dials. And the increasingly - popular "Mr. and Mrs." sets now sport colored dials and matching straps.

Once only genuine rubies or sapphires were used as watch jewels, but Swiss scientists discovered that synthetic jewels were easier to cut and polish, lasted longer and were cheaper to use. They are fitted at friction points to reduce the wear caused by steel rubbing against steel.

When Swiss watchmakers heard through international horological channels in London that television was found to be affecting set-owners' watches by magnetizing them, they reminded the group there was a very simple solution available—an anti-magnetic Swiss watch.

Watch Enameling Revived by Swiss

GENEVA, Switzerland.—If you have been intrigued by those museum watches done in brilliantly colored enamel, you are due for a pleasant surprise—your local quality jeweler can now obtain modern types of Swiss watches with enameled dials for both men and women.

Enameled watches were very popular many years ago. They came in the form of perfume bottles, birds, pocket cases, large pocket watches with keys, and many others. Today they are mostly wrist watches.

Watch innovations recently introduced by the Swiss include enamel miniatures on cases, covers and dials. And while enameling techniques haven't changed much for centuries, the new designs are strikingly different. The flowery motifs and drawing room scenes of bygone days have given way to stylized zodiacs, hunting and racing scenes; yachting, golfing and horseback scenes; and simple abstract patterns.

The search for enamel miniatures wasn't easy. Most of the old-time Swiss artists died or drifted into other professions when the watch enameling vogue disappeared 40 years ago. But these artists were located, or trained, and are now busy again at their craft.

The art of enameling, reaching back to antiquity, is older than watchmaking itself. It was first applied to watches in Geneva around the beginning of the 16th century, and remained popular until the turn of the 20th century when demand for enameled pieces began to decline. World War I, with a subsequent craze for modernism, saw the end of them, until their current revival.

As many as 2,400 distinct operations are necessary to produce a fine Swiss watch, with most of the timepieces containing from 150 to 180 parts.

The "tick-tick" in a watch is caused by a fork which rocks against a gear. Swiss technicians estimate this mechanism vibrates 18,000 times a day, and a variation by one ten-thousandth part of a second with each oscillation would throw accuracy off by 43 seconds a day.

There's a Right and Wrong Way to Choose a Ring

If you are buying a ring for a lady this Christmas, it won't be a difficult matter, with your jeweller's help, to prove that you can be an expert in good taste as well as a thoughtful gift-giver. Here are some pointers that will help you.

The wrong shade or size in a ring can make a short hand look stubby, a slim hand look scrawny. By the same token, a ring chosen with special care for size and shape can enhance the hand that is wearing it and look as graceful and beautiful as its designer intended it.

For a square hand with short fingers, select an oval-shaped ring, set lengthwise to create a tapering effect. A popular diamond cut of this shape, with pointed ends, is the marquise. There are also cluster settings in the marquise shape, set with small faceted stones. A popular variation is an oval of black onyx or enamel, set with a single diamond.

Large dramatic rings, worn on the third finger or little finger, are particularly adaptable to the long slender hand. Very large emerald cut stones set on the diagonal or widthwises are bold accents becoming to a narrow hand. An entirely different effect is achieved with a mound of jewels forming a large dome-shaped ring. This design has been beautifully translated into precious metal, with gold wire forming a high lacy dome sometimes topped with a single cultured pearl.

A small hand wears best a ring of average or small size, one that doesn't seem to weigh down the finger. Delicate settings and faceted stones, such as the brilliant-cut blue zircon, are very flattering. Rings set with more than one stone can be round or asymmetrical in design with equally good effect: an opal, for instance, circled by small diamonds or an interesting asymmetric combination of colored stones with a cultured pearl.

Rings for the larger hand should be worn, in most cases, on the third finger rather than the little finger, to minimize the width of the hand. Stone settings of medium size and comparatively conservative design are often the most becoming, such as a half-hoop ring, set with three or more stones, the centre gem a ruby, for example, flanked by diamonds.

The rule of size does not apply, however, to solitaire settings, for a large diamond, sapphire or other gem in a simple setting enhances the larger hand with special elegance.

Idea of Engagement Rings Originated Many Centuries Ago

The first bethrothal rings were introduced in Europe when men of the Roman legions gave them to English girls as a promise to return.

The idea of engagement rings got its start when men of an early day got tired of tieing their women with grass ropes. Instead they placed a ring of plaited grass on the girl's finger as a symbol of marriage by capture. Eventually they began to carve the rings from stone and raw metal. The desire for decoration led them to mount emeralds and pearls, and later a rough stone called adamas in the rings. It was from the word adamas that the modern words diamond and adamant are derived.

Thus, the genesis of the modern diamond solitaire engagement ring, though it no longer connotes who captures whom, indicates a man's intention, and signifies that the girl has been spoken for.

Today's bride-to-be is less coy and more knowing than her mother. According to a Jewelry Industry Council survey, more than 50 per cent of the girls go along to buy the ring. Since she's going to wear it the rest of her life, it is reasonable that she should want a ring that suits her personality.

While she's not likely to become an expert in one easy lesson, there is no reason why she can't know something about the ring being bought.

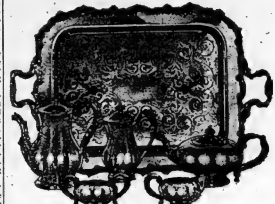
One of the most popular and oldest of the diamond shapes in use is the brilliant cut, a round diamond with 58 facets, the emerald cut is oblong with long faceted planes. Usually it's confined to larger stones, as is the square cut whose shape is exactly as its name describes. The fourth in popular shape is the marquise cut, a long elliptical with pointed ends.

If you are thinking of buying, or even eyeing a diamond, here are some important things about these beautiful gems which you should know. The Jewelry Industry Council recommends that you be guided by what they call the "4 C's," that is, color, clarity, cut and carat.

"Color" in a diamond is a delicate thing; a faint shade or tone can make a world of difference. Diamonds have been found in varying colors, from colorless white to deep yellow, brown, blue and even black. The finest commercial diamonds resemble a crystal clear drop of water with a faint bluish tinge. The bluer the tint the more valuable the diamond.

Conversely, tints of yellow and brown detract from the value of the diamond. These tints are not to be confused, however, with pronounced yellow and brown diamonds which are rare and practically museum pieces.

Diamonds catch, reflect and refract every ray of light giving an illusion of color in the diamond itself. This sensitivity to color is so great even a diamond with a decided yellow tint may appear bluish under a blue light.



"Clarity" refers to a diamond's freedom from imperfections such as spots of carbon, internal cracks or tiny bubbles. Nothing in nature is perfect and a diamond is a product of nature. The smaller the flaws in a diamond and the fewer there are, the greater the value. For commercial purposes a diamond which shows no flaws to an expert eye under a 10 power jeweler's magnifying glass may legally be advertised as "perfect" or "flawless."

"Cut" refers to the shape of the diamond and the process by which it is changed from the rough to the faceted stone. Until the stone is cut its value is but potential. Regardless of how clear or large a diamond may be, until it is cut and polished it has very little beauty and the full measure of its beauty is attained only by the proper cutting, upon which depends the diamond's fire and brilliance.

"Carat," our fourth "C", is the acceptable standard of weight for diamonds. The carat is divided into 100 points. Thus when a girl says her diamond is one quarter carat she means 25 points.

Keep in mind there are more small diamonds in nature than large ones, and, as with everything else, rarity creates value. Thus, a two carat diamond may cost three times as much as a one carat stone which is otherwise equal in all respects.

Christmas Memories Last With Jewelry Gifts

If you are anxious to choose Christmas gifts that make the warmth and joy of the holiday season a year-round expression of your affection, the Jewelry Industry Council suggests that the first stop on your shopping trip should be your favorite jewelry store, where you'll see a wide variety of wonderful gifts that are designed to fit all tastes and ages and meet the requirements of even modest Christmas budgets.

There is a special thrill in giving — and receiving — a gift that is not only beautiful to own and wear but also one that represents superior craftsmanship, top quality materials and fashion-right design. Your jeweler offers fine jewelry in wide price ranges, from delicate karat gold bracelet charms, sometimes set with cultured pearls, tiny diamonds or small colored gems, to majestic diamond and platinum necklaces.

You may be giving an impressive and important Christmas gift this year, an exquisite piece of diamond jewelry, for example, or a strand of cultured pearls. If you are paying your Christmas compliments with diamonds, then consider a clip, earrings, necklace, bracelet or small pins. Rings set with diamonds are numerous in design, too, from simple solitaire to the large cocktail ring that combines sparkling diamonds with colored stones in lacy settings.

GOOD NEWS FOR MEN

Good news for men shoppers especially is the Council's report that karat gold and stone — set jewelry are making fashion headlines this year. If you're in doubt, make it a gold bracelet — or two or three. The more the merrier to jingle on her arm. And if she doubts the sentimental side of your nature, give her a simple chain with a few gold charms to start her collection.

If she has a favorite color, she will have a favorite stone, perhaps even her own birthstone. Stone rings and stone-set necklaces, earrings and other jewelry are perfect choices for winter's simple, dark fashions.

You can be sure the brightness of her smile will match the gleaming brightness of your gift if it's one of silver. Giving lovely possessions to decorate a home is still another way to make Christmas last for years to come, for silver grows more beautiful with constant use. And she will appreciate the silver, whether it is a magnificent addition to her tea table or a pair of serving spoons in her favorite flatware pattern.

Just as there is a choice between smoothly tailored and delicately feminine jewelry for women, so is there a variety of designs in men's jewelry. Jewelry for a man can suit his own personal tastes, for there are styles that are conservative and simple and others which are richly and handsomely designed. Choose cuff links, evening studs and links, tie clips, clickpins or collar pins for the important men on your gift list. For the most important ones, consider giving him a ring — stone, emblem, signet or initial.

Another popular Christmas gift for both men and women is the wrist watch. Newest designs in watches make them more important than ever as pieces of attractive jewelry. That is why, the Council tells us, a person can easily use more than one watch. A man, for example, may welcome a smart new wrist watch which is more adaptable in design for business and casual wear than the sturdy watch he uses for sports. If he has frequent occasion to wear formal clothes, a pocket watch and chain are thoughtful additions to his jewelry wardrobe. Women's watch styles make the same distinction between small, neat timepieces for casual wear and dressier designs for afternoon and evening. Tiny watch movements are set in rings and lapel pins and newest styles combine them with imgertantly sized link bracelets.

MORE SENTIMENTAL

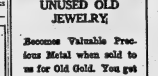
Gifts to please the younger generation are also an important part of Christmas displays in jewelry stores this year. Youngsters are likely to be more sentimental than their elders will give them credit for, and a ring or a silver cup are gifts that they'll keep for their own children someday, long after they themselves have graduated to larger sizes. Jewelry for children starts at the tiniest sizes, and so do silver place settings, ranging from baby spoons to almost adult-sized knives, forks and spoons.

Even though your Christmas gift list seems longer than ever this year, and your budget slim, don't overlook the many, many beautiful gifts that are priced in your specifications. In silver there are napkin rings, coasters, cigaret boxes and urns, ash trays, glass condiment jars trimmed with silver, flatware pieces such as cheese and butter knives, sugar shells and beverage spoons, and graceful bud vases in several sizes.

In men's and women's jewelry you will find many moderately priced pieces, with no sacrifice to craftsmanship, quality or design. The Council adds that you can depend on your jeweler's good judgment as well as on the quality of his merchandise, for he respects individual tastes and individual price limits alike, with an assortment of gift ideas varied enough to satisfy both.

The Signet Ring Of Authority

Charm Bracelet Tells Time. There's a gold self-winding Swiss watch among the antique gold charms and giant topaz of this new charm-bracelet. It was one of the most unusual conversation-pieces introduced by the Swiss timepiece industry at the Basel Watch Fair last spring.



The signet ring is the earliest type of ring. It was developed from the simple, coiled-round strip of gold, the most ancient form of finger adornment. The right to wear a signet ring was not everyone's; it was granted only to certain citizens and officers, according to the Jewelry Industry Council. In days gone by merchants found constant use for their signet rings which indicated that the wearer was a property owner. In medieval times the "Show this ring to the captain of the guard"—meant an unobstructed entry at the drawbridge or gateway. Also: In those days, bankers asked to see a signet ring as proper identification before handing over valuables to a messenger.

THEY TOOK IT WITH THEM

During the reign of Pope Paul III, (1534-1549), an important discovery was made by the architects who were building the sacristy of the Vatican basilica. In the course of their excavations they uncovered the tombs of the Empresses Maria and Thermantia, the first and second wives of the Roman Emperor Honorius, who died in 423 A.D. They had been interred in the greatest magnificence in their imperial robes and great quantities of necklaces, bracelets, earrings, brooches, lockets, and rings had been arranged about the sepulcher. From their garments, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, forty pounds of purest gold jade and among her large collection were jade earrings trimmed with pearls, many jade bracelets and rings, and even jade fingernail protectors. The Empress also owned a marvelous rope of pearls, which was buried with her, being wound nine times round her body. These pearls, which were valued at more than $6,000,000, were among the treasures rifled from the Royal tombs during the Chinese Revolution.

BEAUTY OF JADE

Foremost among the gems of the beauties of the Eastern world comes jade. This beautiful stone in all its colors, ranging from emerald green, red, black and yellow, to the translucent white known as "melting snow," according to the Jewelry Industry Council, has graced the forms of Oriental beauties for centuries. The beautiful Chinese Empress Tzu Hsi particularly loved jade and among her large collection were jade earrings trimmed with pearls, many jade bracelets

China in New Shapes, Color Suitable as Gifts

When a lady entertains, she's apt to spend as much time and care in planning her table setting — her china silver, linens and centre-piece — as in choosing the dress and jewellery she'll wear. Fashion, in other words, is no longer limited to her wardrobe or her jewellery box. It is being applied today, in its full sense, to everything a home "wears", to the balance of color and texture in furnishings, decorations and in table settings as well.

As the year's gayest season for entertaining and gift-giving is about to begin, home furnishings are in the spotlight — particularly table-top fashions, for every celebration begins or ends at the dining room table, whether it's a midnight buffet or formal dinner.

Good fashion in the home can blend the best of many periods, without striving for textbook authenticity in any one period. This partnership of traditional and modern is reflected in the fine china of today, which embraces in its design the elegance of tradition and the simplicity of contemporary. Traditional designs don't have to be stodgy and cluttered; they are being treated with a new restraint and fresh neatness. Modern designs are softer and less self-conscious, likewise lending themselves to any surrounding.

MANY DESIGNS

Because designers and manufacturers of china believe that it is an important decorating accent, they have provided the shopper with a wide variety of tasteful designs in new shapes colors and motifs.

Frankly modern but easily adaptable to traditional surroundings are coupe shape and squared plates, with delicately flared edges, and accessory pieces that are gracefully and simply shapes. Modern shapes may be all one color, pure white or sometimes decorated with a scattering of tiny flowers and perhaps touched with the shimsy of abstract or geometric design.

Dramatic use of color livens traditional shapes, often with a narrow band of platinum around a deep shoulder of green, blue or maroon. The platinum, by the way, is a subtle link between your sterling and chinaware. Grey is a color that is gaining in popularity, along with aqua, pink, terra cotta and brown, each one offering an unlimited source of inspiration for table decorations.

The influence of informal, outdoor living is also being felt in contemporary china design. You will find the leaf and fern motifs, for instance represented in elegantly simple traditional patterns and in boldly modern designs — in delicate green-on-white or dramatic white-on-charcoal. Thistle, berry sprays and ivy motifs vie with polka dots and spirals, each one receiving clean-cut, colorful interpretation in china that is beautifully at home in any surrounding.

Columbia "TRU-FIT" DIAMOND RING

The moment you place a Columbia "Tru-Fit" Diamond Ring on your finger, two protecting "angels" spring into action — self-adjusting to the natural shape of your finger. No more annoying twisting or turning. No more looseness — your ring is always perfectly positioned, always secure and comfortable.

Top: "Tru-Fit" units conceal to permit easy passage over knuckle.

Below: then self-adjust to shape of finger, holding ring gently yet securely in perfect, comfortable position always.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY AND DEPENDABILITY"

Dramatic and demure — For the woman who has been longing for a stunning timepiece and a diamond bracelet, here is the answer to both. This delicate platinum watch designed by Swiss craftsmen is set with diamonds and provides a perfect accessory for dramatic after-dark wear.

Entire Swiss Economy Dependent upon Time

Switzerland and watches have been almost synonymous for years, but few realize just how much the tiny country depends on its watch-making industry.

The Swiss have no access to the sea, and own no colonies. Their country possesses no minerals and no raw materials worth mentioning, and one-fourth of its territory is mountainous and impossible to cultivate.

Yet Switzerland today is one of the few nations with a stable currency. With a population half that of New York City, it is one of Canada's best cash customers.

So extensive is watchmaking in the Swiss economic geography that an entire region of the country, between Geneva and Schaffhouse, lives almost entirely by the watch industry. Generations of watchmakers live there, with families tracing their work to the founding of the industry in 1550.

While factories now make use of all latest machinery and modern production methods, craftsmanship is still the dominant factor. "Our most vital resource", say the Swiss, "is skilled hands".

A recent showing of watches consisted of outstanding examples of Swiss ingenuity. One watch can correct itself! Special features of the chronographs exhibited included recorders for airplane pilots, pulse recorders for doctors and a built-in-slide rule calculator. An automatically-wound global time-keller gives its wearer the current time anywhere in the world. For the sports-minded, there are two Olympic timers that record down to one-tenth of a second.

It takes 2,400 distinct operations to manufacture a Swiss watch. They have 120 parts, at least, the smallest a screw four-thousandths of an inch in diameter.

Every year the entire Swiss watch industry-employers, clerical staff and workmen - closes shop and goes on vacation. All companies close at the same time for the same vacation period, two weeks with pay. During the mass vacation, workers get reduced rates on trains and at resorts.

Most Swiss watch shipments to the United States are movements only, providing American assemblers with the basic unit for casing, strapping and merchandising — an all-American business worth six times as much as the movements themselves.

A watch should be wound once a day, preferably in the morning so it gets a strong start for the long 24 hours ahead, according to the Watchmakers of Switzerland. When run down, good watches can be set by moving the hands in either direction.

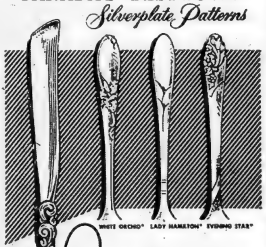
Colorful History Behind Jewellers

The qualified jeweller of today has a heritage thousands of years old. The craft dates back to Biblical days when fathers and sons devoted their lives to hammering out silver ornaments for wealthy nobles.

The Pharaohs were buried with necklaces made by the court jeweller. Assyrians were hand-made earrings as a badge of affluence as early as 3,500 B. C.

In the Middle Ages, Queen Isabella of Spain owned a collection of precious jewelled pieces made by master craftsmen. The cash she raised on the jewels is said to have financed the trans-Atlantic junket of Christopher Columbus.

Marie Antoinette believed "diamonds are a girl's best friend". To her glittering collection she once added a gold watch from Abram-Louis Breguet, famed Swiss watch pioneer. It was the first self-winding timepiece, according to legend. The bill came to 20,000 francs, but history has not recorded whether Marie gave the watch to the court favorite for whom it was intended , or paid the bill.



Swiss jeweller-watchmakers of the 17th Century travelled as far afield as Constantinople to make custom watches. But, as the years brought technical progress and widening markets, makers gradually became manufacturers and travellers, merchants.

Today, the qualified jeweller's services lie within the reach of everyone. When Mother rings in to select a wedding gift for Cousin Mary or Dad looks over the newest watches for an anniversary present, the established jeweller is being asked to give the same professional counsel that his predecessors have been providing for thousands of years.

THIS IS FOR YOU!

A RETAIL HOME FOR DISTINCTION. 5 Bedrooms, 2 Baths. Just how luxurious is seen on a spacious scale and is only 15 years old. It would be grand for a professional man who wishes to have his office with his residence. There is plenty of room on the lot to build an office. Large and well-completed kitchen serves and dining room would see the nice barbecue — a wonderful idea for entertainment in the summer. The sprawling ranch type has a natural fireplace with black marble. You will be pleased with the size of the dining room and the kitchen breakfast nook. Pleasant 4-piece bath. There are three bedrooms — two on the first floor and one in the basement you will find a Tushin oil furnace and laundry tubs. We believe that you will think this is a good home for the price of $18,500. The owner is leaving for the city and will be glad to show it to you. You may be the next proud owner.

BIG ROW

The U.S. Air Force is bringing the troops to Italy and HCAF transport planes became ferrying them to Egypt today.

DELEGATES PUZZLED

The U.N. general position in the Middle East crisis continued to puzzle other Western delegations. The New York Times reports today, quoting a Commonwealth source, that when Britain and France approached the Americans asking clarification of the mission of the UN commander force before the Anglo-French forces withdraw, they were told in effect: "Get out."

The U.S. apparently is refusing to take any part on salvage operations, or any other phase of the problem, leaving British and French forces are completely withdrawn.

Australia's external Affairs Minister R. G. Casey pleaded in the assembly today for a healing of the Anglo-American breach.

"We in Australia say to our mother country Great Britain and to our friends in the United States, 'Please lower your tone and get together in confident and mutual trust for the good of the whole democratic world.'"

GOVT. RELAXES

The boosted Canadian Hungarian relief contribution met with general House approval, though acting Opposition leader Howe described the $1,000,000 as a "paltry, shamefully low amount."

Canada should serve to take a "substantial bloc" of refugees, CCF leader Coldwell said the cold-blooded shooting of Hungarians in the streets of Budapest was scarcely paralleled in history. It branded Russia not only as an aggressor but as a "cruel and more than dictator power."

Social Credit leader Low termed $1,000,000 a drop in the Hungarian relief, Canada should be ready to give more if necessary.

WROTE TO BULGANIN

Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed to the House an exchange of letters between himself and Russia's Premier Bulganin on the Hungarian situation. He had told Bulganin that reports of Russian actions in Hungary had "profoundly shocked" Canada and urged Soviet moderation and support of UN steps to alleviate suffering.

The Russian premier had replied that Canada apparently had "one-sided information." Bulganin said revolutionary forces, with outside help, had tried to overthrow the people's democratic government of Hungary which then had asked for armed help from Soviet forces.

Mr. Pickersgill said that planning to handle arrival of Hungarian refugees is necessary now because by next week the flow would be substantial.

Immigration officials disclosed that since the government announced its priority status for Hungarian refugee applications, 71 have arrived in Canada—all by air. Another 140 are expected by air shortly.

Pipe Lines Ltd. Plans Financing

TORONTO (CP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., Monday announced plans for raising $120,000,000 of the funds required for building its 2,287-mile natural gas pipe line from Alberta to the vicinity of Montreal.

A registration was filed Monday with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington covering a maximum of $120,000,000 in Canadian funds.

This financing will be in the form of units in the ratio of $100 principal amount of subordinated issues due 1981 and $50 represented by five shares of common shares of $1 par value.

Million of the units will be offered in Canada.

P.C's

Then Mr. Howe spoke at length, ending up with a four - point amendment which is technically a non-confidence motion against the government. It charged the government with:

1. Following a course of "gratuitous condemnation" of the Anglo - French intervention in Egypt—an action which had been designed to prevent a major war.

2. Meekly following "unrealistic policies" of the U.S., thus encouraging a truculent and unfriendly attitude on the part of the Egyptian dictator."

3. Putting Canada "in the humiliating position of accepting dictation from President Nasser" on the make-up of the UN force.

4. Not taking swift and adequate action to give refuge to patriots of Hungary and other Soviet - dominated countries.

CLAIMS NASSER SUPPORTED

Mr. Rowe said there is no disagreement with the responsibility of a UN force to patrol the Suez Canal area during peace. But the UN was letting Nasser exercise a veto over its make-up. He said "his Russian friends" were trying to emasculate the force.

The force "now has the support of Nasser force, made of elements he wants, to be sent where he wants them to go."

Mr. St. Laurent's speech in reply was also high in vigorous. He said countries which signed the UN charter agreed to use peaceful means, not force, to settle disputes.

The suggestion that Canada has been humiliated by requirements made by Nasser is just one of those wild assertions for which there is absolutely no foundation in fact."

As for following U.S. policies, Canada has always acted in support American resolutions at the UN.

ADMITTANCE NEEDED

The UN resolution calling for creation of the police force said Egypt must consent to admittance of the troops. The UN was not going to have the right of "free way into the country." But that was the only point on which Egyptian consent was required.

The prime minister then turned to Canada's commitment to the force.

The 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, had been offered because it was next in line for rotation to Europe for NATO service.

He said "we have it by way of hearsay" that in talks between Nasser and UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold it was suggested that Canadian infantrymen, with British-style uniforms, might be mistaken in Egypt for British troop reinforcements and that that might give rise to unfortunate incidents.

Then the UN force commander, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, had asked Canada for administrative personnel and transport planes.

Russians Return To Homeland

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters) — Nineteen Russians including one woman arrived at Liverpool from Canada today in the liner Empress of Scotland on their way back to Russia. Some of them emigrated 27 years ago.

Names were politely refused and one reason given for their return was that "conditions in Russia now probably be better than in Canada."

St. Laurent's Note To Eden Will Not Be Made Public

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday rejected an opposition demand that he make public a note he sent to Prime Minister Eden in connection with Britain's part in the Middle East crisis.

However, he told the Commons there is not the "slightest shred" of fact in reports which circulated London that he had sent a "blistering" note to Sir Anthony.

Replying to John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) who asked for publication of the text, Mr. St. Laurent said he had asked Sir Anthony whether he could do so and Sir Anthony had turned thumbs down.

The view of Sir Anthony, said Mr. St. Laurent, was that such publication might set a precedent, hampering a full and frank exchange of views among Commonwealth heads.

A note of sympathy for Sir Anthony in his current illness was sounded by Mr. St. Laurent.

"I am sure we have all saddened to hear that Sir Anthony had been constrained to take quite a long rest at a time when we all know how anxious he would have been to continue to share in the responsibility of the decisions that the world situation requires to be made at this time."

Mr. Tweedy

Pro-Soviet Officers Seize Control of Govt. of Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Egypt's crisis brought a silent coup to sister Syria.

The country was brought under martial law—proclaimed the day fighting broke out in Egypt and control of the army, empowered to enforce the martial law, is in the hands of a group of pro-Soviet officers under the current strongman, Col. Abdul Hamid Sarai.

These officers are not Communists. But they place a high value on Soviet arms and Soviet political support. They will permit no criticism of the Russians.

The night martial law was declared, Damascus had its first "air raid," and there was a good chance that the wail of the sirens was largely political. Thereafter the sirens wailed frequently, with no visible evidence of menace in the sky.

So far as the frightened and unsophisticated population was concerned, the raids were real. The sandbagged and blacked-out buildings of Damascus heightened the illusion of imminent danger. Anti-aircraft batteries fired often.

The "air raids" also impressed on the public the need for continued martial law, which left the army in full control. The civilian government became less and less effective.

Under martial law, an actual open and public coup d'etat is the style customary in Syria was hardly necessary. The army could rule without it.

When the big crisis broke in Egypt, the civilian government ordered a military guard around the pumping stations for Iraq Petroleum Company pipelines. That same night, while the stations were supposed to be under heavy army guard, all three were blown up, halting the flow of Iraqi oil not only to the Mediterranean and Europe, but to Syria herself. (Iraqi Petroleum is owned by British, American, French and Dutch interests).

INFLUENCED PRESS

The same martial law, with Sarai and the army in control, made the entire press and radio pro-Soviet.

The press was deliberately blinded to the Soviet military subjugation of Hungary. Not a line of news from any Western source was carried by the press or radio. Only the Moscow radio and the Soviet official news agency Tass were quoted.

When Prime Minister Nehru made his statement Nov. 19 on the world's crises, the Indian legation in Damascus gave the Syrian government a translation for publication. Nehru's criticism of the Russians for the Hungarian events was suppressed. Only the Middle East sections of Nehru's remarks were used.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can have fifty with many interesting and active years ahead—if you, that is, if you can avoid backaches and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 50 years Doan's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are troubled this way, get at once for Doan's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's. 24

HERE! NEW TASK-FORCE '57 CHEVROLET TRUCKS
The fleet that conquered the Alcan Highway

Here's proof — straight from the AAA-certified rough and tough test run! — that new 1957 Chevrolet trucks have the power, performance and stamina to increase hauling efficiency on any job!

With their first steps, new '57 Task-Force trucks proved their greatness. Six payload-carrying models, light-weights, mediums and heavies, roared up the entire length of the 1,520-mile Alcan Highway (normally a 72-hour run) in less than 45 hours — and with gas mileage ranging up to 20 miles per gallon!

Chassis components (frames, steering, suspensions) were subjected to twisting, torturous miles of rutted, rough going. Engines and transmissions (including Chevrolet's new 283 cu. in. Super Task-master V8) were severely tested over an obstacle course of mud and pounding gravel, up towering grades and through treacherous washouts.

And these rugged new Chevrolet trucks came through, conquered the Alcan in a history-making round-the-clock run! See the Alcan champs in person at your Chevrolet dealer's!

Ready to swing into your hauling job! Whether yours calls for fast-working efficiency against tight schedules, or big muscles for rugged off-the-road grinds — count on a new Chevrolet Task-Force truck to fill the bill. The Alcan run proved it!

Your Bus Service

It is a matter of deep regret to me that the question of bus service for this City has become something of a political football on the eve of an election. I think it only fair to all concerned that a statement of the facts should be made.

Bus service in this City is provided by a contract between the City of Belleville and Fred Rawson. The buses are owned by Rawson Bus Co. Limited. There is nothing tariff on this and as far as I know nothing ever will turn on this.

Throughout all discussions it will be noted that there has never been the slightest suggestion on the part of any person that the bus service is not a good bus service. I have been repeatedly told by members of council, privately that my greatest difficulty is that my bus service has always been too good. Further, there is no suggestion that the operation of my bus service is inefficient, or costly because of any inefficiency. I believe each member of Council will acknowledge that our bus service is efficiently operated and that our shops are efficiently operated and that as far as running costs and maintenance costs are concerned, because of the fact that I do my own mechanical work, there is a real cost saving and efficiency.

For many years the increasing costs of bus service have been a headache to every municipality. The causes are beyond the control of bus operators and of the municipality. Each bus and its equipment when purchased constantly costs more. The cost of drivers is constantly increasing. In fact, it is acknowledged that in the past several years the only bus operator who has ever paid his municipality an annual franchise fee is Fred Rawson. I know of no other and to the best of my knowledge neither does any member of Council.

Because of increased use of motor cars, the traffic available to produce revenue for a bus operator is decreasing. Thus, where the average business man can look to increased business to meet his increased costs, the bus operator is in the reverse position, namely, he has increased costs and at the same time decreased volume.

All these matters and considerations have been before your Council since August 1956 and from this period forward I have been urging Council to review the bus service of this City. Council knew as I had been warned for some time that unless a review was made, bus service might cease as I was on the road to insolvency.

Finally on October 22nd, 1956, at a full meeting of City Council an agreement was entered into in good faith between City Council and me changing services and rates as follows:

(a) The "Dunbar-Geddes" and the "15 minute East Hill" buses be allowed to commence operations daily at 6.45 a.m. instead of 6.15 a.m.

(b) The "Dunbar-Geddes" and the "15 minute East Hill" buses be allowed to cease operations on Thursday and Saturday evenings at 6.16 p.m.

(c) The "Crosstown" route cease operation effective at once.

(d) The "Parkwood Heights" bus return to Front St. Terminal by Victoria Avenue instead of Bridge St. East.

(e) The fares be changed from 3 tickets for 25c to 2 tickets for 25" or a 15c cash single fare and children fares be altered to 7c cash single fares.

There were no tag ends or unfinished aspects in connection with this Agreement and its terms were set out in a letter to me of October 30th, 1956 from the City Clerk. Note particularly that there was no question of "Fred Rawson" or "Rawson Bus Co. Limited."

I was asked by Council if I would submit my books to an impartial audit for the confidential information of council members. I was prepared to do this to show my good faith. Needless to say such statements would show such confidential matters as how much was owed to the bank, how much was paid for insurance and other such items. This audit when made was labelled "Confidential to members of Council".

On November 19th, 1956 (1) The Agreement of Council with me so clearly set forth in the City Clerk's letter was reneged and (2) the undertaking that the audit would be treated as confidential was breached by some members of Council and excerpts of it, some misread, were publicized out of their context.

I make no further comment on this since the facts speak for themselves.

You must understand, that, meantime, I am expected to operate a bus service which is known to be a losing proposition every day of its operation. Those who work for me are expected to continue to work for hours and wages which they sincerely feel are not comparable to the changed hours and wages which fellow citizens are enjoying during a period of increased living cost.

I hope that with this plain statement of the facts, the citizens of Belleville will have some better appreciation of the problems of bus service in Belleville. I do not wish to be thought to be unduly criticizing any member of Council who participated in these proceedings. However, I do hope that all members of Council will give the whole question of your bus service a fair, reasonable and equitable consideration so as to produce a just result for all.

I feel that I have been fair towards Council and towards the citizens of Belleville. I am prepared to adhere honorably to the Agreement of October 22nd, 1956, precisely according to its terms. If there are those who believe that these terms are in any sense not fair I would suggest an alternate. Kingston's bus service is provided by the City paying the bus operator 53 cents per bus mile with the bus operator bearing all charges and with all revenues being collected directly by the bus drivers depositing the cash boxes daily with the City. Service and routes are as directed by the City. I am prepared to operate on a similar basis. In fact I will do it for 50 cents per bus mile. I need hardly point out that a saving of 3 cents per bus mile, which would be for the benefit of Belleville and its citizens would be a very considerable saving on a yearly basis and would mean that Belleville and its citizens would be getting a bus service admitted to be excellent at six per cent less than the cost presently borne by our neighboring city of Kingston.

I need hardly say that this last arrangement would provide whatever service the citizens of this City feel they need and want.

I would ask you to bear these comments in mind when Council are discussing your bus service.

Yours Faithfully,

Fred Rawson

'Moderate' Tories Seeking To Delete Criticism Of U.S.

100 British Conservatives Back Anti-American Motion

Liberal Leader In B.C. Cleared Of Libel Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) Arthur Laing, leader of British Columbia's Liberal party, has been cleared of libel and slander charges by an eight-man-jury which exonerated politicians about possible injury to third parties during political debate.

Mr. Laing, member of the legislature for Vancouver-Point Grey until his defeat in the recent provincial elections, was sued for libel and slander by the contracting firm of Wade and Wells Co. Ltd., which was involved in construction of a mining access road between Castair and Stewart in northern B.C.

While clearing Mr. Laing of the charges in connection with statements made about the work done by the Castair-Stewart road, the B.C. Supreme Court jury made this recommendation after a three-hour deliberation:

"During political controversies, in speaking under the law of privilege, reasonable care should be exercised to avoid any party may be innocent is involved in the controversy."

Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker delayed judgment on the case until today after Wade and Wells' counsel, Col. Cecil Merritt, VC, indicated that in view of the jury's recommendation he might ask for further consideration by the court for his client.

John Alley, who with Senator J. W. Farris acted for the Liberal leader, had moved for an immediate dismissal following the verdict.

Lloyd Believes British Case Makes Headway

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said today he feels Britain is making headway in her insistence on a permanent settlement for the Middle East.

Lloyd returned from New York where he defended British action in the United Nations debates on the Middle East. Before hurrying off to a cabinet meeting, he told reporters at London airport:

"I certainly think the right thing is just to go back to the state of affairs (that existed) before, they are wasting an opportunity and making a great mistake."

Lloyd said the worst in the United Nies with the purpose of trying to convince people that Britain's action in the Middle East was right.

"I think I have done that to some extent, but no doubt there are still misunderstandings. I can see how the situation in the Middle East was deteriorating and how necessary it was for someone to take decisive action."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A storm centred near Sault Ste. Marie early today will move to east of Lake Ontario by Thursday morning, spreading cloud and snow into Central and Eastern Ontario today. In the wake of this storm, cold air flowing down from the north brought snowsqualls to the area north of Lake Superior during the night. Fresh to strong winds and snowsqualls will include Georgian Bay tonight and evening and areas exposed to southerly winds off the lake may expect two to four inches of fresh snow.

As the cold air deepens over the western skies will clear in the north tonight and throughout most of the province by Thursday evening. The north winds are expected today will make temperatures so far this season.

LONDON (CP)—Anti-American feeling soared to new heights today in Britain. Cartoonists lampooned President Eisenhower mercilessly. A denunciation of U.S. policy introduced by more than 100 Conservatives was before Parliament.

Other voices, however, called for renewed efforts to heal the breach with the United States, caused by the British-French disaster in Egypt. And the tone of much editorial comment was fundamentally friendly to the U.S.

In Parliament, the opposite views were reflected in motions of the minority Labor and Liberal parties urging reconciliation with Washington and by an influential section of the Conservative party attacking the United Nations General Assembly and blaming U.S. Middle East policy for "gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance."

LARGE SEGMENT

The Conservative motion was signed by nearly one-third of the government's backers in Commons, including a large segment and a large a segment of the government party undertaken an attack in this fashion on an allied nation. It said:

"This House congratulates the foreign secretary (Selwyn Lloyd) on his efforts to secure the international peace and the rule of law and deplores both the resolution of the General Assembly calling for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of British and French forces from Egypt and the attitude of the U.S.A., which is gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance."

Four separate UN resolutions have been called on Britain, France and Israel to pull their troops out of Egypt. The United States supported them. The endorsement of the resolution by nearly a third of the Conservative membership of the House promises trouble for the government if it began a complete withdrawal.

Political quarters described the Conservative motion as the strongest expression yet of the determination of Britain's backbenchers that there should be no Anglo-French withdrawal from Suez Said without adequate guarantees of the "effectiveness" of the UN police force.

WOULD HAVE CHANGED IT

Two amendments to the motion were submitted late Tuesday night. The first, put forward by "moderate" Conservatives, deleted the American reference and referred to the need for the continuance of "the traditional friendship and co-operation with the United States."

The second amendment, from Labor members, deplored the "betrayal of Her Majesty's government" which is gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance."

WILL BE SECRETARY

LONDON (Reuters) — Aneurin Bevan, Labor MP, the "foreign secretary" in the Labor party's "shadow cabinet," said Britain's martyrs said Tuesday night. They forecast that the appointment will be announced by Commons members of Parliament on Thursday.

Ask Red Cross Probe Report Egypt Holds Port Said Jews as Hostages

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — A British official has appealed for a Red Cross investigation of reports that the Egyptian secret police are holding one member of each Jewish family in Port Said as hostages.

The Red Cross inquiry was requested by Harry Coe, British consul in Port Said, as other protests were made to the Red Cross about Egyptian plans to deport British, French and Jewish residents from Egypt.

"Egypt has denied that any mass deportation is planned but British and French nationals were placed under 'house arrest' or 'residence' for their own protection.

Coe said he cabled the British foreign office asking intervention by neutral Switzerland to find out from President Nasser what has happened to the missing Jews.

Jewish residents of Port Said—of who number about 3,000—have reported that one member of each family was taken away by Egyptian police the night of Nov. 1.

ASK CANADIANS OPEN HOMES TO HUNGARIANS

Temporary Shelter For Refugees Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration authorities have appealed to the Canadian people to help some Hungarian refugees by welcoming them into their homes.

They made the appeal Tuesday at a conference of federal, Ontario and welfare agency officials called by Immigration Minister Pickersgill to discuss problems associated with the care of the refugees after they arrive in Canada.

Canadian families are asked to provide temporary accommodation in their homes for refugees so they will not be moved "from camps in Europe to camps in Canada," as Mr. Pickersgill put it at the meeting.

The conference urged families able to provide such accommodation to get in touch immediately with their church or parish priest. The information will be passed on to voluntary agencies that have offered to help welcome the new-comers.

NEEDS SPOTLIGHT

As the immigration authorities met, Eastern Commissioner Norman Pearson told the Commons Canada can also help Hungary's people by "putting the spotlight of world opinion on the "savage tactics of the Soviet Union in suppressing the Hungarian freedom fighters, and by working to get United Nations observers and investigators into Hungary.

"Canada can also be helping the Hungarian people—I think we might be hurting them—if we held back from the declaration by force which at this time we would not be able to fulfil," he said.

Mr. Pearson said the Hungarian movement has increased its Hungarian relief program from $200,000 to $1,000,000 and relaxed immigration regulations to permit refugees to come to Canada with a minimum delay.

Laval Forlier, deputy minister of immigration, told Tuesday's meeting that "Canada has developed safe and important problem at the moment is the need for homes in which Hungarian refugee families will be sympathetically received and helped during the early days of arrival."

Mr. Forlier will need this care until such time as they are able to find employment and establish homes of their own. He said the federal government employment agencies are "as everything possible to find them jobs."

AGENCIES ATTENDING

Among the welfare agency officials of the federal labor, immigration and external affairs departments were representatives of the immigration commission; the Ontario department of public welfare; Canada Council of Churches, the Canadian Jewish Congress, the Canadian Red Cross, the Canadian Hungarian Protestant Relief Association, the Canadian Christian Council for Rehabilitation of Refugees, the Canadian Catholic Conference and the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society.

Mr. Pickersgill told Tuesday's meeting: "We all want this to be a national effort on the part of all Canadians. For this we need everyone's help."

Smaller Urban Areas Keep Pace With Major Centres

OTTAWA (CP)—Some of Canada's secondary urban areas are keeping pace in growth with the country's major population centres and even challenging the ranking metropolitan areas.

A bureau of statistics report issued today on this year's census count of 19 urban areas in Eastern Canada showed 12 of them had grown by more than 15 per cent since the last census in 1951, compared with the 14-per-cent expansion of Metropolitan Montreal. Eight of them matched or surpassed the 20.6-per-cent growth of Metropolitan Toronto in the five years.

None of the 19 is among the 10 "census metropolitan areas" listed by the bureau—a list which ranges from Montreal to Saint John, N.B., and St. John's, Nfld. Populations of the 10 have already been announced. But seven of the 19 urban areas have populations greater than the 72,345 of Metropolitan St. John's, and three are bigger than either of the two Maritime centres.

The three are the mining and milling area of Sydney-Glace Bay, N.S., the base metal centre of Sudbury, and the pulp-and-paper-aluminum area of Chicoutimi-Jonquiere, Que.

Population of the Sydney-Glace Bay area rose only three per cent in the five years to 167,134 from 104,224. Sydney grew only slightly to 31,738 from 31,317 and Glace Bay declined to 24,137 from 25,586, but the part of Cape Breton municipality included in the area jumped to 21,240 from 17,782.

Fastest-growing among the 19 areas was Sudbury, with a 32.3-per-cent expansion to 93,735 from 70,884. Sudbury City itself grew to 46,025 from 42,410 but the Township of Neelon and Garson rose more than doubled to 14,355 from 6,438.

The Chicoutimi-Jonquiere area increased 18.3 per cent to 91,910 from 77,725.

Other urban areas which surpassed Metropolitan St. John's, Nfld., included St. Catharines, Fort William - Port Arthur and Kitchener-Waterloo.

The St. Catharines area grew 25.5 per cent to 84,493 from 67,335. The city itself expanded to 29,415 from 27,984 but the part of Grantham Township included in the area nearly doubled to 27,318 from 14,645.

Population of the Lakehead area rose to 83,597 from 71,191, a growth of 17.4 per cent. Port William City went to 20,019 from 34,947 and Port Arthur to 37,502 from 31,161.

The Kitchener - Waterloo district saw a 23.8-per-cent expansion to 129,255 from 104,384, with Kitchener City rising to 59,209 from 54,867 and Waterloo to 16,573 from 11,591.

Only urban area among the 19 to decline in population was the hard-rock mining centre of Timmins-Porcupine, by per cent to 38,329 from 39,437.

Population of the other urban areas listed today:

Oshawa, up 25 per cent to 64,428 from 51,562; Kingston, up 16.8 per cent to 57,600 from 49,327; Brantford, up 8.7 per cent to 33,240 from 52,221; Sarnia, up 27 per cent to 52,493 from 41,202; Niagara Falls, up 20.8 per cent to 31,161 from 42,365; Sault Ste. Marie, up 24.6 per cent, to 50,456 from 40,490; Peterborough, up 10.2 per cent to 45,410 from 41,191, and Guelph, up 20.6 to 36,640 from 30,387.

Harris Not Moved by Pleas To Help Ease Interest Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris was besieged by opposition pleas in the Commons Tuesday to help ease interest rates and credit curbs so that hard-pressed municipalities might find it easier to raise much-needed capital.

But Mr. Harris gave no indication of any plans to change federal policy, in time of inflation and when money was scarce, all sectors of the economy found it difficult to raise funds without paying high interest rates, he said.

"If a municipal corporation finds that as an elected body it has to choose between paying a higher rate of interest and postponing work it has in mind, that is simply a reflection of which comes to all of us at the time or another, whether it be the federal or a provincial or municipal government or indeed a business institution."

Mr. Harris said the government has no policy against municipal or municipal construction. But the current demand for capital and services was greater than Canada's ability to produce. If this trend continued, "we shall see the creation of a much more serious nature than we have experienced in recent times."

J. H. Ferguson (PC — Simcoe North) said that in his community of Collingwood, Ont., it is absolutely impossible to borrow from the banks one dollar to build a home. The banks were saying that was due to the ruling of the Bank of Canada or the government. Was Mr. Harris aware of this? Mr. Harris said he was not.

House Member, Dr. O. C. Trainor, Collapses, Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. O. C. Trainor, 62-year-old Commons member for Winnipeg South, collapsed and died in the Parliament Buildings today and the Commons immediately adjourned until today.

He was a Progressive Conservative.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, his voice shaken with emotion, interrupted a speech by A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) to inform the House of Dr. Trainor's death.

He said he had the consent of the deputy Opposition leader, Hon. Earl Rowe, to adjourn the House until 8 p. m. as a mark of respect to Dr. Trainor and to say he has the affection of all members of the House.

Dr. Trainor, prominent for many years in Winnipeg medical circles, died in his office in the Centre Block of the Parliament Buildings. He had been in poor health for some time.

Dr. Trainor's death reduces Progressive Conservative membership in the Commons to 51. There now are five vacancies in the 265-seat House, which also has 162 Liberals, 22 CCF members, 15 Social Credit members and three independents.

13 TANKS BURN IN ARMY CAMP FIRE AT CALGARY

Military Equipment Lost Valued at $1,775,000

CALGARY (CP) — Military equipment valued at $1,775,000, including 13 Centurion tanks, was destroyed by fire at suburban Currie Barracks army camp late Tuesday.

Three units of the Currie army barracks fire brigade arrived on the scene shortly after an explosion sent flames racing through a huge tank hangar but they could do little because of lack of water.

Maj. Gen. Bert McLean said the water supply to fire hydrants in the area had been shut off.

"Barrack is one big small group of buildings used as a summer camp," Maj. McLean added. "Most of them aren't occupied during the winter and many of the hydrants are shut off.

"As it was, both hose and water would have been available in stepping it for within minutes the whole building was out of control. All we could do was to stop the spreading."

A civilian workman was the only casualty but his burns were not serious.

SIX NEW TANKS

Army officials said the hangar, covering 19,000 square feet and housing 20 tanks, was new and was worth $150,000. It was destroyed by explosions. Six of the 13 Centurion tank was set at $125,000. Six of the tanks were reported to be new.

Col. J. S. Rose, Calgary garrison commander, said the fire forced an inquiry into the fire.

An army spokesman said he was told by firefighters that the flames raced so quickly through the hangar that explosions came after the blast. A boiler in one corner exploded.

Ivan Foster, working nearby, suffered minor burns but several soldiers were hurt in the other end of the 240-foot building escaped unhurt.

Calgary Fire Chief Barney Lemieux said the flames were "completely out of control" when the Calgary detachment arrived on the scene five minutes after getting the alarm.

The hangar has been used by the Lord Strathcona Horse Regiment.

Some tanks were saved before their gasoline exploded.

Report Malenkov In Budapest

BUDAPEST (AP)—Former Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov was reliably reported today to be in Budapest to bolster the government of Premier Janos Kadar.

An excellent source, who asked not to be quoted by name, said it was Malenkov who advised Kadar to change his lenient attitude and resort to harsh measures against still-striking Hungarian workers.

This was the explanation given for Kadar's sharp change in which he reversed his former conciliatory attitude in conferences with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and the Soviet Council of Greater Budapest.

The Kadar regime has stated explicitly that he will add only "nonpartisans" to his government, he transferred Kadar for three hours with Bela Kovacs, secretary-general of the Smallholders party.

Kovacs, who spent more than seven years in Soviet prisons, is probably the only person the Hungarian peasantry would accept as their leader. What Kadar discussed with Kovacs could not be learned.

Psychiatrists Show Concern Over Unscientific Use of 'Happiness Pills'

SEATTLE (AP) — Are tranquilizing drugs robbing Americans of their nervous shortcomings, the fear which traditionally sharpened their ability to defend themselves in danger and thereby speed the country's progress?

Some psychiatrists say that such a possibility lurks in the unscientific use of the "happiness pills," say two psychiatrists who have studied the 8,200 people taking tranquilizers.

Although the pills themselves are not at fault and are potentially of great use in medicine, there is evidence that they can cause undesirable effects which constitute danger to both the individual and to society, Dr. Herbert A. Dickel and Dr. Henry H. Dixon told the American Medical Association Tuesday. They found among the 8,200 people these hazards:

1. Danger to the health and even the life of persons who are "abnormally" active in the drugs.

2. Danger to the patient's philosophy of life and consequently his country's progress?

3. Danger that such a possibility lurks in the unscientific use of the "happiness pills," say two psychiatrists who have studied the 8,200 people taking tranquilizers.

4. Danger to society because it is being led to believe that no one ever should have to be afraid or to feel anxiety.

The psychiatrists said about 80 of the 8,200 became depressed enough to attempt suicide. Others developed types of mania which required more serious treatment. About 400 of the 8,200 patients had these reactions, Dr. Dickel said.

Govt. Attitude In Mid-East Crisis Sharply Criticized

Pearson Claims U.S. Not Entirely Free of Blame

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's attitude toward Britain and France on the Middle East crisis has been sharply criticized by Progressive Conservatives in the Commons. External Affairs Minister Pearson says it was an objective attitude.

But neither Mr. Pearson nor the Conservatives critic Tuesday left the United States free of blame for the explosive situation in the Middle East following the British-French-Israeli actions which led to fighting between Israel and Egypt.

The breakdown on consultation between the U.S. and British and France over the Suez trouble was the most serious fault of the U.K. and France, Mr. Pearson said.

"No other remedy, indeed as member of the Western alliance, is free of some responsibility and particularly the U.S. which is the major and—most powerful member of that group."

BLAMES U.S

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said the silence of the U.S. "are responsible to a very considerable degree—a regrettable degree—for the tragic situation that existed in the Middle East today." Those responsible were the U.S. encouraged Egyptian Premier Nasser "to take the defiant attitude he has adopted."

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) said the "high-handed" action of Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal by refusing financial help for the proposed Aswan dam on the Nile River. Now U.S. policy was to "punish" the three countries—Egypt Britain and France out of the Middle East.

They spoke as the Commons went through its second day of a special parliamentary session to consider the government's action on the Middle East situation and its plan to contribute $1,000,000 to Hungarian relief.

Before it does a Conservative non-confidence motion charging the government's policies were a course of "gratuitous condemnation" of British-French action designed to prevent a major war in the Suez and with following unrealistic UN policies, thereby encouraging a truculent and defiant attitude by Nasser. The motion also said the government has put Canada in the humiliating position of having to appease Egypt and Nasser, and had failed to take firm action to counteract the trend refuge to Hungarian patriots.

PEARSON COMMENTS

In a two-hour speech chiefly defining and explaining government action in the Middle East crisis, Mr. Pearson said the "British-French action was clearly badly and dangerously split" the Commonwealth.

"At one stage after fighting on land began, it was on the verge of dissolution and this was a very exaggerated observation.

The Canadian government had realized that the fault lay not entirely overseas. The U.S. might have been understood Europe's vital interest in the Suez if that had been made clear. Some such thing closer to home—the Panama Canal, run by the U.S.

But he said it was "wise" that Britain and France stopped the fighting after taking Port Said.

"If the U.K. and French forces had continued fighting at that time, after the Egyptian and Israeli governments had accepted the cease-fire, I suggest that the Commonwealth might not have been able to stand the strain; that the Asian members of the Commonwealth might not have been able to remain in it in those circumstances.

"There is evidence from New Delhi, Karachi and Colombo to support that statement."

POSSIBLE SPLIT

"I suggest also that a continuation of the fighting, even if it had had immediately successful military results, would have created an even deeper and more permanent split between the western European and Arab world.

"It might well have led to the occupation of Egypt, which was not an original objective of British-French intervention.

"It would have been a standing invitation to the Egyptian government to invite in at that time, when the fighting was going on, Soviet volunteers."

Mr. Fleming said the Canadian government "has chosen to align itself with those who are not satisfied with the plain statement of purpose and the expression of good faith on the part of the governments of Britain and France in this matter."

The declared purpose of Anglo-French intervention in the Suez had been to prevent a major war and contain hostilities then raging between Israel and Egypt.

Next Session Of Parliament On January 8

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament's next session will begin Jan. 8, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated when Commons closed.

He said the government's intention is to adjourn the present session meeting at 8 p.m. today its work. Parliament would reassemble three days later for the first prorogation of the special session and the new session would open that afternoon.

Mr. St. Laurent was elaborating on a statement he made in the House today of a motion to that effect. He said he will seek for approval of the motion Thursday.

City and District News

MOTORISTS CANNOT USE STREETS FOR OVERNIGHT PARKING

City motorists using the streets as overnight parking space for their cars are running afoul of the law these days as result of Sunday night's 15-inch fall of snow.

On many occasions motorists doing this have been charged in the morning to find their cars ticketed by night patrol officers. City officials point out that the city snowplows work at night and when cars are left on the streets all night they interfere with the operations of the plows.

YOUTHS FACING TWO COUNTS OF BREAKING, ENTERING

Two 17-year-old youths, George Fox, 68 South Side St., and Bernard Michael, 41 South George St., have been arrested by city and provincial police and are charged on two counts of breaking and entering.

The youths were arrested on a charge of entering College Motors on College St. and have since been charged with entering the Sea Cadet headquarters on South Front Street where 2,000 rounds of small arms ammunition were taken.

RIBS, LEG BROKEN IN CAR ACCIDENT

In Deseronto on Tuesday night Jerry Brant was struck by a car driven by Newton Thomas of Woodbine Quinte Park. The accident occurred at about 3.30 p.m. on Main Street West.

Brant suffered two broken ribs with a compound fracture of the right leg. He was removed to the hospital by ambulance. A charge of careless driving has been lodged against Mr. Thomas. Chief W. S. McTaggart investigated the accident.

MRS. CECILE MARTIN ELECTED TO SOCIETY

One of our progressive business women, Cecile Martin of 146 McDonald Avenue, has just been elected to the Electrolysis Society of America.

Mrs. Martin, a graduate of Mount Royal Convent of Montreal, and of Mrs. Flanagan's Secretarial School, was for several years, a legal secretary. However, she wanted work which would enable her to render real service. After investigating many professions, she decided on Electrolysis and made arrangements to study at the World Famous Kree Institute in New York City, where she graduated in 1955.

Returning to Canada, she opened her office at 146 McDonald Avenue in this city.

MEETING POSTPONED FOR 30 MINUTES

The meeting of the candidates for municipal election, which was scheduled to get underway at 7.30 p.m. tomorrow night at St. Alexandra School, has been put off for 30 minutes.

COUNTY COUNCILLORS WILL MEET TUESDAY

Hastings county councillors will meet for their fourth and last session of the year next week at Shire Hall. The session has been called by Warden Elmer Wood for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The up-coming council session will be the last for Warden Wood, both in his capacity as warden of the county and as reeve of his Huntingdon township municipality. Mr. Wood is retiring from municipal life at the end of the year.

Works Minister Makes Flying Trip to City

The Honorable Robert Winters, minister of public works, who spoke to the Quinte District Feremen's Club at the Y.M.C.A. last night, really made a special effort to be in Belleville to give his address at 7.30 p.m.

Mr. Winters was scheduled to speak to the Kiwanis Club at noon yesterday but a pressing discussions at a special session of parliament kept him in Ottawa during the afternoon. However, in the evening he got special permission from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to fly to RCAF Trenton, where he was met by police escort speed to Belleville for only a brief visit at the Foremen's Club.

O.P.P. Corporal Harry Barker raced Mr. Winters to Belleville at speeds up to 80 miles per hour. The car left turn at Front Street was waived and a city constable stood point while Mr. Wispers and his secretary, Douglas Howe, were whisked to the Y.M.C.A. building on Campbell Street.

A short reception was held in Mr. Winters' honor at the officers' mess at RCAF Station, Trenton, following his visit to Belleville, and at 10.45 he climbed aboard the department of transport Dakota and hurried back to Ottawa.

Need for Parity in Farm Prices Stressed by Speaker

TWEED — "Parity is a necessity if farmers are going to survive," said A. V. Cormack, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union, at the annual meeting of that association at St. Carthage's hall, last week.

Mr. Cormack expressed the opinion that farmers were confused by conflicting economic advice and soothed by predictions of future prosperity but despite the fact that Canada's population has increased by millions, the farmers' income from the sale of food during the same time has been greatly reduced.

The speaker commented that during the first half of 1956, exports of agricultural products increased by almost $31,000,000 over the same period last year. Because farmers are faced with low prices imports, the need for parity prices for farmers was never greater. Farmers' income is farther reduced by others than at any other time in history Parity is a term often used when farmers are going to survive, yet we have major influence in finding the answer here and full parity prices," said Mr. Cormack.

The speaker said that $3,000,000,000 per year has been set aside for agriculture supports and for parliament kept him in Ottawa parliament kept him in Ottawa during the afternoon. However, in the evening he got special permission from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to fly to RCAF Trenton, where he was met by police escort speed to Belleville for only a brief visit at the Foremen's Club.

All Separate School Trustees Are Acclaimed

With the Monday afternoon decision of W. R. Doyle not to contest the Foster Ward seat on the Separate School Board and the Separate School Board and the Public School Board have all the members for 1957 elected by acclamation.

Although he qualified Saturday as candidate for the school board seat, Mr. Doyle has since decided to withdraw and his intentions to this effect have been intimated to city clerk Mrs. A. M. Haggerty. Accordingly Gordon Cooney, the present board director for the Foster Ward will receive acclamation.

So the December 3rd municipal election has been whittled down to a fight for the mayoralty and for the seven seats open on city council.

Mayor Jane Forrester and Ex-Mayor Jack Boh will fight it out for the first registrant's position, while eleven candidates will be up for election to the seven council seats.

EASILY RECOGNIZED

EDMONTON (CP)—Fifteen city police patrol cars will have bright flasher lights and sirens and the words "City Police" painted on the doors. In the past only special traffic squad vehicles have carried markings.

Obituaries

HERBERT R. HAMILTON

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon, November 22nd, for Herbert R. Hamilton, 53, of 3709 Matchette Rd., Windsor, who died suddenly in Clinton Hospital, Monday November 19th.

MRS. FRANCIS S. DEMOREST

One of the eldest citizens of this district, Mrs. Agnes Demorest, a resident of the Belcrest Nursing Home, died on Tuesday in her 98th year after an illness of three weeks.

Daughter of the late John McGee and Jane Thompson, she was born in Sidney and lived all her life in the Stirling district prior to coming here eight years ago.

Mrs. Demorest was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

She was predeceased by her husband, Francis S. Demorest, in 1938.

MRS. ARNOLD WANNAMAKER

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. Arnold Wannamaker, the former Elsie Ina Eggleton, was held on Saturday, November 24 in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was largely attended. Mr. James Booker, Ottawa, conducted the service at the home, church and cemetery on behalf of Grace chapel. Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's assisted in the service at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Bronson, of Bancroft, sang "Face to Face" with Mrs. Harry Morrow, church organist, at the piano.

The bearers were all nephews of the deceased: Wannamaker, Grant Stapley, Claude Roper, Howard Wannamaker, Kenneth Bedlowski and Garfield Welch.

Interment was made in Stirling cemetery.

GEORGE PELOW

A funeral service for George Pelow, lifelong resident of the Marmora and Madoc district, was held on Friday, November 23, in the chapel of the Wells and Howden Funeral Home, Marmora. Rev. H. Smith officiated. Interment was in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Bearers were Messrs. David Blakely, Percy Embury, Gordon Harris, Jim Wallace, Charles Ward and Bill Brown.

Mr. Pelow is survived by one sister, Mrs. Clara Sparks, Tweed. He had four brothers, all of whom predeceased him.

Mr. Pelow died in his 77th year in Belleville General Hospital on November 21, following a lengthy illness. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pelow of Queensboro and remained a bachelor. Mr. Pelow attended the United church.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all my relatives, friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses during my illness. I was a patient in Kingston General Hospital and since returning home, the many messages by cards, flowers and treats and the friendly calls and inquiries were all very much appreciated by me. I would especially like to thank Dr. Dr. Cronk, Dr. Simpson, Dr. Thompson, Dr. Houston, for their skill and attention; also the Rev. T. C. Wilson and the Bridge Street Church. Thanks again for everything.

—Mrs. Annie Bird.

Mrs. George H. Arnold, Moira, Ont., wishes to express her sincere thanks and appreciation to her good neighbors and many friends who were so good to her during her illness and calling, sending books, flowers, cards and gifts. Also to the doctors and nurses who looked after her so well. She would also like to take this opportunity to thank the following doctors, Drs. S. Crook, J. Simpson, Dr. Cronk, Dr. Houston, for their care and attention; also all the nurses who gave every care and kindness. Thank you.

Former Business Man John Lloyd Dies Suddenly

Following a heart seizure, apparently brought on by shovelling snow, John Lloyd, 70, of 180 Bridge Street West, died suddenly early Tuesday afternoon in his home.

In the death of Mr. Lloyd, the city has lost one of its former businessmen and one who introduced the service station to this community. In his early life, after completing his education, Mr. Lloyd entered the cheese making profession and was followed in that trade being cheese maker at Hallowell, Lonsdale and Foxboro cheese factories.

Entering another phase of his life, Mr. Lloyd came to Belleville in 1915 and entered the employment of the Bell Telephone and continued with that firm for some years. Always looking for better opportunities, he followed and opened the first service station in this city at the corner of Bridge and Dundas Streets and for many years successfully operated this enterprise.

In this business he enjoyed a wide circle of friends and a wider circle of friends. Some years after, he moved across the river to the location of his present home at 180 West Bridge Street and Coleman Street and operated a service station until his retirement some years ago and then returned to his gardening and his flowers of which he was most fond.

The late Mr. Lloyd was a kind friend and a good neighbor. He had a pleasing personality and was ever willing to assist anyone in difficulties. He took no active part in municipal life but was always willing to assist in any worthwhile project that would benefit his adopted city.

He was born in Huntingdon township, 91 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lloyd and had continuously resided in this city and district. He was an adherent of the Victoria Avenue Baptist church and fraternally was a life member of Stirling Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 89. On the occasion of his 50 years of membership he was presented with a jewel and honored by his brethren.

Surviving are two sons, Orliff "Boller" Lloyd of the Garage Supply Company in this city, Asa Lloyd of Windsor; one daughter, Mrs. Paul (Mildred) Landon of Ottawa and one brother, Adam Lloyd of Wellington. His wife, the former Minnie Belcour, died in 1945.

IN MEMORIAM

ZEFFERY. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Ronald Jeffery, who passed away November 28th, 1953.

Sadly missed by Mother, Dad and Keith.

With heart both crushed and sore;
We miss you more and more
As each day comes and goes.
Not a word gone before,
Or knows the heart aches we know,
Or why our tears we shed;
Only we who have lost
Your loved one is not dead.
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Sylvia
And pray to God each night;
And when he calls us home with you
Your smile will guide the way.

ZEFFERY. — In loving memory of our dear niece and granddaughter, Ronald Jeffery, who so suddenly passed away November 28th, 1953.

Her happy face to see;
To hear her voice and see her smile,
That meant so much to us.
So sudden and unexpected, dear one,
Uncle Fletcher and Grandma Reid.

JEFFERY. — In loving memory of our dear son, Ronald Jeffery, who passed away November 28th, 1953.

Sadly missed and remembered by brothers Kenneth and Harold.

BOLLER. — In loving memory of Anne Marie, who left us suddenly, November 28th, 1955.

The children of heaven were robed in white,
And happy at play in the City of Light.
When Jesus spoke sweet words and said it is well,
He beckoned little playmate, give Anne your hand."
There we'll know her voice in the Lamb's sweet song,
Her walk in the streets of gold.
And the lovely smile upon her face,
Will be there for all to see.
—Ever remembered by Uncle Clifford, Aunt Blanche, June and Norton Reid.

Deseronto Is Short a Mayor Due Double Nomination Mixup

DESERONTO — Oversight on the part of a mayorally nominee who failed to officially qualify for which office he would run after being nominated for two positions has resulted in a second nomination meeting being called for the office of mayor at Deseronto.

The new nomination meeting will be held December 7th.

With the exception of the office of mayor the town saw acclamations all around with council members, school-board members, and the one member of public utilities being returned without opposition.

REEVE AND COUNCILLORS

The 1957 reeve will be Bert Twiddy, with council members being A. S. Hinchey, J. Fichett, Percy Knight, George Knight, A. Stubbs and John Wyatt.

Board of Education members are Mrs. Peter Thleiman, Canon S. Coleman and Chas. Cole. Utilities member is S. Wessman.

There were two candidates for the office of mayor although there were three nominations. These were Thomas Kelly, who is retiring this year. Dr. D. C. McVicker and John W. Spence.

Dr. McVicker was nominated for both reeve and mayor and at the nomination meeting expressed his intention of standing for the office of mayor.

However, he was nominated first for the reeveship and according to regulations had to officially resign the first nomination before 9 o'clock p.m. nomination day in order to stand for the second nomination for mayor. This he failed to do.

Speaking briefly at the nomination meeting Mayor T. S. Scott announced his retirement and referred to the town's financial standing how Deseronto had improved in that department despite heavy expenditures which included a new public school and new fire truck. Deseronto, he said, was a good town with its greatest need being civic pride on the part of its residents.

Reeve Dr. McVicker had sharp comments for those who criticized the actions of the council and others in municipal office, but who would not even come out for nomination.

Minister Tells Foremen's Club Work on New Public Building Should Be Underway Next Year

Robert H. Winters, minister of Public Works, Ottawa, told the Quinte District Foremen's Club last night that work on the new federal building in Belleville should get underway next year.

"We sincerely hope we'll make a start at it next year. Property has been acquired and plans are being drawn up. We hope to be able to go to tender next spring," he said.

The monthly meeting of the club was held in the YMCA.

Mr. Winters took time out from a special session of parliament, which was called last week "at a time in a period of considerable stress," to address the club. His topic was "Industrial Development."

Mr. Winters commented on the industrial expansion in Belleville in recent years and observed that "most, if not all, of the available land within the city limits is in the process of being taken up by industrialists." He said further growth — which may be considered normal — will have to depend upon development in the surrounding areas."

Mr. Winters remarked that the "diversified industrial activity which characterizes the area, cannot but make for relative stability in its overall employment picture." He also commented on the climate and nature of the Canadian economy it is almost impossible to avoid some ups in activity during the winter, "but this is equally in the interests of everyone — labor, employers and government — that this should be held to a minimum."

So far this year Canada's gross national product, or the total of all goods and services turned out, has been running about 10 per cent ahead of 1955, in terms of money. Mr. Winters said that allowing for a slight rise in prices which has occurred, the product has still been seven to eight per cent higher in real terms.

"One of the causes which has called forth this production is the high and rising earnings of the Canadian people," he said. This is portrayed in retail sales, which are now running 10 to 11 per cent higher than a year ago.

LARGE INVESTMENT PROGRAM

"Of perhaps even greater importance, is the very large investment program which is pressing hard on available labor supplies and certain materials, like steel," Mr. Winters said. He stated that the total capital outlays in 1956 will be about $7 1-2 billion, almost 25 per cent above last year.

"The significance of this continuing flow of investment can hardly be exaggerated, for it shows the confidence of the investing public in the present and long-term outlook of the Canadian economy and its expectations of growth," said the speaker.

He urged the necessity "in these days of international tension," for Canada to maintain its defence forces at an adequate level.

Canada's foreign market takes over one-fifth of all goods and services produced in this country. Exports are now running about 10 to 11 per cent above 1955.

"Considering how hard the Canadian people have been working their economy, it is scarcely surprising that we have been bumping our heads against the ceiling of our resources," the minister said.

Production in bottle-necks have been occurring in spite of an increase in immigration, and the fact that there are now more women and more younger and older folk in the working force. The number out of work in Canada, who are actively seeking employment, as of October 20 was 98,000, less than two per cent of the labor force. Mr. Winters added that the number of unplaced applicants at the Unemployment Insurance Commission offices is well below last year.

The minister said that heavy structural steel and plate, among other raw materials, are short and are likely to remain so for some time. He credits a flow of foreign capital with helping with making the situation less acute than it would otherwise have been. At the end of September Canada's foreign trade took in $670 million of commodities more than left the country. A boom of long-term capital to Canada—a movement based on foreign confidence, both in economic and political stability, and in the country's prosperity and long-term prospects—partly paid for the excess imports.

CANNOT BE MET

"In some ways this adverse balance of trade is not an unmixed blessing," he said, Canada imports so much because the demands of her people for goods arising out of "our buoyant economy" is so great that they cannot all be met from our own production.

The situation, he felt, is in part self-correcting. Much of this adverse trade balance is due to the import of high-cost foreign capital equipment, which is being used to increase Canada's production so that the needs of her people can be met.

Mr. Winters said that the federal government has felt that action should be taken to reduce the pressure on Canadian resources and prices. The Bank of Canada, commercial banks and financial houses have exercised some restraint on current spending and on spending plans in an effort to have existing supplies of available money used to the best possible advantage.

"Some postponement of investment plans would clearly be valuable, and this is the case in demand on tight supplies of labor and materials, but also to stretch out our expansion for a longer period and curb the dangers of inflation at the same time," he said.

Mr. Winters foresees a good employment picture for the coming winter. "No doubt there will be certain localities where the employment picture will be either more favorable or less so," he said. Seasonal employment is a matter of continuing concern, not only to the workers, but also to the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The speaker said that the federal government has urged local construction companies to "increase the work they undertake in the need for arranging that postponable work be done during the busiest season in the summer, for the performance during the relatively slack months of winter." This was not to imply that the construction industry itself has ever been aware of the problems involved in seasonal swings.

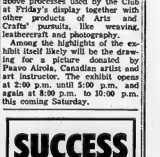
COMMENDS COUNTRYSIDE

Referring to employment committees composed of employers and labor representatives and various other local bodies working with the local manager of the National Employment Service, Mr. Winters remarked that, "I understand that such a committee operated in Belleville last winter and that it had a successful season and was instrumental in placing and maintaining ih employment, a considerable number of people. The press, radio, radio and churches, all contributed. This is the sort of public-spirited action which is stimulating and promoting confidence in the future of our Canadian democracy."

The department of public works called tenders on contracts earlier than usual this year, so that contracts might be let early enough that builders would be able to enclose structures in the fall, thus providing a maximum amount of work inside during the coldest months. This is one of a plan instigated by an inter-departmental committee, at the federal level, which was set up in July last year.

Since Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation was transferred to the public works department a total of $52 million has been lent for the kind of work that can be done during the winter months.

Although the matter of seasonal employment appears serious, it will be present as long as Canada has its cold winters, Mr. Winters advocated a combination of effort on the part of governments at all levels, employers, labor, and local community action to hold seasonal unemployment to a minimum.



"Once people everywhere become convinced that the problems are not all insurmountable, solutions become possible," he concluded.

Introduced by Don Bacon, Mr. Winters was thanked by Al Fewtrel.

Among the guests were Mayor Jane Forrester, Frank Foilwell, M.P., Ed. Rose, M.P.P., president of the Canadian Council of Foremen's clubs. Rev. Ralph Middleton gave the invocation and W. E. Sandercock, M.P., was unable to attend due to a previous engagement.

STOLE TRAIN BEARINGS

MONTREAL (CP) — Armand Barclet, 25, of Montreal, was sentenced to six months in jail Tuesday for his part in thefts that cost the CNR and CPR about $100,000. Barclet pleaded guilty to the theft of $15,000 worth of brass bearings from train wheels. Railway officials said the thefts cost them $100,000 in damages and repairs.

Davie Fulton Visits Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Davie Fulton, candidate for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, told Quebec district party members Tuesday night the Liberal government has shown "constant contempt' for the rights of the provinces.

The member of Parliament for Kamloops, B.C., on a one-day visit to Quebec City, said the Liberal government has attempted to divide the country rather than unite it.

Former Resident Remembers Old Days Of 60 Years Ago

Home ties are strong ties, even though they are 60 years or more away.

Such is evidenced by the following letter from a former resident of the Belleville area now living in Washington state on the west coast, who in forwarding his subscription for the Ontario Intelligencer recalls boyhood memories. The writer, Mr. J. Stanley Bird, now is a wholesale distributor at Bellingham, Washington.

"This subscription comes from one whose garden of memories has many blossoms in the city of Belleville of 60 years ago, a few of which I mention: The Belleville Opera House, Ringling Bros. circus parade, the market square, Albert College, the boat whistles, dinner at the Kyle House, Jake Pliskie's candy store, Sunday school picnic to Lake on the Mountain, Santa Claus at McIntosh's Variety store, visit to the Intelligencer where I was made the proud recipient of a printing plate in which my name was moulded, and, not the least of these, the 1-mile ride with my folks to Belleville's Saturday market.

"These are some of the thrills that, for a country boy of 6, were equivalent to the lights of Broadway today. "I have gotten a long way from Belleville, but Belleville has never gotten away from me."

Next to his moving to the west coast, Mr. Bird was a resident of Stirling. His father, the late Jesse B. Bird, at one time lived in the Oak Hill district near Harmony.

A cousin of Mr. J. S. Bird, Ken Bird, is principal at Avondale Public, Tweed Road, and conveys ponds with him every Christmas.

Arts and Crafts Club to Hold First Exhibit

One of the highlights of the year of the Belleville Arts and Crafts — already one of the most active organizations in the city — is scheduled for this Saturday.

It is the Club's first annual exhibit of its artistic work — in which the public will have an opportunity to not only view the products but may also purchase any particular piece of work to which a fancy is taken.

And — for extra good measure — the display is going a tea for all those attending.

Location of the exhibit, sale and tea will be in the Kinsmen Club on East Dundas Street.

Saturday's affair is the first venture of its particular kind staged by the Club — it is by no means the first time the Belleville Arts and Crafts has thrown its work open to public criticism —, or appreciation.

Since its re-formation some years ago under the aegis of the Belleville Recreation Committee, the club has been steadily enlarging on its membership and its sphere of activities.

First now has a membership of almost 200 — busily engaged in such branches of artistic endeavor as ceramics, metalcraft, silk-screening and, of course, painting.

There will be exhibits of all the above-mentioned crafts on display at Friday's display together with other products of Arts and Crafts' pursuits, like weaving, leathercraft and photography.

Another highlight of the exhibit itself likely will be the drawing for a picture donated by Peace Abrek, Canadian artist and art instructor. The exhibit opens at 2:30 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. and again at 8:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. this coming Saturday.

C. of C. President Outlines Work Of Organization

"Businessmen in this community should press for united action to see that the business platform of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is implemented," said M. F. Carscallen, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, yesterday.

"The policies of organized business as adopted at the last annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce have just been received in printed form. They touch on several important issues facing our businessmen, such as taxes, trade, defence, seasonal unemployment, and health services," he said.

Mr. Cane said that a delegation from the Canadian Chamber had personally presented these policies to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Cabinet on Wednesday, November 14. The chamber can draw to the attention of our local members of parliament some specific item of policy and let him know that it received our unqualified support. This is the kind of promotion which will develop support in the House of Commons for the platform which the Chamber of Commerce movement has developed," he concluded.

In the booklet "Policy Declarations and Resolutions," which the Canadian Chamber received recently, are several matters of interest to residents of Belleville.

The Chamber resolved that Thanksgiving Day should be set by statute as the second Monday in October. It also urged that the hour for polling in federal elections be extended to 8 p.m. The Chamber has resolved to petition the federal government to initiate measures in consultation with the provinces, to once again restore the observance of uniform time in all areas of Canada as was done most successfully during the Second World War.

Among the resolutions was one urging all corporations, partnerships and business and professional men generally to support fully their local Chamber and co-operate with it in its various activities.

POINT OF VIEW

Detachment is a wonderful thing.

The editorial writer of the Windsor Star is about as detached as he can be, without giving grounds for the charge that he has not a leg to stand upon.

Monday winter came to Belleville. Monday a copy of a Windsor Star editorial entitled "Scrunch of Snow" came to The Ontario Intelligencer at once.

It was a clear case of incompatibility.

"Few peoples are more accustomed to snow than Canadians, though at this southerly tip of the country we do not have too much of it," says the Windsor writer.

A couple of sentences later one does not feel disposed to doubt that statement.

"There is an annual thrill when the first snowfall of the year covers the fields and the forests; the roofs and the lawns," sings our Windsor enthusiast.

Fields and forests, roofs and lawns—what's the matter, are there no roads and sidewalks in Windsor?

"There is something exhilarating in the first snow storm," says the Windsorite.

Exhilarating, eh? Well, don't look at us, we weren't exhilarated, we were just plain pooped.

"The feel of the wind-driven flakes has an invigorating effect."

Us, we'll settle for enervation any day.

"There is a special thrill when the first snowfall is accompanied by crisp weather which makes the frosty snow crunch under the footsteps."

Crunching is fine, but that sickening thud you just heard was made by something bigger than feet, and twice as tender.

"The creak of one's boots in contact with the chilled snow is a sure sign of winter in northern climes."

Okay, let's come up here and creak to your heart's content; the creek we want to hear is the bubble of, in spring.

MORE THAN A FOOTBALL GAME

It is becoming increasingly evident, year by year, that the Grey Cup is much more than a mere football game.

A psychiatrist, if he could get the whole Canadian nation to lie still on his couch for analysis, might discover that Canadians are using it as an excuse to overlook the conviction that hilarity is sinful.

The length of this lapse from the sobriety and stodginess which some people maintain is our national characteristic is fairly astonishing. From the insane urge to make whoopee was confined to a few, on-the-spot enthusiasts, at the scene of the game. Now the funmaking continues for a whole long weekend, and thanks to television the carefree attitude is shared by thousands many miles away from the scene of the celebration.

Back in 1935, when the twinkling toes of a blonde 155-pounder named Dalhousie Lassie threaded their way through a maze of clawing Tigers at Hamilton, nobody could have predicted that this dance was setting a pattern which, a couple of decades later, would be followed by a new generation of Canadians from the bistros of Montreal to the fogs of Vancouver. Yet, on that afternoon when Fritz Hanson gave the Winnipeg Blue Bombers and the West their first Grey Cup victory, a tradition was born. It took years to grow up. Now, however, it is in the full flush of manhood. Let us hope that it will retain its vigor for decades to come.

It is strange to think that this strictly Canadian phenomena should have to thank an American for its birth and other Americans for its growth. There can be no doubt that the practice of inviting football stars from south of the border has glamorized our game and provided the setting for the Grey Cup spirit. We wonder whether these Americans like the effect; then, across the border, the conviction that Canadians are a mad and wacky race, given to high-jinks and fun, turning the business of playing football for money into an event which catches the fancy of a whole nation. Or do they during their sojourn with us, see enough of us to know that this is merely our one compensation for twelve long and dreary months of respectability and restraint. Staid, solid, sober, serious upholders of the doctrine that life is earnest and mirth, if not sinful, is at least silly?

LOST IS FOUND

There is rejoicing in literary circles when a lost book turns up—it was world-wide news a few years ago when masses of the writings of James Boswell, biographer of the famous Dr. Johnson, thought gone beyond recall, were discovered in an old Scottish castle.

England's King James II was known to have written his memoirs, but for many years neither the original nor any copy was known to exist and Sir Winston Churchill, in his life of Marlborough, noted that the King James manuscript was "lost forever." Happily that was proved an error—a copy has turned up in France, is now the property of the University of Indiana and presumably will be published. (Ottawa Journal.)

SELF-RELIANT

The self-reliant man is he
Who never puts a task aside.
Until he has it finished, he
Is never wholly satisfied.

No letters long unanswered wait;
He answered all the day they came
He'll work although the hour is late.
I wish that I could do the same.

No putter-off of tasks is he;
What is to do is quickly done.
His desk from last week's mail is free.
He gladly tells from sun to sun.
He seldom slips away to see
A football game or baseball game.
His office hours are eight to three.
I wish that mine could be the same.

An excellent committeeman;
On him his fellows can depend
He'll always do the best he can
And be to all he knows a friend.
The banquet for his group he'll plan
And gladly take the praise or blame;
He knows himself a busy man.
I wish that I could do the same.

But no! On him I often lean
And share the rising vote of thanks;
I seem to choose the life serene.
On lazy men nobody banks.
He decorates the banquet hall.
He does the various tasks I shirk.
I criticize, but that is all.
I have no great desire to work.

Letter To the Editor

Some Suggestions Re Bus Service

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Your editorial in Friday night's issue re Belleville's Bus Lines certainly raises some interesting points. We have a public service operating at a loss, to counteract this the owners suggest raising fares and eliminating certain bus routes. You will not increase the revenue by doing this. By increasing the fares you will undoubtedly be closing certain routes you cut your income again and cease to be a public service. In the event of the bus company operates for, it is quite right.

No, this is the wrong attitude to adopt, don't blame lack of support by the public for the shortcomings of your "house" in order first. The bus companies are salesmen, selling transportation; have they been good salesmen? They will not be the first to own regular motor vice at all times, but do they; and have they moved with the times? What about the new housing estates, isolated from town, with no service. For example the veterans' estate in Sidney township, all the houses, except a few around the Canniffon Road and Hillcrest. The Sidney 2 ground is not developed for their people, it is all extra revenue.

Briefly the answer is, we cannot operate outside the city limits. Why not? Because we have to ahead and fight for permission and the public will back you up. The bus company's attitude that the present system does them harm. I am a regular user of the bus, people cannot get a bus they must resort to other means of conveyance. Factories around the city, Bakelite, Ontario Steel, Sidney, transport workers to and from these? No, get there and back the best way they can, ride with your neighbour, isn't this a loss to the bus revenue?

Several months ago, I submitted to the city council a proposition for a bus terminal point on Market St. for all local buses (Belleville and suburban) which has this. This would have given the public a choice in the matter, the market and the new Loblaw store, as well as eliminating the hazard of the present terminal point at the busy intersection at the four corners at the foot of Market St. moved the parabet buses off Front street and cut out the necessity of breaking a by-law to make a left turn", which under the present system is done with impunity. (The poor motorist is liable to a fine!) But owing to some small point their request is denied it a little "ironing out" i.e. traffic lights at the intersection of Market St. and Pinnacle Street the whole idea was "shelved". Just a new plan, giving a better service to the public. Who wants new ideas in Belleville—everything is run by "old fat-ers". We even have to thank an enterprising tradesman in the city for the sea gulls, they keep flies away.

Encourage the people to ride, issue monthly season tickets at a slightly reduced rate, workmen's daily return tickets available 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., children's tickets for school use only, available on school days; make sure of regular riders.

Now about the drivers, they are the men on the job. They see more than the manager in his office. They know the good and bad points of the system; they have the idea, are they called to a meeting and asked for their views and suggestions? I think not.

At peak traffic hours maintain the frequent service, and at slack slack periods, run a "skeleton" service on the poor paying routes. Find out the "dead" periods and they will carry the poor ones. Staggered hours for factories, issue a bundle of leaflets in each bus for passengers to take. Remember it pays to advertise. Time tables hung down, avoid as in some cases a long at very busy times. Arrange agement ever checked on the cost it takes to stop and start a bus? More and not the clutch, brakes and tires also extra gas consumption, a detail you might say, but how it adds up in a year, when operating a fleet of buses.

Finally it is the duty of the city council as representatives of the public to assist in the maintenance of a progressive bus service and in the "red" give him a break and release him of his obligation of "paying" for the service.

There are many more suggestions I could make, but I have already taken up a lot of your space Mr. Editor. The methods suggested may not be for Canada, but they are not new in the "bus conscious" U.S.A. and the hundreds of successful operators throughout the length and breadth of the "Old Country" year as a late passenger traffic inspector for many years over there, I pass a few of them on in this letter.

"Pro bono public."

Peacemaking Unprofitable

Detroit Free Press

The only beneficiary from the unsettled state of the world this year, so far as can be seen from here, is the Nobel Peace Prize Committee. Should anybody, could be found to qualify for the prize money of $38,634, which the committee would have had to award if there had been an eligible peacemaker to give it to. This is the second year recently, incidentally, in which the committee ran into such profitable trouble. Inflation being what it is, peacemaking hardly pays any more, it would seem.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you hire a girl, says an old office manager friend of mine, you might as well be good looking. So when new applicants for a job are being selected, he collects their applications and studies their qualifications. Next he has them all appear before him while he notes down their names in order of their good looks. He retires to another room, while he rearranges the applications in that new order, and then selects the one whose qualifications and good looks plus.

"It's the best anybody can do," he assures me. "There is no exact by way of knowing whether you have chosen the best person for a job. Some years ago, I worked out the principle of selecting strictly in accordance with qualifications such as education, previous experience and other standards of that kind. And I got very poor results. My office staff I ever collected, for the most bright, ambitious, industrious, jealous creatures who fought like cats. In despair, I turned to the city after spending a few days in Toronto.

Campbell; second vice-president, W. Deacon, treasurer, the Rev. A. L. Geen; secretary, Miss M. Hart; depository, R. Templeton; executive committee, W. P. Hudson, R. J. Graham, E. C. Eliott, John W. London, Chas. M. Reid, Willam McKeown, Thomas Stewart, Walter Alford, the Rev. A. Martin, Dr. F. D. Goldsmith and the ministers of the various city churches.

Eight turkeys were stolen recently from the farm of Mr. Charles Myers on the front of Ameliasburgh.

Mr. Dennis Sullivan, a half brother of Police Sergeant T. J. Hayes is here on a visit to relatives and friends. He has been absent from Belleville for twenty years.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EN ROUTE

When we speak of travelling "En Route" it means that we are on no definite place, but are experiencing the thrill of many places and many interests. We are travelling in between! Between our birth and the day of moving En Route.

What different stories and interests people come to all of us in life! Many pass through without seeing anything. They just look, but don't observe. Those are the ones should fill us with wonder. No matter how dreary and monotonous and miraculous is going on. It may be no more than the molecules stirring in the bricks that make buildings, or the endless secrets that lie sleeping under our every footfall!

Something is moving in the world all the time. And here I name a few of the watchers: Newton, Franklin, Lister, Pasteur, Galileo. Each knew that there are miracles going on in the world all the time, and so kept tuned that he might discover them. Genius is of all men kind, and such was the case with these. They were En Route people.

During our En-Route each day we cannot help but be inspired and enlightened by some of the interesting sights. This summer I stopped and stood for long time upon a perfect spider's web. What a work of natural genius. How did it all happen? The perfection of design and distribution to a perfect form of art. Within a few days after that there were wonders about which no other city in the world can boast. Wonders that have become the property of them. Some people travel around the world but have accumulated very little knowledge to impart to others upon their return! Strange, isn't it? On a ship you will note people at writing desks, during the entire voyage, sending messages dated En Route.

DIRECTION OR CHAOS?

The story is told of an absent-minded professor who, taking a train trip, suddenly awoke to the realization that he could not remember where he was going. He signaled a man and called his wife by phone said, "My dear, where am I going?" And her reply was, "You are at your ticket."

One of the characteristics of our age is that although people travel at tremendous speed, many do not seem to know whether they are going. In other words, none of us today seem to be over-endowed with a sense of direction.

Well, the remedy for us—as for the absent-minded professor—is that we take a look at our ticket. Basic to all religious thinking is the conviction that God put every man into this world for a definite and very special purpose. We are supposed to get something achieved which is strictly up to us —our personal achievement.

Look at it squarely. That means in the first place, Look at your conscience. Look back also over your past experience—it is a definite guide. But for every man and woman of religious faith, the only wholly satisfying guide in the Word of God. Look at it, for therein is guidance for everyone who has faith to see and act. The Bible is definite as a map, as inspiring as a trumpet blast, as substantial as its teachings are are the granite hills of eternal in its outreach as are the heavens themselves.

Should A Boy Have A Dog?

"About five years ago you had an article about youngsters and dogs, saying that every boy or girl should own one, provided they understand that they must always wash their hands immediately after handling, petting, feeding, or playing with the dog. Some youngsters do not understand why this is necessary. Will you tell me why?" (Mrs. L. K.)

The cleanest dog may have worms. Because of the natural habit of dogs, the eggs of the worm (roundworm) may be in the dog's mouth. Handling, petting, or playing with the dog may leave worm eggs on the hands. If the hands are not immediately washed with soap and water, the eggs may be transferred to the mouth. Once infestation starts worms is not a tragic occurrence. Many if not most of us had worms when we were kids. On the other hand, we can't say worms are good for a boy or a girl or an adult. So, it is a simple matter of good hygiene. Every boy or girl or adult should immediately wash his or her hands after handling, petting, feeding, or playing with a dog.

I like dogs. Hanging over my desk in my playroom are two pictures. On the left is a reproduction in color of what is supposed to be an ancient scroll of the Hippocratic Oath which came to me when I was an honest doctor in Penn Yan, with the compliments of the Arlington Chemical Company, Yonkers, N. Y. On the right a portrait, in water color, of Tony the Wirish Terror, a masterpiece bearing the artist's signature — F. Brady.

Tony lived at our house — lived there? He ruled the place — for ten years. That's a lifetime for a wirehair terrier, the veterinary told me. It may seem down-right silly that I get a lump in my throat when I think of Tony — he went away fifteen or twenty years ago. But you can't expect all sunshine and no rain, all play and no work. You have got to consider not just the joy of a dog but also the sadness that comes when the dog dies.

I don't remember precisely what I said about owning a dog, in the piece to which Mrs. L. K. refers. Probably the master copy of it is in a cage, fish or animals killed for "sport" and dogs confined in an apartment.

Plausible But Dubious

Christian Science Monitor

When President Sukarno of Indonesia was in the United States he made an interesting impression, by a manner that was both affable and frank. He has lately returned to Jakarta from a tour of the Soviet Union and of Communist China on which he was regally entertained.

It would be erroneous to imply that his visits to Moscow and Peking have swayed Dr. Sukarno from his intention to pursue a policy of neutrality for his country between the free world and the Communist bloc. But his first words on his return to office were a warning that Indonesia will not be coerced by any power, Communist or anti-Communist, and that it will be the judge of its own interests. Its government is not likely to be influenced by the fact that the Communist countries have been more generous than the United States in giving economic aid. Indonesia has been receiving aid from both sides, and it will continue to do so.

The immediate reaction of most party leaders was one of restrained, wishful hope. Mr. Dulles is motivated but which also might reflect open hostility. Apparently, the only support for the idea came from the head of the Communist party.

Only a week earlier four leading Indonesians defied an anti-Army censorship by publishing a joint article in criticism of certain military leaders' activities and his party during his visit to the United States was the only party to support the article in Zurich, Switzerland.

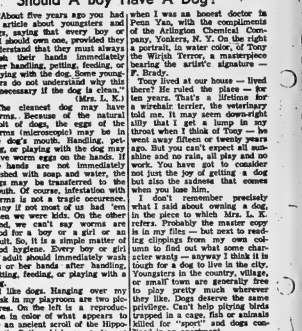
The Sukarno government has always marked sensitiveness to criticism on several occasions notwithstanding its leader's great personal prestige. It is a short step from political censorship to suppression of opposition. And suppression of opposition may look superficially like the unity of a happy family. But for all its open stresses the system of contending parties favored by Vice-President Mohammad Hatta is likely to be better for Indonesia than a "no party" system which could easily prove to be a one-party system.

No Wolves Too Many Deer

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

"We must shoot more deer" is the title given to an American magazine article some what the surplus of animal population in Pennsylvania, a condition which is also apparent elsewhere. It is told, with pictures, that large numbers of the deer are dying of starvation in winter because all the vegetation they can reach. Others are killed by cars, and death last winter" the author reported.

In old Pennsylvania a wolf population as well it is probable such conditions would not exist would be more like Ontario where the one takes care of the other first wolves and then nature law.



There is a reminder that a well known forester once expressed the opinion in Port Arthur that the principle in destroy of wolves which destroy the deer was ill advised. He was thinking as a forester more than as a hunter. He considered the deer an expensive luxury. He forest lovers because they ate off the young growth of trees, thereby retarding reforestration where regeneration or nature growth otherwise be beneficial.

Other opinion is that hunters and game wardens have reduced the deer population in this district without the aid of the wolves. There is a sense the situation in Pennsylvania recalls the problem of the moose. In Manitoba a large number of moose off Isle Royale, which is in the State of Michigan, and putting them on the mainland. The species had nearly been lost entirely on Isle Royale island, consuming vegetation as fodder as the animals could reach. They were dying off, becoming stunted and small. The conservation officers of wise to round up a large number and Switzerland Island, Lake Superior where there were more food and more hunters. There has been only one lately of those remaining on the island have fared. Their condition is more for the individual animal to eat they have been doing well.

Belleville Lamberts Shade RMC 3-2 In Evenly-Fought Junior B Fixture

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Lamberts took a 2-0 first period lead and held off a third-period rally by the visitors to down Royal Military College of Kingston 3-2 here last night in an OHA Eastern Ontario Junior "B" fixture.

It was Belleville's third consecutive victory, second in league play, and gives them at least a tie for first place in unofficial league standings. The Lamberts next game will be here next Tuesday night, when the Kingston Frontenacs will provide the opposition.

The St. Louis-Richards squad outplayed RMC most of the way, showing a better passing and skating game throughout. After grabbing a 2-0 lead in the first, they split a pair with the visitors in the middle stanza. RMC struck quickly in the third, making it 3-2 after only 11 seconds of play, and for the remainder the clubs battled on even terms with the college crew unable to pot the equalizer.

The line of St. Denis - Foster - St. Louis sparked the winners' attack. Bill Foster was the marksman for the Lamberts' second and third goals with his linemates receiving assists on both. Art Culloden tallied the other goal.

Teagve and Cummings tallied the Kingston goals with Froebel and Argue earning assists.

Referees Mac "Red" Carson and Don Barrett handed out a total of 12 minor penalties with the winners drawing eight with RMC taking advantage for one goal with the odd man.

The Lambert defence gave Jack Gilby, Belleville goalie, good support in the initial period and defenceman Art Culloden accounted for their opening goal. Culloden's backhand drive from the blueline beat Morton cleanly at 4.06. Jack Thomas and Louie Garrison receiving assists.

Skelly was thumbed for boarding at 6.47 but the Lamberts still rushed and appeared to make it 2-0 when St. Louis tipped one home. The goal was called back however when the officials ruled a man in the goal crease.

RMC pressed with Garrison off at 11.39 but shortly after his return Foster made it 2-0. He took relays from St. Denis and St. Louis to go in all alone, dyked the goalie and made no mistake.

The clubs split six minor penalties and two goals in the second. Teagve used the Lambert defence to fire an unassisted tally for RMC at 2.50, narrowing the margin to 3-1.

St. Denis was turned back by Morton on a clean breakaway, the second time the visiting custodian fooled the fleet winger. Gilby made a key save late in the period when Richardson went to his doorstep alone. Meanwhile Foster had upped the score to 3-1, sinking St. Louis' corner pass-out at 8.23 after St. Denis started the play.

RMC took the opening faceoff to the Lambert zone in the third and Cummings backhander deflected off a skate and a goal post behind Gilby for the 3-2 score. The teams battled evenly the rest of the way with goalies kicking out difficult shots. Garrison and St. Louis drew penalties for the locals while Sheridan and Reynolds were thumbed for RMC but neither team could take advantage.

A very small crowd attended the game.

Lineups—

RMC— Morton, Kells, Rochester, Argue, Stein, Teagve, Sheridan, Richardson, Froebel, Sheridan, McQuilgan, Lambeim, Cummings, McCulloch, Law.

Belleville—Gilby, Irwin, Skelly, Culloden, Fraser, St. Louis, St. Denis, Foster, Wright, Gill, G. Rowbotham, C. Rowbotham, Garrison, Reynolds, Thomas.

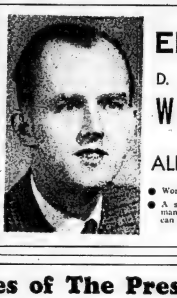
Empire Dairy Show to Have Increased Entries

Next week is cheese week in Belleville as the 29th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association and the British Empire Dairy Show focuses attention on the No. 1 dairy product of the Central Ontario area.

The cheese makers' convention is being held Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 4-5 at the Hotel Quinte, while the big dairy show will be held as usual in the market room at city hall.

Mrs. Lillian Matthews, cheese makers' association secretary, notes that increased entries have been received for the dairy show which will be open to the public Tuesday and Wednesday. The public is cordially invited to attend the show and there will be free cheese and also cheddar cheese for all visitors.

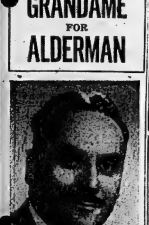
Entries for the cheese show officially closed last night. The cheese will be placed in the exhibition room during the coming weekend and judging will commence December 3rd.



TOP OFFICIALS COMING

Top federal and provincial dairy officials and other well known speakers have been secured for the convention program and also for the annual cheese makers' banquet to be held Tuesday evening, Dec. 4th. at the Masonic Temple. Guest speaker for the banquet is T. Lloyd Jones, principal of the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph, who recently completed a round the world trip.

Opening session of the cheese makers' convention will be held at the Hotel Quinte Tuesday afternoon with Her Worship Mayor Jane Forrester and Warden Elmer Wood scheduled for welcome addresses.



Marie Fraser, food editor, Dairy Foods Service Bureau, Toronto, will be a featured speaker at the opening session Tuesday afternoon, while also scheduled to address the meeting is Everett M. Biggs, Dairy Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, who will address the local Kiwanis Club on the same day.

Continue The Co-Operation And Teamwork of 1956 For Another Year!

VOTE FORRESTER

A year ago I promised you a new deal at City Hall.

I quote — "Co-operation, not obstruction; information, not silence; teamwork, not turmoil; planning, not procrastination."

You have that new deal.

A look at the record — this year's record of co-operation.

There have been many, many more instances of wholehearted co-operation, more than it is possible to include here.

Co-operation is a two-way street. The credit for this record is shared by a host of private citizens, boards, commissions, city officials and employees whose achievements this year provide ample proof that they were eagerly awaiting some person to make it possible for them to serve their city, instead of obstructing their efforts and frustrating their hopes.

Co-operation and contribution, individual and collective, by citizens, industry, organizations and all levels of government culminated after years of dedicated effort in the recent opening of the beautiful new wing of our hospital. Providing vital services during the unavoidable difficulties of a building program was a feat of co-operation on the part of the Board of Governors, the faithful staff and the contractors. There is no family in Belleville immune to the benefits of up-to-date hospital facilities.

Co-operation gave you the Belleville McFarlands, a winning hockey team to be proud of. That winning team will not only give you a glow of pride in your heart, but will keep a few hard earned dollars in your pocket, too. A winning hockey team means dollars in the arena till, dollars which will not have to come out of the city's coffers, as they have done in the past.

People are eager to co-operate. Thanks to interested citizens giving freely of their time, the arena is flooded with minor hockey clubs. Minor in name but not in importance. The Saturday morning period has been extended one hour for these teams. There's just one thing wrong with the arena picture — the day will not co-operate. It is still just 24 hours long. Thus the inability to extend further the allotted free skating time.

Perhaps, though, we may eventually relieve a little the pressure on our arena, the result of another bit of co-operation, this time among the curling club, the parks board and the city. Arrangements are underway to erect a curling rink at the fair grounds. This project will not cost the city a cent.

Up at the fair grounds there is already another example of co-operation. The new city animal shelter is staffed by volunteers.

Recently on Remembrance Day there was a splendid example of co-operation between Veterans' organizations and churches. Resulting from a meeting I called, the service at the Cenotaph started a half hour earlier than originally planned, churches postponed their services a quarter of an hour. Many citizens were thus able to attend both the Cenotaph service and the church service of their choice.

Anybody who witnessed the C.N.R. Centennial Musetum Train celebrations needs no reminder of the co-operation which the Industrial Committee received from all sources including the Theatre Guild, and our neighbors on the Tyendinaga Reserve.

But all these examples, you may say, have little or nothing to do with the work of the City Council.

That is just the point. They are startling proof of the wholesome, widespread desire of every citizen to co-operate in making Belleville a better place in which to live, work and bring up a family.

Spontaneous teamwork, co-operation and planning by the traffic committee, the unanimous council and vitally interested citizens is developing a three-stage plan for providing off street parking for three hundred cars in the congested downtown. This is a self-liquidating project, the entire cost to be met from revenue from users.

These latest examples of co-operation have been duplicated time and again in official business throughout the year. For instance, did you know that the Parks Board and Recreation Committee, two bodies of appointed citizens which might be expected to be jealously watching each other, have actually held several meetings to study the possibility of amalgamating their efforts into a single body?

Not only have local boards co-operated with each other, but we have enthusiastic neighborly co-operation. The Townships of Sidney and Thurlow have joined with the City of Belleville in sharing some expenses of industrial promotion. All recognize that new industry in any one municipality benefits all.

Nobody likes to pay more than they have to for a service — do they? But, when you show people that an increase is justified, they rarely object. The townships did not object when the Fire Committee sought new agreements doubling the standby charge. Now that's co-operation!

Co-operation was waiting for the Special Band Committee too, when it came to distribute the $1,200 annual bank grant amongst the various bands entitled to share it.

As for co-operation and teamwork in council itself, you must have noted many examples of this if you have been following council meeting reports in The Ontario Intelligencer, listening to the Town Crier, a program started last winter by CJBQ, or listening to the broadcast of council meetings, started on October 8th.

The innumerable examples of freely offered co-operation have been heart warming and it is my hope that your confidence in me will permit this happy progress to continue for another year.

Soprano Sarah Fleming Opens Series of Concerts

By EUGENE LANG

The 1956-57 series of concerts of the Belleville Community Concert Association was inaugurated last evening in the Collegiate auditorium when Sarah Fleming, young lyric soprano, made her initial debut before a large audience of local and district members of the association. Although only on the concert stage a mere six years, Miss Fleming has made an enviable reputation for herself in that time in the number of appearances that she has made in the operatic, concert and choral world. She is a graduate of the Conway Fulliard School of Music in New York and has appeared with the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood, the Norfolk Symphony, and the Symphony of the Air, besides making many appearances on radio and TV as guest artist on various shows. She is also a member of the American Opera Society and the New York City Opera Company, with which she has sung many important roles in 18th century operas of Gluck, Purcell and Bellini.

The program that Miss Fleming sang last evening was one that was equally assimilated by the audience, even though built from the vocal music of serious composers. In the opening group she chose ideal examples from the works of G. Handel and Mozart and into each she let her lovely voice just flow along effortlessly as she meticulously attuned each number. The Bach "When Thou Art Near" was an aria that fitted her voice perfectly and her treatment of this was most appealing. Handel's "The Mermaid's Song" was clearly convinced with humorous spirit and the Mozart aria from "The Marriage of Figaro," though sung in English, was a model of clear enunciation and lovely phrasing.

The four songs of Brahms were all sung with an endearing approach to the composer's message and were engraved with careful inflection and sensitive moldings of melody. The caressing "Serenade" and the joyous "A Message" were ideal counterparts to the lyrical "May Night" and the tenderly dreamy "Lullaby," but regardless of the emotional content involved Miss Fleming let her very listenable voice carry each song along with sincere conviction.

The aria "Visai d'arte" from "Tosca" by Puccini was a vehicle for more dramatic display of voice and was given a resounding rendition by Miss Fleming even though at times in this powerful aria it seemed that her voice was too fragile to fully carry the heavy load that is required of it here.

In the first group following intermission Miss Fleming sang four items by French composers. "Les Filles de Cadix" of Delibes was a pleasant way to hear all the facets of Miss Fleming's voice, as was the popular level being from Gounod's "Faust." The lilting tones of this easy-to-listen-to soprano flowed forth in ever increasing splendor in these two numbers, with heavy and sustained applause as a natural audience reaction. Two French Art Songs by Gabriel Faure completed this section, both very adeptly sung even though one was heady in atmosphere.

FOUR AMERICAN SONGS

Four songs by American composers completed the program, each song show'ng a different vocal view from the window called American. Some Enchanted Evening" "The Daisies" and Roger Quilter's "Love's Philosophy" closed on the ears than the other two selections. In response to continued applause, Miss Fleming sang two delightful encores that were most lustily accepted. This young singer has a truly lovely voice and a pleasant personality, a combination that will undoubtedly give her a long and successful career in the singing world.

The piano accompaniments by Ralph Leiby were faultlessly controlled and at no time did they overshadow the singer, as some accompanists have a tendency to do. In his solo group Mr. Leiby had numbers and three numbers that he played especially the Debussy "The Engulfed Cathedral." His tonal colorings in this number were subtly achieved and culminated in a masterful interpretation of this work. The Mozart and Rachmaninoff numbers were both splendidly well played. Mr. Leiby is not only an excellent accompanist of sensitive stylings but well gifted as a soloist.

Pr. Ed.-Belleville Club Elects 1957 Officers

The November meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Club was held at the YMCA with president presiding, who extended a hearty welcome to members and guests.

Both the secretary's and treasurer's reports were given by Mrs. Parliament, while Mrs. McCoy read messages of thanks from those ill and shut-in.

During the business session, the past president, Mrs. Lent, conducted the election of officers for 1957 as follows: past president, Mrs. F. Lent; president, Mrs. L. Wannamaker; 1st. vice-president, Mrs. G. Gerstine; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. T. Skeggs; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. W. Barber; Rec.-Secretary, Mrs. Ray Parliament; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. McCoy; treasurer, Mrs. Ray Pierson; pianist, Mrs. K. Wenaley; song leader, Mrs. W. Insley; press reporter, Mrs. A. Weese.

Group Leaders— No. 1 Mrs. Carbutt and Mrs. Roluff; No. 2 Mrs. Ray Fox and Mrs. Weese; No. 3, Mrs. D. Moxam and Mrs. Cunningham; No. 4, Mrs. F. Bedell and Mrs. Sharp; No. 5, Mrs. William and Mrs. Gerstine.

An excellent program was convened by Mrs. F. Bedell and her group with Mrs. Cunningham reading.

A reading "In Whatever Walk of Life We are Both Producers and Consumers," by Mrs. Sharp.

All enjoyed lunch served by Mrs. Dow with Mrs. Greenwood at the piano.

Especially interesting was the travelogue given by Mrs. Roluf, describing her trip to Mexico with her husband, Dr. Roluf. Pictures, folders and articles brought home as souvenirs and a word picture given by Mrs. Roluf, proved most interesting.

An Armistice reading by Mrs. Lee was also given.

Mrs. Weese thanked all contributing to the program.

A social time was enjoyed with Mrs. Bedell's group serving.

Exhibition of Painting of Local Scenery

The third annual art exhibition by Nicholas Mika which will be held at the YMCA on Friday and Saturday, will show again a wide selection of his paintings. Most of his paintings are done in oil and only two of the fifty which will be exhibited are done in water colors. Also on display will be a number of hand painted plates showing original designs of Canadian wild flowers. Another interesting feature will be the display of copper and aluminum craft and flower paintings by other local artists.

Mr. Mika's paintings are done in his usual style with splendor of color captivating the beauty of nature from spring to winter. Perhaps the best of his pictures are winter compositions. In the winter, he says, he likes to go "hunting" around Salmon River and in the summer around Lake Ontario, Bancroft or on the banks of the Moira River. Looking at his paintings, the most impressive thing is harmony of colors. What is missing: there is no one picture that shows movement, he rarely paints people or animals. Mika's pictures not only represent the beauty of the Quinte district and surroundings but are done in a pleasing design.

WEDDINGS

ATKINSON—TURLEY

Bronze, yellow, white and pink chrysanthemums adorned the Roman Catholic chapel of the RCAF Station, Trenton, on Saturday, November 10, at 1.00 p.m., for the marriage of Ellen Marie Turley of Trent Road, Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Turley, to Flight Lieutenant Donald Atkinson of Saskatoon, Sask., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Atkinson. Wing Commander J. Dunphy, RCAF, officiated.

Mr. W. Long rendered the "Wedding Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. R. F. Turley, was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of nylon net and lace over slipper satin, featuring a fitted bodice, sequin trimmed, and having a Sabrina neckline, and long sheath-like sleeves of lace accented by sequins. Her fingertip veil was held by a headdress studded with seed pearls, and sequins, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. J. Smith of Trenton, as matron of honour, and by Miss E. Burns, also of Trenton, as bridesmaid. Both attendants were gowned alike in symphony red French velvet, with matching mitts, shoes and headdresses. Their flowers were bronze and yellow 'mums.

Flight Lieutenant G. S. Simpson of Ottawa, attended the bridegroom, while Flight Lieutenant G. D. Waterfield, Supply Officer, C. W. Fontyn, both of the RCAF, Trenton, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Social Centre, RCAF, Trenton, where the bride's mother received, wearing in powder blue lame, in sheath style, with black and white accessories, corsage of pink roses and grey squirrel stole.

The bride's table was appropriately appointed with white damask, and centred by a three tier wedding cake. The bridal bouquets lent a lovely nuptial accent.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and other points in the province of Quebec, the bride chose a brown suit of imported lamb's wool with mink fur trim, moss green accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums. Flight Lieutenant and Mrs. Atkinson will reside at 201 Victoria Ave., Trenton, upon their return.

Guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford, Wooler, Frankford, Ottawa, Montreal, Winnipeg, London, Ont., Hamilton, Aylmer, Buffalo and Washington, D.C.

The bride was honored, previous to her marriage, by a cup and saucer shower, held at the home of Mrs. E. Burns, Trenton, with Mrs. Jack Smith and Miss E. Burns as hostesses.

SHEAFF—SPENCER

CAMPBELLFORD. — A pretty wedding was solemnized here on Saturday morning, when Berle F. Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Spencer of Campbellford, became the bride of Phillip David Frederick Sheaff, son of Mrs. Bernard Sheaff and the late Mr. Sheaff, in a ceremony at the Sentinel L.O.L. Hall at Pefferlo's Corners.

The hall was decorated with a flowered arch for the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Douglas Dooher, cousin of the bride. The Rev. R. Simpson Black of Uxbridge, Ont., performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white Vernia lace over taffeta and net with a ballerina length skirt, fitted bodice with bracelet length sleeves and a scalloped neckline. Her veil of scalloped net was of Tudor shape caught with chiffon ruching. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of red roses.

Her attendant was Mrs. William McKee of Wooler, wearing a gown of copper-rose crystalette in bouffant pattern with a feather headdress. She carried white 'mums.

Mr. Roy Sheaff of Cobourg, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Michael Spink of Campbellford, acted as usher.

Following the ceremony, a reception f'was held at Christ church parish hall in Campbellford, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of brocaded Parisienne tissue with a hat of winter pink satin and velvet. She wore a corsage of deep pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride and bridegroom left later on a short wedding trip. For travelling the bride chose a dusky-pink jersey two-piece ensemble with muskrat jacket and pink hat with black accessories. On their return, the couple will live in Campbellford.

Guests were present from Toronto, Detroit, St. Thomas, Aylmer and Napanee.

McKEAN—BABCOCK

A lovely wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 17, at 4.00 p.m., in Christ church, Bellleville, when Joan Frances Ada Babcock of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russel F. Babcock, became the bride of William Ryrie McKean of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McKean. The Rev. L. Arthur Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, officiated before a background of white chrysanthemums and ferns.

The wedding music was rendered by Mr. J. R. Herdman, church organist, who accompanied the six choir boys who sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Russel F. Babcock, the bride was radiant in a floor-length bridal gown of nylon tulle and French Chantilly lace over nylon net and tie-blue taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice having a long torse effect, and lace jacket with Mandarin collar, and long sleeves pointed over the wrists. The bouffant skirt fell in graceful folds. She wore a matching headdress trimmed with seed pearl, and shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion, and carried a cascade of white Sweetheart roses, mingled with tufts of light blue tulle with white satin streamers.

Miss Eileen Ferguson of Kingston, as maid of honor, was in shrimp shade; Misses Lillian Robertson of Belleville, as bridesmaid, and Christine Hill of Islington, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid and little Eileen Colyer of Campbellford, also cousin of the bride, as flower girl, all were gowned alike in Aerodel blue in floor-length crystal chiffon, featuring off-the-shoulder necklines. They wore matching half-hats and carried bouquets of Shasta daisy tones mingled with shattered yellow carnations.

Mr. Allan C. McKean of Montreal, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. George Heltzhauer of Toronto and Mr. Basil Warren of Toronto, were ushers.

The reception was held in Christ church parish hall, where the bride's mother received, attired in soft blue velvet with white and gold accessories, and corsage of deep pink carnations. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore emerald green peau de soie with brown and white accessories and corsage of pale yellow roses. The bride's table was appointed with white damask centred by a three-tier wedding cake with a floral veil and bell and misted with white tulle and white 'mums at the base. The bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent.

Following the reception, the young couple left for New York City and Montreal, the bride

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WELCOME CHRISTMAS MESSAGES

"Christmas messages," said Charles Dickens, who was very knowing about the meaning of Christmas, "are a great accumulation of friendly recollections." Let these words ring Christmas bells in your thoughts and in your heart these days, as you are planning to send Christmas cards. "Friendly recollections" . . . treasures of remembrance . . . endearing, heart-warming!

AS HOSTESS SHE SHOULD BUY THE FOUR TICKETS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In February my school (I'm a senior) is giving its annual dance, and each senior is allowed to invite guests. I have invited a boy from out of town, whom I know very well, as our families have always spent their summers at the same place, and we also have had quite a few dates during the winter months. I think that perhaps I may ask him if he would like to have me invite a friend of his, a boy whom I also know very well, and then get a "date" (a close girl friend of mine who doesn't go to my school) for his friend. Of course I know that I must pay for the two tickets, for my date and myself. But if I do decide to arrange the double date, must I also buy the tickets for the other couple, who are his friends as well as mine? — S.L.

By arranging this foursome, and by inviting the other two, you will certainly indicate that you are to be the hostess. Therefore it is your obligation, as hostess, to pay for all four tickets.

INSPIRING IDEA FOR HER TO SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband passed on in November of last year, and of course in 1955 I did not send any Christmas cards. This year has been a difficult one for me without his dear companionship, and I find it hard to make the effort to keep up contacts with my friends. Would it be proper for me to send Christmas cards this year? — C.M.

It would indeed be entirely proper for you to send Christmas cards this year, and what's more it would be. I'm quite sure, a very constructive and inspirational thing for you to do, both for yourself and for your relatives and friends. Even if it would not be very easy for you to do this, it would, I think, be a helpful thing for you to do, and the fact that you have had the thought to do it will give you a good start.

It would be a very good idea for you to resume the friendly custom of greeting your relatives and friends at Christmastime with warm-hearted messages of remembrance and good wishes. Your relatives and friends will be comforted and proud to be "again remembered" with your Christmas cards. You might choose cards of a religious inspiration, or perhaps cards of a conventional or traditional kind . . . and, if it would not be too much of a strain for you, I would suggest you write a little personal note on each, perhaps something like "I want this card to tell you that I am thinking of you most lovingly at Christmas time, and I wish for you all happiness in the New Year. I hope that soon we may have a meeting together . . . shall we? Devotedly, Grace"

Bonus Reader's Column

By Mary Moore

Note—It may turn out to be Cookie Week. Tomorrow I am giving you Christmas Cookies. Today I am giving the column over to overdue answers to patient readers and hopping this list is this promised:

SESAME COOKIES

(For Mrs. Ralph M. of Ruthven)

Cream 1-2 cup of butter or shortening with 6 tablespoons sugar. Add 1 beaten egg and mix well. Sift 1 1-2 cups flour, 3-4 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt all together. Add this to the creamed mixture. Add 3-4 teaspoon vanilla. Break off small pieces of the dough about the size of a walnut. Form with hands into a ball and press down in the sesame seed to coat the one side with seeds and at the same time flatten. Place on greased cookie sheet with the seeds up. Use citron or angelics to decorate and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. until just a cookie color (not brown). Makes about three dozen.

Next comes the recips for

BUTTER CREAM ICING

(For spreading and decorating purposes) which I promised to give you if you asked for it. Several of you did. It is long, so please clip and file where it cannot be lost.

PART 1 WHITECAP ICING

One and one half cups sifted granulated sugar, 1-3 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-3 teaspoon salt 1-2 cup hot water, 1-2 cup egg whites, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. First have the egg whites ready to beat in a bowl. Combine the sugar, cream of tartar, salt and hot water. Mix till smooth. Cook without stirring to 240 deg. Fahr. (about six minutes). Wipe the sides of the pan down while boiling to remove crystals. Just before the syrup reaches the 240 deg. mark, beat the egg whites until stiff and dry. Make sure the syrup does not go over 240 deg. mark. Pour the syrup, small amount at a time, into the egg whites and beat steadily. Continue till it stands in stiff peaks. Add vanilla and mix well.

PART 2—BUTTERCREAM ICING

Wash one and one half cups butter well with ice water. (May use 1-2 shortening and 1-2 butter.) Beat with electric beater until consistency of whipped cream. To this add the Whitecap Icing a little at a time. Beat well after each addition.

This is excellent for decorating and may be tinted to decorate, used plain, or have baking chocolate added to it to spread on a cake.

QUESTION:

I am writing to see if you would have a recipe for Pickled Red Cabbage as I would like to do some for the winter. — (Mrs. J. D.)

PICKLED RED CABBAGE

Sixteen cups red cabbage, 4 cups white onions, 12 green peppers, salt, 1 cup mustard seed (white), 1 teaspoon white pepper, 2 cups brown sugar, 2 dozen cloves, 4 cups vinegar. Chop onions, cabbage, and peppers. Sprinkle lightly with salt, and let stand overnight. Drain and add the remaining ingredients. Can without cooking.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE MAKING A MISTAKE TO ENCOURAGE THIS RELATIONSHIP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My kid sister, who is 15, goes with a fellow of 20 who is a very nice and cleancut young man. He's crazy about my sister and respects her very much. My sister just adores him and my folks are crazy about him.

The problem is that my parents think he's 19 and my sister is afraid to tell them that he's 20. Do you think she should tell them, and do you think 15 is too young for 20? I don't think five years is so very far apart, especially since he is so very nice.

Please don't tell her to break up with this young man because I know she won't. — Rita M.

Dear Rita M.: What's the sense in asking my advice and then telling me what not to say? There's no point whatever in my telling you anything but what I really think, and this is it:

It seems to me quite unimportant whether or not your sister tells your parents this young man's exact age. If they're willing for her to go with a fellow who's 19, one more year would hardly, I should think, make any difference to them.

What I fo think is important is not the young man's age but your sister's, and I consider it very unfortunate that a 15-year-old girl, who must be still in school, should be encouraged to spend her time with a man five years older than herself instead of with boys who are themselves still in school and so should be more companionable.

I agree with you that five years doesn't necessarily make a difference under the right circumstances. But it all depends on what time of life both the man and the girl have reached, and in my opinion your sister is still at the time of life when circumstances are not right and five years does make a difference.

I might add that any young man of 20 who wants to spend all his time with a 15-year-old is very immature for his age.

If your sister wishes to see this fellow occasionally, there's no harm in that, since your parents approve the friendship. But if you continue to encourage her to neglect her teenage interests and companions for him, you're making a great mistake.

Little Feminine Finery Seen At Opening

OTTAWA (CP) — The feminine finery usually evident at an opening of Parliament was conspicuously lacking in Monday's subdued ceremony which marked the beginning of the special session on the Middle East and Hungarian situations.

Empty seats were noticeable in the public gallery of the red-carpeted Senate chamber as Governor-General Massey read the speech from the throne.

Gallery seats are generally filled to capacity with an overwhelming majority of women interested in a look at fashionable dress usually displayed by guests in vice-regal, diplomatic and high-ranking government circles.

Most of Monday's color came from the military uniforms of the governor-general's aides, and a scattering of red, white or yellow hats and white gloves worn by women in the audience.

Mrs. Lionel Massey, wearing a black dress and a black feathered hat, occupied the vice-regal box. The wife of the governor-general's secretary-son was accompanied by Ceylon's Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike and his aides, who arrived here Monday for a brief visit.

GOT OLD RING: WIFE

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Helen S. Rosenfeld, 51-year-old Park Avenue matron seeking a separation, complained in court Monday that her wealthy husband never bought her a wedding ring —but gave her one that had belonged to his former spouse. The couple wed in 1954.

COURTEOUS EXCHANGE

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — Mayor W. C. Woods was given a speeding ticket at nearby Kitchener, but he didn't mind at all. "It was almost a pleasure to receive it—the constable was so nice," he told the police commission here.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

FOUNDATION DOUBLY IMPORTANT DURING COLD WEATHER

If Winter does terrible things to your skin, this is for you.

Let's begin here, now, with simple beauty measures to give your skin protection throughout the winter weather. These measures will do more than prevent the usual drying and flaking of your skin; given fair trial, they will make your skin noticeably lovelier.

It isn't the cold or the cutting wind that does the greatest damage to your exposed face and throat. It is the living you do in overheated rooms where radiators dry out the air, furniture, human tissues (as any sinusitis sufferer knows) and, naturally, the skin on your face.

Your first beauty preventive for dry skin this winter might well be a water pan for the radiator and, next, to keep it filled. This moisture in air is essential to health, and also an important factor in your skin care.

Daytime use of a good foundation may be more important than a night cream during cold weather.

Normal exposure to cold has a tonic effect on your skin. You should spend much more time than you probably do in the open air. Don't mind the temporary reddening. That is evidence of your whipped-up circulation and a fine facial it is. But drying and chapping from cold are other matters, to be avoided by sensible night and day care.

In skin protection through the day, your make-up should afford the buffering against drying heat or cold required by your particular type. One of the first considerations should be your foundation. It may be that you need a foundation with more oil for this season of the year, or that the foundation should be prefaced with a thin film of lanolin or, perhaps, baby oil. Actually, your daytime foundation may be more important when the skin most needs to counteract the effects of steam heat and harsh weather than the use of a night cream when the heat is off, windows are only partially open and the face and throat are protected by blankets.

But this does not mean that you can do without your nighttime skin care. Beauty measures taken at bedtime are highly important, so much them work for you. Adopt a routine you can follow each night then another more luxurious as to time, for once-a-week.

In Winter the old question of soap-and-water versus cleansing cream comes vigorously to the fore. But I must tell you, in all honesty, that I know women with exquisite skins who boast they have never used any cleansing agent but mild soap and water and others, with equally lovely complexions, who vow they have never let soap and water touch their faces.

Whatever you use, however, get your face clean, clean through the pores, every night. Then get to the problem of dryness with some agent that abets natural oils and moisture. The magnet has such a large selection that it should be easy to find the one that's just right for you.

Many H.S. Students Attend Y.F.C. Rally

On Saturday night many high school students from Belleville and the surrounding districts, and their friends, who are interested in the work of Youth for Christ high school Bible clubs, met in the Masonic Temple to hear reports and testimonies in song, music, and work, given by William "Bill" James, Canadian Director for Youth for Christ high school Bible clubs.

Several Bible club members from Hamilton high school were present.

The rally was opened by Ernie Beich, leading in several hymns and choruses.

James Blackwood, the Belleville YFC director, introduced Mr. James, who, in turn introduced those presenting musical numbers: Mary Jane, and her brother, Arthur Petrie, sang together, "Tenderly He Watches Over You," which was followed by a violin solo by Arthur, playing "He Holds the Keys to the Kingdom of God," and "Thirty Pieces of Silver." Dave Tourney rendered "All That Thrills My Soul is Jesus."

During the Bible club director's interview with Mary Jane Petrie and Grace Taylor, of Hamilton high schools, the girls stated they did not know of a better place to spend Saturday night than attending a YFC rally.

Mary Jane and Arthur Petrie again favored with "Jesus Will Walk With Me." This was followed by a violin solo "How Great Thou Art."

STUDENTS ENTER BIBLE COLLEGES

Mr. James in reporting on what God was doing through high school Bible clubs, stated that out of one high school alone 12 students have, in one year, entered Bible colleges or universities, to prepare for full time Christian service.

During announcement time, Mr. Blackwood noted that the next rally would be held next Saturday night, December 1, at which time Dr. Billy Graham's film, "The Mighty Fortress," will be presented.

Before Mr. James gave his message Dave Tourney sang "Life Begins at Calvary."

Mr. James said in his opening remarks, that the words of that song would make an appropriate topic for his message. He read for his text, 2 Cor. 5:17, "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." "There are only two ways," stated Mr. James, "there is no middle road. We must build for eternity, and not for time. Do not sell your soul for what this world has to offer as did the rich man in the Gospel of Luke. Saul, the persecutor's life was changed when he met Christ on the Damascus road."

"There is a path of success guaranteed for you not only in life but in eternity, but only as you follow the Lord."

The meeting, following the singing of a hymn, closed in prayer.

Golda Meir, Israel, Only Woman Foreign Minister in World

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) "I suppose...everyone asks you how it feels to be the only woman foreign minister in the world?" asked Golda Meir of Israel in an interview wedged in between votes in the General Assembly here.

She lit a cigaret as we sat down in UN white leather chairs just outside the General Assembly hall and her previously serious and somewhat worried face lit up with a smile.

"Nearly everyone," she replied and quoted a remark attributed to another lady diplomat: "I wouldn't know. I was never a man."

She immediately added: "I never think of my jobs in terms of being a woman. The question is one of doing a capable job. That's woman business doesn't mean anything."

ADOPTED HEBREW NAME

Golda Meir is probably better known by the name she used until last July, Mrs. Golda Myerson. She changed her name at the suggestion of Premier David Ben-Gurion who wants all Israeli cabinet members to use Hebrew names.

Mrs. Meir, a widow, is 58. She was born Golda Mabovitz in Kiev, Russia. When she was eight years old she emigrated with her parents to the United States and the family settled in Milwaukee. Golda attended the Milwaukee Normal School, then taught the fourth grade for two years in Milwaukee.

She went to Palestine as an ardent Zionist with her Zionist husband Morris Myerson, at the age of 20.

There she studied poultry raising and then worked in Merhaviah, a Jewish collective settlement in northern Palestine.

JOINED LABOR GROUP

The Jewish labor organization Histadrut discovered her speaking and organizing talent. She grew up with Histadrut, helped expand its scope into a combination union and enterprise with capital invested in many different fields. She became active in the Jewish labor party Mapai.

"What was the most difficult time in your life?" I asked Mrs. Meir.

I expected she would tell me about when, disguised as an Arab, she undertook a mission into Israeli Jordan. Instead she told how Jerusalem had been cut off after the Arabs rioted and refused to let the 1947 UN Assembly resolution on Palestine. She was head of the political department of the Jewish agency for Palestine and decision on the Jerusalem area de fence were, in part, in her hands. With the establishment of Israel in 1948 Mrs. Meir was made Israeli minister in Moscow.

About this chapter in her life I didn't need to ask her. I myself as a correspondent had met her in Moscow. And there an unfortunate incident occurred that aroused a strong anti-Semitic outburst on the part of Stalin and the Soviet government.

Mrs. Meir went to the Moscow synagogue on a Jewish holiday. The streets were crowded with worshippers waiting to enter. They gave her a tremendous ovation, voicing delight at the creation of Israel. The Soviet leaders were enraged that Soviet citizens would dare to show enthusiasm for a foreign state. The Kremlin organized a campaign against Soviet Jews.

Mrs. Meir returned to Israel in February, 1949, to resume her work with Histadrut, and to become labor minister.

"In the last few months there have been some moments when I have wished I was back in the labor ministry," Mrs. Meir commented. She told me nowadays she gets only a few hours of sleep a night.

She was named foreign minister of Israel last June, replacing Moshe Sharett.

"What do you say about comment that you represent a 'tough' policy, in contrast to a 'soft' policy of Sharett?" I asked.

"I'd hate to call myself tough," she said. She claimed policy hasn't changed.

During these troubled days Mrs. Meir hasn't much time to indulge her enjoyment of music, the theatre and literature.

"What was the most pleasant moment of your life?" I asked. I expected her to tell me about the day of the establishment of Israel.

To my surprise she replied: "The day my granddaughter was born." That was some 4½ years ago. Mrs. Meir has a married daughter who is a colonist in a collective farm—a Kibbutz—in the Negev desert. Her son, Menachem, is a concert violinist.

Though she is a foreign minister she looks very much like an elderly school principal might. She dresses and talks like that. Mrs Meir may not like to think of herself as tough—but around this sanctuary little in the general opinion is that she is.

Bringing Up Baby

ISSUED COLLECTIVELY BY Mrs. Jean Nesbitt DIRECTRESS OF H

"Beauty is as beauty does," goes the old saying, lucky the mother who knows that baby's diet has primary value for her too!

- A few drops rubbed into damp hair directly after washing, will leave hair soft, shiny and sleek.
- Every time you oil baby, mitch a few drops for hands and elbows. It has such a soothing influence.
- A splash of baby oil in your bath feels luscious; satinizes your skin like magic.
- A dab or two on your fingernails will keep cuticles soft and pretty.

Baby tea yourself for turkey and trimmings? Then here's a hearty party dish that's just for a hungry little prince of princess.

SMALL-FRY SPECIAL
1 Baked potato — Butter or margarine
Gerber Strained Beef or Pork, or Junior Beef
Cut potato in half lengthwise. Remove and mash with butter and salt. Add half as much meat as potato. Refill shell and bake in a hot oven (400°) until lightly browned.

- Gerber's Strained and Junior Meats are made from selected beef, pork, processed to preserve true-meat flavors and fine quality. All protein-rich pure meat with a minimum of fat and coarse fiber. 6 Strained Meats ¢ 3 Junior Meats — with just enough broth to enhance flavor and texture.

Looking for Santa Claus suggestions for your darling? How about a real personality present — GERBER BABY DOLL. It's a charming, life-like replica of the famous Gerber Baby . . . that drinks, wets, sits up, has movable arms and legs. Soft Vinyl head and rubber body make it so cuddly and completely safe. A $3.75 value for only $2.00 plus 6 labels or box tops. Take advantage of this exclusive offer now — send $2.00 and labels or box tops to Gerber Baby Foods, Dept.D, Box 4027, Terminal A, Toronto, Ontario.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Quite a number of ladies from this appointment attended Centenary bazaar, Mrs. L. Ketcheson took a car load. All enjoyed the afternoon.

Mr. Will Sine has returned home having spent a couple of weeks with relatives in Orillia.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Donaldson on the arrival of a bouncing, baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound, Dale and baby, Cheryle, spent a day recently, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mrs. Carl Reid, of Toronto, spent the weekend with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans and her mother, Mrs. Colls Ketcheson.

At the time of writing, snow, snow, and more snow still coming down and many were amazed on Monday morning when they were snowed in when there were from 15 to 20 inches of snow, many had to shovel their way to the road, and there the snow plows were in operation. Many small children are happy as they know Santa Claus will be able to come with his reindeer. The children had a holiday on Monday as many could not get to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Sine, of Harold, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine to Barrie to spend the weekend with the latter's daughter, and husband, Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert Fisher, while Miss Annabelle McNaught spent the weekend with Miss Margaret Sine.

CASPIAN SEA SHRINKS

LONDON (Reuters) — The Caspian Sea has dropped about seven feet and its surface area has shrunk by about 13,500 square miles in the last 25 years, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. It said the drop in sea level was due to a warmer climate in the basins of rivers flowing into the sea, and to Russian irrigation and hydro-electric projects.

MARMORA

H-S Assoc. Plans for 'Fun Frolic'

MARMORA—The Home and School Association met in the public school for their November meeting. Mrs. Thomas Pearce, president was in the chair.

Mrs. Manchester outlined the plans for a Fun-Frolic night in February as a means to raise funds.

Miss Ruth Bateman displayed some examples of books available for children of various age levels at the local library.

Mrs. S. Demorest and Mrs. James Thomson reported on the Regional Conference held at Lindsay.

Mr. E. C. Prentice introduced Mrs. Barker, Reg.N., who gave an interesting address on the Salk vaccine.

A short film was shown on "Safety in the Home".

Mrs. Manchester conducted a contest.

Mrs. Manchester's room won the banner for the highest percentage in attendance.

Refreshments were served by Grade Two mothers.

STEADY TRAVELLER

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Frank Trewern, an Ironman hero, figures he's travelled 1,000,000 miles in the past 16 years on his route, although he's never been more than 60 miles from this city. The 67-year-old Ironman, who came from England at the age of four, has never been farther away than Chilliwack.

Greener Thumbs

BY JOYCE SMITH

GROW A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Chinese sacred-lilies and Paperwhite narcissus started middle of November bloom for December 25. Get large (8-inch diameter) bulbs and attractive container — pottery, glass or plastic. Put half inch broken charcoal on bottom, fill with pebbles, place bulbs firmly—six make a good show. Add water to base of bulb (maintain level by adding as needed), keep dark and cool for three weeks, then bring out to bloom. Flowering lasts several weeks.

Changes In HAIR DO's ... Over The Century

Lime, slum, lamp black, honey and ostrich feathers have all been used in "my lady's" hair dressing. In the NEW Star Weekly this week Gwen Cowley reviews coiffure fashions from Cleopatra's time to the modern Bouffant cut and Interplanetary Calf. Read "A Century of Hair Do's".

With "My Fair Lady" the theme of the fashion world the NEW Star Weekly brings you "Fair Lady Fashions In Lace" and the exclusive touch of Parisian designer Henri Dior.

DRILL CORE

This piece of rock, known as a "drill core," is pitted with small holes which may contain oil. It was brought up from the earth's depths by a special type of drilling bit and is being examined at Imperial Oil Company's laboratory in Calgary. Contrary to popular belief, it is these small holes in porous rock which will hold the oil of an oil field, not a huge pool beneath the surface. (CP Photo).

Oil in Southeast Saskatchewan Found in One of Relatively Higher Geological Strata

REGINA (CP)—Oil development in Saskatchewan's southeast—the province's current sensation — is called a "shallow play."

This means that oil has been found in one of the relatively higher geological strata — in this case the Mississippian, some 3,500 to 3,700 feet below the surface.

While it is being explored and developed, little is being done to look into the deeper Devonian formation which has given Alberta its major production, or the still deep Silurian and Ordovician.

TO PROBE DEEPER

James T. Cawley, director of Saskatchewan's petroleum and natural gas branch, says:

"The next play in the southeast will be in the Devonian. Once it is checked it should be as productive here as in Alberta. We have had significant oil shows in both the Devonian and Ordovician."

Some oil men share Mr. Cawley's optimism and some are less hopeful, but all agree: "We don't know until we look."

That quotation fits all the vast areas of Saskatchewan where oil is possible because, from an oil point of view, relatively little "hooking" has been done.

Such words as "Charles," "Missionc Canyon," "Lodgepole" and "Bakken" slip easily from the lips of Saskatchewan residents, not to know what they are talking about one must dip into at least elementary geology.

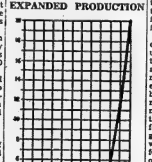
TWO MAIN AREAS

Saskatchewan, in a very broad sense, is divided into two main areas. In one, which covers the northern third of the proince, the rocks of the pre-Cambrian era—formed as the earth hardened—are at or near the surface. They are storehouses for minerals but have no known possibilities for oil.

Over the rest of the province, however, the pre-Cambrian is covered with rock strata formed from the sediments of old seas when the area was below sea level and before the central continent was uplifted.

These sedimentary periods produced the conditions which formed and trapped oil.

Of particular current interest is the area known as the Williston Basin. It is 400 to 500 miles in diameter and centres in the United States, but its northeast shores reach into the present underground of southeast Saskatchewan and southwest Manitoba.



It was an old deep in the ancient seas. Sediments poured into it to great depth, the newer sediments covering the old and, through weight and pressure, forming them into porous stone—to a maximum thickness of about 12,000 feet.

FORMATION OF OIL

Tiny organisms lived and died in the old seas and their bodies mixed with the sediments. In due time—according to the generally-accepted theory—their bodies produced oil. When conditions were right this oil found its way into the holes and spaces in the rock and it there was an impervious formation overhead, the oil was trapped and it still there.

Not only oil was produced, but gas; and the gas is the principal force, which drives the oil to the surface when we sink a well into it.

EXPANDED PRODUCTION

This graph shows the amazing expansion in Saskatchewan's oil production in the last 11 years. Production has increased from less than 30,000 barrels in 1945 to an estimated 20,000,000 barrels this year. The province's present known recoverable reserves are estimated at 600,000,000 barrels. (CP Photo).

Let us, in imagination, dig a 10,000-foot hole from the surface down through Saskatchewan's portion of Williston Basin.

Let's first brush past the first 700 feet, which has strata laid down in the last 90,000,000 years because we won't likely find oil there. Below that, however, we pass through many strata including the down ward order, the following which hold oil possibilities:

Cretaceous (it has given oil at Lloydminster); Jurassic (it has given oil in the provinces to the west); Mississippian (the present producer in the southeast); Devonian (the big producer in Alberta); and the Silurian and Ordovician, for which we have hopes. Below them are the Cambrian and pre-Cambrian.

The pre-Cambrian era, incidentally, lasted about 3,000,000,000 years and ended some 500,000,000 years ago.

The Mississippian, our immediate concern, started about 300,000,000 years ago and lasted some 25,000,000 years. In that period it laid down about 1,200 feet of sedimentary rock and in it we are finding some 10 to 90 feet thick which contain oil.

The Mississippian has sub-formations. Two-thirds of it is Madison limestone and other breakdowns are the Charles, Mission Canyon, Lodgepole and, at its base, the Bakken.

On our way down the 10,000-foot hole we passed not only rocks but evidences of the slow development of life in myriad forms — from later-day animals to dinosaurs to algae.

When we come back to the surface we are here and there great pumps solemnly lowering and raising prehistoric-looking heads as though they might be feeding. We may almost think that some of the dinosaurs have come up with us to help pump out oil which they may have seen when it was being formed—though most of it was probably old before they appeared on earth.

STRATA VARIATIONS

Geological strata vary with location—some found in one place are not found in another.

One Saskatchewan variation is that Alberta's old seas had great coral reefs on their shores which changed into limestone. This reef limestone has good permeability—that is, holes and spaces are well interconnected and, when tapped by a well, can flow easily.

So far reef formations have not been found in Saskatchewan. A few years ago some of its present good producers might have been abandoned because of low permeability. However, they responded well to treatment which expanded the rock passages and allowed the oil to flow.

Oil is somewhat harder to find in Saskatchewan than in Alberta. In the latter province, because of the violent disturbances caused by the building up of the Rocky Mountains, evidences of oil-capturing formations may extend to the surface.

In Saskatchewan, however, glacial drift masks the rock strata underground. Thus geophysical techniques alone must supply the answers—such things as the magnetometer which measures differences in magnetic intensity caused by variation in the underlying rocks; the gravity meter which measures relatively small variations in the earth's gravitational force; and the reflection seismograph which measures shock waves sent back from underlying formations when explosions are set off at the surface.

OIL FORMATION THEORY

Some believe that the folding and faulting caused by the uprising of the Rocky Mountains may have been more favorable to formation of oil traps than the Saskatchewan conditions.

Mr. Cawley rejects this idea and speculates that the folding may have broken more traps—thus allowing oil to escape — than it created.

Given comparable sedimentary ideas, he feels the chances of finding oil are as good in one place as another.

Thus Alberta, with some 250,000 miles of sedimentary area compared to Saskatchewan's 120,000, might reasonably expect to find more oil — but because of the greater area and not because of more favorable conditions.

In both provinces the totals of sedimentary areas contain considerable areas which, while possible for oil, are not regarded as favorable.

Tourist Industry Survey Depends On Federal Help

OTTAWA (CP) — Launching of Canada's first survey into every angle of its tourist industry hinges on federal approval of the plan.

The survey was suggested Tuesday as the 21st annual two-day federal - provincial tourist conference drew to a close.

The provinces have agreed to pay $17,000 of the estimated $40,000 cost of the project. The Canadian Tourist Association will pay $8,000.

All that remains is for the federal government to chip in $15,000.

The project was recommended by a committee formed at last year's conference to consider the feasibility of a study to estimate the importance of the tourist industry to Canada.

TAKE 20 MONTHS

Committee chairman Rex E. Grose, Manitoba's deputy minister of industry and commerce, said it would take from 18 to 20 months to complete.

He said the project would be dropped if the federal government did not participate and asked the federal decision be given within a week or 10 days.

D. Leo Dolan, director of the federal travel bureau and chairman of the conference, said he would have to see Resources Ministe Lesage before committing the federal government.

Mr. Dolan and Deputy Resources Minister R. G. Robertson both said they were behind the survey.

"We can find out once and for all what is the economic potential of the tourist industry in Canada," Mr. Dolan said.

Mr. Grose was named to head a committee to put the survey into operation if federal approval is forthcoming. He recommended it be conducted by a private survey firm working with the federal bureau of statistics and other federal and provincial departments.

Syrian Situation Appears Grave Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson Tuesday described current events in Syria and Lebanon as "a matter of immediate gravity."

He said in the Commons there are reports of Russian penetration in Syria to an alarming extent" and of moves to control the Arab country by a group which appears willing to work with Russia.

Mr. Pearson, during a speech on Middle East affairs, was interrupted by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert), who asked him to comment on the "critical" situation in the two countries.

Mr. Diefenbaker, Conservative foreign affairs spokesman, asked whether the United Nations emergency force in Egypt will have to be increased to deal with the new problems.

TO CANCEL PACT

iNews reports Tuesday said Jordan has moved to cancel its 35-year pact with Britain and oust all British influence from the country. Jordan has announced arrest of 23 persons in connection with a series of bombings. Iraq has protested about anti - Iraq broadcasts from Syria and Turkey has criticized "active preparations in Syria."

Mr. Pearson said the UN-police force in Egypt soon would be greatly reduced. Its terms of reference dealt only with matters there.

Mr. Pearson added, however, that the UN General Assembly is in session and he felt sure the functions of the force could be extended if necessary.

TO STUDY CASE

BOTHWELL, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Premier Leslie Frost will investigate the mysterious disappearance of a family of seven from their Zone Township home last May, Inspector Harry Ramsden, provincial OPP head, said Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCallum, their parents and their three children vanished from their farm home, leaving a partly-eaten meal on the table.

Tension Between Syria and Iraq Still Mounting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The drumbeat tension between Syria and Iraq mounted today. The feeling grew that some sort of break —either in Damascus or Baghdad —might come within days.

Informed circles saw the likelihood of an open coup by the army clique that has taken control of Syria in recent weeks. The army faction, pro-Soviet although non-Communist, is led by Col. Abdul Hamid Saraj.

The Syrian-Iraqi crisis built up in a continuing exchange of bitter charges. Jordan's decision to cut its ties with Britain and consider closer relations with Russia underlined the possibility of deeper Soviet penetration into the fermenting Middle East.

CHARGES SUBVERSION

Iraq accuses Syria of conducting a subversive campaign against the government of Iraqi Premier Nuri Said, an opponent of Soviet moves to extend Russian Middle East influence.

Syria charges Iraq with seeking to destroy the governments of both Syria and Jordan.

The latest blast came in a Damascus radio broadcast which claimed a delegation of Iraqi politicians had called on King Faisal to dismiss Nuri Said's government. The official Syrian radio said the delegation urged Faisal to appoint a government "responsive to national demands concentrated on the withdrawal of Iraq from the Baghdad pact."

There was no confirmation from Baghdad of the report. Both Iraq and Lebanon previously have accused Syria's radio and press of spreading false stories designed to alienate Iraq and Lebanon from the West. The Baghdad pact, Syria in recent weeks. The army faction, pro-Soviet although non-Communist, is led by Col. About Hamid Saraj.

Junior choir (girls) — "Danny Boy"; "Jesus is Born"; "The Peddler."

A Dickens' monologue — Richard Taylor, Larry Stickwood.

Maurice Ash, Thomas Blue.

Madoc high school quartet—"My Bonnie"; "Shortnin Bread."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. L. F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School, Belleville. Mr. Reid offered congratulations to the principal and staff of Madoc high school. He also congratulated the students who received diplomas and addressed his remarks especially to the graduating class, saying that they were facing a new experience in their life. "What is the purpose you have before you when you choose you life work? Are you considering where your life will count the most in worthwhile service?

"Or are you thinking of what will bring you the greatest financial gain?

"I would like to suggest that you put first in your consideration the church. There is a great need for ministers—and when you wish to make the greatest contribution to humanity I would put the ministry first. The second, I would suggest the teaching profession. If you like working with young people and wish to make a fine contribution to developing life, come in and join the teaching profession.

"Necessary as other professions and vocations are, I suggest these are the greatest in order named."

Mr. Reid further suggested to the students that if they were to have a successful career they would need to give their best; not to be content with just getting by. They would need to work hard and have determination to succeed or have what he liked to call stick-to-it-ive-ness.

Mr. Reid's address was inspiring and thought provoking.

The valedictory address was given by Miss Molly Bird, who is at present attending Teachers' College in Peterborough.

1957 SCHOOL STAFF

Madoc high school staff, '56-'57: C. A. Howse, B.A., principal, mathematics; D. C. Drinkwalter, B.A., science and agriculture; Ross Fleming, industrial arts; Miss Mary Fonseca, B.A., English; Mrs. Marian Gray, home economics; Kevin Healey, B. A., Mary F. and H.E.; Mrs. K. Lee-Sage, Science and Math.; Mrs. Mary Miller, B.A., French; Miss Anne Nickle, music; Mrs. Jean O'Riordan, B.A., social studies; Miss Grace Raney, B.A., Latin; Miss Lamoine West, B.A., Girls' P. and H.E. and Guidance.

A graduation dance followed the entertainment with the class of '57 being hosts to the graduating class.

Gilead

GILEAD.—Mrs. O. Bertrand attended the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto where she represented the 4-H Club of this district. While there she also visited her daughter, Mary, for a few days.

Mrs. Carman Huffman was hostess for the November meeting of the Gilead WMS. All officers were re-elected for the coming year.

Mrs. Wilfred Claire spent several days as guest of her daughter, Mrs. Derek Henry at Kingston.

Mrs. Luella Keitch and Leland at Trent Road, also Mr. Harry Swan, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Huffman on Sunday last. Later they motored to Kingston to visit Mr. H. Swan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Badgley and Betty enjoyed a motor trip to Woodstock on Sunday last.

An interesting program was enjoyed on Wednesday evening when the male members of the Friendship Guild sponsored the meeting. Plans were also made for a sale choir for the annual church service on Sunday, Dec. 2, at 8:30 p.m., St. Andrew's Gilead church. Rev. R. J. McCrea will be conducting this service. Everyone is requested to bring a friend.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clare opened their home on Saturday evening for choir practice with Mr. K. Leavens as pianist. The ladies of the Guild accompanied their husbands at this practice and quilted during the evening. A social half hour ended an enjoyable evening.

The ladies of the Friendship Guild are busily making plans for their annual bazaar to be held November 30, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Embury and Irma at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clare of Marsh Hill, Mr. Duncan McGinnis and Miss Beryl Swan of Peterborough, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Huffman.

Miss M. Livingston called at the home of Mrs. W. Clare on Monday afternoon.

Miss Audrey Swan spent Thursday evening with Miss Dreta Peacock of Latta.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yorke and Mrs. Joseph Chappell visited Mrs. W. Treverton on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison of Carmel, were Tuesday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Huffman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yorke were Saturday evening guests of Mrs. O. Bertrand. Mrs. J. Ross also visited at the same home.

The Rev. R. McCrea, Mrs. McCrea and Kathleen, were supper guests on Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clare.

Police Arrest Second Man In Theft Case

TORONTO (CP) — Police have arrested a second man in connection with the torture and robbery of an elderly man and his daughter in their farmhouse at Sutton, 40 miles north of here, in October, 1955.

Samuel Miller, 42, of Islington has been charged with possessing $12,000 in bonds stolen from Charles Roney Doidge. He and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Crowder, were tortured by four men before they agreed to open their safe. More than $50,000 in bonds was taken.

Another $12,000 in stolen bonds was recovered last spring with the arrest of a man who has not yet been tried.

Massey Presents Scout Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey, Chief Scout of Canada, Tues. presented 27 honors and awards—two of them posthumous—at a colorful investiture at Government House.

Two physically handicapped boys—Peter Drummond Fraser, 12, of New Glasgow, N.S., and Ronald Keith Human, 16, of Morden, Man.—received the Cornwell Scout Badge, highest award of the Canadian Boy Scouts Association.

They received the award for "remarkable Scout-like determination and fortitude" in carrying out Scouting duties and passing Scout tests successfully and cheerfully.

VITAL EXPORT

British motor vehicle exports in 1956 are expected to set a record of more than £100,000,000.

Wilson Clips Wings of Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Wilson has clipped the sprouting air wings of the army and forbidden it from operating longer range guided missiles than it now has.

His order limited the army's aviation mission to providing "local mobility" for "small combat units and limited quantities of material."

All other airlift must be provided by the air force, which also was given "sole responsibility" for operating land-launched missiles of medium and long ranges.

The Pentagon left no doubt that the aim is to curb the army's aviation ambitions. Deputy Defence Secretary Reuben Robertson told reporters the army has been "enthusiastic about developing an air force of its own."

Damascus Reds Worry Neighbors

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's neighbors are cracking down on subversive elements at home and groping for help from abroad to counter growing fears of pro-Soviet leaders in Damascus.

Tiny Lebanon announced the arrest of 23 persons—only two of them Lebanese—in connection with a spate of small bombings, and said its security forces had found four caches of arms and explosives.

Iraq protested for the second time about bitter anti-Iraq broadcasts over Damascus radio and appealed for American jet planes and anti-aircraft guns for defence.

Jordan, on Syria's western border, was reported turning to the United States for economic aid to supplant British help she is giving up at the demand of Arab nationalists.

Says Queen's Own Unlikely to Go To Middle East

NAPLES, Italy (CP)—Canadian army officers in Italy say they doubt that the Queen's Own Rifles will ever be sent to the Middle East.

They say there have been suggestions the battalion should remove its shoulder patches to satisfy the Egyptians, but add that the morale of Canadian soldiers has already suffered enough. The only Canadian soldiers here not sent on to Egypt are members of the Queen's Own.

It is believed that Canadians will comprise the entire headquarters staff of Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa, commander of the United Nations force in Egypt. There are enough Canadian medical personnel now in Egypt and Naples to form the medical component of the 6,000-man UN force.

Canadians here are confused about their exact duties, but no more than the United Nations itself.

OPEN SPACES

SASKATOON (CP)—A colony of 300 western grebes, which usually nest in swamps, was found nesting on dry land on an island in Old Wives Lake. The grebe is smaller than a mallard duck.

A number from here attended the movie "On Guard" shown in Madoc Empire Theatre on Sunday.

Cadet Major Robert A. Lorenson, a senior in the advanced AFROTC program was among 13 cadets presented distinguished AFROTC students awards from Col. Beaudoin, professor of Air Science at Rensselaer, Polytechnic Institute.

To receive this award, a cadet must stand among the top 25 per cent of his class. He must also demonstrate outstanding leadership abilities, particularly during attendance at a summer training unit held after his junior year at an Air Force base. Having received this honor, Cadet-Major Lorenson is eligible upon graduation, for a commission of 2nd lieutenant in the regular Air Force.

Cadet-Major Lorenson is majoring in mechanical engineering at R.P.I. He is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin C. Lorenson, Forsyth Sireet, Marmora.

Mrs. Thomas Rannah is visiting her daughter in California, U.S.

Mrs. James Thomson and children, Miss Phyllis Hickey and Miss Helen Vanstone, were visitors in Toronto for a few days last week.

Mr. William Meehan, Jr., of Toronto, visited his parents over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Wells attended the recent commencement exercises at Lorne Park College, where their daughter, Miss Brenda Wells, is a student.

Jack Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Martin is continuing his studies at Lorne Park College.

Three Imports For TiCats Drafted By U.S. League

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League learned Tuesday that three imports on their 1957 negotiation list have been drafted by National League teams.

Green Bay Packers drafted quarterback Bob Reynolds of Notre Dame and end Ron Kramer of Michigan State. Cleveland Browns latched on to the NFL rights to Jim Brown of Syracuse University.

The American clubs still must try to outbid the Canadian teams to sign their draft choices.

Four drafted players were also on the Toronto Argonaut negotiation list.

Chicago Cardinals picked Jerry Tubbs, Oklahoma centre; Los Angeles Rams chose halfback John Arnett of the University of Southern California; Pittsburgh Steelers named quarterback Tom Dawson of Purdue; and Washington Redskins picked Don Bosseler of Miami.

Duck Hunting Trip Costly for Five Hunters

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—Five men were fined and placed on probation Tuesday when they pleaded guilty in federal court to bringing more than 10 ducks each into the United States from Canada.

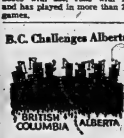
Fined $250 by Judge Ronald N. Davies was Dr. John Patterson, Des Moines, retired veterinarian, who also was placed on probation for two years.

Fined $50 each and placed on probation for two years were: Emil Ries Tuttle, outdoor editor of the Des Moines Register-Tribune; Lowell O. Harris, Marshalltown, secretary of the Marshalltown Sportsmen's Club; Carroll D. Willcox, Des Moines, Patterson's son-in-law; and Dr. John W. Patterson Jr., Des Moines, Patterson's son.

Judge Davies specified that the defendants may not use, carry or transport firearms of any kind during the period of probation.

Dr. Patterson was owner of a converted boat in which U.S. game and border agents found 116 ducks at the border check point at Dunseith, N.D., Oct. 18.

The law provides that persons hunting in Canada may not import more than 10 ducks into the United States in any one week.



Peewee Reese First Dodger To Sign Contract

BROOKLYN (AP) — Peewee Reese, captain and shortstop of Brooklyn Dodgers, became the first member of the National League champions to agree to terms for the 1957 baseball season when he returned his signed contract Tuesday for an estimated $28,000, a reported increase of $2,000 over last year's figures.

The popular veteran, who will reach his 38th birthday next July, enjoyed one of his best seasons in 1956, figuring prominently in the Dodgers' second straight championship. He batted .257 but played in nearly every game, was his old brilliant self in the field and proved one of the most dangerous clutch hitters on the club.

Next year will mark Reese's 15th as a Dodger, not including the three he spent in the Navy. He leads the club in stolen bases with 226, runs with 1,284 and has played in more than 2,000 games.

Hal Patterson Signs Contract For Two Years

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal Patterson, voted the outstanding football player in Canada in 1956, Tuesday was rewarded with a two-year contract at higher pay by Montreal Alouettes.

Patterson still had a year to run on his old contract but club president Leo Dandurand said it was ripped up and replaced with a new pact. The terms were not announced but club officials said their star end was given a substantial raise.

Patterson joined Montreal in 1954 from the University of Kansas. This season he broke the Big Four Football League records for most passes caught, most yards gained on passes and most touchdown passes caught.

LAVAL WINS FIRST START

QUEBEC (CP)—The Laval University red and gold hockey team opened the Intercollegiate hockey season Tuesday night by defeating University of Montreal Carabins 5-1.

Forwards Georges Lemieux and Michel Lagace each scored a pair of goals and defenceman Francois Laroche added one. Gaby Alain was the lone Carabin marksman.

Parade and Dinner for Esks End Brilliant Football Year

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos have won the Grey Cup for the third consecutive year but if hometown fans are getting blase they certainly didn't show it on Tuesday's delirious welcome for their team.

Some 50,000 cheered the Canadian football champions as they were carried on floats through the streets in a parade during the afternoon, then more than 300 prominent citizens joined in unstinting praise for the Eskimos at a victory dinner at night.

The day was proclaimed "Eskimo Day" in Edmonton.

Coach Frank Ivy, who said "we went out to win three in a row because of the wonderful support we got at home," received a standing ovation at the dinner and was termed by almost every speaker "the greatest football coach in Canada."

PERFECT RECORD

The Eskimos have won the Dominion football championship all three years Ivy has coached them, each time from Montreal Alouettes.

Ivy, termed "mild-mannered" by Lieutenant-Governor J. J. Bowlen, said Mr. Bowlen should accompany him along the sidelines some game the team is losing.

Premier E. C. Manning said the team might as well keep the cup for another two years as the city and the province could throw a "real celebration" on the cup's 30th anniversary in 1958.

The premier said that when his young son couldn't choose between the names Jackie Parker and Don Getty, Edmonton quarterback, for a prize calf, he advised him to call it Alouette because like the Montreal club it was "only going to the slaughterhouse anyway."

STREETS PACKED

Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton said the cup game was of real value to the country because it "brought Canadians together in a common interest."

Rooftops, window ledges and all sidewalk space in downtown Edmonton were jammed with spectators during the afternoon parade. Team members, on great and gold floats, were showered with ticker tape and confetti as the parade made its slow way up downtown Jasper Avenue.

School children were let out of school early for the parade while government employees were given an hour off work.

Biggest laughs from the crowd were produced by an ancient car labelled "the Alouette machine" and by one of five bands in the parade playing "alouette" at dead march tempo.

Plante Improves Lead for Goalies In National Loop

TORONTO (CP) — Jacques Plante returned to action in the National Hockey League last week apparently unaffected by a chronic case of asthma which had kept him out of eight games.

The Montreal Canadiens' netminder picked up where he left off before his illness and improved his lead in the efficiency rating for NHL goaltenders.

Plante was beaten on only two of the 45 shots fired at him in two games for a .956 average which raised his season's mark a point to .952.

Meanwhile, Glenn Hall of Detroit Red Wings reclaimed second place with a season's rating of .928. Boston's Terry Sawchuk is .927. Lorne Worsley of New York Rangers, .914, Al Rollins of Chicago Black Hawks, .906, and Ed Chadwick of Toronto Maple Leafs .818.

Gerry McNeil, who replaced Plante, played one game but was beaten five times by Chicago for an .815 average and a season total of .873.

125th Annual Statement

THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA

ESTABLISHED 1832

C. Sydney Frost, President — F. W. Nicks, General Manager

Your Picture, Too!

The Bank of Nova Scotia's Annual Statement is the story of people. Our 125th progress report shows how the Bank is helping the people of our nation to produce more . . . to save more . . . and to enjoy more.

This is the theme of the story told in the figures below . . . a story about you and more than a million other Canadians who bank with the BNS.

ASSETS — the Bank's resources and how they work for you.

$194,232,618 Cash, clearings and due from banks
This is like cash in the Bank's till to service the cheques which BNS customers draw on their accounts.

$237,710,873 Canadian Government securities not exceeding market value
This amount helps finance varied Government activities such as the St. Lawrence Seaway; National Harbours Board; Wheat Board payments; our National Defence needs.

$80,736,917 Other bonds and stocks, not exceeding market value
This sum represents the Bank's purchases of stocks and bonds—money which goes into the building of schools, highways, new plants and equipment, and the like—to make it available for us all more of the good things in life.

$87,138,746 Call loans, secured
This money, lent to investment bouses, is subject to immediate recall if required.

$641,037,962 Other loans and discounts, less provision for estimated loss
Our customers in Canada ahead borrowed this amount for all kinds of personal and business purposes. These loans help finance the purchase of materials and the sale and distribution of goods . . . from the cutting of trees in the forest to the sale of refrigerators . . . from starting a business to improving a farm or home. Loans of this kind are the lifeblood of Canada's growth—the Bank's most important service to the community.

$19,865,233 Customers' liability under acceptances and letters of credit
See similar heading under "Liabilities". This is the opposite side of the coin, and the two amounts are thus the same.

$19,330,123 Bank premises, controlled company, and other assets
Most of this sum goes into a continuing programme of improving our branch facilities so that customers can do their banking more pleasantly and easily.

Total Assets $1,270,142,472

LIABILITIES — what the Bank owes.

$1,176,942,664 Deposits
More than a million customers now bank with the BNS. They deposit their money for a host of reasons—for business and household needs . . . as a retirement fund for the future . . . or to finance a college education. Our customers place these funds for safety and convenience in current and savings accounts, including such special accounts as the Bank's own PSP.

$19,865,233 Acceptances and letters of credit outstanding
This is the extent to which the Bank has guaranteed the credit of our customers buying from suppliers, particularly those in foreign lands. It matches the amount pledged by customers for repayment (see amount opposite similar heading under "Assets"). Business at home is thus encouraged to expand abroad . . . another way the Bank helps Canada grow.

$4,903,343 Other liabilities
This is mostly money put aside to meet anticipated expenses . . . such as our 1956 Income Tax, for example.

SHAREHOLDERS' EQUITY

$68,431,333 Capital paid up, rest account and undivided profits
The shareholders—the real owners of the Bank—contribute these funds which protect the interests of the customers. They thus assure the strength and stability of the BNS, and help make possible the Bank's increasing role in aiding Canada's progress.

Total Liabilities $1,270,142,472

DEER HEAVEN!

Here's a tip to would-be encroachers of private property. Just stay away from the residence of Gordon and Mrs. Davies, 123 Victoria Avenue. And don't say you weren't warned.

For the Davies, Gordon and Audrey, are dead-shots with rifles or other weapons. Deer and a 400-pound bear can testify that statement. At least their carcasses can.

The bear, a big black brute, is hanging in a downtown freezer locker. The deer are waiting to be brought out from the Denbigh district where the Davies and a party of ten did their hunting.

Mrs. Davies, a very attractive matron who belies in her well-groomed appearance that she is as much at home in the woods with a heavy calibre rifle as in her kitchen with cooking utensils, told this department today that she celebrated her 29th hunting season in the north woods this year.

Looking at Mrs. Davies it is hard to believe. For here is a lady, who by her appearance seems more at home behind the steering wheel of a town car than crouching behind the bluffs in the leaf-carpeted deer-runs of the north country.

Yet this gal has had her share of the riches of deer-hunting. She is modest to the nth degree. But she admitted under more or less repartorial pressure that she has shot eleven deer in eighteen seasons of hunting, all of them with the first blast from her trusty rifle.

Actually, this piece should be about her husband, Gordon Davies, who is not only a hunter, but with his sister Olivia, has been one of the outstanding stars of the figure-skating division of the Quinte Tennis and Skating Club.

Anyway, Gordon and Audrey and their party of eight others, including Don Bander and son Donny of Kingston; Russell Bander, Clarence and Ken Reid of Collins Bay; Tom McGuire, Toronto, and Ken Pinder and Jack McMechan of Belleville, went "whale bag" and spent the entire two weeks in their hunting territory in the Denbigh district.

Good gut the thrill of his life when he downed the big brute with his first shot, but this thrill was climaxed with two other shots that accounted for two beautiful bucks. Not to be outdone Audrey toted her trusty arquabus to the deer run and with a single shot brought down a nice spikehorn that tipped the scales at 125 pounds.

Nor were the other members of the party outlucked. The "gang" accounted for eight deer and the bear with Russell Bander's mark being the prize deer of the bag. It weighed over 250 pounds.

Contrary to the opinions of some of the male species of the hunting fraternity, who believe that a deer-questing safari is for men only, Audrey is "one of the boys" on these hunting expeditions. She can shoot, work and cook with the best of them and the "gang" would not dream of leaving her behind. If they did Audrey would probably take off on a hunting junket of her own. She is a crack shot and seldom wastes ammunition when a deer gets lined along her rifle sights.

HOCKEY

The Whitby Dunlops continued one streak and halted another in Blairsville intl night. They handed the Kingston CKCL's another pasting, this time by an 8-3 score for their fourth consecutive victory over the Easterners this season. They also put the stops to their three-game winless streak. Previous to last night's victory the loop leaders had managed a tie with the McFarlands and dropped decisions to Cambrake and Cornwall.

Messrs. Attersley and Gagnon paced the Dunnies' attack, and pulled ahead of the locals' Menard and Paysite in the scoring race. Coach Gagnon had two and two while Attersley potted one goal and was credited with four assists. Donny Murray had both Kingston goals.

The weekend series between the CKLC's and the Macs will likely consolidate second place for somebody, that is unless the clubs split.

Meanwhile, here at home the Belleville Lambert Juniors came up with their second victory in as many starts over KMC in the Junior "B" loop. The Lamberts downed the College kids in a real close one, 3-2.

They took a 2-0 lead in the first, split a pair in the second and then hung on after the visitors made it 3-3 at eleven seconds of the final period. A well-deserved win for the locals but a little more fan support would certainly be welcomed.

Billy Foster was the Belleville hero, potting two goals, while Art Culloden had the other. Jack Gilby turned in a good performance in the nets and over all the Lamberts looked sharper on passing, skating and shooting plays.

How about getting out next Tuesday night when the strong Kingston crew will provide the opposition here?

Russia Outscores Americans In Track and Field Events Winning Three Gold Medals

MELBOURNE (CP)—Vladimir Kuts, blonde Russian distance runner, completed a brilliant Olympic double today—a day in which Russia outscored the United States in track and field and a pretty Australian housewife broke a world record.

Out of the rivalry between the two leading nations in the 1956 Games and another general assault on records, Russia and the United States each scored grand slams.

The Russians placed one-two-three in the 10-kilometre walk—a new event on the Olympic program—and the Americans did the same in the more spectacular 110-metre hurdles.

When the day's reckoning was over, Russia had won three gold medals to the United States' two and had counted 49 track-and-field points to 37 for the U.S. in the unofficial tabulation.

AUSSIE THRILLS CROWD

The only final not won by either country was the women's 80-metre hurdles. Shirley Strickland de la Hunty thrilled the thousands in Olympic Stadium by winning the event in world-time of 10.7 seconds.

Her performance bettered the official record set by Kuts last year by G. Ermelenko of Russia but was one-tenth of a second slower than the 10.6 made last July by Centa Costi of Germany. The 10.6 record has not yet been officially accepted.

Gisela Kopp of Germany was second to the Australian girl today and Norma Thrower of Australia third.

Canada had a disappointing day following Saturday's big showing by the University of British Columbia oarsmen. Tuesday all their track entries were eliminated and the Canadian champion, Bruno Ochman of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., lost his first-round match in the welterweight wrestling competition.

For a time there was hope of a good showing in the men's 400 metres as Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C., won a qualifying heat and Murray Cockburn of Toronto was second in another. But in the afternoon semi-finals they ran fourth and sixth and were eliminated. A third contender, Laird Sloan of Montreal, failed to qualify in the preliminary.

FAILED TO QUALIFY

In the women's javelin throw, won later by Russia's Inessa Iaounzem with an Olympic record distance of 176 feet eight inches, Margaret George, 18-year-old Mervin, Sask., school teacher, failed to make the qualifying distance of 141 feet, 5½ or an inch.

Alec Oakley of St. John's, Nfld., now a resident of Toronto, was disqualified in the 50-mile walk.

Kuts' winning time in the 5,000 metres was 13 minutes, 39.6 seconds, breaking Chapela's Olympic record of 14:06. Two Britons—Gordon Pirie and Derek Ibbotson—placed second and third, also in times that bettered the former record.

Kuts killed off the brilliant field with a series of spirints in the last five laps and came home a good 75 yards ahead of Pirie, who outsprinted Ibbotson.

After the race Kuts ran all the way around the Olympic grinning and waving to the crowd which cheered him repeatedly. The stocky Russian runs much like Zatopek, who is entered only in the marathon this year, with violent arm movements and much bobbing of his head.

For the first eight laps Pirie, Ibbotson and England's Chris Chataway stayed at Kuts' heels but the Russian finally shook them off with three laps to go. Chataway faded and finished well back. Miklos Szabo of Hungary outsprinted Australia's Albert Thomas for fourth place.

Leonid Spirine led the Russian grand slam in the 20-kilometre walk. Antanas Mikenas was second and Bruno Iounak third.

The U.S. grand slam in the 110-metre hurdles was the Americans' fourth in the Games. Lee Calhoun of Gary, Ind., was first in a photo finish in which he and Jack Davis of Glendale, Calif., broke the Olympic record with identical clockings of 13.5 seconds. The old mark of 13.7 was made by both Davis and Harrison Dillard of the United States in 1952. Joel Shankle of Durham, N.C., took third place.

TREMENDOUS WIN

In the men's shot put, Parry O'Brien of the U.S. put on a tremendous winning performance, bettering his 1952 Olympic record on every one of his six throws in the finals and setting a new mark of 60 feet, 11 inches.

Bill Nieder of Lawrence, Kan., placed second, Jiri Skobla of Czechoslovakia third and Kenneth Bentson of Ithaca, N.Y., fourth —all of them bettering O'Brien's old Olympic record of 57 feet, 1 inches, made in 1952.

Russia also pitched up points today in the finals of the pentathlon, a combined event peculiar to Olympic competition. The Russians won the team standing while Lars Hall of Sweden won the individual crown with his prowess in such trials as cross-country running, swimming, riding, fencing and pistol shooting. He also won the event in 1952.

Swaps Walks For First Time Since Leg Broken

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Swaps, California thoroughbred who ranks as one of the top race horses of all time, walked Thursday for the first time since x-rays disclosed he had fractured a tiny bone in his left hind leg during an Oct. 9 workout at Garden State Race Track.

Swaps, still wearing a small cast to protect the injured canon bone which veterinarians say has healed completely, walked from one stall to another one bedded with straw.

The big horse, one of the fastest sprinters ever to race, has been supported in a special sling in a standing position ever since he hurt himself seven weeks ago.

The plan now, while Swaps recuperates at Garden State, is to allow the horse to move from one stall to the other each day. One day he'll be allowed to lie down on the straw. When he stands up he'll be walked back to the adjoining stall and placed in the sling which will be loosened gradually to permit Swaps eventually to stand without support.

Ted Kennedy Persuaded To Leave Retirement To Give Boost To Leafs

Toronto Team Wins Only One Game in Last Eleven Played And Badly in Need of Help

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Because youth seems to have botched the job, Toronto Maple Leafs have persuaded one of their greatest centres to leave retirement and help them win hockey games.

Ted Kennedy, 31-year-old forward who quit the National Hockey League at the end of the 1954-55 campaign, turned up at a Leaf practice in Toronto Tuesday. He volunteered for active service and a baffled Leaf management issued him a uniform.

"I'm willing to do anything I can to help the club," said Kennedy. "I haven't signed any contract or even discussed one. Money has nothing to do with it.

"If I can help get Leafs going I'll be only too happy to do so. I don't expect any favors. If I'm convinced I'm able, I'll play wherever they think they can use me."

MAY BE RIGHT MEDICINE

Leafs need help badly. They have won only one of their last 11 games and now are in fourth place in the six-club loop standings.

"This club might still start to go without any help," Kennedy said. "If it does, I might forget all about a comeback. The next week or so will help me decide. But if I get back in action and the team starts to click, I'm certainly going to stay with it."

Kennedy was outstanding with Leafs for 12 straight seasons, amassing a total of 225 goals. He was Leaf team captain for seven campaigns. Originally, Kennedy had planned to retire at the end of the 1953-54 season, but was talked him into playing an extra year, for a reported salary of $17,000, the largest ever offered a Leaf.

Leaf general manager Hap Day asked Kennedy several times to reconsider his retirement plans and only recently did Ted appear interested. His appearance Tuesday took Hap and coach Howie Meeker by surprise.

HELP FOR YOUNGSTERS

"Kennedy is bound to help our team," Day said. Commented Meeker: "He should work wonders with our younger set. Once he's just what we need to get us going."

It is doubtful Kennedy, who may be ready in about 10 days, will return to his former position on a line with left winger Sid Smith.

"I think Kennedy's biggest contribution will be with the kids," Meeker said. "I might stick him between two of the younger players, probably Bobby Pulford and Barry Cullen."

Meanwhile, Canadiens learned Tuesday that Maurice Richard will be out in the cold for two or three weeks. Richard underwent an operation to have bone chips removed and fluid drained from his elbow.

The similar operation was performed recently on Bernie Geoffrion of Canadiens. He was out of action for 18 days, returning last Saturday against New York.

Only One of B.C. Four-Oared Crew Rowed Before Spring

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of British Columbia four-oar rowers, who won a gold medal at the Olympic Games in Melbourne Monday, originally were names for the UBC eight-oar crew, which won a Silver Medal.

And of the four, only stroke Don Arnold of Kelowna had rowed before this spring. Don, 21, is a second-year agriculture student. His mates—Peter Bennett, a second-year arts student from Vancouver, Lorne Loomer, second-year arts student from Nelson, and Archie McKinnon, first-year engineering student from Cranbrook—are all 18.

Both the eights, who won the British Empire Games title here in 1954, and the fours had to depend on a public campaign for funds to get to the Olympics.

As late as this February the Canadian Olympic Association was undecided as to whether to send a rowing squad to Melbourne. Officials expressed doubt whether the UBC eights, which lost four of its members after finishing second to the University of Pennsylvania at Henley in 1955, was strong enough.

WON THE TRIP

This spring, after UBC defeated the University of Washington by eight lengths, it was decided to send 11 men—an eight-oar crew plus a cox and two spares.

About this time members of the four-oar crew began training as spares for the eights.

After the fours and the eights both finished first at the Olympic trials in Ottawa, the Canadian Olympic Association and the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen decided to send both to Australia.

However, they provided funds for sending only 13 rowers—not enough to take care of spares. In order that a full 13 might go—eights, with two spares and a cox, plus the fours—UBC and the Vancouver Rowing Club launched a public appeal for $6,000.

All UBC rowers belong to the Vancouver Rowing Club, which supplies them with training facilities, equipment, and a coach.

The campaign target was boosted to $25,000 to take care of additional equipment required, including a shell for the fours crew, and to improve their training facilities.

The drive was over-contributed by about $2,000. Biggest donor was the B.C. government, which kicked in $10,000. The city of Vancouver put up $1,000 and other large contributions came from the hometowns of the rowers.

For six months the student rowers got up at 6:30 a.m. to practise on Jog-stream Coal Harbor under coach Frank Read. They worked all day, rowed again and went to bed at 8 p.m. They gave up all social life and abandoned their girl friends.

Premier Bennett and Lieutenant . Governor Frank Ross expressed the pride of British Columbians at the double - medal Olympic victory when they hailed it as "an inspiration to the youth of this province." Premier Bennett said he hopes to take part in a gala welcome planned for the team's homecoming Dec. 15.

Dottie's Pick Easily Defeats Champion Pacer

YONKERS, N.Y. (CP)—Dottie's Pick, champion western pacing mare owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, made a runaway of Tuesday night's 1956 championship class at Yonkers Raceway by scoring an 11-length victory over Adios Harry, early standard bearer in a $25,000 winner-take-all match race.

Dottie's Pick, handled by Del Miller, was sent to the front immediately after the start and was never headed thereafter, repulsing one challenge from Adios Harry at the quarter-mile pole and then coasting to the wire with effortless ease.

Previous to the match contest, Adios Harry, world's record-holder over the mile, J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, Del., had won 18 of 20 starts this season and compiled record seasonal earnings for a pace of $129,912.

The winner returned $3.80. Adios Harry was sent off a prohibitive public choice at 1 to 5.

The victory was the 10th in 22 starts this season for Dottie's Pick and raised her seasonal earnings to $101,142.

Roy Campanella Will Undergo Another Operation

BROOKLYN (AP) — Roy Campanella, ailing catcher of Brooklyn Dodgers was to enter hospital today to undergo a hand operation Tuesday, club publicity director Arthur (Red) Patterson announced Tuesday.

The 35-year-old receiver will have bone chips removed from his right thumb by Dr. Herbert Fett, who performed two previous operations on Campanella's left hand.

Obviously handicapped by the damaged hand, the National League's three-time most valuable player caught only 124 games, hit 20 home runs and drove in 73 runs on a sub-par .219 batting average. The year before Campanella batted .318, slammed 32 home runs and drove in 107 runs to capture the league's MVP award for the third time.

Leading Hitter Of American Assoc. Killed

OMAHA (AP)—Charles Peete, 27-year-old baseball player listed by a Venezuelan airline Thursday as having been among victims of a plane crash near Caracas, Venezuela, was the American Association's leading hitter in 1956.

Among the other 24 persons killed in the crash were Peete's wife, Nettie, and their children, Deborah, Kenny and Sandra.

Peete, who played centrefield for Omaha except for a month last season when he was recalled by the parent St. Louis Cardinals, won the Association batting title with a .350 average.

The Cardinals said Peete was playing with the Cienfuegos club in Havana this winter, but was returned. He was given permission then to join the Valencia club in Venezuela.

The Cardinals regarded him as one of their most promising young players and had planned to give him a chance to win a regular outfield position.

Parker, Etcheverry Head All-Star Game Lineups

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quarterbacks Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos and Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes will continue their duel when Western and Eastern All-Stars meet in the Shrine all-star football game here Dec. 8.

But the lineups, announced today by Canadian Rugby Union secretary Harry McDiarmid, are little other resemblance to the teams which battled for the Canadian football championship at Toronto's Varsity Stadium last Saturday when Edmonton won 50-37.

The lineups for the East-West Shrine Game players from each of the nine clubs in the Western Interprovincial Football Union and Big Four, Saskatchewan Roughriders lead in the West with nine players. Edmonton Eskimos are nigh in the East with eight.

Roughriders lost to Eskimos in the WIFU final 50-37 and while Hamilton bowed to Montreal in the Big Four.

ESKS PLACE SEVEN

Edmonton and Montreal each supplied seven players. Eskimos' Parker, guard Frank Anderson and battering fullback Normie Kwong, all-star performers, are representatives on the offensive team, while Alouettes' receiver Hal Patterson is the only Montreal selection besides Etcheverry on the eastern offensive lineup.

The CRU secretary, also coordinator of the Canadian Shrine game inaugurated last year when the teams played to a 6-6 tie in Toronto, said the selection players was based on a popular ballot vote by fans, football writers, sportscasters and coaches of all the clubs.

Coaches will be Frank (Pop) Ivy of the Eskimos and Hamilton's Jim Trimble.

Game time is 1 p.m. PST and takes place in Vancouver's Empire Stadium where more than 29,000 crammed in to see the Grey Cup played last year.

The lineups:

Offensive Teams

Rookie Goalie Making Good For Teepees

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A rookie goaltender, after only one game in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has given the league's marksmen something to think about.

Tuesday night Ron Plotte appeared in the nets for St. Catharines Teepees for the first time, and calmly kicked out 27 shots as the Teepees shut out Hamilton Cubs 7-0.

In the only other Junior A game Oshawa Bilttmore showed why they not only lead the league, but also have most of the top point-getters, Biltmores' forwards fattened their scoring totals at the expense of Barrie Flyers, winning 10-2.

Seven players did the scoring for Teepees—John McKenzie, Ron Quenville, Bob Hull, Mat Ravlich, Ed Hoekstra, Don Cosburn and Stan Mikita.

Danny Belisle scored three in Guelph's win, increasing his total to 13, Bill Sweeney had a pair, making his total 14, and Eddie Shack got one to make his total nine. Ron Ryan, playing his first game, had two, Gerry Goyer and Gord Brown each contributed one.

Only John Chasczewski and Alvin Norrena managed to score for Flyers.

Nine Applications For Coaching Job Of Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—Lew Hayman, general manager of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union, said Tuesday night he has had nine applications for the 1957 Argonaut coaching job.

"I have no idea when I'll be able to announce we've got our man," he said. "It might be in one day, or it might be in one month. My first choices are still coaching."

Hayman would not say whether he was after a coach from an American college or the National Football League.

SWAPS NAMED TOPS

NEW YORK (AP)—Grape, who got four and equalled a fifth world record this year, Tuesday was voted "horse of the year" over Nashua in the annual poll of The Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form. The four-year-old chestnut son of Khaled-Iron Reward is the first California horse to receive the award.

Ridden by Rex Ellsworth and John W. Galbreath, the 1953 Kentucky Derby winner received 20 of the 33 voter cast, with 12 going to the Leslie B. Combs Syndicate's Nashua, and one to the D. and H. Stabel's Needles.

In addition, the ballots showed Grape as 1956 Californian champion, with 125 points, to 101 for Nashua, and 71 for the Calumet Farm's Bardstown.

Ontario Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs may be the highest scorers but Stratford Indians still lead the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Western Division.

Tuesday night Bulldogs beat Chatham Maroons 10-2. They now have scored 78 goals in 13 games, 25 of them in their last three contests. But they are still one point behind Indians, who have scored only 52 in the same number of games.

Indians kept their lead by beating last-place Owen Sound Mercurys 5-2 at Owen Sound.

North Bay Trappers, leading the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, won their ninth home game in 10 starts, downing Sault Ste. Marie Indians 8-3 while second-place Sudbury Wolves were being beaten 3-2 by Greybounds in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Whitby Dunlops, league-leaders, ended a three-game losing streak in the OHA Senior A Eastern Group as they outshot Kingston CKLC 54-22 and outscored them 8-2 at Whitby.

COUNTS FOUR POINTS

Gord Haidy, one of Bulldogs' big guns this year, led them to their win with two goals and two assists. John Sleaver and Walter Pawlyshyn also had doubles and Bob Brown, Reg Abbott, Lou Bondo and Frank Bathgate each scored one. Copper Leyte and Ted Power did the scoring for Maroons.

In Owen Sound the Indians, who had lost their previous three games, got goals from Dinny Flanagan, Mickey Rolb, Bob Master, Don Heinbuch and Jack White.

Jerry Reid and Tommy Wi scored for Owen Sound.

Three players scored twice North Bay in the Trappers' w forwards Stan Maxwell and Stratton and defenceman Goegan. Ken Gribbons and Ch Scherza added the others. scorers were Joe Malo and J Official.

Matt Mesich scored the win for Greybounds in the third p but after Don McLean and Mac Clements had tied it earlier. Beaudry and Armand Lemie put Sudbury in front 2-0 in first period.

Brown Bomber Thinks Moore to Win by Knockout

CHICAGO (AP)—Former champion Joe Louis picks Archie Moore to beat Floyd Patterson in their heavyweight title bout at Chicago Stadium Friday night and the Brown Bomber thinks Moore will win by a knockout.

Louis is one of many former titleholders to pick ancient Archie in the fight which will be televised and is expected to draw 18,000 in blacked-out Chicago.

Joey Maxim, who lost the light heavyweight title to Moore and failed to regain it in two tries, is the only man to have beaten Patterson in his 31 fights. And Maxim favors Moore.

Rocky Marciano, who knocked out Moore in September, 1955 and then called it quits, also chooses Moore.

Louis, who ruled the heavyweight ranks for more than a decade departed with suggestions that fighters are never the same after being knocked out by Marciano.

WAS MOORE OUT

"Archie didn't take any beating when he lost to Marciano," Louis said. "Moore was exhausted but not hurt. Rocky just wore him down. If Rocky had hit Moore with the punch he hit Archie he won the title in the 13th round at Philly from Jersey Joe Walcott it'd be a different story.

"But Moore has proven himself in winning 11 fights since he lost to Marciano, and something like that restores a man's confidence Patterson isn't strong enough to beat Moore but I think Patterson will some day become the champion."

Patterson at 21 could become the youngest heavyweight champion in history. Louis won his title at 23 when he knocked out Jimmy Braddock in 1937.

Moore put in a sluggish three rounds Tuesday and will wind up his sparring sessions today. Patterson will finish up with road work.

National League Drafts 48 College Stars

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Paul Hornung, the fabulous quarterback of Notre Dame's not-so-fabulous 1956 football team, has joined the illustrious list of National Football League bonus babies.

The 210-pound Irish runner passer, kicker deluxe was selected Monday as the NFL's 1957 bonus choice by Green Bay Packers, winners of the out-of-the-hat drawing. Immediately following the bonus selection, the 12 NFL teams drafted 48 players from 33 colleges for possible 1957 pro football activity.

But the star of the day was Hornung. In nine games this season, Hornung scored six touchdowns and accounted for 37 extra points.

Green Bay coach Lisle Blackbourn said Hornung "has the greatest potential of all Notre Dame backs." Quite a tribute when you realize that Notre Dame has turned out more all-American backs than any other school in the nation, including such quarterbacks as Johnny Lujack, Angelo Bertelli, George Ratterman, Ralph Guglielmi and Bobby Williams.

RAMS TAKE ARNETT

Jon Arnett, Southern California halfback, was No. 1 choice in the first round of the regular draft. He went to Los Angeles Rams.

Chicago Bears, whose George Halas had helped lead a floor fight to make eligible for the pro draft Pacific Coast Conference players ruled ineligible for alleged recruitment violations, picked Ronnie Knox in the third round. Knox, former UCLA quarterback, played with Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four Union early this season then finished up with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Karl G. Slocomb in Winnipeg said On WIFI, of which he is president, planned no action on the Knox drafting.

Slocomb said he didn't know what arrangements Stampeders had with Knox for 1957, but believed NFL commissioner Bert Bell would not accept a Chicago bonus choice who then finished up with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

PICKS FOUR ROUNDS

Grabbed quickly in the draft's first round were such 1956 college all-America prospects as Stanford passing ace John Brodie, named by San Francisco; Don Kramer, Michigan end, tapped by Green Bay; Len Dawson, Purdue quarterback, picked by Pittsburgh; Jim Brown, Syracuse halfback, selected by Cleveland, and Cameron Peaks, Michigan State halfback, drawn by Philadelphia.

Bell presided over the partial draft session—the teams selected four rounds—called to meet the early Canadian competition for American football talent. The final 24 rounds of the annual player draft will be held during the league's mid-January meeting.

Only Green Bay and Chicago Cardinals participated in the bonus selection since under league rules all previous winners of the bonus player drop out until every team in the league has been successful in the draw.

Other first-round choices were Jim Parker, Ohio State guard, by Baltimore; Don Bosseler, Miami fullback, by Washington; Jerry Tubbs, Oklahoma centre, by Chicago Cardinals; Del Shofner, Baylor halfback, by Los Angeles; Bill Glass, Baylor tackle, by Detroit, and Earl Leggett, Louisiana State tackle, by the Bears.

In all, 48 players were drafted from 33 colleges, with Michigan of the Big Ten the top contributor with three players — star ends Kramer and Tom Maentz, who went to the Cardinals on the second round, and Terry Barr, a halfback drafted by Detroit in the third round.

Little Benny's Notebook

Reddy Marfit was smoking a cigaret made out of corn silk with tissue paper rapped around it, and us fellows were standing around him watching him blow out the smoke with a luff expression, and somebody grabbed a hold of the back of my collier.

Being pop, and he made me keep on going home with him, saying. Don't get the idea that it's smart to smoke before you're old enough to know better.

But jimminies, pop, he was only smoking an imitation cigaret, I said, and pop said, Many a man who starts by making imitation money ends up by not caring how he makes real money.

And when we got home he said to me, I caught this young man in an admiring audience watching Mr. Merfy boy smoking.

Well really, I meen goodness, me said. That boy is a bad influents. I've heard him shouting a stedgy stream of lecks and dares in a manner that practically amounted to swearing, she said, and pop said, There are only 2 kinds of companions, Benny, those that exert a good influents and those that dont. Do you suppose you and the other boys could form a sort of a high class little cercle of your own? he said.

Meening without Reddy, and I said, But how about if we keep on associating with him, for his good influents in terching its not to bite? I said, and pop said, Yee gods, he's the scrappiest kid in the neighborhoods.

Sure, pop, but if we tell him we're not allowed to associate with him, he'll make us fite him to prove he's better than we are, but if we just keep on like we are, we'll know he's worse than we are without having to fite him, I said.

Yee gods, pop said, and ma said, For land sakes.

Being the end of the subject.

Frances Langford Coming Back To Sing After Year's Absence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Her many fans will be happy to know that Frances Langford is coming back to show business after a year's absence. She dropped out after her marriage to Ralph Evinrude, the outboard motor king.

Why has she come back?

"Because I've been singing most of my life," she explained. "I'd be sort of lost without it."

Her husband is very much in favor. "When you stop working, that's when you begin to stop living," he reasoned.

FILM LIFE STORY

Frances, who began singing for a Tampa radio station at 15 for $5 a week, will appear on some TV shows and is negotiating a film show of her own. She will cut an album for Capitol. And MGM is talking about filming her life story.

The more pleasure-loving in the audience will wonder that Frances wants to go back to work at all. The Evinrudes have elegant homes in Milwaukee and Florida. And when they travel, they go in style.

They fly about the country in a DC-3 that has all the comforts at home—and then some. The cabin is designed like a living room, with couches, a bar and TV set complete with six speakers so the sound can be audible in any part of the cabin.

FOLLOW NETWORK

"We can usually follow a network show right across the country," Evinrude said.

"Once we were right at the climax of an exciting movie," Frances added. "The picture started to fade, so Ralph told the pilot to go back and circle until the movie was over."

When they're not flying, they can be cruising on their 118-foot ocean-going yacht.

AT THE PARK — Virginia Mayo, Claire with Robert Stack, Ruth Roman and Alex Nicol in Edmund Grainger's "Great Day in the Morning", in SuperScope by Technicolor and having its first Belleville showing at the Park Theatre, Belleville, Ont. The picture is in Technicolor. "The Americano" starring Glenn Ford, Cesar Romero, Frank Lovejoy and Abbe Lane.

George Bernard Shaw Wins Honors as Leading Dramatist

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—If any honors are to be offered the leading dramatist on television this year let's not forget an Irish-born chap who has much to say and says it with inordant wit. He was born just 100 years ago and his name is George Bernard Shaw.

A goodly number of his works have appeared on the home screen in the last 12 months. As adapted for and interpreted in the TV medium all have been absorbing entertainment. Most recently came Man and Superman.

With deepest bows to all involved in this production, including Joseph Schrank, who adapted the play for television, let's complain for a moment the medium's crappy discovery of George Bernard Shaw.

In his prime as a playwright Shaw was sometimes considered ahead of his time. Those many years later, when his work is viewed with interest by millions earning their living from some of the social problems he pondered appear to be resolved, but the majority are not.

If he were alive and in his prime as a playwright today, using today's society as illustrative of what he was saying, as a drama of his would lighten the home screens. The sponsors wouldn't hear of it. "Just look what this fellow says," they'd cry. "His social rebels must be Communists." Or "I've got us it is, most happily, the censorious forces in television see him only as a writer of comedy, a funny little old man wearing knickerbockers and a white beard who writes about a time away back when. His social rebels are mere parlor revolutionaries, the restrictive minds must believe, who have subsequently seen the light and joined the National Association of Manufacturers.

His more caustic remarks about church and state and sex and superstitions have been carefully culled. But still the old boy stands head and shoulders above the standard young man who are trying to hammer dramas of social commentary against the brick walls of sponsor resistance.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, Nov. 29, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Poise, dignity, forthright action and a saving sense of humor will put this day in the success column — and will make you happy, too.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You may find yourself somewhat limited today, especially in business or professionally, but its a good day for some rehrospection, personal investigation, double-checking.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your horoscope calls for intelligent, steady action. Don't spend money foolishly. You have encountered harder days, so don't let anything stump or discourage you. Be awake to new ideas.

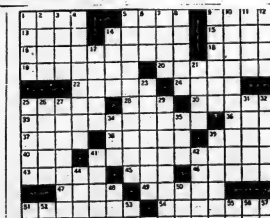
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A good day if you are fit and willing to take the bad with the good. A smart approach, some constructive, aggressive moves will be highly effective.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You can advance in some ways, may be opposed rigidly in others. But no one can keep from trying, wherein lies the greatest strength — and stalemate, in the end.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — You may have to approach tasks with a somewhat different attitude during this complex period. Discuss, make changes when necessary for better prospects. Personal wishes can wait.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A day to capitalize on your talents. Let experience and intuition guide you. Reasonable desires can be achieved by devotion and consistency.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Don't let disappointments hamper initiative. Seek intelligent associations. You need communication with alert minds. Remain steadfast to good work and deeds.

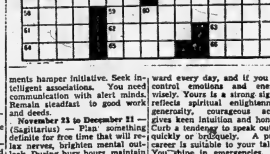


November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Plan something definite for free time that will relax nerves, brighten mental outlook. During busy hours, maintain calm, sensible confidence. Act when you should.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Don't pass on rumors; investigate all data, then be cautious in acting. Call in other wise heads for consultation where needed. It is a better day than it may seem at first.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — This is a time for discretion, consolidating endeavor for the general good, for aiding sound projects. Don't give up in difficult matters. You can win with that extra effort.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You may be tempted to burn that old candle at both ends now, to take on too many things at once, or to become discouraged at certain obstacles. Do not.



You born today have a wealth of gifts for a happy successful life, if you put your best foot forward every day, and if you will control emotions and energies wisely. Yours is a strong sign. It reflects spiritual enlightenment, generosity, courageous action; gives keen intuition and honesty. Curb a tendency to speak out too quickly or impulsively. A public career is suitable to your talents. You shine in emergencies, can out-think those who depend upon logic alone. You despise anything of sub-moral character. Birthdate of: Louisa May Alcott, author; Amos Bronson Alcott, philosopher, educator.

MODERATE

Two other motions were submitted. One, from liberal members, views with "grave concern" the danger of an increase in Soviet influence "aided by disunity among the free countries." The other motion, tabled by 35 Labor members and one Liberal, declares that the future of the free world depends on the "closest Anglo - American understanding and goodwill" and welcomes the appeal to this end by R. G. Casey, Australian external affairs minister.

FRENCH OPINION

In France, too, public opinion mounted against the United States as a result of the Suez crisis. Announcement of gasoline rationing that will let most French motorists have only four gallons each a month brought some bitterness. The U.S. was blamed for not moving faster to supply Europe with petroleum to replace Middle East supplies. Britain and several other countries already have started rationing.

But French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said: "Despite our bitterness, we cannot renounce American friendship nor the Atlantic alliance."

Pineau told the Council of the Republic, upper house of the French Parliament, that the Atlantic alliance and American friendship are France's only safeguards "from a fate similar to Hungary's."

The London Daily Mail says Britain may buy oil from the Soviet Union. It reports Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik assured Britain Russia has "no political objections" to selling oil to Britain and "we have plenty of it."

U.S. BOOSTMEE

President Eisenhower tried to soothe the inflamed feelings across the Atlantic. A White House statement approved by the president at his vacation headquarters in Augusta, Ga., said the differences over the British-French military action in Egypt "in no way should be construed as a weakening or disruption of the great bonds that have so long joined our nation with the United Kingdom and the republic of France and our other allies 'in assuring that peace, justice and freedom shall prevail.'"

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Pearson told Parliament both the Atlantic alliance and the Commonwealth were badly split by the British-French Suez action.

ASK CANADIANS

Mr. Fortier said the department is setting up a special section to deal exclusively with inquirers from Hungary. District superintendents of immigration in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, who will work closely with citizenship branch officers.

Voluntary agencies were asked to co-ordinate their refugee care efforts at the community level to avoid duplication of work.

TO ADMIT ALL

The federal government was not in a position to look after refugees needing prolonged care, he said.

"My hope is that after their first year in Canada these brave people will benefit on the same basis as other Canadians in various provincial- welfare benefits and that the federal government will not be blamed for bringing them in," he added.

He said the Ontario government had made a "generous" offer to help shelter refugees on their arrival. It was an excellent example for other provinces.

GOVT.

No one, therefore, could question the motives of the British and French governments "unless he is prepared to accuse those governments of bad faith."

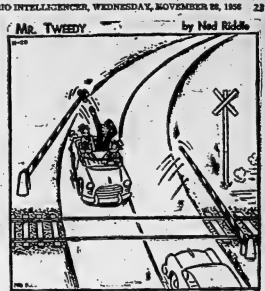
Mr. Fleming said statements on the situation by Prime Minister St. Laurent were "petulant, belligerent and provocative." Much of the prime minister's "impudence" stemmed from the fact there was growing sympathy in Canada and other countries for the Anglo-French intervention.

The Canadian government had no justification for the critical attitude it had taken toward Britain and France.

Countries, including Canada, which had not instituted effective police action through the UN before the crisis created its present proportions "must bear their share of responsibility for the results that followed today."

Mr. Fleming took particular exception to the prime minister's statement Monday that the era when the "supermen of Europe" could govern the whole world is ending.

"This is a reference that the prime minister of this country ought to repent in sackcloth and ashes," the leader of the Conservatives said. "It is time he remembered it."



Mr. Pearson said the Canadian government warned Britain in the months before the fighting that if any country, no matter how friendly, took action contrary to the UN charter, it would have to answer to the UN.

That had happened. But at the UN, Canada had tried to be sympathetic and friendly to Britain and France and worked to mend Commonwealth links and to restore the channels of consultation between the U.S. and Britain and France.

Canada had striven to avoid having the UN braid Britain and France as aggressors, thereby opening the way to sanctions against them.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) said the government had given Egypt the highest moral encouragement. It had said arms to Nasser, whose avowed intention was to destroy Israel and drive Britain and France out of the Middle East.

Mr. Nesbitt said the attitude of the U.S. caused dismay in Canada. The U.S. seemed to be trying to ride several horses at once and should decide what horse it is going to ride.

Plan Large-Scale Suez Evacuation Within Few Days

British Cabinet Convinced Troop Withdrawal Necessary

LONDON (AP)—The cabinet today was reported convinced it must begin a large-scale withdrawal of British troops from Egypt within days.

The report came from a qualified British official who said the French government had indicated privately its willingness to do likewise.

Announcement of an impending withdrawal from Egypt might provoke a split in the Conservative party. Nearly a third of the Conservatives in the House of Commons have shown their desire for British troops to remain in Egypt by endorsing a motion deploring the United Nations General Assembly demands for "immediate and unconditional withdrawal."

Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler previously had stated the British-French forces would not withdraw from the northern portion of the canal zone until the UN police force could guarantee peace between Egypt and Israel and free passage through the Suez Canal by all nations.

TALKED IN UN

The reported modification of this stand apparently resulted from word brought back from New York by Lloyd who returned yesterday from the UN Assembly and gave the cabinet a detailed account of his talks with UN Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold and others.

The British informant said the government now planned to insist only that the United Nations and Egypt clear the Suez Canal at once. For this purpose, the source said, Britain would leave a group of Royal Navy—and perhaps some civilian—salvage experts in Port Said after the main body of the troops left.

The U.S. state department is reported to believe that these large-scale troop withdrawals are under way, the United States will be in a position to press hard for an acceptable Suez and Palestine peace settlement.

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd today deferred a final statement on plans for British withdrawal from Egypt pending consultations Friday with French Foreign Secretary Christian Pineau.

Lloyd told the House of Commons he intends to make "a further statement" next Monday.

"The statement (today) can only be of an interim character," the foreign secretary said. "There are important questions to be decided and they must be discussed with our French allies before decisions can be announced."

Lloyd faced pressure from one strong segment of the Conservative party to keep British troops in Egypt pending firm guarantees that the United Nations will maintain peace in the Middle East and keep the Suez Canal open for navigation.

Another, though smaller, section of Conservatives wants British and French to bow to the demands of the United Nations to withdraw "forthwith."

Nasser Wants Time Limit On Withdrawal

CAIRO (AP)—Ali Sabry, President Nasser's chief political adviser, said Wednesday night Egypt has asked UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to fix a time limit for withdrawal of British, French and Israeli troops from Egypt.

In an interview broadcast by the Egyptian state radio, Sabry said Egypt has been informed through Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi, then Sabry added:

"If the invaders ignore decisions of the UN, Egypt can take the step they request, because the time now, but I cannot guarantee that these steps will not lead to world war."

Sabry said Egypt had postponed acceptance of assistance from friendly countries for its armed forces "because the United Nation; now is taking care of the problem." He added:

"However, the problem of volunteers hangs on whether the UN solves the present crisis in Egypt."

Today's Chuckle

The fellow was a good prospect as a son-in-law, so Father kept trying to help things along.

"The young man who gets my daughter will get a prize," he boasted the proud parent.

The fellow looked at him seriously for a moment: "May I see it?"

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Strong northerly winds are bringing cold temperatures and snowflurries across Southern Ontario.

A new storm developing along the western shore of Hudson Bay will move into Northern Ontario early Friday and cross Southern Ontario late in the evening, bringing a fresh outbreak of snowflurries tonight in Northern Ontario and the eastern portion of Southern Ontario. However, temperatures will rise temporarily in advance of this storm.

Falsely Confessed To Slaying Says Accused

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-year-old Lenore Bicknell Wednesday told an Assize Court jury she falsely confessed to murdering her husband because "I was trying to commit suicide."

She testified: "I was depressed. At the time, I was pregnant and could not see my way to supporting the child."

In addition, she said, her mother discovered she was pregnant and she had a quarrel with her boy friend. Two days later she went to the police with her confession, she said. This was in July, 18 months after the murder. Bruce was shot and a coroner's report ruled his death accidental. Police charged her with murder.

Earlier Wednesday Mr. Justice John L. Wilson admitted as evidence the statements of Toronto psychiatrist Dr. Rose Koeppe and a statement taken to police by Mrs. Bicknell.

Dr. Koeppe, corroborating the story of Mrs. Bicknell, said her statement of confession was "completely untrue," and while she was in "a suicidal state."

Her statement said Mrs. Bicknell said she shot her husband with a rifle while he lay on the bed in their bedroom.

VOLCANO ANTI-FRENCH

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Five explorers climbed 12 Salvador's Izalco volcano near here this week. Two were Frenchmen and they planted a French flag on the rim of the crater. Ten minutes after the climbers began their descent, a violent blast shook the nationalistic eruption. It blast of fiery rock blew the French flag high in the air and down the mountain.

Taxis Take $6 Worth of Time For $2 Trip in Fog-Bound Victoria

VANCOUVER (CP)—A $2 taxi ride cost $6 here Wednesday night as cabs snaked their way through fog-shrouded streets.

It was the worst evening since the week-old fog began. The weather office did not measure the bogus that the murk might lift soon.

Taxis, taking $6 worth of time to make what would ordinarily have been a $2 trip, were swamped with calls as many people left work on their cars downtown Wednesday morning decided it was too risky to drive home.

Hundreds of city families ate a late supper as all grades of traffic ran late. For drivers it was a matter of stopping, pushing on for a few yards at a walking pace, then stopping again.

The British Columbia Electric Company, which operates Vancouver's transit system, said all buses were operating but some were as much as 40 minutes late in the rush hour. Bus drivers followed schedules and crept along their routes.

A doctor told a coroner's jury at suburban Burnaby that a heart attack which caused a bus driver's death was caused by the fog during last Sunday night have been aggravated by the fog.

Air traffic was non-existent at Vancouver. Abbotsford Airport, 45 miles east, was fog-bound Wednesday night, but weather officials there said visibility was more than 200 | flights. have been cancelled here since the fog began.

Even pedestrians had rough going. City hospitals reported that although there was no noticeable increase in auto collision injuries —traffic moved too slowly—there was a decidie increase in injuries to pedestrians.

The British Columbia Electric Company, which operates Vancouver's transit system, said all buses were operating but some

IRAQI PREMIER TAKES FIRM STAND AGAINST CLIQUES

Nuri's Government Denies Reports

BAGDAD IRAQ (AP) — Iraq's Premier Nuri Said is reported standing firm against a mounting campaign aimed at stirring up trouble in Iraq and discrediting his government. The controlling pro-Soviet army clique in Syria and the Egyptian government are behind the spearhead of the campaign.

Khalil Ibrahim, Iraqi information director, declared the premier has no intention of quitting his post or making changes in his cabinet "for the time being."

The Baghdad military governor has issued an appeal to the people urging them to be calm and not to yield to "subversive elements" which the government says are trying to incite widespread demonstrations.

DENIES REPORTS

Najaf, in southwest Iraq.

Reports of dozens of persons have been killed and injured in Iraq's main cities. It reiterated that only two civilians were killed and some police and civilians wounded in a clash Monday in the Moslem city of Najaf, in southwest Iraq.

Damascus Radio declared 104 Iraqis were killed in the first day of anti government demonstrations in Najaf. It claimed the "victims fell by police fire" as they protested against Nuri's government and called for support for Egypt.

Iraq has accused Syria of waging a campaign of subversion against the Nuri government. Syria has denied the charges, saying its undermine the governments of both Syria and Jordan. Egyptian President Nasser is believed spurring the Syrians on.

Evidence of Syria's propaganda campaign is as marked in Baghdad as in Lebanon. It is sparked by radio broadcasts of inflammatory rumors.

BLAMES REDS

Ibrahim asserted in an interview that the greatest danger in the Middle East is the subversive efforts of world communism to attack Arab stability.

Syrian Prime Minister Sabri Asali denied that his country had recently received a shipment of Soviet arms. He termed "totally baseless" a statement by a U.S. state department spokesman that it was "no mystery" that Russia was arming Syria. Asali said:

"In Washington, the state department's statement has increased the increasing Middle East tension by shipping more than $30,000,000 worth of Soviet weapons to Syria.

British sources at UN headquarters in New York said the Soviet bloc has shipped about $460,000,000 worth of arms to Egypt and Syria, about $400,000,000 worth of this to Egypt.

ALPS STATUE DEFACED

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass reports "hooligan acts against monuments" have defaced a statue erected in the Swiss Alps in memory of Russian soldiers killed there in a battle against the French in 1799. The monument is part of an army led by Field Marshal A. V. Suvorov.

CANCEL AUTO SHOW

BRUSSELS (AP) — The 1957 Brussels auto show has been cancelled because of oil restrictions, promoters announced here.

HUNGARIAN PRAISES CANADIAN AIRLIFT

A month ago, Peter Gambos and his mother were in the thick of the fighting in Budapest. Like thousands of others they set out to escape to Austria when the fighting died down. He can credit their escape to luck and a small notebook map which led them to a spot on the border where an Austrian farmer had set up a light for benefit of refugees. They said the facilities set up by Canada for transfer of refugees here were remarkably efficient. They are now in Toronto. (Central Press Canadian).

Pledge to Quit Suez Region Price Set for Oil From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials concerned with the petroleum shortages spreading rapidly in Western Europe because of the Middle East crisis are wrestling with a two-pronged problem.

On the one hand, there is deep concern at the widening split with British and France and a desire to demonstrate U.S. friendship and support for those U.S. allies where possible.

On the other, there is fear that if U.S. oil supplies start moving in Europe in great volume, to reduced supplies still going to Europe from Arab countries in the Middle East may be jeopardized.

Fresh urgency has been applied to U.S. plans for oil deliveries from the western hemisphere to offset the severe shortage caused by the blockage of the Suez Canal and damage to pipelines which followed the British-French-Israeli attack.

However, it is understood that London and Paris have been told that no such program can be set in motion until there is a definite public commitment that all British and French forces will be removed from the Suez Canal area.

This condition, of course, could be removed at any time by President Eisenhower should he decide that immediate action was needed in the interest of preventing a further rupture in Allied relations.

An indication of Washington's concern over relations with Western Europe came from the state department Wednesday.

A spokesman denied that the United States is giving favorable consideration to any plan by which U.S. forces would be pulled out of North Atlantic alliance NATO countries in the foreseeable future. There have been some rumors that the U.S. might waive in such a move if Russia agreed to withdraw troops from her satellites.

Officials said the reason for the denial was that the United States does not want any of its allies to get the idea that American participation in the European defence system has been or will be in any way weakened.

More Than 100,000 Hungarian Refugees Now in Austria

VIENNA (AP)—You can see refugees from Hungarian communism anywhere in Austria—from the straw - covered schoolroom floor in a border village to the Victorian plush of Vienna's Hotel Sacher.

Nearly 100,000 have come into the country in the last month. More than half still live in camps where relief organizations figure they can be kept and fed for a dollar a day. Those who can't fit the swank hotels or even into comfortable boarding houses are extremely few. They have the resources of their own, or friends or relatives.

Along the 125-mile border between Austria and Hungary the Austrian villagers have dropped almost everything but the sugar beet harvest to help their Hungarian neighbors.

All of Burgenland Province pertained to Hungary until after the First World War and many of the people here speak Hungarian. There are 10,000 refugees crowded into the thousand - square - mile area.

At Andau, where thousands fled across the "freedom bridge" to safety the Russians blasted it, pink refugees stand unmolested in the rain, waiting for buses to take them to slightly more comfortable camps.

Some of the men wear the fur hats and high leather boots of the Hungarian cavalry. Some of many of the women wear the best clothes they couldn't bear to leave behind, muddy now from the long walk across the fields. Nobody could bring more than he could carry, and often the only thing that could be carried was the baby.

The nine-year-old boy arrived without any of his elders, just his schoolbooks and a single pair of socks in a briefcase.

The biggest of the many camps is Traiskirchen, just outside Vienna, in what was once a school for artillery officers. The huge building was occupied by the Russians until a year ago. When the Hungarians arrived, they remained but the bare walls.

Missions come there from the countries that want to receive refugees—to register and select those they think suitable. Some refugees never get to the camps. Trains sent by Britain, France, Denmark and Belgium back up almost to the border, and the fugitives aboard and start for home.

But many refugees want to stay in Austria awhile. Some have relatives here, and they feel intimacy with the idea of bringing out friends and relatives. Others just want to be free to come. Others think they may return to Hungary themselves if things get better there.

DISCARD MUSTANG, VAMPIRE

OTTAWA (CP)—The air force announced Wednesday that two of its obsolete first-line fighters—the piston-engined Mustang and the Vampire jet—are being taken out of service. The planes, with the exception of one of each type, will be declared surplus to Crown Assets Disposal Corporation. The RCAF has 88 Mustangs and 29 Vampires, largely used by auxiliary squadrons.

CANADA OPENING PURSE, FREEDOM TO HUNGARIANS

Immigration Minister Will Go to Vienna

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is opening her purse as well as her prosperous land of freedom to Hungarian refugees fleeing Soviet armed oppression.

Immigration Minister Pickersgill announced to the Commons Wednesday night that the government will bring refugees to this country free of charge. And he is going to Vienna to personally see that everything is done to facilitate their movement.

He will arrive in the Austrian capital Saturday by plane and also visit other countries in a 16-day immigration-direct tour.

In addition, it was learned the government has agreed to pay for the keep of Hungarian refugees, pending their jobs. There is a definite need for this type of assistance.

Soon Hungarian refugees will be arriving by the hundreds. To date 42 Canadian visas have been issued to more than 1,000, with medical and other immigration requirements waived to speed their movement. They will be medically examined here. Canada if they haven't been examined overseas.

Two Swiss ships will arrive with 700 at Halifax, the first on Dec. 8, 250 on Dec. 8 and the Arosa Star with 450 on Dec. 15. Trains will begin arriving on Canadian airline flights chartered by the governments.

Mr. Pickersgill said the government has decided in principle to pay airfreight charges to the refugees as a loan as a non-Colombo assisted passage is in the form of transportation loans to be repaid in monthly instalments over a two-year period when the immigrant gets employment.

This type of assistance was started in 1951 to help types of immigrants needed by Canada when the two countries had no assisted passage agreement.

Parliament said the government decided to send him to Vienna "that we have decided to find everything was being done that could and should be done to move as quickly as possible to Canada those Hungarian refugees who wish to come here."

A departmental spokesman said later the minister will spend three days in Vienna. He will also visit England, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and France.

LONDON (Reuters) — The admiralty announced Wednesday night that "large reinforcements" are on their way to help in the work of clearing the Suez Canal at Port Said.

Senate Hears Suggestion That Russians Go Home

Molson Says Reason for Vast Red Embassy Here Apparent

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate has heard a suggestion that it might be time to ask Russians in Canada to go home.

Senator Hartland Molson said Canada had had experience with Russian spying in the past and there were "no illusions" as to the reasons for the vast Soviet Embassy staff here.

"Perhaps," said the 69-year-old Montreal Independent, "we should add our voices to the chorus swelling through the free Curtain from all over eastern Europe and say 'Russians go home.'"

Senator Molson said it is difficult for anyone brought up "as Canadians" to speak rationally on the Hungarian situation.

EVOKES EMOTION

"Believing in God, accepting murder, rape, slavery, deportation, starvation, brain-washing and any form of torture to be weapons employed only by barbarians how can we view the magnificent courage the suffering and endurance of these Hungarian heroes without emotion?

"And, conversely, how can we look on the Russians without emotion?

"Perhaps the time has come for us to invite the Russians in our midst to go home.

"We have experienced, thanks to one Russian with a conscience, Igor Gouzenko, (Soviet cipher clerk who in 1945 revealed the Russian espionage here was a spy ring centre) the Russian interpretation of friendship for Canada.

"Most of us have no illusions as to the reasons for the vast Russian embassy and staff, quite out of keeping with the exchange of trade, culture or visitors between the two countries."

WANTS BRITAIN BACKED

In another portion of the debate, Senator C. F. Hnig said that "when the chips were down" Canada should be proud and staunchly behind Britain and France in the Middle East crisis. This was going to be "a real issue in the next election."

Furthermore, the 79-year-old added, the United States "knew what was happening in the Middle East and the plain fact is that the U.S. did not offer to help out at all."

The result was that Egypt's dictator Nasser was "running the show," challenging the world and making demands on the United Nations. Nasser had refused the help everything was being done that could and should be done to move as quickly as possible to Canada those Hungarian refugees who wish to come here.

A departmental spokesman said later the minister will spend three days in Vienna. He will also visit England, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and France.

Trenton Driver Says Trip From Metz To Naples With Convoy Rough, Tough

NAPLES, Italy (CP)—When the RCAF's 435 Squadron began operating from here less than 24 hours after its first plane arrived from Canada, it was desperately short of ground transport.

The U.S. navy base helped out as much as it could but there were still far from enough vehicles to go around. So the squadron borrowed their billets downtown and hired trucks.

But help already was on the way.

On Nov. 21, orders went from RCAF headquarters in Ottawa to the RCAF air division in Metz, France and Germany to send nine vehicles, including a bus, to Naples.

The convoy started out from Metz, France, air division headquarters, at 7 a.m. Nov. 22 and reached here at 11.55 p.m. Nov. 25 after a gruelling 1,320 miles. The Canadians took the Riviera route—south through France and then along the Riviera—but the 20 drivers had no time for sightseeing. In the more than three days the convoy was off the road only 15 hours and the drivers got only 18 hours sleep.

"Sometimes we didn't know whether it was morning or night," said LAC Dan King of Trenton, Ont., grimy and red-eyed. The driver was relieved at gas, he made its first stop at Nice after 600 miles and more than 24 hours of driving.

PO 2/C Baker of Vancouver, in charge of the convoy, said the vehicles averaged only some 15 miles an hour on the trip. There could do 45 miles an hour on a straight stretch but were slowed down by the mountains.

"We lived on ham sandwiches," he said.

Some mountain turns were so sharp the bus had to inch past them around them, back up, then move forward another few feet.

"Talk about scenery," said Lac-Ton Greaves of Douglas, Ont.

The drivers returned to Metz by air.

Three Shiploads Of Yugoslavs Reach Egypt

PORT SAID, Egypt (Reuters)—Three shiploads of Yugoslav troops arrived today in Port Said harbor to reinforce the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt.

The Yugoslav contingent is an armored reconnaissance battalion of 741 officers and men, the biggest, most heavily-armed and most mobile UN unit to land.

They brought with them 128 vehicles, anti-tank weapons and heavy machineguns but no tanks.

The Yugoslavs are the first of the United Nations force to arrive in Egypt by sea. Other UN troops were flown to assembly points between the Egyptian lines in the Ismailia area.

With the arrival of the Yugoslavs, the UN force in Egypt now numbers more than 2,000. The previous troops to arrive in Egypt is two combat brigades totalling 6,000 men.

Another 156 troops, including 74 Indians and 82 Colombians, left Ismailia Italian Airbase for Said Egypt. At the same time 86 Canadian troops arrived in Naples to join the emergency force.

The Yugoslav headquarters are expected to be handed the Egyptian lines in the Kantara district. Their reconnaissance units may operate in no-man's-land. The Yugoslav troops will stay aboard their ships in Port Said until trains whisk them to their posts.

Albanian Police Fire into Crowd, Killing Twenty

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Twenty persons were killed when police fired into the crowd demonstrating in the Albanian capital, according to reports reaching here today.

The demonstrators were protesting a fresh act of domestic fuel to meet the early onset of winter.

The reports here today indicated widespread discontent in the tiny Communist state of Albania, population about 1,000,000 and said there was an "atmosphere of armed terment" in Valona, the port in the south of Albania, on the Adriatic.

SANTA CLAUS FUND IN NEED OF HELP

Santa has run into financial difficulties.

City Council received a wire from the jolly old man just the other day informing them that he won't be able to come to Belleville with the usual color and goodcheer as he first anticipated, unless he can dig up some more money.

As a result council came through and authorized a tag day for the Santa Claus Fund, to be held on November 30 and December 1.

Santa also said in his telegram that he will be at the upper bridge on Front Street at exactly 11 a.m., on Saturday, December 8, even if he has to leave his sleigh and deer at the North Pole.

When you see Santa's helpers on the street on Friday and Saturday, remember the kids, and drop a little extra in the pot.

PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND MEETING

The public will have an opportunity to meet candidates for municipal and educational offices and hear their views at Queen Alexandra School auditorium at 8 p.m. tonight.

This get-together of the public and the candidates is sponsored by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce with a view to furthering an open discussion on municipal affairs. It is hoped there will be a good turnout.

Investment in tourist accommodation in British Columbia now totals more than $81,000,000.

Wharf Street Debating Club Packed to Doors as Candidates For Office Appeal for Support

By "THE OBSERVER"

The Wharf Street Debating Club held its annual meeting last evening when all the candidates—with the exception of Ald. Effie McCabe—on hand to "take the rap." The meeting, as usual, was a riot of raillery, a roar of laughter from beginning to end. Every candidate was confronted with good-natured pithy queries, with the exception of the two women aspirants, Mayor Jane Forrester and Mrs. Theo Wheeler. It was a matter in the cage of that mixed crowd of citizens, when they rose from their seats as one man upon the entrance of the two women and so proved that upon such an occasion the male audience could be gentlemen in every sense of the word. And the old club room was packed full — nary a vacant seat for many had to stand during the entire evening. Trite epithets were hurled — and taken in a spirit of good-natured acceptance.

Chairman Eddie George called the meeting to order and the show was on. He mentioned that it was to be regretted that exchange Gregor Vee was not on hand to make the initial speech, as George Forhan was asked to act in his stead. In passing, George stated that it was his first consecutive year at the annual meeting and took the opportunity to thank council for the improved sidewalk adjacent his theatre. He also lauded Mr. Fred Harrison for his many charitable acts in providing free transportation for the inmates of the Old Folks Home — those kindly services should never be forgotten, he concluded.

NON-POLITICAL FOR SURE

Lee Grills was called upon — and was he called! All in fun of course. He was first omitted to complete his attire and an eagle-eyed spectator spotted the error—and from then on every speaker was subjected to a keen scrutiny and many the question, which rhymes —with "Jack the Ripper". Lee asked for a show of hands as to the choice of an important political appointment — and the "new" was the choice which goes to prove that these Wharf Street affairs are strictly non-political.

Mayor Jane Forrester was then introduced and her reception was vociferous indeed. She admitted that when first elected before them last year she was in fear and trembling — but now she was indeed proud and happy to again be on hand. In conclusion she stated that she had no idea of promising her wish as to the candidates—with the exception of Ald. Effie McCabe— on hand to "take the rap." The meeting, as usual, was a riot of raillery, a roar of laughter from beginning to end. Every candidate was confronted with good-natured pithy queries, with the exception of the two women aspirants, Mayor Jane Forrester and Mrs. Theo Wheeler. He also lauded Mr. Fred Harrison for his many charitable acts in providing free transportation for the inmates of the Old Folks Home — those kindly services should never be forgotten, he concluded.

RECEIVES TO RECORD

Ex-mayor Jack Both was the next speaker. He said that he did there on hand and great all and that he had allowed his name to go before the voters because his record in office was hard to beat. When in office the city's debenture debt had been decreased by a half million dollars — and the tax rate increased in a like proportion. Taxes had to be raised that this year he would be elected.

Ald. Daly stated that this was his third attempt to go to council. He promised nothing — but if elected he would do his best to serve all to the utmost of his ability.

Frank Huson said that he could not say too much — which brought forth great applause. Three times he had put up for election — and he asked for a better result this time — he made no promises but would give of his very best if elected.

Ex - Ald. Douglas Moxam proudly stated that he was born in Foster Ward, encouraged by he would run in spite of the fact that he was born in Foster Ward, hence his election. He is 74 years of age and served in Italy and other parts of Europe including Piccadilly. He appealed to the voters in Foster Ward for their support especially — and for good support from the whole city.

Mrs. Theo Wheeler admitted that "this is the very best part of the week for me," and went on to say that when she was very young she had heard much of the Wharf Street Debating Club but never expected that she would ever be asked to address a meeting there. Mrs. Wheeler made no promises if elected except to give of her very best.

Ald. Ralph Graham said that two years ago he attended a rough and tough meeting of the club and in a witty manner he mentioned a few things which happened on that occasion. As chairman of Traffic committee he was also be quite firm in the restrictions of parking on Bridge St., during the rush hours have been a distinct success. For better parking facilities, the city had purchased the old Belleville Lock property, which would accommodate 70 cars and two other sites are being arranged for— so, for a continuance of good service "Vote for Graham" was his conclusion.

Ald Frank Grandame has served two years as chairman of the Fire Department — a service of which the city should be proud. He appealed for further support at the polls on Monday next.

Ald. Gerald Hyde spoke briefly and to the point. He mentioned that four years ago he was elected and had served in the very best of his ability and again asked for the support of the voters in the coming municipal election.

Ald. Effie McCabe could not be present—but she wrote a letter to the Wharf Street Debating club. "I promise only one thing and this is to do my best at all times for every citizen" she stated.

Other speakers included Ald. Art Keegan who admitted that he had little to say except to emphasize the important work that had been accomplished in the development of Victoria Park—a credit to all who served on the Parks committee. Jack Yanover briefly expressed his pleasure of being at the club.

ADVERSE TO AIRING MEETINGS

To Harry Rollins must be given the most uproarious and friendly reception when he was called upon. He stated that the more he heckled the better he likes it—for it proved his audience was not asleep. So he inferred that because of radio one could heckle no more—so he was absolutely adverse to council meetings over the air. In claiming that the Belleville Utilities Commission was the biggest single business in the city he brought forth a loud yell from the crowd. But Harry is a real good sport—he is never offended at what is hurled at him —and the rocks were hard and heavy at times but Harry only laughed as heartily as the crowd

Accused Given Two-Year-Term In Reformatory

Glen J. Aldred, believed from Sudbury, was sentenced to two years less a day in Reformatory by Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning. The sentence was laid upon conviction of a charge of breaking and entering and theft. He was defended by Dave Lyons.

On September 7 Aldred broke into the general store at Read and walked off with about $100 worth of merchandise. He was arrested by O.P.P. Constable Ken Hall.

A charge of drunk driving against Kenneth Holmes, of Ivanhoe, was withdrawn, Nov. 20. The charge was laid following the defendant's acquittal two weeks ago of a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Fire Protection Fully Discussed By Authority

The final meeting for the year for the Moira River Conservation Authority was held Wednesday afternoon at Foxboro, with a full rundown of the year's activities was presented to Authority members by chairmen of the various committees.

Discussion of fire protection in the townships south of the fire district was a feature of the address of Lieut.-Col. Harold A. Jack Dillon, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, explaining the new arrangements whereby municipalities south of the fire district would be assisted in costs.

Mr. Dillon noted that the department would take full responsibility for fighting fire on Crown land south of the fire district, and pointed out that the department could now be entered into by the townships south of the fire district whereby municipalities would be paid fire fighting costs in excess of three cents per acre of their tax levy.

Authority members agreed in principal with a proposed tree cutting by-law but took no further action.

Discussion on the scope of activities for the Authority recommendations regarding the 1957 budget rounded out the afternoon's business, presided over by Authority chairman Bruce Smith.

—30 Harry come on down to the Wharf every year—for it would miss you if you stayed away.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES

And City Solicitor Bob Pringle is a master of goodnatured repartee — no matter what a target Bob always has a smile and a happy response. To have heard the verbal battle for Ald. Mayor Ward was a joy forever — and Ward Street is fortunate in having such a pair of merry comedians. Bob is liked for what he is for he is never vengeful — he is forgiveful and it is wondered whether Bob has ever lost his temper — if he has, then Wharf St. has seen none of it.

Secretary Maurice Callaghan was the final speaker who stressed the point that many things happened of which the public knew naught. Doubtless a larger City Hall must be built to accommodate the increased population that worked therein — the present staff has increased out of all proportion to the increase of population in the city. His conclusion was "All of you people get out and vote on Monday — and don't forget it."

And so another riot of fun and real merriment ended with the national anthem — and refreshments. Those who did not attend missed an entertainment second to none in the Dominion — and something that Wharf Street Debating Club can claim for its very own — and it will never be duplicated.

APPEAL ENDS

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Director J. Albert Langlois' appeal against an order for his dismissal ended Monday. Judgment by the Quebec Court of Appeals is expected next March. Langlois was ordered dismissed two years ago following a vice-inquiry report. He went on leave-of-absence without pay before the dismissal order was executed.

Premiere of Moira River Valley Color and Sound Film Enjoyed

The Moira River watershed with its colorful northern lakes, its myriad of rippling streams and productive farm lands to the south, presents a picturesque and beautiful picture on color film.

Many had the great feeling of approximately 500 persons who attended Monday night at the Belleville collegiate auditorium attended the premiere of "The Moira River Valley" color and sound movie of the watershed produced for the Moira River Conservation Authority by the Ontario Department of Planning and Development.

Attendance at the first local showing of the completed film was by invitation and was made up by Authority members, municipal officials in the watershed district, school teachers, service club representatives and boy scouts.

Introduction of the new Moira Valley film was by Mr. A. H. Richardson, chief conservation engineer of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development who said that the movie would take its viewers into their own backyards and demonstrate what has been done in the past and what the Moira Conservation Authority hopes to do in the future.

He explained the organization of river authorities, noting there were 18 others in the province besides the Moira, and the service was conservation of water resources, flood control and land.

WILL MATCH DOLLARS

"The government is much interested in river authorities and will match dollar for dollar any Authority expenditures for reforestation, construction of farm ponds, construction of recreation facilities, and other projects becoming within the sphere of Authority program."

The chief conservation engineer had a special welcome for boy scouts and girl guides present — a word of appreciation for their work in conservation. He noted that this year's film was produced for the Boy Scouts in Canada.

Mr. Richardson had a special word of appreciation for Mayor Jane Forrester who had spoken earlier, saying that the department had received much assistance from lady mayors across the province.

Referring to Mayor Forrester's assurance that the Moira valley was vitally interested in conservation, Mr. Richardson pointed to the lighter vein that anyone with the name Forrester would naturally be interested in conservation.

A 100 per cent conservation program was prepared for those in attendance at the movie premiere.

Not only was there the first showing of the Moira movie, but also a showing of the department film "Trees Are a Crop" showing how proper cutting of woodlands results in more profits for the owner and at the same time assures for future growth.

Then there was a talk by Moira Authority chairman Bruce Smith on outlines of the various projects being undertaken by the Authority.

PROJECTS ILLUSTRATED

Included among these were the Ashby project at the east end of Long-ham Lake dam; the O'Hara Mill project, northwest of Madoc, where a provincial park is being developed, and other projects in conservation areas along the watershed, including the Price area at Actinolite, and Point Ann recreational area.

Mr. Smith's talk was accompanied by coloured slides illustrating the various projects.

He noted that the Moira River Conservation report recommended the inclusion of 85,578 acres in the Moira Forest.

At the moment there were 3,747 acres of the Moira Forest with an additional 38 acres at the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area, approximately 50 acres at the Price area at Actinolite, and 35 acres at the Point Ann area.

Warden Elmer Wood brought greetings from county council, noting that he had been actively interested in the Authority for several years.

He had been especially interested in the reforestation of the old O'Hara Mill and said that for the first time on Tuesday the watershed still had been operated entirely by waterpower from the rebuilt dam. It was expected there would be no official opening of the O'Hara Mill recreational area some time next summer.

Mayor Forrester observed that Belleville was vitally interested in conservation and was also interested in flood control. "The proposed College Street dam would prevent a recurrence of disastrous floods which had played Belleville in the past," she said.

DISPLAY SET UP

At the entrance to the auditorium a special conservation display was set up, illustrating various authority projects. Aerial maps presented a bird's eye view of the watershed, clearly showing reforestation projects in the Actinolite and other areas.

A special feature of the display was fire fighting equipment used by forest rangers to bring forest fires under control. Portable fire pumps and other equipment supplied by the Lands and Forests branch were viewed, were included in the display.

The Moira Valley movie gives all its viewers a graphic view of what the watershed looks like from the high source of land-locking down through lakes in the Madoc and Tweed areas, and shows mill ponds, dams and the Moira until it empties into the Bay of Quinte at Belleville.

It shows fishing spots to delight the fishermen, quiet recreational areas for the use of vacationment by the Authority, and a panoramic picture of the Moira Valley as viewers remembered by daughter, Mrs. Ivan Potts and family.

It emphasizes the conservation program that has reached the Moira valley in time to save much of its original beauty and before its waters are polluted with waste.

"I've kept it that way," is the emphasis.

Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township and vice chairman of the Authority, was appreciative of the beauty of the film and said that possibly showed too many of the natural beauty spots and not photographs of areas already ruined by erosion.

CCFer Proposes Permanent UN Police Force

OTTAWA (CP) — A top CCF spokesman tonight called for establishment of a permanent police force of the United Nations, ready to move quickly to any world trouble spot.

Stanley Knowles, party whip, told the Commons that the very existence of such a force would prevent trouble from arising.

The time has come to consider extension of the present UN emergency force in the Middle East to the borders of Syria, Jordan and Lebanon, he said, to states where new trouble is threatening.

Mr. Knowles was the highly critical of Progressive Conservative opposition to government policies on the Middle East.

Two things should emerge, from this special session. First, the government which initiated the Middle East police force should act strong support and, secondly debate should be curtailed and External Affairs Minister Pearson sent back to New York to get on with the job.

The reminder for Winnipeg North and Social Credit members had voiced strong criticism of American policies in the Middle East crisis.

A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) said the U.S. had allowed a vacuum to form in the area when the withdrawal of Anglo-French influence and troops opened the wide-open Arab world in the last few years.

George McLeod (SC—Okanagan-Revelstoke) said American foreign policy, conducted by "a bunch of amateurs," was responsible for confusion and vacillation unmatched by any leading power.

Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North) said that tension is mounting in the Syria and other Arab countries and, unless decisive action is taken, the whole situation could blow up.

Russia had brought about an "alarming build-up of serious proportions in the area.

IN MEMORIAM

WARDAUGE. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Dennis Wardauge, who passed away November 29th, 1953.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Gentle memories she left behind.
Sadly missed by husband, son and daughter.

HANNAH. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Ushey Hannah, who passed away November 29th, 1951.
We dream of you, dear loved one,
As you were in days gone by,
And how much we miss you,
In our Father's chosen place.
—Sadly missed by daughter Ethel and family.

FROST. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Ernest Frost, who passed away November 29th, 1952.
Resting where no shadows fall,
In loving peace she awaits us all,
And God will like the broken chain,
As one by one, we'll meet again.
—Sadly missed by family.

BURLEIGH. — In loving memory of a dear father, Louis A. Rushlow, who passed away November 29th, 1952.
His charming ways and smiling face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
As a father kind and loving for each,
And died beloved by all.
—Remembered by son and daughters.

BURLEIGH. — In loving memory of my dear dad, Louis Rushlow, who passed away November 29th, 1952.
Sweet were his words and gentle,
The family chain is broken now,
But memory keeps it true.
—Ever remembered by daughter Vera.

BURLEIGH. — In loving memory of my dear father, Louis Rushlow, who passed away one year ago today, November 29th, 1952.
—Ever remembered by son Charles, Alice and family.

BURLEIGH. — In loving memory of my dear father, Louis Rushlow, who passed away on November 29th, 1952.
We who loved you, sadly miss you,
As the years slowly pass,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are fondest.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Mrs. Ivan Potts and family.

SILLS. — In loving memory of Elson Sills, who died November 29th, 1941, on his 17th birthday, from injuries received in a rugby game. I shall remember him as he was,
A great brother and friend to me,
I shall recall to memory,
My brother with laughing eyes,
Sometimes when my heart is sad,
At the closing of the day;
Comes the link that is happy presence,
Young and gay.
I know that he is near me,
Closer than I dare to think,
He has found the sacred glory,
He has fought the battle and sought.
In his faith I find my comfort
In the knowledge I am glad
I shall remember him as he was,
A great brother and friend to me.
—Always remembered by Donna Lemon.

SILLS. — In loving memory of Elson Sills, who died November 29th, 1941, on his 17th birthday, from injuries received in a rugby game.
Too soon it seemed God called him home —
And his young life had bright hopes and brave years ahead.
But who can say God finished his appointed mission here?
We count it loss if Death should come before a man has reached his prime . . . But Life knows all the days and final reckonings of Time.
We weep not o'er the grave of youth,
Who in sweet fields they labor still . . . Their earthly work incomplete, but to some greater purpose to fulfill.
—Always remembered by Mom and Dad.

Butter: solids: Canada, first grade, Ontario tenderable 58; nontenderable 58½; western 58½ (nominal). Trading was light.

Five District Residents See Matched Race

Five residents of this city and district literally made a "flying trip" to Yonkers, N.Y., on Tuesday last. Thomas Lewis, Earl Bush, Fred Wannamaker and Jack Bush of this city and Elmer Gerrow of Picton, were the guests of Elgin Armstrong of Brampton, when his pacing mare Dottie's Pick met Adios Harry in a matched race for $25,000 winner take all. The Brampton mare won the race in a canter defeating the champion pacer by eleven lengths.

The boys from the district left the city early Tuesday and were out of Malton at 3.30 o'clock arriving in New York before six. Dinner was enjoyed at a palatial hotel on Broadway after which the party went to the Yonkers race track to witness the race under lights. Immediately after, all were wisked back to the airport and the party was back in the city shortly after the midnight hour. All report a most enjoyable time and with high praise of Mr. Armstrong as a host.

Worker Loses Right Arm in Stone Crusher

BANCROFT — Leo Lesprance, 32-year-old laborer from Perkinsfield in the Barrie district, is in critical condition in Peterborough Civic Hospital after losing his right arm Wednesday when his clothing was caught in the driveshaft of a stonecrusher.

Provincial police said Lesprance, an employee of the Stewart Construction Company of Orillia, was standing beside the crusher when his clothing caught in the shaft and he was thrown against the machine. Besides losing his arm he suffered severe injuries.

He was taken to Bancroft Red Cross hospital where he was attended by Dr. V. A. Lebinant and then sent on to hospital in Peterborough. The accident occurred just before noon Wednesday.

The Orillia construction firm had only recently set up their stone crusher to do rubble stone crushing in the Bancroft district. The unit is set up on the Dungannon-Faraday road, two miles off No. 500 highway.

Provincial Constable John Hawkins of Bancroft, investigated.

Small Frame Building Burns To Ground

TRENTON (Special) — A frame building at the rear of Danny McCormick's home on Ramsay Street burned to the ground yesterday despite efforts of Trenton firemen to save the place. The structure was once a kitchen and had been moved to another location on the property to make way for a permanent addition. Mr. McCormick had no insurance to cover the loss including a conventional lawn mower.

Because the majority race failed to materialize and Mayor Ross Burtt was elected by acclamation to serve his fourth term a light vote is predicted for the election here Monday for council and Board of Education candidates.

Jordan Govt. Wins Approval For Ending Pact

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters) — The Jordan government today won a vote of confident on the policy of ending its defence treaty with Britain and ousting British troops from the country.

The vote was taken after the Jordan lower house debated the policy of Prime Minister Suleiman el Nabulsi.

Clinic on Heart Disease Held

A new, post-graduate clinic designed to up-date doctors on research progress in heart disease was held Wednesday at the Belleville General Hospital.

The clinic, one of several sponsored this year by the Ontario Heart Foundation, enables professors from university medical faculties to report the latest developments in cardiovascular research to general practitioners in various centres in the province. The Belleville clinic was addressed by doctors from the Faculty of Medicine at Queen's University Kingston, and was held in combination with the November meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Society.

The Queen's University doctors reported results of studies on anticoagulant treatment in coronary disease; the management of acute coronary disease; the role of the electrocardiogram in coronary disease; and heart surgery. The paper on the anticoagulants reported results of a research project at Queen's which was aided by a grant from the J. P. Bickell Foundation.

During the last year, the Ontario Heart Foundation has sponsored clinics in the Cobourg-Port Hope area, Lindsay and North Bay in a total of twenty-four clinical sessions. In some instances, the local area medical knowledge to doctors who are in practice away from university centres.

Two Women Killed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two women were killed Wednesday in a level crossing crash when their car collided with a westbound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train six miles east of London.

Victims are Miss Martha Barber, 62, and her niece, Mrs. Aubrey Hill, 42.

Miss Barber died at the scene, while Mrs. Hill succumbed several hours later in hospital from head and internal injuries.

Police said Mrs. Hill was driving the car, owned by her husband, Albert, of Thorndale. She was thrown out by the impact, while the body of Miss Barber was pried from the wreckage, after the vehicle had been toted onto the right-of-way by the locomotive, 100 yards along the line.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS LEGGAT

Bob Munro was elected chairman of the 2nd Belleville (Christ Church) group, for 1957. Mr. Munro served in many capacities in the 2nd, and is also Badge Chairman for the local association. The other officers are: Phil Burton, secretary; Grayden Colwill, treasurer; Adam Stalker, I.A. representative; Archdeacon R. B. Creegan, padre; Mrs. Elsanor Blakey, president Mothers' Auxiliary.

The swimming project at the YMCA, now in its fourth year, said today it is unusual to find a Scout who cannot swim. Most of them learned as Cubs. Instructors for this year are: Scouter John Babiak assisted by Scouter Ben Furney, Scouts Jim Churchill and Terry Marson come in den, Teddy Blaker and Cub Robbie Blaker. Robbie is the only Cub listed as instructor, but he is one of the best. Jim Churchill and Henry Marson come up from Foxboro every Saturday. Bob Collins is very interested in Scout activities and often visits the "Y" to give a helping hand. Bob has two Wolf Cubs of his own who attend the swimming classes. Fathers and committeemen are always welcome to see the Cubs in action. This invitation is repeated because boys like to know that their fathers and leaders are interested and it certainly boosts the morale of the effort.

24 PASS TESTS

At the Cub camp 24 Cubs passed swimming tests. They are: Richard Herrington, Scott Prechette, Stanley Uens, Dick Storey, Tommy Dolan, Peter Lipes, Bill Fisher, Murray Lusk, Bob McMartin, Ricky Latenby, Donald Douglass, Ken Prindle, Peter Scarth, Tony Savage, Jim White, Doug Boyce, Tim Buckley, Bill Rowe, Geoffrey Eastwood, Forrest Smith, Dysen Sargent, Michael Palmer, Michael Murphy and Wayne Green.

There are no charges involved in the swimming classes. The YMCA donate the pool and the instructors and staff give their time and skill, all of which is very much appreciated by the Boy Scout Association. It is good to know that we have people like John Babiak and Bob Collins who give their Saturday afternoons to build better citizens for Belleville.

Doughty Scots Battle Sassenachs In Campaign to Win Freedom of Air

GLASGOW (AP)—A band of doughty Scots threatened today a mass invasion of England's television and radio air waves in a fresh demand for Scottish independence.

Three times in the last five nights a mystery transmitter in the Highlands has broken into BBC TV and radio programs.

"Freedom for Scotland," cried a voice that was accompanied by the lilting music of Scots Wha Hae.

"Up with Scotland—down with England," shouted another voice as the music switched to Scotland the Brave and drowned out the BBC.

Then Wednesday night: "Friday is St. Andrew's Day, this great day will be the signal for a special effort on our part."

BROADCAST FROM SEA

Scottish nationalists said St. Andrew's Day broadcasts will be made from a ship outside the three-mile territorial water limit. John S. Thomson, independent member of Greenock town council, donated the vessel, a converted Royal Air Force rescue ship, and said he would supply the radio equipment.

Scottish headquarters of the General Post Office (which licences radio and TV transmitters and receivers) said:

"This radio launch will be illegal and its sponsors will be subject to fines ranging from £10 ($28) to £100, or to appropriate terms of imprisonment."

FOREIGN REGISTRY

A spokesman for the Scottish nationalists group retorted:

"The launch will be subject to law only if it is registered in British. We will take a leaf from the shipping magnates' book and will sail under a flag of convenience such as that of Panama, Liberia or Ireland."

By the time the police have been unable to trace the ghostly voices that have been interrupting BBC programs. The pattern was the same, immediately before the nightly news down around 11 p.m. a high-pitched whistle cuts across the normal sound relay and a voice says: "Radio Free Scotland."

SYMINGTON SWORN IN

OTTAWA (CP)—H. J. Symington, a director of the CNR and Trans-Canada Air Lines, Monday was sworn in as a member of the Canadian Privy Council. The Montreal executive was received by Governor-General Massey and Prime Minister St. Laurent at Government House.

Canada's Trade Deficit With U.S. Now Over Billion

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's trade deficit with the United States in the first 10 months of 1956 soared past the $1,000,000,000 mark for the first time, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau also reported that preliminary figures show that the overall trade deficit with all countries for the 10 months rose to a record $710,800,000 more than twice the previous high of $361,000,000 for all of 1955. The deficit for the 10-month period last year was $304,500,000.

The January-October deficit in trade with the U.S.—the excess of imports over exports — reached $1,091,100,000. That compared with the previous high of $318,000,000 in 1947 and $176,700,000 in the first 10 months of 1955.

A bureau of statistics official said that in comparing 1956 trade figures with other years the increase in other years the increase in trade must be taken into account along with today's higher prices.

FULL OF YEARS, BUT YOUNG OF HEART

Death is the common fate of all of us.

Its universality robs it of tragedy unless there are unique circumstances which set the particular apart from the general.

These circumstances may lie in the manner in which death comes, or in the time of life at which it calls.

There is always something tragic when death comes to the young, because we are immediately struck by the fact that so little time has been granted for the dead person to take from life and to give to it.

When death called Mrs. Helen B. Anderson in Wellington last week, it came after she had been granted 91 full years in which to take freely of life's offerings and during which she gave with abandon generously.

Yet death came much too soon, for Mrs. Anderson was one of those rare persons whose heart grew younger as her years grew longer.

None of those who knew her—and they were legion for her gift for expressing herself in poetry had made her known far beyond the borders of her native Prince Edward County or indeed beyond the boundaries of her province—some of these could escape the conviction that death had not so much terminated her life as it had cut it short. Right to the last she continued to pen poems of a calibre equalled by few. Only this month The Ontario Intelligencer had the honor to feature on the editorial page her moving tribute to the dead of two wars on Remembrance Day.

For many years Mrs. Anderson contributed a weekly report on the day-to-day happenings in her beloved Wellington, revealing in her prose that same quick sympathy, that eager recognition of beauty in its myriad forms and that unshaken faith in the essential goodness of her world and of her God which found the apex of their expression in her verse.

In her early years she taught school at Victoria, in Amelias burg. She must have been a good teacher. But one may doubt whether she taught as well, to a small class in her youth, as she taught in her more mature years, to her readers throughout the province and beyond, through the medium of her verse.

Those poems flowed almost unceasingly from her pen—she generally contributed two a week to The Ontario Intelligencer besides others to the Toronto Star and other dailies and weeklies—and there was never a poem without a message. Yet never did she allow this teaching to degenerate into preaching. The message was always implicit in the subject with which she was dealing and there was never a hint of any last-minute hunt for a moral to justify a poem. There is never any need to justify beauty—and Mrs. Anderson's poems clutched the beauties and beauties of Nature about which she so frequently wrote.

We, who have known her through her poems, will miss her.

THE TIMES AND CANADA

"When one excludes the narrow group of Great Powers that were recognized in the United Nations Charter to stand on a special entitlement, there is in her own right scarcely room for more than two international counsels."

That single sentence, in itself, is a compliment worthy of note when it appears in such a pre-eminent journal as the London Times. When this is but one sentence on sixteen pages devoted entirely to Canada, it assumes even greater importance.

On Nov. 19 The Times got out a special section on this country, with the assistance of a number of well known Canadians. By-lines include those of Hon. Lester Pearson, Hon. Ralph Campney, Hon. Howe, Hon. J. G. Gardiner and Hon. George Prudham. These Federal cabinet ministers each dealt with Canadian affairs in the special spheres for which they are responsible. But they were not the only Canadians who contributed. Others ranged all the way from James S. Duncan, the noted industrialist, to Dr. Eugene Forsey, the research director for the Canadian Labor Congress. Much publicity director for the Canadian Labor Congress. Much publicity was given one of the most difficult tasks, to answer the question "Who and What are the Canadians?" Such journalists as W. G. Westwick, B. T. Richardson, Eric Dennis, Wilfrid Eggleston and James McCook contributed. Other names, prominent in their own fields, are Hon. Lionel Chevrier, Alan Jarvis, and the Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seeley, to mention only three. In addition, there are numerous articles by the Times' own correspondents.

It is an issue of which the Times has every reason to feel proud—and which should make every Canadian proud.

AT THE WEDDING

Together in the pew we stayed,
According to the plan,
And when the wedding march was played
To sniffle she began.
Unfeeling, she continued, was I
So heartless to appear,
Since when the happy pair went by
I didn't shed a tear.

Men have a different point of view
From that of women fair.
And watched the loving pair.
Though she was sobbing as they passed,
Unmoved by-that was I.
I heard the march first to last
But never sighed a sigh.

I saw the parson drawing nigh
To join that youthful two;
I never sighed a single sigh
Or sobbed a loud "Boo hoo!"
To me a wedding's an affair
Designed to last for years.
I wonder every time I'm there

47 Weightless Seconds

By Leslen Nerel in UNESCO Features

On Friday September 21, 1956, delegates to the International Astronautical Congress in Rome, Italy, lived through a memorable experience. They attended the screening of a film entitled "Mr. S. F." Gerathewohl of the American delegation, that might well have been called "The Shape of Things to Come" or "It Happened Tomorrow", for it had been produced in a workshop in which the effects of gravity had been completely cancelled out. Objects and people inside the plane were entirely weightless and the slightest push had them floating about in space. When a bottle of water was turned upside down, not a drop trickled out.

Yet there was no science fiction film achieved by trick photography, but the actual record of a fascinating experiment in which Mr. Gerathewohl himself had played a leading part. For 47 seconds he and others in the plane had been subjected to the extraordinary effects of the lack of gravity. The phenomenon had been created in a jet aircraft in carefully controlled dives and parabolas in such a way that the centrifugal force balanced the force of gravity.

This remarkable film strength ened the feeling among delegates that an important step had been accomplished on the new frontier quest of outer space. The experiments had been carried out officially one of the physical conditions prevailing in space, and there are now more than a million some of the sensations which interplanetary travellers will experience in years to come.

* * *

Astronautics has come a long way since the first experiment with rocket-cones; the next stage will be the launching of small unmanned earth satellites, that will circle round our planet. And within a decade the future it should be possible to launch a manned satellite and to send an unmanned rocket-ship round the moon. After this, speculation begins to run riot. Already at the president of the Italian Rocket Society said at the Rome meeting: "There could be a base on the moon before the end of the most tremendous adventure in the history of the human mind." And Pope Pius XII, addressing the international congress, described it as a research and achievement. "Four hundred delegates from 23 countries, representing 1,963 scientists and technicians engaged in astronautics, have come to Rome for the meetings where the keynote was international cooperation and the spirit of science. In the big conference hall in Rome, Professor Theodore von Karman could be seen in animated conversation with his American colleague, Dr. Durand. The friendly meeting between two distinguished scientists represented the spirit of cooperation where astronautical research is so far enough advanced to make possible the founding of "space laboratories" within a foreseeable future. This characteristic of the spirit of the Congress.

* * *

True, no science is more international than astronautics; the artificial satellites, the spaceships and spaceships of the future will inevitably pass over the territories of many countries. Nor has any other large-scale scientific expedition ever required such a wide range of knowledge and efforts. At the Rome Congress, more than a hundred papers on the construction that will circle in an orbit round the earth, were presented by highly technical details as the weight of the station, its assembly in space, the power and the physical conditions of life on board.

Spectacular, too, are astronautics' travel were studied in 13 other memoranda. The main concern of scientists was to decide what type of engine would be best suited to these vehicles that will have to cover immense distances with very light fuel.

* * *

Final preparations for the launching of artificial satellites during the coming International Geophysical Year, which starts on July 1st, are due to begin in a few days' time in Florida. Plans have also been announced from the USSR. Information received from these "high sky laboratories" within the next year or so should enable us to determine under what conditions man would be able to "land" on a spacestation located some 300,500 or even 12,000 miles from the earth's surface.

It is important for us to know how the human organism would be affected by solar radiations at very high altitudes, by cosmic rays and radioactive cosmic dust. It is also important to know how our body would react in an environment where there is no gravity. The forces of gravity is practically non-existent. Data on these and other questions will also be recorded by the measuring instruments carried by the artificial satellites. And scientists studying this information will be able to tell us how man would react physiologically to these new surroundings and what special precautions need be taken to protect him.

Experiments such as these may eventually lead to the great adventure of inter-planetary travel which was the subject of much theoretical discussion at the Rome Congress. Speakers included Dr. Eugen Sanger, director of the Astronautical Institute of Stuttgart, who presented a plan for an engine driven by photons (or light particles). Mr. Andrew Fairre, in France, who has made studies for an atomic engine, and Mr. N. V. Petersen, whose research in the United States has been mainly directed towards plans for a space vehicle for the trip from the earth to the moon. Another vehicle of this type is being studied by Russian scientists, and Professor Gleb Chaguinov of the Russian Academy of Sciences, recently announced in a broadcast from Moscow that the interplanetary ship is being planned would be able to carry a load of 40 tons and would be based on a method of interplanetary navigation that would make use of the gravity of the earth, the sun and the moon.

Today, interplanetary travel is still in the realm of science fiction and no one can tell when the moon will be reached. Behind us are years of technical and scientific research. Ahead of us lie the moon, the planets and outer space. When will man succeed in escaping from the force of gravity and star, exploring the Universe? This is a question that only science can answer.

He Followed Middle Road

Ottawa Journal

Last year Sir Godfrey Huggins surpassed the record set by Mr. Mackenzie King for years of service as a premier within the Commonwealth. Now he has retired at the age of 70 to become governor and will be able to view from the House of Lords the progress of Federation which also included Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, had an entirely peaceful and successful African politics. It was: Take the middle course.

In a challenging world he was subject to varying pressures. Many of the settlers in the Rhodesias would have been willing to relegate the natives to perpetual inferiority after the fashion set in South Africa. Others, not resident in Africa, were urged by the Colonial Office attitude in London, would have hurried the natives towards complete equality with the whites.

Lord Malvern has taken the position that civilized men have equal rights whatever their color but that uncivilized African with no experience in handling their own affairs is not to be handed equality en masse immediately. While he has encouraged more education he has regretted that it has never assumed that the white settlers have the right to retain their authority over federation affairs for years to come.

Sir Godfrey Huggins, then, he has been able to hand over to his successor as premier Sir Roy Welensky, a government in sound political condition. He is following the middle of the road, giving the natives slow but sure opportunity to earn equality. It may provide a pattern for African progress without pain.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RETROSPECT

We cannot turn time back, nor can we recall what we have already spent. But the world through the means of the written word or the one distributed through the air from the tongue of man is of the opinion that many a bitter saying was sent on its errand by the present American political campaign that the ones who uttered them wish it were recalled, that they could forever from memory.

We know that we will never regret the sending out of good cheer and helpful talk. It shall always be good policy to be kind and kindly in all relations with our fellowman. Bitter words live after so long. They do not live so long as those generous, thoughtful ones that shall become immortal!

How good it is to think of all the happy days, and of the endless blessings that have been ours, instead of to remember the disasters or our ill luck, or missed opportunities. We have to take life as it has been presented to us and take it as an appreciative human being. Life can be made beautiful.

What an inspiration it is to have at least one friend to whom we can write, and face, faults and imperfections notwithstanding. God, our Heavenly Father, takes us this way. We bring our spots and our prayer to His ear, We can confidently submit our problems and questionings to His everlasting love.

It isn't what we were yesterday that counts so much, but what we are today. We were going to school a long time ago, but now we are in the school of life trying to rise above ourselves. Always the most profitable adversary is the one we know as none but ourself.

If you must look back, look back to learn, and to live—wiser and better. That is to regret. Get that spirit in Oliver Wendell Holmes's "Chambered Nautilus":

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul."

Victoria Avenue and East Bridge Street are to have better lighting systems. The matter was carried at the recent meeting of the city council, the vote being seven for and five against the recommendation. Ald. Frank Domenico, the chairman of the light committee, sponsored the recommendation.

Mr. Arthur Vermilyea of Thurlow township won second prize with his Percheron stallion at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Miss Lois Parnell, Chatham Street, has returned home from Chicago, Ill., where she spent several weeks with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elmer and son of Toronto were the weekend guests of Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Morton, Victoria Avenue.

Mrs. William Chrysler entertained the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church Parish at her home on Church Street, yesterday afternoon.

The second debate in connection with the Brotherhood of St. Andrew of Christ Church Parish was held in the vestry of the church. The topic of debate was "Resolved that under the present circumstances it is desirable that the Ontario Government should appoint, complete control at Niagara power." The affirmative was upheld by E. Vanner and J. Boyle and the negative by Charles J. Symons and Ben Backus. The vote was sustained the affirmative.

Mr. Allan Cole, Clerk of the Inland Revenue Department here has been transferred to Owen Sound and he will leave shortly to assume his new duties.

The debt of the city of Belleville per head on December first last year was $30.62. We are informed that the next report will show a reduction.

Grousing Day Is Proposed

The Ottawa Citizen

A National Grumbling Day has been proposed in Britain by the Duke of Bridgewater, the Rev. D. R. King. On this special occasion, as the vicar plans it, the British will be could "get off their chests all their complaints, dissatisfactions and grouses in a long catalogue of aches and pains." A first reaction to the proposal might be that since there are so many people already doing this regularly as well be a Grumbling Day, in North America as well as a single day. But in certain of the implications of the idea can be seen to be staggering. An almost complete transformation of human nature would be required.

Transformation human nature is, of course, a clergyman's job. But if Mr. King is expecting that by an act of Parliament a whole nation will repress its grouses for 364 days of the year, he must be the prize optimist of all time. Besides, the explosion of grouses on the 365th day would be something rather awful.

There is, finally, a danger that the plan might misfire. Special days have a peculiar purpose, like encouraging people to eat more caterpillars or to thank their mothers-in-law. Grumbling Day might encourage them to grumble all the more during the rest of the year. Maybe it is better to keep on grousing a little bit every day, in the normal human fashion.

Thousand Languages

Milwaukee Journal

UNESCO (the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) has come up with the information that there are more than a thousand distinct languages in use in the world today, not including dialectical variations.

Of this number, 20 are widely used and each spoken by more than 10,000,000 people. A quarter of the human race speaks Chinese and 200,000,000 speak English.

The list of languages is intriguing, but UNESCO's list is incomplete. Nowhere in its study is any recognition given to a number of languages spoken in Canada. The language for instance, of children clustered about the knee of a mother filled with potato chips or popcorn; the language in which bus drivers and railroad conductors call stops.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

We Can't Be Prepared For Every Conceivable Chance

One reason why we — that is, Micky, Laila Rookh, and I — nearly starved when I was an honest doctor in Penn Yan was my lack of experience.

For instance, once when I was called to the home of a wealthy farmer on the lake shore road I found a member of his family still unconscious following a "spell." Questioning a member of the household I learned that the patient had been subject to the "spells" for years. I learned also that I had been called only because the family doctor was unavailable. When I was about to leave the farmer approached, wallets in hand, and inquired politely . . . Well, I opined, aside from the fact I proved invalid to protect the patient from injury during a seizure, there's no specific remedy for epilepsy . . . The farmer almost had a fit himself. In fact, menacing, declared he wouldn't pay me a cent and dared me to take him. I got out of there with undignified haste. I never collected a fee and my bookkeeping has no item for it. I learned later that I misled one of the family doctor's colleagues, a smooth old charlatan who had a lucrative practice, but a bad reputation for medication." We live and learn.

Whenever I remind people that home is the best place to have a baby I'm sure to hear from a number of. Mrs. $350 smoke who want to know what I'd do if the patient should need needed transfusion, Caesarean section, or forceps . . .

Well, I was. In all of my obstetric practice, or nearly all of it — perhaps I should say home deliveries in general practice gp — I never gave such possibilities a thought. But I learned a lot from sophomores who look like adults but have never grown up and many of them never will, disturbs me.

The millions and millions of mothers who have had their babies at home, including your natural and mine and my wife and, I hope, yours, labored under a great disadvantage — they knew little and cared less about the untoward complications or hazards of childbirth. They operated in blissful quite another way. As the movie star Coleen Gray (Mrs. Bill Blidleck) expressed it, following the birth of her second baby — "no more childbirth, because she didn't like the cavalier treatment she received in the hospital when her first baby was born:

"It had been truly a privilege experience, not only for Bruce's mother but for his father, who had a say in our size, nature intended him to, during the greatest physical and emotional event of our lives."

Incidentally, the sophomorous taunt to me for taking about what they call "primitive" but intelligent people call natural childbirth — was from a doctor who hasn't borne any children know what it's all about. The movie star, who is a woman gives her view of the matter:

"Only when you can have the anesthetic at any time you want it — and also one it is at least I didn't. But the fact that it is available is insurance against panic fear. You can relax."

Relax, my eye! Any sophomore obstetrician knows that's just the trouble. The $350 smoke are so confident of their superiority. Remember the statement of a woman who has a baby in hospital under anesthesia? I also one it is at home by natural childbirth, of course under her physician's care:

"Pain, my eye! It's just a few

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Radio and TV have made it impractically inexcusable not to know what time it is. You don't even have to listen for the daily time signals. Turn on the radio any time at day or night, and even if the announcer does not tell you what it is, you have but to know the ending of the program on the dot what time it is. This is a true far in the backwoods or in lonely cabins as it is in cities.

But not so many years ago, most of us had a very vague idea of what the time was. We just went by clocks and watches for which there were no standards for correction. In cities, we depended on factory whistles. And in the country, on railroad whistles. Train conductors were respected very generally, for gentlemen who knew the right time. And it was customary when you travelled on trains to pluck the conductor's sleeve as he went by you in the day coach, and set your pocket watch right by his. For several days thereafter, you were entitled, as a travelled man, to tell other people the correct time. Your own clock or watch, whose homes you visited, that they right their clocks by your watch, and you turn on the radio.

Factory whistles were not entirely dependable, but in this matter was specially true, and you could doubt the one factory whistle and believe another. Usually in cities, you would listen for the harmonized blasts of several factory whistles. For several seconds the distant air would be melodious as the many factory joined the seven a.m., noon and five p.m. whistle, each of which sounded different in their timing. But you could hit the average pretty difficult and feel you were pretty nearly correct.

Your life was not dominated by the split second. There was general agreement that two of any kind the exact right time.

Nowadays, as part of the price we pay for wonders we possess and behold, we are living a split second existence.

Strength for The Day

GIVE US MORE WISDOM

Knowledge and wisdom are not the same thing.

Many people find this hard to understand. They point to a well-educated man and call him a wise man. That he is a well-informed man, we will not deny, but this does not mean that he is necessarily wise. The college graduate or the meagerly educated man who ever occupied the White House was Abraham Lincoln, universally acknowledged as one of humanity's great sages. Some people who are walking encyclopedias are utterly lacking in wisdom, and some people who have never been to school a day in their lives are immeasurably wise.

Why is this? Because wisdom is the capacity—either inborn or acquired—to see the truth and to put that they produce satisfactory and helpful results. The man who knows more facts but knows how to use them is of more value than the scholarly pedant or the man who knows a prodigious number of facts, but either does not know how to use or to help either himself or anyone else.

The opportunity for you to be well-educated may have passed, but the opportunity for you to have wisdom is never past. Remember that vastly more important than facts is the capacity helpfully to use facts.

Therein consists wisdom, and what this world needs is more wise men, not more intellectuals.

Cheque Presented to Chest

Community Chest Has Collected Only $19,716

Despite a severe snow storm on Monday members of the YMCA Hi-Y Club trudged through knee-deep drifts to call on people, who, the previous week had asked the 1956 Belleville Community Chest canvassers to call back. Their efforts were fruitful.

This morning Dr. J. R. Guthridge, chairman of the campaign, announced that $19,716.91 has been deposited to the campaign's account in the Toronto - Dominion bank. This figure is about $4,000 less than last year's, but more donations are expected.

"I was both pleased and disappointed at the results of this year's campaign in Belleville," said Dr. Guthridge. "However, I feel a great deal of thanks is owing to those who contributed their hard earned money to such a worthwhile cause. Thanks are extended also to the volunteer canvassers who sacrificed a few of their leisure hours to try and realize the $35,000 objective. Plans are now being made to ensure that the 1957 campaign will be an unqualified success."

Mrs. Marian Tounsley, who is taking care of the receipts of the campaign, appealed this morning to all canvassers who still have collections outstanding, to return the money to her as soon as possible so that a final figure can be compiled and the campaign wrapped up for another year. Canvassers are asked to take their collections to her in the YMCA on Campbell street.

Mrs. Tounsley also mentioned that there is still a sizeable amount yet to come in. There are still some businesses and industries in Belleville that have indicated they would like to donate to the Chest. She is also awaiting contributions from out-of-town sources.

At the present time it appears that the 1956 Community Chest drive will attain a final total somewhat greater than in 1955. That year $24,000 toward a $30,000 objective was collected.

If there are still some individuals who would like to contribute to the Chest they may make out a cheque payable to the Community Chest and mail it to the Toronto-Dominion bank in Belleville.

Dies of Injuries Sustained When Car Hits Train

Critically injured early Sunday morning when his car struck the side of an ore train at the C.N.R. crossing south of Marmora, Lyle Elmer Whitney, 33, of 176 Moira Street, West, died this morning in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Whitney was on his way to Belleville from Havelock with a brother-in-law as passenger when their car ran into the side of a northbound ore train at the crossing on No. 14 highway between Marmora and Bonarlaw.

The impact spun the car around leaving it badly damaged in the centre of the highway. Both men were taken to hospital but the second man was not seriously injured and has been released.

Then cut stalk several inches above crown, lift carefully, shake off soil, and dry in sun for a few hours. To store, dust thickly with sulphur and keep in cool, moist spot. Do not allow roots to dry out; cover with sand or peatmoss if air is drying out, but cool enough to dry. Keep moist enough to prevent premature sprouting.

Legion News

BY CHRIS LEGGAT

At the November meeting of Branch 99 five new members were initiated by president Bill Heasman, assisted by vice-president Everett Liddle. The new members are: J. W. Cummings, D. J. Sweeney, J. A. Juby, H. F. Hicks and J. Buder. Dolf McFadden is membership chairman and is quietly doing a great job.

Everett Liddle wishes to express the sincere appreciation of the Poppy committee to all who helped produce a record year for Belleville.

L. G. Monteith, house chairman, reports that the Legion hall is now in good shape. A number of organizations meet in the hall. There are a few vacant nights left. Any group desiring information is asked to communicate with Mr. Monteith.

Service Bureau officer George Ellarby informed the branch that 92 adjustments have been made this year. $2,296.00 has been obtained for new pensions and additions to pensions. The total amount for retroactive pensions to date is $18,000. This is the work that is being done with the $1.00 each Legion member pays annually. The results are a credit to the Legion and particularly to George Ellarby and the other Service Bureau officers who put so much time and effort in this most valuable work. Any veteran with pensions problems will be advised and assisted by Mr. Ellarby, phone WO 8-6083. George is retired and devotes his whole time to this worthy cause.

Bob Blair is strutting around these days, sticking his chest out, —and with good reason. He is the manager of the Canadian Legion Bantam soccer team, sponsored by the Belleville branch. They won the Bay of Quinte Minor Soccer League trophy and crest for the second successive year. Several exhibition games were played and the team was entered for the Ontario play-offs.

In the city's minor league they didn't lose a match all season. The boys, Bob and Branch 99, are so proud are:

John Lewis (captain); Dale Archer (sub-captain); Bill Rushlow (goalie); Bill Meens (sub-goalie); Jerry Hannah, Paul Zakos, Ralph Sophia, Leonard Soames, Everett Kellar, John Kellar, Dick Thompson, Don Dafoe, Bill J. Rushlow, Bill Bourette, coach George Roefsema.

Zone Commander Bill Bailey reminded members that the next general meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 11th, will be the annual meeting. You should make this date top priority on your calendar.

Club Activities

PLAINFIELD HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The fourth regular meeting of the Plainfield Homemakers' Club was held at the Swan home on Tuesday evening with all ten girls in attendance.

Miss Thibaudeau, home economist, was unable to attend this meeting but will attend the next meeting which will be held on December 2nd, at the Swan home. The members are also invited to this meeting.

Roll call: One habit for the care of clothing, was answered by each girl individually.

Mrs. Salmon led in the discussion on 'Care of the Hair', after which Muriel Swan demonstrated how to make a flat fell seam. This was complicated at first, but before the evening was over every girl had her seam finished.

This --- and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

We hasten to apologize for being one day late. Our excuse is aptly and admittedly double-barrelled. Snow, such quantities of snow, and the 'flu, so much of it about, made it a T and T last week. We hope you will be kind and say "Better late than never."

Going-shopping:

Monday is not "Blue Monday" for T & T, because it is usually our day of winning errand in Belleville shops, but last Monday our car became a victim of the snow. In fact, tried valiantly but it never got any farther than about fifteen feet from the garage door. Consequently, we sat indoors watching the delight of children frolicking in the snow, us more deeply in its white blanket.

Since we did not get to the shops, and since children, Christmas, and snow are almost synonymous at this time of year, we would like to mention a full supplement — Children's Book Section of 56 pages which we read when we could not shop. It was published by the New York Times recently.

Remember when the Girls' Own Annual and the Boys' Own Annual were popular gifts for children at Christmas. So much reading between the covers of one book may have simplified the choice of reading material, but there is no question about the range of diversified reading being wider today. It is a matter of parental interest because there is a wonderful variety of books in every field, for every age group. For Christmas, you can find suitable reading in the fields of fantazy, history, adventure, music, art, travel, and romance. For the more serious boy or girl, there is much to choose from in such fields as science and religion or paleontology. Then there are the biographies or stories about wonderful men and women whose lives might easily influence and inspire a Canadian boy or girl for his or her lifework.

Reports from our own library indicate that radio and television are cars and movies, have not deadened the instinct to learn or the curiosity to find out about people and things. We reflected on these things as the snow fell and decided to look about books for boys and girls in our shopping here today.

The quantity and quality of books is greater and finer than it has ever been. The need for good reading to inspire honest thinking was never greater than in our young folk. The books are there — the desire to read them must be kept alive. Mrs. A. Bell and her numerous assistants.

Going-shopping — Cont'd

Since we are knee deep in snow, we wonder if you heard about a lad who decided to make use of the snowfall last Monday. Radio station CJBQ was issuing reports about the schools in the Bay of Quinte district which were closed for the day. A call came in, the voice was deep and authoritative — the reason was that BCIVS would be closed all day. In all good faith, the announcers, who did a magnificent job, broadcast the information out over the airwaves.

It was not too long before a follow-up call came through from the principal of BCIVS. He wanted to know who had sent in the message about BCIVS being closed all day. BCIVS would be open as usual so the harassed announcer had to broadcast a correction.

Some ingenious lad made a good try, or if you prefer, a bad try. Whether our boy will be elected by his class as the most likely to succeed, we do not know, but he certainly opened the door on Monday when opportunity knocked. T & T cannot help being proud of his association with the staff of CJBQ who did a terrific job, well beyond the call of community last Monday. We are only sorry that it was impossible for us to contribute.

St. Andrew's Women's Guild Holds Charming 'Carol' Bazaar

The mystic charm of the approaching Yuletide season was beautifully exemplified yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church when the Women's Guild presented its "Carol" tea and bazaar. Garlands of entwined red and green, and gleaming red rosettes adorned many points of interest and decked the various booths.

The tea room which occupied the Sunday school auditorium, was most lovely; its tall, white pillars entwined with bands of red on which were the black notes of carol music; its windows banked with Scotch pine and graduated Christmas candles in glowing scarlet, green, blue and gold, before which a carol singer, in red choir gown and white lace overdress, complete with red mortar board, was voicing praise to the 'Giver of every good and perfect gift.'

At the front of the room the white fireplace was outlined in Scotch pines and decked with similar candles in step design, while sentineling the lovely tea table with its Scotch lace cloth, the carol theme was accented by a grouping of red-clad carol singers about the tall candelabra with its tall green candles and augmenting this pretty picture, were the silver services.

TWIN TEA TABLE

At the rear of the room, against a background of evergreen and tall, similar graduated candles was the twin tea table, also appointed in the Yuletide theme of carol choristers. This carol music formed a pleasing background for the tea.

Little guest tables, in pleasing appointment with white cloths, were centred by attractive plates of dainty sandwiches and tiny cakes from the centre of which a single ginger gave forth the "Glad Tiding of Great Joy", completed a most attractive scene.

Those receiving the guests to the bazaar and tea were, Mrs. R. D. MacLean, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. Gordon Shaw, president of the Guild.

Those who presided at the tea table were, Mrs. A. Williamson and Mrs. A. D. McLean; Mrs. V. Weir and Mrs. R. R. Brain; Mrs. F. Renaud and Mrs. J. W. Rinear; Mrs. J. Darvell and Mrs. G. Robertson. Replenishing the plates, Mrs. S. W. Turner, Mrs. A. Cumming, Mrs. M. Blue, Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. E. Elliot, Mrs. A. W. Cook, Mrs. J. Niblock, and Mrs. H. Kelly. The tea room hostesses included, Mrs. R. C. Ketcheson, Mrs. W. M. Barlow, Mrs. D. Fleming, Mrs. R. W. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Argue and Mrs. H. G. McKay.

SERVING

Those who served were, Mesdames Robinson, Farger, Ritchie, Smith, Lloyd, Buttrell, Alexander, Mott, Jones, Watson, Wilson, McKay, Elvidge, Muir, Trill, Bell, Bondy, Chambers, Anger, Tiffenbeck, Richardson, Bower and Waters.

Arranging plates: Mesdames G. Durno, G. Wallbridge, J. A. MacKenzie, P. Benouf, Unsteenling, Murray, Wilkie, Carmichael, McConnell, Freeborn and Davidson, and Meadamer J. Browning, Maybee, A. McCreary, O'Neill, D. Stirling, A. Bell and D. Kane had charge of making the tea.

The booths were pretty with their Christmas colors, and the fine displays.

The apron booth, in charge of Mrs. Darvell and her assistants, had an eye-catching number of these necessary items; some for that special dinner on the 25th, in red organdy with tall evergreen adorning the fronts; others comprised the popular prints, gingham, chambrays, factory cotton, and were to be had in the half style with a few of the all-overs.

LOVELY HOBBYCRAFT

The hobbycraft booth, with its pretty background of red, displayed an exceptional number of lovely pillowslips, done in embroidery designs of wild roses, and other floral effects; felt knitting bags, some in weave with orchid linings; one in green with orange and yellow flowers; others in grey and orchid shades; Christmas stockings; silvered pine cones for centrepieces and for last year, a host of dainty tea towels; white, crochet, dishcloths; gift boxes; scented fireplace logs; dolls' clothes and church calendars. Mrs. Kenner and Mrs. Brain were conveners here.

On the candy booth there were delicious fudges, divinity and chocolate; peanut candy balls in red cellophane; Turkish delight and dipped chocolates; maple creams; Scotch taffy wrapped in individual pieces; all of which found ready purchasers.

In charge of Mrs. A. Bell and her numerous assistants.

The children's tree converened by Mrs. Adam, and her assistants presented a colorful display of Red Cross apparel; knitted sets for baby in pinks and blues; many mitts and socks; pretty crib quilts made from woven squares in pastel tints; and not to be forgotten the little pieceminny in her red, dotted dress and hood, watching the many gazers with upturned eyes.

C.G.I.T. BOOTH

The White elephant booth, with its pretty little giants of various kinds, its costume jewellery; vases; wine glasses, was gaily decorated with red and blue garlands, colors of the CGIT girls and presented a most appealing poster of the mission fields in southeastern Asia which the girls are studying at the present, and outstanding centrepiece was that of two bells, one a tumitic, and the other a golden blonde. These had been dressed by Mrs. Thomas and the announcer had to broadcast a correction.

Some ingenious lad made a good try, or if you prefer, a bad try. Whether our boy will be elected by his class as the most likely to succeed, we do not know, but he certainly opened the door on Monday when opportunity knocked. T & T cannot help being proud of his association with the staff of CJBQ who did a terrific job, well beyond the call of community last Monday. Beta Sigma Phi Holds Banquet, Confers Jewels

On Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. M. C. Ryan, the Ritual of Jewels degree was conferred upon the following members of Alpha Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi: Miss Chris Rutherford, Mrs. R. Laughlen, Mrs. W. Simpson, Mrs. J. Snetsinger, Mrs. D. Stirling, Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. H. House and Mrs. R. Hinchley.

This impressive ceremony ended with all the members repeating the closing ritual.

Tempting refreshments were then served by the social committee.

On Monday evening the Ritual of Jewels banquet was held at the Trenton Golf and Country club. It was a lovely social event with Alpha Lambda chapter acting as host to Gamma Mu and Xi Alpha Mu of Belleville and Delta Alpha of Trenton.

Preceding the dinner, a cocktail party was held at the club providing a happy opportunity for everyone to get acquainted.

MEMBERS WELCOMED

Following a delicious turkey dinner the welcome was given to all members by Alpha Lambda president, Mrs. Earle Kuntze.

Mrs. W. Davidson on behalf of Alpha Lambda, toasted the guests.

Miss Merle Ray proposed a toast to chapter directors and sponsors. This was appropriately replied to by Mrs. M. C. Ryan.

Mrs. F. Fisk, president of Delta Alpha, graciously expressed her appreciation for a delightful evening.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. G. Thompson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. D. MacKinnon, who gave a most informative and entertaining talk on "Christmas 1956". Reminiscences of past Christmases together with helpful tips for a time-saving Christmas dinner, left her audience with a abundance of ideas.

Mrs. J. Sneisinger expressed warm thanks to Mrs. MacKinnon.

The thrilling news of the forthcoming publication of Mrs. W. Riley's new ballad, "The Faith You Have in Me", was announced. Both words and music were written by Mrs. Riley and all are proud of her.

A composition by Mrs. B. Kennedy Trenton, was also introduced, entitled "The Rose of Beta Sigma Phi".

The evening closed with a lively sing-song with Mrs. W. Riley at the piano.

Salvation Army Sponsors Attractive Christmas Bazaar

With Christmas festivities just around the corner, the Salvation Army Citadel opened its doors to the many guests and patrons who found their way thereto in time to enjoy the song and prayer by Mrs. F. Massey; the Bible reading by Mrs. J. Green and solo by Mrs. J. Scriven with Miss Dorothy Mitchell at the piano.

After a few remarks concerning the occasion by Captain Ivany, Mrs. Ivany introduced the guest of honor, Harriet Stevens of CJBQ, who opened the bazaar extending to those whose willing hands had made it possible, the best of success, in this their second annual venture, after which she was presented with a lovely bouquet by little Freddie Ellarby.

RECEPTIONISTS

The receptionists were Mrs. Arthur Breach Sr., and Mrs. Captain Ivany, who most graciously welcomed each and all.

The booths occupied the three sides of the main auditorium and were eagerly patronized for their fine and attractive articles.

The homecooking booth was replete with Christmas cakes, and puddings; pumpkin pies and lemon tarts; oatmeal and date squares; raspberry pies; bags of homemade candy; and little cups of creams, chocolate fudge, and other tempting sweetmeats. Mrs. Wardle, Mrs. G. Ellarby Jr., and Mrs. A. Frankish were kept busy packaging and making change.

LOVELY TOWELS

The fancy work was outstanding in its fine display of lovely towels, in pastel shades, lace-edged, pillowslips, handkerchiefs and trimmed with lace; pretty, fringed place mats in green and yellow; children's knit socks, overmitts; knitting bags; crocheted hot plate mats; facecloths; bowl-ing aprons with shaded embroidered evergreen trees in mauve, purple and green; smocked aprons in blue; all-over aprons, and a multitude of the latest, pert, pretty, and of prints in colorful backgrounds. These were in charge of Mrs. Stan Lessels, Mrs. H. Firth, Mrs. J. White and Mrs. R. Jose.

The novelty booth had a most attractive display of glistening Christmas candles in white and pale pink, and green; stuffed giraffes, elephants, donkeys in Scotch plaids; various games; books; dolls; cup and saucer; wall brackets; wooden fruit baskets made from slender butter ladles. Mrs. E. Reid, Mrs. D. Mason and Mrs. L. Reid, were the busy attendants.

A 'fish pond' for the children was well patronized, where every nibble meant a 'bite', and no one was disappointed. Mrs. G. Hilarty was the game warden of this attractive spot.

PARCEL POST

The parcel post, in charge of Miss L. Mowatt, as postmistress, had many customers waiting for their mail at the wicket. These were packaged in square, oblong, narrow, medium shapes and all were legally stamped and marked. These parcels contained gifts of many types, one of which was viewed later as being an ornate crochet ball holder, well worth the amount of postage demanded.

The tea room was down stairs with a miniature Christmas tree glowing with red, blue, yellow and green lights centred the fireplace; with silver bells adorning one corner; gay, red bells hung from the centre of the ceiling, and over the double entrance doors hung silver bells. The tall pillars were highlighted by simulated Christmas trees, while a garland of red beads and red bells extended over the 30th tea, and little Yuletide ornaments peeped from the evergreen boughs.

CENTRED BY ROSE TREE

The tea table, prettily appointed with a Scotch lace cloth over green, was centred by a little rose tree, with red roses, surrounded by sprays of fragrant Scotch pine.

The little guest tables were also prettily set with lace cloths with centres of ornate Christmas candles rising from red-dotted lacy collars, while the crystal cream and sugars also added a festive touch.

Those who served were Mrs. B. Dudgeon, Mrs. J. Nisbett, Mrs. Ross Hepburn, Mrs. A. Morris and Mrs. C. Smith. Making tea, Mrs. Hanson and Miss J. Green.

Replenishing plates, Mrs. L. Topp, Mrs. W. Stone and Mrs. B. Tree, Jr.

The treasurer was Mrs. W. White.

A fine bazaar, pleasingly convened and most successful in culmination.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN WIFE'S NAME COMES FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the names of a married couple are to be imprinted under the message on Christmas cards, should the order be given to have the husband's or the wife's name to come first? That is: Mary and Arthur Kennedy or Arthur and Mary Kennedy? Want-to-know.

The wife's name comes first when the names are imprinted: Mary and Arthur Kennedy.

MOTHER MUST BRAVELY (AND SILENTLY) FACE DAUGHTER'S IMPULSIVE ACTION

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The daughter of one of my best friends became engaged. To announce the engagement, my friend was planning to give a dinner at her home, inviting the young man's parents. But without consulting her mother, the daughter herself announced the engagement in the newspaper. Now the girl's mother is furious and refuses to have the dinner as planned. She says, "It's too late." Will you please advise how the girl's mother should get the two families together now, and should there be an explanation made about her daughter's action, or just leave things as they are? — Reader

I most strongly advise this girl's mother never to mention her daughter's action to anyone, not even to the daughter, and to make no attempt in any way whatever to explain this action to anyone. No matter how hurt she is, no matter how disappointed she is that her daughter did not cooperate with her plan to give the engagement-announcement dinner, she should accept what has been done and can't be changed, wisely realizing that any words of criticism would most certainly cast their shadow on the plans that must now be made for the wedding. Invent new ones when you're asked tracy, "The least said, the soonest mended."

The engaged girl's mother might now give a dinner, simply as an occasion to bring the members of the two families together, not as an announcement dinner; or, perhaps better, might change the occasion from a dinner to, say, Sunday luncheon, or to a tea on Saturday or Sunday, or to a buffet supper on Saturday or Sunday.

SHOULD BE SEATED IN FRONT PEW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear friend of ours is to be married soon. Our parents are dead, and her only living relative is an aunt, to whom she is very devoted and who is very devoted to her. The bride's aunt, her mother's sister, is to sit in the front pew on "the bride's side." The bride-to-be has asked my husband to give her in marriage. Should my husband, after he has given the bride in marriage, take his place with the bride's aunt in the front pew, or with me in the pew where I will be sitting? — R.L.

I am sure that when the arrangements are being more definitely made, the bride-to-be will ask you to sit with her aunt in the front pew. Then your husband, after giving the bride in marriage, would join you and the bride's aunt in the front pew.

BROTHER-IN-LAW OR BROTHER TO GIVE HER IN MARRIAGE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Ever since the death of my mother and father they were killed together in a motor accident several years ago) I have lived with my sister and brother-in-law. They have been wonderful to me, and I am sending out the invitations to my wedding in their names. But the question as to who should give me in marriage is greatly bothering me. I have one brother two years older than I am, married, living quite a distance from here. Because he is my brother, should I ask my brother-brother, should I ask him to give me in marriage, or would it be permissable for me to ask my brother-in-law, who has been so kind and generous to me in these years, and whose name will be on the wedding invitations? I haven't even talked this over with my sister, since I would first like your advice.

I think you should give to your brother-in-law this honor of giving you in marriage, because of the important reasons you have given. I am sure your relatives and friends would approve of this, would understand your point of view. And I'm sure your brother also would approve and understand why you want to make this bow to your brother-in-law.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAKE NO DECISIONS NOW, SAM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a fellow 29 years old and in something of a stew over two girls.

One was divorced about two years ago and is six years older than I am, but in spite of both these factors we are very companionable. I've been seeing her fairly often for about eight months, and sometimes I think I am falling in love with her. She seems fond of me, too.

The other girl is a year younger than I am, and very attractive and cute. I just met her last weekend, and was so taken with her that I asked her for a date the very next night. A couple of nights later, I called again and asked for another date, but this time she turned me down. Do you think that means she didn't enjoy our first date or what?

My question is, should I continue dating the divorced girl, or try and get more dates with the second girl? And how can I tell which one I like the best? — Sam R.

Dear Sam R.:

Why be in such a hurry to decide which one of these girls you like best? There's absolutely no necessity for you to choose between them at this point, and it would be silly to try.

Since you've been dating the older one for some time, go on having occasional dates with her, but by all means try to get more dates with the second one, too. I don't think that, just because she turned down a second date two nights after she had her first one with a man she had only just met, it meant she didn't like you. After all, that was quite a rush you were giving her. Wait a week or so and then try again. I suggest that you date other girls, too. There's safety in numbers when you're as confused as you are right now.

Of course you'll be careful not to give either of these special young women the idea that she is the only girl in your life. I hope you haven't already done that with the first one, because I doubt if she turns out to be your favorite in the end. It's far more likely that, as time goes on, you'll find a girl younger than yourself is really more congenial.

Christmas Cookies for Gifts or Guests

By Mary Moore

In anticipation of Marianne's and Gary's arrival, I lectured myself sternly: —"Mary," I said, "you are allowed only one taste of any one of those cookies." You see I have no doubt what will happen. Marianne here, the tempo of entertaining will increase, I'll taste when. I am preparing, eat when I'm talking, nibble while I'm cleaning up and then step on the scales—and faint.

So I have to take myself firmly in hand and stop before I start. For it is oh so easy to put on the weight but oh so hard to take it off.

Now don't blame me for giving you such good Christmas cookie recipes. Make them, take a tiny taste and serve them to your children and skinny friends.

COOKIE-PRESS COOKIES

(For shaping.)

One cup of butter, 1-2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon almond flavoring, 1-8 teaspoon of baking powder and 3 1-2 cups sifted all purpose flour. Cream together the butter and the shortening until light and fluffy. Add the sugar slowly until mixed well with the shortening and butter mixture. Add eggs and flavoring and mix. Add all of the sifted dry ingredients and mix until smooth. Divide the dough into thirds. With food coloring tint one-third green, one-third pink and leave the remainder as is. Fill the cookie press with the dough and gently press to form the desired shapes. Place on an ungreased cookie pan. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 to 10 minutes, until just set. Do not brown. Makes about ten dozen press cookies.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

One and 1-2 cups butter, 3-4 cups sifted icing sugar, 4 cups sifted flour. Cream butter very well and gradually cream the sugar into it. Work the flour into it then by hand. (This mixture requires the best of your hands.) When smooth roll out to 3-8 inch thickness on lightly floured board. Edges will split but pat and coax them together again, until sheet of dough is smooth. Cut out in desired shapes (small). Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. on ungreased cookie sheet until they are a biscuit color but not at all brown. Note—Of course these do not need to be cut out. May be pressed into small pie pans to 1-4 inch thickness and baked as it was traditionally.

SWEDISH THUMBPRINT COOKIES

One half cup of butter, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten, 1 cup flour, 1 egg white unbeaten, 3-4 cup fine chopped nuts. Cream butter well, add sugar creaming well, add egg yolk, beat well. Add flour. Form into 3-4 inch balls between palms, roll in the white of egg and then in nuts and place on greased cookie sheet. Press almost flat with a glass. Bake three minutes at 300 deg. Fahr. Remove and make a depression in centre and then bake 15 mins. Fill depression with tart jam or jelly.

Melrose W.I. Holds Community Supper

The annual "Community Supper" of the Melrose W.I. was held in the township hall at Melrose last Thursday evening and proved a huge success.

Some aprons and children's clothing were on display at the front of the hall and were quickly purchased.

The "Fish Pond" conveyed by Mrs. C. Hagerman and assisted by Mrs. G. McLaren, proved a busy place with all the children eagerly patronizing same and apparently happy with their "catch".

After a bountiful supper served by the ladies, an enjoyable and varied program followed with Mr. Charles Long, deputy-reeve of Tyendinaga, acting as chairman. Community singing led by Mr. St. Denille with Mrs. L. Reese at the piano, was the opening number on the program. Other items which followed were songs by Shirley Weese and Betty Asselstine; solo by Miss Jamieson of Foxboro; vocal and guitar solos by Mr. Jackson; two popular songs by Ronnie Demill; a humorous reading by Mrs. E. Monroe Jr.; a violin and piano duet by Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson; a tap-dance by three junior girls, Betty Asselstine, Patsy Doyle and Sally Cook; Mr. N. Demill favored with a song accompanied by Mr. H. McAvoy on the violin and Mrs. Weese at the piano; two mouth organ and guitar selections by Mrs. Kingston of Belleville; two numbers by the Garrison trio, with their brother as piano accompanist.

This proved to be a fine "get-together" which promoted friendship, fellowship and entertainment in its best form.

Mrs. C. Weese, president of Melrose W.I. thanked the chairman as well as those who had furnished the program, also all who had contributed towards making the evening such a success. She also conducted the "draw" on the pillow cases with Gloria McFarlane drawing the lucky ticket held by Mrs. J. Clarke.

PRECIOUS DOLL

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — A 135-year-old doll was displayed at a doll fair here. Made of Kiddkin, it's called the "Gertrude" doll because three generations of girls by that name had used it as a playmate.

TOP TO TOE

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

New accessories from top to toe aid in the chic of the new fashions. Here is something new in a 1956 version of the once-universal mob-cap. This one is of white plush with a bow-tied band of leopard. It is most becoming and a decided costume asset. Cotton that looks and feels for all the world like suede is used for a classic slip-on glove with hand stitching on the fingers and back and criss-cross tabs at the wrist. Brushed suede in loden green is chosen for a good daytime pump that subscribes to the now-popular one-strap theme. The edges are stitched on this comfortable walking shoe.

STONE CHURCH WMS

The November meeting of the Stone church Woman's Missionary Society and Woman's Association was held at the home of Mrs. G. Chisholm, with a good attendance.

Mrs. G. Chisholm assisted by Mrs. J. Chisholm, was in charge of the worship service. Mrs. J. Chisholm asked questions and the members responded and a discussion on passages from the Bible followed.

Mrs. George Tucker was in charge of the study book, "South Korea", assisted by Mrs. E. B. Phillips and Mrs. G. Evans, who took the part of Rev. Elda Danlels and other missionaries in foreign Malaya, and Indonesia.

They have a population of some twenty million people with only eight per cent Christian. At present, there is about 85 per cent spent on defence. The need for more missionaries is great.

During the business session presided over by the president, Mrs. J. A. Detlor, a letter was read from White's church WMS, inviting the members to an afternoon tea on December 3rd. Plans were made for the Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Gray. The thank-offering collection was taken.

The Woman's Association with Mrs. O. Chisholm presiding made further plans for the bazaar.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by the committee in charge.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

By MME. QUI VIVE TIPS ON NAIL CARE

An emery board used each night after the bath builds up nail resistance to breakage.

It's amazing how much common sense goes into any beauty regime—and particularly to the hand and nail care that can give even stubby-fingered work hands the appearance of being sufficiently long and lovely.

The old trick of sleeping with the hands creamed or oiled and tucked into cotton gloves for the night is just about the surest way of keeping the hands soft and preventing hangnails, etc. But it is only for the girls who live alone. If you are married and interested in hanging on to your husband, you will wear your cream-gloves daytimes, under a work pair.

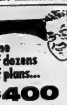
That bit of domestic psychology comes from a noted beauty expert who has some other sound observations regarding common sense in hand and nail care.

Those mandarin-long, tapered nails so many women seem to covet? You may not be the type for them.

To string along with our expert: No tiny blonde should wear her nails extremely long, for they would be out of proportion. The tall, dramatic type of woman can wear hers longer of course, but even she shouldn't wear them so long that she looks as if she'd trip over them.

Many of you who have fingers that are square at the tips feel that pointing will make the nails look less square at the tips feel that pointing will make the nails look less square. But says our expert, that only calls attention to the squareness. Her suggestion: let the nail grow out beyond the square tip of the finger itself and then begin shaping it—but in oval formation and only at the end. Do not file deeply into the sides and do avoid the sharp-pointed effect.

Stubby fingers benefit from the same technique in nail shaping. But, in applying polish, the nail should not be covered entirely; the half-moons at the bases of the nails should be left exposed to fore-shorten the nail and keep its length in proportion.



Just after your bath is the best possible time for a quick going over the nails with an emery board. This is aside from your manicure, a weekly affair, and will enable you to catch the nicks and cracks in the nails before they can develop into trouble. In fact, one expert manicurist of my acquaintance says this nightly vigilance will help to prevent any breakage.

File just the very edge of the nail. Only a few strokes of the board are needed. If the polish has chipped, pull the board, using the fine side, down, diagonally, over the tip of the nail to thin down the edges of polish about the chipped part, then apply a patch of polish.

Did you know that some nails seem to grow stronger for buffering with an old-fashioned type of powder polish than the steady use of lacquer? A number of the more elegantly groomed women have returned to this buffed polish for daytime wear.

Woman Hunter Woos Deer With Perfume, Is Successful

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Muriel Brock, one of Canada's few professional women hunters of game, woos deer with perfume —and she's highly successful.

"A lot of my hunters, mostly men, think it's a joke," she said. "That is, until they get results."

Then it's fairly common for them to roam the bush doused in sweet scent—one hunter in fact carried a perfume bottle and sprayed every time the hunter he met.

"There's no doubt about it," said Mrs. Brock. "Pleasing perfumes kill the human scent and they definitely attract deer."

EXPERIENCED HUNTER

Owner of Tilden Lake Camp, 20 miles north of here, Mrs. Brock guides scores of people every year in their search for deer, birds, bear or fish.

"This business of women staying home to do the housework and look after the children while papa goes hunting is all wrong," she says. "Women can shoot as accurately as men and they have more patience."

Her own deftness in the woods has bagged 150 deer for hunters —most of them men—during the last 16 years.

"The trick to deer hunting is to keep cool, watch the open patch of bush where the deer will come, then stop it by shouting 'hi' or by whistling," she says. "You get a standing shot which either man or woman can make successfully."

SAVES SUFFERING

Because she's a guide Mrs. Brock says she often has to hunt for animals hunters have wounded, and finish them off.

She dislikes the idea of a wounded deer having to creep away to die later. But she's firm in her defense of hunting as a sport.

"It's an outdoor experience which fits right into the pattern of human nature," she said. "Maybe its a throwback to the days when our ancestors had to hunt to eat but if game is killed with merciful swiftness I see nothing wrong with it."

Mrs. Brock, charmingly feminine despite her robust activities, is a deadly shot. A couple of weeks ago she killed a 400-pound bear with two shots from a distance of 50 feet.

She also skinned the bear, her second and one of the largest killed this year in northern Ontario.

LOVER OF NATURE

While Mrs. Brock, mother of two sons—one 21 and the other 11—is a hunter during the season, she says she's a romanticist about animals the rest of the year.

She began to love the bush as a child when her late father started a mink ranch at Timmins. "I was the one to trap the breeding stock," she said. "I live-trapped many of them but that meant I had to catch fish to feed them in summer and rabbits in winter."

After she graduated from high school in Timmins she worked as an accountant in Toronto, during which time her parents opened the camp at Tilden Lake.

When her father died she took over the camp's management and two years ago, bought it from her mother.

Club Activities

SUNBEAM MISSION BAND

The Sunbeam Mission Band convened at Quinte View school on Friday afternoon with the president Larry Bilham, presiding.

Larry Bilham recited the Beatitudes and all repeated the 23rd Psalm. "O Happy Day" was sung. The offering was taken by the treasurer, Vicky Glydon and dedicated by Joanna Galbraith. Mrs. Young closed the worship service with prayer.

The minutes of the October meeting were read by the secretary, Gary Millar, and were approved.

Lorne Mallory and Ted Hockaday were installed as 1st and 2nd vice-presidents, respectively. As the roll was called 17 children handed in their mite or gift boxes which amounted to $7.35. A few had forgotten their boxes and several new members had not received a box. Eight members paid 25c for the subscription to the "World Friends" for January to December 1957.

Ted Hockaday gave a comic reading "The Animals Concert" and Garry Millar read "A Bundle of Sticks". Grade 1-3 sang a chorus.

The leader, Mrs. Young, read two chapters of "The Boy With the Busy Walk", which were headed "Fire, Fire" in which Tippy was the hero and "Secrets" when Tippy and his grandfather attended the last meeting at Friendship House after which Tippy returned to his home to attend school.

The children decided to bring a white gift to be sent to Western Canada. These may be toys, books or clothing for children.

PINE GROVE WI

The November meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, with 15 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Allyn Pinkie opened the meeting with all singing the "Institute Ode" and all repeated the Mary Stewart collect in unison.

During the business it was decided to have a social evening on December 5. A thank-you letter was read from the Canadian Institute for the Blind for the $31.50 collected by the Women's Institute members.

Mrs. Slartindale reported on the C.A.S. bulletin and read the message from the new president.

Conveners of the Standing Committees reported. Mrs. Frank Finkle reported on the Home and Country and urged all members to be sure and read it all.

A special collection was taken as a Christmas gift for the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Harry Coulter gave the report of the Area convention. Current Events were given by Mrs. Harold Deller.

Mrs. Frank Finkle, "Communication and Public Relations", was in charge of the program and opened by reading "It is hard to apologize and begin over, to admit an error, to be unselfish or to take advice, or to keep on trying after a failure, to think first and then act, to profit by a mistake and figure and then forget, to take deserved blame. But it pays."

Reading "Are we Truly Hospitable" by Mrs. Alex Tanner; reading, "Neighbors", Mrs. William Slater; piano solo, "Beautiful Heaven," Mrs. Leslie Finkle. Mrs. Frank Finkle read "A Country Woman's Day."

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

St. Margaret's Little Helpers Present Mites

A happy gathering took place in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill church on Sunday afternoon, when the Little Helpers accompanied by their parents, met for the annual service and party.

The guests were greeted upon arrival by the parochial Little Helpers' secretary, Mrs. George Mountford and her assistants, Mrs. William Todd and Mrs. R. I. Davis.

The rector, Rev. L. Arthur Page, welcomed the gathering of about 135 persons and conducted the service.

The children's favorite hymns, "Jesus Loves Me", and "Fairest Lord Jesus," were sung with Mrs. Bruce Bishop as accompanist.

A story entitled "The Light of the World" was told by Mrs. Todd, about the life of the boy, Jesus, until he was seven years old, the age when boys and girls graduate from the Little Helpers. As each birthday was mentioned a candle was lighted to represent that year. These candles were lighted by the following Little Helpers: Deborah Lynn Rose, Eleanor Roblin, Paul Duffy, Charles Edward Fort, Thomas Irwin, William Harvey Flindall, David MacPhee and Warren Hay. As the candles shone forth, all joined in singing "Jesus Bids us Shine."

USE OF MITE BOXES

Mrs. Todd explained briefly why the children were encouraged to put pennies into their mite boxes and for what the money is used. The children then came forward in age groups and gave their mite boxes to Mrs. E. Kolb and Mrs. B. Bateman, who removed the tops and emptied the contents into a white basket. The offering was dedicated to the work of missions as the children repeated together the Little Helpers' prayer, a prayer for the Little Helpers' fellowship and The Lord's Prayer.

GRADUATION CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

Mrs. Mountford presented graduation certificates to all who had celebrated their seventh birthday in 1956.

Following a short action game conducted by Mrs. Davis, a film entitled "The Children Visit Jesus," was presented and the commentary was read by Mrs. Walter Roblin.

Mr. Page pronounced the benediction to bring the service to a close.

Fruit bread, chocolate milk, cookies and ice cream were served to the children, while their parents enjoyed a cup of tea served by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary under the convenership of the president, Mrs. C. Karkbeck.

CAMPBELLFORD

C. of C. Plans Fine Santa Claus Parade

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford's annual Santa Claus parade promises to be a big event again this year, with a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the event, already making plans.

More than 30 floats and four or five bands are already lined up for the parade, which will be held on Saturday, December 8. Three prizes will be awarded for floats taking part. Mayor R. J. Locke has donated a $35 cash prize, and H. A. MacArthur and F. G. DeCarrol have each donated a mantel radio. Judges of the floats will be the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, minister of Agriculture, and Dr. Fred G. Robertson, MP, (Lib. North) and Mrs. W. C. Tatham.

Members of the committee responsible for the parade are: chairman, F. G. DeCarrol; floats, H. A. MacArthur, William Holmes, F. C. Denyes, H. L. Macmillan; bands, — F. G. DeCarrol; costumes, — Douglas Maybee and William Nicholas; publicity and advertising, — William W. Reid and W. A. Kingston; traffic, — Chief Constable Sam Mailed; fiances, — C. H. Davidson and Charles Thompson; make-up, — George Nicholls; entertainment, — G. Thompson. Parade marshal is Fred Pallister.

The route of the parade this year will be as follows: leaving the public school it will travel north on Ranney to Front; south on Front to Bridge St.; west on Bridge to Queen; north on Queen to Napier; west on Napier to Canniff; south on Canniff to Bridge St.; east on Bridge to Dundas Ave., south on Dundas to Second St.; west on Second to Front and north on Front St. to the arena.

At the arena, Santa will dismount from his float and will distribute candy, fruit and other treats to an estimated 1,500 children who are expected to be on hand.

President Ross Douglas of the Chamber of Commerce said he expects the parade this year to contain at least as many or possibly more bands and floats than last year, when the parade was said to be one of the best in eastern Ontario. Each year, more and more people drive to the town to witness the event, and each year than he did the year before. Santa gives away several hundred more bags of candy, and talks to several hundred more children

Estevan, Sask., Caught in Oil Boom, Promises to Make Town into Thriving City

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP) — Estevan is caught in an oil boom which has doubled its one-time normal population and promises to make it into a thriving young city.

It is in about the centre of southeast Saskatchewan, has no large city nearby to horn in on its show, and so has caught the full impact of the southeast's current oil play.

The town is, indeed, "bursting at the seams." Oil men and salesmen crowd its hotels, drilling and servicing companies have flocked in, new buildings are going up and old ones have been refurbished, and millions of dollars are afloat where there used to be thousands.

RAPID ADVANCE

Sterling King, editor of the Estevan Mercury, says:

"We were warned that we wouldn't know what hit us, and we didn't. We started to notice it in August a year ago. Then it built up fast, particularly last spring, with people rolling in looking for places to live and for office space.

"We tucked them away in every corner of town and still didn't know what to do with them. It's a little calmer now, but they tell us another surge is coming next year."

However, there's nothing "wildwest," about the boom—it's just a busy town with a feel of "things happening."

A pleasant prairie town, Estevan had 3,900 people in the 1951 census; about 5,200 this spring, and perhaps 8,000 now spread around somewhere.

It has three hotels, two motels (with more building) and two big trailer camps. Last fall's 25 trailers have increased to about 175, with another 60 in adjoining areas and a further 60 at the airport, 4½ miles away.

About 175 houses are going up this year and private interests are talking about a $1,500,000 housing and business development. Westspur Pipe Line Company, which planned an office building for 25 employees, expects 70 by next year and has revised its building plans upward. Other new buildings include a post office and quarters for the RCMP. Recently-expanded telephone facilities have fallen behind demand.

Rents have gone up, with oil companies and oil-company employees bidding against one another—and there are stories of sleep charters, but also stories of owners who have refused to charge all they could get.

POWER PROJECT

Aside from the oil boom, the Saskatchewan Power Corporation, which already has a large plant at Estevan, has started a $40,000,000 power project 2½ miles to the southwest which will dam Long Creek and create a lake eight miles long by ½ to 1½ miles wide.

It will be a steam plant, operated with Estevan's abundant coal, and the lake will be for water - supply and cooling purposes. About 200 men will be employed during five construction years and a lesser number after that.

Harry Nicholson, mayor for the last 16 years, heads a council which often sits into the morning hours, grappling with water, sewer sidewalk, housing and other problems.

Mayor Nicholson thinks population may level off at 10,000 to 12,000. But he adds: "We have oil, gas, coal, water and power, and small manufacturers are sending inquiries with a view to coming here."

Even without oil, Estevan is a surprising town—a semi - agricultural, semi-industrial community which sends its products far and wide.

COAL BIG ASSET

Its coal industry produced 2,293,000 tons last year and demand is going up. It is, says Mayor Nicholson, the only coal operation in North America which has increased production in recent years.

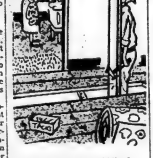
The coal is a low-grade lignite, lying near the surface under 20 to 50 feet of overburden, and is produced at low cost and sold at low price.

The overburden is cleared off and the coal dug out by huge excavators called "walking draglines," crane arms reaching out from large mobile plants. They literally walk, or waddle, picking up and setting down their giant tractor-tread feet as they move from place to place.

A new one on order for Western Dominion Coal Mines Ltd., subsidiary of Great West Coal Company, will pick up 35 cubic yards at a bite and will cost some $2,000,000.

Chief markets for the coal are in power plants in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. It isn't afraid of oil.

WIDE MARKETS



Dominion - Briquets and Chemicals Ltd., another Estevan operation, sells 50,000 tons of coal briquettes a year to Prairie markets and produces creosote as a by-product.

Another plant sells bricks as far as Ontario. Prairie Nurseries Ltd., described as the largest privately-owned tree-growing nursery in Canada, has 600 acres in trees ranging from six inches to 60 feet in height.

Andrew King, publisher of the Estevan Mercury, and his son Sterling and William, have a billboard-poster business which has customers right across the country. Its specialty is posters for circuses, fairs and the like.

All in all, one goes to Estevan looking for an oil boom and then wishes he had time to look at the other things.

Assault Charge Brought by Wife

SUDBURY (CP)—John Gilbert, a trapper and guide at Hartley Bay in the French River area about 50 miles south of here, was remanded in custody today for sentence on an assault charge brought by his wife.

The charge was laid after a scuffle with his wife and a 15-year-old daughter Nov. 12.

Gilbert appeared in court with 41 stitches in his head and 10 on his face. Mrs. Gilbert said that when she was attacked she and her daughter counter - attacked with pieces of stove wood.

Shepilov Says Threat Continues Against Arabs

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov Wednesday accused "imperialist states" of planning "new actions" against the Arab countries and thus "threatening the world peace."

Shepilov flew in here from New York en route home from the UN General Assembly.

In a statement, the foreign minister declared: "Britain, France and Israel have new plans of aggression against the Arab countries in order to force Egypt to submission. We also know that big troop concentrations are taking place near Jordan and Syria and that political infiltration is taking place in Lebanon."

He branded as "tactics" the assurances of withdrawal from the Suez area given by Britain, France and Israel. He added: "New concentrations of British, French and Israeli troops have been observed in these last days."

Rails, Non-operating Unions May Ratify Big Welfare Plan

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's major railways and non-operating unions Monday are expected to ratify their country's biggest welfare insurance plan, expected to cover more than 500,000 persons.

After months of negotiations, the union-management committee announced Wednesday agreement has been reached on the details of the scheme.

The committee declined to divulge these until the plan is officially ratified by the 17 non-operating unions and the Canadian Pacific, Canadian National, Algoma Central; Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo; and Ontario Northland Railways.

The unions, representing employees who do not actually operate the trains, have 140,000 members. Officials said that since families of workers also will be protected the number covered will get a Canadian record.

The labor welfare plan is part of the contract settlement reached last spring between the unions and railways. This provided for the plan as well as improved holidays and an 11-per-cent wage increase.

The plan is expected to go into effect Jan. 1. Under the contract, which averted a nation - wide strike, the railways agreed to pay 2½ cents an hour for every employee toward a contributory health and welfare plan.

Almost 50 meetings to work out details have been held between the companies and the unions since June. Numerous separate sessions also were held.

Complex problems to make the plan applicable in all provinces had to be solved. Three provinces now have compulsory health or hospital insurance plans and the cost of treatment varies from province to province.

TWEED

Reeve, Council, Other Officials All Acclaimed

TWEED — On Friday evening nominations were held in the Municipal hall to name a new slate of officers for the coming year. Reeve T. C. Graham and Councillors Tracey Quinn, Doug. Spencer, "Bob" Wood and Jack Rashotte, last year's council, were the only nominations received and at 8.00 p.m. Saturday night all had qualified and declared elected by acclamation. S. R. Curry, who has served on the Public Utilities Commission for the past six years, wished to retire, but there were no other nominations so he was declared elected by acclamation.

The usual reports from the Parks Board, the Centre Hastings High School Area, and the Public Utilities Commission, also reports from the councillors representing their different departments were heard at this meeting. This year the Consolidated School Board meeting was held in conjunction with the municipal nominations. The term of Burton Vance had expired and as no one else was nominated to succeed him he was declared elected by acclamation. Following are the members for the coming year: Burton Coulter, chairman; Bob Palmateer, Burton Vance, George Owens, Leonard Jones, Clifford Cotton, secty.-treasurer.

At the first meeting in January a chairman will be named.

The secretary treasurer's report was received at this time.

TWEED

Bursaries, Certificates, Awards Presented at H. S. Commencement

TWEED — Friday evening the high school auditorium was jammed to capacity for the annual commencement exercises.

The program opened with musical numbers: a piano prelude by Gwen Blakely and Margaret Howes; chorus by Grade 9 girls, directed by Miss A. Nickle; pianist, Clarence Pace.

Mr. Thomas Beatty, chairman of the High School Board, gave a fine address, tracing the growth of the school from beginning till now. This was followed by a piano duet by Mary Burns and Clara Courneyea.

Miss Norine LeSage was the valedictorian and told of the sadness of leaving the Tweed High School, mingled with the joy of successful completion of work here and the joy of looking forward to the future.

The Grade 9 girls gave a couple of French choruses, with pianist Miss K. Williams.

The teachers of the school presented the certificates and diplomas to the students of Grades 10, 12, 13, and commercial.

The T. E. Moffatt Prize for U.S. Latin was presented by Wallis Moffatt.

The High School District Scholarships and Agricultural prizes were presented by Mr. Fred Healey, a member of the High School Board. Three scholarships were also presented to students having the highest aggregate on eight subjects Grade 13.

Mrs. Anderson presented the Kinette Club scholarship to Sylvia Belch; Mr. J. Thompson presented the Kiwanis Club scholarship to Janice Tweed; Mr. C. E. Way presented Tweed Motor Sales scholarship to Norine LeSage.

PROVINCIAL BURSARIES

Dominion - Provincial bursaries were secured by the following Grade 13 students:

Atkinson Charitable Foundation Bursaries—University, $400, Sylvia Belch; University, $400, David Jordan.

The second Carter scholarship for Hastings County was secured by Norine LeSage.

Canadian Legion scholarship, Ontario Command, University, $400, Norine LeSage. This was presented by Mr. Ray Woolfry in the absence of Mr. Jack Rashotte, president, of the Tweed branch.

The high school football team which won the Centre Hastings championship and which also won the Quinte and the Lake Ontario Senior "B" championship was presented with the T. E. Moffatt Memorial Trophy by Coach "Chuck" Lynch. The team lost the Central Ontario championship by one point.

The junior girls' champion volley ball team was presented with a cup by their coach, Mrs. Moffatt.

The awards in First Aid and shooting were then awarded, also the marksmanship crests. The program concluded with a solo by Ronald Cassidy and a chorus by the Happy Wanderers, Grade 13 students.

After the program the graduation dance was held.

TWEED

Bursaries, Certificates, Awards Presented at H.S. Commencement

TWEED — Friday evening the high school auditorium was jammed to capacity for the annual commencement exercises.

The program opened with musical numbers: a piano group by Gwen Blakely and Margaret Howes; chorus by Grade 9 girls, directed by Miss A. Nickle; pianist, Clarence Pace.

Mr. Thomas Beatty, chairman of the High School Board, gave a fine address, tracing the growth of the school from beginning till now. This was followed by a piano duet by Mary Burns and Clara Courneyea.

Miss Norine LeSage was the valedictorian and told of the sadness of leaving the Tweed High School, mingled with the joy of successful completion of work here and the joy of looking forward to the future.

The Grade 9 girls gave a couple of French choruses, with pianist Miss K. Williams.

The teachers of the school presented the certificates and diplomas to the students of Grades 10, 12, 13, and commercial.

The T. E. Moffatt prize for U.S. Latin was presented by Wallis Moffatt.

The High School District Scholarships and Agricultural prizes were presented by Mr. Fred Healey, a member of the High School Board. Three scholarships were also presented to students having the highest aggregate on eight subjects Grade 13.

Mrs. Anderson presented the Kinette Club scholarship to Sylvia Belch; Mr. J. Thompson presented the Kiwanis Club scholarship to Janice Tweed; Mr. C. E. Way presented Tweed Motor Sales scholarship to Norine LeSage.

PROVINCIAL BURSARIES

Dominion - Provincial bursaries were secured by the following Grade 13 students:

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Rev. Kenneth Wills Describes S.S. Travels at Centenary Rally

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A Sunday school rally was held at Centenary United Church Sunday evening, sponsored by the Sidney and Trenton Council of Christian Education and despite the blustery, snowy evening there was a fine attendance.

An interesting and educational program arranged by the executive was announced by the genial president, Mr. G. Martin, of Frankford.

Mr. Bob Smithrim of Trenton, was solo leader for several hymns with Mrs. Smithrim as pianist.

The members then divided into three groups. Teachers of pre-school and up to seven years and from seven to 13 years, inclusive, met under the leadership of Flt. Lt. Lorne Miles, superintendent of Grace United Church, Trenton, and Flt. Lt. Phil Ross of RCAF Station Trenton. Teachers of teen-agers and the adults met under the leadership of Mr. Thorne Speare, superintendent of King Street United Church, Trenton. Films were shown to each group and a discussion followed.

The Rev. Kenneth Wills, general secretary of the Department of Christian Education, Canadian Council of Churches, who gave an interesting book review, was introduced by Mrs. Leonard Young, superintendent of White's Church Sunday school, Bayside.

Miss Muriel Craig of Belleville, who gave a most interesting flannelgraph demonstration of Noah and the Ark, the Christmas Story, Flight into Egypt, Jesus at the Temple, Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane, and the Crucifixion, was introduced by Mr. Floyd MacInnes, superintendent of Sidney Baptist Church.

Miss Craig offered to help anyone with flannelgraph troubles, will rent her flannelgraph and pictures and also offered to order any books from the Book Review.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, the Rev. Kenneth Wills, gave an interesting account of his travels across Canada, on the continent and at the World Sunday School Rally at Cincinnati, Ohio. Sunday school and church workers must be on their toes to keep up to the increased population and to find ways and means to increase attendance in Sunday Schools.

Bi-a atherQwe ETAOIN NN

The members then broke up into four groups under Mr. Bob Smithrim, Mrs. MacMullen of Stone Church; Mr. Floyd MacInnes and Mr. Cliff Baker for a discussion on questions relating to the address of Mr. Wills.

Cafeteria refreshments were served at this time through the kindness of the Centenary ladies.

All later adjourned to the church where Mr. Herbert Kern, superintendent of Batawa Sunday school, voiced his appreciation to all who had assisted in the fine program.

Mr. Robert Percival, pastor of Centenary United Church, of the Bayside Pastoral Charge, closed the meeting with a short devotional service.

A motion was brought forward that church officers should assist with Sunday school responsibilities.

CAMPBELLFORD

Christmas Party Planned By Girl Guides

CAMPBELLFORD — The 1st Campbellford Girl Guide Company met in St. John's United Church basement on Monday, with Mrs. Pieter Wilmink in charge. The meeting opened with roll call and the Guides' Prayer led by Marie Brethour, followed by inspection.

Knot races in which all Guides took part proved educational and enjoyable. The Company then practised hand and whistle signals.

Those planning the Christmas party went to St. Andrew's Church to join the girls of the 2nd Company and exchange ideas. The rest of the girls held Patrol council and the meeting closed with Campfire songs and taps.

The 2nd Campbellford Guides held their first meeting in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Monday, Mrs. Peter Unitt (Capt.), and Mrs. Don Meyers had planned a surprise for the Guides to celebrate the event.

After roll call and the Guides' prayer led by Beverley Beaudoin, the girls discussed future plans, selected patrol corners and expressed themselves very happy with their new quarters.

Beverley Beaudoin was chosen to design and send out the invitations to the Scouts on behalf of this company for the Christmas party.

The Guides then divided into two teams and went outside to wage a snow battle. When they returned, hot chocolate and cookies were served, the four Guides from the 1st company arriving at just the right moment. Ideas were exchanged and plans made for the Christmas party.

RABBIT SCARCITY

BELL ISLAND, Nfld. (CP)—Rabbits are really scarce this year, say local hunters. Summing up recent hunts one veteran said: "There isn't a barrel of rabbits on the whole east coast of Newfoundland."

NO SALARIES

KENTVILLE, N. S. (CP) — A motion that the mayor be given an annual salary of $600 and councillors $300, was withdrawn at the monthly meeting of town council. Unless the 1957 council decides otherwise, no salaries will be attached to their services.

The Misses Thelma Sickle and Call Lobsinger, Messrs. Bob Bush, Bob Mallory, Everett Harry, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harry, attended the get-together put on by Northumberland Junior Farmers, when they entertained Frankford Junior Farmers, at Brighton High School, on Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brooks, Ronnie and Allan spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Basil Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Milner, of Unionville, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush.

Mr. Roy Harry; Mrs. Fred Meyers; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sickle attended the recent Kirkwood-Milsil wedding on Saturday at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Milsil, of the 8th of Murray.

Mr. Will Blackman of Wellington, was a caller at his sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. W. Hart, on Saturday evening.

Charivaries have been the order of the week at Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Harry's. Their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harry, bride and groom of a week were charivaried on Friday night by a group from Elizabethville, the bride's home town. These folk had trouble bad luck as the Frankford bridge was closed and they had to detour. They came to the Glen Miller bridge and it was closed so they had to go around by Trenton and then find out where the place was so it was in the wee hours of the morning when they arrived.

On Saturday, a group of around 60 people gave Doug and Hazel another charivari. They were invited in and served ice cream and cake, candy and coffee. All hoping that Hazel will be very happy and feel at home in this neighborhood.

Mrs. George McLean arrived home from Toronto on Saturday and spent several days in Belleville with her daughter this week.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Perkins, Julie Margaret, was baptized at Johnstown church on Sunday afternoon at the church service.

The Rev. G. Puttesham took his text from Isaiah saying, "Men have looked upon the world with troubled eyes, many times, but God controls His Kingship over all. Spring time or harvest time falls. It is man that is the cause of the trouble in this day. So much money is being spent for things we should not have to have, but we feel it is necessary at the moment. God made man so he had a choice of things. God seeks partnership with men to bring His Kingdom forth and He builds it by persuasion, not force.

"A christian tries to live as Christ lived. If, through us men come to believe in God we will be doing what Jesus intended us to do. Our church is calling us to be witnesses to the nation We are called upon to a labor of love. There are two ways to live: The wages of sin is death but if we truly give our hearts to God, we shall have life eternal."

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Mr. Arnold Meyers attended the birthday parties at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Meyers on Thursday evening, in honor of Mr. Meyer's 65 birthday, put on by his sisters and brother, Mrs. Clayton Taylor, of Brighton; Mrs. Clifford Dunn, Codrington; Mrs. Richard Eggleton. Hillier; and Mr. Alva Meyers, R.R. Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sickle entertained the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kirkwold, of Ivricans, Alberta, at the Wednesday supper hour.

TAKES OFF

WINNIPEG (CP)—People moving to new addresses have sometimes found it hard to get the table-tennis table inside and out. William Hardiman was holding one down on the back of a jeep when a gust of wind blew him and the table on to the pavement. He was taken to hospital with head injuries.

Old Supreme Court of Canada Building Site of Parking Lot

OTTAWA (CP)—The spot where a pile of rubble lies at the foot of the West Block on Parliament Hill some day will be the focal point of a long, ornate mall.

Meanwhile the rubble—all that's left of the old Supreme Court of Canada building torn down this fall—will be the site of an outdoor parking lot. One wall of the old building, where the Justices of the Supreme Court held forth for some 70 years, is staying up to hide the parking lot from the street.

Federal district commission officials hope to start on the mall and a huge underground parking lot "in a few years." The project is part of the National Capital Plan as envisaged by French planner Jacques Gréber.

ARYLESBONE STEPS

Big steps will go down from Parliament Hill near where the old building stood for some 100 years. An underground parking space will be cut out of the hill near the steps. Other steps will run down from there to the Ottawa River where a dock will be built.

The mall will run from the edge of Parliament Hill along the top of the high cliff overlooking the river and past the new Supreme Court building to the proposed new National Library.

The old Supreme Court building was first used as a workshop by in the men erecting the Parliament Buildings near by. It was taken over as a "temporary measure" by the Supreme Court when it was finished in 1878.

In 1938 federal health department investigators reported to Parliament: "It is quite obvious that the building should be condemned as being injurious to the health of the occupants and totally inadequate for the purposes for which it is used."

Judges' rooms were compared to "old-fashioned bedrooms in an old-time hotel."

STATELY SUCCESSOR

Tenders for a new Supreme Court building were called two years later, Queen Mother Elizabeth laid the cornerstone May 28, 1939, as the late King George VI looked on. The huge white stone building was completed in 1941, but the justices stayed in the old edifice another five years because their new home was needed for wartime office space.

Judges of the Supreme Court moved into the new building in 1946.

The late Sir Lyman Duff, who lived in the old building since 1906, had retired as chief justice only three years earlier.

But the old building had its good points, according to George Aubrey Supreme Court clerk of process who began working there in 1916.

Shannonville

SHANNONVILLE — Jack Farnsworth, of the Royal Canadian Navy, was a recent guest of his father, Mr. Harry Farnsworth, and Mrs. M. Hammond.

Mrs. Russell Bennett is progressing favorably after a recent operation in Belleville General Hospital.

A number of village children are confined to their homes with the chickenpox.

Mrs. Hedley, of Hemmingford, Quebec, spent a few days with her friend, Mrs. Charles Boulstridge.

The pupils in Mr. Sherry's room in Shannonville Public School had a holiday on Monday as their teacher was unable to get here on account of the snow storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hugent and children were guests at a family re-union on Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. McTaggart, near Napanee, who were celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary.

Loela Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fuller, who was rushed to Belleville General Hospital on Friday last, is now feeling better.

Dinner guests on Sunday evening of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wescott were: Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Liddle, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Chaplin, Gary and Ronald, of Belleville.

"I used to step out of the window onto the bumper of my car," he recalls. "We lived dangerously for 10 years after it was condemned."

Bank's Decision Nothing to Do With Union Pressure

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Bank of Canada said today in a statement a decision it has made to pay overtime to its staff "has nothing whatever to do with union pressure."

The statement was issued in the wake of a Toronto report which said Canadian banks are actively considering paying their 60,000 employees time-and-a-half for overtime work in hopes of evading a $36,000,000 union wage demand.

The Royal, biggest bank employer, announced Tuesday it will pay overtime after a 40-hour week to its 12,000 tellers, clerks and accountants.

In its statement today the bank said:

"The bank's decision to pay overtime to our staff has nothing whatever to do with union pressure. As a matter of fact, we have had this subject under close study since the early months of the year."

LONG HISTORY

The University of Ottawa started as "the college of Bytown" in 1848, when the capital was still known as Bytown.

SOVIETS PLAN JET LINE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union will reconstruct 60 main airfields to be ready for a 180-passenger jet plane now under construction, the Literary Gazette said today. It said five or six of these new plants would be able to replace the daily express trains on the long run from Moscow across Asia to Vladivostok.

Two-Way Fight For Reeveship Seen in Stirling

STIRLING (Special) — A two-way fight between Harry Philp and James Holt for the reeveship will be the only election in Stirling with all other positions on council, school board and public utilities being filled by acclamation.

Only a handful of village ratepayers turned out for the nomination meeting held Monday evening in the Stirling community hall as heavy snow and lack of parking space kept many of the property owners at their homes.

Reeve Russell K. West will retire from council at the end of his present term. He was again nominated for the position but Tuesday made known his retirement from the municipal field.

The election for reeve will be held Monday, Dec. 3rd.

Councillors returned by acclamation were Kenneth Ray, Albert Wells, James Wright and Lindsay Pollock.

Retiring utilities commissioner Harold C. Bird was returned by acclamation as were school trustees Roy Mallory, Ed. Warren and Hamilton Donnan, all for a two year term. Glen Whitehead received acclamation to serve out the remaining one-year term of Everett Ketcheson who resigned his position to take up residence in the Consecon district.

Troops Play For 'Grey Cup'

OTTAWA (CP)—While Edmonton rolled to victory over Montreal in last weekend's Grey Cup game at Toronto, Canadian troops in Germany celebrated victory and sorrowed in defeat in their own football classic, the French Grey Cup.

Dog company blasted Headquarters Huskies 19-16 to win the trophy, named for the French grey divisional patch worn by the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry during the First World War.

Both teams were drawn from the PPCLI's 1st Battalion. Pte. Ken Crosbie of Winnipeg with two touchdowns and L. Cpl. Tom Mozdzeniski of Laver, B.C., with one paced the winners. Huskies scorers were Cpl. Gordon Mitchell of Toronto and Pte. N. W. Pitre of St. Boniface, Man.

The classic was complete with a pre-game parade of nine beribboned floats and an all-male beauty contest, won by Sgt. Norm Carlson of Oulseye, Alta.

Fight Features Western Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lee Fogolin, a hard-hitting defenceman, stirred up a small storm as his Calgary Stampeders dropped a 2-1 Western Hockey League decision to the Americans in Seattle Wednesday night.

Six minutes after Eddie Doroboy scored for Seattle in the first period, Fogolin, 200-pound battler from Fort William, mixed it up with Bruce Lee. The fighting spread until most players on both teams were involved. Of four penalties, only Fogolin's was a major.

Later, when Fogolin skated close to the boards, he had to fight off a fan who grabbed him.

Gayle Fielder, league leading scorer, got the winning goal for Seattle just after the second period began. Steve Williuk scored for Calgary.

Minor Hockey

Seven minor hockey games were played at Belleville Memorial Arena last night, three midget and four squirt.

SQUIRT

The Bruins scored a 6-1 victory over the Browns. Ron Culloden tallied two goals for the winners with one each for Rickey Irwin, L. Trueman, M. Irwin and S. Morris. Ron Poste got the Brown goal.

The Maple Leafs and Rangers battled through a scoreless tie in their game to pick up one point each.

Canadiens whipped the Barons 7-0. David "Bunny" Hurst sparked the Habs' attack with a three-goal hat trick. The other goals were divided among Paul Williams, Gary Locas, Brian Smith and Warren Wolfendon.

MIDGET

Team Five racked up a 6-1 victory over Team Three with Earle MacDonald potting three goals. Boulter tallied once and had three helpers while Green and Pointer also scored. Kaestaine and Brennan each drew one assist. Harvey scored for Team Three on a solo effort.

Team Two shaded Team Six 3-2 in a rugged fixture. L. Hull had a goal and assist for the winners with Rowbotham assisting on a pair. Goyer and McAlpine also scored. Langbeer and Moreau were the Team Six scorers while assists went to Westfall and Vaughan. Eight penalties were handed out in this game, four per team.

Teams One and Four fought to a 4-4 deadlock. Regent and Smith each had a goal and assist for Team Four with Loveless and Erwin getting the other goals. Potts and Butcher led Team One with a goal and helper each. Adams and Fleet also scored and McKenzie earned one assist.

NAMED DIRECTOR

TIMMINS (CP)—Archie Dillon of Timmins has been named town recreational director, effective next Jan. 1. He succeeds Bill Jones, who left in October to take a similar position in Sarnia.

Dillon, a native of Kinsion but a 30-year resident of Timmins, has coached baseball and hockey teams here.

Britain Wins 1st Gold Medal After Protest Is Upheld

MELBOURNE (CP) — The biggest uproar attendant upon these 1956 Olympic Games exploded in rivalry and record - wrecking— flavored and subsided with the reinstatement of Britain's Chris Brasher as winner of the 3,000-metre steeplechase.

A jury of appeals upheld the British protest of interference by a steeplechase judge and Brasher's record - making victory meant the first gold medal for Britain at Melbourne. It was also the first gold medal for Britain in track and field since Harold Whitlock won the 50 - kilometre walk at Berlin in 1936.

After hearing the decision, the happy Brasher said: "This was my last race. I am through."

The decision of the jury of the International Amateur Athletic Federation was unanimous—all changed their earlier verdicts, and put world record-holder Sandor Iharos of Hungary back in second place—exactly where he finished 15 yards behind the flying Briton.

CAUSES FLURRY

The disqualification, on the ground of obstruction by Brasher with Norway's Ernst Larsen on the final lap, here caused quite a great flurry—official and otherwise—in the British camp.

Jack Crump, British track team manager who laid the protest, blurted: "Who ever heard of such nonsense as 'jostling in a steeplechase. It's ridiculous."

Roger Bannister and Chris Chataway, Brasher's mates when Bannister ran the first sub-four-minute mile, were amazed when the disqualification was announced.

They were in the press box at the stadium and told the Canadian Press there was nothing abnormal about the running of the race. Last week Brasher himself predicted, in an interview with The Canadian Press, thatshe would win the steeplechase by 15 yards. That was the margin.

WON 400 metres

Only one other final was decided today in track and field. Charlie Jenkins of Cambridge, Mass., won the 400-metre run, with Karl Haas of Germany second and a dead heat for third between Ardalion Ignatiev of Russia and Voitto Hellsten of Finland.

Even after studying photographs, the judges couldn't separate the Russian and Finn, and both were given bronze medals.

Heats for Friday's 1,500-metre run left five of the seven four-minute-mile breakers still in the competition, including Australia's John Landy, Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary, who has the world for the 1,500, failed to qualify and Australia's Jim Bailey scratched because of a severe cold.

Landy finished third in a heat behind Neville Scott of New Zealand and Britain's Brian Hewson and appeared satisfied as long as he made the final.

The women's 200-metre dash got through the semi-finals, with all three Canadian girls eliminated in the preliminary stages and Australian girls favored to take top places

The Olympic decathlon, gruelling two-day affair in which the competitors struggle through 10 track and field events, reached the halfway mark with Milton Campbell and Rafer Johnson of the United States in front and Vasili Kuznetsov of Russia in third place.

The disqualification of Brasher stunned the stadium thousands who had seen him finish with a great burst to take first place.

Larsen set the pace early and Brasher was well back in the remainder of the bunched field. Semen Rjichine of Russia overtook Larsen with a lap and a half to go in the 7½-lap event.

Brasher had moved up to third place at the five-lap mark and was second with only one lap to go.

Rounding the first turn of the final lap and heading down the back straightaway Brasher shot past Rozsnyoi, who had driven himself into the lead.

Brasher sped into a 10-yard lead with half a lap to go and stretched it to 15 yards over the Hungarian as he flashed across the finish line, getting over the last hurdle and through the water jump with perfect timing and without a flaw.

Behind him came Rozsnyoi, Larsen, Heinz Laufer of Germany and Rjichine.

The announced disqualification was believed the first in a running event since the 1908 Olympics when Dorando Pietro of Italy was disqualified for having been carried across the finish line of the marathon. First place was awarded to J. J. Hayes of the United States.

Reinstatement of Brasher made his record time of 8:41.2 official. It broke the Olympic record of 8:45.4 made at the 1952 Games by Horace Ashenfelter of the United States.

FELT SLIGHT BUMP

After the race Larsen told newspaper men he felt a slight bump on the shoulder going over a hurdle but lodged no protest.

Brasher, commenting only informally to newspaper men at the time, said the incident happened at the fourth jump from home and that he, Rozsnyoi and Larsen hit the jump almost together.

"I was in the middle," he said, "I was told an umpire had disqualified me for interference. Neither of the other two athletes involved knew of any reason for disqualification. That's why the protest was made."

The jury's finding said:

"The jury considered that Brasher and E. Larsen came into contact with each other but that it was unintentional. Both athletes said that it did not affect their running."

Then the Hungarian contingent immediately swept down on the meeting room of the jury and demanded an audience.

Imre Ungur, assistant chef de mission of Hungary's Olympic team, said Rozsnyoi had told him he definitely had been nudged going over the jump and had been thrown off stride.

"The jury did not even question Rozsnyoi," said Ungur. "... A formal protest now will not do us any good. We will look at movies if they are available. They will show what happened."

After the jury had made known its finding, the Hungarian delegation was curtly told: "The matter is closed. The decision stands."

Chuck Spieser Whips Hoepner

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Chuck Spieser of Detroit enhanced his No. 1 ranking among the lightweights by scoring a second-round knockout over Willie Hoepner of Hamburg, Germany, in their scheduled 10-round bout here Wednesday night. Spieser weighed 172¾. Hoepner 174½.

Spieser, twice a member of the U.S. Olympic boxing team, dropped his German foe the first time with a hard right shortly after the second round began. Hoepner was up at eight. After a few exchanges, Spieser came as with a two-fisted barrage, putting Hoepner flat on his back. He was counted out at 2:29 of the round as he rolled over, vainly trying to get to his feet.

Two Canadian Girls Reach Semi-Finals in Olympic Swims

MELBOURNE (CP) — Two of Canada's three entries reached the semi-finals in the women's 100-metre freestyle tonight but their times were overshadowed by a trio of speedy Australians on the first full day of Olympic swimming competition.

Toronto's Virginia Grant broke the Olympic record with a time of one minute, 3.1 seconds but had to settle for third place in her heat behind Australia's Dawn Fraser, who won it in 1:02.4, tying the world record, and South Africa's Natalie Myburgh.

Lorraine Crapp, Miss Fraser's teammate, was timed in 1:03.4 tonight, winning her heat from Joan Rounsos of the United States and Helen Stewart of Vancouver, who also qualified in 1:07.1.

The third Canadian, Gladys Priestley of Verdun, Que., finished seventh and last. The heat-winner was Faith Leech of Australia in 1:04.8.

In Friday's semi-finals, Miss Grant will go against Miss Crapp and Miss Myburgh in one bracket while Mis Stewart has Miss Fraser and Miss Leech to cope with in the other.

George Park of Hamilton, Canada's lone entry in the men's 100-metre freestyle, failed to qualify for the semi-finals. With 16 berths open, his time of 58.8 ranked 17th.

Other features of the day's events included the winning of Britain's first track gold medal of the 1956 Games by Chris Brasher in the 3,000-metre steeplechase. The award followed his reinstatement as winner after he had been disqualified for interference. An Olympic jury changed the disqualification hours after the race following a British appeal.

With Brasher reinstated as winner over Hungary's Sandor Rozsnyoi, his time of 8:41.2 was chalked up as an Olympic record.

The excitement attending the disqualification recalled the famous Dorando case at the 1908 Games, when Italy's Dorando Pietri was carried across the finish line by friends at the end of the marathon and the judges ruled him out because of the assistance. There was no appeal in that case.

The U.S. increased its lead over Russia in the unofficial point standing. With the day's finals over, the Americans had 318 to 219½ for the Soviet Union.

Canadian contenders had another bad day with Diane Matheson of Moncton and Montreal, Eleanor Haslam of Saskatoon and Maureen Revoy of Regina all eliminated in the women's 200 metres preliminaries.

The high wind disrupted the day's yachting program, and Canadian entries in the Star and Sharpie classes were forced out. But the basketball team won its third straight victory in the consolation tournament, beating Japan 73-69.

The last Canadian survivor in the boxing competition, Ed Beattie of Hamilton, was eliminated tonight in the quarter-finals of the lightweight division.

In other events, Italy won the gold medal in team fencing and Indonesia created a major soccer upset by holding the favored Russians to a scoreless draw which must be replayed Saturday.

The two Canadians in trapshooting competition finished well down in the opening day of that competition. Earl Caldwell of Vancouver was 39th and Vancouver's Frank Opsal, the Canadian singles champion, was 52nd.

The United States Olympic basketball team, held to a seven-point halftime lead by a fighting Russian squad, unleashed giant centre Bill Russell to pull away to an 89-55 victory. He also assured the favored Americans of advancing to the semi-finals of the tournament.

Russell, the big all-American centre, who had been used only in brief stretches as the U.S. squad toyed with its opposition in earlier games, took charge in the second half after the Americans were held to a 39-32 lead at the interval.

The big Negro joined Bob Kenney and Gene Ring in which they accounted for 18 points while the Russians were scoring four.

SENIOR "A" BANTER

What might well be a record attendance for the season is expected in Memorial Arena Friday night for the renewal of the Belleville-Kingston hockey feud.

Down through the years clubs from this city and Kingston have provided fans with a knock 'em down, fast and rugged brand of hockey whenever they met. Most of the time the Limestone City crew had the best of the deal.

Don't be surprised if there is a new ending to the 1956-57 edition of the story. As was mentioned earlier this week, the McFarlands have taken the first and only encounter between the teams this season but the action picks up this weekend when the CKLC and Macs meet in a home and home series.

While the two clubs are tied at present with 14 points each in the league standing, Belleville actually rates second place. They have won six and tied two, as have the Elvers, but while Kingston have dropped seven games, Guidolin's boys have lost but five. This is the same number of losses as the front-running Whitby Dunlops have absorbed.

Should the McFarlands pick up a pair of wins Friday and Saturday the picture will be bright. They have played less games than every club in the grouping with the exception of Ottawa. Belleville has played 13 games, Whitby and Pembroke 16, Kingston 15 and Cornwall 14. Ottawa Canadiens, who play only a 28-game schedule, have participated in seven.

Getting back to the weekend series, we find at least one of the Macs' three injured players returning to action, Willie Menard. It was announced yesterday, will dress for Friday's game here. Real Larouche has another two weeks off the ice with a double-fracture of his jaw while Rene St. Hilaire should be back shortly. It was understood at first that St. Hilaire would see action against Kingston but the latest word is that he may sit out another game or two to insure complete recovery from the deep ankle cut.

The Belleville fans will not recognize too many of the Kingston faces. Many of the old standbys, George McGregor, Ted Nicholson, Tommy Goodfellow, Ken Johnson and a few others are no longer in uniform. Joe Levandoski will also be absent for the series. The hard-hitting defenceman will be out for some time with a leg injury.

Henri Therrien, bête of the McFarlands, will be among the Elcees' front troops with other newcomers. Frank Howarth, Jerry Moore, Frank Chiarelli, Pentti Hiironen and Al Larose. Donny Murray is still picking up the points along with Don Bellringer, Hank Macey, Ted Toppazzini and a few others. Bert Brooks will guard the twine.

All in all it looks like a terrific game and a crowd to match at 9.00 p.m. tomorrow night. Many of these fans will likely trek to Kingston on Saturday evening as they did on the Macs' last trip east. Incidentally the Memorial Centre crowd there when Belleville downed the CKLCs was a record attendance for the year.

And the boys must have retained their peak of condition during the past week since Mr. Guidolin has worked them hard in practice every day.

ANOTHER LOUD NOISE

It would seem that Bus. Gagnon, Whitby playing coach, has been making rather loud noises up Pembroke way. Could be that he's been listening to his manager too much.

Al Sheehan, sports editor of the Pembroke Observer, commented widely on the Kings 9-5 victory over the Dunlops. And why not after Blair had said earlier that Pembroke would be lucky to beat the Dunlops all year. Sheehan gave his impressions of what Blair might have told goalie Jack Donlevy between periods after the Kings had put eight pucks behind him in two periods.

Then Sheehan continued: "Playing-coach Bus Gagnon of the Dunlops is the vicious type. He handed out several threats during the game here Saturday night. Told the timekeeper he would cut his head off and warned the Kings' Lorne Woods he would break his arm before the season ended. Gagnon looks vicious anyway."

That's pretty strong talk in any man's league, but there is always the possibility Mr. Gagnon got carried away in the heat of battle.

However, it was not during action that Mr. Gagnon made an equally uncalled for remark here in Belleville several weeks ago. While obtaining the lineups in the Whitby dressing room prior to their second game of the season here, a member of this newspaper heard a member of the Whitby team announce that Bill Reason would referee the game that night. Gagnon quickly stated to everyone within hearing range, "Watch me cut that guy up tonight."

Reason was not the night's official and no incident took place. Reason was the referee here two weeks prior, however, when the big brawl took place. Gagnon had a major and two minor penalties in that game, a light sentence in accordance to what several of the other boys received.

It will be interesting to watch and see if Gagnon lives up to his loud talk. Somehow the idea that the other players in the league or the officials are frightened does not jell with this department.

* * *

While still on hockey, we have received several and remarks about the attendance for that Junior "B" game here last Tuesday night. It must have been less than 100.

True, the boys are not world-beaters but they produce a fine brand of hockey for a club that has played only three games together, and won all three at that.

Sponsor Charles Lamberi, manager Mel Richards and coach Speedy St. Louis are doing their best but a little more fan support would make the task easier. The Lamberis practice tonight at 10.00, and next see action here on Tuesday when Kingston will provide the opposition.

St. Louis expects the boys to play better hockey than they did Tuesday. He knows they must to best the Kingston and Queen's teams.

Blues' Jinx Over Beantowners Apparently as Good as Ever; Dean Prentice Gets Winner

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers may be off to a slow start in the National Hockey League race but they are not having much trouble against the league-leading Boston Bruins.

The Blueshirts came up with a third-period goal Wednesday night to edge Bruins 2-1 and move into fourth place in the league race ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

It was the only engagement of the night and the third time in six games against Bruins that Rangers had emerged victorious. Bruins have won two games and tied a third against New York.

Dean Prentice's goal early in the final period provided the margin at Boston Garden. 8,007 fans in New York Wednesday night.

Both teams failed to score in the first period.

Andy Bathgate sent Rangers into a 1-0 lead at 4:02 of the second period when he fired a hard drive behind Boston goaltender Terry Sawchuk. Right winger Jerry Toppazzini tied the game at 16:36 on a pass from Fleming Mackell.

Prentice's goal came on a three-man rush with Larry Popein and Bruce Cline at 2:46 of the windup session. New York goaltender Lorne Worsley played one of his better games. He made 38 stops, Sawchuk 34.

Three games are scheduled tonight. Rangers meet the second-place Red Wings in Detroit, Leafs go against the third-spot Canadiens in Montreal and Bruins take on the last-place Black Hawks at Chicago.

Leafs won't be in top shape when they meet Canadiens. They left Toronto Wednesday night without defencemen Jim Morrison and Jim Thomson. Both suffered groin injuries in practice Wednesday and are expected to be out for a week.

Morrison and Thomson joined defenceman Hugh Bolton and right winger George Armstrong on the injury list. Bolton has a broken leg and may be lost for the season. Armstrong is expected to be out for another month with pulled knee ligaments.

Leafs called up defenceman Bobby Baun of Rochester American of the American Hockey League and right winger Ken Girard from Toronto Marlboros, their farm club in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A, to help them. It will be Girard's first NHL game.

Leafs will have right winger Brich Cullin back in the lineup. He missed two games with a shoulder bone.

At Montreal, Bernard (Boom Boom Geoffrion, right winger for the Canadiens, missed practices Tuesday and Wednesday but should be in the lineup when they meet Leafs. Geoffrion underwent an elbow operation three weeks ago. At a workout Monday he fell on the ice, bruising it slightly.

Amateur Athletic Federation Ratifies 30 World Records

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—The International Amateur Athletic Federation today ratified more than 30 world records set in track and field events throughout the world during 1955 and 1958.

Among the records ratified were the times clocked by American sprinters Willie Williams and Ira Murchison in the 100-metre dash at an international military track and field meet in Berlin last summer.

Williams and Murchison each were timed 10.1 seconds in successive heats, knocking one-tenth of a second off the record set by Jesse Owens in 1936.

SPRINTERS LISTED

Two other American sprinters, Lennox King and Dave Sime, were credited with world record time of 9.2 seconds in the 100-yard dash. Oddly enough, neither qualified for the 100-metres in the Olympic Games.

Sime's 220-yard time of 20 seconds flat set last June was recognized, as was his mark of 22.2 for the 220-yard low hurdles.

Also approved were times of 49.3 for the 440 yards by Jim Lea of Modesto, Calif., and 45.2 for the 400-metres by Lou Jones of New Rochelle, N.Y., and a mark of 13.4 by Jack Davis of the U.S. for the 110-metre high hurdles. Also approved was the 400-metre hurdles record of 49.5 by Glenn Davis of the U.S. at the U.S Olympic tryouts.

The 3,000-metre record of 7:52.8 made by Britain's Gordon Pirie was approved.

OTHER MARKS

Others approved:

High Jump—seven feet, one-half inch, by Charles Dumas of Los Angeles.

Shot Put—62 feet, 6¼ inches, by Parry O'Brien of California. O'Brien had a better mark — 63 feet, two inches—low but late to be considered, by the federation this year.

Ski Miles—27:43.8, by Sandor Ibaros of Hungary.

1,500 Metres—3:40.6, by Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary.

10 Ski Marches—78:42.8 by Sandor Ibaros, Hungary.

3,000 - Metre Steeplechase—8:35.6, by Sandor Rozsnyal, Hungary.

Relay 4x200—1:24, by U.S. national team.

Relay 4x800—7:15.8, by Belgian national team.

Hop, Step and Jump—54 feet, 9-¾ inches, by A. F. da Silva of Brazil.

Javelin Throw—271 feet, 5½ inches, by Janusz Sidlo, Poland.

Hammer Throw—217 feet, nine inches, by Mikhail Krivonosov, Russia.

Women's records approved:

220 Yards— 45.8 seconds, by East Germany's team.

Relay 4x110 Yards—1:36.4, by same East German team.

Relay 4x100 Metres — 45.2, by Russian team.

Relay 4x200 Metres—1:36.4, by same East German team.

High Jump — Five feet, 2⅝ inches, by Iolanda Balas, Romania.

Broad Jump—20 feet, 9⅝ inches, by Elzbieta Dunska - Krzeskinska, Poland.

Players Decline In Intercounty

WATERLOO (CP) — Player registrations in the Intercounty Baseball Association have declined almost 100 in 1955 to 381 in 1958, Goldie Whitfield of St. Thomas, association secretary, said today.

He told the association annual meeting that the actual number of teams in Intercounty competition dropped by seven to 37. President Ernie Reeve of Galt said it had been a "difficult season."

A bright note in the annual report was from the five - team junior A series which enjoyed its best competition for some time.

Royals Get Several Players In Big Deal

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the International League acquired seven pitchers, six infielders and two outfielders during the last two weeks in transactions announced Wednesday.

The club released pitchers Glenn Mickens, Dave Cole, Bob Hollman, John Ceplo, Bill Nishita and Harold Breeden to St. Paul Saints of the American Association and sold first baseman Earl York and outfielder Harvey Coomber to the Saints.

The players acquired are pitchers Connie Grob, William George, Robert Wegner, George Barker, Raymond Daviault, Joseph Gusbanas and James Peterson; infielders Robert Aspromonte, Lacey Curry, Martin Devlin, Richard Tracewski, Norman Larker and Lyle Sheets and outfielders James Frey and Eugene Hurych.

Bears Defeat Indians 3-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hockey fans at Pittsburgh may be sorry their entry in the American Hockey League folded up after last season but they can find some solace in the fact that it has helped to improve the outlook of followers of Hershey Bears.

Among the players the Bears acquired from the Hornets is Willie Marshall, a 45-goal man who is giving some needed punch to an attack which last season left Hershey in fifth place in goal output and then standing.

Marshall, 24-year-old forward from Kirkland Lake, Ont., scored the winning goal and assisted on another as the Bears defeated the Indians 3-2 in Springfield Wednesday night.

The win hoisted Hershey back into a first-place tie with Providence Reds. Marshall, now fourth in the point-getters, notched his 19th goal and 10th assist in 18 games.

Other Hershey scorers were Arnie Kullman, 28-year-old centre from Winnipeg who now is within 10 points of 500 in nine seasons, and Otis O'Brien, 26-year-old wing from St. Catharines, who is nearing the 100-goal mark in his sixth AHL season.

Springfield scorers were Harry Pidhirny, Toronto born centre; and Vic Ashbourne, left wing from Sudbury.

The game was the only one scheduled.

Senior A Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener — Waterloo Dutchmen got the goal word Wednesday that new defence strength was in prospect, and promptly walloped Owen Sound Mercurys 13-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A match.

Ron Howell, speedy Hamilton Tiger-Cat backfielder, hopes to join the Dutchmen in two weeks if a broken ankle which kept him out of Big Four Union football this year has healed sufficiently. But the Dutchies didn't wait for the grid star's advent to start clinching.

The scoring show, at the expense of the Western division's cellar-tenant Meres, shot Kitchener into third place, ahead of the idle Chatham Maroons. Windsor Bulldogs lead the league with 20 points.

Stratford Indians are second with 19, Dutchies have 16 and Chatham 15. Owen Sound trails with nine points in 17 games.

In the only other senior action in the province, Timmins Flyers handed Athlit Eskimos their third straight Provincial Senior A setback defeat, edging Eskies 7-6 in overtime.

Arn Smith scored two of the Mercs' three goals, Ed Lentiti the other.

Howell, whose signing with the Dutchmen was disclosed Wednesday, did not play hockey last season. The year before he was a defence star with the Guelph Biltmores Junior A team. The Hamilton football club has no objection to him playing hockey provided the club does not have him on a clean bill of health.

Howell said Dutchmen won out over Stratford Indians for his services because Kitchener "is closer to home and it's handier for my parents to see the games."

"Another contributing factor," he said, "is that Bobby Bauer coaches them, and I feel I can learn something from him."

The grid ace is allowed to play hockey so long as it doesn't interfere with his football. He turned down an offer from New York Rangers of the NHL last year.

At Timmins, Walter Para had three goals for Flyers, and Johnny Young, Carmen Merritt, Eric Prentice and Florio Guards one each.

Moe Chevrefils, Jerry Labelle, Doug Jackson and Brent Trestail, Frank Festarini and Chick Cecchini scored for Athlit.

In senior action tonight, Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds visit North Bay Trappers in Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

Larks Seek Line Coach

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes are in the market for a line coach to help head coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker win the Big Four Football League team next season, club president Leo Dandurand announced Wednesday night.

Dandurand announced signing of Walker's assistant, backfield coach Jimmy Dunn, for 1957. Walker will look over prospective line-coach candidates on a tour of the south beginning this weekend.

Eleven of 12 imports who finished the season with the team have been invited back for tryouts again next year. The 12th, tackle Tex Coulter, announced his retirement Monday.

Junior Named Western MVP

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Bill Britton, 21-year-old junior halfback of London, Wednesday night was named winner of the George McCullagh Trophy as the most valuable player on the University of Western Ontario Mustangs football team this season. He was the only Mustangs picked for the 1956 Intercollegiate all-star squad.

Named most valuable player on the intermediate Colts was Paul Dean, 20, from Sudbury. He was awarded the Dr. Archie Gilbraith Memorial Trophy.

John Girvin, 22-year-old medical student from Highland Park, Mich., was chosen 1957 Mustangs captain. He was an end on this year's squad.

Ted Kennedy Comeback Meets With Approval

TORONTO (CP)—For National Hockey League general managers are reported to have said they will approve the comeback of centre Ted Kennedy with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Kennedy, on the voluntary retired list after quitting Leafs in 1955, turned out for practice this week and said he will attempt a comeback "if it will help the club."

Kennedy, who starred with the Leafs 12 seasons, will need unanimous support of the five other NHL clubs. League regulations state that a player must remain on the voluntary retired list for at least a year before being reinstated. Kennedy was only placed on the list last April.

However, NHL President Clarence Campbell has said he doesn't "foresee any difficulty" in having Kennedy reinstated.

General managers Muzz Patrick of New York Rangers, Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens, Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings and Jimmy Ivan of Chicago Black Hawks say they will back Kennedy's return. Boston Bruin officials have not yet commented.

Kerby Farrell Succeeds Lopez As Manager Cleveland Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pleasure teasing his face into an almost constant grin, Kerby Farrell emerged in public Wednesday night as the new manager of Cleveland Indians.

So far as could be learned from him or Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg, Farrell took the job with no definite understanding on either the length of his contract or his salary.

"All I wanted was the chance to manage a big league team, and this was it," said the 43-year-old native of Tennessee who piloted Indianapolis Indians to baseball's little world series championship last fall.

Greenberg's response to a question about Farrell's contract was indirect.

"The length of the contract's not the important thing. We wanted Kerby. We think he's the man. We're glad to have him."

A common guess is that Farrell will get about $25,000 in his first year as the 16th manager of the Indians.

His succession to Al Lopez, who quit the Indians last September and later was hired to manage Chicago White Sox, was formally announced at a press conference. No one was surprised.

Farrell was the first self-declared candidate when Lopez quit after six seasons. And since Greenberg said several weeks ago that Leo Durocher would not take over the Indians, Farrell's has been about the only name mentioned.

As Cleveland manager, Farrell becomes head of a club that finished second to New York Yankees in the American League last season and was somewhat of a disappointment to its management and fans.

Indianapolis last season won the American Association pennant and swept the little world series from Rochester in four games.

AT THE PARK — Glenn Ford portrays a Texas cowpoke who finds love and adventure in Brazil in "The Americano," Robert Bullman-RKO Technicolor production, filmed largely in South America, opening tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program a top out-door attraction "Great Day In The Morning", in Supercope and Technicolor and having in ties Belleville showing starring Virginia Mayo, Robert Stack and Ruth Roman.

AT THE McCARTHY — Rory Calhoun and Dolores Donlon walk through the exotic streets of Hong Kong where much of "Flight To Hong Kong" was filmed. The picture, a United Artists release opens Friday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre and on the stage in person New York's "Holiday in Harlem", Rock 'N Roll Revue starring Mr. Rock 'N Roll himself "Guitar" Kimbel, Sepia's Elvis Presley.

AT THE BELLE — Emotions run high as Betty Lou Keim sees her parents, Ginger Rogers and Michael Rennie, for the first time in eight years in this dramatic scene from the CinemaScope production "Teenage Rebel" opening today at the Belle Theatre. The Edmund Goulding production for Twentieth Century-Fox also stars Warren Berlinger and Diana Jergens. It is based on Edith Sommer's Broadway hit play "A Roomful of Roses."

'Newk' Seeks Salary Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Newcombe was all set today to argue his case for a sizeable salary increase, having added the Cy Young memorial award to the National League's most valuable player prize.

The huge Brooklyn righthander, slated to hold a salary conference with Dodger vice-president E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi this afternoon, was honored Wednesday for the second time in little over a week when he became the first winner of the annual award given to the outstanding pitcher of both major leagues.

The latest accolade is awarded in the memory of Denton (Cy) Young, the hall of fame pitcher who won an incredible 511 major league games.

Last Nov. 20 Newcombe was voted his league's MVP award.

Newcombe received 10 of the 16 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, consisting of representatives of each of the 16 big league clubs. Sal Maglie, Don's pitching mate with the Dodgers, was runner-up with four votes. One vote each was given to southpaws Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves and Ed (Whitey) Ford of New York Yankees.

Quebec League

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Shawinigan Falls Cataracts scored three times in the third period and went on to grab a 6-4 overtime victory over Trois-Rivieres Lions Wednesday night.

Dick Wray had two goals, including the winning tally after 50 seconds of overtime. His first goal had tied the count at 3-3.

The triumph advanced the Cataracts into a fourth-place tie with the Lions.

Lions later entered a protest because Gaetan Desruesult, who played goal for the winners after goaltender Bob Perreault was hurt in the second period, was not on the roster filed with the referee before the game.

Duck Hunters Are Fined

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — W. H. Pringle of Pierre, president of the Izaak Walton League of America, has demanded the resignation of Emil Ries Tuttle of Des Moines, Ia., as national director.

Tuttle and four other Des Moines men pleaded guilty Tuesday in Fargo, N.D., federal court to bringing more than 10 ducks each into the United States from Canada. All were fined and placed on probation.

SPORT IN BRIEF

MORE RACING

WINNIPEG (CP)—There will be 71 days of thoroughbred horse racing in Alberta and Saskatchewan in 1957, officials of the R. James Speers Corporation announced today. This is 17 days less than in 1956 as Winnipeg will not be on the circuit. Polo Park there is being torn down to make way for a shopping centre.

NORWICH LOSER

LONDON (Reuters) — Southampton defeated Norwich 3-0 in a Football Association Cup soccer match Wednesday night. The game had been postponed from Sept. 26.

HELP FOR ROCHESTER

MONTREAL (CP) — Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec Hockey League have sent Albert Langlois to the cellar-dwelling Rochester Americans to bolster the American League club's defence, and Montreal Royals have swapped defenceman Leo Amadio for Shawinigan Falls rearguard Ernie Roche.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, November 30, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fine influences should encourage you to put forth extra effort. Progress may not be apparent immediately but a firm framework for future action is in order. Concentrate on completing unfinished matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Be cautious about financial dealings, shopping, making drastic changes. Evaluate well before reaching decisions. Don't neglect little things of importance. Avoid a tendency to strain.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Profit by the advice of worthy elders. Absorb the lessons that experience teaches. Review the past week so as to eliminate making the same mistakes. Don't tackle more than you can reasonably handle.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Mild indications generally, but Mars' aspect is now favorable and bespeaks aggressiveness, vigorous mental activity. Keep emotions under control. Benefits likely.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A day for sensible caution in finances, in assuming added responsibilities. However, don't shirk duties. Keep usefully occupied.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't overload yourself with tasks or the burdens of others. Familiar duties, household affairs can benefit under your clever management. Don't worry if you cannot have all you aimed for.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A better day than you may realize at first glance. Be look well, and think well before making decisions or criticizing.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Hardy activities under fine Mars aspect, and Saturn's position also indicates an auspicious day if you use common sense and are amenable to useful suggestions. You can make progress.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This may not be a money-making day in the sense that immediate returns will accrue from investments, spending, contracts. But it is a time for progressive advancement through careful management.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Similar indications to Scorpio now. Don't be hurried in important decisions and changes but do not fear to try new, if valuable, improvements. Finish incompleted tasks, home work.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Postpone decisions, contemplated changes and other moves until sure you are on the right track. Shortcut red tape and get down to the very heart of activity.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Day is receptive to smart plans and a quick but sensible course of action in your work and in any worthwhile undertaking in which you must, should take part. Be ambitious, reasonable.

You born today are active, alert, enthusiastic, very talented and constructive; versatile, ambitious, industrious; can be a money-maker. Do not undertake too much at one time. Rather distribute your energies to get the most from your abilities. You would make an excellent business manager, executive; are adept at skilled professions. We find born this day women in every phase of industry born under Sagittarius. Cultivate your talents for writing, promoting, advertising. Birthdate: Mark Twain, author; wit; Sir Winston Churchill, author, statesman; Jonathan Swift, Irish satirist.

SENATE

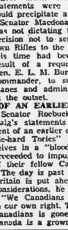
DRAWS REPLY

Senator Haig's speech drew an immediate republican, Progressive-Conservative, Macdonald, government leader, and from Opposition Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario). Senator Macdonald said if Canada and other Western nations had followed the course indicated by Senator Haig, Parliament would not now be meeting in a peaceful special session. Instead "we would have been involved in a world war."

Senator Roebuck regretted Senator Haig's remarks and said the Winnipeg senator would live to regret them. He only transport planes and administrative troops at the outset.

"OF THE EARLIER DAY"

Senator Roebuck said Senator Haig's statistics were reminiscent of an earlier day when "little dis-hard Tories" wrapped themselves in a "blood-red flag" and proceeded to impugn the integrity of their fellow Canadians.



The day is past when loyalty to Britain is put ahead of all other considerations, he said.

"We Canadians are Canadians in our own right. The day of little Canadians is gone by and today Canada is a grown-up nation."

Fire Damage At Ogdensburg Set at $1,500,000

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP)— Fire believed caused by a match or cigaret flipped into a dell counter in a store Wednesday caused damage of $1,500,000 damage.

The flames swept the J. J. Newberry store, virtually levelling the four-storey structure, and spread to adjoining Rosenbloom's and other stores.

Firemen from Brockville, Ont., aided in the battle.

Scores of customers who had jammed the Newberry store in a pre-Christmas shopping rush were led from the store by sales girls. No one was injured.

SPREAD TO WOOLWORTH'S

The flames spread to the adjacent four-storey F. W. Woolworth Company store; Two other buildings housing department stores and a ladies wear store also were heavily damaged by smoke and water.

Ald. James S. Graham, chairman of the fire department committee, said the loss would reach $1,500,000. Previously, Edward Charron, Newberry company manager, had placed the loss in that store at $500,000. He said that more than $250,000 in stock was destroyed.

James Schreiber, an assistant Newberry manager, said the fire broke out on the dell counter in the store's toyland on the second floor. Schreiber said he and an employe, Charles Hall, attempted to extinguish the flames but were unsuccessful.

Chevrier May Return to Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Citizen says Hon. Lionel Chevrier, chairman of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, may leave his post within six months and return to the federal cabinet.

"I can say nothing," commented Mr. Chevrier, who resigned as transport minister in 1954 to become the first president of the authority."

The Citizen says "reports are that Mr. Chevrier probably will run as a Liberal candidate in some Montreal riding in the federal election next June.

"In such an event, the 53-year-old Mr. Chevrier likely would rejoin the St. Laurent cabinet before the election."

The Seaway Authority president was transport minister from 1945 to 1954 and sat in the Commons as Liberal member for Stormont, which includes his home city of Cornwall, a St. Lawrence seaway town, from 1935 to 1954.

MAY BE SPLIT

The Ottawa newspaper says that for some time there has been "general agreement" that the transport portfolio is too heavy for a single cabinet minister and may be split into two departments.

One would deal with communications, including the CNR, the air transport board and the Canadian Overseas Communications. The other would embrace the national harbors board, canals, and the Seaway Authority.

"Mr. Chevrier presumably, would be the minister of communications," the newspaper says.

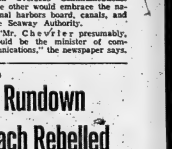
Nervous, Tired, Rundown Headache, Stomach Rebelled



Also Suffered from Backache.
Praises Syntona for "Grand Relief".

Mr. L. E. Zimmer, 6 Wellington Street, Stratford, Ontario, is glad to pass his experience along to others, because he knows what it means to get relief from suffering that has kept him feeling miserable.

2 Years Suffering

"The past two years I have been troubled with nervous headaches and really upset stomach that have caused me a lot of trouble and suffering. My food would not digest properly, but fermented, causing awful gas and heartburn. The headaches would get so severe, my nerves would be on edge and my whole body nervous. I would be ill on edge. I was also troubled with backache pains in my legs and tired, rundown feeling.

"But, this is changed since I've been taking Syntona and I certainly have great respect for this medicine.

I enjoy my meals without trouble after breakfast. My backache disappeared, my nerves are better, my color is improved, I sleep better at night and have more energy throughout the day."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dobbs The Druggist.

Rebekahs Serve Turkey Dinner To Federation

STIRLING—On Thursday evening, November 22, the officers of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, under the leadership of Miss Mary Hulin, Noble Grand, served a turkey dinner to over 40 guests at the lodge dining hall with Mrs. Hiram Mumby as convener.

The group were the Federation of Women Teachers' convention of Hastings No. 3 Inspectorate, (formerly called Centre Hastings).

The tables were decorated in a Christmas theme and following the dinner Mrs. Burton Morton voiced thanks for the appetizing meal and the Noble Grand replied.

The group then repaired to the lodge hall upstairs where a short program of reports and music was given under the direction of the president, Mrs. Bruce Bell. This was the regular dinner meeting held annually.

The delegates, Mrs. R. B. Bell, and Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn, gave their reports of the 38th meeting held in Toronto of the Federation Women Teachers' Association of Ontario.

Mrs. Alta Nicholson, Bannockburn and Mrs. E. Campion, Marmora, gave reports of the fall conference held at Mountain Grove.

Miss Laurene Connor, Madoc, gave a report of the November meeting of the Ontario Curricular Association Development based on "The Gifted Child."

During the evening, piano duets were given by two of the music directors, Miss Barbara Meiklejohn, Marmora, and Miss Betty McConnell, Stirling, R.R. 3.

Miss Heather Rodgers, Stirling, contributed two vocal duets.

Madoc

MADOC — Madoc Girl Guides attended morning service in the Trinity United Church on Sunday, accompanied by their leaders, Captain Mrs. Arbic, Lieut. Vera Hill and District Commissioner, Mrs. W. Bateman.

In a short service the Rev. J. F. Britain Tells U.S. Troops Will Leave By Christmas

France Reported Planning Similar Announcement

LONDON (CP)—Diplomatic officials said tonight Britain has advised the United States that most British troops will be withdrawn from Egypt by Christmas. France was understood to be planning a parallel announcement.

News of the planned British and French moves came after Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd held emergency talks in London with French Premier Maurice Chrisson Pineau to work out details.

Simultaneously Washington announced that the American government was ordering into operation its emergency program to counter a looming oil famine in Western Europe. This emergency plan would supply Western Europe with up to 1,100,000 barrels of oil daily.

FEW CONDITIONS

Britain and France got down to the task of settling off their Egyptian intervention by organizing a prompt "phased" withdrawal of their forces from the Suez Canada zone with few or no conditions.

Friend and foe in London moved with Lloyd after holding last minute talks with French government officials in Paris.

News of the planned evacuation and cessation of military action helped boost prices on the London stock exchange for the first time in two weeks.

Newspapers carrying huge headlines saying "Troops Out" were on the streets a few hours before French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau arrived for talks with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. The conference was expected to decide when and in what circumstances the 25,000 Anglo-French troops will be withdrawn from Egyptian territory, as demanded by the United Nations.

There was widespread publication this morning of reports that the British government had decided to begin the withdrawal within two weeks. General political commentators forecast that most, if not all, the British troops will be out of Egypt by Christmas.

Others said that the pattern of withdrawal would not be settled until today's meeting. They noted French apprehensions about quitting Port Said without effective guarantees about the future operation of the Suez Canal.

When the French foreign minister arrived at London airport, he said he would make no statement until talks had been completed his talks here.

DISCUSS SYRIA

Pineau also will discuss the reported buildup of Soviet arms in Syria, hardly before Pineau's arrival from Paris, Lloyd discussed the Syrian problem at lunch with acting Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden Menderes.

The Turkish leader, who arrived here from Paris Thursday, is reported deeply concerned about Soviet penetration in Syria, with whom Turkey has a common frontier of hundreds of miles.

Moscow radio this morning reviewed Soviet and Arab opinion that the Western powers, including the United States, are "inciting" Turkey to attack Syria.

The British government has pledged itself to a policy of a "phased withdrawal" of its troops from the Suez Canal Zone. The first force there has reached "effective" strength. The idea is that as UN troops take up stations, British and French will move out.

But France seemed ready to insist on much tougher conditions for withdrawal than Lloyd thinks feasible in the face of adverse world opinion.

The French are believed to be insistent that mass troop withdrawal must be preceded by effective guarantees that the Suez Canal will be open to all forms of shipping without delay or discrimination, and that it will not continue under the sole control of Egypt.

At a parliamentary foreign affairs committee meeting a late Thursday night, a group of 30 to 40 members who oppose any withdrawal from the canal zone were reported to have questioned Lloyd sharply. Anthony Nutting, however, was said to have favored supporting the government's steps.

PAPERS MARKET

Two influential newspapers, which are among Prime Minister Eden's strongest supporters, were sharply today over the wisdom of a quick withdrawal.

The British and French governments have left themselves "completely exposed" to the charge of their troops from Port Said," comment The Times.

The Daily Telegraph dissents in an editorial saying, "Though we are committed to withdrawal in favor of an 'effective' United Nations force, international force is no substitute for fact; and everybody can see that the force has neither the strength nor the mandate to be effective."

First Oil Hauled Around Cape Now in Britain

LONDON (AP)—The first Middle East oil to be hauled around the Cape of Good Hope since the closing of the Suez Canal reached Britain Thursday. The first tanker to reach Europe since the canal was closed arrived at Marseilles last Friday.

The tanker Athinia Luanos unloaded 20,000 tons of crude oil after taking 30 days to make the trip from Kuwait. The trip from the Persian Gulf to Europe via the canal usually took from 20 to 30 days.

Meanwhile the gasoline shortage became the biggest topic of conversation in Britain today, which starts rationing Dec. 17.

Industry is already affected. At least two big automobile manufacturers have cut the work week. There is long queues at the gas envelopes of thousands.

Even the carefully controlled gasoline will cost three pence more a gallon by Christmas. This would be 36 cents or more a gallon for high test.

Youth Hanged For Slaying Of His Aunt

MONTREAL (CP) — Edmond Gagne, 21, died on the gallows at Bordeaux jail here early today for the gruesome murder of his aunt in her Bastoville, Que., home in 1955.

Gagne showed no emotion as he mounted the gallows shortly after midnight. He had received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Federal cabinet had announced Thursday it would not interfere with the execution despite a plea for commutation by the youth's lawyer.

Gagne was convicted Dec. 1, 1955, of the murder of Mrs. Irene Ouellet-Thibodeau, 50, whose body was found Aug. 18, 1955, by her husband. Ludger, when he returned from a week-long fishing trip.

Britain Feeling Crippling Effects Of Suez Closing and Oil Shortage

LONDON (AP) — Britain felt more fully today the crippling effects of the closing of the Suez Canal and the stoppage of oil from the Middle East.

Oil and its byproducts—the life blood of industry and transportbecame harder to get, and there were hints a gallon of gasoline might cost more than 70 cents by Christmas against today's quotation of 56-58 cents.

First industry to feel the pinch was the making of automobiles. Ford Motor Company put 9,000 employees on a four-day week beginning next Monday.

The makers of Rolls Royces cut out overtime. The manufacturers of Jaguars announced earlier that production would have to go on an abbreviated work week.

Although official gasoline rationing does not begin until Dec. 17, Britons have been hoarding gasoline cans to one or two gallons each.

The first of a big gasoline truck reported a line of nearly 100 cars followed him, hoping by keeping on his tail to spot a filling station with plenty of gas. Many garages and stables that closed for a few days, or stayed open only a few hours.

Cuts of 25 per cent in fuel oil for heating and industry have been contemplated, and the government has urged all factories usunt oil to convert to coal where possible.

Sir Norman Kipping, director-general of the Federation of British industries, told manufacturers today there may have to be bigger cuts in oil consumption.

If foreign competitors take advantage of our plight things may be hard for British industry," he said.

In Paris, the roar of traffic was stilled almost completely today as the full effect of gasoline rationing hit French motorists.

Even the city looks like a vast open air garage, with thousands of automobiles parked on the side of the streets.

The French cabinet Tuesday ordered a gasoline ration ranging from about five gallons to nearly 20 gallons a month, depending on the size of the car. Most Frenchmen own cars smaller than 120 miles on this. But it still means much more walking or bicycling.

Special tickets were given to foreign visitors. Foreign tourists stranded along the French Riviera by the past week's shortage They can buy just enough gas to get them to the frontiers. Here and there farmers dug out old charcoal-burning units which kept their vehicle moving during the war. They chug along the straight, poplar-lined roads of France giving off clouds of blue smoke.

U.S. GOVERNMENT ACTS TO SUPPLY OIL TO EUROPE

Million Barrels Daily Will Be Provided

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today ordered into effect its emergency program to supply Western Europe with up to 1,100,000 barrels of oil daily.

Mobilization director Arthur S. Flemming asked Interior Secretary Fred Seaton to activate the industry's Middle East emergency committee.

This committee representing 15 oil companies has standby plans to pool production, distribution and tanker facilities for an effort to raise the European petroleum crisis resulting from blockage of the Suez Canal.

Most European countries already have gone under voluntary or compulsory gasoline rationing while this government withheld action—thereby exerting pressure on Britain and France to withdraw their troops from Egypt.

Flemming's action implied, but did not state, that the United States has obtained what it considers sufficient assurances from the French and British governments that they will support withdrawal, leaving the United Nations free to attend to stabilize conditions in Egypt.

Even with the U.S. effort, there will be a substantial deficit of about 20 per cent in Western Europe this winter, officials said, unless the canal and disrupted pipelines to the Mediterranean are restored in good time.

Lenore Bicknell Acquitted on Murder Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Lenore Bicknell, 20-year-old red-haired model, was acquitted Thursday night by an all-male jury of a charge of murder in the shooting death of her husband seven months ago.

The jury, instructed by Mr. Justice Wilfrid Judson in a decision of "murder or nothing," took only 70 minutes to reach a verdict of not guilty.

Bruce Bicknell, 22, a mechanic, was killed by a .30-30-calibre rifle bullet in his mother's home in January, 1956. Police said his death down as accidental but last July Mrs. Bicknell admitted to them and made a written statement about the shooting.

REPORTERS STATEMENT

Mrs. Bicknell's repudiation of the statement was corroborated in the Toronto psychiatrist, Dr. Rose Koeppe.

Dr. Koeppe said that confession was to a suicidal frame of mind caused by Mrs. Bicknell's pregnancy and quarrels with her boy friend. Mrs. Bicknell gave birth to a child a few weeks ago while in custody.

After the verdict, Mr. Justice Judson told the young widow: "There has been an absence of worthwhile evidence that you have been doing too much running around. I suggest for your own peace and happiness you settle down."

GRANTS FOR FORESTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal grants totalling $500,000 to help the provinces expand their forest fire protection services in the 1956-58 fiscal year were announced Thursday. The money will be distributed among provinces signing forest agreements with the federal government.

U.K. SOLDIERS HAPPY TO HEAR THEY'RE LEAVING SUEZ

British soldiers of the Royal West Kent Regiment carry their bags and rifles as they prepare to leave on lorries for the quay at Port Said to board the troopship for the journey back to Britain. They were among the first British soldiers to leave the Suez canal zone after United Nations emergency forces took over. A British military spokesman said that all British troops would be evacuated from Egypt "in two or three weeks" if enough ships were on hand. (Central Press Canadian).

U.S. Reaffirms Its Backing For Baghdad Pact Countries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States gave evidence today of extending every possible support to the anti-Communist Baghdad pact in the Middle East short of actually becoming a member, too.

A reaffirmation of American backing for the Middle East countries in the alliance, issued late Thursday, was attributed to a desire to reassure the hard-pressed government of Iraq and to warn Russia anew of American concern for the pact members.

The alliance is composed of Britain, Iraq, Turkey, Iran and Britain. But Iraq has refused to participate in any connection with Britain since the British attack on Egypt. As a result, the Baghdad group has been denied the active association of its most powerful ally.

Concern over the future of the Middle East includes an official belief that Russia is deliberately embarked on a campaign of troublemaking with the eventual aim of dominating the region.

This view was voiced Thursday night by a senior state department official a few hours after the department had declared support for the Middle Eastern members of the Baghdad alliance.

An threat to the territorial integrity or political independence of the members," the statement said, "is viewed by the United States with the utmost gravity."

It is understood here that this assurance was directed particularly to Iraq which in recent days has been the target of accusations by leaders in neighboring Syria. Syria is under the influence of a pro-red pro-Soviet army officers. This group is believed to be aiming at the overthrow of the Iraqi government of Prime Minister Nuri Said.

Nuri is reported to have been urging the United States to join the Baghdad pact. The issue of membership, however, is tied up with the problem of Arab hostility to Israel and the related issue of solidarity among states in the Arab League.

Saudi Arabia, a close friend of the United States, has opposed the U.S. joining the Baghdad group. This and other considerations make U.S. membership unlikely in the foreseeable future.

Packers' Council Challenged to Back up Charges

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture Thursday challenged the Meat Packers Council to back up its charges that the Ontario hog marketing co-operative is not selling hogs to the highest bidders.

A members' meeting of the federation passed a resolution to request the packers' council "to forward to the federation office without delay any and all evidence that would indicate an instance, or instances when the hog marketing board may have failed to sell hogs to the highest bidder."

The members noted that the packers' council had given no assurance that it would comply with an order directing hogs in Grey and Bruce counties to marketing points authorized by the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative.

The federation said that at a meeting the packers implied they were dissatisfied with marketing methods of the co-operative.

Princess Becomes Honorary Barrister

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret was formally called to the bar in London tonight and became an honorary barrister of Lincoln's Inn. Most of Britain's four legal societies which have the exclusive right of calling persons to the bar.

She is the fifth member of the Royal Family to be called to the bar, the others being the Queen Mother, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Windsor and the Duke of Gloucester.

UN ASKS CANADA FOR 130 MORE SIGNAL CORPSMEN

Queen's Own Rifles Put On 24-Hour Alert

OTTAWA (CP)—The United Nations has asked Canada for another 130-odd Canadian signalmen for its Middle East emergency force.

External Affairs Minister Pearson disclosed the request for an additional Canadian contribution under questioning by Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North) in the Commons Thursday afternoon.

Amplifying this a little to a reporter later, Defence Minister Campney said the UN asked for about 130 more signalmen as soon as possible. He added that the matter likely won't be decided on by the cabinet.

He said Canada sent 50 signalmen in the first group of UN personnel now with the emergency force "and apparently they liked them over there very much." There now were 637 Canadians with the Middle East force.

Disclosure of the UN request came near the end of the fourth day special session of Parliament which approved funds for Canada's offer of a 1,000-man military contingent to the UN force and $1,000,000 for Hungarian relief.

FOR ALERTNESS

Meanwhile, Eastern Army Command headquarters in Halifax said Thursday night the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, has been put on a 24-hour alert in expectation it may be asked for additional Canadian troops for the UN force. Crew of the destroyer Crusader has been ordered to get as a floating base for the UN force in the Middle East, also was put on 24-hour notice to report for duty.

An army spokesman said the alert was based on "pure speculation" but that precautionary headquarters expect the troops to leave by the middle of next week.

Mr. Pearson also gave extension of the UN force's duties to the borders between Israel and Syria and Jordan is "under consideration" by the UN. But such an expansion, he said, would be very complicated and might interfere with the present minimum period of keeping peace between Egypt and Israel.

In his disclosure of the UN request for more Canadians, he replied to M. J. Coldwell (CCF—Humanitarian) reported plan to look for the Canadian force from its present 4,460 within the next week or two.

He said he called the secretary-general's office and asked whether a further contribution from Canada was envisaged within that period. "I was assured that it did."

Sir Winston, More Feeble Physically, Quietly Celebrates 82nd Birthday

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 82nd birthday today in more feeble physically than 12 months ago but still possessed of a bright and magnificent mind.

The wartime prime minister was in his birthday mush in any other man of his years and wealth. He stayed late in bed breakfasted on fruit and received greetings from all over the world. He also worked through his newspapers, had a light breakfast and got up shortly before noon.

Then he went ahead with his usual activities. He advised years," he said, "and when he stood with Lady Churchill for his official birthday photograph yesterday, he was nervous and jumpy."

Half way through the picture-taking, the 81-year-old Churchill grabbed the arm of a sofa and struggled, with difficulty, to his feet.

When Lady Churchill and a secretary tried to help him, he waved them away, saying gruffly:

"No, no, I shall do it myself." Then, with short, toddling steps he moved out of the room.

"Sir Winston," called out a photographer as he clicked his shutters, "I hope to take your picture on your 100th birthday."

Turning slowly, Churchill chortled at the photographer for fully 30 seconds and then replied in the tone that has withered many an adversary:

"I see no reason why you shouldn't young man — you look hale and hearty enough."

A friend close to Sir Winston said he has given no intimation of any intent to retire from Parliament any time soon, as has been rumored frequently.

"It's my conviction that if it's left up to him, he'll die in the House of Commons," the friend said.

Sir Winston agreed to attend two birthday parties—a luncheon with his younger grandchildren at the London town club and a dinner at his country home, Chartwell, 30 miles away, with his two elder grandchildren and children.

Three of his four children are here and so are grandchildren were with him off and on during the day. Only his daughter Sarah was missing. An actress, she is out of the country making a film.

Centrepiece of the birthday decorations was a 45-pound cake, 24 inches in diameter and bearing 82 candles.

The candles were set in pairs in the form of Vs (for victory); a typical Churchillian gesture. In the days of the early campaigns of his right hand.

Starting on the long, brown cigars Sir Winston likes so much. Suffering from a heavy cold recently, he has been denied them for a while by his doctor.

But you know Sir Winston," said a member of his staff. "It will surprise no one, including Mr. Butler, if he violates the rules and takes a puff before the day is over."

Hope To Mend Commonwealth, Western Unity

Dominant Note as Special Session of House Ends

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and opposition, sharply divided in recent days over Canadian handling of the Middle East crisis, have joined in one objective: The hope of mending Commonwealth and Western unity.

That was the dominant note Thursday as a four-day special session of Parliament ended.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in the closing minutes of debate, said the government regards reliance on Commonwealth relations and British-French-United States unity as "almost essential for the peace and security of the free world."

That had been the government's goal throughout the crisis. Without it there would be little hope that would cause all of us deep anxiety."

PROPOSES QUEBEC PARLEY

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader and official spokesman, urged Canada to summon a new Quebec conference like the wartime ones between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

It would bring together the leaders of Britain, France, the United States and Canada for discussions "to heal the wounds of disagreement."

External Affairs Minister Pearson said that on the score of Commonwealth unity "co-operation "we have gone through the hardest of our experience in the last two or three weeks."

"The situation is changing and we are working together again."

Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) said repair of Commonwealth unity is urgent and the government should make its position clear "so that no one may mistake it, whether they be our friends or our enemies."

The bridges provided by Canada between East and West, between the United Kingdom and the United States "must be repaired and the chasm which has been opening up must be bridged once more."

MOTION VOTED DOWN

The opposition party's critical esism of the government's role in the crisis was expressed in a nonconfidence motion introduced at the start of the week. It was defeated 171 to 36 Thursday, with only Conservatives voting for it.

OTTAWA (CP)—Israel's foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir, will visit Ottawa Jan. 14 and will have talks with Canadian officials, the Israeli embassy announced Thursday night.

Toronto Mayor Appears Shoo-in For Third Term

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto voters will elect their civic representatives to the first two-year terms in the city's 122-year history when they go to the polls Dec. 3.

It will also be the first time the city and 12 adjacent municipalities have voted on the same day. With no burning issues or exciting races, observers predict a small vote.

Last year, with a three-way mayoralty contest, only 31.33 per cent of the city's 381,525 eligible voters exercised their privileges.

This year Mayor Nathan Phillips appears to be a shoo-in for his third successive term. His only opposition comes from Dave Dowson, a 39-year-old labor journalist, frequently labelled a Communist. In 1955 he polled 2,349 votes against 70,702 for Mr. Phillips.

The race for the four board of control seat has Mrs. Jean Newman attempting to become the city's first woman controller.

She faces strong opposition from the four incumbents—Fred Brand, Jeorge Gerrish, Leslie Saunders and William Allen—Mrs. Newman is seconded a fair chance.

There are three other candidates for board of control but none is given much of a chance.

There are 41 candidates for the 18 aldermanic seats in the city's nine wards. Four of them are acclaimed—two each in Ward 6, Robinson, led Ward 6 polls last year.

Voters will be asked to vote on the question of a new city hall and civic square, at a cost of $13,500,000, and on whether the franchise should be extended to all voters who have lived in Toronto for a year, are over 21 and British subjects.

Neither is expected to stir much interest among the 226,616 eligible to vote.

In the 12 suburbs which make up with Toronto the metropolitan council, two mayors and two reeves have already been chosen by acclamation. In the two which elect mayors, there are only two candidates for each office and in the six which elect reeves, 14 candidates.

3 Leaders Deported

BELGRADE (AP) — A Yugoslav paper said Thursday three men who fled from the Yugoslav embassy in Budapest have been deported to Rumania.

The Belgrade paper Politika quoted Kenky Kiz of the government Communist party as saying the three have been taken to Rumania, where he said former premier Imre Nagy also is.

lind Seeking Additional Aid From Government

Additional government assistance for a means test for adult blind persons to take care of guiding and other expenses peculiar to blindness, is being asked by way of resolution by members of the local While Cane Club.

The resolution was passed by club members at their November meeting held last night at the YMCA and will be passed on to Frank S. Follwell, M. P. for Hastings S.-w.

The rest of the meeting were read in trille by secretary Clarence Morris, while corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. Waite, received literature dealing with the additional government allowance for the blind. This matter was discussed in detail with assistant field secretary Bob Padden assisting to draw up the resolution later passed by the meeting. The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Edith Burrowes.

Entertainment was provided by Rolz Burke, local baritone who delighted with several vocal solos, including "Ivy Lea", "This is My House", "Mother Machree", and "Silent Night." Later he led in singing Christmas carols to the piano accompaniment of Bill Navin of Trenton.

Members of the Kinette Club served lunch to the club members with Miss Marion Dodds convening appreciation. Members of the local Ions Club assist in providing transportation to meetings for blind club members.

Aspirants for Civic Offices Place Views Before Ratepayers At Queen Alexandra School

The annual meeting of aspirants and municipal election was held last night in the auditorium of Queen Alexandra school. About 150 ratepayers attended the Chamber of Commerce sponsored event.

Mayor Jane Forrester and her opponent, John Both, were each given five minutes in which to address the gathering. Mayor Forrester was given an additional three minutes to make her rebuttal.

Each of the 11 candidates for the seven aldermanic seats was allowed five minutes. A question period followed and many pertinent questions were broached and answered.

MAYOR JANE FORRESTER

Mayor Forrester, who is seeking re-election for a second term, gave a factual report of this year's records and next year's plans. She said that the "New Deal" in city hall she had promised last year has been fulfilled.

"Co-operation, not obstruction; information, not misinformation; work, not turmoil; planning, not procrastination; have all been my objectives as your city councilor," said Mayor Forrester.

She said that co-operation from council, private citizens, commissions, employees and city officials has produced ample proof that they were waiting for some responsible person to make it possible for them to serve the city instead of obstructing their efforts and frustrating their plans.

The mayor said that planning for the future is necessary if Belleville in the future took much time this year.

"Council", she said, "is embarking on better plans for the city, although at present they are not ready for publication. Before these plans are made public they will have to be put before the people and considerately concerted.

Referring to the problem of a sewage disposal unit in Belleville, Mayor Forrester said such a system would cost more than $1,500,000.

"Belleville has no choice. We will have to get a sewage disposal system, but it will not add one cent to the city's budget. It will be paid by a sewer charge on taxes," she said.

Mayor Forrester said that the 75 per cent increase in education costs this year had nothing to do with the reduction in the out-of the hands of council, but is controlled by a board of capable people, who know the reasons behind the rising costs.

She predicted an increase in total assessments next year, but the increase will not foreseen circumstances.

"Belleville must, nonetheless, not backward," she said.

JOHN BOTH

John Both, candidate for the mayoralty, told of the "new deal" free for voters at this municipal election."

He said that Belleville's future hangs in a balance and at the present time the balance is managing away from the good of the citizens of Belleville.

"This year taxes increased 10 per cent. This was done at the cost of more dollars out of your pockets," he said. "We received new streets, parks and a fair share of new industry? No! What then have we received? We have received a city manager, who is being paid $10,000 a year, with six months his salary is scheduled to be increased to $12,000.

"We have received nothing but extravagances. Your money has been spended as a drunken sailor on the present mayor," he said.

The candidate said that the city's debenture debt at the present time is about five million dollars, and the city's total high-est debt in Ontario in cities of comparable size. "Belleville is reaffirmed, when he was mayor (1954-55) he reduced the debenture debt, but three suite for-half million dollars "thrown private pockets" and the debt soared.

"Belleville is not unlike Topsy, it just growed," he said.

"Belleville is not unlike Topsy, it just growed," he said.

MAYOR FORRESTER

In her rebuttal, Mayor Forrester stated that the tax rate was reduced from 1951 till in 1948, and one mill in 1951.

"That was in my predecessor's time," she said.

In answer to Mr. Both's claim that there has been no industry brought to Belleville by her time in office, she stated that earlier in the year she placed a 35-cent telephone call and "we got a new industry."

"Do you want new industry that way, or do you want to get it by expensive trips to New York?" asked the mayor.

She said that no new streets have been put in, but council's plan this year was to improve the streets already in the city.

As to the statement made by Mr. Both that the taxpayers are maintaining a costly city manager, the mayor said that the management of a modern city is like running a multi-million dollar business, and no businessman in his right senses would attempt a capable of running the business' administration for the benefit of all concerned.

In closing, Mayor Forrester invited the citizens of Belleville to drop in to City Hall some time and cast an eye over her "executive suite."

"Executive suite; that is a beautiful word," she said.

FRANK E. HUSON

The first speaker for election to alderman was real estate broker, Frank E. Huson. He told of his coming to Belleville, first in 1943, which was to be a nine-day visit but decided then that Belleville, with its friendly people and business potential, was the place, to make his permanent home.

Although he has presented himself for alderman for the past three years, he has never been elected. Even though every time a seat in council, Mr. Huson said he has received much disappointment the number of new industries which have been locating in the district, but not in Belleville, he felt that a real estate broker was the type of man Belleville needs, Belleville, and promised his all-out energy to bring industry to the city.

The only other source of revenue for the city, according to Mr. Huson, is from the taxpayers who are already overburdened.

"If elected, I will bring industry to Belleville," Mr. Huson said.

DONALD J. WHALEN

Mr. Whalen, who is vying with ten other aldermanic candidates, for eight seats, is also a civil servant. He has been with the city for 11 years.

Although this is his first attempt at seeking aldermanic office, Mr. Whalen said he has been on the run for the purpose of running his campaign.

"If a man has a strong fighting for, it's worth paying for," he said.

Mr. Whalen is "out to win" and promised his vigor and sincerity to the interests of the city.

ALDERMAN EFFIE A. McCABE

Alderman Effie McCabe, who is seeking re-election for her second term, said, "I have no promises to make other than that I will do my best to reduce taxes and represent Belleville as housewife and do all I can."

Alderman McCabe said she has always had the people of Belleville foremost in her mind, and used as her motto the Bible teaching "Do unto others, as you would have others do unto you."

She promised vigor and diligence and "necessary economy," will "voice your opinions."

ROBERTSON COLLINS

The fourth speaker for aldermanic seats was Robertson Collins, a Belleville barrister. He said that each citizen is directly concerned with municipal maintenance.

As a house owner himself, Mr. Collins is fully appreciative of the costs of municipal maintenance and the increase in taxes. He said that when the cost of maintenance in the city are increased they result in increased taxes for homeowners, and increased rents for tenants.

Mr. Collins is aware that costs of municipal maintenance have risen, and are rising.

"A slight increase in taxes has a serious effect on our well-being," he said.

Mr. Collins said that a careful study of these problems can do much solve them and therefore, his support in investigating these rising costs.

He said it would not be right to say taxes can be substantially reduced. He would, however, promise to do that; however, he promised to see that taxes are not increased without just reason.

"We can't have expenses skyrocket without giving them grave consideration," he said.

Mr. Collins is conscious of the parking facilities downtown, rush hour traffic and the parking ban in the downtown area. He advocated the protection of car drivers as well as pedestrians.

If elected to office, Mr. Collins promised to do his utmost to keep limits in the city, especially in the residential areas and make one-way streets where necessary.

LESLIE DIGBY

Seeking election for the third time, Mr. Les Digby said that he can be an asset to the citizens of Belleville because he is very active in local and district affairs and that life has done much in this line for the youths of the city. Moreover, his experience does not end with sports promotion. For the past two years he has been president of the credit union at Northern Electric and vice-president of the Quinte District Credit Union Chapter.

He is aware that Belleville urgently needs new industry to increase the flow of buying dollars in the city.

"To encourage industry into this city is competition with other municipalities in the province we must be able to offer facilities that industry requires," he said.

He said that to provide these facilities council should actively plan for a greater Belleville.

"Planning is the keyrote of good civic government, not just for today or tomorrow, but for the years ahead," said Mr. Digby. He indicated that with sound economic planning the high tax rates in the city can be reduced to a minimum "to ensure that we receive full value for every tax dollar."

Mr. Digby felt it is necessary that Belleville keep in step with other Ontario cities, should make every effort to get the provincial government to assume more equitable portion of the costs of welfare and education.

"If something is not done alone these lines our children and their sons will find difficulty in keeping up their homes."

The aldermanic candidate doubled the wisdom of repaving Dundas Street from Front to the general rate. He felt that if all streets is used for repaving are done in this way "our taxes are liable to go sky high." A far better plan, he said, would, however, be to have a portion of the costs assessed against the property owners that benefit from the work under local improvements.

"This is fairer, paying only part of the cost more streets can be repaved for, for same tax expenditure."

He advocated a plan by council to expand the downtown traffic congestion instead of removing one of the one-way streets, to create another place.

Mr. Digby also has come to consider granting the franchise in municipal elections to all citizens over 21 who have resided in the city for more than a year. After all, these days, he said, "we have the minimum property qualification of a $400 assessment does not have a voice in the affairs of est in the city even with the high tax rate."

Mr. Digby would not promise to work miracles, but will do his will endeavor to serve all of the people to the best of his ability.

EX-ALDERMAN DOUGLAS MOXAM

Although defeated last year after putting in two years as alderman on the city council, Mr. Moxam promises full support of the winner of the citizens of Belleville in the by-election.

He said that the present city management is "getting pretty penny."

"The mayor's chamber is a disgrace to the city. So is the police station."

Mr. Moxam disputed the claims made by some of the other aldermanic candidates that this year's city administration is washing tax dollars down the drain. "Hyde and Jones don't wash your money," he said.

ALDERMAN GERALD R. HYDE

Alderman Gerald Hyde, who is seeking re-election to office for a third term, said that the city management form of government will take another year before it is fully appreciated, but added that it is the ultimate city management.

He said that this year there will be a higher percentage of taxes collected than in the past. Although the delinquency is still almost five million dollars, about $800,000 more than it was last year. Because of the increase in the debt has gone towards providing Belleville with a new water tower. However, the construction of the new water tower has had no effect on taxes.

"This year," he said, "there has been a $144,000 increase in the next four years there will be $144,000 more debts will be retired. In that time the new water tower, the sewage system and public utilities improvements will be paid for."

Alderman Hyde said there would likely be no tax reductions in 1957, but that the costs of education will probably rise.

ALD. FRANK GRANDAME

Alderman Grandame "Expressed his pleasure in the years filled his position in council during the past two years in the progressive advantage of Belleville, and said he would again conduct himself in the interests of the municipal as all.

"A person can't go wrong if he stands on his own convictions. If given a job follow it through, that's my policy," he said.

He stated that all city employees are at the mercy of incoming and out-going councils. He promised to be all city employees.

Alderman Grandame said that city employees should be informed as to where they stand in order that efficiency and efficiency is got from them.

He praised the work done by the Belleville Fire Department, not only in its protection services, but also in its supervisory activities, such as building polling booths for the forthcoming elections and pointed out the work contributed to the underprivileged children in Belleville.

"It is not impressions you taxpayers want; it's decisions."

ALD. ROBERT GRAHAM

Seeking re-election for his second term, Alderman Graham enumerated on the benefits he has provided for the citizens of Belleville, especially in the matter of traffic control.

During his last year in office Alderman Graham has produced rush-hour traffic control on Bridge and Pinnacle Streets. He has suggested that parking on Bridge between the hours of four and six o'clock in the afternoon and on Pinnacle and on a boulevard on Pinnacle to assure a freer flow of traffic on to Bridge.

He said that the Belleville Lock Company on Pinnacle St. has been purchased by the city with the intent of building a parking lot to accommodate about 70 or 80 cars. More parking lots in the city will be completed in the next two years, he added.

He has provided experimental street lighting on John St., near the high school, and if the lighting proves successful Alderman Graham plans to extend the lighting to other streets. He has been instrumental in already improving street lighting around some school districts in the city.

He stated that when said more school guards will be needed next year, and it is very difficult to find the proper type of men for these positions. He said that if Minister Welch looks like municipalities is slow at placing school guards because of the city's budget, which is "backed by the hills by council."

"Local government is the key to a democratic way of life," he said.

MRS. THEO WHEELER

New to municipal politics, Mrs. Theo Wheeler said, "Down in our council chamber we have a three-wide-awake aldermen, because these are years of hard-hitting business."

She said that because some cannot afford the luxury of conducting taxes, it meant that the people of Belleville are already overburdened with taxes.

"If, as some people think, Belleville needs a new image, I say no; why so many finance companies in Belleville?" she said. Mrs. Wheeler said that Belleville must join with other communities in order to co-operate to maintain our present way of life.

"Our present way of life has been handed down to us from generation to generation, and we can lose it so easily," she said. "Your power still lies in that pencil at the polls."

MEL A. RICHARDS

Another newcomer to municipal life, Mel Richards, would not press any issues. However, he would do everything humanly possible to see that your interests as a preamble to a new aggression against Syria and other Middle East Arab countries.

NOT A BASE

"Egypt is not a Soviet base, as it is being rumored, and she will not be used as a base for any foreign state," he said.

He said that an Anglo-French-Israeli attack on Syria is preposterable, adding: "There are also Turkish and Iraqi concentrations on the Syrian borders with Turkey and Iraq as well as other concentrations of Israeli troops between Syria and Israel."

He said Syria may ask the United Nations "to assume an effective attitude toward this matter."

Liberal Senator Declares Britain Right in Action

OTTAWA (CP)—A leading Liberal senator said Thursday that when the full Middle East story unfolds it will be found Britain and France were right in moving forces into Egypt in the face of a "dangerous situation."

Senator Arthur Roebuck of Toronto said it may have been "bad diplomacy" that they may have failed to tell their friends, but the British and French allies "probably looked the only course" possible under the circumstances. Those countries were forced to act quickly to draw conclusions.

"I don't know but neither am I able to consent to the principle of peace at any price," he said in the Senate when debating the address-in-reply. "Sometimes it is necessary to go to war."

THREE SUPPORT VIEW

Support for this stand came from senators W. Rupert Davies (L—Ontario), J. A. De B. Farris (L—British Columbia) and Ralph Hayden (L—Saskatchewan).

But senators Leon Gouin (L—Quebec) and William Sulte (L—Manitoba) disagreed. Both said the United Nations charter should be used to settle the Middle East issue. The rule of law should prevail.

Senator Roebuck said Britain and France should not withdraw their troops from the Middle East until "adequate" arrangements are made for re-opening the Suez Canal, until the Israeli forces have been assured and until UN forces are there in sufficient numbers to guarantee the security of Israel guarantees.

Senator Davies said the action of Prime Minister Eden and his government was "not sudden, impulsive, Hitlerlike action, but one by which much serious thought had been given and one which, inferentiable "at any rate, appeared to have the backing of reasonable public opinion."

Britain did what the majority of the people in public wanted it to do. Perhaps Britain and France had violated the UN charter, but it must be remembered almost half of Britain's oil supply came from the Middle East.

SELF-PRESERVATION VIEW

Senator Farris said there is an inherent right of self-preservation to the UN charter: The law of self-preservation.

Senator Gouin said the rule of law is applicable to Britain, France and Israel as well as to other nations. He regretted that Britain and France moved before exhausting all peaceful means.

Senator Euler said the UN will be "paralyzed" when those countries who proceed on their own to make war. The UN could play no favorites.

Little Hope Excise Tax Will Be Dropped

OTTAWA (CP)—The president of the Canadian Automobile Association said today Finance Minister Harris gave an association delegation little hope that the 10-per-cent excise tax on passenger cars will be reduced.

H. R. Chaloner of Calgary, at a press conference, reported on the meeting. The delegation received when it presented briefs to Mr. Harris Tuesday and to Works Minister Winters Thursday.

The excise tax, applied at the manufacturer's level, was cut to 10 per cent from 15 in the 1954-5 budget. The association requested its removal mainly on the ground that it was originally imposed as a luxury tax and that cars now are viewed as essential purposes.

Mr. Chaloner said Mr. Harris' comment was: "It's the easiest tax to collect."

Syrian Repeats Charges Attack On Land Planned

LONDON (Reuters) — Syrian Foreign Minister Salah al-Din Bitar Thursday night repeated charges of Turkish and Iraqi troop concentrations on Syria's borders and warned that if Syria is attacked, "we will ask for political and military assistance of all kinds and from all sides."

Bitar, quoted today in Cairo radio's Arabic service, invited "all honest journalists" to visit the vestigate reports that Syria is becoming a base for attack.

He denounced such reports as part of an Anglo-French-Israeli press campaign. He said there was public opinion into believing that Syria has become a base for attack as a preamble to a new aggression against Syria and other Middle East Arab countries.

NOT A BASE

"Egypt is not a Soviet base, as it is being rumored, and she will not be used as a base for any foreign state," he said.

He said that an Anglo-French-Israeli attack on Syria is preposterable, adding: "There are also Turkish and Iraqi concentrations on the Syrian borders with Turkey and Iraq as well as other concentrations of Israeli troops between Syria and Israel."

He said Syria may ask the United Nations "to assume an effective attitude toward this matter."

Cuban Rebels Attack Police

SANTIAGO DE CUBA (AP)—Several hundred rebels struck at the police headquarters about 7 a.m. today in what was termed the government of President Fulgencio Batista's latest crisis. The attack was repulsed with three rebels killed.

After the assault failed a number of the rebels occupied an apartment house next to police headquarters. Others withdrew to various parts of the city.

Police and army units were reported besieging the building next to police headquarters. It formerly was a high school and city hall in the city of 200,000 about 500 miles east of Havana on the south coast of Cuba.

UN ASKS CANADA

He said the government is not sure whether the troops will be called from the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own.

"That is what we are looking at at the moment."

Mr. Claxton said it cost an estimated $29,000 to move the 1st Battalion from Calgary to Halifax in 67 hours, and about $50,000 to refit the Magnificent for the planned role as a mobile force for the army unit.

Canada's total contribution to the UN force would cost nearly $5,000,000 by next March 31 in addition to normal operating costs. It was not possible to predict the extent to which the cost would be borne by the United Nations.

He said this amount was expected to be included in the $1,715,000,000 voted for defence expenditures in the current session of Parliament, but further supplementary defence estimates might be required.

In the House, Mr. Campney took issue with Tory Leader John G. Pearkes, VC (PC — Esquimalt-Saanich) on the Conservative country critic's statement that the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own, had been "cannibalized" to bring the 1st Battalion up to strength.

Mr. Campney agreed with Mr. Pearkes that 240 men from the 2nd Battalion had been drafted to the 1st Battalion, but said this was "a normal development" considering the large overseas draft.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market staged some of its strongest first-hour rallies of the year during today's morning trading. Industrials overcovered more than the ground lost Thursday and base metals and western oils showed strong advances.

Refining oils and utilities were the strongest industrial groups as the index added nearly five points. Gains outnumbered losses more than three-to-one.

Senior base metals were strong. International Nickel added 1¼ while Falconbridge and Hudson Bay were ahead a point.

Western oils added more than a point to their index as gains outnumbered losses more than two-to-one.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter prices were unchanged today.

The egg market was weak on A large with offerings in excess of a quiet demand. Medium are steady.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 38; A medium 31-32; A small 26; B 31; C 26. Wholesale to retail: A large 43; A medium 36-37; A small 31; B 36; C 31.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trade on slaughter cattle was slow at prices barely steady to 50 cents a hundredweight lower this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were steady. Hogs advanced 25 a hundredweight. Sheep and lambs were generally unchanged.

Cattle receipts were the same as last week and 600 more than the same week in 1955. Western receipts were 510 more than last week at 1,381 head. Western stock calf receipts were 225; more at 966. A heavy run of cows made up 38 per cent of the slaughter cattle, a new high for the year. The heavy marketings of cows took 50 cents a hundredweight off top ends.

There were no exports to the United States. An estimated 3,000 cattle will be booked at the close, consisting of slaughter cattle, heifers and stockers. The dressed beef trade is reported as listless.

Steer quality raced a new low and prices were 50 cents a hundredweight lower.

Heifers, mostly medium quality and downwards sold slowly. Dry fed steer yearlings held steady, heifer yearlings were under pressure and in some cases sold lower. Good heavy bologna bulls were in good demand throughout the week.

Prices

Steers mostly $20.50-21, one load out at $22.50; good steers $19-20; medium $16-18.50; common $12-15; medium heifgs $13-15; good $17-17.50, odd tops to $18; common $11-13; tower steers and heifers $8-10; choice to top of yearlings $23-24; good $22-23; medium $17-21; good cows mostly $10; medium $8.50-10; common $7.50-8.50; canner and cutter cows $6-7.50; good heavy bologna bulls mostly $12.50; common and medium light bulls down to $8.

Replacement Cattle: Sales in this class were a little heavier than last week with prices gaining 50 cents a hundredweight on all classes. Medium stockers $14-16; good stockers and steers calves to a top of $18.50; common $12-14; good stock heifers $12-14 a hundredweight.

Veal calves were firm on a low quality offering. Heavy fat calves were slow and hard to sell. Good vealers $23-26, choice to top of $28.50; medium $16-22; common $10-15; grass calves sold for slaughter $9-11.50.

Hogs closed $33 a hundredweight for grade A, mostly $3-21; single $15 a hundredweight dressed.

Choice and near choice lambs sold steady at $21.50 a hundredweight, one lot of Southdowns at $23. Other grades sold slower with good lambs down to $16; medium $14-16; culls down to $10; bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs were discounted as much as $3 a hundredweight, feeder lambs mostly $14-15; sheep $2-3 a hundredweight according to quality.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 1-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, Thursday's noon rate 95 23-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.66 15-16, up 9-16.

Police Officer's Child Assaulted By Young Thugs

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa police are seeking three leather-jacketed teen-aged thugs who attacked and criminally assaulted the 15-year-old daughter of a city detective in what appeared to be retaliation against the father.

Police quoted the girl as saying that after she was released by the three youths, one of them said "I told your father I would get him for what he did to me, and this is it."

Police declined to identify the police officer.

The girl suffered shock, bruises and a knife wound on the forehead when held down in the back of a car, police said, but was reported in good condition.

'Charm of South', Film in Kiwanis Series, Enjoyed

Belleville's armchair travellers viewed "The Charm of the South" at Collegiate auditorium last night. This travelogue, presented by Thayer Soule, was the third in the Kiwanis-sponsored series.

The first stop in the tour took viewers to Washington, D.C., in April when the famous Japanese cherry trees are in blossom. Here the speaker pointed out many landmarks, including Jefferson Memorial, the White House, Capitol and Lincoln Memorial. Riding the elevator to the top of the Washington Monument, 550 feet high, a visitor can view the entire city and surrounding countryside.

The scene changed, moving across Memorial Bridge into the state of Virginia next. Here, the National Cemetery at Arlington was filmed. Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington, was also visited.

The charm of the South would not be complete without scenes showing the picturesque and historical mansions where famous southern families lived or are still living. Many of these houses were visited on the tour.

Colonial days are still depicted in Williamsburg where residents retain the peasant costumes and costumes for the tourist's enjoyment.

At Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, the photographer pointed out the memorial showing where the Wright brothers made their first four attempts at flying in 1902.

PICTURESQUE, GAMBENS

The picturesque cyprus gardens in South Carolina can be appreciated best by boat. Small, paddle-driven craft constantly wind their way through the gardens.

The Suwanee River, made famous in song, was not overlooked in the film.

By stern wheeler the camera's eye took the audience down the Mississippi River to the New Orleans. The old and new meet in this busy sea port city which contains 12 miles of docks and wharves. Modern buildings are being erected constantly. The old French section of the city, with its interesting wrought iron balconies and famous French market, is a tourist delight. The apartment houses opposite Jackson Square are claimed by many to be the oldest in the country. After dark the city comes to life as Canal Street becomes a blaze of light.

The filmed tour ended in Kentucky, the land of champion racehorses. The running of the famous Kentucky Derby was shown. In this blue grass country, which contains some of the finest farming land in the world, these thoroughbreds are raised. The photographer caught the horses in playful moods for his camera.

$1,800 Damage To House, Oil Spills on Stove

Slipping on the floor as he was carrying a can of save oil to replenish the oil in his space heater, Gilbert Mullins, 282 East Moira Street, narrowly escaped serious burns late Thursday afternoon when the oil spilled over the stove and ignited.

The blaze set the room afire and caused an estimated $1,800 damage in fire and smoke damage to the kitchen, bedroom and living room and household furnishings.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said it was something of a miracle that Mr. Hudgins was not seriously burned in the blaze. Despite the fact that his clothes were saturated with oil, he vainly tried to fight the fire until the heat of the flames forced him outside. Miraculously his clothes failed to catch fire.

Firemen answered the call with two fire trucks and confined the blaze to the three rooms where damage was mostly as a result of oil, smoke and water.

Tank Insulation Catches Fire

Burning insulation on the outside of a new 10,000 gallon formaldehyde tank, took firemen on a run to the Bakelite plant on the Kingston Road Thursday night.

The inside of the tank had been lined with a special material requiring heat treatment and the heat of the curing process set insulation on the exterior of the tank afire.

Outside of damage to the tank insulation the damage was small, according to firemen. The tank which caught fire is outside the main factory building.

Deer Season As Good as Last Year

The deer hunt this year was as good if not better than last year, according to statistics gathered at the three check points of the Department of Lands and Forests in the Tweed district.

An overall check of the points established at Millbridge, Kaladar and Actinolite showed 2,731 deer and 2,731 hunters 38.2 per cent were successful in bagging a deer.

A breakdown shows that 1,000 with 258 deer, 114 bucks, 89 does and 55 fawns passed through the point at Millbridge. At Kaladar, 1,153 hunters were checked. These had 149 bucks, 117 does and 95 fawns. At Arnprior 596 hunters bagged 80 bucks, 47 does and 27 fawns.

Of the 783 deer checked, 313 or 40 per cent were bucks; 253 or 32 per cent were does, and fawns of both sexes amounting 24 per cent with 217 being counted.

Department officials stated the high percentage of fawns taken indicated a high reproduction of the deer population this year. It also means, they said, that the herd came through the winter in good condition and the spring was favorable to produce a healthy new crop.

BCIVS Loses Five Marksmen; Prospects Good

BCIVS lost four of their top marksmen and it was thought this year would be a year to start building a team with little thought of top standings in competitions.

The Fish and Game competition of the school year is sponsored by the B.C.I.V.S. Association and must be completed by November 30th.

Last year the team that went on to finish fifth in Ontario from 199 schools from Newfoundland to British Columbia averaged 93.3. Fall examinations have just finished and target practice was discontinued for that period. This week, with examinations over and without the usual practice the competition targets were completed, and ready for mailing.

The surprising average was 93.11. The average has led to some optimism and two teams have been entered in the next competition. If new marksmen appear, and they usually do at this time of year, the collegiate may have another top contender.

Individual scores were: Don Wilson 97, Allan Davison 96, Alan Daniel 94, Maurice Wagar 93, Don Whitfield 93, Harry Wilson 92, Bill Gardner 92, John McMahon 90, Bruce Hall, spare.

Two Complete 21 Years' Service With Phone Co.

Belleville Telephone Pioneers spent an enjoyable evening at the K. of C. Hall on Wednesday, when some 115 people sat down to try and bring home the bacon, some with great success.

At the close of play, chairman Norm Cundliff ably assisted by membership chairman C. W. McElraith, presented Clarke Dodds and Gordon Cable with certificates for 21 years faithful service with the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. This occasion was loudly applauded by all present.

Refreshments were served by Pioneer ladies and wives and friends of pioneers. The speedy disappearance of the food was ample testimony of the quality.

Stewards for the evening were Ted Kelly, Ken Burkitt, Bert Brown, Norm Cundliff and Bill Gander.

Dairy Instructor And Grader Will Judge Cheese

Jack M. Bain, of London, chief dairy instructor for Central and Northern Ontario, and R. H. Gilbank, dairy produce grader for the Belleville area, will act as judges of the British Empire Dairy Show to be held in the city next week.

The cheese show is being held in the market room of the city hall on Tuesday and Wednesday, 4 and 5.

With entries now all in, Mrs. Lillian Matthews, secretary for the Ontario Cheese Makers' Association which sponsors the Belleville show, stated the dairy show will be bigger this year. There will be more cheese entered, while there are also more "silltons to be shown.

The cheese show is being held in conjunction with the annual convention of the cheese makers' association, sessions of which will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at the Hotel Quinte.

Departing from the schedule of former years, the opening session of the convention on Tuesday afternoon will be held at the hotel instead of at the cheese show.

Dean of County Council Given Another Term

Dean of Hastings county council and Warden of the county for 1935, Reeve James H. Sprackett of Tudor and Cashel townships, has again received acclamation and will again lead the township council for 1957.

Reeve Sprackett has served his township as reeve for the past 37 years and with few exceptions has received acclamation.

There will be no election for reeve in that township this year, but five men will fight it out for the four seats on council. Candidates for council are Burton Baker, Perry Cooney, John Landon, William Moon and Ross Wilson.

Elected by acclamation to the school area board were Mrs. Ed Sprackett, Everett Cleveland, Walter Trumble, Francis Donaldson and Charles Griffin.

Talk on Insurance Given to Association

Members of the Belleville Fire and Casualty Insurance Agents Association recently held a complimentary dinner at the Queen's Hotel. The president, Mrs. C. W. Earle presided.

The guest speaker O. A. Chandler, Toronto, manager of the Ontario Assigned Risk Plan gave a talk describing in detail the qualifications necessary to obtain consideration in this type of automobile insurance. The speaker was introduced by the association secretary, C. W. Burr, and thanked by a past president F. E. Burrows.

Hasty Pees Film 'On Guard' to 'Show Tuesday

The Belleville premiere of the military film "On Guard with "B" Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the feature role will be held in the Bridge Street Armouries on Tuesday, December 4 starting at eight o'clock. Regimental officers announced today.

The first showing of the film at Madoc, the home of "B" company was held in the mid-Hastings village on Sunday night before regimental and other military highranking officers and an interested audience.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was originally formed in being selected as the unit to portray the role played by the militia of Canada from coast to coast. A French-speaking film will be made in Quebec.

The general public is cordially invited to witness the first showing of "On Guard" in the city. Later showings will be made in Picton and Port Hope.

Cannifton Girl Struck by Car Slightly Hurt

Marilyn Scott, seven-year-old Cannifton girl, suffered concussion and facial abrasions Thursday night when struck by a car as she was walking with her mother on the highway near Cannifton.

The girl was taken to Belleville General Hospital where she is under the care of Dr. J. B. McSherry.

According to reports the little girl was walking behind her mother on the north side of the highway when a car driven by Earl Meyers, R. R. 1 Frankford struck her from behind and knocked her against her mother with both falling to the pavement. The mother was not injured. Police said the car was proceeding slowly at the time of the accident.

The mishap was investigated by Provincial Constable A. Besteman of Belleville O. P. P. headquarters.

A NEW THREAT — DEFLATION

A Reuters dispatch from London, England, calls our attention to the fact that, the Anglo-French intervention in the Middle East has posed some problems on the economic front, as well as in the realm of international politics.

Blockage of the Suez Canal is certain to leave Britain and Western European countries short of oil for several months. Oil is an essential ingredient of the prosperity pie which these countries, like ourselves, have been enjoying in recent years. A shortage of oil may seriously affect the operation of various industries. Reuters says that while the shortage itself may not produce much unemployment, its secondary effects will, as dependent industries slow up." This seems to us like blaming that sick feeling which goes with measles on the spots themselves, rather than on the germs which caused the spots. In any event, it is a shifting of responsibility which is not going to make the patient feel any better.

Governments of Britain and Western European countries have been busy for months depressing credit, in an effort to check inflation. Soon, according to this Reuters dispatch, they may have to combat deflation.

Just how this will affect us in Canada would require an expert to estimate. Prime Minister St. Laurent told a group of businessmen at Ottawa that the oil crisis in Britain might affect the flow of British imports to Canada. Apparently, though, he did not anticipate any actual reduction in these imports, but only a slowing up of results from a plan to increase these imports in an effort to balance Britain's trade with Canada. Britain now buys much more from Canada than she sells to us. If Britain had been able to increase her sales here, we would think it might have helped the Canadian could reduce her purchases from the U.S., with which country she in her turn, has a sharply adverse balance of trade. So it would appear possible that the Suez crisis may benefit Canada by increasing her trade deficits with the U.S., if it does not actually result in increasing these deficits. We have been warned on several occasions in the recent past that our unfavorable balance of trade with the U.S. could throw a monkey-wrench into the racing gears of our expanding economy. Thus it may be that Canada will not entirely escape the deflationary effects of Britain's oil crisis. Provided this trend did not go too far, it could almost certainly be offset by relaxation of the government's efforts to check inflation.

It is possible that last week the Bank of Montreal issued a business review which warned that "there is a danger of drawing, and depending upon, any conclusions as to the long-run trend of prices from the tendencies of the past two years."

A summary of this review makes no mention of the Suez crisis and it is conceivable that the review was compiled without reference to the affects of any shortage of oil in British and Western Europe. This, far from weakening the Bank's statement, strengthens it. The only reason before the oil shortage developed to believe that the upward trend of prices might be halted or reversed, there would appear to be an even greater possibility of such a development today.

The review reports that there are two differeht schools of thought amongst economists. "There is large body of opinion that there may be a long-term upward trend in prices," the Bank says. "This viewpoint is based on recent developments in Canada and elsewhere and more particularly on the inflationary implications of the constant pressure governments in many countries of responsibility for maintaining a high level of prosperity."

On the other hand, says the review, some observers feel that the situation is fundamentally the same as previous periods "when the demand for goods and services has out-run the supply available and the natural response has been to rise and to expand the productive to meet and even anticipate demand." In the past during these periods "the upward pressure on prices has in time abated and a period of consolidation has followed.

The average layman with an interest in economics is likely to conclude, whether rightly or wrongly, that either a deflationary or an inflationary trend possesses considerable momentum, resulting in a tendency for falling prices to keep on falling or rising prices to keep on rising. Where these tendencies are overcome, there often appears to have been some unexpected factor operating. For instance, it was not until the Second Great War that the deflationary period of the thirties was finally and conclusively ended. The question may be asked as to what crisis is sufficiently critical to halt the world-wide inflationary trend which has existed since the end of the war.

TODAY, IT IS DIFFICULT TO BE SHOCKED

The other day Premier Ben-Gurion introduced a resolution in the Israeli parliament expressing "profound shock at atrocities perpetuated against the Jews of Egypt by the Egyptian military junta and that country's dictator."

If it is true that the Egyptians are holding hostage one person from each Israeli family in Port Said, there is every reason why the world should be shocked.

Unfortunately, there are so many shocking things occurring from day to day that it is no longer easy to summon up that depth of moral indignation which would justify the description "profound shock."

Most of the free world, for example, has been much too deeply shocked by the slaughter in Hungary to have recovered sufficiently to be shocked again by the plight of the Jews in Egypt.

Moreover, there is an increasingly alarming tendency to select the things by which we are shocked on the basis of our race, political beliefs or religion.

Interest Is in People

Hamilton Spectator

Some library personnel in Britain have been exploring the reading tastes of England's young people and have come up with some interesting discoveries. Foremost is that the demand for space and science fiction, which reached a feverish pitch about eighteen months ago, has steadily been subsiding. The old favorites like Rohin Hood and Robinson Crusoe and Treasure Island—oh yes, and even Davy Crockett, who, of course, is not quite so old—are being thumbed and dog-eared again by England's young readers.

The investigating librarians have their own explanation for the trend. The science fiction of the Buck Rogers sort, they declare, hasn't written well. The quality of the story-telling, they say, was enough to support in this view they point out that the older science fiction, like that of H. G. Wells and Jules Verne, still has a vogue with the young folks. Despite good endorsements of creative writing are adhered to, they say, most children's children will continue to read the stuff.

We doubt that is part of the story. We noticed in a recent review of a book on science fiction a rather abrupt criticism that the book was "jerry-built." The same thing could be said of children's space fiction, and doubtless the young readers would be aware of it. All the same, we feel that there is another and just as vital a factor involved and that is fundamentally that children are more interested in people than they are in things.

It's the characters in the story that they like to read about, irrespective of whether the hero is a space ship pilot, a cowboy or some ship Hispaniola, or the time-ray operator on a space ship. But the characters must be well-rounded and purpose or even the children won't perfect him as a phony. Robin Hood was a bandit and a rogue, but there were redeeming social aspects to his waywardness. A character that make him appear a scoundrel and vain personality, fundamentally that children are more interested in people than they are in things.

It's the characters in the story that they like to read about, irrespective of whether the hero is a space ship Hispaniola, or the time-ray operator on a space ship. But the characters must be well-rounded and purpose or even the children won't perfect him as a phony. Robin Hood was a bandit and a rogue, but there were redeeming social aspects to his waywardness. A character that make him appear a scoundrel and vain personality, Crockett, too, was something of a harum-scarum, but he was the hero of a true American legend. Treasure Island was as a two-fisted pirate as ever, but he shared with Robin Hood those qualities that will forever command the loyalty of boys—the ability to secretly dream of the day when their heroes, too, shall have strength and meaning.

Children are much more perceptive than many of their parents and no author is going to be able to fool them for long merely by dressing his quite meaningless and unrealistic hero in a space suit and giving him a ray gun to fly. The children have already proved that to Jules Verne and Sir Francis Drake and Phineas Fogg. They can spot a real man when they see him, even if some authors can't!

Houn' Dawgs Insulted

Brockville Recorder and Times

One of the reasons why Elvis Presley is so profoundly disliked in many quarters is the way in which he maligns a noble breed in that silly ditty about the hound dog—as Presley nuzzles it: "Houn' Dawg."

When Presley groans his way through "Yoah nawhm' butts houn' dawg," he libels a breed which has been a friend to man for countless ages," his hunting companion from the days of the cave and the stone age.

Hound dogs are far from useless. In the days when man's table depended on his ready eye and his dog, the hound was a necessary part of every menage.

While it is true that the sad-eyed basset is used in the tricks and the harriers, love to loll around in the sun, there is no more hard-working dog under the sun when there is work to be done.

They are ever ready and willing to go with the master when the hunt is on and Presley's ditty does them an injustice.

Better is a hound dog working for his chow than a hip-roll'er mouthing goofy-written dogerel to second-rate music!

The great social and other pressures of our times tend to make us conformists. That is true in politics, in habits and, much more seriously, in thinking. And perhaps our mass education system is contributing to the trend. Yet, non-conformists are needed in this modern world as they were needed in all past generations. The non-conformists who through the ages, they have been primarily responsible for the achieving of better things.

Dr. Hector Hermans, of Wayne State University alluded to this recently before the Essex-Kent branch of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. Instead of punishing heretics, he said, they should be protected. "When we call into question established ideas, we open the avenues of progress. There are no self-evident truths in geometry or anything else."

We are too prone to sneer at the non-conformists, to think they are a crank or a fool. That is no attitude peculiar to modern days although it may now be more prevalent. Many a genius, who contributed much to man's development, has been the subject of scorn only to become an object of admiration after he had proved himself wiser than his fellows.

TODAY'S TALK

YOU

You are the most important, and interesting, person in all this world —to yourself. You can be exactly what you wish to be. Much about you is inherited, but much more is a treat deal about yourself, and you may never have taken the trouble to learn what you hoped and planned to be! Just don't be a stranger to yourself. Get better acquainted. Cling to the love that became yours at birth. Endeavor to know it thoroughly acquainted with yourself, and upon the best of terms at all times.

You are an entity. You take up space in the world, but you can make that space so valuable that it will draw many others to you, like a magnet does a handful of needles. We think of ourselves but gives. Honor such people and you honor yourself. You must find bound you to others in mutuality. Do not feel that you must travel alone. You are not grateful here in the presence of great thoughts!

You are a part of the sunlight, or else you could not live. This sunlight cultivate so that you may increasingly that you take into your body and mind. Remember that it is life to the body and to the soul. I watch the great trees in my yard grow higher and higher each year because they must have adequate sunlight. It is a beautiful factor in the sun!

How many times are to our Heavenly Father for all the blessings that we enjoy! And what a wealth life may be within us to offer among all the human contacts that we experience.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON BEING READY TO RECEIVE

Stories have been told for generations of people who were converted to a devout Christian faith by chance circumstances.

There is a famous story of the Bibles which some generations ago were distributed among the Koreans because a ship carrying Bibles, and the agent of a Bible distributing society, were wrecked and cast on the Korean shore. The agent was killed, but the Bibles which had been translated into Chinese found their way into many Korean homes and prepared the population for the later arrival of Christian missionaries.

It was by the chance reading of a Bible that Jerry McAuley, a river pirate and one of the most wanted criminals of his day, was converted to become a profound Christian influence in his generation. Another man read one of Moody's sermons in a newspaper which had been used to wrap up a package, and in far-away Australia his conversion resulted.

Also there is a story of a wagon, in the old days, filled with Bibles and one Bible fell off and the man who picked it up and studied it found new life as a result.

The lives of the saints convince us that God works in mysterious ways to achieve his purposes. Through an infinite number of channels, God's grace is brought into our hearts. The important thing is that our hearts be prepared to receive this grace.

Vodka Called Brutal Spirit

Peterborough Examiner

Some troublemaker is now asserting that vodka is not really a Russian drink, as it was that people are known to about 1,000 years ago.

We do not suppose that anyone who has examined the matter has ever thought that vodka is native to Russia. Indeed, it is one of the simplest forms of liquor known to the human nose, and when the first caveman discovered fermentation and distillation, he probably made moonshine it must have been a very rough brand.

Vodka is what you get from a mush of rye and barley malt, plain potatoes and potatoes with green rye malt, or a number of other combinations which will readily occur to the ingenious reader.

We offer this information because vodka seems to be gaining in popularity in Ontario, where the L.C.B.O. now stocks five varieties.

It is a brutal spirit, particularly in its cruder forms. It dulls the palate, so it is a poor drink to take with food. And, because it is 100 proof, the tendency is to drink too much of it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the homely art critics of our time said recently in reference to an exhibition of modern art that it contained many thought provoking paintings and drawings. This surely denotes an artist in an entirely new field. Art has something in common with the prophecies of Thinkers, schoolmasters, politicians, parsons, mathematicians and what-have-you, they provoke thought. But artists have always been supposed to be a class apart from such plodders. By means of a gift that distinguished them from ordinary mortals, they have been able to speak directly to the inner spirit of man without the intervention of the process of thought. By the creation of songs, sonnets, poems, paintings, sculptures, buildings, books, or the more repetition of the works of others, as musicians, singers, actors, performers, they could reach some inner part of us all men, deeper than the mind, an unexplored region of the human adventure, unapproachable save through the senses. Artists were capable of thus speaking to all men, rich, poor, clever, stupid, age or civilized, without having to penetrate through any man's thinking process.

Maybe this is why modern art, in all its forms, whether much of the verse of T.S. Elliot or the paintings of Picasso are the music of Hindemith find so little response, except that of puzzlement, amazement or the derision of the man in the street.

It was only the scholars of any period who recented new forms in art. Today it is the public that protests. It may be that the thought demanding aspect of modern art rules it out as art, and its productions from the rank of artistic. Perhaps they are technicians, not artists, some sort of laboratory scientists in the new age of technology.

Gold Salt Treatment

Of the 10,904,438 men and women over 14 with chronic joint disability (in the United States), 4,852,416 have rheumatoid arthritis, according to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

It would take fifty times as much space as I have here to tell what I don't know about rheumatoid arthritis. Some recognized authorities on joint disability use up three hundred times as much space to tell what they don't know about it. So, although I hate to parade my ignorance like this, I must confess that it is a mystery to me how the experts determined that the 4,852,474 with joint disability have rheumatoid arthritis.

In fact, after a professional lifetime of study of joint trouble, I don't know how to distinguish rheumatoid arthritis, if there is such an entity, from everyday rheumatic or physical degeneration of joint tissues.

In horse-and-buggy days, when Dr. Osler was at the head of the profession, there were just three kinds of chronic joint disability, namely, rheumatoid arthritis, chronic rheumatism, and, believe it or not, gout.

Oh, we knew about arthritis, all right, but it was simply a form of inflammation due to tuberculosis, streptococcic, pneumococcic or staphylococcic or other specific infection of the joint, but this was an infection of less than a hundred years' standing.

Rheumatism of rheumatoid arthritis with "shots" (injection into muscle or directly into a cavity) of gold chloride (perhaps 1/20th of a grain) "offers definite promise," says Dorland's Medical Dictionary. "This treatment is so dangerous and the effects so doubtful that attention it here only to advise against it."

Contrary to the nineteenth century notion that cold and damp caused rheumatism, I remember Osler's day-laborers and washerwomen — the rooted popular conviction that one with chronic joint disability should go away, preferably to a place in a warm, dry, equitable climate.

In the first place, there's no such climate as this side of paradise, not in North America, South America, Europe, and Africa, at any rate. I have not studied Asian climatology. In the second place, as nearly as I can ascertain, there is as much joint disability per thousand population, in a region where the climate is nearly ideal the year around as in a region where the climate and weather place the most extreme strain on joints, chronic sinusitis, winter cough stem of bronchitis and chronic kidney trouble (nephritis, "Bright's disease").

I find that most of the poor souls who sojourn for a season or all winter in a warm land seem to coop up and coodle and cower against the air and weather just as they did when developing their trouble back home. And they shuffle about in bed — if one lady at the bridge party in the next room is against drafts and gets a new mink coat to shield her shoulders, the others . . . And/or one visiting fireman wears his burberry when he goes to bed with his golf clubs. laugh.

It is absurd to put on an overcoat when going out for a walk. It is good to go out and walk briskly in the cold and get be impelled to take vigorous exercise," says a noted British physiologist.

Biggest, Oldest, Tallest

By Walter Monfried in the Milwaukee Journal

Twenty-six children in 26 years would seem a mite much for Mrs. Marie Cyr of Maine, an American mother of 12 specialists in maternity. Numerically, however, she is far from the record. Fedor Vassilyev of Russia, who died in 1872 after having borne 69 children — 16 sets of 4 triplets, 7 sets of 3 and 16 quadruplets. There is no known record that surpasses hers.

Another bit of quizzing: Everyone knows that Russia is the world's largest political entity (nearly three times the size of United States). But what is the smallest? Monaco? Liechtenstein? No, it is Vatican City — 109 acres less than one third the size of Milwaukee's Grant Park.

Yes, it is.

The Guinness Brewing people of Ireland started Ripley's Believe It or Not! playing quiz contest. Rupert Guinness, earl of Iveagh, points out that people are always curious about the biggest and fastest and richest and rarest. So he appointed a researcher, Norris D. McWhirter, to get the verified data. The result is a book just published — "Guinness Book of Superlatives." It lists ten thousand figures on the things that interest most of us.

Heaviest man recorded by medicos — Miles Darden of North Carolina, more than 1,000 pounds. He lived 39 years — some heart!

Tallest man — Robert Wadlow of Manistee, Mich., 8 feet 11 inches, died in 1940 at 22.

The tallest man on official record is not Old Parr and such hazy characters of legend, but Jesse Wilkinson of Pittsburg, Tex., a Confederate veteran who will be 114 on November 24. Medical specialists scoff at claims of 110 and so on.

The "original" Siamese twins, Eng and Chang, of the 19th century, were a little late. Britain had such a pair 700 years earlier.

The biggest baby known to science weighed 23½ pounds at birth in 1878. Its mother was 7½ feet Mrs. Anna Bates of Nova Scotia.

Who are the greatest potato eaters? "The Irish" is so obvious an answer that you may be surprised to find it is the Germans. Everyone in Ireland, on the average eats more than a pound a day. Transylvanians are the chief meat eaters; each man, woman and child downs three-fourths of a pound daily.

Biggest of bodies in our world: the blue whale, 131 tons; African elephant, seven tons. The fastest animal is the cheetah, with top speed of 70 miles per hour. Longest lived is good old homo sapiens. The oldest man on record, whose best is about 70 years.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Old Water-Pumping Station Turned into Hunters' Lodge

NEW HOLLAND, N.C. (AP)—"What's that lighthouse doing here, miles from the sea?"

That question comes to the mind as the uninitiated approaches the Lake Mattamuskeet Wildlife Refuge.

The towering structure is no lighthouse, but a 160-foot brick smokestack, converted into an observation tower with an iron stairway inside and a platform on top.

ONCE PUMPING STATION

It was the biggest water-pumping station in the world when used in an attempt to reclaim the 30,000 acres of Lake Mattamuskeet for agricultural purposes.

Through 18 years and about $17,000,000 the effort went on but in 1823 it was abandoned. In 1934 the federal government bought the lake and about 20,000 surrounding acres to create the refuge.

Now the big building is the Mattamuskeet Lodge with accommodation for about 45 persons in the heart of the biggest concentration of geese and whistling swans to be found anywhere along the eastern seaboard.

The waters have returned, and each winter the three-foot-deep lake is a refuge for about 30,000 to 60,000 geese, 5,000 to 10,000 whistling swans and enough assorted ducks to bring the web-foot population to 100,000 plus.

In this country, only the Horseshoe Bend Refuge on the Mississippi can claim a larger winter goose colony of about 90,000 to 100,000.

Although most winter visitors go to Mattamuskeet as hunters, many become bird-watchers and bird-listeners, too, because the visual and oral beauty of these immense flocks of big waterfowl is bound to thrill anyone with even the faintest interest in wild life.

HUNTING PROGRAM

The refuge shooting program operated by the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission offers a fine opportunity to get geese. But you still have to work for them. You still get up long before the dawn and ride to the blind. You still must wait and watch quietly and you must be able to shoot accurately.

These geese and ducks are far from lame and as the season progresses they grow increasingly wary. The swans, of course, are protected at all times and are more trusting. A shot at them is a costly offence.

Only about 20 to 25 blinds are permitted each year within the refuge. These mostly are on the south shore of the lake which is approximately 15 by 5 miles. Each is in charge of an authorized guide who also enforces game laws. For a fist and reasonable fee, he also provides the boat and decoys.

In the 22 years that shooting has been conducted on the refuge the kill has been averaging well over 2,000 a season, ranging from a low of 575 in 1947-48 to the top of 4,328 in 1955-56.

When Beds Made and Meats Cooked, Busy Mother Becomes Hockey Coach

TROIS RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—When Mrs. Pauline Mercier isn't doing housework or tending her small children, she's busy coaching a hockey team.

The team is a Trois-Rivieres' bantam "B" club of 13-year-olds.

It is the St. Nicholas Club formed this year from the best players of an old four - team league.

In coaching, Mrs. Mercier keeps an eye on two of her sons—Denis and Gilles—both St. Nicholas club players. But the emphasizes that they're treated the same was as the other stickhandlers.

Already the new club has practised in the Trois-Rivieres arena and played a visiting bantam team, the Cap-de-la-Madeleine Lions. Several other district teams have asked for games. The St. Nicholas line-up now includes six forwards, four defencemen and a goalie, with a substitute goalie and three other players ready for action if needed. The coach has set aside a room in her house as a players' room. Here she gives her instructions, and, after each practise, runs through a list of the players' faults on the ice.

COURTESY TOO

Naturally she wants her team to be unbeatable. But she stresses also that it must be sportsmanlike and courteous. When he signs his contract, each young player knows he must be good—not only on the ice but in school classes as well. The coach won't have it any other way.

Mrs. Mercier's telephone rings continually with calls from aspiring players.

"Unhappily I must refuse most requests," she says. "A coach has great difficulty choosing players."

At the season's start, the coach turned business manager in order to raise money for equipment for the club. Approaching the police chief of Trois-Rivieres, she outlined the benefits of the new team. He gave her a permit to make a house-to-house canvass for funds to buy sweaters, pads and gloves, which most of the players lacked.

Trois-Rivieres doesn't underestimate the power of its woman coach. The first to sign on for club supplies was the chief of police.

NUCLEAR FORCE VITAL

He said it is a "prime and indispensable requisite" of security to keep the air-atomic forces effective.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson, R.R. 7, Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marianne to Corporal Howard Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, R.R. 1, Picton, Ontario. Marriage to take place in December.

* * *

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Eric P. Cooper announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Hilda, to Paul Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Kelly of Belleville. The wedding will take place at St. Joseph's church, at 10 a.m., Saturday, December 29th.

Mr. Doug Storey is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Shannonville H-S Assoc. Plans Bazaar

The Shannonville Home and School Association held the last recent monthly meetings in the school room with the president, Mrs. Mary McKenzie, presiding.

The treasurer's report was encouraging. The secretary is to send for 34 manuals for members and the executives.

Attendance prize went to the Junior teacher and Mr. Sherry as a tie.

Three hundred tulip bulbs were planted by some members to brighten the grounds in the spring. Mrs. Ray Reid is to order the electric frying pan to be drawn for at the bazaar. A large grocery hamper will be filled by the children and members as a second prize.

Mrs. Jean Kilburn ordered the cookies for the recent Hallowe'en party; Mrs. Helen Spencer, the apples, and Mrs. McKenzie, the drinks.

Children were given prizes for the best costumes for boys and girls judged according to grade.

Mrs. Gordon Spencer, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Herb Houston from Millbrook, were the judges.

The junior teacher, Mrs. Gar-shore, presided at the piano for the marches.

Membership cards were also ordered.

Mrs. McKenzie introduced the Rev. L. A. Poge, who spoke on "Heritages" which was most interesting and much enjoyed by the mothers.

Conveners for the November social were Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Holland and Mrs. Spencer.

Refreshments were served.

At the last meeting the president, Mrs. Mary McKenzie presided and read the Home and School prayer.

The main discussion was on the coming bazaar to be held on December 7, in the Orange Hall. Mrs. McKenzie will arrange about the orchestra for the dance and order turkeys for the supper.

Mrs. Kilburn will order supper buns, hot dogs and hamburg buns; Mrs. Ray Reid, the hot dogs and hamburg meat.

The canvassers of the village were, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. W. Brant, Mrs. B. Cook, Mrs. D. Sward and Mrs. Nora Fuller.

The president thanked Mr. Fuller for his good work in making the posters.

Mrs. Harrington was door hostess and Mrs. Kilburn was in charge of the Christmas program also to obtain three small Christmas trees for the hall.

Refreshments were served.

B.P.W. Holds Dinner Meeting

The monthly dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club was held in Latimer's Town Room on Monday last presided by Mrs. Simone McFadden.

Mrs. Marjorie McCaw read a message from Mr. Maude Bayley, national president, on the occasion of national night. Miss Dorothy Dowdell, civic affairs chairman, reported on the forthcoming elections and gave a brief resume of the candidates seeking office.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown, immediate past president, led a business highlighting the resolutions and recommendations made at the provincial conference in Toronto in October. Member participation in session proved informative and interesting.

Displaying a table of varied talent effort by each individual member, Miss Florence Fitzgerald conducted an auction sale. The bidding moved along briskly and the auction was most successful.

FINE CLOTHS

Silk generally forms the base for fine brocade work in India, though cotton is sometimes included.

Coronation Club Entertains Ladies Of Eastminster

Despite inclement weather a successful pot-luck supper was held Monday evening when the Coronation Club members, entertained the ladies from Eastminster church.

Preceding the delicious supper, a brief business session was held, with the treasurer's reports being read, and the following nominations for officers in the 1957 season read by Lois Chaplin; president, Mrs. B. Crook; vice-president, Mrs. E. Scott; treasurer, Mrs. J. Clapp; secretary, Mrs. O. Summers; corresponding secretary and press reporter, M. Arnott; social convener, Mrs. G. Beverly; telephone convener, Mrs. M. Gardner and Mrs. C. Shaver; pianist, Mrs. M. Rydman; visiting committee, Mrs. G. Bateman and Mrs. B. Colbert; nominating committee, Ardith Leslie; Beth Inesson, Velma Leslie and Irebel McGee.

President Ardith Leslie welcomed the guests and on behalf of the Coronation club members, presented them with an appropriate gift for the Eastminster church.

Charlotte Kuntze, president of the Eastminster group, graciously accepted the gift.

After supper, a competitive bridge and euchre was held with the ladies participating in the game of their choice.

Prize winners in bridge and euchre were Mrs. Gwen Sutton and Mrs. C. Hoard.

At the close of the evening, a combined vote of thanks was expressed to hostesses, Mesdames Phyllis Stock, Viola Greating, Marjorie Lovelace, Eleanor Rankin, Ruth Sexsmith, Greta Power-ly, for a delightful supper pleasingly conveyed.

So-Eds Hold Dance, Form Bridge Club

The Belleville So-Ed Club held a dance at the Campbell Street YMCA on Wednesday evening last from 8.30 p.m. until midnight. The net receipts on this occasion will be donated to the Belleville Community Chest fund. There was an attendance of 74 persons.

The evening commenced with several Paul Jones' in order to let people acquainted, these being followed by normal dances and a virginia reel. From 9 p.m. to 9.45 p.m. was the apparently popular games period which consisted of a quizz with people there being divided into competing groups.

Square dancing filled in the time until refreshments were served. After the consumption of coffee and sandwiches, the regular dance program came into effect and dancing continued for the rest of the evening.

PROGRAM

The program commenced with a foxtrot and a jive number and a tango followed. After the energetic jubilee of many anxious feet attempting to polka there was a spot dance from which four lucky people emerged the winners of cigarets for the men and lipstick for the ladies, these were Gladys George and her partner, Allen Cassidy, Joan McCurdy and Neil Burgess.

Another jive number was next on the program after which there was a treasure chest elimination

Christ Church Evening Branch W.A. Sponsors Yuletide Bazaar

Softly muted lights, windows banked with fragrant pine, and smiling Santa Claus faces made of Christ church parish hall, yesterday afternoon, a Yuletide fiesta where friend met with friend, and eager purchasers selected that special Christmas gift for that some one special.

Welcoming the many guests to this fine bazaar and tea, held under the auspices of the Evening Branch of the W.A. were, Mrs. J. B. Creegan, Mrs. E. P. Smith and Mrs. A. G. Cooper, president of the branch, whose cheery smiles made each and all feel at ease.

In the auditorium upstairs, tea was served, where lovely garlands of green, loopes at intervals with Scotch pine and clusters of silver bells extended across the dark red curtains of the stage; and a gayly-lighted Christmas tree with its angel apex made a joyous atmosphere for those who remained to enjoy the delicious cups of tea, dainty sandwiches, and one-bite cookies and meringues.

UNUSUAL CENTREPIECE

Placed at intervals about the prettily appointed tea table, with its snow-white damask cloth, its attractive and unusual centre of a pyramidal Christmas tree of gleaming globes in colors of blue, scarlet, silver, gold and green, surrounded by seven tall, white-frosted, lighted candles, and flanked by long sprays of horizontal pines with frosted cones, were the little, quartet tables, some centred with lacy, white Christmas trees, others with singing choristers, and still others with little candles, all bespeaking the 'highlight' of the year.

Those who presided at the silver services were, Mrs. A. S. McConnell wife of the rector of St. Thomas' Anglican church; Mrs. L. Arthur Page, wife of the rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill; Mrs. G. G. Wright, wife of the late Rev. G. G. Wright, a former rector of Christ church; Mrs. W. Pepper and Mrs. A. G. Cooper.

SERVING—REPLENISHING

Those who served included, Mrs. B. Walmsley, Mrs. J. Spencer, Mrs. I. Reid, Mrs. A. Bennard, Mrs. G. E. Reid, Mrs. J. Fleming, Mrs. R. Ragsdale, and Mrs. F. Pope.

Replenishing the tea plates: Mrs. G. O'Brien, and Mrs. S. Beggs; while Mrs. Belle Wells, Mrs. C. Eaton and Mrs. F. Markle were engaged in preparing tea.

The decorating committee comprised Mrs. T. Clark, Miss Frances Reid and Miss Luella Morton, to whom goes a 'well done, ladies' for a most attractive decor.

The ticket conveners were: Mrs. H. Shanbo and Mrs. E. Green, while the treasurers for the day were: Mrs. B. Wells and Mrs. C. Eaton.

In the Sunday School room downstairs the various booths were assembled, including the home cooking, in charge of Mrs. Ray Reid, Mrs. T. Clark, Mrs. J. Miles, Mrs. W. Lancaster and Miss Ailee Rogers, where tempting loaves of homemade bread; walnut cakes; vanilla and chocolate cup cakes; blueberry pie, as well as mince and apple; cookies, fluffy and tiny, little jam tartlets; tea biscuits, so nice with honey, and a host of other good things.

A table was also spread with little jars of marmalades, jams and jellies of many kinds, and jars of pickled cucumbers, pickled cherries and relishes, fruit preserves and an tin of christmas pudding. These were convened by Mrs. J. Ling.

NOVELTIES — TOYS

Novelties and toys, under the oversight of Mrs. A. Culloden, Mrs. D. Donnelly, Mrs. W. Edwards and Mrs. C. Musclow was most attractive with Christmas decorations, suitable for doors; these were clusters of silver bells with silvered green boughs. Little pots of African violets; dolls' clothes; place mats woven in colors of pink, blue, yellow, green and white, with fringed edges; cute little washcloth dogs; dolls' crib quilts; umbrella handkerchiefs, and doll cushions.

The Junior W.A. was responsible for the delicious homemade candy which was accented by a snow-white church and the Nativity scene. There were cocoanut balls; maple creams; chocolate fudges, all nicely boxed, and some in cellophane bags, and little cute ones. Mrs. H. Clarke was the convener of these.

A delectable looking Christmas cake was in charge of Mrs. J. Macdonald, and the Christmas tree, of Mrs. A. C. Summers.

The linen and apron booth displayed a fine selection of articles; guest towels with lovely latted edges in variegated mauve and yellow; dainty aprons of every style, shape and color; crib quilts in pink and blue patchwork; children's dresses, one in blue with pretty smocking; baby sets in white and pink; red bonnets; tea cosies; fancy handkerchiefs; and a bevy of cute, little Peter Rabbits with pink ears and grey bodies; also a lone pussy cat with her paw on the lip of her tall; bath towels and knitted baby slippers with beige rabbits as vamp attractions. These were in charge of Mrs. A. Swain, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. F. Clare, Mrs. H. Stevens and Mrs. L. Shambo.

The bazaar convened by Mrs. G. Cherry and Mrs. C. D. Fuseen, was most successful, and officially opened by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, who remarked that the proceeds would in no wise go to the church, but were solely for the spreading of the Gospel to the regions beyond.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PROCEED SLOWLY AND CAREFULLY WITH THIS FRIENDSHIP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

About six months ago, I met a fellow I think a lot of and he has told me he thinks a lot of me, too. We had planned to get married, but not immediately, because we wanted to be sure. I'm 21 years old.

Recently, though, we had a fight about my parents. You see, my parents think I should see him only once a week, and to keep peace in the family I've gone along with them. He said I should put up a fight to see him more often. I guess I lost my head, because I told him to get out and not to bother me again. He has quite a temper sometimes, and is kind of stubborn, so he took me at my word and left. I've felt horrible ever since, but I don't know if I should make the first move or not. He's told other people that he still cares for me, but that he knows we could never get along.

The worst of it is that for the past few weeks he's been going with another girl, although my friends say that she doesn't really mean anything to him and he really hasn't forgotten me. I'm almost certain he'll never come back to me, though, because he once said that if I ever told him to go, he wouldn't "crawl back." But I can't bear to lose him just because of some hasty words, let alone to another girl.

Do you think I should overcome my fear, or pride, or whatever it is, and go back to him? — D.A.L.

Dear D.A.L.:

There is certainly nothing wrong in making a try to regain this boy's friendship if it means so much to you. And since it was you who precipitated the break, it is right for him to go away and not bother you again, it would naturally be up to you to take the first step toward setting things right by making an apology.

At the same time, I think you had better be cautious about renewing your friendship with him on a basis that you hope would lead to marriage. From what you say, this young man's attitude toward your parents does not give me full confidence that he would be a husband you could depend upon for loyal help in family problems you might have. I advise you to show friendliness, but no emotional sentimentality, when and if you decide to bid for his olive branch.

Don't indicate, either, that you intend to retreat from your position in regard to your parents' wishes. It would be most unwise to let this chap get the impression that you had allowed him to bully you into doing what he wished. If he brings up the subject about which you quarrelled—and don't you be the one to bring it up—suggest to him that he take it up in a nice way with your parents and see if courtesy, respect and diplomacy on his part might win permission for you to go out with him more often.

Of course it may be that your parents have seen in him this bullying tendency I've mentioned, or perhaps other qualities which make them disapprove of him as a possible eventual husband for you, and for this reason want to discourage too close a friendship between you. And they may be quite right.

My suggestion would be that you write him a little note, not to beg him to come back, but just to say you're sorry about the quarrel and that you want to apologize for any angry words you said. You could add that you miss him and would be glad to see him sometime, if he felt like getting in touch with you, but let it go at that.

Then see what response he makes. You'll have opened the door to resume the friendship if he wishes to do so, and if he doesn't take you up on it, then you had better just accept the fact that that's the way he wants it—and that it proves his feeling for you was not the kind that develops into the loving loyalty you'd want in a husband.

EDEN SOAKS UP SUN

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Prime Minister Eden is getting a light tan from daily bathing under the Caribbean sun. He arrived Saturday for a three-week rest cure, and is being afforded strict privacy. Police chased away a photographer who tried to take a picture of Eden from a motorboat.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

THE GLAMOUR GRAB BAG

A brisk "shower" under the cold water tap after bathing in warm water relieves aching, tired feet.

Let's make this a sort of glamour grab bag. Let's cram into it all sorts of beauty tricks—from ways to use rouge to brushing the feet! — that will improve a girl's looks.

Since rouge did get first mention: Would you believe there are some fashion consultants who think rouge is so misused that most faces look better without any? That happens to be true.

But you must suit yourself. Just try to take a critical look at your usual method of application. You can tell whether you tend to rub on the rouge on your skin to make a harsh spot of colors.

If you use rouge, apply it before you go over your face with your cake or liquid foundation. Apply it with a light touch and make it so light it fades into the skin tones. Cake rouge goes on nicely with a fresh ball of cotton which may be discarded after a single application and that will avoid those messy grease smears on the rouge cake.

You may use your lipstick as rouge. Rub the lipstick across your inner wrist, add a dab of light skin cream, blend cream and cream together, then apply the blend to your face. You must dilute the lip rouge with cream. Otherwise, you will find that you pull the facial skin to get on your application and, also, that the bright pigment may park in the pores.

Used cleverly, an extremely light application of rouge under the eye may "reduce" puffiness along the jawline.

When you put on your foundation, make sure it merges with the hairline, covers the ears, back of the ears if your hair does not conceal this light skin, and over your throat down to the dress neckline.

Then when you remove your foundation, wrap your hair in a towel so that it is pulled safely back from the face and you won't be inclined to skip to save your wave.

Go over the collars and neck lines of your dark dresses each night with a clean spot remover. That takes seconds! It assures daintiness next time you don the same frock.

So far I haven't mentioned a single expensive beauty aid. It just happens that cotton and brushes of the kind you'll need for quick routine that follows are negligible in cost. The brush in question is the old-fashioned, tough bristled scrubbing brush found around for one. All set with it? Then here is a quickie of a pick-me-up, guaranteed to take the tiredness out of the business girl before her date.

Glamour Quickie: Soak in your warm tub as long as your time permits. Let the water begin draining out and turn on the cold water tap. With your washcloth, squeeze cold, cold water over the back of your neck and shoulders. Keep it up for three or four minutes. Then hop out and towel yourself briskly down to the knees. Stick your feet and legs under the cold tap and scrub them thoroughly with the scrub brush, which is somewhat softened by ordinary cooking (along with you!) in the hot tub. Scrub for five minutes; then out, dry off and see how rested you feel. And look.

OFF TO BERMUDA

HALIFAX (CP) — Four destroyer escorts and a frigate steamed for southern waters Wednesday to take part in exercises off Bermuda. The navy said the destroyer escorts Algonquin, Micmac, St. Laurent and Assiniboine and frigate Buckingham will be back in Halifax by mid-December.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FORMS FOR COLLEGE INTRODUCTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am a freshman at college quite a distance from my home. Very soon my mother and father are coming here to visit me for the weekend. I do wish you would please set me straight about several forms of introduction. The first is: How should I introduce my mother to a man professor?

2. How should I introduce my father to a woman professor? .

3. How should I introduce a classmate, or other college friend, to my parents? — Anne W.

1. First, Anne, I'd like to "set you straight" about how this question should be worded: you should introduce the man professor to your mother (not, as you say, "introduce my mother to a man professor"). There is a double rule to remember about this: (a) a man is introduced to a woman), and (b) when the woman is your mother, everyone, woman and man, is introduced to her. So say, for example, "Mother, this is Professor Adams. My mother, Mrs. Wilson." (I suggest that in this case you simply omit the name, since the professor may not at once recall your name, and he'll appreciate your helping him out.) Instead of using the form "this is," you may simply mention the names, and very distinctly. Or you may use the more formal "may I introduce Professor Adams." And when you introduce a woman professor to your mother, use any of these forms I have mentioned.

2. When you introduce your father to a woman professor, mention her name first: "Professor Colton—my father, Mr. Wilson, or "Professor Colton, this is my father, Mr. Wilson," or "Professor Colton, may I introduce my father, Mr. Wilson." (Your father's name is to be mentioned for the same reason as name-identification to the professor.)

3. "Mother, this is Nancy Hill, a classmate who lives in my house"; or "Marie, this is my father . . . Marie Lane, Father."

(You will, of course, use the title customarily used for the individual professor . . . "Professor" or "Dr." or "Mr." or "Mrs." or "Miss.")

PROPER FOR WIDOW TO SEND ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT TO NEWSPAPER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am wondering if it would be proper for me to send the announcement of my engagement to the newspaper. I am a widow, 35 years of age. My husband died 3 years ago. I have no children. Since my husband's death I have lived with my parents. My fiance would like to have our engagement announced. I have never in the newspaper the announcements of the engagements of women who have been married before, but I am not sure that in my case it would be correct. We are planning to be married in the Spring, perhaps in June. — M.S.

When the bride-to-be is a very young widow, the announcement of her engagement may properly be sent to the newspaper. But it is considered good form for the announcement of the engagement of a widow of more mature years to be sent to the newspapers.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I am enjoying your column and I wonder if you can help me. I would like to have a recipe for one loaf of white bread. All the recipes that I can find are for three, four, etc. I am the only eater of white bread and would very much like to make my own. Also I am glad that the Christmas cake recipes are on the way. I have the 1954 one and that will be hard to beat. Not too expensive either.— (Lilian F.).

ANSWER:

Thanks for both of your cheerful letters. You know I think that you should make bread with whole wheat—but I'm delighted to know that you are going to get your hands into the dough—and hope that the whole wheat bread treats will come later.

HOMEMADE BREAD—1 LOAF

One half cup plus 2 tablespoons lukewarm milk or water or potato water, 1 1-2 tablespoons sugar, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1 pkg. dry granular yeast, 1-2 cup lukewarm water, 1 tablespoon soft shortening, 3 1-2 to 3 2-3 cups sifted all purpose or bread flour. Soak yeast in 1-2 cup lukewarm water for 10 minutes without stirring—then stir a little. In a large bowl mix together the 1-2 cup plus 2 tablespoons warm milk or water and the sugar and the salt. Add soaked and stirred yeast and soft shortening and mix with a spoon. Add the flour and mix first with a spoon and then by hand. Knead on lightly floured board, making 50 one quarter turns—folding dough over, punching with heels of palms, turn 1-4 turn, repeating 50 times. Replace in scraped-down bowl, grease top and cover. Let rise till doubled and light. Punch down, turn over. Cover and let rise again. Shape into a loaf, place in greased loaf pan, let rise until 1 inch above rim. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 25 to 30 minutes.

QUESTION:

May I have recipe for Pineapple bread?—(Mrs. V. M.)

ANSWER:

PINEAPPLE BREAD

One egg well beaten, 3-4 cup milk, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon melted shortening, 1 cup sifted all purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon baking soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-2 cup whole wheat flour, 1-2 cup drained, shredded pineapple, 1-3 cup chopped dates. Combine milk, egg, orange rind, and shortening, sift together dry ingredients and add (all but whole wheat flour). Then add whole wheat flour and fruits and mix thoroughly. Bake loaf pan, at 375 deg. Fahr. for 50 minutes or until done.

Sunday School Lesson

Peace of Mind or Pills

By ROY L. SMITH

There is something just a bit cynical in the fact that the American people enjoy more of the good things of life—gadgets, comforts, television, air conditioning, deep freezes, and progressed foods—and yet their two most common and serious problems are reducing and sleeplessness. No nation on earth buys more books on the subject of peace of mind, and no nation consumes more sleeping pills in any 24 hour period. We seem to have the most and get the least out of it of any race or nation on earth.

AN INSIDE JOB

Among their many services to this generation, the psychologists and psychiatrists have made it perfectly plain that the attainment of peace of mind is an inside job. No man has ever yet been able to put-it on like a topcoat. Neither can anyone achieve it by eating an expensive steak.

"The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 2: "Let not your hearts be troubled," John 14.

Mental problems must be solved with mental means. This means that disastrous ideas must be countered by constructive thinking. There are those—landlords, land brokers, mortgage holders, and sanitary engineers—who can wreck our houses and our properties, but no one has the power to think for us. Our thinking is our own. If it is wrong, we have to correct it; if it is right, we have to protect it. The Bible says, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he," and also says, "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it cometh the issues of life." And that's our business; it cannot be delegated.

The service that good religion can render appears precisely at this point. It offers us a series of creative and constructive ideas which, if we accept them and make them our own, have a positive and redemptive value.

Peace of mind can only be built up on the solid base of a profound religious faith. A young man returning from a summer in Europe fell into conversation with an older man who was travelling on the same boat, and who was very rich. The youngster, with the brashness so typical of youth, said to the older man, "If I had all your money, I'd sure have a time!" "Yes," the older man replied, "a very little time." His possessions had not brought him peace of mind. They had only crowded his life with cares. In contrast to the uneasy rich man there was the humble man, of relatively small means, who went about the boat day after day like a shining sun. When questioned about his merry spirit, he said to someone, "It all comes up from the inside. I am a religious man, you know."

We can forget about the doctrinal debates that have gone on concerning the nature and person of Jesus of Nazareth. Let us accept Him for what He said He was—a representative of God. His statement that anyone who had seen Him had seen God was either an unparalleled piece of impudence, or it was the most profound thing any man has ever said. And it is possible to prove it by a very simple process. Test it in our own experience.

No man has ever found in Jesus anything he would not want to find in God, and he has never sought anything in God that he has not found in Jesus.

If any man is in doubt about life, let him lift the circumstances up and compare them with the judgments of Jesus. He will not be left to doubt very long.

RAWDON

Young Couple Honored by Many Friends

RAWDON — On Friday evening over 100 neighbors and friends gathered at the home of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McGee, Rawdon township, in honor of their recent marriage.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was master of ceremonies. He welcomed the bride and wished the young couple every success along life's highway.

Mr. Grant Richardson led the sing-song with Mrs. Vernon Matthews as pianist, who also contributed a piano selection.

Appropriate readings were given by Mrs. Frank McGee, Mrs. John McIlroy, Mrs. Grant Richardson and Mrs. Louis Rodgers.

Miss Beverly McIlroy contributed piano music, while Messrs. Don Rodgers, Phil Carr and Mr. Harold Bonter of Belleville, each spoke briefly wishing the newlyweds every happiness.

ADDRESS READ

Mrs. Hiram Rodgers read an address of appreciation while Messrs. Grant Richardson, Clifford Heath, Kenneth Mumby, Morris Morrison and Cecil Nelson made the presentation of a platform upholstered rocker, 5-piece bridge set, bassock and cushion on behalf of neighbors and friends. They also were the recipients of several individual gifts from relatives who were in attendance from Belleville, Wooler and Stirling.

The newlyweds voiced grateful thanks for the lovely evening arranged in their honor and the useful gifts and invited everyone to visit them.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

A VOTE FOR BOTH

IS A VOTE FOR LOWER TAXES

The issues before, the voters of Belleville, in the present Municipal Election are of utmost importance to each and every citizen in our community, as the future of our fair city is at stake and hangs in the balance at the present time. I will explain some of the facts in this short speech as they exist today, and as they were during the two years I had the honor of being mayor of this dear city of ours.

This year your taxes increased 10%. This meant extra dollars out of the pockets of all. What have we received for these extra dollars? Have we received new streets? No. Have we obtained new parks? No. Have we obtained our fair share of industry? No. Then what have we received? We have a City Manager presently being paid ten thousand dollars a year and slated in six months to receive an increase of twenty percent. We have received extragances. Should the citizens remain quiet and should I remain quiet when over four thousand dollars of your money is slated to provide an executive suite for the Mayor and the City Manager. Am I to remain quiet when this executive suite is to be broadloomed from wall to wall.

Ladies and Gentlemen. I cannot remain quiet. These things bother me as they bother you. We cannot afford them.

Our debenture debt is close to four million dollars and this means a mortgage debt on each and every property in this city. The present debenture debt will take many years to pay and this debt is also the second highest in Ontario in cities of comparable size. When I left office this debenture debt had been reduced to three and one-half million dollars. But this reduction did not just happen — it came about through prudence and economy.

There were no extravagances when I was in office and there will be no extravagances when I return.

But only you, the electors of Belleville, can insure the return of economy at the City Hall.

According to press reports our present Mayor has stated—"there is nothing wrong with Belleville that dollars and cents can't cure"—there are very few, if any, economic situations that dollars and cents won't cure, but what is disquieting about this statement, and it certainly reflects the policy of our present Mayor is that the spending is to continue and continue.

Remember, we do not have the tax gathering power of the government in Ottawa or Queens Park. These monies that are being spent are paid directly by you, the people of Belleville, on your property.

We cannot continue spending your money like water. There is a limit to the burden you can carry, and our taxes are very close to the edge of disaster.

I have proven during my tenure of office that it is possible to reduce taxes and debenture debt.

In conclusion I would ask you to remember two points —

When I was Mayor the tax rate was reduced.

When I was Mayor your dreenture debt was cut by five hundred thousand dollars.

These are facts, not fiction.

On Monday, I urge you to vote for me, Jack Both, as your Mayor for the coming year and protect the investment we all have in this city.

Stop Extravagance!

SHANNONVILLE

Cheryl Juby Entertains on 6th Birthday

SHANNONVILLE — Saturday evening proved to be a happy time for six-year-old Cheryl Juby, when her little friends, Linda Johnson, Brenda Westlake, and Jonathon Harrington assembled at her home to wish her many happy returns of the day on the occasion of her sixth birthday, and to present her with little tokens of their friendship.

The birthday cake, decorated in white, with six pink candles, place mats in pink, with little baskets of candy at each plate, added to the attractiveness of the tea table.

The children donned fancy paper hats and sang, "Happy Birthday" which pleased Cheryl very much.

During the evening, they enjoyed playing numerous games.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt visited Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Green, Marmora, on Thursday evening.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Earl McAdam, who celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary on November 31st.

Mrs. J. McKeown, is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. O. Mathiejohn, Mr. Mathiejohn and family, at Belle Vista Motel, Marmora.

The November meeting of St. Mark's W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Heath, with a splendid attendance. Plans were made for the catering for a wedding and the community sale on December 3rd.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Heath, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. V. Heath, attended a birthday dinner in honor of Mr. Mac. Anderson.

The United Church W. A. of Springbrook met at the home of Mrs. Thomas McKeown. Two minutes' silence were observed in memory of the late Mrs. Ida Williams who passed away since the October meeting.

Mrs. Ed. Bateman was in charge of the meeting, each responded to the roll call by a donation to be sent by Mrs. Beare to Missions in Kores.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Mason.

A donation was received from Mrs. Mel Neal and $107.13 was realized from catering to Williams' sale.

Miss Doris Thompson and Roy Thompson, Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ken Thompson.

Mrs. Chris. Burkitt visited her brothers, Will and Charles and families of Rylestone.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thomson and Andrew spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. James Spry.

St. Mark's Anglican Church held its turkey supper on Wednesday evening, when one of the largest crowds of people sat down to a sumptuous repast.

Mrs. E. Heath and Mrs. G. Campney were in charge of the bazaar department.

Mr. Russell and Hubert Andrews received word that their brother Orrie Andrews had been seriously hurt in a car-transport accident. Orrie lives in Hamilton, his mother, Mrs. Mabel Andrews and Mr. Will Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Post and Mrs. Ethel Badgley, left by car and spent the weekend in Hamilton.

Mr. Jim Mumby is a patient in Belleville hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Allan McComb in Sidney.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown, visited Mrs. Rita Hallestone, at Madoc, on Sunday.

Mrs. Ken McAlpine is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. Chesher, Mr. Chesher and family, in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Hubbie and family, of Campbellford, visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Henderson, (nee Faye Wellman), were tendered a charivari at the home of the Wellman family on Thursday evening. A short enjoyable evening was spent with the newlyweds.

They left for their new home in Toronto on Friday.

Mrs. D. Wellman and Charlie spent the weekend in Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. Dave Henderson.

The deer hunters have all returned home.

Friends here were sorry to hear of the death of the late Mrs. T. Solmes of Marmora. Mr. Solmes is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Solmes, of Springbrook.

35 Nominations For 14 Positions At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD. — There was a good attendance at the town of Campbellford nomination meeting held in the Masonic hall ere, on Monday night, when a total of 35 nominations were made to fill 14 positions. Council consists of the mayor, reeve, deputy-reeve and six councillors. Two members of the public utilities commission and three members of the public school board retire each year.

Nominations were received by Clerk Eldon M. Ibey as follows: Mayor, R. J. Locke, D. R. Maybee, William Nicholas; reeve—R. J. Locke, D. R. Maybee, George Nicholls, George Free, F. M. Rutherford; deputy-reeve—Isobel C. Tatham, William Nicholas, F. M. Rutherford, George Free; council—George H. Vice, F. H. Macmillan, F. S. Linton, George Free, George Nicholls, P. G. O'Sullivan, Edith Macmillan, J. Torrance, C. Pollock, Charles Thompson, Isobel C. Tatham, Ray Hall, William Masterson, George Rose, H. L. Macmillan; public utilities commission—A. C. Newman, R. J. A. McGregor, R. S. Locke, George H. Vice, H. MacArthur; public school trustees—H. L. Macmillan, G. W. Rose, F. R. Dennis, H. E. Cryderman.

Upon the close of nominations, Clerk Eldon M. Ibey presided for the public meeting, and the various nominees addressed the voters.

When Mr. Locke and Mr. Nicholas withdrew, Mr. Maybee was elected mayor.

George Rose withdrew and will run for council. The three remaining candidates were elected by acclamation.

Mayor R. J. Locke spoke briefly regarding the industrial committee, and said the Bata Shoe Company were now employing about 40 persons in their new plant, and another 100 persons will begin operation soon will employ about 35 at the start.

COMMITTEE PRAISED

He spoke on the success of the Old Home Week and said he had never seen the town look as well as it did during the week. He praised the committee responsible for the success of the venture, and said the entire operation was carried out without any cost to the ratepayers. The committee was able to finance its own operations.

As chairman of the hospital board, he said industrialists who visited the town were quite impressed with the modern building and that it was a great asset to the town. The town of Campbellford makes a grant each year of $300 to the hospital, which costs the citizens about $1.10 each per year. He said it cost each citizen in Peterborough about $3.25 per year for hospital grants, so that the Campbellford cost was low compared to other municipalities.

A. C. Newman, chairman of the PUC, said the commission was ahead of last year financially. He also said that despite rumors to the contrary, the commission had no intention of selling the power plant or other holdings. The generating station last year had been completely overhauled and a complete new switchgear installed. All work was done out of current assets, and the commission was still able to make a grant of $6,000 to the town, to help reduce taxes.

Mr. Newman explained why the PUC had to cut off the rural lines and supply power to the town only. Only about 20 per cent of rural consumers in the Campbellford area used town power, he said. The other 80 per cent purchased their power from hydro.

Last year the town plant generated a total of almost 11,500,000 kilowatts of power, of which about 20 per cent was sold to rural consumers. He said it cost the PUC about $6,000 to carry the rural lines last year.

Reeve Maybee, warden of the united counties, spoke briefly, outlining the heavy costs borne during the year by the road and bridge department, of which he is the chairman. He said he would allow his name to stand for mayor.

TALKS ON ASSESSMENT

Deputy-reeve F. M. Rutherford spoke regarding the town dump, saying that it is now in poor condition, and that a caretaker is needed to supervise the dumping of garbage. He said it also should be covered with fill.

Speaking of the new equalized assessment, he said the old assessment for the town of Campbellford was $1,324,000. This was raised under the new assessment to $3,493,000, but last year council managed to have the figure lowered to $2,970,000. He said he hoped to have the figure lowered again next year.

He told of his efforts in having the Bata Shoe company enlarge their production in the town. He said he spent a considerable amount of time and effort to have the plant located in Campbellford, and received little co-operation from the council in this regard. He said the plant would be employing about 70 persons by the end of the year.

Crofton

CROFTON—Mrs. E. Crook was a dinner guest of Mrs. George Hutson on Saturday evening.

Mrs. D. B. Munro spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vangeezen and David at Glenora.

Mr. George Hutson was the guest of his son and family, Mr. Ted Hutson, Mrs. Hutson and Glenn at Roslin over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Allan, Mr. and Mrs. R. Crook and Mrs. E. Crook were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theran Allan at Peterborough.

Master Gary Gray of Jericho is spending some time with his grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Gray.

Mrs. D. B. Munro spent Friday with friends in Wellington.

F. R. Dennis, chairman of the public school board, said the school had a record of 533 pupils with nine classrooms in the large school and seven in the smaller one. There are 16 full time teachers, one part-time teacher and a part-time music teacher. Salaries for teachers alone total $38,000. Minimum and maximum salaries were increased by $200 last year.

NEED MORE SPACE

Regarding the need of a new school, Mr. Dennis said that two classrooms have been built in the basement of the present school as a temporary measure. He said he expected conditions would not be much worse next year or the year after, but said that in 1959 additional space would have to be found, and that a new school would probably be needed.

Councillor P. G. O'Sullivan said he was successful in getting council set aside one-half mill as a reserve fund to purchase a new fire truck when it was needed. This amounts to about $1,200. The present truck is 10 years old, and has only an 80 gallon tank, and although it will serve the purpose for a few more years, it will eventually have to be replaced. He said he would stand for council.

Councillor William Nicholas said he had served a total of six years on council, and one year as reeve, and that he would run for deputy-reeve this year.

Councillor F. S. Linton, chairman of the finance committee, showed the electors a large graph, showing a breakdown of what happened to the tax dollars in the town of Campbellford. Education took 31.02 cents of the tax dollar, which is the largest single expenditure. Other costs are as follows: streets, 14.8 cents; county levy, 14.2 cents, health, 4.3 cents; protection, (police and fire), 8.77 cents; industrial, 4.34 cents; debt charges, 3.3 cents; parks and sewers, 3.2 cents; administration, 3.2 cents; garbage collection, 3.19 cents; unclassified 3.38 cents. He said the result run again for council.

Councillor Isobel Tatham said that after six years on council she would run for deputy-reeve. She is chairman of the hospital committee.

RELIEF COSTS LOWER

Councillor George Nicholls said he was completing his third year as councillor, and that he spent what little of the taxpayers' money over which he had jurisdiction as though he was operating his own business.

As chairman of the relief committee, he said relief costs were now lower than they had been in several years. Costs have dropped from $1,800 during the first term of office, to only about $800 so far this year. He attributed 'better times' and the fact that on many occasions he had been able to find jobs for the persons seeking relief. He will stand for council.

Robert J. A. McGregor of the PUC said he advocated development of the commission's resources by increasing the output of the local power plant rather than buying power from the HEPC.

He said if this were done the rural lines could be retained. He said the commission made a profit on power sold to rural consumers and that the rural lines were not carried at a deficit as shown by the chairman of the PUC. He said the commission made a grant of $6,000 to the town last year, and that he did not remember the town asking for it, nor did he believe it was passed at any meeting of the PUC.

He said he had figures from an engineering firm in Quebec, regarding expanding facilities at the town power plant, and advocated the installation of a third generator. He will run again for PUC.

SURPLUS FOR YEAR

William McCombe reported as the representative to the High school board, saying that the board spent a total of $88,013 during 1956, but took in $106,945, ending up with a surplus of about $9,500. He explained that a distribution of assets of the old area board and increased government grants had accounted for the surplus.

In summing up, Mayor R. J. Locke said that a European industrialist, who had been brought to the town by the Lake Ontario Development Association, had shown great interest, and had written to the council saying that he would again visit the town with a view to establishing a factory here. He said that if his name appeared on the ballot, it would be for reeve.

School Child Right Leg Broken

MARMORA (Special) — Mary Ann Kilpatrick, public school age daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kilpatrick of this village, suffered a multiple fracture of her right leg here yesterday when struck by a car during noon hour.

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario Astute Politician, Loyal Friend, Has Served Province 7 Years

ONTARIO PREMIER

The usually dignified Leslie Misconbeth Frost, premier of Ontario, wears a fur hat and a sunbrowker in this informal picture. At a break from his busy office hours — he often works 15 hours a day—he loves to get out on a lake or stream to fish. Born in Orillia, Ont., he entered politics when he was 39. He was sworn in as premier in May, 1949, and since then has won two provincial elections, in 1951 and 1955. (CP Photo.)

TORONTO (CP)—On a rainy November night in 1951, a usually dignified Leslie Miscampbell Frost rode on a firetruck through the town of Lindsay, triumphantly waving a fireman's helmet.

It was a rare demonstration for the six-foot, silver-haired premier of Ontario. He normally avoids the more flamboyant acts associated with politicians.

But it was amiable. His Progressive Conservative party had just swept Ontario for the largest legislature majority in the province's history, in the first election test of his leadership.

SUCCESSFUL CAMPAINING

Mr. Frost became premier in 1949 after George Drew resigned to lead the federal Progressive Conservative party. At that time, he was the only Conservative premier in Canada. Some observers suggested he rode in on Mr. Drew's coat-tails but in elections in 1951 and 1955 he demonstrated his own vote-getting power.

In 1949, the Conservatives held 83 of the 90 legislature seats. In 1951, Mr. Frost and his party won 79 of the 90.

Before the 1955 election, constituencies were distributed in the assembly have been called by the opposition "Frost's menagerie."

Opposition members credit the premier with being an astute politician but Mr. Frost doesn't like to be feared. He says it denotes playing on people's needs to stay in power.

POST-WAR ACHIEVEMENTS

He attributes the Conservatives' success to the party's accomplishments during the post-war period.

"The people have what they want—good government and prosperity," he says. If pressed, he'll say the prosperity probably would have come anyway, "but we brought it farther and faster."

On the public platform, he has an air of frankness, calm reason and friendliness dignity. His bright grey eyes seem to be looking at individuals even in a crowd.

Back of this, however, is an alive and tough mind with an acute sense of timing and a creative feeling for public opinion.

Mr. Frost has combined these traits—and others—to make himself one of the most successful party leaders in Ontario's history, and the premier—he prefers the title "prime minister"—has almost unshakable faith in his own leadership.

OVER-SEE GROUP

The 14 Liberal and CCF members in the legislature are surrounded by Progressive Conservatives, who form too large a group to sit on the traditionally government side of the house.

Mr. Frost carries his 209-pound frame sweetly and walks briskly, despite his years and a first world war limp wound.

His left hip was shattered by a sniper's bullet while he was serving in France. A year ago he was in hospital for 10 days for treatment after the hip became too painful for him to carry on. He still limps slightly.

Courteous and often formal on first acquaintance, he has a bright sense of humor that makes his eyes sparkle, and a deep, happy chuckle.

He is quick to rise against what he considers unjust criticism. Then his face flushes and his mouth sets into a firm, narrow line. On the other hand, he is an attentive listener both to delegations and to opposition speakers and frequently nods approvingly if he thinks they make a good point.

He is known as a loyal friend. He likes to sit with acquaintances and talk, relaxing informally in a comfortable chair and puffing at a cigaret.

When speaking, he is quiet and uses a personal approach that impresses listeners as sincere and logical. He likes to preface statements with: "My friends, . . " or "Well now, as you may know. . "

A favorite phrase is "this great province of ours . . " When he uses it he often raises his arm outward and upward, much like a magician showing he has nothing hidden up his sleeve.

An example of his political acumen — opposition leader Farquhar Oliver has called him "that old political smoothie"—was the 1951 election.

The vote was called by Mr. Frost shortly after the opposition charged that irregularities in awarding highway contracts had cost Ontario millions of dollars.

The majority report of a select committee, appointed to investigate was signed by government members and called for revision of contract - letting procedure. The minority report by opposition members asked for a royal commission and said over-runs on contracts, amounting to $28,000,000, were a deliberate attempt to defraud the government.

CAMPAIGN INCIDENT

During campaigning with highways a major opposition target, federal Finance Minister McCann told Mr. Frost that James Dempsey, Conservative member for Renfrew South, had improperly accepted campaign funds from a private concern in the 1951 election.

Mr. Frost denied Mr. Dempsey party support. He stumped the province, saying that if anything was wrong his government had taken swift remedial action. He outlined Ontario's prosperity, promised to fight to maintain it and rested his case.

The result was so decisive that a government victory was apparent little more than an hour after the polls closed.

Mr. Frost's faith in Ontario is unbounded. He frequently says he wants to devote his entire political life to the province. "After 15 years of serving Ontario, I'd feel lost anywhere else," he says.

His interest in Ontario goes into the past, too. He is a devoted amateur historian, and his friends say he knows the background of every farm and old building near Lindsay, where he lives. He has started a policy of marking Ontario's historical sites.

Few of the items he admires most are Conservative Sir John A. Macdonald and Liberal William Lyon Mackenzie King.

MR KING'S ADVICE

He treasures a personal letter written by Mr. King after newspapers reported that Mr. Frost had lost his temper during a legislature debate. The letter advised him against letting anything shake his temper and urged him to take lots of time for relaxation. The premier tries to do both.

Colleagues have said Mr. Frost forgot one not previously in cabinet meetings. Few questions are asked of his premiership in the legislature without him rising to insert a few remarks.

Mr. Frost won for himself a reputation as a peacemaker in 1951 when he delivered the premier and carried the peacemaking traits with him into negotiations with the federal government after 1949. For several years there were few open disputes between Ontario and Ottawa which did not, after at least one long session, find a basis for agreements.

However, he objected strongly to the latest federal proposals to pay provinces a lump sum for use of provincial tax fields, saying they place an unfair burden on the provinces. He said he will keep fighting to win a better deal for his province.

Mr. Frost was 39 when he entered politics. He ran unsuccessfully as a Conservative candidate in 1931 but was elected three years later. His debating ability brought him quickly through the ranks and he was made deputy House opposition leader and financial critic.

GIVEN CABINET POST

When Mr. Drew formed a government in 1943, Mr. Frost was appointed mines minister and provincial treasurer. He held two ministerial posts until last year—mines and treasury until 1949 and treasury and premier until 1955.

He was sworn in as premier in May, 1949, after being elected by a party convention. He succeeded George Kennedy, who had been appointed premier after Mr. Drew's resignation until a convention could name a new premier.

As provincial treasurer, he set an Ontario record for bringing down successive budgets—11 in all in all his budgets, Mr. Frost reported a surplus on current account. When he brought down his first budget in 1944, he reported a surplus revenue of $123,000,000 and in his last in 1955 the revenues were more than $425,000,000.

Mr. Frost lives in a large, white house on Lake Couchiching north east of Toronto, where he established a law office with his brother Cecil in 1921. He says he hopes to live out his retirement there.

He does not keep a home in Toronto, preferring to stay at a hotel during the week and drive home for weekends.

As a break from long office hours—he often works 15 hours a day—he loves to get out on a lake or stream to fish. He enjoys trout fishing in northwestern Ontario.

The Royal Ontario Museum, which recently began an investigation of, the relics, announced Thursday that Dodd's stepson Walter had told them his stepfather perpetrated a hoax.

At the museum, Walter had identified the relics—for which his stepfather was paid $500—as objects which he saw William Dodd plant at the Beardmore mine site 56 years ago.

The Beardmore relics had been the source of journeys believed to have been made by the Norsemen to regarded as the last authentic evidence of the Norsemen to regarded as the last authentic evidence of the heart of the continent.

CONSCIENCE TROUBLED

Walter Dodd said his conscience had troubled him about a sworn affidavit he said his stepfather made him sign when he was 15.

The 39-year-old odd-job man's sworn statement, delivered to Dr. A. D. Tushingham, head of the museum's department of archaeology, described a trip he took with his prospector stepfather to Beardmore.

"It was in 1930—or it may have been 1931—that my father found these articles in the basement of the Alvchar Street house in Port Arthur.

"I remember that there was a short bar, that could be held with a handle with a shape like a cigar a sword broken in two pieces and an axe head much like a hatchet. I don't remember that there was

DESCRIBES TRIP

He said his stepfather took him by train from Port Arthur to the mine site when the relics were planted.

"In the morning, I went with him to the claim. My father had the iron pieces with him. He laid them on the ground at a spot where he had been blasting some time before."

The father, who died two years ago, steadfastly maintained he had uncovered the weapons after a dynamite blast.

Walter Dodd said that when the hoax became famous and the authenticity of the relics established by experts, the stepfather told him to sign an affidavit that he had been there when the discovery was made.

"I hardly bothered to read it and boldly I was afraid of my father, so I signed it. But my conscience has been bothering me."

How would a Port Arthur prospector come to have Viking weapons? There is no doubt of their authenticity—in the cellar of his home?

During the height of the fanfare heralding the find, a Port Arthur contractor, J. M. Hanson, said he had been given similar objects by an expatriate Norwegian army officer as security for a loan. They were left in the basement of the house subsequently rented by Dodds. He claimed then that the relics were the ones he had been given.

Two years ago Mr. Hanson, now nearing 70, made the museum take a look at the relics and said they did not appear to be the same.

But he said Thursday he did not realize that the sword on display was one piece, the hatchet another.

"However, I would have thought the two pieces put together would have made a much shorter sword."

The late Dr. Johnson Broccolieud of Copenhagen, an authority sent to investigate so-called Norse finds, delivered an attack on the authenticity of the Kensington Stone of Minnesota and Rhode Island's Newport Tower, but came to the conclusion that James Dodd's story was probably true.

NOT CERTAIN

But he said it had been impossible to produce clear evidence in support of the find.

Dr. Tushingham emphasized that while the museum regards Walter Dodd's statement as an important development, museum officers are continuing the investigation with the hope that a conclusive finding finally can be made.

The museum says the $500 paid to Dodd was what the relics were worth no matter where they were found.

FIND MISSING SEAMEN

SINGAPORE (AP) — Police in Johore state said Wednesday they had found and rescued more than 200 Chinese and Malay fishermen reported missing after gales swept away 80 fishcraft off the east coast of Malaya Monday.

Royal Ontario Museum Says Sagas of Viking Trips May Be Myths, Have to Be Rewritten

TORONTO (CP) — History-book sagas of Viking journeys far inland in North America 1,000 years ago may have to be rewritten.

Twenty-six years, ago William Edward Dodd was reported to have found a Norse sword, an axe head and a small cigar-shaped stone—said to be evidence of Norse exploration—at an old mine site near Lake Nipigon in northwestern Ontario.

The museum says Walter had identified the relics—for which his stepfather was paid $500—as objects which he saw William Dodd plant at the Beardmore mine site 56 years ago.

The Beardmore relics had been the source of journeys believed to have been made by the Norsemen to regarded as the last authentic evidence of the heart of the continent.

But he said it had been impossible to produce clear evidence in support of the find.

Dr. Tushingham emphasized that while the museum regards Walter Dodd's statement as an important development, museum officers are continuing the investigation with the hope that a conclusive finding finally can be made.

The museum says the $500 paid to Dodd was what the relics were worth no matter where they were found.

FIND MISSING SEAMEN

SINGAPORE (AP) — Police in Johore state said Wednesday they had found and rescued more than 200 Chinese and Malay fishermen reported missing after gales swept away 80 fishcraft off the east coast of Malaya Monday.

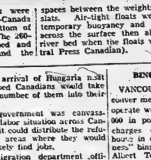
RIVERS ARE BUT TEMPORARY BLOCK TO GAS PIPELINES

Thirty 6,000-pound concrete weights were placed on the section of the 34-inch trans-Canada gas pipeline that will remain on the bottom of the Assiniboine River at Miniota, Man. The 260-foot section was double-coated and wrapped and protected with shiplap rock shields and the spaces between the weights covered with wooden slats. Air-tight floats were attached to give a temporary buoyancy and the pipe was winched across the surface then allowed to sink to the river bed when the floats were removed. (Central Press Canadian).

May Supply Food As Part of Plan To Aid Hungary

OTTAWA (CP)—Some of the $1,000,000 Canada is giving for Hungarian relief may possibly be used to supply food, the government leader in the Senate said Thursday night.

Solicitor-General Macdonald also told the Senate the government has no idea how many Hungarian refugees may eventually come to Canada. But the will open her doors to all who want to make their country their home.



Senator Macdonald spoke during Senate debate on government approval of $1,000,000 for Hungarian relief. A total of $200,000 will be made available immediately through Red Cross and UN relief agencies. The other $800,000 will be distributed at the discretion of the government.

HOSTELS PREPARED

Senator Macdonald told Senator W. Hazen Hayes of Ontario that some refugee hostels already have been prepared in Canada for the arrival of Hungaria n.ist was hoped Canadians would take a good number of them into their homes.

The government was canvassing the labor situation across Canada so it could distribute the refugees to areas where they would most likely find jobs.

Immigration department officials say that more than 7,000 Hungarian refugees will soon be on their way to Canada and an unknown number will follow.

BINGO BRINGS FINE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Vancouver men and the company they operate were fined a total of $16,000 in police court Thursday on charges of keeping a gaming house in connection with a "business" bingo operation. Gordon and Albert Town were fined $7,500 each and the company, Delmar Enterprises, $1,000, on charges arising out of a bingo operation at the Cordial Club.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JCT. — Messrs. Clarence Pitchett, Charles Stapley, Harold Hollinger and Raymond Chambers were among the ones from Evergreen cheese factory who visited factories at Trent Bridge and Warkworth last Wednesday for ideas for new equipment.

Several from here attended the Stirling High School Commencement exercises held in the Stirling theatre on Wednesday night. Congratulations are extended to Joanne Reide, who received her intermediate certificate; Donna Stapley and Thomas Bridges who received their graduation diplomas; Thomas Bridges, who received the proficiency prize in Grade 12 English; Grace Clark the proficiency prize in Grade 11 Latin, and Joanne Reide the proficiency prize in Grade 10 French.

Congratulations are also due Grace Clarke and Marilyn Reid who played on the Stirling high school girls' volleyball team.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe, Carol and Jean, of Mount Pleasant; Mr. Kenneth Stewart, Lakefield, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harlow on Wednesday night. It was the occasion of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow's wedding anniversary.

Members of the Eggleton Sunday school executive held a meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges. The superintendent, Mrs. Warren Harlow, presided and opened the meeting. Mrs. Maurice Clancy was pianist.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Harlow, who read Psalm 86 and Mrs. C. Bridges who offered prayer.

Discussion followed regarding the ordering of supplies for the coming quarter, with some additional reading material being ordered for the winter months.

Members of "The Over 80 Club" are also to be remembered.

"I Hear Thy Welcome Voice" was the closing hymn. Refreshments, with a delicious cup of tea was served by the hostess.

Relatives here received the sad message that Mrs. Arnold Wannamaker had passed away at the Belleville hospital on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Wannamaker was born in this community and resided here with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Eggleton, until her marriage. Many relatives and friends here attended the funeral service which was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, on Saturday afternoon. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

S.S. RALLY SERVICE

The special rally service observed by Eggleton Sunday school on Sunday morning was presided over by the superintendent, Mrs. Warren Harlow, with Miss Joanne Reide at the piano. For the opening hymn the school sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," after which prayer was offered by Thomas Bridges.

The primary class, with their teacher, Miss Joanne Reide, sang "Praise Him."

Selected portions of Scripture were read: Mark 12: 28-34 by Murray Martin, and 1st Corinthians 13, by Harold Prest. The intermediate class with Miss Thelma Prest, teacher, sang "Faith, Hope and Charity."

The offering gathered by Paul Bridges and John Madill, was dedicated with singing "We Give Thee But Thine Own."

An interesting story "The Man Who Walked 200 Miles for a Bible," was given by Mrs. Clarence Pitchett.

The girls' class with their teacher, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, sang "Shining for Jesus." Gary Phillips counted the offering and was in charge of changing the attendance board.

Mrs. Harlow reminded all of the National Evangelistic Mission services being held at Foxboro United Church from November 18th to November 30th. She also announced that a special Sunday school training class was held Sunday night, November 25 at Consecrancy church.

Everyone joined in singing the hymn "I Am Thine, O Lord," with Mrs. Carl Bridges offering the closing prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jervis were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Grant of West Huntingdon on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, Valerie and Ronald of Peterborough, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith.

STIRLING

Brownie Tea, Bazaar Most Successful

STIRLING — The Brownies and their leaders are thrilled with the success of their tea and bazaar held Monday afternoon, despite the terrific snowfall which left streets and roadways piled with snow.

The event was held in the public school auditorium and over 40 mothers were in attendance.

The Brownies were in full charge of serving the delectable sandwiches, cake and tea as well as operating the various booths where candy, home cooking, doll clothes and aprons were sold.

The door proceeds were $11.50, and the group cleared $59, which is the greatest amount they have ever made.

Mrs. Charles Falres and Mrs. Frank Harding were in charge of kitchen duties while Misses Patsy Fraser and Louise Harding poured.

Miss Barbara Woodbeck provided piano music for the afternoon.

Mrs. Burton Woodbeck, auctioned off the last of the articles and everything was sold. The Brownies now will have a clean sheet for 1957.

Mrs. X. P. Mayhew assisted the leaders in replenishing the plates. Mrs. Maurice Bell donated serviettes, Mrs. Ed. Warren, president of the local association, also assisted the group. The money will be used for Christmas good turns in the area.

The leaders are grateful to all the ladies mentioned who assisted in any way, and they also wish to thank all the mothers who donated the various articles and who braved the snow to attend.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Master Robert Hunter, of Belleville, was a last Saturday visitor of his aunt, Mrs. George Bilham, and Mr. Bilham.

Miss Deborah Jones was a Saturday visitor of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Masse and Masters Raymond and Paul were last Sunday dinner guests of their aunt, Mrs. Norman Duetta, of Trenton.

Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson, Mrs. Clifton Rush, Mrs. W. Stanley, Mrs. George Arthur, Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs. Schleger, Mrs. Leonard Young and Mrs. Gilbrith, of Bayside, attended the Wesley United Church bazaar, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ross Yateman is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The Misses Barbara and Helen Ketcheson had their tonsils removed at Trenton Memorial Hospital on Wednesday and both are convalescing nicely at their home.

The Sunday School members of White's Church are practising for a Christmas cantata which will be held at White's Church on Tuesday evening, December 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harry, of Johnston, were honored on Saturday evening with a miscellaneous shower. Mr. and Mrs. Donold Sanderock were in attendance and Mrs. Sanderock prepared and gave the address.

Mrs. Vera Sine spent the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Morris Bird and Mr. Bird, of Frankford. She is to be congratulated on the arrival of a new granddaughter, Janice Marie.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Scott of Belleville, were Sunday tea guests at the Acker home.

Mrs. Wilmot Scott, of Frankford, spent the past week with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Acker.

Mrs. Leonard Young, Mrs. W. Jeffery, Mrs. Everett Nicolson and Mrs. Jack Girdon, of White's Church, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Percival, Mr. Reg. Lowther and Miss Bedore of Wesley Church, attended the 'Fireside Hour' at Centenary United Church and hall, on Sunday evening, sponsored by the Sidney and Trenton Council of Christian Education.

The schools in this district were closed on Monday following the heavy snowstorm on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reddick, of Belleville, were last Sunday guests of Mrs. Sarah Acker.

Church and Sunday school services were held at White's Church on Sunday morning.

Mr. Robert Percival delivered a fine sermon and the choir contributed "The Voice Divine," with Mrs. W. Jeffery at the pianist.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. H. M. Brown were: Mr. C. M. Sine, Mrs. S. Murphy, Mrs. W. T. Sine, of Stirling, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sedler and Miss Doris Sedler of Glen Ross, Mrs. Leonard Young and Mr. C. A. Brown, B.A., and Mrs. Brown, of Bayside.

Most of the people in this district were busy getting the snow fall of 15 inches and the larger banks shoveled away. With the snow plow passing through several times, the highway is now clear and traffic back to normal.

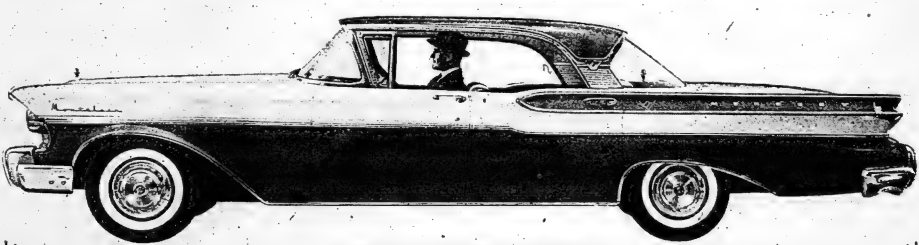
JAIL TERM: 10 MINS.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A 28-year-old former Marine Tuesday received the shortest sentence ever handed down in a federal court here — 10 minutes in jail. Judge Ross Rizley gave that sentence to Robert Ernest Wells for illegally wearing a Marine uniform. The judge noted Wells had been in custody for 28 days while the charge was being processed.

Big Mercury for 1957

straight out of tomorrow

in size, power, weight and beauty



OVER 6½ FEET WIDE—UP 3 INCHES

NEW WIDTH—Notice how the Big M's new breadth is dramatized by a massive new Jet Flo Bumper. The oval shape of this graceful new bumper design is as functional as it is beautiful. It acts as a double bumper, provides both high and low protection. Notice the matching twin-styled rear bumper (right).

NEW OVERSIZED INTERIORS—There is no crowd in the front or back seat of the new Big M. There's new headroom, legroom, kneeroom. As much shoulder room, for example, as in many of the most expensive cars. New fabrics and interior appointments let you ride in a new world of colour and luxury.

NOW OVER 17½ FEET LONG—UP 5 INCHES

NEW LENGTH, NEW WHEELBASE—CLOSE TO TWO-TONE BIG—Every important dimension is bigger. In addition to the new length, wheelbase is increased 3 inches, and the 1957 Mercurys are up to 255 pounds heavier, too. A far lower centre of gravity gives you an amazing sense of "nailed down" stability on curves and corners.

NEW MIGHTY, V-8 POWER

The BIG M for '57 offers you the mightiest V-8's in Mercury history—250 and 290 horsepower. Also available is a revolutionary Power boost engine fan that cuts off automatically when not needed for cooling, saves up to 17 HP. other cars waste. And there's a unique new Thermo-matic Carburetor Air Intake that controls the temperature of the air the engine breathes—boosts usable power and economy.

NEW DREAM-CAR DESIGN

It's a new shape in cars—a sharp-cut, dynamic look that makes other cars look soft and static. The roof is gracefully slender—sweeps back out over the rear window to provide extra headroom. The tail-lights have an imaginative V-angle slant. Here's the first production dream car—a distinctive, straight-out-of-tomorrow design that will influence the shape of cars for many years to come.

DRAMATIC NEW FEATURES

Everywhere you look there's a new idea—improved Merc-O-Matic Drive with an exclusive keyboard that outdates all other pushbutton transmissions, because it does so much more—controls six driving operations. A new Floating Ride, that has to be felt to be believed, and a seat that remembers your favourite driving position. You can see all this, and more, at your Mercury dealer. Stop in today.

Huge Russian Secret Weapon Of Soviet Basketball Team

MELBOURNE (CP)—The Russian basketball team Friday unveiled its "secret" weapon—Ian Krumich, a seven-foot-four-inch centre. Krumich scored 30 points to lead the Russians to a close 89-49 victory over France in the semi-finals of the Olympic basketball tournament.

Earlier, in the "doesn't count" consolation bracket, Canada rolled to its fourth straight victory, 83-38 over Australia.

Krumich had been on the floor a total of only 15 minutes in the Russians' previous games. But tonight the huge Russian went the distance. The French never solved the problem of how to get around him. His huge hands waving, the giant scored 11 of Russia's first 15 points.

In the upper bracket of teams eliminated from the finals, Bulgaria downed the Philippines 80-72 and Brazil defeated Chile 80-64.

CANADIAN IN FINAL

In the second day of swimming competition, Virginia Grant of Toronto qualified for the final in the women's 100-metre free style, heat in 1:06.5, tying the Olympic record.

Helen Stewart of Vancouver finished seventh and was eliminated. Sara Barber of Brantford, who had been scheduled to compete in this event, was withdrawn earlier in the week.

Australia's sprint stars Dawn Fraser and Lorraine Crapp led the way in the 100-metre semi-finals just as they did in the heats Thursday. Times were somewhat slower, but four still bettered the old Olympic record. Nobody matched Miss Fraser's Thursday feat of tying the world record.

Ursula Happe of Germany won the gold medal in the women's 200-metre breast stroke and John Henricks of Australia took the men's 100-metre free style championship.

PATRICK FAILS

Diving competition opened today, with Bill Patrick of Calgary, injured in practice last week, failing to qualify in the springboard event.

Pistol shooter Jim Zavitz of Ottawa placed 15th in the free pistol event won by Finland's Tenti Lisonovid, and Frank Ossai of Vancouver stood 30th after two days of clay pigeon shooting.

Fencer Roland Asselin of Montreal was eliminated in the first round of the men's epee while in women's individual foil competition a 25-year-old woman dentist, Gillian Sheen, won Britain's first fencing gold medal in Olympic history.

Bruce Kirby of Montreal placed 10th in Olympic Finn-class yachting to hold the same spot in the over-all standing after four days of racing.

Bulgaria trounced Britain 6-1 in a quarter-final match of the Olympic soccer tournament.

CAMPY UNDER KNIFE

NEW YORK (CP) — Brooklyn Dodger catcher Roy Campanella Thursday underwent surgery for the removal of bone chips in his right thumb which he hopes will enable him to grip the bat more firmly in the spring.

Even Pennies Were Plastered

HANOVER (CP)—A Montreal Alouettes fan who awoke after the Grey Cup game to find a mourning wreath on the door of his apartment got his revenge Thursday.

The fan identified the prankster as the man to whom he had lost a bet on the football game. Thursday the Montreal supporter paid him off in pennies—1,200 of them—embedded in a block of plaster.

'Newk' Lost No Time in Contract Deal

NEW YORK (AP) — Big Don Newcombe came to surprisingly fast contract terms with Brooklyn Thursday involving an estimated $5,000 raise hard on the heels of two awards as the winningest pitcher in the major leagues.

The righthander, who hurled 27 victories in helping the Dodgers to the National League pennant, signed his 1957 contract after a short talk with E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, vice-president and general manager of the club.

Though no figure was announced observers close to the scene believed the amount was $30,000 which would put him in the top bracket for pitchers.

While Newcombe is not a notorious holdout, many people felt he might be more difficult to satisfy after receiving his league's most valuable player award and the Cy Young Award, announced only Wednesday, as the best hurler in either circuit.

Varsity Wins Over Carabins

MONTREAL (CP) — University of Toronto Blues Thursday night made their 1956-57 debut in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League by defeating University of Montreal Carabins 3-1 before 1,200 persons.

Mike Zilk, Brian Anderson and Clare Fisher scored for Toronto while Morris Duhaime counted for Montreal.

Twelve penalties were called, seven against Toronto. None figured in the scoring.

Goalie Ray Dunn stopped 23 shots for the Blues while Cy Guevremont turned away 32 for Carabins.

'Curtain' Goal In Soccer Game With Russians

MELBOURNE (AP)—The Indonesian soccer team threw an iron curtain around its goal in the match against Russia Thursday.

Ten men lined the goal and one man was sent out to try and score.

The Russians stood in the middle of the field and wondered how they were going to pierce that ring of grim defenders.

Every time they attacked the 19 iron men kicked the ball out again.

The match ended in a scoreless draw even after extra time.

The amused crowd cheered every time Indonesia's sole attacker dribbled the ball upfield only to be met half-way by a burly Russian, who neatly deprived him of the ball and sent it back to the Indonesian goal, where it was promptly bounced out again.

The match will be replayed at Olympic Park Saturday.

Howard Fights Towel Saturday

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Now fully acclimatized, Canadian lightweight boxing champion Dick (Kid) Howard of Halifax is expected to put up a strong challenge to Willie Towcel, South African and British Empire champion in their return 10-round bout here Saturday.

Towcel coolly fought off the Canadian's two-handed, swinging attacks in their recent Empire title fight over 15 rounds to emerge a clear point winner. The title is not at stake Saturday but the fight is likely to be more spectacular than the first one.

In that meeting Towcel showed great speed and fine ringcraft, amassing points with a classic straight left to the head and a powerful right cross, used frequently as a counter-punch when on the retreat. But Howard showed he was a dangerous opponent, with a punch hefty enough to stop his man.

Present indications are that the Canadian is shaping up much better in training and is undoubtedly in better condition than he was for the last fight, when his training was hampered by a nose injury.

Howard, ranked No. 9 contender for the world title, has shown vastly improved form in sparring sessions, with a speedy punch and relentless, crowding style. He has punished his sparring opponents with hooks to the body, thrown with far greater accuracy than he showed before the previous fight with Towcel.

Quebec Aces chopped Chicoutimi's Quebec Hockey League lead to one point Thursday night, defeating Trois-Rivieres Lions 5-3. The bagpipeccus were idle.

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts took a 6-4 victory over Montreal in another game and moved into a third-place tie with the Royals. Cataracts and Lions had been tied for fourth.

Age Battles Youth In Tonight's Fight For The Heavyweight Crown

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

YOUTH VERSUS AGE

That vagabond of verbosity who represents the bearded gentleman with the scythe, Andrei Archie Moore, deals with the cherubim of the ring, beardless Floyd Patterson for what is popularly said to be the world heavyweight boxing championship in Chicago tonight.

Youth may have its fling, but as Arch says, Age will have its swing and therein may lie the tale of the tillie.

Patterson is 21 and can prove it. Archie says he is 39, but his mother states the old boy was celebrating his third birthday 47 years ago. Others say the quaint old carpet-bagger is 45. Who knows? Arch does, but he delightfully jungles the truth to suit his ends.

The wild-swinging youngster meets a crafty-ring-wise veteran who knows about all of the ring answers. Old Arch was pushing leather when Patterson was nibbling at his pablum cup. He has 160 battles under his dunky belt, a lot of them fought in the out-of-the-way places. He is a masterful boxer and a deadly puncher. But that grey hair is crowding him and it is this corner's opinion Ole Arch will have to do it early if he is to annex the buckle. It will be his last chance. After all, Patterson can wait.

Moore has shown he can take punches. He took several from that well-known blockbuster from Brockton, Mass. one Rocky Marciano, but one should remember it was an accumulation of shots that sagged the old mauler, not a direct hit from one of Rocky's lethal artillery.

But if Patterson proves he can take Archie's blasts early in the fight, the old boy may be in for trouble. Patterson can be hit and has been. Only once, however, has he been floored. That was by Jacques Royer-Cravy, July 12, 1954. The youngster went on to whip the Frenchman in the seventh round. Most of the other guys who have hit Patterson were feather dusters compared with the power-packed Moore, who in 20 years has won 131 fights and scored 90 knockouts.

Patterson has fought 31 fights and lost but one, that a disputed eight-rounder to crafty Joey Maxim. He is a jolting hitter but is not considered a one-punch artist despite his record of 16 knockouts. At this writing Moore is favored to win 7-5. The fight is being radioed and televised with Chicago and a 150-mile radius blacked out.

And the change should do both boys good. They will each collect 30 per cent of the gate and the same slice of a $200,000 television melon. And the hours are good, too.

A story in the current edition of Sports Illustrated says that Patterson's manager, crafty Cus D'Amato, who reads Freud and wears a Homburg hat, has carefully nursed his protege. He even uses a spot of psychology. Every time Floyd fights well, his manager rewards him with a gift. A little while ago after watching Patterson ride a palomino pony around a race track, Cus decided to present him with a saddle horse should he win the championship. He told Patterson so.

Patterson does his roadwork on a race track, boxes in a ring set up in the track's grandstand, and sleeps in a jockey's room. Each night as he goes to bed D'Amato pulls his cot bed across the entrance to Patterson's room and remains there until morning.

However, some of the experts wonder at D'Amato throwing Patterson in against Moore at this time. They figure a year from now the job would have been much easier, if it is easy. Then, too, they feel the longer the fight goes the better will be Patterson's chances.

They also wonder if Patterson will use his "Gazelle" punch, a blow that usually starts in mid-air and ends there the greater number of times it is thrown. When it lands, there is no particular heavy harm done, but the boys in the know figure it could be suicidal against a veteran like Moore. For Patterson leaves himself wide open and Ole Arch could offer him a devastating blow that could send him bye-bye.

Youth must have its fling, but this corner is of the opinion the ring-wise, goatee'd old man with the scythe will wear his first heavyweight crown.

JUST A RUMOR

Somebody, somewhere has circulated the cock-eyed rumor that Gordie Bell, the McFarlands' netminder, is receiving $200 or better as weekly stipend. It has gone the rounds and most of the dailies in the circuit and in Western Ontario have used it. Nothing is further from the truth, says the Macs' manager, Beury Denyes. The Macs have set a salary minimum and no player on the club is receiving lettuce of that size and nature.

'Nigh-Forty' Archie Moore 6-5 Favorite Over Patterson Expect Quarter-Million Gate

CHICAGO (AP)—For the third time in modern ring history, a vacated world heavyweight title will be at stake when two unique contenders, 39-year-old Archie Moore and 21-year-old Floyd Patterson, battle for Rocky Marciano's undisputed crown tonight.

Late odds were 6 to 5, pick 'em, in this 15-round bout which will be broadcast and televised by NBC with a telecast blackout of the Chicago area (10 p.m. EST). In Canada CBC television will carry the fight while the CBC Dominion network will play the radio broadcast. A gross gate of $250,000 with a crowd of 18,000 in Chicago Stadium is indicated.

As age record for a heavyweight champ is certain, Moore, reigning light heavyweight champion, can become the oldest to win boxing's biggest laurels or Patterson can become the youngest. Ely Beckett, of Walcott, was the oldest winner at 37 and Joe Louis the youngest at 23.

POSTPONED ONCE

The bout has been in the making since Marciano retired as heavyweight king last April 27, but was postponed on June 30 when former Olympic champion, broke his right hand winning a 12-round elimination match from Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson last June.

It was almost a year ago that a heavyweight champion last was pulled out of a vacuum. On June 22, 1949, Ezzard Charles won a 15-round decision over Walcott in Chicago to capture the title vacated by Louis on March 1, 1949.

That is the record Moore's second shot at the heavyweight crown in little more than a year. Archie was bludgeoned into a ninth-round knockout by Marciano on Sept. 21, 1955, which was the last fight for Marciano, who was floored in the second round by Moore, but got up to shut out his sixth successful title defence.

Moore is even a more remarkable ring specimen than Walcott, who was a purported 37 when he knocked out Charles to win the heavyweight title July 18, 1951. Archie has had 18 professional fights over a 20-year span for a 21-3-0 record.

It was not until a few years ago that any rival manager with a fighter of promise would allow his fighter to tangle with the wrecking, ageless Moore. Moore, who conducted a bizarre personal publicity campaign to get to the top.

Now, the big question is, did Moore reach the top after he was over the hill? Did Marciano pummel the real class out of him, even though Archie since has won 11 bouts against a nondescript array of foes?

FLOYD'S WEAPONS

Moore, who actually may be 43 years old, faces youth and speed tonight. Patterson admittedly has been cleverly manoeuvred through his 31-bout pro career. His only defeat came from the cute-boxing Joey Maxim, and his only other foes of merit were Jackson, Jim Slade, Archie McBride and Willie Troy.

The expert consensus is that Moore must nail Patterson early or his aging legs will fail him against Patterson's fast pace in the late rounds.

As for Patterson, two things remain to be proved—can he take a real punch and will his mended right hand stand up if he takes a Sunday swing with it at Moore? Patterson has not had a bout since he broke his hand against Jackson.

The contracts call for each fighter to get 20 per cent of the gate and $200,000 TV-radio rights, a potential melon of nearly $450,000.

Industrial Hockey League Results

Holway's B. A. racked up an 8-1 victory over the slumping Don's Delivery crew in a rugged Industrial Hockey League game last night.

Bill Storms and Leo Coyer each found time to put three goals for the winners. Wayne Bovay was out of the penalty box long enough to net Holway's other two goals.

Kelly was the lone marksman for Don's Delivery.

Our Paddlers Outclassed in Olympic Games

BALLARAT, Australia (CP)—Canada's paddlers were so outclassed as Olympic canoe competition opened on Lake Wendouree today that it appeared unlikely Canada has no chance of getting into the first six places in any of Saturday's closing events.

The European countries have improved tremendously since the 1952 Olympics," said manager Hal Radford of Montreal, "and we also have improved—but not in the same sense."

He made the comment after a disastrous opening day of racing in which the Canadians finished more than 500 metres behind the winners in the 10,000-metre Canadian pairs and singles.

The Russian team of Bill Stevenson and Tom Hodgson finished ninth in the pairs, with only the U.S. team behind them.

With 1,000 metres to go they were almost a length behind the winning Russian team of Pavel Khryner and Gratian Botev, who effortlessly kept up a 52-strokes-a-minute beat.

The Russian team was 51 minutes 2.4 seconds, compared to the Canadian time of 56:30.2.

STRINGER SEVENTH

In the Canadian singles, Don Stringer of Sudbury, who finished seventh, was never in serious contention as Leon Rottiers of Romania led from start to finish.

Lloyd Beer of Toronto had a bowyer placing than his fellow Canadians. He was 16th in a field of 21, with an American once again last. Rice finished nearly three minutes behind the winner.

The singles winner, Gert Fredriksson of Sweden, had a time of 47:44.4. Rice came in in 52:00.4.

Montrealers Les Melis and Bob Smith were scratched several hours before the 10,000 - metre kayak pairs, to save them for Saturday's 1,000 - metre kayak singles and pairs. Smith will be in the singles entry.

Canoeists Bill Culline and Bert Oldershaw of Toronto will compete in the 1,000-metre Canadian pairs and George Bossy of Montreal in the Canadian singles Saturday.

"I thought we had a real good chance today with Stringer," Radford told The Canadian Press after today's defeats, "but I got a big surprise at the calibre of the European paddlers."

Australian Girl Wins Double In Olympics Track Events

MELBOURNE (CP) — Betty Cuthbert, Australia's 18-year-old sprint sensation, completed a glittering double and husky Milt Campbell of the U.S. Navy wound up this second last day of the great Olympic track and field show with a record-breaking victory in the decathlon.

Keeping up with the record whirl, Tamara Tyshkevich, rob-by 228-pound Russian girl, won the gold medal in the women's shot put.

Miss Cuthbert's victory in the 200-metre dash brought a roar of acclaim from the thousands who only a few minutes earlier had thrilled to see Canada's 1,600-metre relay team win a heat from the four-crack quarter-milers of the United States.

Elsewhere the Canadian showing fell off. The 400-metre relay team was barely edged out of a qualifying place and Doug Kyle of Macdonald of Toronto had to settle for 10th place in the shot put although getting the longest throw she ever has made in competition.

EQUALS TWO RECORDS

Betty Cuthbert equalled both the world and Olympic records in winning the 200 - metre sprint coupling the victory with her gold-medal achievement in the 100-metre dash last Monday.

Her time of 23.4 seconds equalled the dual-record held by Australia's Marjorie Jackson. This new sprint champion is a comely Australian youngster whose chief hobby is raising talking parakeets, called "budgies" in Canada. She is also a assistant to her father, a surveyman who lives 12 miles outside Sydney.

MIR Campbell, Plainfield, N.J., Negro, already is the holder of record in winning the decathlon. He finished the punishing two-day grind of 10 track and field events with a total of 7,937 points, breaking the old record of 7,887 made in 1952 by Bob Mathias of the United States.

Campbell, former Indiana University fullback, had only one poor performance—in the pole vault. He rallied from a heavy cold to make a brilliant showing in the last two events — the javelin throw and the 1,500-metre run.

RUSSIANS ONE-TWO

Tamara Tychkevitch led a record-breaking parade through the final of the women's shot put. Her winning throw was 16.59 metres—54 feet, four inches—displacing the record made in 1932 by her teammate Galina Zybina.

Galina took second place with 54 feet, 2½ inches.

Jackie MacDonald got by the qualifying round, but the competition was too tough in the final. Jackie's best throw was 36 feet, 11½ inches. Her previous best distance in competition was 46 feet, 8½ inch.

Canada's 1,600-metre relay team brought victory from the other Canadian athletes looking on when the Maple Leaf quartet placed first in the heat over the United States. It was a photo finish, with both teams clocked at 3:08.5 and Canada getting the nod.

The Canadian team, which goes into Saturday's final, was made up of Laird Sloan of Montreal, Dourley Stinson of Vancouver, Murray Cockburn of Toronto and anchor man Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C.

It was a photo decision also in Canada's loss in the 400-metre relay, and this time the verdict was against the all-Toronto team of Joe Fearon, Dick Harding, Stan Levenson and Jack Parrington. The Canadians were barely edged out by Brazil's team. The first three qualified.

Bilts Make Runaway of Junior Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores are fast becoming walkaway winners of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series.

They took their 13th victory of the season Thursday night. They have only played 15, for a winning percentage of .867. That's good enough for an eight-point lead over runner-up Toronto Marlboros.

Victims of the Guelph power Thursday night were last-place Peterborough Petes, who bowed 7-3 before 2,000 Peterborough fans.

In a game at Hamilton, Cubs moved into fourth place by clouting Barrie Flyers 10-3. It was Hamilton's strongest showing of the season.

At Hamilton, Jerry Sullivan and Murray Oliver fired three goals each for Cubs, with two goals each going to Brian Smith and Whitey Youngberg. Gord Loveday, Dale Rolfe and Dick Cherry fired the Barrie markers.

SHRINE GAME ON TV

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced Thursday that the Eastern Shrine football game Dec. 8 in Vancouver will be carried over its television network. The game starts at 1 p.m. PST (4 p.m. EST).

ONLY SURE THING IS WINNER WILL MAKE HEAVYWEIGHT HISTORY

Only sure result of this Friday's heavyweight title bout in Chicago is that the winner will be the oldest or youngest boxer ever to don the heavyweight crown. Here is how 21-year-old Patterson and his veteran rival, Archie Moore, compare in the vital statistics department. (Central Press Canadian).

Navy, Baylor Have Eyes on Bowl Games

NEW YORK (AP)—Navy and Baylor will try to oblige bowl scouts Saturday in the final big weekend of the U.S. college football season.

For the third year in a row, it appears Navy will be playing for a bowl invitation against Army in their traditional battle before an expected 100,000 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

The midshipmen went on to the Sugar Bowl to whack Mississippi 21-0 two years ago but lost a chance for an invitation to the Cotton Bowl last year when the cadets posted a 14-6 upset.

Cotton Bowl officials have their eyes on Navy again this time.

The host team will be Texas Christian. Texas A and M, which completed an unbeaten season by thumping Texas 31-21 Thursday, is ineligible for post-season competition under an athletic association ban for engaging in improper recruiting methods.

Baylor is a popular choice to meet Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl though neither have been selected officially. The Baylor Bears play Rice Saturday. Tennessee risks an unbroken, untied season and the Southeastern Conference championship against Vanderbilt.

Tennessee is sure to be invited to one bowl.

Of 10 positions in the five major bowls, six are still open.

Here's the setup:

Rose—Iowa vs Oreton State. Duke or South Carolina.

Sugar—Both unnamed. Probably Tennessee vs Baylor with Georgia Tech and Houston also under consideration.

Cotton—Texas Christian vs Navy, Syracuse, Georgia Tech, or, possibly, Tennessee.

Gator—Georgia Tech or Mississippi vs Navy, Baylor, Pitt, Syracuse or Wyoming.

It is evident plenty rides on Saturday's encounters.

In addition to the Tennessee-Navy and Baylor games, Georgia Tech meets Georgia, Mississippi faces Mississippi State and Houston runs into West Texas.

The Navy record shows six wins and only a 21-6 loss to Tulane and a 7-7 tie with Duke in the cadets' columns. The cadets lost three in eight.

Leahy May Return to Guide Irish

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Will Frank Leahy come out of coaching retirement to restore Notre Dame to football greatness?

A source close to the athletic picture at the South Bend, Ind., school said today Leahy is "more than willing" to return to Notre Dame in a supervisory capacity, possibly to direct spring practice."

That "assurance," the source said, will be a principal topic on the agenda of a meeting of those who control the athletic policy at Notre Dame.

Leahy, ranked with Knute Rockne as the greatest of the Irish mentors, is more than upset at Notre Dame's dismal record of seven losses and two wins.

In an interview Thursday, Leahy accused the Irish gridders of laying down and, in effect, dubbed them the "unfighting Irish."

CATCHER'S WIFE DIES

Bruins Blank Hapless Hawks, Habs, Wings Trim Leafs, Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Those poor Chicago Black Hawks. They'll probably end up in last place in the National Hockey League race.

The Hawks, it seems, are always being regarded as the prime candidates for the tail-end spot. This season they're in the same old position.

They suffered their 14th defeat of the 1956-57 campaign Thursday night, being blanked 2-0 by the league-leading Boston Bruins at Chicago. In 21 engagements, the Hawks have managed only four wins and three ties. In the last 10 years they've been last-placers eight times.

Of course, all is not lost for Hawks. They may be at the bottom of the scramble but they are only five points behind Toronto Maple Leafs and six off the New York Ranger pace. Leafs and Rangers have not been going well, BOTH LOSE.

Leafs absorbed a 4-2 setback from the third-place Canadiens in Montreal Thursday night while the Rangers were being knocked off 4-1 by the second-spot Red Wings at Detroit.

At Chicago, 6,641 fans saw Boston goaltender Terry Sawchuk record his second shutout of the season as he turned aside 30 Hawk drives. Boston goals were fired by Real Chevrefils and Fernie Flaman.

Leafs were no match for Canadiens as they suffered their sixth defeat in their last seven games.

The Montrealers, who registered their 17th win in 22 starts, were led by left winger Dickie Moore, who scored twice before 14,250 fans.

Bert Olmstead and Bernie Geoffrion scored the other Montreal goals. Dick Duff and Billy Harris counted for Toronto.

At Detroit, 11,559 customers were on hand as Gordie Howe paced the Wings with two goals. The victory kept Detroit undefeated on home ice this campaign.

Marcel Pronovost and Red Kelly produced other Wing goals. Andy Bathgate tallied for Rangers.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The championship race in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series is turning into a romp for North Bay Trappers, league-leaders since the season opened. Trappers are slowly pulling away from the other three teams.

Trappers stretched their margin to eight points over runner-up Sudbury Wolves Thursday night, walloping Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 7-1 after granting Copper Cliff Hounds a 1-0 lead in the second period.

Should Welcome Hungary Stars To Canada

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the federal government should quickly assure the 150 Hungarian athletes at the Olympics they are welcome to come to Canada rather than be returned to the strife-torn homeland.

Sports editor Jim Vipond says in his column that "Ontario invites these athletes to make a new home in our midst," and adds that fast action is needed to get the invitation to the Hungarians before cause the Olympics finish in eight days.

"To expedite matters we are calling on Immigration Minister Pickersgill to immediately contact his cabinet associate, Health Minister Martin who is visiting Colombo Plan countries and whose schedule, we understand, includes a visit to Melbourne for the Olympics.

"Through Mr. Martin, the government can quickly assure the Hungarian athletes that a warm welcome awaits them here.

"To further aid in the shredding of red tape, the government can call on Mr. Kenneth Farmer, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, who is in Australia with the Canadian team, Mr. Farmer should be authorized to extend the invitation that has already been sent to the thousands of refugees on the Austrian border."

Coach Trimble Said Considering Hamilton Offer

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats were reported Thursday to have offered Jim Trimble a three-year contract as coach of the Big Four football team.

Trimble, who came here last season after coaching Philadelphia Eagles of the National League, has not jumped at the offer, but is reported "still considering it."

Trimble said from his home in Philadelphia that "if I turn down the contract, it'll have nothing to do with money. I'm more than happy with the offer, but I want to make sure before I make a decision that my family would be happy living here and that it's the best move for us."

Trimble, his wife and five children lived at nearby Port Nelson last summer. Mrs. Trimble and the children returned to Philadelphia early in the fall.

Trimble, 38, says he has other offers, both in football and in other fields, to consider. It is rumored here that he has been asked to replace Bernie Crimmins, who resigned recently as head coach of Indiana State.

Trimble will return to Canada next week to coach the eastern team in the East-West all-star game at Vancouver Dec. 8.

Brasher Will Spend Christmas In Canada

LONDON (CP)—Chris Brasher, British winner of the dramatic Olympic steeplechase, will spend Christmas in Canada.

His mother, Mrs. Kitty Brasher, said here Thursday the 26-year-old runner will go to Midland after the Games. He will stay with his doctor brother, Peter.

"I expect him home here in January," said Mrs. Brasher, who heard the steeplechase on the radio.

Controversial and Delicate Topics Make for Top Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can film audiences take it?

There is increasing evidence they can. There once was a time when Hollywood steered clear of hot controversy and delicate topics.

Critics claimed that in its zeal to offend no one, Hollywood ended up by pleasing no one.

The whole philosophy has changed. The studios now are attacking a variety of hot subjects and are stretching the production code as far as it will go.

FAVES WAY

George Stevens has helped light the way in the attack on controversy. Dire things were predicted when he announced he would film Giant. The book was not well received in some Texas circles.

Stevens didn't pussyfoot in his treatment of the Edna Ferber novel, either. He jokes the Texans on their lunkar attitude, their displays of wealth. And the climax concerns discrimination against Mexicans.

Future releases will further test the public's touchiness. For instance, there is Baby Doll, the latest study in moral decay by Tennessee Williams and Elia Kazan, it picks up where A Streetcar Named Desire left off in the account of southern decadence.

CONDEMNED

Baby Doll, a wild, weird movie of undoubted power, faces 'jeopardy on moral as well as regional grounds. The Catholic Legion of Decency has given it a condemned railing.

On a more wholesome note, but not lacking in controversy, is Columbia's new comedy, Full of Life. It is one of the most delightful films in years, dealing with pregnancy in as frank a manner as has ever been seen on the screen.

Monganga's Untiring Work Made Absorbing Documentary

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Monganga" means doctor in the Swahili tongue. In the medium of television, Monganga, one in the March of Medicine series which was premiered on NBC-TV Tuesday evening, meant one of the most moving and absorbing documentaries in many months.

Monganga presented a way of life in a remote place in the Belgian Congo—a Disciples of Christ mission hospital on the Lulaka River. It was the forthright, unsentimentalized account of how a physician, Dr. John E. Ross, and his trained African assistants have lighted a lamp in a dark place.

Color cameras and sound followed the doctor as he treated patients for yaws, elephantiasis, sleeping sickness and leprosy, the virulent diseases that assail mankind in the equatorial rain forests.

It was regretable that we could not learn more about Dr. Ross as an individual, for he first became a clergyman and then, after leaving four children, began the study of medicine at the age of 36. What made him decide to take his wife and young son to Africa?

He has an interesting story to tell. But like nearly every person who follows the example of the first missionary, St. Paul, he would not publish to the world his reasons for going abroad. He refuses to "act" for the camera. He simply went his rounds, saving, in effect, this is the way it is, this is the way many are doing it.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Industrious, energetic folks should have a field day now. Hard work will seem easier, difficult situations not so difficult, and wholesome, pleasant activities enjoyable, beneficial.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Uranus, in most auspicious position now, should bring fresh and unexpected advantages, offerings. Be ready to use and enjoy them. Don't neglect urgent matters; step ahead, too.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You should find this day filled with important interests and the ambition to get ahead now as well as established and familiar interests. Enjoy rest, recreation, perhaps travel.

You born today are bright, enterprising, well-balanced and progressive. If true to your finer qualities, you are ever eager to advance and achieve, and you will also help others to climb the ladder of success. There is much to gain by being thoughtful of fellowmen, and you are thoughtful, kind and charitable. Don't be content with mediocre attainment. Strive always to reach higher and do better, but remember your spiritual advancement as you do. Curb failings and you will be happy, successful.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, December 1, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — The Moon, Mars, Jupiter and Uranus are all in excellent aspects now. These are very interesting, challenging influences. Saturn holds a restraining hand, however, so don't be reckless or thoughtless.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Delicate matters, finances generally, and new and unique (if useful) matters highly honored. Good work encouraged.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You don't have to have too many bright ideas or be too advanced to make progress now. But you do need to be conscientious, careful in action if you would achieve the fine results possible. A good day on the whole.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your social interests, occupation and home affairs are all slated for gain, advancement, pleasantness. You can attain much now through attentive application to duty. Industry, professional favored.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Heed notations in Aries today. Very favorable influences from which one will reap new advantages, fresh opportunities for achievement, permanent gain.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Much good likely now. Be cooperative with right sources, watch others' achievements, learn and apply that knowledge and you will gain. Have high hopes!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Today's planetary aspects are auspicious for energizing. Take full advantage of all good offered.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A stimulating day for you bright folks. But do not go over-board without careful forethought in all matters. Activities requiring energy, endurance, sports sponsored. Good.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter, among the well-aspected planets, promises a good day. Wholesome matters, hobbies, sports, useful work especially favored. Don't neglect important tasks. Day invites action.

WORLD WOLFING SUGAR

ROME (AP)—The world is eating more sugar, says the Food and Agriculture Organization. It estimates 1956 consumption at 39,300,000 long tons, about 2,000,000 tons more than in 1955. It credits the world's sweet tooth to higher incomes.

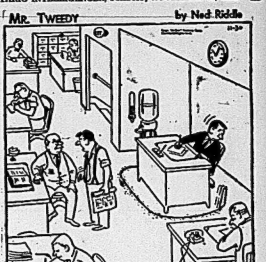
RAWDON

40th Anniversary Marked by Councillor, Wife

RAWDON — On Sunday evening councillor and Mrs. Earl McAdam, of Mount Pleasant Rawdon, entertained their family to a family dinner at The Tweedsmuir Hotel, Tweed," on the occasion of their fifth wedding anniversary which was November 21st.

The dinner guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam; Mr. and Mr. William McAdam, of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon and the late Douglas McAdam, Lakfield; Mr. and Mrs. Farley Vermilyea, Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pollock, Mesie.

During the evening, the family gave their parents a special memento of the occasion. Janet McAdam made the presentation to his father, of a Royal Black Knight, Lodge ring, and tie pin and cuff links. The daughters, Mrs. Farley Vermilyea and Mrs. Ray Pollock, presented their mother with a dinner ring set with a ruby and small diamonds and a matching set of costume jewellery, necklace, earrings and bracelet.



There are five children and 15 grandchildren. Mrs. McAdam is the daughter of the late Hargerman Fair and the late Mrs. Wilbert Hargerman, Mrs. Earl is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David McAdam.

Mrs. McAdam came to Mount Pleasant as a bride 40 years ago and they are both active in Mount Pleasant United church where Earl is a steward. He is also a trustee of the Rawdon Township Council.

Rawdon folk extend congratulations on this happy occasion.

FIRE DESTROYS HUTS

HONG KONG (AP)—Fire razed some 200 squatter huts on a Hong Kong hillside today, killing one elderly Chinese woman and leaving some 1,600 homeless.

HOPE OF MENDING

It accused the government of "gratuitous condemnation" of British - French intervention in Egypt designed to prevent a major war, and of showing "unrealistic" U.S. policies. It said the government had accepted "humiliating" dictation from Egypt's Premier Nasser and had not taken swift and adequate action to extend refuge to Hungarian patriots.

Mr. Fulton said his party now supports government action on Hungarian relief because of the cabinet's decision Thursday to pay transportation of refugees coming to Canada.

The vote ended the week's major debate. In the next three hours the Commons voted $1,000,000 for Hungarian relief and approved expenditures for Canada's contribution to the United Nations police force.

The Commons and Senate then passed the appropriation bill and Child Justice Patrick Kerwin, acting for the governor-general, gave it royal assent.

After the shortest special session on record, Parliament was adjourned until Jan. 3 when the next regular session starts.

With the CCF party supporting the government and the Social Credit party expressing only mild criticism of many aspects of the situation, the week's sharpest criticisms of the government came from the Conservatives. All four candidates for the Conservative party leadership at a convention next month spoke: Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Fulton and—earlier in the week—Donald Fleming of Toronto Eglinton and Leon Balcer of Trois Rivieres.

Much of the criticism centred on a speech Monday by Mr. St. Laurent in which he said the larger powers had treated the UN charter as a means of regimenting smaller nations, disregarding the charter "when their own so-called vital interests were at stake."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he was scandalized that the prime minister saw fit to condemn Britain and France in the same bag in which the U.S.S.R. was placed."

The words of condemnation of Britain and France "cannot hurt those against whom they are directed but will raise the hopes of Communists everywhere in the world."

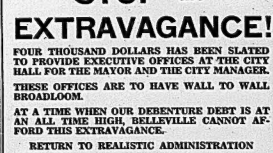
Mr. St. Laurent, speaking later, said the government's goal has been to improve Commonwealth relations and relations among Britain, France and the United States.

Canada's dependence on combined actions of the Commonwealth and Western countries "could not necessarily require us to act," in every instance, that everything done by every one of our allies was the wisest course and decision that could be taken."

"Under those circumstances we had to, after most careful consideration that we could give the problem, express it as kindly our views—but in a carping way—but merely in an effort to have these views considered and serve as usefully as they could in harmonizing the joint action of all those whose goal is the same goal."

Mr. Pearson said the government's action at the United Nations "helped and is still helping to heal the divisions."

Canada could not support fully the Anglo-French action in Egypt, he said. "That does not mean we are weakening in any respect in our admiration, affection and respect for the Mother Country of the Commonwealth."



"I do not for one minute criticize the motives of the governments of the United Kingdom and France in intervening in Egypt," Mr. Pearson said, "but I may have thought their intervention was not wise but I do not criticize their purposes."

Duke of Norfolk Will Give Award To Charities

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Norfolk, earl marshal of England and leading Roman Catholic layman in Britain, brought a libel action in the high court Thursday against The Daily Sketch for publishing allegations about his married life.

The judge was told that the proprietors of The Sketch, its editors, and Associated Newspapers, agreed to pay "substantial damages' which the duke directed should be given to charities.

The action was brought by the duke over articles published in the newspaper, His counsel said on Feb. 9, after the duke had an audience with the Pope, The Sketch quoted Italian newspapers as reporting that the duke and duchess had separated and that "the reason for his visit to Rome was that he wanted his marriage annulled."

Another item concerning the duke was published on Feb. 13, the effect of which was to remind its readers of the earlier report.

Carmel

CARMEL — The community was shocked to receive the sad news of the sudden death of Mr. G. Downing, Kilmar, Quebec, who was accidentally shot while deer hunting. The sympathy of all goes to the bereaved wife and family.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Reynolds and Mr. Charles Hanna, Frankford, attended the funeral Wednesday of Mr. G. Downing at Kilmar, Quebec.

Miss M. Chatten, Mr. W. Chatten, Lindsay, spent Sunday with their parents.

The heavy snowfall on Monday brought general confusion to car owners and school students alike; many of them enjoyed a holiday.

The ladies of the community are busy preparing for a banquet at the church hall Friday night to the members of the Holstein Freisian Association.

Several members of this community who went deer hunting in the north, have returned home and report good results for their efforts.

Six-Point Public Relations Program Outlined by Pres.

NEW YORK (CP)—J. N. T. Bulman, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, today offered a six-point "public relations program" for foreign investors planning to put capital into Canadian projects.

He spoke to industrialists from Britain, Western Europe, North and South America attending the third International Conference of Manufacturers here.

Text of his address was released to the press before delivery.

He suggested foreign investors follow these aims: more Canadian directors in foreign-owned corporations, greater participation of Canadian capital in these corporations increased Canadian content in the products, increased development and research in Canada, greater Canadian participation in export markets, more processing of Canadian resource developments within Canada.

"In Canada, foreign capital does not have to prove itself. It is not hedged about by government regulations that, in some parts of the world, tend to inhibit venture money. It is not considered a sinister force. Its profits and its security are unchallenged by political threat or by unexpected changes in the rules of the game.

"It is accepted that a period of heavy external capital ownership is a natural stage in the career of a growing country. Canadians are satisfied that they will emerge from such a stage, just as the United States did when it outgrew its temporary dependence on foreign investments."

On the subject of Canadian participation in export markets, Mr. Bulman said 20 per cent of the Canadian national product must be sold in export markets and said the CMA was concerned about evidence of what he called "economic nationalism and regionalism and unduly competitive devices by which nations have sought to expand their exports."

Canada had maintained a liberal policy on foreign purchases, despite a soaring unfavorable trade balance with the United States that will, all things included, top $1,000,000,000 this year."

Canada had been generous in foreign assistance, having made available more than $4,000,000,000 in foreign aid since the end of the Second World War. That, he said, amounted to a contribution of $1,200 from each Canadian household.
